CORNER STONE AT NEW HIGH SCHOOL LAID BY MASONIC ORDER WEDNESDAY

DR. WM. C. JONES, WORSHIPFUL GRAND MASTER, WAS IN CHARGE OF CEREMONY—ADDRESS OF JUDGE EVANS J. ADKINS WAS FEATURE AT CLOSE.

Wednesday, June 13, the Masonic Lodge laid the corner stone for the Brady High School. The ceremony was beautiful and well worth seeing; however, few people were there to witness the laying of the corner stone. The Masons taking part in the ceremony were formed in a column of twos a short way from the building with Dr. Jack Ragsdale in charge they were marched up to the building and turned over to Dr. Wm. C. Jones, Worshipful Grand Master, who conducted the rest of the ceremony.

After depositing the various articles in a metal box, and among those articles was a copy of The Brady Standard, and the Brady Sentinel, the roster of the Brady Masonic Lodge, etc., after placing the box, the corner stone, a beautiful marble stone from the Fredericksburg marble yard, was laid.

The working implements of the Masonic Lodge were used to square and plumb it and every precaution was taken to see that it was exactly in the right position.

After the ceremony, Judge Evans J. Adkins was called upon to make a speech on the occasion, and his speech was so timely and so true that for the benefit of those who could not attend, it is published in this paper.

Address of Judge Adkins.

Worshipful Grand Master, Brother Masons, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is customary at this stage of the ceremony of laying a corner stone by a Masonic body to have a talk, and while I realize my incompetency to meet the demands of an occasion such as this, I nevertheless, appreciate the honor to the fullest extent, for it is a great honor to be a representative of Masonry in any capacity, and more especially on this occasion when we meet to have a small part in the completion of this monument erected to the cause of education in Brady.

Masonry has, in all ages, stood for all that is noble, grand and beautiful. The principles of Masonry have existed in the hearts of men since the beginning of time. While this is no time to enter into a discussion of the history of Masonry, this we know, that the Supreme Grand Master has existed before the beginning of time, and when He breathed into man the breath of life and immortality, He implanted in his soul, the principles of Freemasonry, and those principles have been espoused and practiced in every age of the world. It is the spirit of Masonry that is of Divine origin, and being divine, will continue to serve and bless humanity. We, as a fraternity, will increase our usefulness in proportion to our growth in that spirit, and as we learn and realize that it is the internal, and not the external that Masonry regards, and that just as the spirit of man is the life of man, so is the spirit of Masonry the life of Masonry, just so will we add day by day to the temple of civilization and by pushing its completion, usher in the Golden age when we shall rest and enjoy the fruits of our labor. The spirit of Masonry presents an inexhaustible subject and the achievements of our great Fraternity, could be discussed indefinitely, but as true Masons and builders, we must not take time to dwell upon the past, for the Great Architect of the Universe is never idle, and while the craft is at rest and refreshment, He is busy in that Sanctum Sanctorum above, drawing His designs upon the Trestleboard for the slowly rising Temple of Civilization.

Our work in the construction of this Temple is effective so long as we support those institutions that increase our social and moral virtues, and uphold the ideals, the usefulness and the efficiency of our citizenship.

Those institutions are the home, the church, and the school. The home is a sacred institution and its sanctity can never be violated by a true Mason, but as Masons we should go even further and be willing to shed our life blood rather than stand supinely by and watch the slimy serpent cross its sacred portals.

The church is the greatest exponent of true Masonry in the world today. It is the inner chamber, where the Supreme Grand Master bids all to come and drink at the fountain of life, where faith in the merits of the Lion of the Tribe of Juda, we are welcomed to a blessed immortality, where the pass word is Jesus the Savior and the sign is the blood which He spilt on Calvary for you and for me. Truly all Masons should support this great institution of our Master.

But the third and last institution for our consideration today, is the one which we have been more prone to neglect than any other, our schools. So this morning let us rededicate our lives to the cause of education, and reconcentrate our Masonry to the benefit of the rising and coming generations. As we view with pride this beautiful building, let us remember the youth who will enter therein, he comes to us in the morning of life, with the dew of heaven upon his days and the birds singing in his heart. What a wonderful piece of material for this temple we are constructing, if placed in the hands of efficient workmen, equipped with the proper tools and equipment.

We in Brady are fortunate in having efficient workmen to mould and train our children's minds and characters. Today we view with pride this beautiful structure and are thankful that we have taken this step upward; but let us not forget that we have only started to provide the necessary equipment, needed to give your child and my child and our neighbors' children the advantages that are rightfully theirs. Let us not forget our rank among the high schools of Texas is 128th; then consider Texas' rank of 38th in education among the States of the Union. Isn't this enough to cause us as Masons, and as citizens to pledge our resources, our money, and our best efforts to the cause of educational facilities in Brady? This is a duty we owe our children, our community, our nation and our Masonry. Our children will soon be the men and women of tomorrow; they will leave our roofs and be forced to struggle through an age, whose generation will be better educated and better equipped than we are today. How will they fare in comparison with those who go out into life from communities, no larger, no wealthier, but apparently more progressive than we? For their sake and the sake of future generations let us give them their rightful heritage. We should do this not only for the sake of the children, but pride in our town and community, should cause us to use every effort to advance from the low rating which is ours, because of our past indifference.

Then again, we owe it as a duty to our nation. No people can thrive in ignorance, the only hope of our political life is educated men and women. Religion can not flourish in ignorance and our social life becomes corrupt where education has suffered. An educated citizenship has become a necessity in our nation as never before in the history of our country. We have seen how hords of immigrants have been dumped within our borders and here they have found some fertile soil for the red, the Bolshevike and the I. W. W. to do his work. True we have been more fortunate than other countries in withstanding this wave of radicalism but still Bolshevism has left its slimy trail across this fair land of ours and would have left a deeper trail had it not been for the system of schools that we have had for the last 50 years. They saved us in this time of need, but they must be improved if they prove sufficient for the future.

So with this thought let us determine that today, as we gather about this new High School building, for the purpose of laying this corner stone, with our beautiful Masonic ceremony, that we will let this be the foundation upon which we will build a great educational system for Brady and McCulloch county and with the true spirit of Masonry, let us build a structure that will be a blessing to our town, our citizenship and a credit to our great fraternity.

MCBURNETT BUYS STEEL FURNITURE FOR BRADY HOTEL

All-steel furniture, said to be the first ever shipped to Texas, will be used in the new Hotel Brady, now building in the McCulloch county capital. It will be indestructible, fire-proof and easily kept clean and sanitary, yet will resemble the best walnut, due to a special finish.

C. C. McBurnett, proprietor of the St. Angelus and Landon hotels here, who has leased the Hotel Brady for twenty years, returned Thursday afternoon with Luther B. Monroe of the Robert Massie Company from Dallas, St. Louis and Chicago, where they bought furniture, fixtures and equipment costing between $21,000 and $22,000. All the purchases were made through the Robert Massie Company of San Angelo.

The all-steel furniture—beds, dressers, tables and chairs—were bought from Simmons Manufacturing Company of Chicago. This type of furniture is only being introduced this year and will not be exhibited at furniture shows until July, Mr. McBurnett said. The kitchen equipment was secured from Huey & Phillips Hardware Company at Dallas, while the carpets were purchased from the Renard Carpet Company of St. Louis. The carpets alone for the Hotel Brady cost between $4,800 and $5,000.

All this equipment will be shipped to Brady by August 1, as it is expected that the new hotel will be ready for opening between August 15 and September 1.—San Angelo Standard.

Old Man Kirchner just phoned that the street sprinkler had arrived, and that it was time for the Chamber of Commerce to get busy, and finance the running of it, so if you know of anybody who can live on half pay, and do about ten hours' work a day, we have a good job for them.

ARE WE GETTING MAXIMUM PRODUCTION ON FARMS?

Cotton is our big crop, and in some instances our only crop. Read the following article from the Iowa State Chamber of Commerce, and compare with our own production records.

Iowa's annual apple crop is worth more than that of any of the Pacific or mountain states.

Iowa's wool is worth more than California's strawberries.

Iowa's honey is worth more than California's figs.

Iowa's horses are worth more than the cotton crop of any state, even Texas.

Iowa has 1,400,000 head of horses, including one-half of the Belgian horses raised in the country.

Iowa has exported more horses for service in European wars than any other state. More persons in Iowa are engaged in breeding pure-bred horses and cattle than in any other state.

Today Iowa breeds more Percheron horses than France, more Belgian horses than Belgium, more Iowa's corn is worth more than the annual products of all the gold mines of the United States. It is also worth more than all the output of anthracite coal in the United States.

Again it is worth more than all of Canada's or Argentina's wheat crop.

Iowa's egg production is worth more than all the oranges raised in the United States.

Iowa's hens produce more wealth each year than all of Colorado's mines.

Iowa's cattle are worth more than the entire tobacco crop of the United States.

Iowa has seven million head of cattle, including the largest herd of Blackface cattle in the world.

Iowa has eleven million head of hogs.

Iowa has the second largest gold-fish farm in the world.

Iowa has the prize winning sheep herds of the world.

Iowa is the second largest honey producing state in the Union, while its honey crop is valued more than that of any other state.

Clydesdale horses than Scotland, and more Shire horses than England, for today Iowa breeds one-fifth of all the Percheron horses in the United States, one-sixth of all the Shires in the United States, one-fourth of all the Clydesdales in the United States, and one-half of the Belgians in the United States.

The per capita wealth of Iowa is nearly twice as great as the per capita wealth of the United States. Iowa's per capita wealth is $3.345, while that of the United States is $1.965.

Grasshoppers Appear About to Get All the Cotton.

Voca, Texas, June 4, 1923.
Editor Brady Standard:

Here I come again after a week's absence.

We are glad to report Silas Leddy, who was operated on last Monday at the Brady sanitarium, is doing nicely.

Misses Lois and Ruby Williams made a shopping trip to Brady Monday.

We are sorry to announce the grasshoppers are still doing damage, and it seems like they are going to get most all the cotton.

Mr. Zim Pinson took Miss Bessie Pinson to Brady Sunday for treatment.

Mrs. Leddy of Oklahoma is visiting her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leddy, and Mrs. M. E. Mayo of this place.

Mrs. Stedham of Brownwood is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Massey.

Mrs. L. Pasmore spent last week at Mason with her daughter, Mrs. Aaron Tensley.

The singing at Mr. Tom Brown's Sunday night was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Some of the young folks of this place went to Fredonia Saturday night.

Well, as news is scarce, I will close for this time.

FIFE FINDINGS.

The Fife Gin Company is the Name of the New Corporation.

The gin will be built here as soon as work of contracting can be finished. Everything is going good toward that end. The Fife people have expressed gladness and thanks for the interest taken in this community from Brady and Lonn. The gin business could possibly lose money, but we can say it went for a good cause if it does.

The above is the best news we have heard for quite awhile. James Finlay wired that the application for our charter was filed at 11:00 o'clock Monday morning.

The Doyle girls, Misses Ethel and Nellie, are off to Denton Monday evening to attend the school there.

The hoppers—winged variety—are eating some cotton here east of Fife. Mr. Rasco has moved a wagon into his field and placed all the young chickens he has there. They come to the wagon every night to roost, and are there handy to combat the enemy all day.

Crops are looking fine in this vicinity now. Cotton is being chopped fast. Old Dad, the negro veteran at that business, handles six acres a day.

Mr. Edwards is here today, Tuesday, with Mr. Summers, the Murray man. He was accompanied here yesterday by Mr. Hughes, the Mullet man, and Mr. Embry.

JAKE.

An Embarrassing Mistake.

Mr. C., a distinguished lawyer of Chicago, was on his way to Denver to transact some important business. During the afternoon he noticed in the opposite section of the Pullman, a sweet-faced, tired-appearing woman traveling with four small children. Being fond of children and feeling sorry for the mother, he soon made friends with the little ones.

Early the next morning he heard their eager questions and the patient "Yes, dear," of the mother as she tried to dress them, and looking out he saw a small white foot protruding beyond the opposite curtain. Reaching across the aisle, he took hold of the large toe and began to recite: "This little pig went to market, this little pig stayed at home; this little pig had roast beef, this little pig had none; this little pig cried wee wee all the way home." The foot was suddenly withdrawn and a cold, quiet voice said: "That is quite sufficient, thank you."

Mr. C. hastily withdrew to the smoker, where he remained until the train arrived in Denver.

Discredited.

From Answers, London: The case for the defense was not going as well as the counsel for that party had hoped. The plaintiff was proving very self-possessed, and was not at all flustered by the defending counsel's cross-examination.

"I suppose," said that lawyer snappily, "that you remember the date of your birth?"

"Certainly," said the witness coolly. "Everyone remembers his birthday."

"A newly-born infant has no memory. Now, sir, how do you know that it wasn't a day sooner or a day later, or a week or even a year after?"

"Why—well—er—I've been told—" "Exactly. You've been told, but you don't know. Step down. Members of the jury, this is the kind of witness that is brought to testify against the unimpeachable character of my client."

Alert!

The division was having maneuvers for the benefit of visitors' day and everything was being let loose at once. A pretty girl was eagerly watching the performance when a rifle volley crashed out. With a surprised scream she fell back into the arms of a young corporal who was standing just behind her.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," she gasped, blushing, "I was frightened by the rifles."

"Quite all right," replied the corporal. Then he added hopefully, "Let's go over and watch the heavy artillery for awhile."

A Lone Exception.

"Somebody is always offering to make you rich."

"That's a fact," said the credulous citizen.

"But did a man ever attempt to make you take cold cash, without having a string tied to his offer?"

"Only once, but after his keeper had called me aside and explained the situation, I handed it back."

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Brady Citizens Shows a Way. There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Brady citizen says:

B. Strickland, says: "About the only indication of kidney complaint I endured was getting down with my back. This came on often and I suffered badly with it. I found Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me of this trouble. I always keep them on hand and use them if needed."

AFTER FOUR YEARS Mr. Strickland said: "The recommendation I gave in 1915 holds good for I think Doan's Kidney Pills are just the thing for kidney trouble. Occasionally I take a few Doan's with good results."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Strickland had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Stenographer's Innings.

On a trial in a certain court in this state, when the witness on the stand was being subjected to a merciless cross-examination, in answering one question the witness nodded. Whereupon the court stenographer, who was crowding the limit to get it all, and could not see the witness, at once demanded, "Answer that question," to which the witness replied: "I did answer it; I nodded my head." The stenographer, without a moment's hesitation, came right back with: "Well, I heard it rattle, but could not tell whether it was up and down, or from side to side."—Law Notes.

The Ambition of His Life.

Herford sat next to a soulful poetess at dinner one night, and that dreamy one turned her sad eyes upon him. "Have you no other ambition, Mr. Herford," she demanded, "than to force people to degrade themselves by laughter?"

Yes, Herford had an ambition. A whole of an ambition. Some day he hoped to gratify it.

The woman rested her elbows on the table and propped her face in her long, sad hands, and gazed into Mr. Herford's eyes. "Oh, Mr. Herford," she said. "Oliver! Tell me about it."

"I want to throw an egg into an electric fan," said Herford, simply.

Why We Recommend Gossard Corsets

The Gossard Corset of today aims, not to make all women over and make them alike, but rather to direct, mould and delicately repropotion the figure so as to bring it into line with one's own type ideal;

—to provide the very lightest degree of restraint and support consistent with health and poise;

—to offer that distinctive style and graceful comfort that the good taste of the sensibly dressed gentlewoman demands.

And these superior corsets are fairly priced—from $2.50 upward. It will pay you to see what our corsetiere can do for you.

ARE YOU TALL AND SLENDER?

By JANE HILL.

The tall and slender woman is the type generally chosen by the artist when he sketches clothes, as well as by the famous dressmaker when she shows them on living models. The reason why she looks so well is, in large measure, because of that beautiful long curve from armpit to ankle. Even a less tall girl who is a bit long-waisted may have such a line.

The taller a woman is the more it matters how she carries herself, and yet it is just these tall girls who tend to stoop. Perhaps they think they're too tall, and so they aim to cut off a few inches by drooping. Never was there such a mistake! The lovely line of the neck is gone. The whole darning of the beautiful confident body. The charm of rhythmic motion suffers, too, for only as you start from a sure-poised equilibrium will you be wonderful to watch as you walk, or dance, or play tennis.

Here again, in the very foundation of beauty of movement, comes in the corset. You should be sure to get a model that is light in weight, with few bones, but long enough over the hips to preserve that curving, unbroken line that is your very loveliest. There are corsets designed for your type that are quite different from those the average figure needs. Be sure your fitter finds them for you.

The tall slender woman may wear almost any of the popular modes—since they are, in the main, created for her—unless she is extreme for her type. Then she should avoid the too-long line. If her legs are too long, she should lower her waistline; if her arms are too long, she should wear a trimmed or a double sleeve; if her face is too long, she should puff out her hair and wear hats that have width, hats, perhaps, with that drooping brim so characteristic of the English mode. The too-tall girl should never wear short skirts, or noticeable shoes on her too-long feet. These last statements would seem to be self-evident and yet, just notice the number of transgressors the next time you go for a walk.

It is graceful to be tall and slender when we are well proportioned. But if we are not careful, as we grow older we are apt to develop angles instead of curves, and unkind people call us not "slim," but "thin." The cure for this tendency is the persuasive moulding of the proper corset designed to give youthful roundness to those lines of the tall, slender figures that are not sufficiently curved.

Are You Short and Slender?
There has always been a peculiar appeal about the little girl who just "comes up to a man's heart," the girl who "could walk under Adam's arm." She shares in the admiration we give to kittens and babies and all tiny dainty, flower-like creatures. And, if she has big eyes and golden curls, we think she's perfect, and we worship her for a whole generation under the name of Mary Picford.

But all slender little girls don't know what Mary knows, and that is how to dress the type. To begin with, no matter how practical-minded she may be, the short girl must never wear the shirtwaist and skirt kind of thing, since she's too little to cut in two. Nor must she go to the opposite extreme and make herself into that horror of Broadway and its imitators—"The baby vamp." She's so little and her charm is so delicate that an exaggerated coiffure, too much make-up, and bad French clothes absolutely destroy her effectiveness. They're inappropriate to any type, of course, but they're worst of all for her.

Most little girls are free from such extreme errors as the two quoted. And yet, how often one sees them wearing clothes that are too heavy, clothes that are overtrimmed, clothes that are large patterned, hats that are ludicrously big, accessories that dwarf five-foot-nothing into a caricature of its sweet self.

Then, What Shall She Wear?
The little girl might do well to follow the immortal Mary in choosing a sort of sophisticated child's dress. Ruffles, sashes, thin simple materials, low-heeled slippers—all these are good for the little girl.

But so often she rebels against her lack of inches, and her very youthfulness! Well, she can be "quaint," with a demure old-fashioned look about her. Or she may be a tiny perfect little figure, very finished, very French, very much of the great world. Or she may be a bob-haired slim young hoyden—though we'd rather she wouldn't. But her clothes must be simple in effect, not broken as to color and line, for there isn't enough of her to convey more than one impression at a time.

The youth of such a type is very easy to dress, for there are so many

QUICK ACTION BRAKES EXTRA LARGE AND EXTRA SAFE

In the construction of Dodge Brothers Motor Car, every consideration has been given to the owner's safety.

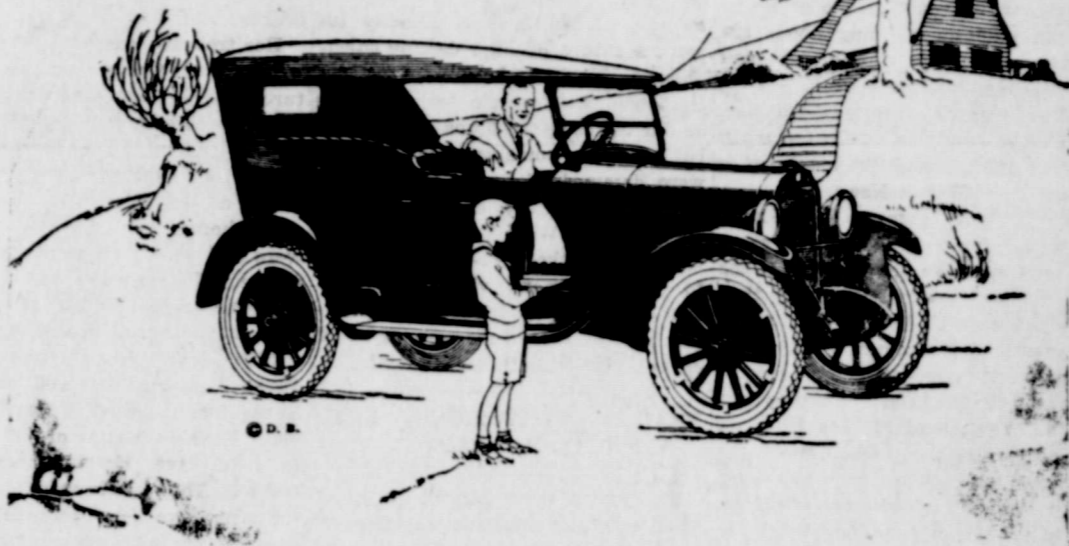

This is particularly evident in the brakes, which, with their 14-inch drums and 2 1/4 inch lining, are appreciably larger than the average. The extra surface thus provided develops greater friction when the brake bands contract over the drums—and it is this friction which stops the car.

Connecting levers are designed to transmit the maximum of power with the minimum of effort. The slightest pressure on the brake pedal has an immediate effect. This pressure is distributed evenly between the two rear wheels by a highly efficient equalizer, which prevents skidding because it retards both wheels simultaneously.

And the brake bands grip evenly all around the drums. This protects the lining against irregular wear and enables the driver to stop quickly, quietly and safely.

A man was one day visiting a lunatic asylum, and while walking in the grounds he met a patient to whom he said:

"Well, how did you get here?"

The man replied:

"Well, sir, you see, I married a widow with a grown-up daughter, and then my father married my wife's daughter, and that made my wife the mother-in-law of her father-in-law, and my father became my stepson. Then my stepmother, the daughter of my wife, had a son, and that boy, of course, was my brother, because he was my father's son; but he was also the son of my wife's stepdaughter, and therefore her grandson, and that made me grandfather of my stepbrother. My wife had a son, so my mother-in-law, the stepister of my son, is also his grandmother, because he is her stepson's child; my father is the brother-in-law of my child, because his step-sister is his wife; I am the brother of my own son, who is also the son of my stepgrandmother; I am my mother's brother-in-law; my wife is her own child's aunt; my son is my father's nephew; and I am my own grandfather.

"That's why I am here, sir!"—Uvalde Leader.

Professor Herman Lundborg, of Sweden says, "There is a grave doubt whether a people really gains anything when millions of money pour into the country. Luxuries are demanded, taste sets in, and the interest in work and production falls off. Women avoid maternity, and these processes, beginning in the middle and upper classes, gradually work downward and in time destroy the race."

"COLD IN THE HEAD"

is an acute attack of Nasal Catarrh. Those subject to frequent "colds" are generally in a "run down" condition.

HAL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Treatment consisting of an Ointment, to be used locally, and a Tonic, which acts Quickly through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces, building up the System, and making you less liable to "colds." Sold by druggists for over 40 Years. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

To Stop a Cough Quick

take HAYES' HEALING HONEY a cough medicine which stops the cough by healing the inflamed and irritated tissues. A box of GROVE'S OPEN-TRATE SALVE for Chest Colds, Head Colds and Croup is enclosed with every bottle of HAYES' HEALING HONEY. The salve should be rubbed on the chest and throat of children suffering from a Cold or Croup.

The healing effect of Hayes' Healing Honey inside the throat combined with the healing effect of Grove's O-Open-Trade Salve through the pores of the skin soon stops a cough.

Both remedies are packed in one carton and the cost of the combined treatment is 50c. Just ask your druggist for HAYES' HEALING HONEY.

things that one may do with it, essence of springtime that it is. But middle age holds terrors! For you, above all people, slender little girl, must never, never grow sideways. If you do, the whole charm is gone. Keep the years off—by exercise, by diet, by clever coesery as well as with every cunning device that you and your dressmaker can concoct.

From the beginning you must be careful in the selection of your corsets. Get a moderately short, light model with few bones, not a small size of a big woman's corset, but a corset designed especially for your kind of figure. Never have it tight. You can't afford to pinch your little curves. As you grow older, and the quarter-inch threatens you with more menace than an inch would bring to your tall cousin, make a friend of your corsetiere. You'll need her! But if you keep young in mind and body, you'll always carry a charm like the fairies themselves. There's something about you that makes us all want to take care of you—especially if we're men, and very tall!

If you have any corset problem, write to Miss Jane Hill, in care of this paper, and your letter (unopened) will be forwarded direct to her for answer.

A TONIC

Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value. Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is simply Iron and Quinine suspended in syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs QUININE to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. Destroys Malarial germs and Grip germs by its Strengthening, invigorating Effect. 50c.

One On the Judge.

In a magistrate's court the other day a witness was being examined in a case where the defendant was charged with breaking the windshield of an automobile with a large stone.

"Was it as big as this book?" inquired the judge.

"Why, yes, it was much larger," replied the willing witness.

"Was it as big as these two books together?"

"Much bigger."

"Was it as large as my head?"

"It was as long, but not so thick," replied the witness amid much laughter.—Forbes.

SPEAKING ABOUT ROADS.

We notice where our friend Schwenker, of The Brady Standard, recently gave a splendid write-up on his city in his editorial columns and we scanned the article with care to notice he did not mention anything about the good roads of the county. Did you just neglect the paragraph, Harry, or have you not yet realized that good roads should be at the top when it comes to boosting the assets of a community.—Mason News.

That's right! Pummel The Standard editor for what McCulloch county hasn't got! We haven't gold mines nor diamond mines either, so they were not included in the boosting of the assets of McCulloch county. You know that's human nature to magnify our virtues, and minimize our faults. The Standard has little to say concerning the road question. We wish we had a pike, or a boulevard or an asphalt highway not only from Brady to Mason but from Brady to every other point in the universe. We believe a good road will bring rich returns and more than repay the investment made. But heretofore the majority of the voters couldn't see it our way, and in future the motto seems to be, "Let the State Build 'em." Well, maybe it will—but it's going to be a long, hard and jolting wait, till the state reaches us.

THE PRESENT AGE DEMANDS BETTER ROADS.

Don't forget the subject of good roads. Whenever you have an opportunity, talk good roads, create a demand for them, and lead everybody up to the point of insisting that we have them.

We need a tremendous amount of road improvement right here in this community.

The horse and buggy are becoming obsolete. They are too slow to suit the modern man and his ideas of transportation.

The wagon as a means of hauling products to market will soon disappear. Motor trucks are more practical and the cost will soon be within the reach of the average farmer. Many have them now, where road conditions are anything like satisfactory.

The farmer is a shrewd business man, and he dislikes to waste precious time where it can be avoided. He would prefer a truck to a wagon any day, but the present condition

THE WEST TEXAS SPIRIT.

West Texas, in area, is larger than many of the original American states combined, larger than any of the most powerful nations of the Old World. From Texhoma, say, to Del Rio, if the way south were direct, would be a two days' journey by rail. From El Paso to Weatherford would be almost as much.

But West Texas, in spirit, is one and concentrated. Few more remarkable demonstrations of the unified purposing of a people which widely separated have ever been given than that which is being staged at San Angelo this week. The occasion is the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, ostensibly, but is has become in fact a celebration in which all West Texas participates with the vigor and virility which is characteristic of that section and its people.

Such a foregathering cannot do less than to impress the world with the strength and the possibilities of the awake, alert and aggressive western country. West Texas has become great in accomplishment. But it is greater in the possession of a spirit which is indomitable and ambitious, of a vision which looks steadily toward a future of high destiny splendidly fulfilled, and of leaders who challenge their people to conquests as did the conquistadores of old time, but to finer, worthier conquests than were dreamed of by the forerunners.

With such spirit, such vision and such leaders, West Texas is destined to become all that West Texas aspires to be. And many who live outside that virile section know that the aspirations of West Texas are as broad as her prairies.—Dallas Journal.

BRADY INSTITUTIONS NEED YOUR HELP.

To build a town, requires a lot of work and planning, and co-operation by the people. Some people will furnish a little money, but will not do any civic work, claiming that they are paying some one else to do the work; now the building of a town is not the work of an individual, but is the work of every one and every one should do a little to make it easy.

There is one thing that we can all do that will benefit all of us, and that is to trade at home, throw away the catalogs, they are not your friends, nor will you ever be able to get the people they represent, to do you one solitary good turn; they do not help build up your country, pay any taxes, nor send you any flowers when you are sick. Start the fires with your catalogs and benefit every citizen in McCulloch County.

A NEWSPAPER.

A newspaper is the servant of the public, but is often treated like a slave, many people never think of using the paper until they want something free, and many readers would rather borrow their neighbor's paper and not have to pay the enormous price of a subscription, a little more than a penny an issue, 104 papers for $1.50 and that price is only enough to pay for the paper that is used, and you get the printing free; the publisher makes his money from advertising, and when subscriptions fall off the merchant quits advertising, then the poor publisher begins to starve. Now what progress could we make as a community if we had no newspaper? Every family in McCulloch county should be a subscriber to one of our local papers, and as cheap as the subscription is most of them could subscribe for both papers. We must co-operate if we are to get any where. "The Heart of Texas" sounds nice, but we must put our shoulders to the wheel and work if we are to be noticed by the rest of the State.

TWO PICTURES.

Last Sunday two very significant pictures appeared in the pictorial sections of one of our large state dailies. Both were advertisements. One was that of a bathing suit advertisement in which the forms of our American womanhood was exposed to the gaze of the world. Every feature of which was suggestive of luteness and coarseness. It was intended to appeal to the low and evil minded. It was a reproach to the dignity and modesty of our Texas womanhood. Why do our mothers, and sisters, sweethearts and wives and strong men stand for such outrageous beyond human conception?

The other picture was that of a group of College Glee Club. Not a single suggestive feature was seen in the picture. Each one addressed in the attire of a true woman, all grouped together for happiness and spreading sunshine in the world. There isn't a true man or woman who saw the two photographs but had a feeling of appreciation for the latter and a disgust for the former. It may be old foggyism to see this in this light, but if it is, give us more old foggyism people, they are the salt of the earth. From one group of these girls will come the future mothers of the men of Texas, from the other will come the graves of the depraved, the heartbroken, the suicides, the vagabonds. Wee unto the mother or father who looks lightly upon these things.—Bastrop Advertiser.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE?

Virginia is about one-fifth the size of Texas. She has about one-half the population that Texas has. When the war of '61-'65 ended her capital city was in ruins and her entire territory was a scene of desolation and ruin.

From one end of the valley of Virginia, one of the fairest realms on all the earth, chimneys stood marking the spots where commodious homes had been.

Bitter, gaunt, biting poverty kept watch by every hearthstone. The wall of bruised hearts rose above the din of human struggle and strife for bread.

Her treasury was utterly, absolutely empty and her people faced a picture scarcely lighted even by a ray of reasonable hope.

The footsteps of no enemy pressed the soil of Texas, save for a few brief weeks at Galveston.

No homes were burned, no fields were laid waste, no property was destroyed. The year the war closed and the year succeeding her people were prosperous beyond precedent.

Fifty-eight years have passed. From less than 700,000 population Texas has mounted to nearly 5,000,000. Taxable values of $170,000,000 in 1870 have risen to over $3,000,000,000. The taxable values of Houston alone are more than $13,000,000 greater than were those of the entire state 53 years ago, and 711 miles of railway in Texas in 1870 have increased to more than 16,000, the greatest mileage of any state in the Union.

Taxation in Texas has reached the constitutional limit, and the legislature is casting about on every hand to find new subjects of taxation; yet there is an enormous deficit in her treasury, expenditures far exceeding revenue.

The annual appropriation for the expenses of the state government of Virginia are approximately as large as those of Texas. Yet we hear there no clamor and complaint of high taxation. Her courts function speedily and efficiently. It is rare that from the beginning to the end of any case, civil or criminal, as much as a year.

She maintains a memorial commission to select historic spots to be bought and adorned and maintained by the state, which has recently bought the battlefield of Manassas, which is to be converted into a state park.

The larger part of the purchase price was paid by the state, the rest by the patriotic people of Virginia by popular subscription.

She has bought and owned the once peninsula, now island, of Jamestown, where the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock, a bold and devoted band landed and forthwith in the primeval forest reared an altar and spread with all solemn ceremonies of the Church of England the Eucharistic feast.

Richmond's avenues and parks are adorned by stately, inspiring monuments, erected to perpetuate the memories of great Virginians, and a larger part of the fund out of which every one was reared came out of the treasury of Virginia and that of the city of Richmond.

A man standing on the top of the Magnolia Building in Dallas can with a spyglass see more rich land than there is in the whole state of Virginia. Yet out of ashes and absolute ruin Richmond has risen to be as populous as is any city in Texas.

There stands in her capitol a statue of George Washington which was modeled 134 years ago from life, and recently an expert in art announced that its value was $5,000,000, but Virginia would reject with scorn an offer of tenfold as much for it.

Thus far has Texas recognized the illustrious name of Houston to the extent of appropriating $25,000 toward the erection of a monument, two-thirds of the cost of which must be made up from volunteer subscriptions, and already there is a bill pending to repeal this appropriation.

Virginia has proved to every sneering iconoclastic materialist that devotion to lofty ideals, fidelity to civic duty and pride in a historic and heroic past; and material progress can go hand in hand to ever increasing achievement.

Why the difference in Virginia and Texas? Why does one, with the approval of her people, rear monuments to her great sons who lighted the pages of history with noble achievement, while the other pleads poverty and many of her people laugh to scorn the suggestion that she thus spend money.

The answer is that there is a deficit in the treasury of Texas and her legislators are levying taxes on every form of business, paralyzing enterprise, discouraging investment and frightening capital because somebody, somewhere and at some time blundered in the matter of conducting the business of the state.

Does Texas fail to do fitting honor to the memory of her great sons because her people esteem sordid dollars of greater value than they do the perpetuation of the memory of dead, but for the performance of which there might have been no Texas?—Houston Chronicle.

THE MIRACLE OF TIME.

The son of General Funston and the son of Aguinaldo are going to be classmates at West Point. It will be remembered that it was the elder Funston who captured the elder Aguinaldo back in the days when "expansion and imperialism" was an issue, in those days Aguinaldo was regarded as the "arch enemy of the United States" by some of us, and as a supreme patriot by others.

Aguinaldo has since become a very good friend of the United States in the Philippines and he himself would tell you that he was wrong in those days.

But then he no doubt regarded General Funston as his worst enemy.

Now it is predicted that young Funston and young Aguinaldo will become warm friends at West Point.

So does time bring changes—so does it heal all wounds.

The calamities which the orators told us would happen if we kept the Philippines did not happen—either to us or to the Philippines.

The next generation smiles over the heated struggles of their fathers.

Chadick-Deatherage.

A wedding of much interest to their many friends was celebrated Wednesday evening at 8:00, at the home of Mrs. Lee Jones, aunt of the bride, when Miss Edna Chadick became the bride of Mr. Perry Deatherage, Rev. I. T. Morris officiating. Only members of the families and a few intimate friends being present. Mrs. Deatherage is a sister of Mrs. M. S. Sellers and has made her home here with her for the past ten years, and has a large circle of admiring friends and acquaintances. After graduating from Brady high school, she entered the College of Industrial Arts at Denton to prepare herself for teaching. For the past two years she has taught school in this county, having recently closed a very successful term as teacher at East Gansel.

Mr. Deatherage is the son of S. H. Deatherage of East Gansel and is a well known and prominent young farmer and stands high in his community.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for East Gansel where they will make their home on the Deatherage farm.

All their many friends join in extending congratulations together with best wishes for their future happiness and success.

Coleman Took Three Games From Us

Coleman won the Tuesday game 5 to 2, and the game Wednesday stood 4 to 3 when the Brady boys decided that the Ump wasn't giving them half, and so the Brady boys gathered their bats and came home.

When the squabble occurred, Brady had two men on, when one of our boys was called out at second, and our boys decided that the Umps had sand in his eyes, and due to the fact that this is Harry Schwenker's paper, and I won't be on the firing line next week, and also due to the fact that I saw Monday's game, and got a lot of sand in my eyes, while watching that same Umps work, I believe the boys were right; well we will have to give Coleman a good start toward winning the championship of West Texas this year, and we didn't intend to count those games if we had won them.

STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX TOURING CAR $975

More Cars Shake Themselves to Pieces Than Ever Wear Out

Charge that up to vibration. Vibration causes cars to grow old prematurely by racking their chassis, destroying the "metal life" of vital parts, loosening up their bodies and causing squeaks and rattles. Frequent, costly repairs are the result.

The Studebaker Light-Six is freer from vibration than any car of its approximate size or weight yet produced.

This has been accomplished largely by a complete machining of the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces—a practice used by Studebaker exclusively on cars at this price and found only on a very few other cars whose selling prices are from three to ten times as high as the Light-Six.

There are 61 precision operations in the manufacture of the crankshaft alone, 40 of which range in accuracy from one-quarter thousandth to one thousandth of an inch.

The Light-Six motor embodies the most advanced design known to automobile construction. And no chassis at any price is built to more exacting standards of materials and workmanship.

Aside from its mechanical excellence and its consequent long life, the Light-Six is handsome in design, extremely comfortable, sturdy, and we believe the most economical car to buy and operate ever offered at $975 or anywhere near this figure.

Its substantial all-steel body, one-piece, rain-proof windshield, ten-inch cushions upholstered in genuine leather, cowl lamps—these are among many features heretofore to be had only in higher-priced cars.

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING NEW BRADY HOTEL.

New under construction, with three stories of steel reinforced frame work completed. To be opened September 1st, in charge of C. C. McBurnett, operator of the St. Angelus and Landon hotels in San Angelo.

Hotel Brady.

This modern new hotel is being erected in Brady by the Brady Hotel Company, a corporation, financed entirely by local capital, and will cost approximately $100,000.00.

The building will have a front of 75 feet by a depth of 90 feet along the west side; will have a latticed outdoor addition to the dining room of 15 feet by 90 feet. The construction consists of a reinforced steel and concrete frame with the same type of floors and roof. The outside walls are of fine face brick on all four sides, with hollow tile backing. The interior walls and partitions are of gyp block, which will assure a fire-proof building.

The first floor has the lobby which will have a tiled floor and flat stone walls and will have some 2000 square feet of space. West of the main entrance, which faces south, is the coffee shop which opens at the rear into the main dining room. The dining room, in turn, opens into the lobby. Between the coffee shop and main entrance will be a mercantile store room.

East of the main entrance and on the southeast corner, occupying the space between the main entrance and the side entrance on the east side, there will be a nice drug store opening on both streets as well as into the lobby. Across the lobby from this store will be a barber shop with baths.

The rear of the building will consist of the kitchen which connects with the dining room and coffee shop, as well as the banquet and ball room. The ball room will open into the lobby with two sets of double doors.

The upper floors have an open court with a slate floor and will serve as a promenade. This will make all the rooms outside rooms. Each of these two floors have 27 guest rooms, making a total of 54 rooms, 38 of which will be connected with bath rooms.

There is a basement for a heating plant. All the foundations and frame work have been planned to take care of two extra stories, so that when the complete plans are worked out Brady will have a very modern five-story hotel.

The building will be located on the square and will be a southeast corner, thus taking advantage of all breezes. The Brady Hotel Company has purchased three-fourths of the block on which the hotel is being built. The entire cost to the company will be a little better than $100,000.00 when finished. The hotel has been leased for a period of twenty years to Mr. C. C. McBurnett, who is proprietor of both the St. Angelus and Landon hotels in San Angelo. The hotel will be ready for occupancy about August 1st of this year.

John W. He believes there is too much law and tendency to ignore mandates of the Constitution. A mysterious being called the state should not be set up to the abandonment of the spirit of individual liberty.

HOUSING FACILITIES GUARANTEED BY BRADY TO 'TECH' LOCATING BOARD

CITIZENS BACK GUARANTEE WITH MILLIONS TO ASSURE TAKING CARE OF ANY AND ALL STUDENTS—PRESENT ACCOMMODATIONS FOR 1,000.

That Brady citizens are determined to let nothing stand in the way of our securing the "Tech" location, and that the citizenship is solidly behind the Brady "Tech" committee in all its endeavors and undertakings, is unmistakably demonstrated in Brady's guarantee of housing facilities. The fact that housing of students is one of the most important considerations in the locating of the college, was stressed by Chairman S. B. Cowell of the Locating board. Brady met this point promptly by giving a written guarantee that housing facilities would be provided by Brady for a minimum of 1,500 students. Present hotel and boarding house accommodations will run approximately 1,000. This guarantee forever eliminates the question of housing facilities. Indeed, there is little cause for worry on this part, as the locating here of "Tech" college would have, as an immediate result, a building boom of unprecedented proportions.

The following data on Housing Facilities, reprinted from the Brady "Tech" brief, was compiled after careful investigation into all local conditions pertaining thereto.

Housing Facilities.

Brady has seven Hotels and Boarding Houses and eight Restaurants. Its present facilities offer lodging accommodations for 1,000. While Brady citizens feel capable of housing all students, as an additional guarantee, the leading Brady citizens pledge themselves to provide accommodations and care for any and all students who may come here for attendance upon the Texas Technological college. List of Guarantors hereto attached, represents an aggregate individual responsibility of over $4,000,000.00. This is a small estimate, indicative of the interest that Brady citizens place upon Brady as a logical location for Texas Technological college; as a matter of fact, placing the individual responsibility of the guarantors at $10,000,000.00 would not be over-estimating the same.

Housing Guarantee.

We, the undersigned business men residing in and doing business in the City of Brady, McCulloch county, Texas, do hereby personally guarantee, in case the Texas Technological College, as provided in Senate Bill No. 103, passed by Act of the last Regular session of the Texas Legislature, is located by your Honorable Body near to or adjoining the City of Brady in McCulloch County, Texas, to arrange to house, by construction or otherwise, a minimum of 1500 students for said College, which accommodations are to be furnished beginning with the first year needed by said College. This Guarantee shall not only apply to your Honorable Body, but shall apply to your successors and assigns, and the college itself.

Louisiana Lady Says She Has "Never Found Anything Better Than Cardui for a Run-Down Condition."

Morgan City, La.—"It would be hard for me to tell how much benefit I have derived from the use of Cardui," said Mrs. I. G. Bowman, of 1319 Front Street, this city.

"I was so run-down in health I could hardly go. I was thin. I had no appetite. Could not rest or sleep well. I was so weak, and so very nervous, I was no pleasure to myself.

"I suffered some pain, but the worst of my trouble was from being so weak and easy to get tired and out of heart.

"This nervous condition was worse than pain.

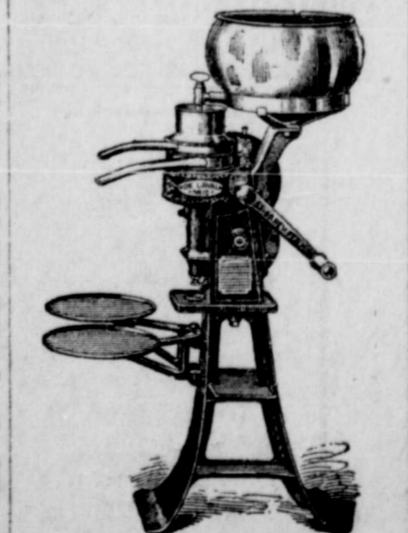

"Some one told me of Cardui, and I decided to use it.

"After using a few bottles, I regained my strength. I wasn't so nervous, and began to eat and sleep, and grew stronger and was soon well.

ZION—Beautiful and Mysterious

Sinawava Temple on the Floor of the Canon.

ZION NATIONAL PARK—The newest of the national park system, established last November—is likely to have many visitors this season. Some will go because it is new. Others will go because of the claim of Utah that Zion equals Yosemite in beauty of form and far exceeds it in beauty of color. And still others will go because of the story of a mysterious cliff-dwelling that has been discovered—and is believed to be inaccessible and untouched by the hand of modern man. Moreover, a second canon, with many ramifications, has been discovered in Zion National park. White men have been in it—or at least have looked down into it from the plateau thousands of feet above—but they are few. And who knows what relics of the mysterious prehistoric people of the great American Southwest these unexplored canons may contain?

Exploration parties are already getting ready in Salt Lake City and Los Angeles. It's no wonder. The story of the discovery of the inaccessible cliff-dwellings is one to whet the interest of the keenest mountaineer. Thus the story goes:

Eyre Powell of Venice, Calif., pointed his telephoto lens at a high perpendicular cliff in a side canon about three-quarters of a mile away and squeezed the bulb. A certain quarter of an inch in the print attracted his attention. He enlarged it as much as possible. It then showed what is apparently a cliff-dwelling something like 400 feet long and 60 feet wide. The cliff-dwelling is in a shallow cave about 400 feet above the talus at the foot of the cliff. Below it are apparently traces of ledges once used as an ascent and now almost eroded by the elements. Hence it is a fair guess that this particular cliff-dwelling has been unvisited since modern men entered this region.

And if this mysterious, long-hidden abode of the Cliff-dwellers proves to be a reality and is reached by some daring climber, will it yield something new? That of course is the question that adds zest to the quest. For, though here and there are archaeologists who believe they have solved the mystery of the prehistoric people, it looks to the common people as if the scientists were still guessing at the answers to the questions: Who are they? How long did they live there? What became of them? So the possibility that this Zion Cliff-dwellers' inaccessible refuge, untouched by the hand of the spoiler, may contain something that will throw light on these unanswered questions is fascinating.

Curiously enough, the many relics of this prehistoric people throw little or no light on these questions. This is the more strange, since the village sites of the ancient inhabitants, with all the accessories of village life—kivas, shrines, burial places, fields, irrigation works, lookouts, stairways—preserve a pretty complete picture of life in this ancient Southwest. Moreover, buried under the debris of buildings and in the graves of the dead are various artifacts of stone, bone, wood, fiber and clay, which indicate the industrial and domestic life of the people. Ceremonial objects, such as pipes, fetiches and medicine stones, together with the symbolic ornamentation of domestic and mortuary pottery, give glimpses of the social and religious life of the times.

Such structures as are above ground have been pretty thoroughly examined and an astonishing variety has been found. For example, there are many cliff-dwellings, of which those in Mesa Verde National park in southwestern Colorado are probably the finest in all the Southwest.

On the Jemez plateau in the northern central part of New Mexico—a part of which it is proposed to set aside as the national park of the cliff cities—there are both pueblos and cliff-dwellings of the excavated type called "cave dwellings." The pueblo ruins are many-chambered community houses, found upon the mesa-tops and in valleys. The smaller ones are of one story; the larger ones have from two to four stories. The cave dwellings vary widely. Some are enlarged natural caves. Others are wholly artificial excavations in the face of the cliff, the front wall being formed of the natural rock in situ. Some are excavations with a front of masonry. Others are complete houses on a sloping talus, with excavated rooms at the back.

In the Hovenweep region on both sides of the Colorado-Utah line and between Mesa Verde and Zion—this area is likely to be established as the Hovenweep National monument—are many remarkable towers of varying shape. The archeologists consider them among the most interesting and important of the prehistoric relics.

Casa Grande National monument in the Gila valley of south central Arizona contains Casa Grande—Great House—which was discovered in 1897 by the Spanish. It was even then a burned-out, dismantled group of walls. It was plastered within and without. It was probably the last of an indefinite number of such houses, as all around it are the ruins of older structures.

Excavation in this prehistoric Southwest is only beginning. The results have attracted the attention of archeologists the world over. Possibly the most important work to date is that of Dr. J. Walter Fewkes of the Smithsonian Institution in Mesa Verde. There he has excavated and restored in part the temple of the sun and Fat View house. These are large and pretentious structures on the mesa above the cliff-dwellings. They are apparently buildings for religious ceremonies. It is guessed that they were abandoned about 1300 years ago.

The archeologists are confident that sooner or later they will find something that will answer one or more of the three great questions about this mysterious people of the American Southwest. Will they find it some such ruin as Casa Grande beneath the dust of centuries or will it come to light in some cliff-dwelling now unknown and untouched by vandal hands, such as those suspected to exist in the unexplored depths of Zion?

PARIS LANDMARK MUST GO

House of Robespierre Forced to Give Way to March of City Improvement.

The Paris correspondent of The London Times writes: The house where Robespierre is said to have lived, or at any rate, passed several nights, is to follow the way of many reminders of the past in the general scheme for improving Paris.

This handsomely fronted building is situated in the Cite du Retro, an antiquated backwater between the Madeleine and the Faubourg Saint Honora which was overlooked when this quarter was brought up to date. The tenants of the prince of Monaco, to whom the district belongs, have been given notice, but the demolition probably will be postponed for a few years, owing to the action of the law which permits the owners of condemned property to continue using it for five years.

The capital will soon be very much improved, and all shams will disappear in accordance with the general scheme for flattening out the fortifications and allowing the city to undergo natural expansion. With this object the underground railway lines are to be extended far into the country, with two proposed termini at St. Germain and Maisons Laiffite. The Metropolitan railway reaching the latter will greatly ease the strain upon the ordinary railways on race days.

Great Britain's Whites and Blacks. In the British empire there are 62,000,000 white and 375,000,000 colored people. The 62,000,000 white represent capital wealth amounting to $500,000,000,000, as against the $5,000,000,000 possessed by the black, brown and yellow people. The degree of illiteracy among the white people, according to Sir Henry Johnson, is probably not more than 15 per cent; among the colored races it is nearly 90 per cent.

Daughter's Views. Mother was teaching little daughter proper appellations, pointing out the church as "God's house."

Passing one Sunday morning as the congregation was leaving the church after services, little daughter exclaimed:

"Oh, look, mother, at all the crowd. God must be having a party."

MILTON WINS

500 Mile International Sweepstakes, at Indianapolis

ON Firestone

GUM-DIPPED CORDS

Tommy Milton in an H. C. S. Special won on Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords at average speed of 91.44 miles per hour, being the only driver in the history of this race classic to win a second time. Hartz and Murphy and Cooper, who relieved Hearne, finished second, third and fourth in the order named, in Durant Specials, giving a clean sweep of first four places to Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords. Eight of ten cars to finish in the money were Gum-Dipped Cord equipped. Not once in the entire 500 miles was any driver using Firestone Cords forced to the pits with flat tires.

At Indianapolis were gathered the most famous drivers and the foremost racing cars of the world. It was a contest of driving skill, a competition of automotive science and a "Battle of Tires."

Around this sand-surfaced brick oval, Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords swept through to victory. The grinding wear, the scorching heat, the terrific pace were conditions that only Gum-Dipped Cords and scientifically compounded treads could subdue.

The tough, wear-resisting tread and the heat-defying gum-dipped carcass of Firestone Cords reigned supreme, just as they have long done in the daily service of millions of car owners.

Get a set of these Gum-Dipped Cords from one of the following dealers:

Gum-dipping—insulating each cord in rubber—is the Firestone method of protecting tires from heat. This process is the development of an organization of specialists—whose sole purpose is to build constantly better tires.

This triumph supplies additional evidence of Firestone's ability to set new standards of tire building year by year.

Like the winning driver you, too, can trust these powerful tires to give you the utmost in tire performance. If you're not using them, equip all 'round with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords—and set new standards of comfort, safety and economical mileage.

WANNAMAKER COMES BACK AT BUREAU AND SECRETARY WALLACE

From the Times and Democrat, Orange, S. C., May 26, we see where Mr. J. S. Wannamaker, President of the American Cotton Association, severely criticises H. C. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, for incorrect reports on the amount of American cotton, in the Bureau's last report. For the past few years the Secretary of Agriculture has been taking it upon himself to beat the price of cotton down in order to protect the cotton farmer. Mr. Wannamaker also made a speech before the Rotary Club of Orangeburg, and he states the world is facing a cotton famine than any since '65, and that the price of cotton today should be fifty cents per pound, and that it would be if controlled only by supply and demand. Mr. Wannamaker further states that if the New England States could produce cotton, they would stabilize it at a dollar a pound. Mr. Wannamaker further states that with the present outlook for a crop, the mills will be running on short time by September 1, and that the only way for cotton to be cheap will be for the Department of Agriculture to continue misrepresenting the surplus, until the farmer has disposed of the new crop. Well, it looks like a good time to kill grasshoppers, and save as much cotton as possible, if we are to get a low price for it, and if our honorable Secretary wants some figures to show the Northern bankers, let's give them something to talk about.

In a public statement given to The Times and Democrat by J. S. Wannamaker, of St. Matthews, president of the American Cotton Association, Mr. Wannamaker states that confidential statements reaching him from reliable and authoritative sources give convincing evidence that the crop reporting bureau at Washington arbitrarily raised figures in 1921 in regard to the cotton situation. He takes the department to task for this

Following is Mr. Wannamaker's statement in full: "Confidential statements reaching me from reliable and authoritative sources give convincing evidence that the Crop Reporting Bureau at Washington in its December, 1921 revision of the cotton acreage planted that year, arbitrarily lifted the figures five million acres over the July and October estimates for 1921 and without taking a detailed final census of the acreage harvested. It appears that this method was employed to increase the forecast of production that season to balance with the gin returns. It brought about an overestimate as finally determined from the ginnings, but the arbitrarily increased acreage figures were left to stand as an official guide to determine the percentage of increase or decrease in the acreage planted in 1922. No one today knows even approximately the cotton acreage of 1921 or 1922, based upon the data of revisions made by the Crop Reporting Bureau.

Gross Error Attributed to Statistics Issued by Committee on Agricultural Outlook April 21st.

"Not satisfied with issuing an unprecedented and totally unexpected report by the Crop Reporting Bureau on 'intentions' of farmers to plant a largely increased cotton acreage on April 20th, the department called together a number of Northern bankers, nonproducers and economists to issue a report on the agricultural outlook on April 21st.

"This special committee, provided with data supplied from records of the department, gave out a most remarkable statement, alleging that the total available supplies of raw cotton of all kinds throughout the world on July 31, 1923, would be 6,800,000 bales. In published statements Dr. W. R. Meadows, Chief Bureau of Markets, denies the correctness of the forecast of the committee and alleges that the amount is fully 2,300,000 bales in excess of the more authoritative figures gathered and compiled by the U. S. Census Bureau and other reliable sources.

"Notwithstanding this unaccountable error has been officially and publicly called to the attention of the Secretary of Agriculture, he has taken no steps to correct confirmed errors in a report which was given wide publicity by his department and thousands of the reports mailed out under the postal frank of the government.

"The two reports of April 20th and 21st, both of an intensely bearish nature, were immediately used by speculators and buyers of spot cotton to depress the market 700 points, or $35.00 per bale in less than three weeks. Our protest against the wisdom of these reports was met by a rebuke from the Secretary of Agriculture should make some clearer explanation of these reports than that they were intended for the special benefit of the cotton growers. With a loss of $35.00 per bale as a result of this paternalistic interference of the department of agriculture with the natural laws of supply and demand, and the inaccurate juggling of statistics so widely at variance with the facts, the growers are not in sympathy with such types of mind-reading and prophecies.

Personnel of Crop Reporting Bureau Unacquainted With Cotton Growing Industry.

"According to authentic information, the present members of the Crop Reporting Bureau are all from Northern and Eastern states and have no experience in cotton growing states. The members of the Bureau are doubtless ably qualified to handle statistical data on crops with which they are familiar by experience, study and observation with the cotton industry. This is in part no doubt largely responsible for many errors made by the Crop Reporting Bureau during the past three years and if not amended will seriously impair the usefulness of that department of the government to the entire cotton trade.

Actual Facts Certain to Reassert Themselves Over Temporary Depressions.

"The natural laws of supply and demand are certain to reassert themselves even in the face of these artificial depressions. While the market has been heavily depressed and losses have been enormous to growers, merchants and manufacturers, the future is certain to reassert a level of values commensurate with the unalterable laws of actual supply and demand.

"While the policy of the crop reporting bureau is to make no allowance for abandoned cotton acreage before December, it is nevertheless a fact that the abandoned acreage this season will reach unprecedented proportions. This will be due in greater part to the heavy migration of farm labor already taken place and now continuing in daily increasing numbers. The growers cannot hold their labor because they cannot compete with industrial wages in the face of existing prices for cotton which are now below the average cost of production based upon a fair living wage. Cheap cotton, as applicable to that term in the past, has completely disappeared and will never again be resurrected in the cotton growing states of the South. An actual clammy in cotton production can only be avoided by the agencies of the government and the entire world cotton trade fully realizing this fact, and by so permitting the laws of supply and demand to function unrestricted and enabling cotton to bring a price that will be profitable to the growers and satisfactory to farm wage employees."

Explanation Is Asked by Head of Association.

In a letter to Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, J. S. Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton Association, makes a "come-back" in reference to the controversy between these men in connection with Mr. Wannamaker's recent criticism of the department of which Mr. Wallace is the head in giving out an estimate of the acreage of the coming cotton crop. Mr. Wannamaker's letter, a copy of which was sent to this paper by the writer, follows:

May 21, 1923.

Hon. Henry C. Wallace,
Secretary of Agriculture,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Secretary:

In your letter to me of May 5th you charged that I had incorrectly given out public statements regarding the April 20th report issued by the Crop Reporting Bureau on "intentions" of farmers to plant cotton acreage and the report on Agricultural Outlook on April 21st by a special committee assembled for that purpose by your department.

While our views are divergent regarding the wisdom of such unprecedented reports, I am clearly within justified rights in asking an explanation from you regarding the proven gross inaccuracies found in the cotton section of the report on agricultural outlook. It now appears that this remarkable assemblage of non-producers issued a semi-official report which was given the postal frank of your department showing an error of 2,300,000 bales of cotton in the estimated world surplus of cotton July 31st, in excess of the statistical data on the subject more carefully prepared by the Department of Commerce.

Dr. W. R. Meadows, chief bureau of Markets is authority for calling the attention of this unaccountable discrepancy to the general public. It further appears from public statements in the press that the data used by the special committee on Agricultural Outlook was furnished by the department of agriculture which makes their estimate based upon the official data of your department and their report semi-official.

After the issuance of these two distinctly bearish reports, one of which is now found to be grossly erroneous, and giving to the same the widest possible publicity, resulting in being utilized as a leading factor in reducing the market value of spot cotton 700 points shortly thereafter, the cotton growers and every legitimate department of the cotton industry is clearly entitled to an explanation from you. The cotton interests are entitled to know why such an erroneous statement as to cotton supplies July 31st, 1923, was made and why the report was given such wide publicity without correction after the gross statistical inaccuracy of the report was called to your attention by your own officials and the public press.

In my letter to you of May 7th I earnestly requested in all fairness that you mail copies of my letter to you to those to whom you had mailed out copies of your letter to me of May 5th. I further requested that if this would not be acceptable to you that I be furnished with a full list of the names and addresses of the parties to whom you mailed out copies of your letter, in order that I might mail to each one a copy of my letter to you of May 7th. I have had no reply from you and again renew my request for this information and beg that you will also furnish the explanation above referred to as to the erroneous report on cotton supplies available July 31, 1923.

As a result of the two reports issued April 20th and 21st, one unprecedented and the other now proven to be grossly inaccurate, the cotton industry has suffered the loss of millions of dollars and will continue to so suffer until the error complained of is corrected.

I beg, therefore, that you will issue a public statement admitting that an error has been made, and send out copies of same to all of those who received copies of the report of the committee on Agricultural Outlook April 21st.

I now ask you in all candor to definitely explain and clearly define upon what ground and in what way I was alleged to have made misstatements in my public criticism of the two reports issued April 20th and 21st. You have asked me for a retraction, and in the light of more recent developments, I am impelled to request from you an explanation and so far as possible that you take steps to undo the heavy financial losses to the cotton interests brought about largely through the report of the crop reporting bureau April 20th on "intentions" of farmers to plant cotton, and especially the special report on Agricultural Outlook April 21st, both of which now appear to have been inaccurate and not in accordance with the then existing facts.

With highest personal regards,
Yours very truly,

DOOMED BY POOR FARMING

Mayan Civilization Succumbed Because of Crude Methods of Agriculture Then in Vogue.

Agricultural limitations probably caused the final breakdown of the remarkable Mayan civilization, about 550-650 A. D., and brought about the desertion of many of its magnificent cities, turning into a tropical wilderness a country which formerly supported at least 5,000,000 people, in the opinion of a member of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

While the Maya race had worked out a system of time measurement which greatly excelled that of the Greeks, Romans or Egyptians, their methods of farming were very crude, he claims, like those of the modern Indians. The process was to burn off the forest and brush on land selected for cultivation. After one or two crops had been made on this land, they allowed the field to lie fallow, and proceeded to cut and burn and plant another field, and so on until sufficient brush had accumulated on the first field for reburning it.

Repeated burning over of the land causes grasses to come in. In this way, he thinks, the forests were converted into grass lands. Planted crops were choked out. The rapidly multiplying people needed fresh lands and finally moved elsewhere.

Other archeologists have attributed this apparently sudden break-up to a series of yellow-fever epidemics, but Dr. Morley discredits this theory.

WISE PROVISION OF NATURE

Good Old Dame Shrewd in Sending Young People Afield to Do Their Courting.

In that part of southern Europe inhabited by Slavs it is conceded that a young man in search of a wife should go to a neighboring village to find her. No such concession is made by American villagers, but Nature assumes authority and quietly works her wisdom without benefit of man's direction.

As a result, at least half of the young ladies who come to our town as school teachers remain as wives. They may be no prettier or smarter than home girls, but they have the charm of newness, and bachelor hearts long immune to the gentle passion skip a beat when they appear.

Our own girls do not remain uncourted, however. The town boys, having known them and quarreled with them since childhood, feel no thrill in their presence. But when the girls have finished college, most of them leave home again to teach in distant villages, and in a year or two we hear that young men have designs on them. These young men come a-courting during the summer, and we look them over shrewdly to see if they are worthy.

Nature is a wise old party, and she did more than statutes could do to prevent inbreeding when she made the hills look green far away.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

BAD BOY ON OCEAN'S CHART

Geographers Tired of Misbehavior of Falcon Island, Located in the South Pacific.

Falcon Island, in the South Pacific, is the most restive and changeable piece of land in the world. It has a knack of disappearing below the waves and then suddenly bobbing up again. It was first seen and charted by H. M. S. Falcon in 1835. But in 1877 another ship found that the land had disappeared, though smoke was issuing from the sea. The charts were altered accordingly.

Then, in 1885, the island returned quite jauntily, and remained so long that the steamer Egeria, in October, 1889, charted it again, showing it to be just over a mile long, a mile broad, and 155 feet above sea level at its highest point. Early in 1894, however, a survey ship found that the island consisted of only a low stretch of narrow rock, less than 1,000 feet in length.

By December of the same year the island had bobbed up again, and was over three miles long and nearly two broad. As if exhausted by such an effort to increase in area, it vanished once more in 1898.

No further signs of ambition were noted until 1900, when the island again began to grow. Since then it has undergone many changes. Today it is covered with palm trees and vegetation, but its reputation for misbehavior is such that no one will settle upon it.—London Tit-Bits.

HAS BEEN UNDER SIX FLAGS

Five Emblems Waved Over Texas Before the Permanency of the Stars and Stripes.

Six flags have been flown over Texas. The first was that of France, brought by the explorer LaSalle. He came down the Mississippi river to the Gulf of Mexico. On New Year's day, 1655, he sailed into Matagorda bay, and there established a short-lived colony. A quarter of a century later the Spaniards planted a mission at San Antonio. Twenty-five presidios or forts, with their accompanying missions, were founded on Texas soil during the hundred years of Spanish occupation, but they did not thrive.

Next, Mexican rule was substituted with little better results, and at the end of 15 years the Texans revolted, and established a republic with the lone star flag for their emblem. The flag gave Texas its popular name of the "Lone Star State." The republic lasted nearly ten years, and then, in 1845, it became one of the United States. Another change of flags occurred when, in the Civil war, Texas joined the Confederacy.

"Dancing Attendance."

When a person pays marked attention to another he is said to be "dancing attendance." This phrase comes from the Middle Ages. It was a generally observed wedding custom then that the bride must dance with all who asked her. In Christen's "State of Matrimony," a book published in 1543, is found this record:

"Then must the poore bryde kepe foote with all dauncers, and refuse non, how scabbed, foule, drunken, rude and shameless soever he be."

That it was not long before the expression came to be used figuratively in the way it is used today is evidenced by Shakespeare's use of it in Henry VIII:

"I had thought they had parted so much honestly among them (at least good manners) as not thus to suffer a man of his place and so near our favor, to dance attendance on their lordship's pleasure."

Indian Mode of Travel.

Throughout early history the Indian is characterized by his mode of travel. Explorers who first pushed up the great rivers found the Indian navigating the water with his canoe. In the northern part the canoes were of birch bark, and of elm bark farther south. The typical boat as shown is the dug-out wooden canoe, shaped from a single large log, an excellent example of which was found in the river and mud near Hackensack, N. J. Travel over land required the use of the burden basket. A specimen of this was collected from the remnant of the Mashpee Indians, still living in Massachusetts. The baskets were carried on the back by means of a pack strap across the forehead or chest.

Power of Expectancy.

It was said of a great man, years ago: "It was prudent, he was patient, and he persevered"; but even so he would have missed his way had he not had the vision before him of what he intended to be. "The power of any life lies in its expectancy," says Phillips Brooks. "What do you hope for? What do you expect? The answer to these questions is the measure of the degree in which any man is living." What we hope for is shaping us day by day, till our hope becomes part of ourselves.

George Frederick Handel.

On a visit to the Bodleian library in Oxford, England, the guardian pointed out various objects of interest one after the other, writes William G. Carl. Presently he said: "As you are an organist, look at this!" Lifting from the shelves a rare old book, he pointed to the following notice: "Last evening a concert was given in this hall by a man named Handel. We are sorry, however, to say that it didn't amount to much!"

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

The State of Texas
To the Sheriff or any Constable of McCulloch County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to cause the following notice to be published in a newspaper of general circulation which has been continuously and regularly published for a period of not less than one year preceding the date of the notice in the County of McCulloch, State of Texas, and you shall cause said notice to be printed at least once each week for the period of ten days exclusive of the first day of publication before the return day hereof.

Notice of Application for Letters—Estate of Deceased.

To all Persons Interested in the Estate of Sabina Bauer, Deceased, E. J. Bauer was by the County Court of McCulloch County, on the 4th day of June, 1923, duly appointed Temporary administrator upon the Estate of said Sabina Bauer, deceased, which appointment will be made permanent, unless the same shall be successfully contested, which will be heard at the next term of said Court, commencing on the third Monday in July, A. D. 1923, the same being the 16th day of July, A. D. 1923, at the Court House thereof, in Brady, Texas, at which time all persons interested in said Estate may appear and contest said application should they desire to do so.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court on the said first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Brady, Texas, this 5th day of June, A. D. 1923.

W. J. YANTIS, Clerk
County Court, McCulloch County, Texas. (SEAL)

COUNTY-WIDE FARM BUREAU BASKET PICNIC AND BARBECUE IN FAIRVIEW

The McCulloch County Farm Bureau is going to stage a big basket picnic and barbecue in the H. J. Huffman Pasture, four miles north of Brady on the Santa Anna road, on Wednesday, June 13. This will be a get-together affair for the members and at the same time will afford an opportunity for those outside the bureau to learn something as to the good work the bureau is doing in the interest of farming and business in general. Everyone, both members and otherwise, are cordially invited to attend and bring a basket lunch with them. There will be ample barbecued meat furnished for everyone, also coffee and plenty of good drinking water. The Brady Municipal Band and Chamber of Commerce have been invited as guests of the bureau.

Mr. J. W. L. Hall, secretary of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, will be here, and also Mr. Geo. O. Scott, of the Farm Bureau Field Service. These men will give you the results of two years of work as accomplished by the Cotton Association and will be able to tell you how business organizations in other counties are rapidly getting behind this move and giving it the support it justly deserves.

The girls of the various Home Demonstration clubs of the county will put on some interesting demonstrations, beginning at ten o'clock a. m. The club boys will be given some work in stock judging at the same hour.

We have been in more or less of a strain during the past three weeks due to the destruction of crops by hail and the grasshopper plague and we need a day in which to play and give our backs a chance to straighten up and to get our minds off the serious side of our business life. So everyone push on the lines a little harder for the next few days and get everything in shape so you can get the good wife and kids loaded in the old jitney for an early start Wednesday morning.

Incidentally everyone who has a calf, mutton sheep or goat, or shaft that is eating up more than he is worth and they feel like they wish to donate it to a good cause, please notify Geo. E. Ehlinger, County Agent, and he will see that it is placed in the proper hands.

H. J. HUFFMAN, Pres.
McCulloch Co. Farm Bureau.

Too Numerous.
A darky employed as an office boy in Kentucky came to work one morning with a face that looked as though it had been run through a meat-grinder.

"Henry," demanded his surprised employer, "what in the world happened to you?"

"Well, suh, boss," explained Henry, "I got into a li'le argument las' night wif another nigger, and one thing led to another twell I up and hit at him. Well, suh, it seemed lak dat irritated him. He took and blacked both of mah eyes and bit both of mah years mighty night off, and split mah lip and knocked two of mah teef loose; and den he th'owed me down and stamped me in de stomach. Honest, boss, I never did git so sick of a nigger in mah life!"

Appreciated
"Did you ever get back that hat of yours that blew away?"

"No, but I got back the visiting card which was inside it, with the words: 'Thanks, it fits.'"

LOCAL BRIEFS.

J. E. Haynes subscribes for a year beginning with this issue, also Jess Woolsey sends in for The Standard to be mailed to him at Robstown.

Bates Carrithers has been hanging around here all day trying to find out if the new Editor, is going to give him a writeup, he even stated that some one told him that he was being discussed in this issue, but due to the fact that the dignity of this paper must be upheld in the absence of it's regular boss, we can't take a chance.

Wm. D. Cargill is editing this paper this week, and he is very much opposed to any criticism, so dont read too carefully, you might possibly find an error, and if you should mention it for you might discourage him, in the newspaper field.

Harry Schwenker is dissipating with the rest cure, for a whole week, on the Beach at Galveston, leaving Bill Cargill in charge of The Standard, but it was not necessary to leave any one in charge, for Harry left enough copy to run the paper for a month, and there isn't a chance to say a word about Grasshoppers or Poultry.
