M'CULLOCH CO. GINNINGS WILL RUN OVER 12,000

Arthur Wood, who compiles the census of cotton ginnings in McCulloch county for the federal government, reports a total of 11,522 bales as having been ginned in McCulloch county up to October 18, 1921. The same date last year, 9,999 bales had been ginned, the ginning season then being just started in full swing. According to local estimates, total ginnings in McCulloch county will run over 12,000, the highest estimate being 12,500 bales. The total number of bales weighed this season has so far run 8,000 bales, the number including the McCulloch County Farm Bureau cotton.

LIBRARY COMMITTEE DECIDES TO MAKE BOOKS AVAILABLE TO ALL

At a meeting of the Brady Public Library board this week, it was decided to rescind the rule which placed the books of the library at the disposal of only citizens of Brady. Henceforth any citizen of McCulloch county will be enabled to borrow books from the library upon receiving a library card.

While the library has only a limited number of volumes at present, it is hoped that by enabling the citizens of all McCulloch county to participate in its benefits a wide-spread interest will be aroused in the institution, and that the citizens of McCulloch county will come to its aid and increase the usefulness of the library with donations of books and also give financial aid, either of which will be greatly appreciated and which will open the institution to an increasing number of patrons.

Every community is urged to interest its citizens in the Brady Public Library.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

The Brady Standard's Americanization Series

Let your imagination carry you back to the year 1776. You stand in the hall of the old Colonial Court House of Philadelphia. Through the open door you see the Continental Congress assembled; the moment for a great decision is drawing near.

The first little impulses to the general upheaval of the popular spirit, the Tea Tax, the Stamp Act, drop into insignificance; they are almost forgotten; the revolutionary spirit has risen far above them. It puts the claim to independence upon the broad basis of eternal rights, as self-evident as the sun, as broad as the world, as common as the air of heaven.

The struggle of the colonies against the usurping government of Great Britain has risen to the proud dimensions of a struggle of man for liberty and equality. Not only the supremacy of old England is to be shaken off, but a new organization of society is to be built up, on the basis of liberty and equality. That is the Declaration of Independence! That is the American Revolution!

It is a common thing that men of a coarse cast of mind so lose themselves in the mean pursuit of selfish ends as to become insensible to the grand and sublime. Measuring every character, and every event in history, by the low standard of their own individualities, incapable of grasping broad and generous ideas, they will belittle every great thing they cannot deny, and drag down every struggle of principle to the sordid arena of aspiring selfishness.

Eighteen hundred years ago there were men who saw in incipient Christianity nothing but a mere wrangle between Jewish theologians, by a carpenter's boy, and carried on by a few crazy fishermen. Three hundred years ago there were men who saw in the great reformatory movement of the sixteenth century, not the emancipation of the individual conscience, but a mere fuss raised by a German monk who wanted to get married. Two hundred years ago there were men who saw in Hampden's refusal to pay ship money, not a bold vindication of constitutional liberty, but the crazy antics of a man who was mean enough to quarrel about a few shillings.

And now, there are men who see in the Declaration of Independence and the American Revolution, not the reorganization of human society upon a basis of liberty and equality, but a dodge of some English colonists who were unwilling to pay their taxes.

It is in vain for demagogism to raise its short arms against the truth of history. The Declaration of Independence stands there. No candid man ever read it without seeing and feeling that every word of it was dedicated by deep and earnest thought, and that every sentence of it bears the stamp of philosophic generality.

It is the summing up of the results of the philosophical development of the age; the practical embodiment of the progressive ideas, which, far from being confined to the narrow limits of the English colonies, pervaded the very atmosphere of all civilized countries.

(Editor's Note—The articles appearing in the above space from week to week are taken from "Americanization" by Elwood Grisco, Jr. This excellent volume, which is a collection of articles upon the general theme of patriotism and good citizenship, is presented to the schools of Texas by the Bodies of Scottish Rite Masonry in Texas).

AMERICAN LEGION SETS MEETING HOUR AT 7:30 EACH SATURDAY NIGHT

Elijah F. Allin post of the American Legion has set the regular meeting hour for 7:30 o'clock each Saturday night in Brady. This is thirty minutes earlier than was first agreed upon.

The members of the local post are very enthusiastic over the splendid start secured, and promise to keep things lively and to work for a constantly increasing membership.

The establishment of a rest room will be one of the first acts of the post, funds for the same having already been secured by reason of the liberal contributions made by Brady merchants and business men. A list for this purpose was circulated about town the past week by Tom Jones, who met with ready response on all sides.

Every service man who is not already a member, is urged to come in and get acquainted with the organization and the work it is doing in behalf of World War veterans.

ONE LOSES LIFE--SEVERAL HURT IN BROWNWOOD FIRE

One man lost his life, four others were more or less seriously injured and property damage amounting to about $10,000 was caused early this morning when the Harper Hotel on South Broadway was gutted by fire of an undetermined origin. Due to the prompt and efficient work of the Volunteer Fire Department the blaze was confined to the two-story stone hotel building. Those injured were taken to local surgical institutions for medical and surgical aid, while the body of W. P. Reavis, who lost his life in the fire, was taken to the morgue and today is being prepared for burial. The property damage is partially covered by insurance.

The hotel property was owned by E. P. Harper and son, Walter Harper, and the latter was managing the business.

The dead are: W. P. Reavis of Lockyer, San Saba county.

The injured are: Sheriff R. B. Pugh, of Brown county; Homer Reaves, age 32, a farmer, of Ebony; John Chaillet, aged 72, contractor and builder, Brownwood; Bob Martin, aged 65, of Brownwood.

The condition of Sheriff R. B. Pugh was regarded as critical at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At about 2:30 he was conscious and appeared to be rallying splendidly, but thirty minutes later attending surgeons were alarmed by an apparent relapse and much anxiety is now felt for him.

Mr. Pugh suffered concussion of the brain, with the possibility of a slight fracture of the skull; is badly burned about the face, neck and head; has a fracture of the left wrist, and miscellaneous bruises about the body. He is in a local surgical institution.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. WONDER WORDS.

Will Celebrate Completion of Big Irrigation Dam on Rogue River.
Wonder, Or., Oct. 28.
Editor Brady Standard:
Rejoice with us! We have had two rains. Middle of the month it showered a day or two, wet the ground so people could do shallow plowing. And on the 26th it poured down all night and all day yesterday which soaked the ground up in fine shape. In a former letter I told you about the big irrigation dam being built across Rogue river at the Savage Rapids. Well now the dam is done and they are going to have a big celebration over the event. They say the dam is about thirty feet high. It is built of concrete or cement. They also have a cement paved road from Grants Pass to the dam and on up the river as far as Medford in Jackson county. It is not because the water of the Rogue runs so fierce and wild that it is called "Savage Rapids." But it takes its name from a pioneer family by the name of Savage, who first settled there. Lincoln Savage was our county school superintendent for fifteen or twenty years, and he was a good one, too. But when we got woman suffrage and a lady, Mrs. Alice M. Bacon, came out for the office, of course she was elected and Mr. Savage went to teaching again.
I guess I had as well tell you a joke on the high school girls. It is the fashion now for the girls to comb their hair down over their ears. And I maintain it is a very economical fashion as it saves quite a lot of time, and soap. Well, the Sophomores imposed a severe penalty upon the Freshmen by compelling them to go a whole month with their ears uncovered; and for no other reason than that they were "Freshmen."

"ONLY ANOTHER BUICK CAN EVER SATISFY A BUICK OWNER"

"I have owned seventeen Buicks," says Dr. Victor L. Garbutt, Detroit. "During all the years I have driven a Buick I have never had to walk home. And that's going some. I doubt if there is another car on the market that would have given me such service and I know of no car that would have given me better."

There is no proof of an automobile's intrinsic merit so convincing as year-in-and-year-out dependability. Dr. Garbutt speaks from experience.

BRADY, TEXAS, Nov. 4, 1921.

HONEST INJUN.

The more you know, the more you know you ought to know.

A MODEL ROAD.

Some months back, The Standard advocated a mile stretch of model highway, just to give our citizens a taste of what real roads are like. Today, we have that model stretch of road. The 1½ mile highway just completed from the San Saba river crossing on the Mason road this way, is a highway that will compare with any in this section of Texas. It is merely an example of what can be built; of what can be accomplished towards overcoming the all but impassable stretches of roads. It was built with federal supervision. Every operation was checked up; every expenditure came under official examination. There was no chance for the suspicion of graft to creep in. Every dollar expended did 100% duty. That is the modern method of road-building. The result is a stretch of highway that has been passed with government approval. We recommend that our readers take a drive down the Mason road one of these pretty days just to give the road a try-out. It will make a good roads enthusiast out of the most skeptical. It will make him want first-class highways throughout the county. McCulloch county citizens should put over a half million dollar good road bond issue, and do it now. Aside from the lasting benefits that all highways bring, a half million dollars turned loose in McCulloch county right at this particular time would bring opportune industry and prosperity to the citizenship.

THE BRADY SPIRIT.

The Standard is sometimes led to believe that the well-known Brady spirit is enjoying a Rip Van Winkle slumber. Perhaps it has not occurred to our citizens that we are letting pass many an opportunity to build our city and benefit our citizenship, merely through carelessness or indifference. Take for instance, the teachers' consolidated institute, held in Brady in years past and which brought several hundred teachers to our city, is probably lost to Brady because our neighbor, Brownwood, is offering more entertainment and making it a point to show the visiting teachers so many courtesies that they will want to return again. Then the association of county teachers will hold their next meeting in Lohn, just simply because Lohn offered them entertainment, open their homes to the visitors, and showed interest in having the teachers meet with them—while Brady offered nothing.

Brady needs a well-organized standing entertainment committee, whose duty it would be to offer entertainment, provide accommodations, see after the welfare and invite back to our city our visitors from near and from far. Not only does Brady need such a committee, but she needs to have every citizen back of that committee, everyone ready to do his part, and everyone ready to respond when called upon to do his part.

As the saying goes: "Wake up, Rip!"

FIGHTING THE BOLL WEEVIL.

The New Orleans Cotton exchange, the Texas Cotton association, and various other cotton organizations are advocating the waging of war on the boll weevil. They are sending out letters urging that the farmers, immediately on gathering their cotton, burn or turn under the cotton stalks, as the most effective means of exterminating the boll weevil. The weevil is described as a frightful menace to Southern cotton culture, and the warnings add: "It goes without saying that if the weevil menace continues to spread as it has done, it is only a matter of time when our supremacy among the world's cotton growers will end."

RESIGNED TO FATE.

As an example of perfect resignation, we call attention to Editor W. D. Cowan's comment in the San Saba Star anent the removal of the mail clerks on the Santa Fe Lometa-Eden run. Here is the gem:

The mail clerks on the trains running between Lometa and Eden will be taken off the run on the 1st of November. This move in the way of economy we hope will reimburse the department to such an extent so there will be no advance in the price of stamps along the route named. They can transport the mail in a stock car if they want to, just so the price of stamps does not go up.

THE VALUE OF WELCOMING THE TOURIST.

Under the above caption the Dallas News carried an interesting editorial, stressing the value of municipal camp grounds for every municipality and pointing to specific instances where cities have received direct returns on camp ground investments. The editorial follows:

"In a letter to the Can Opener, official publication for Texas of the organization known as the Tin Can Tourists of the World, the secretary-treasurer of the Automobile Club of Texas has some remarks on the value of municipal camping grounds for automobile tourists. He mentions the recently established park of this sort in a certain city in Texas, and then tells of his visit to the park for an inspection. He found in the park at the time tourists from as far west as the state of Washington and as far east as Connecticut. In conversation with these campers he found out some things which demonstrated to him the value of parks of this kind to the cities which support them.

"One man who lived within 100 miles of the city with the camp park and also within 100 miles of another city in Texas had been in need of $80 worth of gold leaf. He knew that he could get it by mail from the city which had no tourist camp, but was not certain as to the city with the 'tin can' park. However, he was about to take an outing anyhow, so he jumped into his car and came to the park. While there he located his gold leaf in town. Inasmuch as there was a local celebration going on at the time, he decided to stay over a while for that, also. Because of the park, the city that established the park, won not only this man's patronage, but also his good will.

THINGS TO THINK ABOUT.

Some two or three years ago Hood county had the worst roads that could be imagined. Where the roads were not one continuous round of bumps, they passed over sand beds that made the automobiles, the passengers and everything concerned therewith, do a veritable "shimmy." More than one automobilist, returning from, or driving to Fort Worth, vowed never again to traverse those roads. Today, these same roads are a veritable pike. Even before you hit the Hood county line, you open the throttle wide, sink back in your seat, relax your tense grip on the steering wheel, and say to yourself, "This is the life." What accomplished this wonder? A road bond issue, with the funds devoted to the building of a highway under federal supervision. Are these roads a paying investment? Evidently they are, for citizens of Granbury, the county seat of Hood county are now advocating a $500,000 road bond issue, $131,000 of which is to take up and replace the road bonds of District No. 1, and the balance, $369,000, to be applied on the roads of Hood county.

What others can do, McCulloch can do. If it pays in Hood county, it will pay in McCulloch. If Hood county citizens are benefited, why should we not want McCulloch citizens to likewise benefit?

"Another camper at the park was from Missouri. He had come to Texas with the intention of locating permanently in this state. While at Denison he noticed that there was a tourist park supported by a larger city to the south. He came with his son to the larger city, camped out, got a job with a mattress house on a commission basis, made $12 the first day, and decided the larger city was a good place to live. Meanwhile he decided to camp at the park until he obtained suitable quarters for his family in the city.

"There were others on the grounds, each car accounting for an expenditure with the merchants of the city of from $3 to $5 a day. How many people, we would ask, are passing up your town, says the writer of the communication to the Can Opener, 'who would stay some time and spend a few dollars a day? The other towns are getting them. Why not you?' There is substance in the query. Also there is a deal of opportunity connected with acting upon its suggestion."

Stover Sampson Windmills

The Most Important Windmill Improvement in Years

The original double geared windmill now possesses the most important windmill improvement in the last decade—HYATT ROLLER BEARINGS. These famous bearings run in tight hard oil cases and will run for years without attention. These bearings entirely replace the babbitt bearings formerly used and eliminate friction to such an extent as to increase pumping capacity, prevent harmful wear on shafts and greatly add to the dependability and life of the 8-, 9- and 10-foot Stover Samson Windmill on which they are installed.

The fact that practically nine out of every ten motor cars, trucks and tractors are equipped with them best attests the added efficiency and economy of operation the installation of Hyatt Roller Bearings imparts to all 8-, 9- and 10-foot Stover Samson Windmills.

In the Stover Samson Windmill of today is found the highest windmill development. Cost limitations have not interfered with the use of everything in the way of materials and features necessary to make the Samson the most durable, efficient and thoroughly practical, long-lived windmill on the market today.

We have the Samson windmills in stock both in the plain and Hyatt Roller Bearings. We especially call attention to the Roller Bearing Mill, because it is noiseless, oil-less, only needs to be oiled once in the lifetime of the mill.

WE WOULD APPRECIATE A CALL AND AN OPPORTUNITY TO SHOW YOU THIS MILL. THE PRICE IS VERY REASONABLE. WE ALSO CARRY A COMPLETE STOCK OF PARTS FOR THE SAMSON MILLS.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Young Carlyle Wilburton Dale, or "Bill Dale," as he elects to be known, son of a wealthy coal operator, John K. Dale, arrives at the Halfway Switch, in eastern Tennessee, abandoning a life of idle ease and incidentally a bride, Patricia Clavering, at the altar. He meets "Babe," Littleford, typical mountaineer girl, by Heck, a character of the hills, takes him to John Moreland's home. Moreland is chief of his "clan," which has an old feud with the Littlefords. He tells Dale of the killing of his brother, David Moreland, years ago, owner of rich coal deposits, by a man named Carlyle. Moreland's description of "Carlyle" causes Dale to believe the man was his father.

CHAPTER II—Dale arranges to make his home with the Moreland family, for whom he entertains a deep respect.

CHAPTER III—Talking with "Babe" Littleford next day, Dale is ordered by "Black Adam" Ball, bully of the district, to leave "his girl" alone. Dale replies spiritedly, and they fight. Dale whips the bully, though by using the advantages with John Moreland to develop David's coal deposits. Ben Littleford sends a challenge to John Moreland to meet him with his followers next day, in battle. Moreland agrees.

CHAPTER IV—During the night all the guns belonging to the Littlefords and the Morelands mysteriously disappear.

CHAPTER V—Dale arranges to go to Cincinnati to secure money for the mining of the coal. The two clans find their weapons, which the women had hidden, and line up for battle. "Babe," in an effort to stop the fighting, crosses to the Moreland side of the river, and is accidentally shot by her father and seriously wounded.

CHAPTER VI—To get proper surgical aid, John Moreland, Ben Littleford and Dale convey "Babe," unconscious, to the city. Doctors assure them she is not seriously hurt. Dale meets an old friend, Bobby McLaurin, who had married Patricia Clavering. Telling his father of David Moreland's coal, the old settler's man's actions convince his son of his father's guilt in the killing of Moreland.

CHAPTER VII—It is arranged that "Babe" is to stay with Mrs. McLaurin to be educated. Dale, refusing his father's proffered financial aid to develop the mine, interests Newton Wheatley, capitalist, who agrees to furnish the money. Dale realizes he loves "Babe."

CHAPTER VIII—Returning to the Halfway Switch, Dale meets Major Bradley, lawyer, and real friend of the mountaineers, whom he engages as counsel for the company. A man named Goff, of evil repute, tries to bribe Dale to betray the Morelands by selling him the coal deposits and telling them they are of little value. Dale attempts to thrash him, but Goff draws a revolver. Dale is unarmed.

CHAPTER IX—Goff enlists the aid of a turbulent crowd, the Balls and Torreys, to make trouble for Dale's company. The Littlefords and Morelands agree to forget the old feud and dwell in harmony.

CHAPTER X—"Babe" returns to her home, feeling she is a burden to the McLaurins. Dale, remorseless, and she agrees to go back, for the sake of an education. Waylaid by "Black Adam" Ball, Dale fights a pistol duel with the desperado and Ball is killed. Dale is arrested and taken to jail at Cartersville. He doesn't see how his shot could have killed Ball.

CHAPTER XI—There is much speculation as to who really killed Ball, the general opinion being it was by Heck, who had constituted himself Dale's guardian.

CHAPTER XIII—On the pretext of investigating another coal deposit, Dale is decoyed to a gathering of the Balls and Torreys. They "try" him for the murder of Adam Ball, find him guilty, and sentence him to be hanged next day. He is rescued by Heck, who is forced to leave the neighborhood.

CHAPTER XIV—"Babe" writes Dale that she is living with her parents and that her education is progressing. Jimmy Fayne, rich and dissolute, asks "Babe" to marry him, but she tells him she loves Dale.

CHAPTER XV—"Babe" comes to Cartersville to a trial. Dale is acquitted of the murder of Adam Ball. Dale asks "Babe" to marry him. She loves him, but tells him she cannot be his wife.

CHAPTER XVI—"Babe" tells Mrs. Dale her son had asked her to marry him and that she refused. Pressed for a reason, she confesses she killed Adam Ball to save Dale's life, and that she feels she is not worthy to be his wife.

CHAPTER XVII—Jimmy Fayne presses his suit. "Babe" finally and definitely refuses him, though he promises that if she will marry him, he will help and educate the Littlefords, the girl's dearest wish.

CHAPTER XVIII—Learning that the Balls and their kindred are planning to attack the place and kill him, Dale gathers the Littleford and Moreland clans for a last fight against the outlaws. The Balls are wounded and rounded up. A small boy is sent to kill Dale, but his generosity conquers the little fellow. Dale and the clan chiefs release the outlaws, giving them their freedom.

CHAPTER XIX—With "Babe," old John K. Dale visits David Moreland's grave. The girl has long since guessed the grim secret of Dale's life, the killing of David Moreland in a drunken rage. John Moreland meets the old man at the grave and asks him to kill him. "Babe" pleads for him. Learning he is "Bill" Dale's father, Moreland relents and faintly tells her the truth and forgets the past.

Soon after the many rifles became a steady roar. The air was filled with the pungent odor of burning powder. Bill Dale emptied the magazine of his repeater, and sank behind the big chestnut to fill it again with cartridges from his belt. Bullets now whined on both sides of him; they cut greenish white furrows in the bark of both sides of the tree, and knocked up little spurts of black earth to his right and to his left; they cut off twigs within an arm's reach of him. A dozen Balls were now firing at him, seeking to avenge planned out to hang em on a big green hemlock as a Christmas tree fo' Bill! Some devilish rough Christmas eve ye're a-havin', Bill, old boy, ain't it?"

"Rather," smiled Dale. He closed his eyes. His head ached, and he was somehow very tired.

Within the hour he went to sleep, and when he awoke it was daylight on Christmas morning. Ben Littleford, half dressed, was stirring the coals to life in the wide-mouthed stone fireplace. Dale felt better than he had expected to feel; he greeted Littleford with the compliments of the season, arose and dressed himself.

Littleford had just gone with a handful of kindling wood toward the kitchen, when there was a low, tight tapping at the outside door of Bill Dale's room. Dale arose from his sheepskin-lined rocker before the cheery log fire, went to the door and opened it. Before him stood a slim, barefoot boy in the poorest of rags; in the pitifully slender arms there was something wrapped rather loosely in crumpled brown paper. Dale did not remember having seen the lad before, but he knew it was no Littleford.

"Come in, son," he invited cordially—"come in and warm yourself. My goodness alive, it's too cold to go barefooted like that! Haven't you any shoes, son?"

"Shoes?" muttered the boy, queerly. "Shoes?"

He was shivering from the cold. His thin face looked pinched and blue, his eyes big and hollow. Dale stooped, picked him up bodily, carried him to the old rocker he had just vacated, and put him into it with hands as gentle as any woman's.

"H—I," began the boy, staring hard—"what—"

"Now stick your feet out and warm them, son—that's it," and Dale chafed the poor little, dirty, half-frozen feet and legs.

"Son," he went on after a moment, his heart throbbing out of sheer pity, "you go to the commissary clerk and tell him to dress you up like the crown prince of England, if he's got it, and charge the same to the account of Bill Dale. It will be my Christmas gift to you, little boy. What's your name?"

The lad turned his surprised black eyes upon the face of the big and sun-browned man.

"Are you Bill Dale?"

"Yes."

That which the boy said next struck

A few minutes later, Bill Dale sent the wings of his line down the mountainside, forming a half-circle of his force once more; then the whole line rushed, surrounded the enemy and called for a surrender.

But the Balls and their kinsmen wouldn't give in yet. They left their cover and started to run, found themselves facing Morelands and Littlefords in every direction, clubbed their rifles and fought. It was not true courage that prompted them to offer resistance thus; it was utter desperation; they had never been givers of mercy, therefore they did not expect mercy. Dale's men foreknew to fire upon them, which was at Dale's command, and met them with clubbed rifles. The woodland rang with the sound of wood and steel crashing against wood and steel. Everywhere there were groans and threats and curses from the losing side, victorious cries and further demands for a surrender from the winners.

Bill Dale, ever a lover of fair combat, threw down his repeater to grapple with a big North Carolinian whose clubbed weapon had been knocked from his hands. The two fell and rolled down the mountainside, locked in each other's arms.

And then one of the Balls struck Bill Dale across the head with the butt of his empty gun, and Bill Dale slacked his arms and lay as one dead.

He was lying under cover in a hand-carved black walnut fourposter, and it was night, when he opened his eyes again. Above him he saw the bearded faces of Ben Littleford and John Moreland, and they looked haggard and anxious in the oil lamp's yellow light. Suddenly Moreland spoke:

"Dead—nothin'!" jubilantly. "Look, Ben; he's done come to! Ye couldn't put him in a cannon and shoot him ag'inst a cliff and kill him, Ben! I hope ye're a-feelin' all right, Bill, shore."

Dale realized everything quite clearly. He put a hand to his head; there was a wet cloth lying over the swollen place.

"He shore give ye a buster of a lick," drawled a voice that Dale instantly recognized as that of his worshiper, By Heck. "Danged of Cale Moreland didn't nigh tigh it beat him to death, Bill!"

Many men crowded to the bedside and smiled at him, and he smiled back at them. Soon he asked:

"Did you capture the outfit?"

"Every durned one of 'em," answered John Moreland. "They're all shut up tight in the downstairs of the office building, onder yard. They ain't but one of 'em plumb teetotally dead, fo' a wonder; but the's a whole passel of 'em hurt. I've done sent Luke to town on hossback, after a doctor fo' you and Saul and Little Tom; and he can 'tend to them crippled Balls, too, I reckon, ef you think it's best. What're we a-goin' to do with them fellers, Bill?"

"We're going to take them to the Cartersville jail," Dale answered promptly.

"I had a different plan 'n that planned out, John," said By Heck, winking at Ben Littleford. "I had it

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Contractor Chas. Horn has this week completed the placing of a street crossing from the Simpson & Co. garage to the Commercial National bank corner, which leaves but two crossing breaks in the concrete walks which circle the square.

The Standard is extending somewhat tardy congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spiller upon the arrival of a little playmate for their son—a pretty little girl, born Sunday, October 23rd. Father Fred has been so busy dancing attendance upon his new sweetheart that he did not have time to acquaint us with the happy event.

Word received here by Mr. and Mrs. J. T. H. Miller announced the arrival of a dandy baby boy, weight 8 pounds, on October 27th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller at San Marcos. Quite naturally, the happy grandparents think there is no grander grandson, than the new arrival, who has been named Henry Barber Miller.

A brilliant meteor fell on Wednesday night of last week, October 26th, apparently due north of Brady. The phenomenon occurred at 11:30 o'clock and the meteor illuminated the earth with an intense blue-white light during the few seconds that it was observed. While but few citizens observed it, owing to the lateness of the hour, a number report having been awakened by the illumination.

Joe Campbell spent part of last week in Milan county, visiting his former home, about 7 miles north of Thorndale. He reports conditions in that section of the country indescribably bad, and says it is impossible to estimate the flood damage done. He confirms the report that many large and wealthy planters were completely wiped out by the floods, which swept away their houses, barns, live stock, feed and food, leaving them with not enough to feed their renters and employes. Joe says McCulloch never looked better to him than now.

The city's present plan of getting our streets in good shape appears to meet with universal approval, and has had the effect of putting those thoroughfares which have heretofore been well nigh impassable, in fairly good shape. During the past ten days, practically all of the downtown streets have been torn up with the scarifier, regraded and re-rolled. The dry weather has kept the rolling from doing as good work as would have been done, had the streets been wet down, but at that, they are so wonderfully improved as to warrant commendation.

J. C. Mayhew returned Wednesday morning from a six-weeks' visit in his boyhood home at Lafayette Springs, Miss., and also a visit of several days with his sons at Fort Worth and Cisco. He says that while he enjoyed his visits greatly, he was never more convinced that McCulloch is the best place on earth. He never saw such business stagnation, and such depression as in the places he visited. The oil boom bubble that burst, left Cisco with all business overdone, and with an overgrown residential district. J. C. says all you have to do is take a trip away from home, if you really want to appreciate what a good place Brady and McCulloch county is.

Harry Irwin, who went to Mexico in company of W. H. Goodner the past week, returned to Brady more than ever pleased with this place as a business location. He reports that he never saw as many broke men, and men wanting work, as there are at Mexico, and says if a man wanted to open a restaurant there and feed on credit, he would do a land-office business. Mr. Irwin says that the general business slack in Texas, has caused a great rush of the unemployed to Mexico, and that it will be a long time before things settle down to normal, and the general business conditions become good there. Mr. Goodner remained at Mexico, being employed in a garage, along with R. E. Wilman, formerly mechanic with the Simpson & Co. garage.

"So You're Bill Dale, Well, D— My Soul!"

the big and unbrowned man with all the force of a bullet.

"So you're Bill Dale, Well, D— my soul!"

"Don't, buddy, don't!"

The boy went on: "My name, it's Henry. I come here with a Christmas gift fo' you." He pointed a dirty forefinger toward the bundle in his lap. "But you ain't a-goin' to git it now."

"Why?" Dale asked smilingly.

"Why! Shoes—'at's why. H—I, did I ever have any shoes afore? Barefooted as a rabbit. That's me. Barefooted as a d—n rabbit!"

"Son," protested Bill Dale, "you're entirely too small to swear. You mustn't do it, y'know."

"Yes," quickly, "I'm small. I'm small to my age. I'm done twelve year old. I've been measured fo' the go-backs."

"Measured for the go-backs," laughed Dale, "what's that?"

"Why," soberly, "when ye grow littler 'stid o' bigger, ye've got the go-backs. Maw, she measured me with a yarn string out o' a stocking which had been wore by a woman seventy-seven-year old, and 'en she wrapped the yarn string around the door-hinge, I'll 'git to grow higher, or die, one o' 'other, afore the string wears out on the hinge. RHYMES OF THE TIMES

By Evangelist Campbell.

That Reminds Me.
A certain Postmaster named Blank,
Heard a noise at which his heart sank;
In the night among chickens,
In the night among chickens,
"That's a skunk, for the odor is rank."

Another young man from the city,
Saw what he tho't was a kitty;
He gave it a pat,
And soon after that—
He buried his clothes, what a pity.

This is one place where fails Christian Science
The facts overrules all defiance;
Whether a man or a cat,
It's a skunk, fo'r-a—that—
If he's under "odiferous" compliance.

The human pole-cat looks a dandy,
He's got the sweet looks of pure candy.
But inside he is punk,
At heart he's a skunk—
Should be branded with first thing that's handy.

T. O. SQUYRES RETURNS FROM THE DELCO-LIGHT DEALERS CONVENTION

T. O. Squyres, representing F. R. Wulff, Delco-Light dealer, has just returned from a convention of the district dealers in this state, held at the new Texas Hotel, at Fort Worth, on the 25th and 26th of October.

One of the purposes of this convention was to discuss the electric refrigerator which the Delco-Light company is placing on the market through this section at this time. Mr. Squyres states that while it is a new product so far as this particular territory is concerned, there are now over 6,000 in successful operation throughout the country and some of these have been in use over five years.

It is said that this refrigerator will make its own ice, will maintain a temperature about 20 degrees colder than the average icebox so that it gives the same results in a home that a large cold storage plant does in the cities. Its operating cost, Mr. Squyres states, is very low and it will actually pay for itself in five to seven years time, not considering its advantages from the standpoint of convenience, sanitation and health.

Mr. Squyres also states that his company is now in a position to furnish electric light and power plants ranging in price from $295.00 to $1,805.00 so that he feels they are in position to furnish electricity for practically any size home or place of business.

The other new products which his company will put on the market about the first of the year, includes a specially built electric washing machine and an electric deep well pump. Mr. Squyres is of the opinion that with the line of products his company can now offer, there is no reason why people in the rural districts can't have all the convenience that people living in the city have had for so long.

Mr. Squyres comes back with the report that the Delco-Light company's business is showing a considerable increase during the past 60 days and that they feel that from now on conditions will show a steady and permanent improvement.

"The Honest Gentile," will be the subject for the morning hour. I expect to present this in the form of a drama, but it is not just a moral lecture, but a real Gospel message that I would like so much for you to hear. The evening services begin promptly at seven o'clock, and the subject for that hour will be: "The Kingdom of Christ Established." This is a great Bible message and I am especially anxious that you hear it.

Please remember that the Sunday school offering next Sunday goes to the Orphans' Homes at Dallas.

An Open Letter.

To the members and friends of the Methodist church of Brady, Texas, Greeting:

It gives me no small pleasure to be returned to you again as Pastor for another year. Indeed, I am very grateful and deeply appreciate the good fellowship and splendid co-operation of each and every one of you during the year just passed. Our report at the great Conference just closed was one among the very best; in fact, we stood in the 100% list, and how could that be excelled? But, for all this no one person can or will dare, to claim the credit? This was the work and earnest efforts of the combined church and its many friends. You have been faithful and true, and this accounts for the success and the progress of the past year. No preacher can lead to victory, unless he has a willing and efficient following. We thank God for your faithfulness in the past. You have held up our hands and God has been with and blessed us. Now then, shall we stop? No, indeed not! My motto for the New Year is: "Onward and Upward."

How I want the Methodist church of Brady to be the Devil's avowed enemy and the Sinner's best friend. Sure, for the Devil's pitchfork is made of iniquity and pointed with sin and its touch is blight and death. I'm the friend of any man who is of our Christ, but the friendship of humanity will do little good, unless it leads the sinner to make friends with Jesus. Shall we not remember that the arrow of God's Word is pointed with truth and love, and that it will penetrate the fog of doubt and carry the message of Salvation? Then together, with honest effort, let's draw the bow and send out this arrow.

Church attendance, in itself, has never, and never will save a soul; but church attendance is one of the great means of Grace, that God has always used by which the unsaved are brought to Christ. With this fact in view, your pastor craves the continued and even more faithful co-operation in bringing the people to the House of God.

Our subject next Sunday at 11:00 o'clock will be: "Alone With God—Holy Communion;" and at 7:00 p. m. (note the hour) "The Old Time Religion." Say, why not start in with us in the beginning of the year, and be real faithful in attendance! That's fine—come right on. Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. The Epworth league will meet next Sunday at 6:00 p. m.

Your new pastor,
S. C. DUNN.
