GASOLINE TANK CARS SPILL AS TRAIN DITCHED

An unusual accident, and one fraught with serious consequences, occurred on the Frisco last Saturday night when some five or six tank cars loaded with gasoline went into the ditch between Tolar and Bluffdale, and about 50 miles out of Fort Worth. One of the tank cars had its contents spilled out, and a couple others were leaking so badly as to endanger the entire vicinity by reason of possibility of an explosion. No attempt was made to operate trains past the scene of the wreck either Sunday or Monday. The passenger from the Brady end of the line ran through to Stephenville, then backed down to the scene of the wreck, while the Frisco passenger out of Fort Worth left that station about 3:00 a. m., instead of 11:00 p. m. and ran down to the wreck, where passengers, mail and express were transferred from one train to the other. Something like two hours were consumed in making the transfer, and in the meantime the extra-long run made by the passenger on the south end of the line caused several additional hours' delay. The train scheduled to reach Brady Sunday morning shortly after 8:00 did not reach here until 4:20 p. m., while Monday's train was about 7 hours behind schedule.

The wreckage had been cleared sufficiently yesterday to enable the train this morning to come all the way through, reaching Brady on time as usual.

SIX DEER IS BAG OF THREE PARTIES OF BRADY HUNTERS THE PAST WEEK

Dr. Wm. C. Jones and B. L. Malone composed a hunting party which last week went "south" until they reached favorable wilds, where two mighty bucks fell before the unerring aim of the amiable doctor, as a result of which venison steaks and hams and spare ribs have been part of the daily fare of the two, both while in camp and following their return home the first of the week. "Pat" did not have quite such good fortune, and while he got several long distance shots, the bucks refused to set as a target for his practice. However, "Pat" says he did not get skunked, but got a skunk with the aid of a rock and a mighty heave of his trusty right arm.

The second party reported even greater luck, bagging three deer, two of which, however, spoiled before they could be brought home, by reason of the rain and warm weather. This party was composed of Messrs. Earl McCall, Otto Kinman, Fred Connor and Joe Tindle. They left last Thursday, traveled out below Sonora towards the Del Rio country, where they camped the first night out, and made it back into Brady Saturday night. Credit for all three bucks goes to Mr. McCall. The first was shot about 300 yards from camp, and charged straight for the camp falling when within 100 yards of that place.

To Walter Adkins, who returned Friday evening from camp with members of the Adkins family goes the credit for having downed a buck on long range. He also got two turkeys with one shot during his short stay in camp, having to return ahead of time in order to accompany the football team to San Angelo Saturday. Walter has the distinction of "a buck a year" for three successive years.

BALLOTING PROMISES TO BE VERY LIGHT—ONLY 150 VOTERS REGISTERED UP TO NOON

Despite all the furor and excitement over the senatorial campaign, which was continued up to and past the eleventh hour, no record vote promises to be cast in McCulloch county. In fact, the vote will probably be about as slim as is usually the case in general elections. Up to noon today, but 153 voters had registered at the Brady polling place.

The McCulloch county ballots, which have been printed since last Saturday all carry the name of Earle B. Mayfield as the Democratic nominee for senator. This is in accord with the latest ruling of the Secretary of State's office. However, had any attempt been made to keep up with the Secretary of State's rulings in the matter, the ballots would have been printed and reprinted half a dozen times. Even as late as Sunday, Secretary of State, S. L. Staples, wired that the name of Earle B. Mayfield should be printed on the ballots, and then within an hour sent another telegram reversing the opinion.

In the last few days the candidacy of Andy Gump, 100% for the people, and who wears no man's collar, threatened to eclipse interest of the other contenders, and, as the saying goes, "if" the campaign had run a few weeks longer, Andy Gump would doubtless have been elected by a unanimous vote.

VICTIM OF BALLINGER TRAGEDY IS AT BROWNWOOD FOR TREATMENT

A young man by the name of Copeland was brought to a sanitarium in Brownwood today from Ballinger, in a precarious condition. From the best available information it appears that Copeland and another young man were rooming together. The other man had picked up an alleged bunch of trouble, so the report said that caused him to think he might need the quick service of a six shooter of the 45-calibre type and he was sleeping with doors fastened against intruders. It was late in the night when his friend returned and found the doors locked. Knocking failed to arouse the sleeper and so he went around to a window, tapped on it pretty lively and the friend inside roused up as the man outside thought to let him in but instead drew his cannon and cut down on his friend outside who had struck a match and was lighting his pipe. The ball from the 45 plowed through the body of the friend and lodged against the skin on the opposite side and the chances for recovery are considered doubtful.—Brownwood Bulletin.

TEMPLE RAILROADER LOSES LEG FROM LIGHTNING BOLT

Temple, Nov. 2.—The loss of a leg caused by a bolt of lightning is the tragic but unusual fate of J. A. Whitehurst, roundhouse foreman for the Santa Fe railway at San Augustine. Whitehurst has been a patient at the railway hospital here since September 4th. On the night of the previous day while he was on duty in his office a light storm blew up. A blinding, deafening crash of lightning struck inside the office. Whitehurst says he was hurled to the floor and when he sought to rise to his feet discovered that his left foot was severed cleanly just above the ankle and the stump bleeding terribly. A special train brought him to the hospital here, Whitehurst is now just able to leave the institution. He is well known over the system, having been with the railway company for twenty-two years.

BUSINESS EXPANSION AIM OF BRADY MERCHANTS IN STANDARD EDITION

THE BRADY STANDARD WILL VISIT EVERY HOME THROUGHOUT TRADE TERRITORY NEXT WEEK ACQUAINTING CITIZENS WITH EXCEPTIONAL BARGAINS

November 20th-25th is TRADE EXPANSION WEEK in Brady. It is the week set aside in which The Standard, with the hearty co-operation of the merchants and business men of Brady, will undertake to extend Brady's trade influence to the furthest corner of Brady's trade territory. Not only will every home in McCulloch county be visited next week by The Standard, but every home in Menard county as well. More than that, all the counties adjoining McCulloch, and which offer Brady a splendid trade opportunity, will likewise be visited. This latter includes all the North half of Mason county, the West half of San Saba county and the East half of Concho county. In other words, The Brady Standard's Trade Expansion edition next week will be designed to cover all of Brady's trade territory in the five counties named—McCulloch, Menard, Mason, San Saba and Concho—like the snow covers the mountain peak.

This Trade Expansion week idea is not a mere notion, nor is it an idle thought. For several weeks The Standard editor has considered the matter from every angle and position, and has confided his plans to several of our leading business men. With one accord, the entire plan has met with universal approval. The Standard is assured of hearty co-operation from all lines of business, and the citizens in the territory to be reached are assured that Brady merchants, from the rising of the sun, and the breaking of day on Monday, November 20th through the entire week to the fall of night on Saturday, November 25th, are going to put forth such special efforts as will, once for all, establish Brady as the premier market of all this section of Texas.

There is no question but what Brady has annually lost a great volume of trade simply because her trade territory was not fully covered, and

HEALTH OFFICER CRADDOCK WANTS SPECIMENS OF MOSQUITOES IN BRADY VICINITY

Dr. B. L. Craddock, City Health officer, is in receipt of an invitation from J. H. Florence, State Health officer, asking him to attend a conference on Mosquito Eradication, which is to be held at the Rice hotel in Houston on Friday, November 10th. Incidentally, Dr. Craddock is requested to catch about 12 mosquitoes in different sections of the town and either bring them with him, or forward them to Dr. Florence for examination.

Dr. Craddock states that this is one of the biggest undertakings of the state health department of Texas, and that the best talent in the country, including such pre-eminent physicians as LePrince, Bass and others, will be there to give counsel in the work of eradication. Of course, Dr. Craddock is very anxious to attend, and it is likely that the city council will authorize his going to the convention.

Regardless of whether or not he goes, Dr. Craddock is anxious to secure specimens of mosquitoes, and asks the citizens to assist him in collecting them from various sections of the town.

PRISONERS BREAK BALLINGER JAIL; NEGRO AND WHITE MAN ARE RECAPTURED

Ballinger, Nov. 2.—A negro and a white man made their escape from the county jail by rushing the jailer at 9:00 o'clock this morning. They were captured by Sheriff Flynt, John Weeks and R. W. Earnshaw about a mile east of town.

The white man was armed with big rocks and was threatening Earnshaw, who was unarmed when Weeks came up from one side and covered him with a pistol.

The white man was under arrest for stealing an auto during the county fair and the negro for burglary of a residence in Concho county.

MISS WINTERS, HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT, ORGANIZING CLUBS ALL OVER COUNTY

Miss Bess Winters visited the school at Camp San Saba Friday and after a splendid talk and explanation being made of the work there was an enrollment of seventeen girls. Miss Winters is County Home Demonstration Agent of McCulloch county and we are indeed glad to secure the services of Miss Winters, as she is very accomplished in her line of work. We hope, in this particular work to learn more about poultry and canning, as we want more poultry, more tin cans, better poultry and better canning. The ladies of Camp San Saba joined in with the girls and organized them a club known as Home Demonstration club, with this motto: "Can All U Can."

Miss Winters addressed the patrons and students of the Mercury school Friday and was successful in organizing the girls into Poultry and Gardening clubs, and also organized the women into a Woman's club. On November 15th at Mrs. D. Pumphrey's home, a demonstration will be given by the county home demonstration agent on the canning of meats.

Miss Winters, county home demonstration agent, met the Parent Teachers association at Rochelle Thursday and organized a Woman's club, with an enrollment of 14 women, also a girl's club with a large enrollment.

WEST TEXAS COMING INTO ITS OWN SAYS PETTIBONE

With the cotton crop much better in West Texas than was anticipated, and with the price holding up well beyond the most sanguine expectations, there is a song of happiness and gladness throughout this section of the greatest state in the Union. The feed crops were good, and now with reasonable moisture, there promises to be a large acreage of oats put in, which means that the farmers will thereby save immensely on feed throughout the winter. Wherever you go, there are fields so green and inviting as to make one feel that it is Spring instead of the Fall of the year. And this idea is lent weight by the balmy atmosphere and sunny days.

Here is the observation of one of Texas' best-known citizens upon the spirit of prosperity and optimism prevailing throughout this section:

"West Texas has again come into its own," said Mr. F. G. Pettibone, vice-president and general manager of the Gulf Coast & Santa Fe railway, who was in Brady Wednesday morning, completing an inspection of his properties. "There is a strong feeling of optimism and prosperity among the farmers," continued Mr. Pettibone, "which is also evidenced by the fact that the banks have an abundance of money." Mr. Pettibone and party are traveling on track section motor cars, enabling them to visit with all patrons of the railway and get their point of view that Santa Fe service may be maintained to their mutual advantage.

Accompanying Mr. Pettibone are Messrs. W. E. Maxson, Assistant General Manager; K. S. Hull, Division Superintendent; W. W. Wilson, Division Engineer; J. G. Fitzhugh, Safety Superintendent; Mr. J. S. Purdy, Division Freight Agent.

SANTA FE FREIGHT WRECK AT KILLEEN MONDAY MORNING DELAYS ON MAIN LINE

The Santa Fe experienced quite a bad spill Monday morning near Killeen, when twenty freight cars were piled up in the ditch. Fortunately no one was injured in the disaster. Traffic on the main line was tied up pending the clearing of the track, which was accomplished late yesterday evening, and as a result the main line trains are running on schedule once more. The local Santa Fe train out of Lometa came through on schedule time yesterday, but minus mails and passengers, which were held behind the wreck.

BRADY TRADE EXPANSION WEEK.

In evolving the idea of a "Brady Trade Expansion Week." The Standard has endeavored to make the title fit the plan. In other words, Brady's Trade Expansion week is to be a sincere and united effort upon the part of the citizens and particularly the business men of Brady to acquaint not only the folks who regularly trade here, but the citizens throughout this trade territory with the special advantages offered by Brady as a market, both in which to buy and to sell. It is an effort to draw trade from a greater distance, to enlarge the circle of Brady trade influence—to expand our trade territory so as to include every community tributary to Brady as a common center. It has unexcelled and unequalled facilities for handling all business that comes our way. We have the wholesale markets, the retail markets; markets for buyers and sellers. We have transportation facilities, and direct connections with all the important outside markets, such as few towns can boast. Why, then, should Brady not draw trade from throughout this section?

The Standard appeals to every business man and merchant of Brady to unite in this effort to pull more business, better business from all our surrounding trade territory. Make your offers worth while. Make Brady's market the best place to buy and to sell in this entire section. Let's make the name and fame of Brady a household word in every home within a radius of a hundred miles.

REV. J. F. LAWLIS TRANSFERS TO N-W TEX. CONF.

Members of the Brady M. E. church are advised that the Rev. J. F. Lawlis, pastor of the Methodist church at Lampasas, and who was assigned the local church at the recent West Texas conference held in Lampasas, has been transferred to the Northwest Texas conference, and has by that body been given the pastorate of the church at Colorado City. The transfer, it is understood, was made at Rev. Lawlis' own request and was due to the fact that he had relatives and also owned property at Colorado City.

The local church will be supplied by transfer of a pastor from the Northwest Texas conference, and while that body has just closed its session, announcement of the appointment for Brady church has so far not been made. Two pastors were transferred from the Northwest Texas conference to the West Texas conference, and it is very likely that one of these will be assigned to Brady.

J. M. Pate was a Waco visitor last Saturday, and incidentally was one of the 20,000 rooters who saw Baylor university defeat A. & M. in one of the most spectacular football games of the year. Mr. Pate says he never realized just how hard two teams might fight to win a game, until he saw this, and that it was one of the greatest attractions of the Cotton Palace Exposition. Another great sight was the immense and gorgeous parade staged there, and which was most inspiring. Baylor's victory was the first over A. & M. in years, and Baylor so far this year has not suffered a single defeat. The score was 13 to 7.

An Ancient English Village

ABOUT SIX miles southeast of the ancient town of Cirencester, with its Roman memories and, perhaps, the finest church porch that England can show, and some three miles north of the quaint townlet of Cricklade, redolent of Anglo-Saxon history, and boasting a central lantern tower to its church unmatched in all Wiltshire, lies the charming village of Down Ampney—one of four Ampney villages that cluster to the east of Cirencester. The village is right away from the church and the manor house. The trusting stranger visiting it from either of the above-mentioned towns should be warned that he is coming to an inn-less Eden, where the "good entertainment for man and beast" that used to be the boast of our village hostleries is not to be had; nor will he find it in the neighboring village of Latton, just across the Wiltshire border. It is far to say that both villages seem to get along very comfortably without inns; only the stranger within their gates suffers from the austere virtue of the natives, writes Henry Martin Gibbs in Country Life.

The beauty of the surrounding country, the limestone soil—we are here on the border of the Cotswolds—and the keenly bracing air must be taken as compensating natural advantages. It is a country of rich pastures, trout streams and water meadows, where "the willows by the brooks" are a familiar feature; and far away stretch out blue distances, ranges of hills, copses and church spires—a strangely peaceful country, in which hardly a sound seems to break the stillness, and in this war-time, bereft of its male population, it seems doubly deserted. Yet the broad high roads are there, the roads that were made near two thousand years ago by the Roman conquerors. They stretch out across the flat foreground into the dim perspective of the horizon—the Ermine Way and the Fosse Way crossing each other at Cirencester like the arms of a St. Andrew's cross.

Where the Romans Camped.

Naturally, such a country is rich in legends of titanic conflicts between Roman and Briton, Briton and Saxon, Saxon and Dane. Cirencester, as its name tells us, was a Roman castrum of some importance, and the town abounds in relics of the Roman occupation, which took place about the year 50 A. D. At Chedworth, close to the Fosse Way, some 12 miles north of Down Ampney, the remains of a Roman villa—one of the four first-rate ones found in this country—were discovered in 1864. The fact that four crosses were found here—one of the few positive evidences of Romano-British Christianity in Gloucestershire—lends additional interest to this discovery.

Cirencester, with the other Romano-British cities of Bath and Gloucester, fell to the Saxon conquerors in 577, but it was the best part of a century later before Christianity, crushed out by this Hun invasion of old time, was reintroduced under the auspices of Wulfher, king of Mercia. A later wave of invasion—this time by the Danes—took place in 965, when Cricklade was pillaged, and the same town was taken and plundered by the followers of Cnut a century later. The Norman invasion seems to have been a more gradual affair—more like the "peaceful penetration" of our own times. No doubt the Saxon thane and eorl gave place to intruding Normans, but the bulk of the population, serfs and freemen, were probably but little disturbed by the new order.

One other event of more than local importance occurred in those far-off times, which must not be left unrecorded. At the northern end of the bridge or ford of the River Thames, which takes its rise not far from here at a place called Aust, in 693 St. Augustine of Canterbury held his celebrated conference with the bishops and doctors of the British church.

The House and Church.

Down Ampney is near enough to this famous spot to be permitted to share its fame. Enough has been said to indicate the historical interest as well as the natural charms of the setting. Let us turn to the house and church.

Doubtless both occupy the sites of far older buildings. We may take it that there was a settlement here under the Saxon sway, and probably during the Roman occupation; how far earlier it is useless to speculate. And though the church has nothing to show of earlier date than the charming late-twelfth century arcades of its nave, we may assume that these were pierced through older Norman or Saxon walls.

Similarly, the house stands upon the site of a manor house which was old when the manor was granted by Edmund, Earl of Lancaster, a son of Henry III. to Sir Nicholas de Villiers, in 1270. But it would be difficult to point to stonework even of that date, though probably it exists in the foundations and the core of some of the walls.

The Hungerford family came into possession in about 1361, and remained lords of the manor till 1658. The architectural features of the present house date from a rebuilding in 1537, when the house belonged to the Hungerfords. Sir Anthony Hungerford, who succeeded his father, Sir John, in 1525, was the bulwark of the charming gate-house, of the great hall, and certain other works, many of which have vanished in later rebuildings, or have been metamorphosed into more modern forms. The estates were purchased by an ancestor of the earl of St. Germans, the present owner, early in the eighteenth century.

Down Ampney church, as might be expected, has many links with the lords of the hall, which it so closely adjoins. It is, in fact, abreast of the gate-house. Its chief feature is the beautiful thirteenth century tower and stone spire. The upper stage of the tower has its windows designed in a sort of arcade, with moulded arches and shafts, and over this a parapet with block corbels. The stonework, though weather-stained and lichen-encrusted, is extraordinarily sharp, and has preserved the peculiar orange-pink color natural to it. A clerestoried nave and aisles, south porch, transepts and chancel, with modern vestry and organ-chamber, complete the plan.

SALIF TAKEN FROM TURKS

Small Port on Arabian Red Sea Coast Has Important Salt Works.

Salif, which has lately been taken from the Turks by ships of the British East Indies squadron, is a small port on the Arabian Red Sea coast situated about 200 miles north of Perim. Its export trade was salt obtained from mines in the interior. It was taken with the loss of one man on the British side. Ninety-four prisoners, two mountain battery guns and three machine guns, with stores, harbor plant and baggage camels, fell into the hands of the British. Salif was protected formerly by the Turkish fort and garrison of the island of Kameran, which lies opposite and within a couple of miles of the promontory on which Salif stands. This island was annexed by the British resident and general officer commanding at Aden in June, 1915, under the following circumstances:

From the outbreak of war, two naval patrols watched the Red Sea coast of Arabia, maintaining a blockade, one, the northern patrol based on Suez, working from that port to Jidda, the other, the southern patrol based on Aden and working from that port to Jidda. It was found that Arab dhows flying a neutral flag were carrying supplies of food for the use of the Turkish garrisons at Lohela and Hodeida as well as to Salif; the German Lohela and Hodeida are situated respectively about 50 miles north and south of Salif. In order to put a stop to this traffic and maintain a more effective blockade the British resident at Aden, under whose orders the southern patrol acted, strongly advocated the seizing of the Kameran island as a much more central and effective base to work from than Aden, which is on the south coast of Arabia about 130 miles due east of Perim, or 330 miles by sea from Kameran. The British government sanctioned the undertaking, and on June 7, 1917, a small force of artillery and infantry, under the command of the general officer commanding, sailed from Aden for Kameran, occupying en route and garrisoning the Turkish island of Great Hanish and Zukur.

The expedition reached Kameran in the early morning of June 9, taking the Turkish garrison completely by surprise, so much so that the island was occupied without any bloodshed.

The salt works at Salif, owned by Sir John Jackson, were seized by the Turks on the outbreak of war and the European employees were made prisoners. Several efforts were made to obtain the release of these prisoners. A summons to surrender them having been refused the port of Salif was bombarded by the naval squadron and the fort destroyed, but the Turkish garrison bolted with their prisoners into the interior whither pursuit was prohibited.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Relatives of Clarence Martin, eminent lawyer of Mason, were called to his bedside last week on account of his serious illness. Later reports are that he is much improved, which will be good news to his many friends in this county.

The Rev. and Mrs. S. C. Dunn and children left this morning in their car enroute to Smithville, where Rev. Dunn was assigned by the recent West Texas conference. The many friends of the family regret their departure and the best wishes of the entire citizenship accompanies them to their new charge.

"Uncle Jack Beasley was in Brady from Mercury community the latter part of last week and stated that as soon as he had helped Mr. Ranne move into the new home just completed on the C. C. Dawson place, north of here, he expected to leave for Moran, where his son, Roy, and son-in-law, O. W. Cochran, are located and with whom he will be associated in the produce business. Mr. Beasley expects to be there the next four months.

J. S. Wilson, former citizen of Fredonia, but who has been making his home at Eden the past year or so, was a Brady visitor last Saturday. Mr. Wilson says he just got a start on farming in his new home this year and that next year he is going to show folks what the Eden country can do. He thinks that section has splendid farm land, and with proper cultivation, will take rank with any in the state. Mrs. Wilson is teaching school and is in love with the work, he reports.

Virgil, 5-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Smith of Nine, was badly scalded on Tuesday evening of last week, when a vessel of boiling hot water was overturned on the floor, completely enveloping the spot where the little fellow was sitting. Before the clothes could be removed, the scalding water had inflicted deep burns, causing agonizing pain. The little lad was brought to Brady cemetery, where it is reported he is doing nicely, although his recovery will necessarily be slow, pending healing of the burns.

—B-T-E-Week—

Among the notable improvements and innovations recently completed by Postmaster H. N. Cook is the installation of bins for taking care of all C. O. D., Insured and Parcels post packages. Under the new arrangement, the exact location of each parcel or package is indicated on the notification slip, thereby enabling its being found upon a second's notice, when the slip is presented at the window. Mr. Cook states that these classes of mail are growing out of all proportions, necessitating special attention in order to facilitate their handling.

The City street force is doing some splendid work in grading up some of Brady's main streets. The recently-purchased Best caterpillar engine has been given a thorough try-out by Engineer H. A. Metcalf, to the complete satisfaction of the city officials, and especially to that of B. Simpson, head of the Street committee. Incidentally, the old reliable W. H. Cornelius has been giving his customary efficient work in the handling of the grader in the elimination of the bumps and waves that have been becoming tolerably plentiful in the streets here of late.

PROFITEERING

We are told that we are facing a coal shortage.

But the shortage of coal is not a reason for the increase of the price of coal. To increase the price of coal would make it possible for the rich to have coal, but it would make it impossible for the poor to purchase it.

This country needs so many tons of coal. The rich and the poor alike need the coal. The shortage of coal should not cause the price to be increased. An increased price will prevent a just distribution of coal.

The only legal and just thing that can possibly be done is to distribute the amount of coal we have among all the people at the same rate that they would have been charged for the coal had there been a sufficient quantity.

The profiteer who takes advantage of the situation and raises the price of coal is an enemy of the people.

in this country. He has gone un-
Coal is a necessity. And any man who takes advantage of the poor man's necessity or of the rich man's necessity to extract from him an excessive price for that necessity is at heart a thief. Whatever law there is that can reach him should be put into operation.

There is a just profit that belongs to every man for his labor, his talent, his brain; but there has never existed and there will never exist a condition which entitles any man to excessive profits, to usury, or extortionate demands for service or for goods.

The profiteer has existed too long molested and has escaped the judgments of law. But now the people are growing weary, restless, and revengeful.

The time has come for the government to arrest every man who takes advantage of an emergency to practise extortion.

This is certainly true of the hour in which we are now living.

The government talked about seizing the coal mines. The government ought to seize not only the mines, but everything else that the profiteer is trying to use for the purpose of extorting from the people an unjust and unreasonable profit.

The profiteer should not be allowed to do business.

Let the government say to all profiteers: "Every time you raise the price unjustly, the government will take from you the right and the license to do business."

This is the only way by which the suffering public can be quieted and put at ease. This is the way by which the government can restore confidence in its sovereignty, in its power, and in its justice.

HOMIE PHILOSOPHY
AUTOCASTER

FINALLY our charming women-folk have bowed to the inevitable and given the gate to the short skirt. Soon sight of a tapered ankle will be spoken of as something that existed in "the good old days." Women of course will be chided for their weakness. They have protested that the short skirt is healthy and comfortable, and tried to keep it in the mode, but what are the poor things to do when the wholesale dressmakers just won't make short skirts. The girls must buy what they are offered or nothing. And where's the harm? The change means more cloth used, more mill hands at work, more business in the stores. The much derided changing mood of our women folk has kept the wheels of industry moving many a year.

Poem by UNCLE JOHN

I used to mourn about the trials of my ancestral pioneers.—I've filled a million two-quart vials with briny, sympathetic tears. . . . I've wept, because of tribulations through which our early settlers went, when I would hear the moist orations, about the old log-cabin gent. I've sobbed at how he slew the weasels, and skinned his thumb an' cut his toe—an' suffered forty kinds of measles from wadin' miles of heartless snow. . . . O, each installment made me rivel, and each recital fetched the brine, and I would set around an' snivel, about them old kinfolks of mine. . . . But—times has changed, and I'm reflectin' along the lines of present dread. . . . I've saw some things I weren't expectin'—that any hour could knock me—dead! We've got the crazy benzine flivver—We've got the bull-necked road-hog, too.—We've got the germs that eat our liver—we've got the bug that starts the flu! My days an' nights is spent in terror,—I'll never reach a hundred years—I'll swaller down my bald-face error, about them happy pioneers! I've studied it from every angle — I've turned the subjeck inside out, and I have learnt, beyond a wrangle, that I'm the one to weep about!

For your own John.

Retail Merchants Association

MISS ALICE SELF, Secretary

BRADY, TEXAS

Turkeys! Turkeys!! —TURKEYS!—

We now have our Turkey Dressing Plant in operation, and will be in the market from this on until after the Holidays for your Turkeys.

We want Hen Turkeys weighing seven pounds and over, and young Tom Turkeys weighing eleven pounds and over.

Hold your light Turkeys back for a later market, as the increase in weight will pay you well, and too, by selling only the heavy turkeys, it will raise the grade of Texas Turkeys to an extent where there will be no discrimination against the Texas Turkey.

Our Mr. Jordan is now enroute to New York, and will remain there during the Turkey Season, which will enable us to secure the highest market prices for our Turkeys, and will, in turn, enable us to pay the producer better prices.

We will be in position at all times to pay you top market prices for everything in the produce line, as well as turkeys, during the coming season.
