THE HEART OF TEXAS WANTS TEXAS TECH

CITY COUNCIL INAUGURATES CLEAN-UP AND PAINT-UP CAMPAIGN HERE

NOTICES SENT EVERY BRADY CITIZEN TO JOIN IN MOVE FOR SPRING CLEAN-UP AND TO PREPARE BRADY FOR COMING OF "TECH" LOCATING COMMITTEE.

Give Brady city council credit for taking the bull by the horns and starting a move that every citizen will have to co-operate in before it can be stopped. It's the SPRING CLEAN-UP! Much has been said and little done about this clean-up—and so the council took a hand. Mayor Jones has issued a proclamation calling upon all the faithful—and that means every Brady citizen—to cut all weeds, rake up all trash, eliminate all stagnant pools and breeding places for mosquitoes—and to paint up. Not only is this to be a Spring Clean-Up, but Brady is setting its house in order to entertain the Locating Board of the Texas Technological college upon the occasion of their visit here to inspect Brady as the probable location of Texas Technological college.

Not only has the city council gone on record for a city-wide clean-up, but the campaign has been planned along the lines prescribed by the State Health department, and has the hearty endorsement and active support of Dr. J. B. Granville, city health officer. Dr. Granville urges every citizen to heartily co-operate in the clean-up and paint-up campaign, in order that Brady may really become the cleanest, most sanitary, most healthful spot in Texas. It can be done, and will be done, if every citizen only does his part.

The city council has ordered its wagons to be at the disposal of the citizenship in the hauling away of all accumulated trash; all it asks of the citizenship is that the trash be raked in piles convenient and accessible to the wagons. Then phone the city secretary, and the city will do the rest.

City Secretary E. G. Gilder has just finished mailing out upwards of 600 post cards notifying every citizen of the Clean-Up and Paint-Up campaign and there is no excuse for anyone not being fully informed on the subject.

The following are the recommendations of the State Board of Health towards the making of ideal health conditions in any town or community:

- Prepare against disease.
- Avoid the roller towel and the common drinking cup.
- Prevent dust.
- Protect your water supply.
- Build sanitary sewers.
- Perfect system of garbage collection, removal and destruction.
- Muzzle all dogs.
- Have medical examination of all school children.
- Require medical examination of all persons handling food supplies.
- Abate fly and mosquito breeding areas.
- Clean up—stay clean!
- Go to church on Sundays.

Mothers Day, Sunday May 13th. We have a beautiful line of cards suitable for the occasion.

CITY COUNCIL AUTHORIZES AUDIT OF BOTH WATERWORKS AND CITY BOOKS SINCE 1920

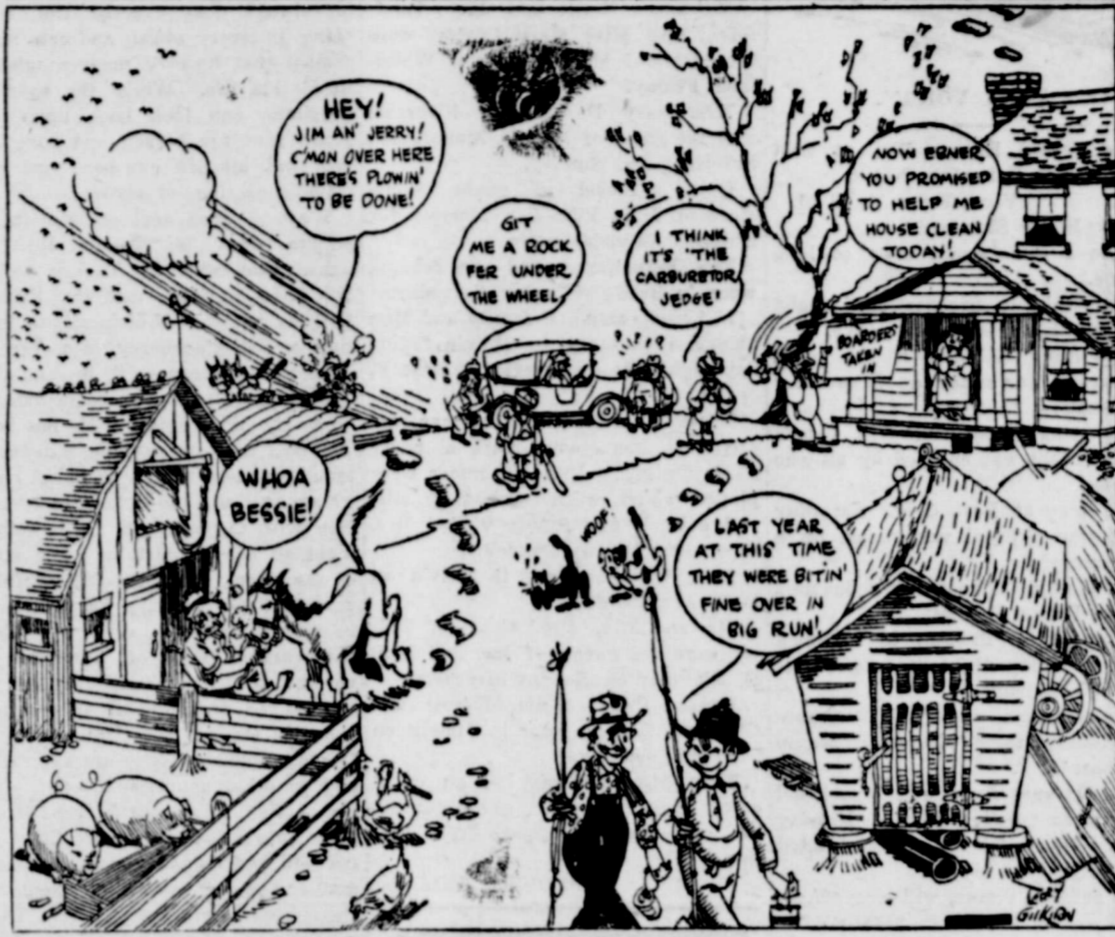

The Brady city council last Tuesday night made the decisive move in the matter of an audit of the books of both the Brady Water & Light Works and the City of Brady. Upon motion made by Alderman J. A. Maxwell, the city dads voted unanimously to have the audit made covering a period of the past three years. The action of the council is the culmination of a request made several months back by a body of citizens that the council authorize such an audit, and the matter had been the subject of more or less discussion since. City officials, including the Board of Water Trustees, have all expressed willingness to have the audit made, the only question being that of the expense, and whether or not the city should bear the entire cost of the audit. It appears that a majority of the citizenship have favored making the audit for the past three years, which, in the case of the Water and Light Works, would carry it back to the time of the installation of the new machinery in the water and light plant. According to the decision of the council, the audit is to be made just as quickly as a reliable firm of auditors can be employed, and will be begun sometime in June or July.

Other business of interest transacted at the council meeting was the official appointment by Mayor Lee Jones of various standing committees, as published in last week's Standard, and the naming of The Brady Sentinel as official publication for the city.

BRADY ORGANIZING BALL TEAM FOR '23 SEASON

"Get Coleman's Goat" will be the rallying cry of the Brady Ball Team, in process of organization this week, and if the plans of "Big" Fuller, "Old Man" Jones, and other local ball fans work out, a team will be organized that will keep Coleman's nanny perpetually shorn and incidentally tied out behind the local ball lot.

According to plans, the organization of the local team will be completed this week, with not only the pick of last year's all-star aggregation, but with numbers of new men who come highly recommended, scheduled for a try-out. As back-stop, there will be the old reliable "Big Buck" Bailey, who always puts as much pep into the grandstand and bleachers as he does into the old home team. Among the home boys are the old reliables, Hardin Jones, premier first sacker and Louisville slugger, Hubert Adkins, who is without peer both on third sack and at the bat, and also those fancy stick artists and all-around outfielders, Jack Hampton, Chas. Fuller, Jess Woosley and Bailey Jones. Joe Amberson, another home boy, and former Texas leaguer, will also star in the outfield. Among the new men are Dresch of San Antonio, who comes recommended not only as a cracker-jack second sacker, but as mound artist of no mean ability; Prisco and Roberts, formerly of the West Texas league, the former playing at short, and the latter on the pitching staff; Wallcroft, who hails from Tacoma, Wash., and who also aspires to a permanent berth among Brady's hurlers, along with Robinson, who is said to have curves that keep 'em all guessing.

The local ball lot will be a scene of considerable activity the next several days, as the boys are expected to get rounded out in shape for a series of games next week with either Howard Payne or Daniel Baker of Brownwood.

A great ball season is being anticipated, inasmuch as Coleman, San Angelo, Ballinger, Eden, Brownwood and Fredericksburg are all organizing independent teams, and each town may be expected to contend for first honors in West Texas independent ball—which means that each has Brady to beat to secure the coveted title.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION.

To the Citizens of Brady, Greeting:

Whereas, the time for our Annual Spring Clean-Up has arrived, and

Whereas, Brady is an aspirant for the location of the Texas Tech College and the Tech Locating Board contemplates a visit to our city shortly after May 15th.

Therefore, be it resolved,

That the entire citizenship of Brady co-operate wholeheartedly in a Clean-Up and Paint-Up campaign to begin at once, to the end that Brady shall be dressed for the occasion both as pertains to civic pride in appearance and from a sanitary standpoint.

The City Council will furnish wagons for hauling all garbage, cans, and etc., to anyone notifying the City Secretary. Phone No. 102.

E. L. JONES, Mayor.

NEGRO BREAKS JAIL SATURDAY, MAKING HIS GET-AWAY—SENTENCED TO REFORMATORY

Baxter Henley, 15-year old negro, under sentence for an indeterminate period in the School of Correction for Boys at Gatesville, made his escape from the county jail last Saturday, and at latest reports, appears to have accomplished a clean get-away. Henley was recently convicted on a charge of burglarizing a number of Brady stores, and, because of his youth, was to be placed in the state reformatory for a period of not less than two years, and not longer than until he reaches the age of 21.

Pending transfer to Gatesville, the negro was confined in the local jail, and Saturday was put to work with other prisoners in cleaning up the jail. While using the antiseptic spray, the negro was sent to the third story for something, and when he failed to return within a reasonable time, his companions made a search for him, and discovered him going down the road in a westerly direction and in a dead lope. He had crawled through the unbarred window, dropped to a carshed two stories below, and then had made his way to the ground. By the time the prisoners could attract the attention of a passerby and get word to Sheriff O. C. Waddill, the fleeing boy had about a 30-minute start, and from best accounts he has maintained his galloping lead ever since.

as has been customary. Official notice of the reunion dates will be given later.

B. A. HALLUM ELECTED HEAD RETAIL MERCHANTS ASSN —OTHER VACANCIES FILLED

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the McCulloch County Retail Merchants' Association Wednesday, May 2nd, B. A. Hallum was elected President to fill the unexpired term of J. A. Holton, who recently moved to Fort Worth, Texas.

G. C. Kirk was elected to take Mr. Hallum's place as vice-president and Grady Burns, who has been one of the county directors, was elected to fill the vacancy in the city directorship.

ANNUAL REUNION DATES MT. REMNANTS BRIGADE AT CHRISTOVAL ADVANCED ONE WEEK

L. Ballou, adjutant of the Mountain Remnants 5th Brigade, U. C. V., states that the dates of the annual reunion to be held this year at Christoval have been advanced one week, and will be held at Christoval on the last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in July, instead of the first Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in August.

Brady, Texas, April 30.
Editor Brady Standard:
We have had more rain and quite a bit of hail the past week. School was out Friday and Miss Squyres left for home yesterday. Everyone hated to see her go for her winning smile won the hearts of all out this way.
Mrs. W. D. Walker has been ill since Friday. We hope however, by this time that she is better.
The singing at Briscoe's Sunday night was enjoyed by a large crowd. Quite a crowd from hereabouts went to Brady and enjoyed the days of '49.
The sudden death of Mrs. Willie Mae McMullen, which occurred last Friday, cast a cloud over the whole community.

WONDER WORDS.

Fish Hatchery Presents Interesting Spectacle—Confusing Colors.
Wonder, Or., April 20.
Editor Brady Standard:
Here and there, now and then, pro and con. The optimist thinks that he always does exactly the right thing in every event and can never realize that he ever made a mistake in all his life. While the so-called pessimist can look back upon the years that are passed and gone and see that his life has been one continuous routine of errors.
I see a good deal of late in the papers about the "Russian Red." I know what color the Turkey red is, but have an idea that the Russian Red is "yellow." Which calls to mind that a red blackberry is a "green" blackberry, because it is not ripe.
Now I will tell you some more about the government fish hatchery. The men who are running it are courteous gentlemen and seem to enjoy giving you all the details in connection with the business. It is quite a sight to see the fish in every stage of the game, from the freshly taken eggs to those that are just beginning to transform into minnows. Then the various sizes of minnows according to age up until they are old enough to transfer to the various streams throughout the United States. I didn't inquire if they are ever shipped to other countries or not. The grown fish are caught in traps in the river below the dam where they congregate and transferred to artificial ponds made of concrete cement and floored with riverbed gravel. These square tanks of which there are three about 20 feet square stand about two feet deep with clear, cold water which is constantly flowing into and out of them. Two of these artificial pools contain female fish and one contains the male fish. They also have a smaller tank in which to keep the dead fish after they have been cut open and the eggs removed. Each female fish contains two rolls of eggs—the rolls are about a foot long and three inches in diameter. The eggs are about as large as a bullet or the end of your little finger and are of a transparent red color. The eggs are not removed until they are mature. (They say "they are ripe.") Of course they have a way of telling; also of distinguishing the male from the female fish. They use the males for the purpose of fertilizing the eggs after they have been removed from the female fish. They have a large shed under which are sixty long vats, 20 feet in length and 20 inches in width, placed in pairs, or two by two with aisles between, so they can pass thru while attending to the little fish. Fresh clear water is kept constantly flowing thru all of these 60 troughs to a depth of six or eight inches. And the troughs or vats are partitioned off into smaller receptacles for convenience. They feed the young fish by grinding up the grown fish into a pulp like sausage on mills run by water power. The kind they are hatching now is called Steelhead trout. The gamest fish in the world. The Silverside salmon had their run earlier in the season. The boss gave me a sack full of fish for my chickens, and told me I could have a ton of suckers if I wanted them.

CALF CREEK NEWS.

School Closes 8th of May—Meeting Day Next Sunday.
Brady, Texas, May 1.
Editor Brady Standard:
After so much rain we are having some nice weather, but very windy and the farmers are all very busy planting cotton.
Mrs. C. C. Tucker, who has been on the sick list for quite a while had to go back to the sanitarium at Brady one day last week. The last report she was no better.
Mr. C. Davenport bought a new piano last week and entertained the young folks by giving a singing Sunday night. All report a nice time.
We had an all-day singing last Sunday at the tabernacle. Had quite a few singers from Lohn and Salt Gap. We are expecting some more singers to help us out next Sunday, as it is the Baptist regular meeting day. We expect Brother Louis Cooper, the pastor, to preach for us; dinner on the ground, and everybody invited to come.
Our school will be out the 8th of May. We have had a good successful school this term. We are going to give an entertainment the night of the 8th and it is free for all. Everyone is invited to come.
Willie Perry and family spent the week-end with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell of Holt. Her sister, Miss Janie Mitchell came home with her and is going to visit here a few weeks.
Miss Minnie Whipple spent Tuesday night with Miss Tempie Petty.
Miss Bernice Bridge spent Sunday night with Miss Eula Mae Barnett.
Well, as news is scarce, I will give space for a better writer.

Once A Buick Owner—Only Buick Satisfies

In every community there are a number of instances where once a Buick has been purchased by one member of a family, others of the same intimate group have become Buick owners.

Buick dependable performance, luxurious comfort and the fact that there is a type of Buick to fit every motoring need, leads to the selection of Buick as the family car.

Significant also is the fact that today a majority of new Buicks are purchased by motorists who have been Buick owners before, and for several years.

An Exciting Game.

The noise coming from upstairs was appalling. Mother, making cakes in the kitchen, at last could stand the commotion no longer. Hastily washing her hands, she started to mount the staircase when she found that the noise was proceeding from the nursery. She went up the rest of the flight, and on reaching the top she shouted:

"Children, children, what are you doing? What on earth is all this noise about?"

Little Willie's eyes were bright with excitement as he replied:

"We've had grandpa and Uncle Henry locked in the cupboard for the last hour. When they get a bit angrier we're going to play Daniel in the lions' den."

A Hint.

Stage manager: "My dear, I wish you would wear a different gown in the second act."

Rita Ravenyelp: "But that is the latest style, and I paid two hundred dollars for it."

Stage Manager: "That may be true, but when your husband says: 'Woman, you are hiding something from me,' the audience can't figure out what he means."—Judge.

DO YOU TAKE CARE OF YOUR CLOTHES?

By JANE HILL

It isn't only the clothes that the well-dressed woman chooses that set her apart from the rest of the crowd. It's the way she wears them. Part of this has to do with herself—of which more later—but part of it has to do with the way she takes care of her wardrobe. Of course, if she has a well-trained personal maid, she doesn't need to give the matter even her supervision. But if she's her own maid—and most of us are, when it comes to dressing—the perfection of detail with which she is always turned out means an immense amount of forethought.

Her gloves are fresh—because she hasn't forgotten to send them to the cleaner, and to keep enough on hand to fill up the days until the cleaned ones come home. She never wears a suit in the rain and hangs it up, unpressed, only to need it again when there isn't time to do anything about it. She would just as soon appear without her make-up as with a button missing, or a veil torn, or a pocket-book bulged out of shape, or a bit of lace that wasn't as frothy and speckless as lace should always be. When she pulls out her handkerchief it's always a credit to her—in fineness and sheerness of linen, in its tiny touch of color, in the way it was washed and ironed and tucked into her bag.

About Perfumes.

Incidentally, it isn't ever drenched with perfume, that handkerchief. The well-bred woman chooses a subtle delicate scent and applies it in some way that isn't localized. Perhaps she puts it in her hair, or wears it in a little sachet, or dabs score of ways—but in any case, she keeps you guessing as to just what the faint fragrance is, and how she wears it. Frequently she blends her own perfume by mixing several odors, experimenting till she has something that completely satisfies her. The recipe is her own secret, and pleases her much better than the fabulously expensive things that merely money can buy—and anyone may use—or over-use.

Coiffures and Hats.

We can't stop to talk about coiffures, other than to say that the very smartest thing today is the acme of simplicity—the hair drawn back smoothly and coiled low. But if one's face and temperament can't stand this, then be sure that the marcel or the permanent wave (large and loose, please) is used as the basis for something suave in line as possible. "Ear muffs" never were worn by the smart woman, to be sure, but now even the sophisticated little girl has abandoned them in favor of a more simple and beautiful outline. Evening coiffures, of course, may be quite elaborate—but then, anything is possible after the lights are lit in these days.

Having done her hair for the street the well-dressed woman doesn't put on her hat while she runs downstairs, as so many women in the back ground of the crowd appear to have done. She spends a concentrated moment before her mirror, adjusting it as carefully as the vendeuse did when she first tried it on. She knows that the line of a good hat is good just so long as it is fitted to the right head, at the right angle. She's very quick to notice when the chic little brim is losing its flare, or the bows are drooping. There is nothing so tired as a tired hat. If it can't be resuscitated, one must regretfully drop it overboard and buy another.

Taking Care of Your Corset.

And, going back to clothes, how about your corset? Do you take good care of it—or leave it all scrunped up in a heap at night? Better, hang it over the back of a chair, or somewhere else where the clean fresh air can blow through it. When it gets even the least little bit soiled, send it to the cleaner, or wash it yourself.

If you decide to do the latter, drop it into the bathtub in a warm lather of lux, with a dash of ammonia if it's really dirty. Leave it a while to consider its sins. Then scrub it lightly with the bath brush, and hang it up on the towel rack. You'll be surprised to find how easy the process is, and how much improved it looks.

And—by the way—keep as many corsets going at a time as you have different occasions in your day. One for your street clothes—one for the evening—one for sport—and a negligee corset, too, if you're a really luxurious lady. It costs no more in the end, for you wear them all out, sooner or later; in fact, it really costs less because each one of them lasts longer when it has a chance to rest. Besides, you have the satisfaction of knowing that you're taking the very greatest advantage of the expert advice at your disposal—not only for your type, but for your type at its most active, its least active, and its formal best.

Your corset will look better and wear better if you put it on correctly. When you buy your corset it will be put on right, for you've had expert fingers at the laces. But what about tomorrow morning? Nine out of ten women never know how well they could look because they persist in wearing their corsets too high—Did you know that?

Now here's the trick: Before you put your corset on, pull the laces out so that there's a five or six-inch opening down the center. Then place the corset round you loosely, low enough down and absolutely straight—run your finger along the middle bone of the back to see that it follows your spine. Now begin fastening at the next to the bottom clasp and fasten to the top, then do the bottom clasp and the hooks. Adjust the garters, beginning at the back. Last of all, pull the laces at the waistline to set the corset to the figure, then begin tightening at the bottom of the front clasp, lacing toward the waistline with a firm pull.

Perhaps this sounds complicated, but it isn't. And—if you've never done it in just this way—you'll be amazed at the comfortable, anchored sort of feeling your corset will have. It can't creep up and bind your waist or make an ugly line in the front. The tight part comes just where it's wise to have it—around the hips, and if you want to reduce that measurement, you'll find you can do it quite easily, a tiny bit each day.

If you have any corset problem, write to Miss Jane Hill, in care of this paper, and your letter (unopened) will be forwarded direct to her for answer.

McCULLOCH COUNTY RECEIVES PUBLICITY.

McCulloch county was again placed in the limelight of publicity as a result of the recent visit here of the Santa Fe's Cow, Sow and Hen Demonstration train, the May issue of "The Earth," official publication of the Santa Fe railway, devoting considerable space to McCulloch county and McCulloch county projects. Which is merely another proof that McCulloch county merely needs to be visited in order to at once impress the visitor with her grandeur, her achievements and her possibilities.

In this issue of "The Earth" a half page was given over to the Brady Chamber of Commerce proposition to place on the market 60,000 acres of land located beginning eight miles west of Brady, and which is now being cut up into sections for sale and colonization by bona fide settlers. The article was attractively illustrated, and constituted a most valuable bit of publicity for the "Heart of Texas." On another page, and included among items from various communities under the heading of "Texas Facts," was published an article, entitled "McCulloch County Claims Attention." This article speaks of McCulloch county's prosperity and development as follows:—McCulloch's cotton yield in 1922 was more than 60 per cent greater than the crop of 1921. An abundance of feed crops of all kinds were raised; the range is in splendid shape, with the result that cattle, sheep and livestock of all kinds are in fine condition. McCulloch County's irrigated truck gardens annually yield valuable returns. One of the greatest agricultural developments, however, has been her turkey crop. Half a million pounds of dressed turkeys have been handled through a local produce house, more than doubling the output of a year ago. With ample range and abundance of food and forage, the turkey represents the most wonderful of returns on a small investment. This has given great impetus to poultry industry, and "the cow, sow and the hen" offer a program which will be well carried out in this county. The Poultry-Dairy Livestock campaign, inaugurated in various West Texas counties by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is meeting with every possible support on the part of the farmer-citizens. The educational program carried out in various parts of the county was accorded most enthusiastic support and cooperation. With such notable prosperity and rural development, it is to be expected that Brady, Texas, will likewise enjoy unprecedented growth and improvement.

A TEXAN'S POSITIVE VOW

I shall stand loyally behind my local community, champion every need of my section, love its ideals, and sing its praises at all times. I shall work with my fellows for the common good, and shall remember that whatever benefits my fellows must benefit me. Because I love my own community and section supremely, I shall prove my loyalty and devotion to them by standing behind all Texas, championing her every need, loving her ideals, and singing her praises at all times. I shall work with my fellow Texans for the common good of Texas, and shall remember that whatever benefits all Texas must benefit my section. I shall be honest and dignified in all my dealings. I shall acknowledge the virtues of all other sections, and shall dignify their ideals by dignifying my own section's ideals. I shall defend my section from untruthful attacks, and I shall defend all sections of Texas from untruthful attacks. I shall exalt the truth of Texas, and shall be careful that my repeated truth of Texas shall be the whole truth and nothing but the truth. I shall love all Texas, and dignify her by dignifying every state.

A TEXAN'S NEGATIVE VOW

I shall not be disloyal to my community, nor oppose her needs, nor dishonor her ideals nor repeat disparaging facts about her at any time. I shall not debase other sections for what debases other sections will debase my section. I shall not seek to dignify my section by saying derogatory things about other sections. I shall not criticize other sections, adversely, nor seek to create in the minds of others a lack of appreciation of other sections. I shall not seek to win citizens of other sections away from their homes and decoy them into my section, by singing the virtues of my section and holding up the shortcomings of their sections. I shall not be a snitcher. I shall not be disloyal to Texas, nor any other state in the union. I shall not say that my section is the best community, nor my state is the best state—I shall not love my section and my state because they are the greatest or best, but because they are my section and my state. I shall not forget that the surest way to dignify my section and my state is to dignify all other sections and all other states.

LEE J. ROUNTREE.

With the shock of the unexpected came yesterday the news of the sudden death of Lee J. Rountree on the floor of the House of Representatives, within a few minutes after concluding a speech. Mr. Rountree was one of the outstanding figures in Texas. For many years he had published the Georgetown Commercial, retiring to seek health elsewhere. Some five or six years ago he purchased the Bryan Daily Eagle, which he published up to the time of his death. He was serving his second term in the State Legislature, had been an honored member and was past president of the Texas Press association, and also had served as president of the National Editorial association. Needless to say, as a man of such notable attainments, he was loved and honored by all who knew him, and all who knew of him.

Through his veins coursed the blood of four generations of Texans, and it was fitting that his last speech should have been a eulogy of the Confederate veterans, and in acknowledgment of a bouquet of flowers presented him by veterans in grateful recognition of his services in their behalf.

The Standard extends sympathy to Editor W. A. Smith of the San Saba News, whose son was so seriously injured in an auto accident as to be rushed to Temple sanitarium for treatment, while Mrs. Smith suffered a broken rib and other injuries, when she lost control of the car she was driving, and smashed into a tree. The Standard trusts both victims of the accident may speedily recover.

Of all fresh young things, it's this norther!

YOU WORK ONE DAY A WEEK FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Stuart McGregor, a Coleman boy who is staff writer for the Dallas News, has been in Austin gathering data on taxation and has discovered that every citizen works one day of the six work-days for the government. Mr. McGregor is quoted, in part, as follows:

"William P. Helm, Jr., who spends much time probing into the finances of the American government system, recently published in the Budget, his conclusion as to the total cost of American government. His estimate was this: That every dollar's worth of capital, every acre of land, and the entire laboring force of the United States is put to work for the Government one day out of each week. After exhaustive study he came to the conclusion that it cost last year $4,666,671,594 to maintain the Federal Government; $1,008,540,232 to keep forty-eight State Governments in operation; $2,192,750,798 to maintain all municipal governments and $592,068,970 to keep the county governments of the country in movement. This makes a total of $8,460,011,587, a sum almost totaling the world's total supply of gold, and representing about one-sixth of the total income of the people of this country.

"No one knows—or ever will know—very definitely how much the people of Texas may pay annually for the operation of the complete governmental machine, local, State and Federal. Estimates based upon the principal taxes paid can be made fairly accurate, but it must be remembered that countless local, State and Federal institutions do not receive their support from direct taxation.

"There is a prevailing opinion that the burden of taxation is paid for State government, when as a matter of fact the Federal taxes of the last four years as paid by Texans, have far outweighed the combined State and local taxes. Prior to 1916, it is true Federal taxation represented only about one-third of the burden imposed upon the people of America, but well above 50 per cent of the entire tax burden now is levied by the United States government. And it might be well to say in passing that the sum total of annual taxes paid has jumped from $2,200,000,000 in 1914 to $8,460,000,000 estimated for the last fiscal year due largely to the rise in the amount of Federal taxation.

"But there are two other things upon which the average Texan usually thinks incorrectly. Most noticeable probably is the prevailing opinion that land—particularly farm land—bears the burden of taxes paid by the people of Texas. As a matter of fact, the ad valorem tax upon Texas rural lands, including mineral as well as agricultural, amounts to less than 2 per cent of all taxes, upon a basis of figures for the last few years, which is a perfectly proper basis for estimates of future proportional tax payment.

"The estimates of the amount of money spent annually for the support of Texas contemplate only about $29,650,000. The State and its institutions expend annually approximately $6,294,000 in excess of this amount. In the first place, the penitentiary system, according to a recent published statement of its auditor, costs the State $1,000,000 annually.

"The State also gets $2,451,187 (using last year's figures) annually from interest on bonds and land sales of the permanent school fund, and deposits. The State Highway Department paid into the Treasury $2,258,199 last year, outside the approximate $6,000,000 received from the Federal Government. Interest on bonds, land sales and other sources of revenue to the available University fund amounted to $263,000. More than $90,000 last year came from the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, and $81,000 in fees from utilities, and $17,000 in revenues from various permanent funds for the smaller institutions, and $38,000 in fees not accounted for in revenues to the general fund.

"This total of $6,294,000, added to $29,650,000 accounted for the calculations above, bring up the total annual cost of operation of the State to slightly less than $35,000,000—and still such expenses as fees of students at State institutions have not been taken into account.

"Looking back again, in conclusion to the whole field of taxation for support of American governmental institutions, it occurs to one that a similar proportion of "loose ends" might be added to the published estimates of the cost of operating local and Federal Governments. This would add another $2,000,000,000 to the total of $8,640,000,000, and, incidentally keep us at work about two hours overtime on that one-day-a-week which is donated to maintenance of government."

Luncheon Bridge Club.

The Luncheon Bridge club held one of their delightful meetings on Wednesday noon, Mrs. G. V. Gansel being hostess upon the occasion. A three-course luncheon marked the occasion, following which "Bridge" at two tables furnished diversion, Mrs. C. T. White winning prize for high score.

Members present were Mesdames Ed Campbell, Herbert L. Wood, C. T. White, J. S. Anderson, Dick Winters, G. R. White; Miss Lucille Benham.

Picnic Saturday.

A most enjoyable picnic was had last Saturday evening at 6:00 o'clock at Dutton Grove, and in which quite a number of young folks participated, all reporting a splendid time. Numbered among the picnickers were Misses Mary Lyle Vincent, Rachel Wilkerson, Mary Joe Adkins, Oma Willoughby, Frances Armstrong, Elizabeth Browning, Dorothy Ogden, Billy Marie Briscoe, Gertrude Gahagan, Florence Bates; Messrs. Earl Deans, Robert McGrew, Archie Wimberly, Albert Carlson, Ace McShan, Gerald Adkins. Miss Hensley, chap-erone.

Bridge Club.

Mrs. W. D. Crothers entertained at Bridge on Thursday afternoon for the Bridge club, three tables being arranged for the occasion. Wild flowers were used effectively in decoration. High score and club prize were received by Mrs. B. L. Malone and Mrs. S. S. Graham received guest prize.

The hostess served a salad course. Members present included Mesdames D. J. Wood, E. L. Malone, J. G. McCall, Sam McCollum, Wm. D. Cargill, Bailey Jones, G. V. Gansel, J. W. Ragsdale; Miss Lucille Benham. Guests were Mesdames Rufus Adams of Fort Worth, Cal Estill of Grapevine, S. S. Graham.

Five Hundred Club.

Mrs. P. B. Melton was hostess on last Friday afternoon, the occasion being the regular meeting of the Five Hundred club. A profusion of wild flowers were used in effective decoration of the rooms. In the series of "500" at three tables, Mrs. Herbert Wood received club prize.

The hostess served a salad course. At future meetings, it was decided, "Bridge" will form the afternoon's diversion, while "500" will be continued at the night parties.

Club members present included Mesdames J. G. McCall, Edd Campbell, J. S. Anderson, Harry F. Schwenker, B. L. Malone, Harry W. Lindley, Burl T. Wiley, C. T. White, G. R. White, G. C. Kirk, John Wall, Herbert Wood.

Mrs. C. T. White entertains at the club meeting this afternoon.

Complimentary Bridge.

Mrs. Bailey Jones entertained the Bridge club on Tuesday afternoon with a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Rufus Adams of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Cal Estill of Grapevine. Wild flowers were used in all the rooms, with tallies, place cards and favors of nut cups in Spring colors, harmonizing with the decorative motif. A two-course luncheon was served.

A series of Bridge formed pleasing diversion, Mrs. Malone winning high score and receiving sandwich cutters as club prize. As guest prize, Mrs. Davidson received a tea coaster in Dutch silver. The honor guests were presented with decorated bridge score pads and fancy candles as mementoes.

Members present were Mesdames

Wm. D. Cargill, J. G. McCall, Sam McCollum, J. W. Ragsdale, B. L. Malone, G. V. Gansel, H. B. Ogden, Edwin Broad, D. J. Wood, W. D. Crothers; Miss Lucille Benham. Guests were Mesdames Dick Winters, Herbert L. Wood, Jas. Brook, Lewis Brook, W. R. Davidson, M. C. Wolfe of Waco, H. M. Brannum, and the honor guests, Rufus Adams and Cal Estill.

Celebrates Fifth Birthday.

Master Jack Davis was five years old last Friday, April 27th, and so what should be more appropriate than that he should invite a number of little friends to meet with him at 3:00 p. m. at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Davis, to celebrate the momentous occasion. Quite a large number of little folks responded to the invitation, and a most merry time was had in playing various games, following which cream and cake were served and thoroughly enjoyed. The most attractive part of the refreshments was the birthday cake, all aglow with the five candles denoting the milestones of life Master Jack had passed.

Upon taking their departure, all the little folks left beautiful gifts, together with the best wishes for many happy returns of the anniversary.

Assisting Mrs. Davis in entertaining were Mrs. J. B. Davis and Mrs. W. S. Shropshire.

The list of little guests included little Misses Marietta Sessions, Minnie and Margaret Hudgins, Maxine Ledbetter, Charlotte Stowe, Christine Jones; Masters Charles Adams, Gerald Mann, Ira Quentin Mayhew, Ed Campbell Joe Jordan, Lyle Davis and Jack Davis.

Card of Thanks.

In our hour of sorrow at the loss of our dear husband and father, Jos. Elliott, we are comforted by remembrance of the many words of consolation and condolence, and the many kindnesses and assistance given us during his long illness and sufferings. To all our neighbors and friends we are deeply grateful. We also wish to express sincere appreciation of the many beautiful floral tributes and expressions of esteem for our dear departed. We ask God's blessings upon you all.

BRADY'S FORMAL APPLICATION FOR LOCATION TEXAS "TECH" COLLEGE

COUNTY MASS MEETING HELD APRIL 4TH GIVES UNANIMOUS ENDORSEMENT OF BRADY AS LOGICAL SITE—ACCESSIBILITY STRESSED IN THIS BRIEF.

When, on April 4th, the citizens of McCulloch county met in mass meeting, to discuss the matter of Brady's entrance into the lists and the making of formal application to the Locating Board in behalf of Brady, the opinion was unanimously expressed in the number of spirited addresses that Brady offered the logical site for the location of Texas Technological college. This opinion was based upon the fact that Brady's location in the geographical center of the state, her wonderful artesian water supply, her ideal climate, her soil and manifold natural resources were unsurpassed by any city or town in the State of Texas. In other words, Brady offered more from the standpoint of natural resources and desirable qualities in the location of the greatest school in the U. S. than any other town in Texas. As an immediate result of this mass meeting, the following formal application addressed to the Honorable Locating Board of Texas Technological college, was drafted:

Formal Application.

State of Texas,
County of McCulloch.

To the Honorable Locating Board of the Texas Technological College:

Whereas, on the 4th day of April, A. D. 1923, a mass meeting of the citizens of McCulloch county was held at Brady, in said county and state, for the purpose of discussing the Texas Technological College, and Whereas, it was the belief and sentiment of said body of citizens that the best interests of the entire State could be best subserved by the location of said college at a point as near the center of the State as possible, other advantages being equal, and Whereas, the geographical center of the State is in McCulloch County, and the City of Brady is favorably located within the territory as prescribed by the Legislature for the location of said college, and is well located relative to the population of the prescribed district, as well as the State of Texas;

It was therefore ordered by said citizens in mass assembled that application be made to your Honorable Board for the location of said college, and the following organization was perfected for the purpose of assisting your Honorable body when you came to consider Brady as a prospective point for the location of the Technological College: Dr. J. B. Granville, Chairman; W. D. Cargill, Secretary, with committees as follows: Site Committee—Duke Mann, W. D. Crothers and Lee Jones; Application Committee—Evans J. Adkins, T. J. Beasley and W. D. Jordan; Data Committee—Geo. Ehlinger, H. F. Schwenker and Henry Zweig; Arrangement Committee—B. A. Jones, B. A. Hallum, G. C. Kirk and Dr. J. S. Anderson; General Committee—Dr. J. B. Granville, F. W. Lazaller and Lee Jones.

We, the above mentioned duly elected officers and committeemen, submit for your consideration the following brief and earnestly solicit your careful consideration of the same and respectfully invite you to visit us and see for yourselves the advantages and inducements which we have to offer.

Respectfully submitted,
Dr. J. B. Granville, Chairman of Brady Technological College Committee.

Duke Mann, W. D. Crothers, Lee Jones, Site Committee.
Evans J. Adkins, T. J. Beasley and W. D. Jordan, Application Committee.
Geo. Ehlinger, H. F. Schwenker and Henry Zweig, Data Committee.

B. A. Jones, B. A. Hallum, G. C. Kirk and Dr. J. S. Anderson, Arrangement Committee.
Dr. J. B. Granville, F. W. Lazaller and Lee Jones, General Committee.
Attest: W. D. Cargill, Secretary of Brady Technological College Committee.

Accessibility and Transportation Facilities.

Brady is served by both the Frisco and the Santa Fe railways, with union passenger station and depot grounds located just four blocks from the center of the business section. Both station and grounds are considered as among the most beautiful and attractive in Texas.

Automobile bus lines also serve to connect Brady with all neighboring points, using Brady as a hub for their operations. These lines give double daily service to San Antonio, and all intermediate points and daily service to Brownwood, Ballinger, Coleman, and San Angelo, and all intermediate points.

The highways over which these bus lines operate, include two major highways—No. 9, the Puget-Sound-to-Gulf, and No. 10, the Fort Worth-Brady-Fort Stockton; also two minor highways.

The Frisco gives through and direct connection with Fort Worth, also connects with the Santa Fe main line East and West at Brownwood. The Santa Fe connects with the Santa Fe main line East and West at Lometa.

The Frisco Merger bill, passed by the last Legislature and recently signed by Governor Pat M. Neff, gives rise to growing conviction that the Frisco will extend its line from its present terminus at Menard, 40 miles West of Brady, to Del Rio, traversing the great Southwestern section of the State, and giving direct connection with Old Mexico. There is also great probability that the Frisco will extend South from Brady to San Antonio, giving a through line from Northern points to the Gulf Coast, and incidentally providing a short line between Fort Worth and points on the coast. These possible extensions have loomed large in the public eye since the passage of the Merger bill.

The Santa Fe also will unquestionably extend its line from its present terminus at Eden, 35 miles West of Brady, to San Angelo, or some Western connection.

Detailed Rail Service.

Frisco train No. 6 leaves Brady at 9:45 p. m. arriving at Fort Worth at 6:50 a. m., carrying sleeping accommodations and making connections at Fort Worth with the H. & T. C. South, Rock Island North, F. W. & D. C. West, I. & G. N. South, M. K. & T. and Santa Fe North and South, and T. & P. East and West, as well as their lines North and East to points in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas and Missouri. The same connections are made at Dallas in addition to the Cotton Belt. This train also makes direct connection at Dublin with the F. W. D. & C. to Ranger, Breckenridge, and Wichita Falls; also at Dublin with the M. K. & T. for points East and West.

Frisco South-bound train No. 5 leaves Fort Worth at 11:30 p. m., arriving at Brady at 8:35 a. m., and making Menard at 10:00 a. m., same connections, as in above paragraph, at Fort Worth, Dublin and Brownwood, and also carries sleeping accommodations.

In addition the Frisco maintains local service to Brownwood, leaving Brady at 1:20 p. m., arriving at Brownwood at 4:55 p. m., connecting with the Santa Fe East and West. Their trains carry sleeping accommodations for points West including Coleman, Sweetwater and all points on the Plains; also local West train to Ballinger, San Angelo and Sterling City. East-bound train No. 92 carries sleepers for points Brownwood to Temple, and North and South from Temple to all points reached by their lines.

Santa Fe train No. 54 leaves Brady at 11:05 a. m., connecting at Lometa with the West-bound train carrying sleeping accommodations to all points West including Brownwood, Coleman, Ballinger, San Angelo, Sweetwater and all points in the Plains country, making connections at Sweetwater with the T. & P. to all points West and East; Amarillo with the F. W. & D. C.; San Angelo with the Orient; Buffalo Gap with Automobile line to Abilene; also connects at Lometa with main line train No. 92, which carries sleeping accommodations to Temple and all points North and South on main line, making direct connection with the M. K. & T. North and South and I. & G. N. South at Milano, to Austin, San Antonio, Laredo and intermediate points. Connects with various lines at Houston, including the Gulf Coast lines covering the Brownsville and intermediate points; also carries sleepers operating over these lines through Beaumont to New Orleans. MORTUARY

Death of Jos. Elliott.

In the passing of Jos. Elliott, Brady and McCulloch county loses one of her pioneer, widely-known and beloved citizens. Death occurred at 12:00 o'clock midnight Tuesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. P. A. Campbell, where he had been since taking to his bed about six months ago. About nine years ago Mr. Elliott suffered the amputation of both legs just below the knee, as a result of sclerosis. Although he was then nearly 70 years of age, he survived the order surprisingly well, and had enjoyed fairly good health up to the time of his fatal illness. At the time of death he was aged 78 years and 3 days.

Mr. Elliott was born in Adair county, Kentucky, coming to Texas and locating in Brownwood in 1886, where he lived about a year. He then came to McCulloch county and for some thirty-one years or more made his home in the Voca community, where he engaged in farming. Since the operation, he had been making his home among his children.

Mr. Elliott had for many years been a member of the Church of Christ, and he had been a member of the Masonic lodge for the past 55 years. He is survived by the widow, two daughters, Mrs. P. A. Campbell of Brady and Mrs. O. C. Jackson of Voca, and four sons, E. B. of Voca, Elam of Brownwood, E. H. of Camp San Saba, and Ellis Elliott of Arizona.

Funeral services and interment were had Wednesday afternoon; the funeral cortege leaving the P. A. Campbell residence at 2:00 o'clock and proceeding to the cemetery at Voca, where short services were held by Elder T. L. Allen, following which the Camp San Saba Masonic lodge took charge of the body and committed it to the earth with impressive ceremonies. A great concourse of friends was assembled from all parts of the county to pay last respects to the departed, and many and beautiful were the floral tributes to his memory.

Death of Miss Blessing.

The death of Miss Mary Elizabeth Blessing occurred Tuesday night at 7:00 o'clock, following an illness covering the past fifteen months. Through the doctors could hold forth no hope for her recovery, yet she patiently and uncomplainingly bore her sufferings, and in every way endeavored to lighten the burden, and with words of appreciation and endearment to reward those who waited on her and cared for her. With her death there passes a wonderful woman, who was devoted to her loved ones and friends and who was loved in turn by all. In church circles she was a conscientious worker, and until the past year, taught one of the Sunday school classes.

Miss Blessing was born in Marion, Va., and at the time of death was 65 years of age. With her sister, Mrs. W. B. Anderson, she first came from Virginia to Paris, Texas, remaining there about a year, and then coming to Brady about ten years ago, the two making their home here since, Miss Blessing caring for the home, while Mrs. Anderson followed her duties as teacher in the Brady high school. Since the age of 16 years, deceased had been a devoted member of the Baptist church, and she passed away calmly and peacefully, having made peace with God and being ready to answer his call.

Services were held Wednesday evening at 5:00 o'clock at the residence, the Rev. Buren Sparks conducting, and a large concourse of mourning and sympathizing friends being assembled. Accompanied by Mrs. Anderson, the body was shipped on Wednesday night's train to the old home in Virginia for interment in the family burial plot. Besides Mrs. Anderson, the only surviving relatives are an aunt, a niece and a nephew, who live in Virginia.

Mrs. Anderson expects to remain in Virginia through the summer, returning to Brady next fall to resume her school work here.

Death of Mrs. A. M. Coalson.
(Contributed).

Mrs. Olive Edwinnie Coalson, wife of A. M. Coalson, and daughter of the late E. A. Davis and wife, passed away Thursday of last week, April 26th, at San Antonio, where the family had resided since July, 1919. The sad news was contained in a message received by relatives in this county. The body, accompanied by the bereaved husband and daughter, was brought to Brady and there met by a large concourse of relatives and friends, who accompanied the remains to their last resting place at Pear Valley.

Mrs. Coalson was born November 21, 1895, and made her home near Brady until 1916; then moved to Pear Valley, where she resided until the removal to San Antonio. Her marriage to A. M. Coalson occurred December 13, 1914, and to this union there was born one baby girl, Elsie Lee, on April 4, 1916. Besides the husband and little daughter, there survive her mother and one sister, Mrs. T. R. Steelhammer of San Antonio, and seven brothers, L. E., Emery L., Van and Bee Davis, all of Del Rio, Texas, John and Harvey of Pear Valley, and R. M. Davis of Cody, Wyo.

Mrs. Coalson was a loving wife, and a kind mother, and was loved by all who knew her. She will be missed from among us, for she has passed to the Sweet Beyond, where there will be no pain and sorrow. She made peace with God in 1908, and had lived a consecrated Christian life.

Funeral services were in charge of Reverend Toby, who gave the body in charge of the W. O. W. Circle, of which deceased was a member, and the body was laid to rest with the Circle honors. Pall bearers were L. A. and Will Watkins, Roy Arrington and J. C. Reed.

Death of Mrs. Willie Mae McMullen.
(Contributed).

The sudden death of Mrs. Willie Mae McMullen occurred last Friday morning, caused from heart failure. Willie was well and in good spirits on retiring Thursday night, and her sudden passing was a shock to all.

Mrs. McMullen was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Ryan of Marion. She was baptized in the Church of Christ seven years ago and lived as she died, a true Christian.

Willie was married to Alvin McMullen February 5, 1922. She was 22 years, 11 months and 22 days old at her death.

The deceased was buried at the Marion cemetery Friday afternoon. Those left to mourn her death were her father and mother, five brothers, four sisters, a husband and daughter, and many loving friends.

A Moving Picture While You Wait
By CLARA DELAFIELD
(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

When Mr. Harvey Peterson came to board at the Hull farm, saying he was a city man who'd been run down through overwork, and how the doctor had told him he must find complete relaxation in a quiet, old-fashioned place, naturally folks looked upon him suspiciously.

There'd been a good many crimes in the city the past few months, so it seemed reasonable enough not to welcome a city fellow with open arms.

His story was that he was something in charge of the "movies," and naturally that sounded fishy. We folks like the "movies," and we get some good ones; there was a Harris Pedro film, full of those stunts of his, drawing all the town at the Strand that week, and I guess "movie" folks are as good as any. But it's a cover for a good deal of crookedness, too.

The only person who did take to Mr. Peterson was Kitty Hull. She fell for him at first sight. Crazy about the pictures she was, and hankering after being a second Mary Pickford. Kitty ran the farm for her ma, whom she bossed and nursed now she was beyond work.

Well, there was two or three fellows calling on Kitty. There was Abner Trull, and Vincent Light, and Will Mack. They hated each other pretty bad, but they come to hate Mr. Peterson worse when they called and found Kitty sitting in the hammock, and Mr. Peterson beside her, swinging a fan in his lily fingers.

When it became known that he'd offered her a tryout in the "movies" things began to hum.

"It might be genuine," I said to Abe. "and then again it might not. There was that city fellow that lured a girl out to Chicago and left her there. You read about that."

Abe scowled and went away. Then Vin came and asked my advice, and I gave it same as I'd given it to Abe. Kitty was a feather-headed little thing, but I wasn't going to sit by and see the girl's life blasted.

End of it was, Abe, Vin, and Will Mack put their heads together to save Kitty out of Harvey Peterson's clutches. There wasn't no use warning Kitty. Her head had been completely turned by the fellow's city ways. Regular dude he was, walking with her to church on Sunday in his clean collar and city suit and shining boots, and not over five foot four. Kitty overtopped him by a couple of inches. And there was Kitty, prouder than Punch of him.

"You show him up proper," I said. "Get a pot of tar and a pillow of feathers, and catch him in the quarry tomorrow afternoon."

Mr. Harvey Peterson always took a long walk by himself as far as the old quarry every afternoon, to think of new ideas, he said, though I guessed then he was planning some deviltry.

So the three of them put their heads together and waited in the quarry with a nice pot of warm tar and a pillow of feathers. I was so hot up about it I could hardly keep from talking, but I only told Mrs. Bingham and Laura Bayliss and—let me see—yes, Fred Mackintyre and Mrs. Chambers, and I knew none of them would give the game away. And about four o'clock I got to feeling a bit lonesome, so I started off for a ramble, and before I knew where I was I found myself approaching the quarry.

And who should I see ahead of me but just about half the population of the town, slinking along to snoop! Them four had given the game away. I always say you can't trust people.

But I hadn't time to be mad, for of a sudden there came the most blood-curdling screams from the quarry, and I knew that Mr. Harvey Peterson was getting what was coming to him.

You can bet we all ran to see. And what did we see? Why, Abe with a black eye and Vin Light, his face covered with blood, and Will spitting out teeth. And all three was soused from head to foot with tar and Mr. Harvey Peterson was standing over 'em and emptying feathers on them.

And near him stood Kitty, laughing fit to explode!

Then Mr. Peterson turns and makes a funny sort of little bow, and all at once some one yells out:

"By Heck, Harris Pedro!" That's who it was—none other than Harris Pedro himself, as any one might have known when they saw him make that cute little shuffle and bow, like he does on the films. And in a minute everyone was roaring and doubling up. Harvey takes Kitty by the hand "Ladies and gents," he says, "after this unrehearsed little comedy, permit me to introduce you to Miss Kate Hull, the new star of the Pedro company, and the particular star-to-be of the Peterson Domestic Performance, which is booked to run forever."

With which Kitty and he walked off arm in arm. Wouldn't that jar you?

Goggles Used Many Centuries Ago.
The Roman emperor, Nero, used concave emeralds in order to better view gladiatorial combats. Roger Bacon, that remarkable sixteenth century monk, who anticipated so many discoveries of modern science, pointed out that a segment of a transparent sphere aided the aged in reading.

At Treviso, Italy, is a painting done about 1352, which shows a bishop reading with double glasses—the first absolute proof of the use of spectacles. The first spectacles were mounted in leather, and the writer shows that the "goggles" of today were one of the earliest forms of spectacles.

Cat's sleep is feline slumber, like that of a cat watching a mouse.

Henry III of France and Napoleon I showed morbid horror at the sight of a cat.

Medieval superstition held that Satan's favorite form of early appearance was a black cat.

The Kilkenny cats fought so ferociously that when the fight ended only the tail of each remained.

The ancient Egyptians revered the cat, and Aelurus, one of their deities, was represented in the form of a human with a cat's head.

"Grins like a Cheshire cat" comes from the fact that Cheshire cheeses were made in the form of a grinning cat.

No animal is so great an enemy of constraint as the cat. The cat at the feet of the Roman goddess of liberty signified Roman freedom from constraint.

The expression "a cat has nine lives," owes its origin to the fact that the padded foot and toes break the cat's fall, and it is said to light on its feet.

Egyptologists have established the cat as the ancient Egyptian symbol of the moon, not only because it is more active after sunset, but from the dilation and contraction of its orb, symbolic of the waxing and waning of the night goddess.—Arkansas Thomas Cat.

IN THE SKY

Jupiter is the largest planet in our solar system.

Venus moves around the sun at an average speed of 22 miles a second.

The heat from the sun is 800,000 times greater than that from the moon.

Once in about every two and a half years there are two full moons in one month.

The light of the North star is estimated to be 193 times stronger than that of the sun.

The area of the moon's surface is about equal to that of North and South America combined.

The moon completes the circle of the earth in an average of 27 days, 7 hours and 52 minutes.

The asteroids are the numerous small planets whose orbits are situated between those of Mars and Jupiter.

Mercury and Venus are the only planets that have no moons. Counting our own moon, the system of planets possesses no less than 27 moons.

Mrs. Maxfield Disposes

By WILL T. AMES

Letitia Maxfield smiled the smallest of amused little smiles over her knitting as she stole a covert glance at Albert Crafts across the living room center table. The center table, survival of a period when there must be a center table quite as necessarily as a roof, was exhibit B in the evidence that Letitia Maxfield was not the ruler of that household. Exhibit A consisted of Mrs. Maxfield, who did rule it. No one, no matter how great a stranger, could spend an hour in the presence of Letitia Maxfield and her mother without becoming aware that the latter tyrannized over her daughter unremittingly, shamelessly, by the device of exaggerated self-renunciation. The center table presented a case in point. Albert Crafts, now bestowed uncomfortably in the cane-seated rocker with the curved back, wishing to goodness that Mrs. Maxfield would go to bed, or at least get up from that distressing wretched white-enamelled chair in which she was portraying martyrdom, was another. "Mother," Letitia had said a long time ago, "let's banish this dreadful table and shift things around in this room so as to make it just the least bit like a home."
"Very well, my dear," Mrs. Maxfield had answered, with all the woes of a whole generation of mankind registered in her long-suffering countenance, "whatever you see fit to do, do, of course. It is not to be expected that it would make any great difference to you that this is the way your poor dear father knew our home. You were quite young—" Letitia, as a matter of fact, was in her fourth year when Mr. Maxfield went to his reward—and changing fashions naturally are more important to you than his memory. Do what you like with the room, but please do not ask me to use it afterward."

So, of course, Letitia being Letitia, the room remained as it was, center table and all, an entirely drearful latter-Victorian mess.
Likewise in the case of Albert Crafts. Ten years ago, when Letitia was slighter and prettier—if not so handsome—Mrs. Maxfield discerned the imminent likelihood of Albert's suit carrying the girl off her feet. So she began to be unspokenly saddened by the inevitable prospect that some day, of course, her one ewe lamb would be going away out of her life and leaving everything all barren and empty and cold, and so on. All of which, being actuated by no suspicion in the world that such disaster immediately impended, so far as the ewe lamb knew, served to make tender-hearted Letitia feel like something that deserved to be shot at sunrise.

And so it had been. With the result that Letitia Maxfield, in the course of time, came to hold the creed that to think of herself in the very least, or to fail to put her mother not only first but second and third, and all the way down to about tenth, was to be an unworthy, miserable creature.

This is the road that runs through the land of Spinstership to the deserted village of Lonely Old Age in nine cases out of every ten. It just happened, however, that the love of Albert Crafts for his self-sacrificing sweetheart was not mere craf love. He was a man, this slow-moving young fellow, and he never gave up. Year after year he kept up the steady, un-despairing though not over hopeful pursuit of the particular brand of happiness on which he had set his heart in the beginning.

"It's no use, Albert," Letitia would say, "I shall not marry. I will not leave mother."
"But I've told you a hundred times, dear," Albert would protest, "that there need be no separation."

Always Letitia shook her head at this point. She would not formulate words even to herself, the realization that somehow it would be unfair to subject another life to the same carking influence that had so manacled her own. This was because Letitia's brain knew that her mother was a selfish tyrant, the very while her heart kept insisting that that mother was a rare and tender plant which needed every bit of the daughter's generous young soul for its spiritual sustenance. "She has always missed father so, the poor dear!" Letitia said to herself over and over again.

And so Letitia had come to the point where she could find just a wee bit of amusement in the awkwardly concealed wish of Albert Crafts that Mrs. Maxfield would go to bed, and in the un-concealed determination of Mrs. Crafts to do nothing of the kind. She had an uncanny way of knowing, had that lady, when one of the occasions had arrived upon which Albert just naturally had to propose to Letitia again. Only that very day, with her very best air of martyred abnegation, she had said to her daughter: "Letitia, my child, if your happiness demands that you marry, pray do not consider me. I am only your mother, after all, you know!" And Letitia, in a burst of generous sympathy, had kissed her and made believe shake her, and said: "Stop it, mumsie. I am perfectly happy with you!" And at the moment she believed it, the goose!

Albert was just on the point of giving up and going home in despair when the door opened and Mr. Stryker entered portentously. Mr. Stryker was six feet tall, sixty years old, and elaborately bearded. He looked like a tall as well as portly Santa Claus. For more than a month he had been a lodger in the Maxfield home, the only one that establishment had ever entertained. He lectured, being the herald of an amazing theory about the entire unnecessary of ever dying even a physical death. Mr. Stryker beamed, on the occupants of the room.

"Ah—er, Mrs. Maxfield," he declared, "I have—ah—er—found that particular passage in Isaiah. Shall I bring the book here? It is on the dining room table."

"Oh, I'll come—that great Bible is so heavy!" And Mrs. Maxfield, whose interest in the promise of physical immortality had lately become very keen, incontinently abandoned her obstructive wardenship and preceded the benevolent looking Mr. Stryker out of the room.

Letitia kept on knitting.
"How did you ever come to take that old bird in?" asked Albert, who in all these years had never gotten over a vast difficulty in saying what he wanted to say to Letitia. He didn't care anything about the reason for Stryker's presence. He only asked.
"Why, you know, Al," replied Letitia in pretended surprise; she knew well enough that Albert didn't care, "Mrs. Whipple induced her to. Mr. Stryker cannot abide hotels and rooming houses, and mother is keen about big theory."

"Well," said Albert, getting a grip on himself, "Stryker be blown. What I want to say to you, Letitia, is—won't you, won't you please, dear, reconsider? Bring mother along. I'm ready to build now and we can make it a perfect home for her."

But Letitia shook her head. And when after a half hour's arguing, pleading, beseechment, Albert Crafts disconsolately took his hat and went home he was no nearer to winning Letitia's consent than he had been any time these last ten years.

In the usual course of events it would have been a week before Albert came to see Letitia again, but the second day after his latest disappointment he had the extremely rare experience of hearing Letitia's voice over the telephone wire. "I wish you would come up this evening," it said, and there was no keeping from Albert the fact that this was not the old, self-controlled Letitia who was speaking, but a woman with what the chemists call a "trace" of hysteria in her vocal machinery. He shot out of his little bulider's office and into his runabout and was at Letitia's in four minutes.

Letitia's eyes were round and they looked at Albert in the strangest way. Then she grabbed the lapel of his coat and buried her head against his shirt front, and first she laughed and then she cried, and then she laughed again. "Oh, oh!" she laugh-cried. "It's mother! What do you think she has done? She—she has eloped!"
"Stryker!" shouted Albert.

Betty nodded, laughing with her eyes full of tears. "And she's fifty-three, and she took every cent of her money. Oh, dear! Oh, ha, ha ha!"
"Three mighty cheers!" exclaimed Albert.

But Letitia only clung to his lapels and laughed and cried when he kissed the top of her head.

HAVE MANY GOOD QUALITIES

Wasps Are by No Means Merely the Annoying Stinging Creatures So Commonly Supposed.

The human view of wasps seems to be lacking in breadth. Because they are given to stinging us we fail to do justice to their virtues. One scientist who has given much study to the matter says that the main doctrines of the wasp are: "If any wasp will not work, neither shall he eat;" and "Every wasp to labor according to his capacity, and receive according to his needs in a free community."

Division of labor, it is believed, goes a long way in the nest. Some of the workers seem to be specially employed as foragers and soldiers; others appear to be told off as nurses and guardians; while yet others are engaged as paper-makers and masons.

Wasps are at all times particularly fond of honey. Indeed they have a very sweet tooth for sugar in any form. toward the end of summer, therefore, as beekeepers well know, they will force their way into beehives as open robbers and carry off by main force as much as they can gorge of their winged neighbors' honey.

The drones of the race, instead of being idle and luxurious creatures, are sober, industrious and well behaved members of the community. They clean the streets of their own town with exemplary diligence; they act as public scavengers or sanitary officers. And they have their reward; for, unlike the doomed bee drones, they live their allotted life in peace and quietness, till winter involves both them and their spinster sisters in one common cataclysm of death and destruction.

Egyptian Vase 5,000 Years Old.
Five thousand years old and it looks like new. Just about 3,000 B. C. a stone vase, now on exhibition in the primitive room of the Boston Art museum, was buried with the remains of King Khasekhemwy, who ruled Egypt in the second dynasty. The vase has a solid gold cover.

The vase is one of the many exhibits of pottery, weapons, implements, slate palettes, ornaments and amulets of bone and ivory that mark the highly developed state of the arts and craft in the Nile valley 5,000 years ago, and reveal the racial traits of appreciation of form and of mastery of obscure materials inherent in Egyptian art.

ALL TRUE

There are times when poverty is no credit to a man.
Once in a while you run across a man who admits that your rights are equal to his own.
Everybody expects courtesy, but not so many are willing to give it.
You can't get a boy to listen to reason merely by shouting it at him.

Richard Lloyd Jones Says

COMMENCEMENT IS INVESTMENT TIME

Once more our schools and colleges come to commencement time. School is an outfit shop. It is where we get the tools with which to do our part of the world's work.

Graduation day is not a time to recall achievements but to plan them. It is not a day for reflection, but of prediction, a time for looking forward, not backward.

Education is the search for truth. Truth is progress.

The bud is a manifestation of the truth of nature. Because it is true to the laws of nature it does not remain a bud but unfolds into the flower. The seed laid in the clod finds its way to the light.

Light is truth. Be a light seeker. Truth is ever ahead, never behind. Keep pursuing it. You cannot serve truth and repose.

We seek education that we may know how to progress, to serve; that in this world we may be live seed and not dead seed.

It is not what you know that gives you recognition in the world, but what you know how to do.

Commencement is not accounting time—it is investment time.

The intellectual miser is of no more use in the world than the money miser. The world never honors an idle intellect. There is but one nobility that lasts and that is the nobility of usefulness.

He who cannot USE that which he has acquired from his text books has labored in vain for his grades. We are measured by what we can GIVE, not by what we can GET.

Education is wasted time and effort unless it inspires us to test our strength rather than our weakness, to dare the impossible rather than complacently follow the line of least resistance.

The world has but little need of the man who can "do almost anything." But it has great use for the man who can DO SOMETHING.

Education, once looked upon as a luxury, is now regarded as a necessity. Once its influence was contemplative, now it is contributive.

In the dark ages people belonged to kings. When the light of education spread, kings belonged to the people.

Education emancipates. It is the advance guard of democracy. It demands that the rights of the many prevail above the rights of the few. It is altruistic, not individualistic.

If you are truly educated you are a friend of the masses. That is educated patriotism.

Education is a movement outward, not inward.

No day on the school calendar is so well named as Commencement. It is the beginning of work, not the end; it is the binding to duty, not the release from it.

poem BY UNCLE JOHN

The country's got no patience with the old, back-number skate, but she allers holds a welcome fer the one that's up-to-date . . . an' while my lot was east betwixt the tall grass an' the bresh—I've set my inner workin's to the task of keepin' fresh.

A NEW Of course we love the ladies, from our store AUTOMOBILE of southern pride—and you'll see us steppin' higher when there's one on either side,—and while we've got convictions that I hardly keer to state, in regards to shorter dresses—we admire 'em up to date!

There's enugh of disenchantment to abide by when we must—so we ostracize the flivver that's a pile of rags an' rust, and—ef taxes ever draps below the confiscation rate, you'll be apt to ketch me figgerin' on a boat that's up to date!

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY For 1923

Every morning when we wake up now, the sun is shining, and birds are chirping a welcome to the new-born day. Why not fall in line—arise and shine—smile and perk up at the call of this delightful Spring. If we want to grant and mean of course we can do it, but the sun will shine just the same fer those who have enugh sense to enjoy it. Old Dame Nature has fixed things up so that there's no chance for the fellow who keeps out of step putting the whole procession on the blink. You might just as well bow to that old dame and march along. When a woman will she will, you may depend on't, and when she won't she won't, and there's an end on't.

CRIMM MEETING GOING AHEAD UNDER FULL STEAM—INTEREST INCREASING EACH DAY

The C Grimm revival meeting, now concluding its second week, is going ahead with increasing momentum.

The Evangelist puts every ounce of energy and enthusiasm into his sermons, and he delivers smashing blows at sin.

The great choir under the leadership of Mr. Roth, together with the solos of that gifted singer, complete the gospel entertainment and inspired by the wonderful instrumental accompaniments of Mr. Christensen,

Rev. Rivers, advance representative of the C Grimm party, has just returned from Goldthwaite, where he has completed arrangements for a revival there to start immediately upon the close of the meeting in Brady.

37 TEXAS TOWNS FILE BRIEFS FOR TECHNOLOGICAL COLLEGE LOCATION IN THE TIME LIMIT

Austin, May 1.—The filing by Crosbyton of its brief makes a total of 37 Texas towns situated west of the ninety-eighth meridian that have filed such briefs for the location of the Texas Technological College, announced W. R. Nabours late Monday.

There were 48 towns that signified their intention of bidding for the location of the college, but only 37 filed briefs. The other 11 towns have evidently dropped out of the contest as the time for filing briefs expired Tuesday night.

FELT TIRED, SO TIRED

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui, and Got Well.

Richmond, Ind.—“I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui,” says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney, 31 Railroad Street, this city.

“I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me,” writes Mrs. Courtney. “My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and as I will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping.”

“I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to do for, and I do all my own work for all of us, and find time to play. We all praise Cardui. Every sick and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine.”

“I suffered with my back; a very weak feeling in my limbs.

“I felt hardly able to drag; just tired—so tired all the time.

“It was an effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman.”

If you are in a run-down physical condition, suffering as this Indiana lady says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should help you. Take Cardui. NC-147

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Cal Estill of Grapevine is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Willoughby, and relatives. Mrs. C. R. Alexander returned Wednesday night to Brownwood after a stay of several days in the city on business.

Mrs. Rufus Adams and son, Charles, are here from Fort Worth for a visit with her father, C. A. Anderson, and relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Allen, accompanied by little Miss Roylene Erickson, leave tomorrow for Marlin, where they will spend several weeks at the wells in the hopes of benefiting Mrs. Allen's health.

A. A. Tally has arrived from Waco to take charge of the books and office of the Mayhew Produce Co. Mr. Tally is a splendid young man, and is fast making friends of everyone with whom he meets.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Page and son, Frank, returned the past week from an extended trip over South Texas, and incidentally a visit with their daughter, Mrs. W. J. Dawson, and family at Houston.

Oscar Westbrook was in Brady Saturday and Sunday exchanging greetings with his many friends here. Oscar is a dyed-in-the-wool booster, and believes Brownwood is in line for “Tech” school—providing Brady doesn't get it first.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed A. Burrow and daughter, Mary Joe, returned the first of the week from Leuders, where they had gone for a brief visit. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Frank Herrick, and baby who will be their guests here.

W. T. Curtis, editor of the Rising Star Ex-Ray, and former publisher of the Baptist Messenger at Brownwood, is spending a few days in Brady with his old friend, Evangelist B. B. Crimm, and is incidentally attending the Crimm revival meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Urban of Thorndale and baby daughter, Dorothy Marie, arrived here last Thursday for a visit of a week or so with the lady's father, J. C. Ranne, and relatives and friends. Mr. Urban, who has been under treatment at a sanitarium in Houston since January 1st, is now getting along nicely, and is slowly regaining his health and strength.

HEYDORF AUTO PAINT AND TOP COMPANY TO OPEN FOR BUSINESS ON NEXT MONDAY

Chas. Heydorf, expert auto paint and top man, and who has been located at Lampasas, where he turned out a number of jobs for Brady and McCulloch county citizens in such excellent and thoroughly satisfactory manner as to win universal commendation, is this week arranging to open a shop in Brady, and expects to have everything in readiness for business by next Monday.

Mr. Heydorf comes to Brady at the strong solicitation of local citizens, and he brings a complete equipment, including bake oven and heating apparatus for baking the enamel on all removable parts of an automobile. A dust-proof varnishing and finishing room is also being equipped in the building formerly occupied by the Rodde's Produce Co., one and a half blocks east of the square on Commerce street, and where the new concern will operate under the firm name of the Heydorf Auto Paint and Top Co. Mr. Heydorf invites a visit and an inspection of his new shop, and will be glad to make quotation on any painting, re-topping or upholstering of seats and cushions.

FORD WEEKLY PAYMENT PLAN FILLS LONG-DESIRED WANT PROSPECTIVE OWNERS

“The Ford Weekly Purchase Plan is going to be a boon to many families and permit them to buy a car much quicker than they ever dreamed,” Curtis Norman, local Ford dealer said today in discussing the new plan which is creating such widespread comment and which is being enthusiastically received everywhere.

“In my experience as a Ford dealer, and I believe it is true with every other dealer and salesman as well, I have met many people who expressed their desire to own a Ford, and who frankly told me that somehow they never could get together enough money to make the initial payment on one.

“The result was, of course, that they went on wanting a car and hoping that some day something would turn up whereby they could get a car. “Now that something has turned up; The Ford Weekly Purchase Plan simplifies it all and makes it easier to come into the ownership of a car.

“It is constructive automobile buying in the simplest and easiest form and presents to countless families all over the country the long wished for opportunity of enjoying motor-car benefits and pleasures.

“Right here in our own city it will be more than welcome. Take the family where, say, the father is not the only wage earner, but where perhaps a son or a daughter or two are at work. The family never has enjoyed a car, yet every member times without number has expressed a desire to own one.

“Under the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan there is no reason at all why such a family should not soon own a Ford car. If each member contributes just a little or his or her earnings each week it will hardly seem any time at all before the whole family will be enjoying a car.

“What is true of the family is true also of the individual who wants a car.

“And one of the most appealing features of the plan is that it is adaptable to the means of practically everyone. The weekly payments, which are deposited to the credit of the customer in the bank and draw interest at the regular savings rate, may be fixed to suit the desires of each purchaser. What could be easier than that?”
