THE HEART OF TEXAS WANTS TEXAS TECH

BRADY TO CLOSE SHOP FOR SAN ANGELO CONVENTION

Brady business men will close up shop on Wednesday, May 23, and attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce annual convention at San Angelo, according to present plans. As a matter of fact, quite a number of Bradyites will observe the three days of the convention, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 21-22-23rd, as a holiday and join the Brady Municipal band in their visit to the city on the Concho, and will incidentally pay homage to her majesty, "Lady Brady," as represented by Miss Marjorie McCall and her court.

The matter of closing shop one day received the unanimous approval of the Brady Luncheon club, and inasmuch as Brady expects to put in her bid for the 1924 convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, every citizen who possibly can, should join with the Brady delegation on the last day, if not for all three days.

Secretary Wm. D. Cargill of the Brady Chamber of Commerce, has been circulating a list and hopes to have a delegation of at least 100 signed up to go to Angelo for the three days of the convention. The majority of the bunch expect to camp out. An ideal camp site has already been arranged for, together with provisions for a camp restaurant, where meals may be had for 35c, and it is likely that most of the delegates will want to join in the camp, which will be the official rendezvous for the Brady Municipal band. The camp will be under police supervision; a tent or tents have been arranged for and all the delegates are required to bring with them is a camp cot and bedding. Of course, those who wish, may make arrangements to stay at a hotel in San Angelo.

The object in sending a big delegation to San Angelo is three-fold. First: To back up the members of the Brady Municipal band, who have entered the contest for the best band of any organization since January 1st, 1922. The band boys have been practicing hard and faithfully, and are confident of winning first prize. They are a group of all home boys and are deserving of the support of Brady citizens, as their efforts are directed solely to the purpose of advertising Brady and McCulloch county. Second: The big All-West Texas Pageant, to be given on the second night, will mark the presentation of Miss Marjorie McCall as "Lady Brady." All Brady is proud of their sponsor and a big delegation should be present when she is presented in the court of the Queen of the Conchos. Third: Brady has entered the race for the 1924 convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and her prospects for winning the coveted designation are excellent. With a great delegation of citizens present, Brady can easily put over her aspirations.

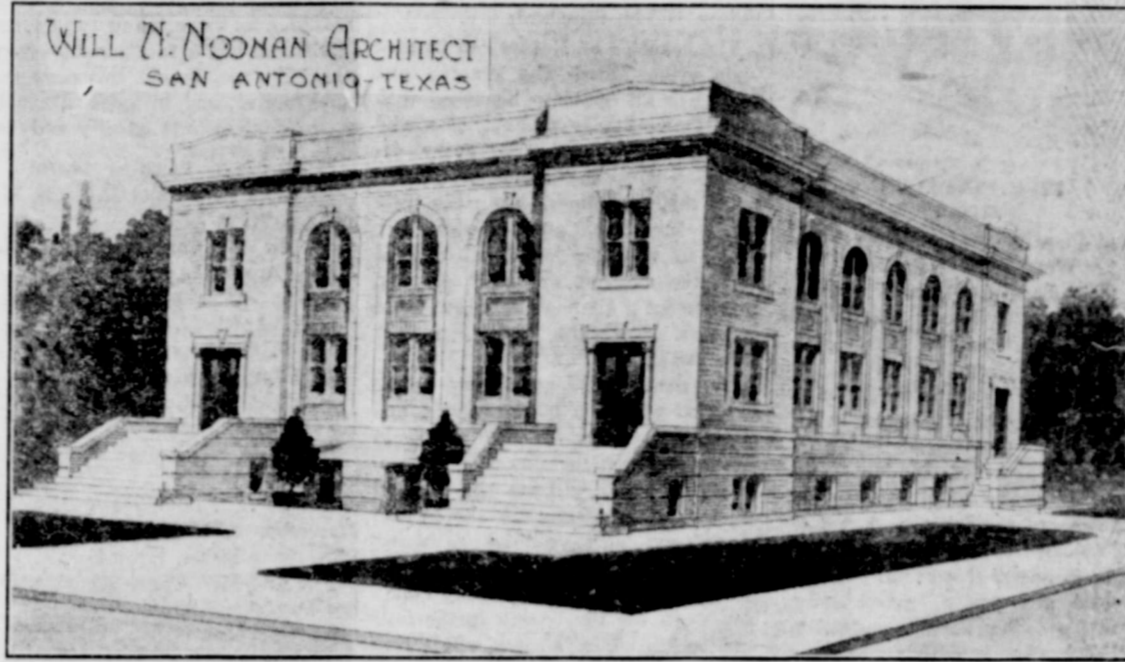

Every Bradyite who possibly can, is urged to join the bunch for the entire three days, or two days, or at the very least the one day. It will afford the greatest opportunity yet presented to put Brady in the limelight before all Texas.

The J. O. B. Degree.

Everybody's Magazine: A young man arrived home after having received the degree of M. A. for graduate work at college. "I suppose Robert will be looking for a Ph. D. next," said a friend of the family to the father. "No; he will be looking for a J. O. B."

PROPOSED NEW BAPTIST CHURCH FOR BRADY

The above is the architect's drawing of the proposed new $30,000 Baptist church, plans for which have already been accepted by the church board, and contract for which is to be let immediately. The plans call for a three-story edifice, with basement, main floor and balcony. In the basement will be contained the recreational and banquet rooms and the kitchen. The Sunday school rooms will have a seating capacity of 500, and the total seating capacity will be 550. The construction will permit of a roof garden. Half-tone cut furnished The Standard through courtesy of Will N. Noonan, architect, of San Antonio, Texas.

PARENT-TEACHERS TO HOLD FINAL MEETING OF YEAR ON TUESDAY—ELECT OFFICERS

The nominating committee appointed is Mrs. J. A. Maxwell, chairman; Mrs. A. J. Ricks, Mrs. Ed Bryson, Mrs. Joe Adkins and Mrs. F. A. Knox.

MRS. C. R. TISDALE, FORMER BRADY RESIDENT, PASSED AWAY APR. 3 AT OKLA. CITY

Word has been received by friends here of the death in Oklahoma City on April 3rd of Mrs. C. R. Tisdale, former Brady resident, and well known to many citizens of McCulloch county. Mrs. Tisdale's death occurred at the home of her married daughter, who is remembered here as Miss Maybelle Tisdale. Her passing followed an illness extending through February and March.

The body was shipped to Pampa, Texas, where interment was made besides that of her husband who lost his life some six years ago in a railroad wreck. Surviving are the daughter and five sons.

SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS COMMENTS UPON SPIRIT OF PROGRESS WHICH MARKS BRADY

In publishing the architect's drawing of the proposed new Brady Baptist church, the San Antonio Express comments upon the progressive spirit which dominates Brady in the following complimentary fashion:

"The Baptists of Brady will soon have a new church building. Will N. Noonan, San Antonio architect drew the plans for the building shown above.

"The edifice is to be 60 by 80 feet and the exterior is all in white, built of white brick, trimmed with artificial white stone. It will have a full basement for the use of the Sunday School and for entertainment purposes. This basement is provided with a large hall, stage and dressing rooms. The hall can be converted into a banquet room when desired and has an adjoining kitchen. The front part of the first floor has the main auditorium with balcony and in the rear of the first and second floors are additional Sunday School class rooms, pastor's study and church parlors. Rev. Buren Sparks is pastor of this progressive church.

In addition to this church the city of Brady has a new $45,000 high school building and a new $85,000 hotel just about complete. Brady citizens are lacking a plan to have direct railroad connection with San Antonio.

VISITORS ENROUTE TO DEVILS RIVER COUNTRY PRAISE BRADY AS MOST BEAUTIFUL YET SEEN

Will Campbell, of the Campbell Lumber Co., D. M. Tooke, sport writer, Emil Sambera, stereotyper and A. W. Polce, linotype operator of the Telegram at Temple, Texas, were in Brady bright and early yesterday morning enroute to the Devils River country on a fishing and camping trip. The visitors were most favorably impressed with the appearance of Brady, stating it was the prettiest town they had so far seen on their trip, and that various improvements and enterprises in progress about town denoted a live and wide-awake citizenship.

SUNDAY TO MARK CLOSE OF GREAT CRIMM REVIVAL

Next Sunday night will mark the climax, and incidentally the close, of the great Crimm revival, now running its third week. Without question, the meeting has attracted the greatest attendance, not just for one service, but at each succeeding service, of any meeting ever held in Brady, and has served to bring a large number of converts into the Baptist church, under the auspices of which the meeting is being held, as well as to strengthen the other churches of the city by reason of large numbers of conversions.

One of the features of this week's service was the children's choir on Monday night. Over one hundred little folks were assembled in choir, and sang songs and hymns composed by Elton Roth, the versatile choir leader. The little folks have contributed largely to the enjoyment of the meeting by reason of their singing, but their crowning event was the special appearance under Mr. Roth's leadership Monday night.

Mrs. Crimm and little daughter arrived Tuesday morning, and Mrs. Crimm is assisting Mr. Christiansen in providing the piano accompaniments to the songs and which, by

COW GAP GOSSIP

Oats and Barley Looking Fine—Hail Damages Crops Considerably... Brady, Texas, May 8, 1923.

Editor Brady Standard:

The Gap people were visited by another hail storm and rain Sunday night. The crops were damaged considerably.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Newton visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Browning Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. McShan and little daughter Aileen were the visitors of Jack Huie Sunday.

Mr. Douglas Cantwell visited B. D. Dillard Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Doshier and family visited J. N. Shavers Sunday.

Miss Bernice Winstead has been away from home the past week visiting her uncle, Mr. Walker, of Waldrip. Her aunt is seriously ill.

Nearly everyone in this community attended the graduation sermon at Lehn Sunday. Brother Toby preached a splendid sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hulon Huie are the proud parents of a fine boy who arrived Tuesday the 8th.

Miss Ethel Harris, who is attending Howard Payne at Brownwood, and two lady friends came over Sunday to be at the Lehn commencement services and visit home folks.

Messrs. John Fullager, Otto Huie and families visited at N. J. Huie's Sunday.

Oats and barley are fine out this way. If the hail will only hold up for a few weeks we will have them harvested.

The hail of Sunday night were small stones but it damaged the young cotton just up. Some will have to be replanted.

FIFE FINDINGS

Cotton Planting Going Strong Since Weather Has Settled (Too Late for Last Weew.) Fife, Texas, May 3, 1923.

All the farmers are planting this week. The soil condition is good, the weeds will not all be killed in ten days. The grain crops are looking good.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Martin are happy over the fine, healthy boy just come to their home, 11-12 lbs. There will be a good demand for cotton choppers here in ten days. Laborers are pretty scarce.

Our gin will probably be built yet as the interest is growing better all the time.

The radio news is not coming in so good on account of the warm weather causing static.

The health of the community is fine at present, so far as I know.

Brother Henry A. Smith held services at the tabernacle on Cow Creek Sunday and Sunday night. A large crowd reported in attendance.

The Colorado River has been on a 30-foot rise but is now gone down to about normal again.

On account of not having anything to write about, I'll wait until next week for any more news.

LOST CREEK ECHOES

"A Citizen" Finds a Few "Doubting Thomases" Even Among Brady Folks

Editor Brady Standard:

The beauties of Nature can be seen upon every hand. The grasses and trees are all waving beauties with their green tender foliage. The wild flowers and blooms of every description have the atmosphere laden with their perfumes. Even the little honey bees are beautiful when they come in to their homes all covered with the dust of the wild flowers. But it isn't all that can see these beauties of Nature. Did you ever stop to think of it?

You can select a number of people to stroll with you in the woods and make no mention of the object in view but watch them as they leisurely stroll. Some will see the beauties of the trees, others the shrubs and vines, and some will be gathering flowers and buds and talking of their wonderful beauty and makeup. Some can see the beauty in the hills and rocks, while a few will tramp on the flowers and never notice them. If they see them at all they pay no attention. Others will say, "Oh, those horrid rocks and hills." Those that can and do see and appreciate the beauties of Nature are those who have a kind, gentle, lovable disposition and can and do see and appreciate the good in their fellowman. The other class have what I would call an irony disposition. The hills and rocks are horrid things; the flowers have no beauty or charm for them, and they, instead of looking for the good in others, can only see their faults. But enough of this.

While in Brady last week I talked with a number of men about Brady's prospect for the Tech college. All but a very few were very much elated over Brady's chances, saying all was to gain and nothing to lose, in making the strongest pull possible. A very few said, "Well, I hope Brady gets the college, but I can't have much hopes."

To this I said, "I don't see why, when Brady has everything required except the housing, and that is guaranteed by men who will back up the guarantee with their millions."

They said, "Well, I did not know that."

So it is plain there is a few not keeping up—not working.

Our school will close next Friday. A nice program is being arranged for the close by Prof. Passmore.

Last Friday the Parent Teachers Association had a rousing big meeting at the school house. Several good talks were made on educational lines. Children and parents alike were praised and thanked for their cooperation in making the school a success and the teacher was not left out of his part of the thanks and praises for the noble part he has played.

At the close of the meeting officers were elected for the next two years as follows: Mrs. Green, president; Mrs. R. R. Evans, secretary; D. H. Henderson, treasurer.

We have planned to do some substantial improvement on the school grounds soon.

L. B. Schooley has become owner and operator of the Fredonia telephone system, having closed the deal the last of the week. Bonnie Perry, having sold Schooley the telephone line, in turn bought Schooley's farming interests here.

G. A. Spiller, Jr., of Coca has sold his general mercantile business, including houses and lots, to Trace Beekham. Spiller in turn bought Beekham's farm, consisting, I think, of three hundred and twenty acres.

Dennis Armor has again returned to Voca and will open up a barber shop and tailoring business.

A good rain fell here early Monday morning. The cloud with a tremendous display of electricity passed over with the swiftness almost equal to that of an aeroplane.

Today the corset is not a mere garment, but rather an aid to beauty. One's corsetiere is not to be classed with one's dressmaker or one's milliner, but rather with one's beauty specialist, whose methods depend not so much on the mode but on the specific needs of one's age, one's type, oneself.

Gossard Type Corsetry offers a scientific beauty aid to every type of woman.

What our corsetieres offer in the privacy of our specially equipped fitting rooms is of interest to any woman who would make the most of her natural beauty.

NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

THE TEXAS LEGISLATURE

Your lawmakers are very busy just now trying to devise ways and means to raise the necessary revenue to meet the State's expenses for the next two years. The House has passed three revenue measures so far. The 3% Gross production tax on oil, the intangible assets tax, and the inheritance tax. The Senate has killed the intangible tax bill, and have cut to 2% the oil tax bill, and have finally passed the inheritance tax bill. The $3,000,000 school appropriation passed the House last week, and the Bell appropriation bill of $1,250,000 for Rural Aid will come up this week. These bills will pass both the Houses, but may get the veto axe unless revenue sufficient to take care of all appropriations are finally passed. The "Tax Equalization" bill passed the House last week, after its teeth were extracted. Under the bill as it now stands, taxes may be equalized by the present State Tax Board as between counties, but the total valuation of the State cannot be raised so that now the bill is not a revenue raiser as it was intended. It is the writer's opinion that it will be a dead letter as the real reason for this tax equalization cry was to get more taxes from the land owner and to let the corporation alone.

The Income Tax bill passed the House Monday, and is now in the Senate. The bill was amended so that a person only pays 20% of the Federal Tax, and also deducts all state and county taxes from his report, in this shape. A man who pays taxes will deduct the amount from his income tax due the State, and if there is anything left, he pays an income tax. If a man pays $100.00 Federal income tax, his State tax would be $20.00. If he already pays state and county taxes to the amount of $25.00 he would not pay to the State. The bill is now in the Senate and its fate is uncertain.

We are working on the appropriation bills this week; the eleemosynary budget is not going to be reduced very much by the House, as it is already cut nearly $1,500,000 in the Senate. There are two more appropriation bills to come up yet, and they are the hardest ones. The departmental and educational bills; I do not see any chance of getting through next Tuesday, although we are going to work day and night from now on. We will probably be called back immediately after the present session ends to finish up.

HOW TO LOOK SLENDER—WHEN NOT

By JANE HILL

Some women are born to be tall and not so slender. Most of these have splendid physique, indomitable drive. They're pioneers, leaders; other women look up to them, whether their influence extends to the world at large, or just to their own social circle. But such women aren't always appreciated at their true worth, because they don't succeed in mastering the problem of becoming decorative as well as efficient.

The tall woman who is of this generous mould usually has a generous appetite to match her perfect digestion. She must be ware of letting her love for the good things of this life run away with her mirror. "Am I getting—not merely well filled out, but stout?" she must ask that honest soul of hers. And if the answer is yes, she must go at the problem with all the energy she has—and it's a tremendous force!

Roll on the floor. That's one of the best exercises to decrease weight. Forward and back, forward and back—what if your hairpins do come out, and your breath gets short? Scrub the floor too. (Or pay five hundred dollars to a specialist to exercise the same muscles for you!) Walk. Run, if you can. Take Turkish baths. Bat, above and beyond all, cut out fat-making sugars and starches, and always leave the table feeling you could eat just a little more. Hard? Yes. But not so hard as looking at yourself if you don't.

Be Careful of Details

Be very, very careful as to your grooming, you women who aren't slender, whether you're young or not so young. Be careful in the selection of your colors, recognizing that light shades are bad for you and black is your friend. Contrast is fatal. Round and round lines will add a pound or two for every inch of them you use. Up and down lines give slenderness, and long skirts will be your salvation.

Panels are good. Dull-finished materials are kind to you, and so are those that drape easily. Never let your dressmaker draw attention to your collar, your belt, or the finish at the bottom of your skirt. Don't wear big hats. Don't wear clothes that are moulded to your form; leave people guessing as to which is you and which is clothes.

Finally, don't underestimate the little things. Make life serve you (as you serve it), by playing up all the loveliness there is about you—I wonder, do you know how much there is?

Are you Short and Not So Slender?

This is the "cuddlesome girl," and many a man could love no other. She has little, rounded elbows with dimples in them; she has dancing kindly eyes; she has a nice chuckly friendly laugh. She's comfortable to live with. Very often she's a good cook.

That's where her weakness lies. She likes chocolate cake with inch-thick icing. She likes a book and a box of candy. And, lo and behold, before she knows it, she meets a mirror some day—a full length mirror as truthful as the Father of his Country—and she gives a little gasp, and her nice eyes go big, and her pink cheeks go white—and she's fat!

Of course she should cut out the candy—though her very easy-going disposition, her sweet comfortableness, is against this. Of course she should be rigorous with herself—she who hates to be rigorous with anybody. But at least she can go and by the right corset, one that has short bones, to avoid pushing up when she sits down, but one that is a firm-minded little corset all the same, and that really fits.

Of course, too, she can stop wearing the frilly, ruffy things that aren't for a lady of her inches and take, instead, to simpler compositions that run up and down. Of course, too, she can "stand tall," by holding herself as upright as may be without rising on her ties. And she should never forget that, after all, height is a matter of suggestion rather than of inches. If she thinks of herself as tall, and acts as though she were tall, people will never realize how short she really is.

If you have any corset problem, write to Miss Jane Hill, in care of this paper, and your letter (unopened) will be forwarded direct to her for answer.

PERMANENT ENAMEL BAKED ON STEEL

Eight years ago, when Dodge Brothers originated the all-steel motor car body, they took advantage of the absence of wood in the framework to bake an enamel finish on the surface of the steel.

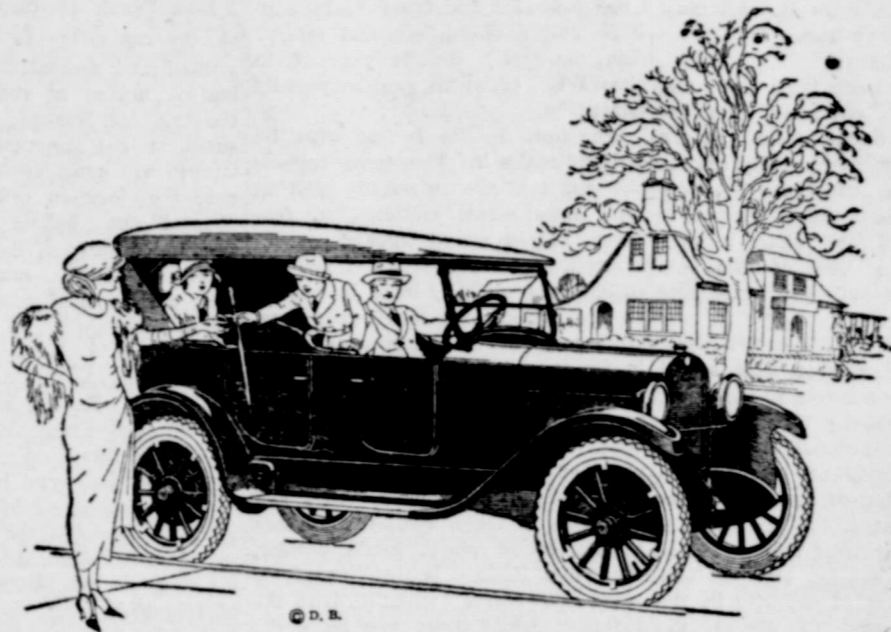

In a vast series of electric ovens, especially designed and built by Dodge Brothers' engineers for this process, three distinct coats of black enamel are successively baked on the steel at an intensely high temperature.

The result is a finish so hardy and durable that it seldom requires more than a good cleaning and polishing to restore the original brightness.

Even in sections of the Southwest where alkali in the soil is especially destructive to body finishes, Dodge Brothers enamel retains its beautiful lustre after years of wear.

The price of the Touring Car is $1005.00 delivered

BRADY, TEXAS, MAY 11, 1923

HONEST INJUN.

My son, when anyone slanders you or accuses you falsely, remember it is always best to keep quiet and let the mud settle to the bottom.

THE SPIRIT OF "WE".

A prominent Brady citizen the other day got off a bit of philosophy that is so true and apt, we feel impelled to give it to our readers and let them reflect upon it. All must agree that it rings true.

Said this citizen:
When you go away from home and meet up with strangers, you are certain to be asked where you are from. Of course, you proudly answer "Brady." Then comes the question, "Well, what kind of a town is Brady?" And you again proudly answer that is one of the best towns in Texas—and you enumerate thusly:

WE are building a beautiful, two-story modern, fire-proof high school building that is a credit to the town;

WE voted bonds a few years ago which enabled us to drill a well that has given Brady an inexhaustible supply of the purest and best water in West Texas;

WE are going after the location of Texas "Tech" college, and we have the best chances of any city in the "Heart of Texas" to secure the designation;

WE are building a three-story hotel building that is a model, and which will provide 54 rooms, most of them with connecting baths, and which is of fireproof construction, and a model in every way;

WE have organized a Building and Loan association which is helping our citizens to build new homes, to remodel and improve old ones, and which is proving a wonderful asset to our city;

WE have the prettiest court yard, and the most attractive Ladies Rest Room in the country—and every visitor in Brady comments most favorably upon the beauty and service of these improvements;

WE are building more new business buildings and constructing more new homes than ever before in any one period;

WE have the finest citizens, the most progressive and up-and-at-'em spirit of any town anywhere in the U. S. or the world—

That's the spirit in which every Brady citizen wants to reply, and yet—

Said this prominent citizen: Just how much are YOU contributing towards all these things of which you so proudly boast away from home? Are you supporting local enterprises whole-heartedly? Are you boosting every move for the betterment of Brady? Are you backing the Brady "Tech" committee to the limit with your financial assistance, moral support and unselfish physical effort? Can you really include yourself in the "WE" of whom you so proudly boast?

Any town or city is just what its citizens make it. The town reflects the spirit of the citizenship just as truly as a mirror reflects your features. If you are a laggard an obstructionist, a pessimist; if you are indifferent, too busy to be interested, or too selfish to give of your time, then you are hindering your town in its true development. If a few men can take the lead, and make progress, just think what could be done if every citizen would pull instead of laying back in the breeching.

It takes days, months, years and centuries to build, and only minutes to destroy or retard. Little wonder, then, that History is always ready to place the laurel wreath upon the builders, while those who shun the duty owed humanity and civilization return to dust and are forgotten.

OH, LOOK HERE.

N. H. Pierce left Wednesday night for Mexia and other points in East Texas to look after his business interests. In addition to being an all-around job printer Mr. Pierce is somewhat versed in the art of truck growing. He reports having already set out 5,000 tomato plants, 3,000 egg plants, and various and sundry other vegetables and not only expects to supply the local demand for the products of his irrigated farms, but supply Brady and other towns along the Frisco where people live principally from paper sacks and go into ecstasies of delight when they have a chance at even a "mess" of green stock peas.—Menard Messenger.

In enumerating Mr. Pierce's accomplishments, Josh Munsel, the versatile editor of the Menard Messenger, failed to mention the fact that Mr. Pierce has a poultry yard knee-deep in young turkeys, which, it is presumed, will be sufficiently wild this winter to provide some excellent trap-shooting for Brady and other towns along the Frisco, especially since those 3,000 egg plants may be expected to hatch out another crop of young turks every four weeks, if we understand the modus operandi correctly.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Hon. Frank Hartgraves, chairman of the committee to compile, have printed and presented to the locating committee of the Texas Tech the brief of Menard, has been assured by the committee that in due time it will come to Menard to look over the location offered. Thus is "busted" the bubble of hope for Brady, Brownwood, San Angelo and other candidate communities, for their only hope of getting the school lay in their ability to so manipulate matters as to keep the committee from coming to the magic valley of San Saba. Far be it from us to "crow" over Brady or act the least bigoted or "stuck-up" because Brady is the gamest town in West Texas and while hoping against hope, struggling to overcome the recognized insurmountable difficulties that lay in her thorn-strewn pathway the people of that town went right on working and toiling as though they had a "look-in" to secure the College. As soon as Dock Sellers and Harry Schwenker learn of the fact that the committee is coming to "Summerland," we are expecting them to come out in a three or four-column editorial congratulating Menard.—Menard Messenger.

We do congratulate Menard upon having the locating board look-in on them. Without question, the locating board will decide that "Summerland" is a delightful place to fish and hunt and loaf, while the "Heart of Texas" offers in Brady the ideal place to work and study and experiment, and live and learn and grow and develop. And while modestly appreciating the pretty compliment passed upon Brady as being the "gamest" town in Texas, we might add, without boasting, that Brady also expects to be "cock of the walk" when the locating board makes its final decision.

A white haired old gentleman was planting trees. "Why are you planting trees?" he was asked. "You will never live to enjoy them." "No," said the tree planter, "but they will make a good shade for those who will live here after I have gone." The above incident might have happened anywhere at any time but is typical of any man or woman who

SUNDAY IS MOTHER'S DAY

All that I am or hope to be I owe to my angel mother. Blessings on her memory.

Sunday is Mother's Day when maternal love should be the dominating thought of every American. The symbol of Mother's Day is the white carnation.

Suggestions have been made that the carnation as an emblem of mother love be worn.

If you have the good fortune to be living with your "best friend after all" how long has it been since you by some word or act showed her that you still love and reverence her as you did when she nursed you. If you are away from home, how long has it been since you wrote to your mother. Four years ago General Pershing when asking the American Expeditionary Force in France to write their mothers said "These letters will carry back our love and affection to the patriotic women whose love and prayers inspire us and cheer us on to victory." The same theory holds good today. Write your mother now.

The Origin of Mother's Day

Although the formal designation of Mother's Day was recently made in America, the idea comes from ancient custom reaching back to paganism. Mother worship antedates the Christian faith.

The earliest record of formal mother worship tells how Cybele, or Rhea, "The Great Mother of Gods" was worshiped in Asia Minor. Later this same "Mother of Gods" worship spread through Greece into Rome about two hundred and fifty years before Christ.

In Rome the celebration was known as the festival of Hilaria and was held on the Ides of March. With the coming of Christianity, the observance was somewhat changed retaining many of the old forms, then the festival grew into a celebration in honor of "Mother Church."

Through the centuries the celebration of the day continued until it reached the celebration of "Mothering Day" in medieval England. "Mothering Day" was a Sunday in mid-lent when young men and maidens who had been bound out as apprentices and servants were given time to visit their parents, especially their mothers bringing some little present.

From the quaint English observance comes the new American festival of "Mother's Day." Congress by a joint resolution in 1914 designated the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day and ex-president Wilson issued a proclamation setting that day as Mother's Day. Preceding the national observance of Mother's Day, Illinois led the nation in providing material thanksgiving to mothers, by the Mother's pen-

MODERATE, DELIGHTFUL CLIMATE AND WONDERFULLY FERTILE SOIL

COMPILATION OF DATA ON CLIMATE AND INFORMATION AS TO THE SOILS OF McCULLOCH COUNTY SHOW EXHAUSTIVE RESEARCH BY GEO. E. EHLINGER.

To George E. Ehlinger, county agent of McCulloch county, is the Brady "Tech" committee indebted for the treatise on McCulloch county's climate and soil, and which forms a most important part of the information contained in the brief submitted by Brady to the Texas Technological College committee. That the compilation of data for this article required days, is evidenced by the thorough and exhaustive manner in which the subjects are treated. This is only part of the work contributed by Mr. Ehlinger towards the complete brief, and much credit and praise is due him for his earnest efforts and the valuable information which he has contributed.

Mr. Ehlinger's treatise is as follows:
The Climate and Soil of McCulloch County.

In compiling data and discussing the climate and soil of any given area we must realize that, as regards agriculture, the two are very closely allied and it is also necessary to go into some detail in order to make clear the meanings of our discussion.

McCulloch County is located in the geographical center of Texas and is, therefore, one of sixty-one counties generally spoken of as Central West Texas. Within this group, it lies in what is known as the Central Basin region and its elevation averages 1759 feet. The Brady Mountains traverse the central part of the county from East to West within an elevation of approximately 2,000 feet. The northern half of the county has an elevation of some eighteen hundred feet, its surface is smooth to gently rolling and the drainage is to the North emptying into the Colorado River. The Southern half of the county is more broken with an average elevation of some 1650 feet. The drainage here is generally in a Southerly direction and into the Brady Creek and San Saba River. The water supply of the county is obtained from the streams, surface reservoirs and wells. In some portions of the county it is a bit difficult to find suitable water in wells, but good water is struck in most parts of the county at from twenty to fifteen hundred feet. A large portion of the county is underlaid by a fine body of artesian water, which is being developed of late years. The City of Brady has a well capable of producing, by actual test, one thousand gallons of the purest water per minute. In the Camp San Saba and Voca districts artesian water is obtained at from 250 to 350 feet. Irrigation is practiced to some extent in these sections and is being rapidly developed. Artesian flow of good water has also been obtained in the Northeastern and Northwestern portions of the county.

The prevailing direction of the wind is from the south from March to November, inclusive, and from the North during December, January and February. The North winds are usually dry and account in a large measure for the scanty winter precipitation. The wind movement is largest in March and April, and least in August and September. The hourly velocity for the year averages about nine and one-half miles.

The county is subject to occasional sudden and great changes of temperature, which occur mostly during the colder season in connection with storms and cold waves that sweep at irregular intervals over the State. These disturbances are usually preceded by abnormally warm weather, so that the monthly extremes of temperature may occur within a few days of each other. While the summers are long and warm the skies at night promote active radiation, and in consequence the oppressive noon-dry heat is followed by cool and restful night. In a record of ten years we have a summer average of eighty degrees and a winter average of fifty degrees. July has the highest and January the lowest mean temperature. The first killing frost in Autumn usually occurs in November, although it has been recorded as early as the middle of October. The last killing frost in the spring usually occurs in March but has been delayed as late as the last of April.

For the last five years the average annual precipitation amounted to twenty-six inches. So far as agricultural needs are concerned, however, the precipitation is very favorably distributed. About 63 percent of the annual amount occurs during the six months from April to September inclusive, which is the principal crop-growing season and 37 percent occurs during the other six months. This will give during the crop-growing season an average of about two and one-half inches per month. The month of May is usually the wettest month and January the driest, May having about three times as much as January.

The number of days with rain averages about thirty-three for the period April to September, inclusive, and about 23 for the remaining six months. The month of May has the largest average number of days with rain and the month of December the least. There are two days of rain in May to one in December.

The snowfall of the county is light and that which falls does not stay on the ground for any great length of time. The average annual snowfall amounts to about three inches. Snow has never been recorded before November nor after March, except flurries in April.

Owing to its topography and geographical location, McCulloch County affords a wide range of agricultural diversification. At the present time the production of Cotton, Live Stock, Dairy and Poultry products are given first consideration, although Grain Sorghums, Corn, Cereal, Grains and Forage Crops are grown extensively. Fruits and Vegetables are grown principally for home consumption, although in the Southern section of the county there are wonderful trucking possibilities with suitable soil and artesian water.

As stated in the beginning, the climate and soil of any given area are closely allied, and it is evident that climate is a factor in all geochemical relationships of soils. Not only does climate determine the kind of weathering to which the soil is subjected, but in many ways it influences very largely the characteristics of the soils of different provinces and sections. In areas of light rainfall the physical agents are dominant and disintegration goes on very largely without decomposition. Under humid conditions, however, the chemical forces are the determining factors as to the character of the soils. Arid soils are coarser and their color is more likely to be lighter than humid soils. By the process of weathering, rock masses are continually being broken down and gradually devolved into soils. The forces of weathering are easily grouped under two heads: first mechanical changes or disintegration brought about by erosion and denudation, by water, wind, ice, frost, heat and cold; and second chemical changes or decomposition brought about by oxidation, carbonation, deoxidation, hydration, and solution.

In the utilization of soils for agricultural purposes, climate, particularly as regards rainfall and temperature, plays an important part. Crop adaptation is really more of an adaptation to climate than to soil, although the latter must be given careful consideration.

Geologists have classed all soils as sedimentary, or those which have not moved far from their place of origin; and transported, those moved by gravity, water, ice and wind. Under the sedimentary soils we have the residual group formed from the decay of rocks and the cumuloose made from the accumulation of principally organic matter with the mineral constituents of minor importance. Shallow ponds, lakes and basins, which have been partly filled by stream action or glaciation are fertile sources of this soil. Under transported soils we have the Colluvial soils, transported by gravity. They are found in hilly and precipitous countries and are made of coarse loose earth and rocks which have slid off hills as avalanches, etc. Due to their nature these soils are of very little agricultural value. The soils transported by water are known as Alluvial, Marine and Lacustrine. Alluvial soils are found along our water courses and are very fertile. Marine soils form most of our coastal plains and are also very fertile. Lacustrine soils were formed during the glacial age and were carried away and deposited in basins, etc., by streams which were formed beneath and about the glaciers due to the melting of the ice. The soils transported by ice were those carried by the glaciers as they slid over the country thousands of years ago. When the ice melted the soil was deposited and formed some of the principal and most fertile soil of our Northern states. Soil formed and transported by the wind is known as the Aeolian type.

Having considered the soils under the above heading we can now, from its geographical location and its topography, determine the classes of soils most likely to be found in McCulloch County. Its location is too far South to have had its soil formed from glacial deposits, and too far North to be included in the Marine deposits. Therefore we must by deduction conclude that our soils are principally residual, cumuloose, colluvial, alluvial and Aeolian.

Under the above classifications there are many sub-classes of soils as are dealt with in field analysis of agricultural soils, but since no such analysis has ever been made of McCulloch County, we will have to draw our conclusions from observations and the analysis made of neighboring counties. The soils of Taylor County just to the North of us have been analyzed and this gives us a fairly accurate criterion to go by in classifying the soils of McCulloch County. We also can check the classification from the analysis of the soils of Bell County to the East of us. We have in the county, hills and knolls covered with stony thin layers of soil of varying character from black to sand. Then we have the soil around the base of these elevations, also containing rocks in varying proportions and sizes. This land also varies from black to sandy, is generally deeper and more fertile than the higher land. Between the hills we have large valleys, more or less level and rolling and covered with rich black loam land. This class of lands form our most important agricultural lands and are found principally in the Northwestern, Western and Eastern portions of the county. The Alluvial soils of the county lie along the watercourses and the sandy-land belt is principally in the Southern third of the county.

—But You Can't Ride on the Paint!

Imitation diamonds can be made to look so real and sparkle so brightly that it is difficult to tell them from the genuine.

But try to sell one and you will find out its real worth in a flash.

Same with automobiles. Weaknesses of construction in a closed car can be hidden, for a time, with paint and varnish and fancy fittings. But all is not quality that glitters.

You can't ride on the paint. And when you place such a car in the second hand market, you suffer a heavy depreciation because it lacked real intrinsic value at the outset. Use will never improve a mediocre product.

The second hand floor is the melting pot for automobile values. Cars are stripped of artificial values and only inherent worth counts.

Motor car owners tell us that the trade-in value of any Studebaker car at the end of three or four or five years of useful life is greater than on any other car built today—the percentage of depreciation is the lowest.

No wonder the Studebaker Light-Six Sedan is the fastest selling quality Sedan in the world!

The name Studebaker stands for quality, durability, comfort and integrity.

Terms to Meet Your Convenience

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

EVERY visitor to the field of Waterloo knows the Lion Mound, but not one in a thousand is acquainted with its true history, and the great majority of British tourists at least regard it as the British Lion. In 1829, shortly after its erection, a French visitor named Salntine described it as "the Belgic Lion looking towards and apparently threatening France." That description seems not to have been forgotten, and probably lies at the root of the suggestion just made in Brussels to turn the lion round so that the threat—it needs a very lively imagination to see any at all—in the pose may be diverted from France in the direction of Holland, writes Demetrius C. Boulger in the Graphic.

What was the origin of the mound and the lion? In the first place, the animal represented is neither a British nor a Belgic emblem; it is the Dutch lion, and somewhere in a corner, if it has not been obliterated, will be found, I imagine, the motto of Nassau-Orange, "Je Maintiendrai." Whatever is done with it, then, the susceptibilities of neither Belgians nor British are involved. The British government have certainly no inherited claim to a voice in whatever solution may be adopted. It is not their concern.

How the Mound Was Built.

In 1826 William I of the Netherlands, the great-grandfather of the present Queen Wilhelmina and one of the most obstinate personages to be found in the whole range of history, conceived that the field of Waterloo required a memorial to establish the heroism of his eldest son, who had received a wound on the occasion. The king was actuated entirely by dynastic considerations, unless he also wished to provide the foundries of Cockerill, in which he was the largest shareholder, with a profitable commission. At all events it is quite clear that the Belgian people took no interest or part in the matter, which was decided by a vote of the states-general at The Hague. The vote being passed, the governments of Britain and Prussia were then invited to make a contribution to the memorial. They complied to a certain limited extent, the British consenting, for their part, to the removal of certain French cannon in Wellington's Belgian fortresses in order to provide the material for the proposed lion.

By that time William had decided on the form of the memorial. It was to be the erection of an enormous mound some 200 feet above the crest of Mont St. Jean, at the spot where his son, the prince of Orange, had been wounded, the mound to be crowned by the Lion of the Netherlands. The clay for the mound was brought from the steep sides of the famous "sunken road," which disappeared in the process, by women of the district, who were paid at the rate of half a franc a basket, and the site marked by Wellington's tree was included within the radius of the elevation—so that when the duke revisited the scene in 1829 with his daughter-in-law, Lady Douro, he made the expressive comment, "My battlefield has been spoilt."

Legend of the Lion's Tail.

The memorial, completed in 1828, had been in existence two years when the Belgian revolution broke out in August, 1830. A year later a French army advanced to Louvain to repel a Dutch invasion. It was said that some of the French corps in that advance crossed the field and took offense, not at the mound or the lion, but at the shape of its tail, which, erect in the air, seemed to express defiance! The story went on to say that in their wrath they broke off the tail, and that the complainant Belgians supplied the lion with a new one, no longer erect, but made gracefully dependent.

I went to considerable pains in 1901 to show that this legend could have no real basis, because the contemporary drawings in the Brussels Museum of Prints showed the lion being hoisted into its position with the tail in precisely the same form as it wears today. There is no evidence of any change having been made at that time or any other.

In December, 1832, the French army rendered a second signal service to the Belgian people by the siege and capture of the Antwerp citadel, and once more a French regiment traversed the scene without doing any damage. A proposal was then made in the Belgian chamber by a patriotic leader, M. Gendebien, to the effect that the national gratitude should be evinced by the removal of the lion monument altogether. He called it, and justly, as has been shown, "the hateful emblem of the despotism and violence which made us subject for 15 years to the humiliating yoke which we cast off in

ARGENTINE GREAT CATTLE COUNTRY; SEVERAL KINDS WINES; WILD WOMEN

J. Tom Padgett of Coleman, who with Mrs. Padgett is touring South America, says Argentine is a great cattle country. Writing from Buenos Aires, March 17, to S. P. Woodward of Coleman, he says:

"I am away down here seeing South America and learning to speak Spanish, but I can assure you that my eyesight is much more to be relied upon than my Spanish tongue.

This is a large city, about the size of Chicago, and is well and substantially built, many buildings going up are of steel construction and I have never seen the like of such beautiful plazas, parks and boulevards. Armour, Swift, Nelson Morris, Wilson and all the American packing houses have large plants here.

We have had the rare privilege of being guests on Senior Grondonas estancia about two hundred miles from here, which invitation was arranged through the Armour Packing Co. Two of Armour's men went with us—one to act as interpreter for us and the other to "revise" four hundred steers, instead of using revise we would say inspect. We were on this ranch two days and nights, and we did not have a drink of water from the time we left Buenos Aires until we got back; wines of all shades being served instead of water. I know I occupied a very enviable position and thought of my many friends at home. Senior Grondona has twenty-six thousand acres of land on which he runs fourteen thousand head of cattle, and they are all big and fat. Alfalfa only has to be planted once in from twenty to thirty years, seven cuttings is made each year which averages 11-2 tons per acre to the cutting. Senior says that he has enough alfalfa stacked to run him for three years, and always keeps three years ahead on feed.

Senior Grondona has two nice ranch houses with tile floors, one is square and the other is built with a court in it. We were never more royally entertained by all members of the family.

When we first arrived we were invited to take tea, then inspected cattle in a six cylinder Buick and some of the party following in a Fiat, a French car. When we returned we had dinner, or supper as I call it, which consisted of seven courses and five different kinds of wine were served. We took some pictures of the cattle and houses, also got some pictures of the "Gouchos" which means cowboys. These pictures have not been developed or I would send them to you. This is a very "fast" country, plenty of strong whiskey and wild women. This is no country for a young man as he would soon be led astray. Willie and I have seen many sights, and have seen a lot of Spanish dances.

We leave here March 18th for the West Coast of South America, crossing the country by rail, a distance of nine hundred miles. The Argentine is a network of railroads, and has every appearance of being a prosperous country. Good fat 1200 pound steers are low in price, they would bring only $60.00 to $70.00 per head on foot. Good improved alfalfa ranches can be bought from $80.00 to $300.00 per acre, all depending upon the improvements.

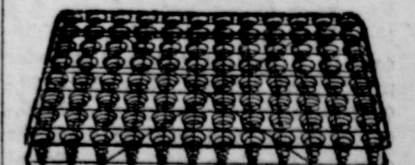

We have had a wonderful trip and full of interest. We came here on the "Darro" a ship which sails between Liverpool, England and Buenos Aires. It carries a cargo of sixteen thousand dressed beavers on its way back to Liverpool—and makes four trips each year. * * *—Coleman D.V.

No Worms in a Healthy Child
All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a general strengthening tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60¢ per bottle.

Richard Lloyd Jones Says Road Making a Day by Day Job

Every man is a road-maker. He builds the road over which he himself is to travel. If he is careless and insincere his road will be poorly made and he will find himself stalled in the soft mud of indifference. If he be sincere and diligent he will make a highway over which he can travel far.

The Ancient Romans built, with much labor, the famous Appian Way. To do this they laid end to end great, heavy, flat stones. Time shifted the great blocks of the Appian Way; they were not laid upon a strong bed of little stones.

Many centuries later a Scotchman by the name of McAdam found a better way to build an enduring road. McAdam accepted for his road only very little stones—stones that would slip between his thumb and first finger. The little stones could shift, they could settle and as they shifted and settled the "macadam" road became firmer and better.

The life road-maker who makes surest of his future lays his road bed in daily deeds of good rather than by seeking only to lay down the large blocks of ambitious performance.

The man who gets more out of life and he who gives most to life is the man who sees the good in little things,—who learns how to use little things,—who negotiates.

lects or despises no detail and who builds his life road constantly and insistently with little deeds well done. Measure the deeds of any great man and you will find his achievements have grown out of an experience of doing the small things with patience and painstaking fidelity.

The man of moral courage does not reach his moral power by one full leap; it is a matter of road-making; he acquires his moral strength step by step.

The architect who conceives the great cathedral or the monumental tower has first learned to use the T-square and the sweep; he has learned the mathematical laws that govern the stress and distribution of weight; he has built his road step by step and over it he has reached the thing of strength and beauty.

The road that is without a firm foundation is not the road of an enduring civilization. Soft clay carries no commerce. The road of least resistance is the road that retards progress,—that holds back the traveler who would use it. Each day we lay the foundation for the road we are to travel tomorrow.

Life's prizes are not gifts; they are goals; they must be won; we must build the road over which we are to pass to reach them.

poem by UNCLE JOHN

It seems to me, this world of our'n is more supremely human, and fuller of amazes, since we've got the Business Woman. . . . I've hammered on my prejudice, till I've sub-dued the critter, and I can welcome Mary Ann, as cordial as I fit her! There ain't a job in man's domain, EQUALITY OR MORE to Maude or Jane, and so, we fork 'em over. . . . O, welcome to our stalwart ranks, ye Mesdames and ye fappers—invade our shops, our stores, our banks, and show us clumsy yappers! I like perfumery around, I'm fond of curlin' papers—an' don't ye think that whiskers might augment yer mannish capers? . . . And smokin', too, might brace yer game, an' make the deal fraternal,—an' sometimes we could call ye "Jedge" or "Cap" or even "Colonel"! There's nothin' like equality in plain or fancy preachin' nor nothin' in humanity that could be furdur reachin'. . . . The little step from skyirt to pants is daily growin' smarter,—Awake, Arouse, Salute, Advance,—My darter, O, my darter!

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY for 1923

ALL this talk about Pharaoh's curse killing the powerful Carnarvon, the man whose power of wealth and energy succeeded in bringing to light the grave of old Tutankahem, may keep alive old superstition. The Irishman may believe in the banshee and the lapra-haun a little longer and the "coon" carry an extra rabbit's foot, but un-truth never lasts, though often it serves a purpose. The dying of the English Earl was not in vain. In life he revealed to us a treasure of knowledge long buried from the in-quiring mind of man, and in his death he showed the importance of the little thing. The mouse freed the lion. Maybe the clerk and the busy business man declines to hear a message of millions and of moment. If ye have cars, use them. v
