GOOD FIRE RECORD MEANS SAVING OF $10,686.90 IN YEAR 1921 TO BRADY

STATE FIRE INSURANCE COMMISSION ISSUES LETTER SETTING FORTH DIRECT BENEFITS RESULTING FROM SMALL FIRE LOSS IN CITY.

The State Fire Insurance Commission at Austin has addressed a letter to Mayor J. E. Shropshire, in which the city of Brady is commended for having maintained splendid fire record during the past three years. In fact, this record was so good, that Brady was thereby entitled to a 15% reduction from the insurance key rate of the city. In the letter, the Commission states: "The saving to your city, under the Good Fire Record credit for the year 1921, amounts to $8,220.68, while the savings, due to the 15% reduction on the dwelling classes would amount to $2,466.21, or a total saving under both reductions of, approximately, $10,686.90. This reduction became effective February 1st, 1921." However, it must be understood that the reduction is merely a continuance of the old rate, Brady having heretofore obtained this same reduction on account of previous good fire record.

Continuing, T. M. Scott, secretary of the State Fire Insurance Commission, writes: "The 15% reduction, as set forth in Amendment No. 111, applies to the following classes:

- 1st. Dwellings and furniture—Owner, frame.
- 2nd. Dwellings and furniture—Tenant, frame.
- 3rd. Dwellings and furniture—Owner, brick.
- 4th. Dwellings and furniture—Tenant, brick.
- 5th. Barns, stables and outhouses—private.
- 6th. Automobile Garages—private.

"The reduction of 15 per cent, referred to above, applies to either or all of the classes, 1 to 6 inclusive, wherever located, whether it be in city, town, village or on the farm or within or without the corporate limits of such city or town. The Good Fire Record Credit is, in a sense a contingent credit and can only be allowed by this department to those cities and towns that are able to qualify under the rule permitting us to grant it. This credit is based upon the loss ratio of the city or town for the three years, preceding the calendar year during which the statement is filed with the State Fire Insurance Commission. For each five (5) per cent, or fraction thereof that the losses sustained by fires are less than fifty-five (55) per cent of the premiums received a credit of three (3) per cent will be allowed, with a maximum credit of fifteen (15) per cent.

THE SPIRIT OF OUR FATHERS

The Standard's Americanization Series

America is the marvel of all history. One hundred and forty-five years ago representative men from thirteen colonies on our Atlantic seaboard met in Philadelphia and gave to the world the Declaration of Independence, the greatest human document ever written. And a few years later some of these same representatives, with others of like mind, gave us the Constitution of the United States, the first and greatest charter of human liberties. The foundations of a great Nation were thus laid—and truly it has been said that the Fathers builded better than they knew.

Within the short space of 145 years these struggling colonies have grown into the greatest Government that the world has seen, greatest in the true principles of democracy, or self-government, greatest in material progress, greatest in the possession of all those worth-while and enduring things that we call civilization. What, above all things, made these achievements in human society possible? Historians may differ as to the minor factors of our National progress; but all are agreed that the one supreme factor which has brought us along in our national life and achievements is our adherence to the principles enunciated in the Declaration of Independence and in our National Constitution.

"Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed." This is the whole science of political economy and statescraft condensed into one sentence. It has brought to us lovers of liberty from every clime.

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment or religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." A rigid observance of this principle has contributed to the tide of our growing citizenship the best morality and the best brains of every land where religious freedom and toleration were not known. It may be that it has prevented the establishment of a State religion. It surely has made it possible for our citizenship to worship God according to the dictates of our own individual consciences. It has given us Jews who brought with them their morality, their civilization, their business capacity—all the accumulation of four thousand years of civilized history; Jews who have financed our Government in times of stress, who have graced our Senates, Cabinets and Supreme Court—who have given to what we have from other sources their richest and best in art, in science, in law, morality, business. It has brought Protestant Christians of like possessions and endowments from many lands wherein freedom of conscience was and is an unknown principle. Likewise it has attracted to our shores Roman Catholics seeking freedom to worship God as they might choose to do, and who also added to the strength of our civilization and to the glory of our civil institutions. Also to other racial stocks, and religious persuasions, out of every Government in the civilized world, we are debtors for some of that which constitutes our glory and characterizes our progress.

And thousands of pages might be written upon the immortal Declaration and the Great Charter of Liberties. These documents are the spirit of our fathers. Let us observe them, to live by their precepts and injunctions zealously and in all good conscience. Let us consecrate ourselves to Liberty and Justice, to observe them, to demand them, to exert our powers as a citizens to the end that not even the humblest citizen in the land shall be denied them.

Shame on any one who would forbid to another the exercise of that one's religious beliefs—and shame and contumely upon him who would ostracise a fellow citizen because of religious differences.

Let us be careful to keep the spirit of our Fathers whose sacrifices and genius gave us our Commonwealth. Let us neither exact nor demand of any fellow-citizen more than we, as exemplary citizens, demand for ourselves. We must be tolerant in all matters, granting only that all men show in their daily lives a due respect for the Flag—the Emblem and-Symbol of that Constituted Authority under which we, as a Nation, have come to this good hour.

HENRY EDWARDS, Editor Troup Banner.

en to the press of your city.

"If the premiums received by the companies are not sufficient to pay the losses, expenses and permit them to earn a reasonable per cent profit for their services they must accept either one of two alternatives—refuse to write such a class or increase the rates sufficiently to enable them to pay the losses, expenses, and have a little left over for their trouble.

"Proper fire protection, and fire prevention, practically applied by every citizen, without fear or favor are two of the most essential methods to bring about a reduction in fire insurance rates."

GUARANTY TIRE COMPANY OPENS FOR BUSINESS IN RAMSAY BUILDING HERE

The Guaranty Tire Company is a new Brady institution, the firm being composed of D. C. Blauvelt, well-known citizen of the Nine community, and A. C. Cranfill, recently of Goldthwaite. The company has installed a complete line of modern vulcanizing machinery, and are well equipped to do general tire repairing. In addition they will include Gates Half-Soling of tires in their operations, thereby enabling auto owners to get additional miles of service out of tires that ordinarily would be discarded.

The company is established in the E. B. Ramsay building on the southwest corner of the square, where they will be glad to have autoists in need of services call on them.

McCULLOCH COUNTY WORLD WAR VETERANS WILL ORGANIZE LOCAL POST

MASS MEETING OF ALL EX-SOLDIERS CALLED FOR FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21ST, 8:00 P. M. AT COURT HOUSE—EDEN POST OFFERS SERVICES IN ORGANIZING.

Plans are now on foot for the organization of a local post of the American Legion, and a mass meeting of all World War veterans is to be held Friday, October 21st, 8:00 p. m., at the courthouse for the purpose of effecting a temporary organization and making application for a charter. J. A. Holton, local overseas veteran, is one of the leaders in the move, and is very enthusiastic over the fact that a strong and active post is assured if all the boys will take interest and co-operate. In the city of Brady alone there are something like a hundred ex-service men, not to mention the several hundred in the county at large.

At the meeting to be held on the 21st, the plan of organization will be thoroughly gone into, and the importance of a local branch of the American Legion set forth. A temporary organization will be effected at that time, and application for charter will be immediately forwarded to National headquarters. Following receipt of the charter, a permanent organization is to be effected.

The Eden American Legion Post has kindly offered every assistance to the local boys in effecting the organization, and Jos. Clifford, post commander of the Eden post, has written that the Eden Legion will be pleased to come to Brady and install the officers, when elected, with due ceremony.

Mr. Holton reports much interest in the proposed organization, not only among the ex-service men themselves, but among the citizenship in general. With posts established in practically all counties of the state, and with a number of well-organized bodies in this immediate section of Texas, the need of a local organization has become all the more apparent.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured! by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

Who will Docket it and poke it in the Proper Pigeonhole.

GATES TIRES

The Tire with the Wider and Thicker Tread

Obvious, Isn't It--

The miles you get out of a tire depend upon the miles that are built into it.

That's why the tread is so important. It is this rubber tread that has to take all the road wear and keep the bumps away from the inside fabric.

Obvious, then, isn't it, that a tire with a wider and thicker tread should wear longer. It does. That's the one big secret back of the Gates Super-Tread Tire.

BLACK SAYS IT DID HIS WIFE A WORLD OF GOOD

"Tanlac certainly did my wife a world of good and I believe it will help anybody," said L. Black, 1524 Herkimer St., Houston, Texas.

"About three years ago my wife began suffering with terrible spells of indigestion and kept going down hill right along. At last she became so nervous and broken down in both health and strength she was almost a physical wreck and just suffered nearly all the time. She barely ate enough to keep alive, but with all that she had the most terrible pains in her stomach and around her heart.

"After taking two bottles of Tanlac she was able to eat anything she wanted without feeling the slightest distress afterwards. She gained ten pounds in weight too, and I have never seen her look so well as she does now. I never saw such a change in my life in anybody as Tanlac has made in her. At our house we think it is the king pin among medicines."

Tanlac is sold in Brady by Trigg Drug Co., in Mercury by J. T. Matlock, in Rochelle by C. W. Carr, and by leading druggists everywhere.

M. C. ALLMAN DIED TUESDAY NOON AT RISING STAR FROM SELF-INFLICTED SHOT

A. F. Grant returned Tuesday night from Rising Star, where he had gone Tuesday noon in response to a message announcing the fatal shooting of M. C. Allman, former Brady citizen. Mr. Grant was accompanied by Rising Star by S. Alexander, brother-in-law of the victim, and also the ten-year old daughter of Mr. Allman, who had been attending school here in Brady.

Arriving there, they found that Mr. Allman had succumbed to the self-inflicted pistol shot at 12:20 Tuesday noon. The shooting had occurred at about 4:00 o'clock that morning in the bake shop where Mr. Allman was employed. According to the head baker at the shop, Allman, who had been in ill health for some time, was greatly depressed, and kept worrying about not doing his work right, although the bread he turned out was as fine as could be wished. The baker told Allman to quit worrying; that if there was any to be done, he (the head baker) was the one to do the worrying, but this did not seem to relieve Allman's mind. The baker had turned to observe a batch of bread in the oven, and some impulse caused him to look up. He was startled to see Allman standing in another part of the room, with his back turned, and with a .38 pistol pointed at his head. The baker shouted and leaped to knock the pistol down, but before he could reach Allman, the latter had sent a bullet into his brain. The shot entered the right temple and emerged at the top of the head on the left side. The unconscious victim was removed to the hotel, where, despite the fearful wound, he lingered for eight hours before death mercifully brought relief.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed when Mr. Grant returned to Brady. J. R. Starkey of Llano, father of Allman's deceased wife, was expected to arrive in Rising Star Tuesday night to take charge of the body. It was thought more than likely that the body would be interred there.

Besides the daughter who was in school here in Brady, Mr. Allman had two boys by his first wife, who were making their home with him in Rising Star. Mr. Allman also had two children by his second wife. He also has several brothers and sisters in an Eastern state, whose addresses were unknown.

Allman had lived in Brady for a number of years, during which he had operated a bakery, and had also been associated with Mr. Starkey and others at various times in the baking business.

METHODISTS WILL ERECT ATTRACTIVE CHURCH BUILDING AT PEAR VALLEY SOON

J. E. White, one of the leading business men and citizens of Pear Valley was in Brady Wednesday and reported the citizens of that progressive community were beginning to haul out lumber for the new Methodist church building to be erected at Pear Valley. Mr. White states that the money for the building has been raised by subscription, and he spoke very highly of the liberality of Brady merchants and business men, who had contributed something like $400 towards the fund.

The plans for the new edifice call for a main building size 36x50 ft., with an 8x10 ft. balcony, and a 10x20 ft. extension for the housing of the choir and pulpit. The building will be of frame construction, and it is planned to build it with local help almost entirely, August Paulus being engaged as overseer.

The Methodist congregation at Pear Valley has been without a church home for the past six years. The old building was blown down a second time, when it was so badly demolished that it was torn down and the lumber sold. In 1918, this money was invested in Government War Savings stamps, which the members now propose to cash, using the funds secured to aid in the building.

The new structure will cost $2,500, and will be one of which the community may well be proud. It is anticipated that the placing of the cement foundations will be completed by the end of this week, and that everything will be in readiness for the carpenters to begin their work next Monday.

WONDER WORDS.

In 1872-73 Buffalo Fish Covered Bed of Lampasas River.

Wonder, Or., Sept. 25.

Editor Brady Standard:

Commenting upon those Oregon prunes, I had a good notion to send you some more just to make your eyes bug out. I sent some today to two other parties in McCulloch county and also to my sister in Alberta. Some of those yellow or Silver prunes grow on irrigated land, I measured two of them and each one measured around the long way, from stem to blossom end and back to stem, exactly seven inches; while around the smaller way, six and one-fourth inches.

Speaking of irrigated land recalls a typographic error in regards to C. P. Taylor's large yield of onions. It said "they were grown on irrigated land," and should have been "upon unirrigated land." Which reminds me of the man who read the sentence "Let him that stole, steal no more." He omitted the little word "no" and read it thus: "Let him that stole, steal more."

I am enclosing herewith one dollar for which please send The Standard to my sister, Mrs. Nettie Devore, at Caroline, Alberta, Canada, beginning with this issue and continue as long as the dollar's worth lasts.

We are still having some dry weather. Maybe I will have some rain write by the next time.

O, yes, that big irrigation project has built a concrete or cement dam across the Rogue river at Savage Rapids above the city of Grants Pass; and the salmon fish literally cover the bottom of the river below the dam, ranging in size from 10 to 40 lbs. But it is against the law to catch them. I have seen the buffalo fish like that in the Lampasas river during the winter of 1872-73.

GOOD FIRE RECORD.

The statement on front page of this issue of The Standard showing the amount saved to the city and community by reason of good fire record, is well worth careful study. It will be noted that Brady is given two reductions—the one, a 15% reduction on account of this good fire record, and the other, an additional 15% on dwelling houses, barns and garages, which applies only for one year from February, 1921. The former credit was earned by reason of Brady having held her fire losses during the past three years down. As will be noted, it means a big saving to the business interests of the city. The second reduction was made because the premiums received by the insurance companies on dwellings and the like exceeded the 5% net profit on turnover. In other words, the insurance companies have been making a larger percent of returns on premiums paid on dwellings and the like, than is permitted by law. Hence, this surplus is being returned to policy holders this year in the form of a 15% reduction in rates. This additional reduction applies not only to dwellings and the like within the city limits of Brady, but to all in the county and state.

However, referring again to the good fire record. It is obvious that this record will not be maintained for the coming year. The heavy fire loss sustained in the burning of the Brady compress, together with the burning of the buildings on the east side of the square, will count heavily against Brady's good fire record, especially when the numerous dwelling losses of the year 1920 are also taken into consideration in the three years' average. It seems, therefore, that Brady is destined to lose this 15% reduction from the key rate.

As it now stands, Brady's key rate is 42c, less 15% for fire record. An additional 15% is deducted on dwellings, etc., during the year beginning February, 1921.

However, Brady citizens have an excellent opportunity to make a saving in their fire insurance key rate that will far out-balance any loss sustained on account of fire record. The Brady Water & Light works now has an 8-inch main laid from the water station to the corner where Blackburn street intersects the square. From this point to the standpipe a 6-inch main is laid. If this 6-inch main is replaced by an 8-inch main, it will mean a saving of 10c on the insurance key rate. To be specific, the changing of this main from a 6-inch to an 8-inch will reduce Brady's fire insurance key rate from 42c to 32c. The saving thus accomplished, would, in the course of only a couple years, pay for the new 8-inch main, and the city would still have her 6-inch pipe for use in extending the mains to other sections of the town.

Just why this change has not been accomplished long ago, is hard to understand, unless it is merely because the general public failed to realize and appreciate its importance. Brady citizens should lose no time in getting a move under foot to finance the replacing of this 6-inch main with the required 8-inch.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY.

Next Sunday, October 9th, is Fire Prevention day. It is a day set aside all over the state for the serious consideration of the prevention of fires. Every citizen who has not already done so, should clear his premises of rubbish; should see that all volatile liquids and explosives are stored safely; that his flues are in good shape and are not exposing him to a fire hazard now that winter is approaching. The school children should be taught fire drills, and also instructed how to avoid fires and how to fight them. The State Fire commission has laid down many rules of safety. Too many citizens ignore these rules, or live up to them only because frequent inspections force them to do so. It should be realized by every citizen that these rules were made for our own safety; our own welfare. Let us follow these rules and carefully eliminate every fire hazard—we will be well paid for our labors and care.

We don't know whether the experts are right or not about the ruinous results of another war, but we don't believe we could survive another armistice.—Columbia (S. C.) Record.

FIRE BOYS LOSE CITY BASE BALL CHAMPIONSHIP TO BUNCH OF "HAS BEENS"

For thirty-odd pieces of silver (31½, to be exact) the fire boys Thursday afternoon bartered the city base ball championship to a bunch of so-called "Has-Beens." Not wilfully, nor willingly, did they do so, but quite unwittingly. A rather modest audience was out to see the fracas, and were treated to their money's worth of the National sport.

Both sides were blessed with good backstops, which prevented many casualties in the grand stand, Joe Myrick officiating for the F. B., and Royston Taylor for the H. B. For the pitching staffs, several embryo stars were pulled. Irvine Hurd, working for the fire boys, let three runs pile up on him and then turned the job over to Henry King, who held the H. B.'s scoreless until the 7th and 8th frames, when he also let in three runs. The H. B.'s had a fancy assortment of pitchers, O. Craddock doing the honors until the third inning, when the Fire Boys smote him for the only four runs they made. W. A. Baker succeeded Craddock successfully thereafter, never giving the opposing side a look-in. In the 9th, Bert Stobaugh finished the game.

Preacher G. T. Reaves was "King of Swats," and also a terror to all runners on third sack. Woosely got the only three-sacker in the game—a long drive to right field.

The line-up of the players, (with numerous substitutions) was as follows:

Fire Boys
Myrick, Joe, catcher
Hurd, Irvine, pitcher-3-base
Stobaugh, Bert, 1-base-pitcher
Melton, P. B., short stop
Deaton, Jack, 2-base
King, Henry, 3-base-pitcher
McMurray, Ernest, center field
Deaton, Harold, right field

Whiteman, J. B., 1-base
Craddock, O., pitcher-short stop
Sneary, E., 2-base
Reaves, G. T., 3-base
Baker, W. A., short stop-pitcher
Holton, J. A., left field-cen. field
Trigg, C. A., right field
Taylor, Royston, catcher

BRADY HIGH WINS SECOND GAME OF SEASON FROM MENARD ELEVEN

The Brady High foot ball eleven last Saturday journeyed to Menard where they won a well-played and interesting game from the Menard High eleven by a score of 7 to 6. Menard has a fast team, and put up a hard fight for the honors of the game, but the locals played even faster and better, and had the additional advantage of team weight.

Brady scored in the second quarter by bucking through the Menard line, Captain Taylor scoring a touchdown and kicking goal. The game continued 7 to 0 until the last part of the third quarter when Menard caught one of Brady's forward passes for an open field, Flack, quarterback of the Menard team making a 40-yard run for a touchdown, but failing to kick goal.

The boys report a large crowd of Menard folks out to see the game, and most cordial treatment. Menard is scheduled for a return game at Brady on November 19th.

The local aggregation has a game scheduled with the Richland Springs team on either today (Friday) or to-

CISCO FIRM BUYS T. C. HENRY DRY GOODS STOCK, BANKRUPT, AT SAN SABA

Col. A. Robinson, trustee in bankruptcy, was here Monday and sold the T. C. Henry stock of dry goods to the highest bidder. The stock invoiced above $15,000 and was bought by the Garner-Alvis Company of Cisco. Messrs. John H. Garner of Cisco and C. E. Alvis of Gatesville, members of the firm, were here and personally inspected the stock of goods and took a survey of the valley trade territory.

These people operate a string of good up-to-date dry goods stores thru Central Texas and their announcement will be made thru the News just as soon as they have straightened out their new purchase. They expect to replenish their San Saba house with fill-in goods and will then put on a big sale. There were quite a number of interested business men here from surrounding towns and county seats and seven of these were bidders on the stock.—San Saba News.

LIVE OAK WELL NOW DRILLING AT 1,160 FEET IN SAN SABA COUNTY

Interest in Live Oak well No. 1 in the Rocky Pasture continues to hold the boards in San Saba. Those closely in touch with the operations are sanguine and trading in leases has been rather brisk the past week.

The drill is going steadily and Tuesday was at a depth of about 1,160 feet and the log of the well is quite satisfactory to the geologists. This well is being drilled by the Cayce Petroleum Company and the company has not offered a single share of stock for sale in San Saba.

The crowds of sightseers became so large and persistent that a guard has been placed around the well and visitors are not allowed.—San Saba News.

Think It Over.

Down in Virginia a farmer had an ox and a mule that he hitched together to a plow. One night, after several days of continuous plowing, and after the ox and mule had been stabled and provendered for the night, the ox said to the mule: "We've been working pretty hard; let's play off sick tomorrow and lie here in the stalls all day."

"You can if you want to," returned the mule, "but I'll go to work."

So the next morning when the farmer came out the ox pretended that he was sick. The farmer bedded him down with clean straw, gave him fresh hay, a bucket of oats and bran mixed, left him for the day and went out with the mule to plow.

All that day the ox lay in his stall, chewed his cud, and nodded, slowly blinked his eyes, and gently swished his tail.

That night when the mule came in, the ox asked him how they got along plowing alone all day. "Well," said the mule, "it was hard and we didn't get much done, and—"

"Did the old man have anything to say about me?" asked the ox.

"No," replied the mule.

"Well—then," went on the ox, "I believe I'll play off again tomorrow; it was certainly fine lying here all day and resting."

"That's up to you," said the mule "but I'll go out and plow."

So the next day the ox played off again, was bedded down with clean straw, provendered with hay, bran, and oats, and lay all day nodding, blinking, chewing his cud, and gently swishing his tail.

When the mule came in at night the ox asked him again how they had made out.

"About the same as yesterday," replied the mule coldly.

"Did the old man have anything to say to you about me?" again inquired the ox.

"No," replied the mule, "not to me, but he did have a damn long talk with the butcher on the way home." Texaco Star.

Keeping Tab.

In a certain coast city many strangers take furnished houses for the winter and a young woman there is fond of keeping tab on them and discussing their affairs. Of one family in particular she spoke in detail—their wealth, their children and, alas, the obvious aloofness of the rest of the winter colony.

"I don't know anything about 'em," she declared one day. "But this I will say: My husband, who collects garbage, says that they have perfectly swell swill."

Watchful Waiting.

"Officer Mulcahey," deplored the captain of police, gazing over his desk at the town's only itinerant guardian, "ye've been on th' force two years and haven't made wan arrest. Now that looks bad on th' annual report!"

"It do," agreed the policeman, "but," he added, suddenly animated, "O've got my eye on a party over in th' next strate thot' a bad wan, sor." "Then, why don't ye arrest 'im?" "O'll will in toime. He's only a ba-by yit!"

TICK ERADICATION PAYS

SAYS J. W. WHITE, RANCHMAN OF MASON COUNTY

Mr. J. W. White, prominent ranchman of Mason, Texas, was interviewed by a representative of a San Antonio newspaper. His attitude in South Texas is rather interesting. His interview is quoted herewith in full: "I cleaned up the ticks on my ranch in one year," said J. W. White of Mason county yesterday in San Antonio. "I had thirty thousand acres to clean, too, and like a lot of other folks, when the talk of getting rid of the ticks was started, I did not believe in it very much. But my Zone No. 2 went to cleaning up, and I went with the bunch. My cattle used to be covered with ticks, and, like these folks in Zone 3, I thought it was all right. Today there is simply not one tick on my whole ranch. Since I cleaned them up I have at one time brought one thousand and four hundred of cattle from the north where they never had a tick on them, and turned them on my range in perfect safety, and not long ago a friend of mine took fifty head of clean Texas cattle down into Zone 5, and forty-two of them got ticks and died. Another thing, when I had ticks I had lots of trouble with screw worms—they got started where the tick left a tiny sore place. Now I am running my ranch with one-fourth the number of men I used to have to keep, for I have very little trouble with screw worms. I want a lot of my friends in Zone 3 to think about that too. A four-year-old steer raised on a tick-free range will weigh one hundred and fifty to two hundred pounds more than he would have weighed if raised with ticks all over him all his life. That's worth noting, too. Absolutely, I would not have the ticks back like they were on my range for an even $25,000. You can say for me that the people of Zone 2 are going to see that Zone 3 cleans up. Folks in Zone 2 have to do it for their own protection. As long as there are ticks in Zone 3, they will find a way now and then over into Zone 2 and kill a lot of cattle. Not so long ago a fellow brought about a dozen fine bulls from the north and stopped at Taylor with them, in clean territory. He had a grazing privilege on the I. & G. N. railway rightofway and they picked up ticks there which had dropped out of an infected, Zone 3 cattle train. One bull died, and the others were saved by dipping. And not long ago some fellow started to send two fine Jersey cows, infected with ticks, from Zone 3 up to Dallas county, sending them by truck. He was taking these ticky cows right into clean territory, where people had spent their money to clean it up. If he had succeeded in his plan he would have started ticks all over again in that territory and perhaps have cost some poor man his only milk cow on which his children depended. I call that sort of tactics by a pretty hard name. That fellow with his two cows was caught on the way and made to tarry there until the cows had two good dippings. These are some of the reasons that cause me to say that the people of Zone 2 will see to it that Zone 3 cleans up. They must not be exposed to that danger. One encouraging thing is that so many folks in Zone 3 really want to clean up as soon as their neighbors will do so."

Ticks are largely responsible for scrub cattle, and there is seldom any uniformity in scrub cattle. About the only things they have in common are: four legs, two horns, a hide and a tail. Tick eradication pays—Government Bulletin.

No Worms in a Healthy Child
All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or digest the worms, and the Child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Young Carlyle Wilburton Dale, or "Bill Dale," as he elects to be known, son of a wealthy coal operator, John K. Dale, arrives at the Halfway Switch, in eastern Tennessee, abandoning a life of idleness and incidentally a bride, Patricia Claverling, at the altar, determined to make his own way in life. He meets "Babe" Littleford, typical mountaineer girl, "Hear, a character of the hills, takes him to John Moreland's home. Moreland is chief of his "clan," which has a bitter feud with the Littlefords. He tells Dale of the killing of his brother, David Moreland, years ago, owner of rich coal deposits, by a man named Carlyle. Moreland's description of "Carlyle" causes Dale to believe the man was his father.

CHAPTER II.—Dale arranges to make his home with the Moreland family, for whom he entertains a deep respect.

CHAPTER III.—Talking with "Babe" Littleford next day, Dale is ordered by "Black Adam" Ball, bully of the district, to leave her alone. Dale replies spiritedly, and they fight. Dale whips the bully, though badly used up. He arranges with John Moreland to develop David's coal deposits. Ben Littleford sends a challenge to John Moreland to meet him with his followers next day, in battle. Moreland agrees.

CHAPTER IV.—During the night all the guns belonging to the Littlefords and the Morelands mysteriously disappear.

CHAPTER V.—Dale arranges to go to Cincinnati to secure money for the mining of the coal. The two clans find their weapons, which the women had hidden, and line up for battle. "Babe" in an effort to stop the fighting, crosses to the Moreland side of the river, and is accidentally shot by her father and seriously wounded.

CHAPTER VI.—To get proper surgical aid, John Moreland, Ben Littleford and Dale convey "Babe," unconscious, to the city. Doctors assure them she is not seriously hurt. Dale meets an old friend, Bobby McLaughlin, who had married Patricia Claverling. Telling his father of David Moreland's coal, the old gentleman's actions convince his son of his father's guilt in the killing of Moreland.

CHAPTER VII.—It is arranged that "Babe" is to stay with Mrs. McLaughlin to be educated. Dale, refusing his father's proffered financial aid to develop the mine, interests Newton Wheatley, capitalist, who agrees to furnish the money. Dale realizes he loves "Babe."

CHAPTER VIII.—Returning to the Halfway Switch, Dale meets Major Bradley, lawyer, and real friend of the mountaineers, whom he engages as counsel for the company. A man named Goff, of evil repute, tries to bribe Dale to betray the Morelands by selling him the coal deposits, and telling them they are of little value. Dale attempts to smash him, but Goff draws a revolver, and is unarmed.

CHAPTER IX.—Goff enlists the aid of a turbulent crowd, the Balls and Torrays, to make trouble for Dale's company. The Littlefords and Morelands agree to forget the old feud and dwell in harmony.

CHAPTER X.—"Babe" returns to her home, fearing she is a burden to the McLaughlins. Dale reproaches, and she agrees to go back for the sake of her education. Waylaid by "Black Adam" Ball, Dale fights a pistol duel with the desperado and Ball is killed. Dale is arrested and taken to jail at Cartersville. He doesn't see how his shot could have killed Ball.

CHAPTER XI.—There is much speculation as to who really killed Ball, the general opinion being it was by Heck who had constituted himself Dale's guardian.

He opened it and read it. She had spelled most of her words correctly, but the only punctuation she used was a period and her capitals were few. For a wonder, she had put it into paragraphs:

Mr. Bill Dale, Cartersville, Tennessee.

Kind friend, I seat myself with pen in hand to drop you a few lines to let you know I am well hoping you the same. well bill I have some news to tell you about what happened when I got back hear and since I got back and hear it is.

The first person I seen when I got to the railroad station was Jimmy fayne and he was dressed up like a millionaire and I reckon he is one. he took me in his motor car up to pats home, patrisia you know. pat she hugged me and jimmy left rite away but said he would be back. I asked pat had she heard about yore trouble bill and she answered no what. then I told her bout gen and the lowdown black adam ball bill and she said pore old bill had such a high temper nobody could ever understand it but it cant be srs you serious elizabeth.

well I said yes I mean it. pat shook her head sorrowful and said tell me all about it. elizabeth dear, when I had told her the hole story about it we went up stairs. pat went to a closet and got a butrice dress my size. I ordered this the day before you left us pat said but it wite half to be altered. she said you are dressing pat said I'll speak to Mrs. Dale over the phone. pat said yore mother has softened thru her son and I promised to tell her any news I had concerning him. I said all rite.

pat was gine down stairs talking over the telephone for a long time and when she returned to me I was dressed and we went down stairs together and the new dress didnt half to be altered. the new dinner was over me and pat went to a swing at the end of a veranda which had a dim lite on it. pat spoke all of a sudden and said to me how would you like to go to live with Mrs. Dale hills mother.

Bill Dale folded the bulky letter and put it slowly back into the envelope. Then his gaze wandered through a window and to where a golden-winged high-blower was hammering industriously at the top branch of a dead tree. He smiled to himself, by Heck and nearly all of the rest of the world for the moment forgotten, and muttered aloud: "Yores respectively, Babe."

"Haw, haw, haw!" laughed the keen-eyed and watchful hillman in the straight-back chair behind him. "Yores respectively, Babe!" Haw, haw, haw! Well, Bill, dadsing it, it shorley to goodness ain't nothin' to turn all that red about! When the night's gone the day comes, don't it? Bill, old boy, it's the same thing! "You get out of here, by!" Dale stormed in mock severity. "Go and help the commissary clerk with the new goods; eh?"

Heck laughed another horselaugh, rose and went out.

When he had gone, Dale began to think—of the ultra-spotted, charming-after-a-fashion, wealthy, young, high-night devotee, Jimmy Fayne. And he wondered, and wondered, what would come of Fayne's quick liking for Babe Littleford?

After he had viewed the matter from above and below and all sides around, he frowned like a berserker.

Here is what came of Jimmy Fayne's quick liking for Babe Littleford—

The days had passed swiftly, and autumn was far advanced. Save for a few chrysanthemums and asters that grew in places sheltered from the frosts, the flowers were all gone; the maples were shedding their leaves of brown, crimson and gold.

Ben Littleford's daughter had changed much in many ways. She had tried as hard as ever mortal tried to learn the correct use of words; and Mrs. Dale had been patient, painstaking and efficient in her teachings. Not that Elizabeth was educated, in any real sense of the word. Far from it. But her improvement was, in all truth, quite remarkable. She wore more or less costly gowns now, and a few jewels, thanks to Mrs. Dale, and wherever she went she attracted admiring glances too pat said, her treatment of her son which is you bill has most broke her hart pat said, pat said the only hold Mrs. Dale has on her son is through you elizabeth and she is a sad and remorseful woman, then I got to thinking bill I mite be the cause of bringing peece between you and yore parents and so I told pat I would go and I did. I me glad said pat but I me sorry to lose you but it is the best way and we can see each other often cant we dear.

well bill it wassent long until a big motor car called around at pats for me and setting in the hind seat was yore father himself John K Dale, he helped me into the car with him and he seemed glad to see me. after we had said-good morning and so forth he said anxious like now elizabeth please tell me all about bills trouble for patrisia mite have omitted something you know, at first I was awful afeard of him but I soon got to liking him fine and I told him about you and that lowdown black adam half from beginning to end and when I told him about the fite in the river he grinned and grinned and said yore always was jam full of the fite stuff.

he ll come out of it all rite the worst of it is his haveng to stay in jail until the-trial comes off said yore, father at the next term of cote. weed better see if we cant get him out on a bond he said haddent we elizabeth and I said yes. bill I found yore mother indede a sad woman, there wassent much about her to remind me of the time when she called me a savage person. she said I am delited you came elizabeth and I cride a little-I couldnt help it when I jest half to cry I jest half to cry and nothing else dont I jest a bit. Because she kissed me bill.

well bill yore father he wired the aorthies in cartersville and found out that cale Moreland had confessed to the shooting of black adam and you was free and it has set his mind at rest, but it didnt set my mind at rest for because I no the mountain hart. I know cale Moreland is jest takeing yore place in jail until the day of the trial for that is the way of the Morelands. pore cale is a good boy, I am doing fine hear bill but I often wish I could have old Dog River hear to sing me to sleep like it used to. yore mother is teaching me how to read and rite and spell like pat did and I am learning fast. you can see by this letter I can rite an speil-fine cant I.

well bill kind friend jimmy fayne has jes sent yore mothers made up hear to ask if he can see me and I will half to go down stairs and see what he wants.

yores respectively. Babe.

Jimmy Fayne had been coming to see her when Mrs. Dale would permit it, which was not very often. Jimmy Fayne, as Patricia McLaughlin had once been moved to say, was a far seeing young man for all his weaknesses; he had known in advance that the laurel bloom would change to a rose, and then to a white hyacinth. Perhaps he even considered the fact that she would make a better wife for him, and a better mother for his children, than some fragile and over-cultured woman of a patrician house that had about run out. At any rate, Jimmy Fayne, the ultra-spotted, had been

But now he meant to propose, for he knew that Miss Littleford intended going home for a visit—and he knew that when she went home she would see Carlyle Dale. The truth was, of course, that Miss Littleford was going to Tennessee to attend the October term of court at Cartersville.

It was a little after the middle of a bright afternoon. He found her sitting on an iron settee in a secluded corner of the lawn, where cape jessamines and lilac bushes grew in orderly array. She wore a light wrap, and there was an easy-to-read book in her hands; but she wasn't trying to read at the moment.

He bared his head, greeted her pleasantly, and asked permission to sit down beside her. She looked up at him. He was immaculately dressed.

"Of course," she granted with a smile that was very winsome.

He stated his mission briefly, for Mrs. Dale might appear at any minute.

"I came, Elizabeth, to ask you to marry me."

She sat as still as though she had not heard. He went on hastily: "I confess that I'm a little ashamed of trying to take you away from Carlyle Dale, for he was always very nice to me. But I may be forgiven for that, I think, because I care for you a great deal. Anyway—all is fair in love and war—you know."

His voice was hardly businesslike, but it lacked original fire. Elizabeth Littleford closed the book in her lap, and lifted her clear brown eyes to his eager face.

"No," she disagreed. "all ain't—isn't fair in love and war. That's one of the very silliest sayings I've ever heard. As for the other—I like you, Jimmy, but not in the way you want me to. It's Bill Dale that I like—in that way, Jimmy."

Fayne looked disappointed. He was silent.

"You're a good boy, Jimmy," she went on, "and I hate to make you feel the least bit bad. It makes me oh, Jimmy, it makes me blue. I wish you hadn't asked me. I'm sure you'll find some better girl than me—than I—for a wife."

"There is no better girl than you, Elizabeth. I'm going to wait—and hope."

He took up one of her hands and kissed it, rose and went toward the street. Before he had gone a minute, she rose, her face a little pale, and stared after him, sorely tempted—for Fayne's money could bring her people out of their long night of ignorance! Well, if she didn't marry Bill Dale—and she feared that she wouldn't—she would marry Jimmy Fayne, if he still wanted her—if he would agree to help her people. After all, it wasn't so much to give. What was one poor little, unhappy human life?

It was late, that night, when Elizabeth Littleford went to sleep, and when at last she slept, she dreamed of walking through a fragrant green meadow with Bill Dale. There was the low humming of wild bees about the purple crowns of the ironweed and the scarlet bloom of the clover; there was the mating call of the partridge, and the loveborn coo of a dove.
