

FINLAY'S FIGHT ON TECH GIVEN ENDORSEMENT

That there is practically universal dissatisfaction among the citizenship of Texas over the establishment and location of Texas Technological college is apparent from the replies received by James Finlay, representative of the 93rd district, to his letter of protest sent to the members of the 38th legislature. Of the replies so far had, but three dissent from Mr. Finlay's views on the subject, while eleven concur in his proposal to use every effort to have the bill repealing the college repealed. In his letter, Mr. Finlay stated his opposition to the "Tech" bill right from the start, on the ground "that it was not needed, and that it would place another tax burden on the already over-taxed people of Texas to establish and maintain it." Mr. Finlay's further opposition since the location of the college at Lubbock was voiced as follows: "The present location of the college practically eliminates it as a Technological school, and it can never become the great institution that those who voted for the bill supposed it would."

Of the three who dissent from Mr. Finlay's views, the first, W. C. Edwards of Denton, says, "You know of course, that I'm not sympathetic toward such a proposal, and even if I were I don't see any way to do it. The Governor has announced that not a thin dime shall be cut from that appropriation with his consent. We couldn't meet without his call; he would not submit the matter of repeal if he called us; and there's no regular session until January, 1925, when I don't expect to be there, as a member at least."

The second, A. J. Durham of Sabin, is optimistic as to the future of "Tech" college, even though located at Lubbock. Mr. Durham says: "You know how enthusiastic I have been in the interest of everything in the educational line, but I am still more enthusiastic to prepare our young people along industrial lines and I know of no other way better suited for that purpose than this technological route."

The third, W. C. Carpenter of Bay City, is also optimistic. He says: "I cannot agree with the stand you have taken in the premises. I think the establishment of such an institution a great step forward in the educational institutions of the state. It may be that a better site could have been selected; but this location was adopted by the locating board, unanimously, after they had visited all the other places that were candidates for the place, and I cannot believe that they acted otherwise than honestly in making the selection."

All the other legislators express themselves as unalterably opposed to the establishment of Tech college, and as willing to adopt such measures as may look to the repeal of the Tech bill, although the great obstacle appears to be the fact that the legislature will not meet again for two years, and that the Governor will not call a special session for the purpose of considering a repeal of the Tech bill.

Cary M. Abney of Marshall says: "You doubtless knew when you sent the letter to me how I stood on this proposition. My views have not changed. I promised my people before they elected me to the legislature that I would oppose the creation of every new office and institution. I was one of the few who voted against this Institution we have created and which we expect to support by money that is not in sight. I think it would be a great blessing to the State if this bill as well as every other bill creating a new Court or Institution or office could be repealed and our action would be approved by ninety-nine percent of my people and I believe by the great majority of the people of the State."

John A. Hughes of Waco writes: "I never did want the 'Tech,' therefore your opposition to it is quite in accord with my judgment. Irrespective of the location, it is an unwarranted expenditure of the people's money, and they are fooling themselves when they think it will add anything to the citizenship of the 'failing' generations."

"I want you to know that I am with you in this fight you are making, and if I can be of service to you in your endeavors, I shall be glad to have you command me."

Glenn D. Vaughn of Seguin: "I would be very glad to see the bill creating it repealed as I believe the people of the state generally speaking would be very little benefited by its existence."

G. A. Atkinson of Sherman: "I was always against the bill, and every other wilful waste of the people's money, as you well know. The 'Tech' college bill was the result of a trade of West Texas members and those in favor of the $600,000 water conservation bill. I probably ought not to say this, for such may not be the case, but it looked to me at the time, like a trade. Will say I am with you always in a move to save a waste of tax money."

Jno. C. Amsler of Hempstead: "In the main I agree with your general proposition, at the same time I voted for the bill because West Texas seemed so unanimous and enthusiastic about it I thought it necessary to pass the bill in order to get any cooperation for other necessary legislation. Now I am in favor of your letter, because of the selection of Lubbock which is so near the New Mexico line that there is opposition to college thus located; so if the opposition should come largely from your section, I would be glad to change my vote."

L. C. Stewart of Kirbyville: "I am with you. Have always opposed the creation of the school. Will be glad of a chance to cast my vote to repeal the law. Hope you will get up enough support to have it done."

O. L. Baker of Orange: "If you will take the trouble to look up the House journal for the day upon which we voted upon the Tech college bill, you will see that I voted against it. Not only did I vote against it, but I was opposing it from the very time of its introduction. I would by far rather see that money applied upon our present A. & M. College, and make it an institution worth while instead of its present condition, which is nothing short of a disgrace."

W. C. Morgan of Hull: "I agree with your views in this connection most heartily but fear the matter has gone entirely too far to be remedied, however, if you see your way clear to do anything I am at your service."

J. H. Wessels: "As you know, I voted 'no' on all this stuff, and still do all I can to save money for the State, especially on higher education, as they take all the people's money, and the little schools are not getting what they are entitled to."

Here Once Were Happy Homes

These photographs amongst the first from Japan, show more plainly than words the destruction wrought by the great earthquake there, followed by fire and tidal wave. Upper picture shows the ruins of the town of Ito, a typical scene of devastation. In the lower picture, crying refugees are walking along the Yokohama-Tokyo road, wanderers, not knowing where to turn or go.

J. R. Westbrook of Denison: "You know my position; I was the only one who opposed this bill on the floor of the House. I went to the Governor and asked him to veto it; he stated to me that he agreed with me that the best thing to do was to maintain properly the schools already established, and not to establish any more at present; but he said, 'Westbrook, I will have to sign the bill because both Houses passed this bill almost unanimously.'"

I shall always maintain that it was a mistake to establish this school at this time; to locate a Technological institution in Lubbock county; and to have this institution under a separate board of regents. If I can render any service to you or the State of Texas on this proposition, call on me."

J. T. Stroder of Frost: "Your idea of curtailing tax burdens is good. If that Tech could have been nearer this way I would have thought it a better place."

"I assure you I am or the best things in education and for economy in all things."

LUNCHEON CLUB MEMBERS ANTICIPATE LARGE ATTENDANCE NEXT THURSDAY

Members of the Brady Luncheon club are anticipating a meeting extraordinary this week, and in view of the fact that the ladies of the Christian church are announced as providing the luncheon, there is no question of doubt but what the rosiest expectations of all members are certain to be fulfilled. The club meets this Thursday at 12:00 noon sharp, at the Frank Wilhelm residence, where the ladies of the Christian church have arranged to give their luncheon. All who have attended one of the dinners given here in months gone by, know what royal hospitality and wonderfully good eating that means. Those who have never had the pleasure of attending, should lose no time in giving in their names to G. C. Kirk, who will see to it that a place is reserved for them at the noon-day luncheon.

The luncheon club is hoping for a large attendance at this meeting and wants everyone present who is interested in town-building, unity and co-operation.

To the newly-weds is extended all good wishes for every happiness in life, and in which wish all their many friends join.

ANOTHER NORTH SIDE DWELLING IS DESTROYED

Another dwelling on Melton avenue has succumbed to flames of unknown origin. The house was the one known as the George Bunden place, and which was purchased only a couple of weeks ago by W. O. Kirchner from Hallum & Crothers, who held a major interest in the place. The residence had been vacated a week or so ago by B. H. Hollon, and Mr. Kirchner and his family had intended to occupy the place as their permanent residence this week. When first observed about 1:30 Sunday morning, the fire appeared to be in the roof or attic of the house, but later investigation, according to Mr. Kirchner, seems to refute this belief, inasmuch as a middle partition wall was entirely consumed. By the time the alarm could be given, and the fire boys were able to get a stream of water on the fire, the building was burned beyond reclamation, although such outside walls as were not caved in by the force of the stream of water, still stand.

The destroyed dwelling was located the second house west of the J. C. Gahagan place, destroyed the first of last month, and the fire boys state that the alarm on the Kirchner dwelling was turned in within 15 minutes of the hour at which the Gahagan alarm was sounded. The residence of Jim Mayes, which is located between the two destroyed places, suffered both fire and heavy water damage each time. Mr. Mayes had just finished repapering his house after the first fire, to the east of his residence, when Sunday morning's fire caused his house to be flooded from the west side. Several hours after the fire boys retired from the scene Sunday morning blazing shingles on the roof of the Mayes house were discovered, and but for the timely discovery serious damage might have resulted.

Mr. Kirchner states that the loss is quite a heavy one for him, since the house could not be replaced for less than $2,500, and he carried but $1,500 insurance. He has not yet decided whether he will rebuild.

BRADY, TEXAS, OCT. 9, 1923

DISASTROUS WARNING.

Sometimes it takes disaster to warn us of our peril. So, maybe, the two fires which destroyed valuable residence property on Melton avenue within the past thirty or forty days, will serve to remind the Brady citizenship of the imperative need of more adequate fire protection. Brady is proud of her Building & Loan association, and its record in town-building—but the rate of destruction threatens to entirely overshadow the rate at which new homes are being built in Brady.

Brady needs more fire plugs! Brady needs larger water mains! When the fire boys turned their hose on the fires on Melton avenue, the water spluttered for many valuable minutes before the line could be cleared of air, and then, in spite of good pressure, the small main reduced the volume of water to such a degree as to seriously handicap the efforts of the fire-fighters.

Brady can no longer shut her eyes to this "penny wise, pound foolish" method of fire protection. The water-works board and the city council are unanimous in the opinion that these defects should be remedied at the earliest possible moment—but the citizens must finance the deal—and the best way to do that is through a bond issue.

The Coleman Times, Vol. 1, No. 3, has just come to our attention. The Times is the newest venture in the journalistic field of this section, and is issued weekly at Coleman by the Central City Publishing Co., of which W. N. Hawkins is general manager, Ray B. McCorkle, editor, and H. A. Newson, advertising manager. The Times is a most creditable publication, being metropolitan in its make-up and general appearance, and carrying a most wonderful line of advertising patronage, the advertising being "pyramided" according to latest accepted newspaper rules, and the entire effect of the printed page being most pleasing to the eye. The Standard extends fraternal greetings, and wishes The Times unalloyed success.

ABOUT GETTING THINGS DONE.

"We're looking for an admonitory sentence of a few words to use as a slogan during the coming year," said a newly-appointed chairman of a directing body to a friend, "can you make a suggestion?"

The slogan that was suggested was "Get things done."

Get things done now, and if not now, as soon after now as energetic, concentrated effort will permit.

Procrastination has been spoken of as the thief of time. Tardy performance is probably responsible for more actual loss than error in performance.

Hours a day of thousands of employees are wasted by those who wait upon the action of a few who do not get things done.

These wasted hours melted into the cost of production that those who did get things done have an enormous advantage in competition.

The more important a man's position, the more important is it that he "get things done." And any and all will, I think, admit, that is a good slogan to hang in any office, factory or print-shop. It might not be a bad slogan to hang up in the home.—The Ambassador.

UNADVERTISED BUSINESS.

"I would feel that I was tied hand and foot if I was unable to tell the people what I had to sell," said Fred P. Mann, the nationally known North Dakota retail merchant to the San Antonio and visiting merchants recently. "The man who thinks he can prosper without advertising his goods is mistaken and might as well close his doors. The newspapers, I believe, are the greatest advertising medium. The greatest tragedy to the retailer is that they know so little of advertising and of advertising methods. The best time to advertise is when times are hard," says Mr. Mann.

Mr. Mann is the most noted retail man in the United States, and his statement should have some careful consideration.

We encounter some one every few days who doesn't believe in advertising. We have others who are going to advertise when their business gets to be large, which means that their business will never be large and they will never be advertisers for more business.

Every successful business owes a good part of its success to advertising.

Statistics for last year showed that of the 20,000 business failures in the United States, 14,000 of them advertised very little or not at all.

"Oh, people know we are here and know what we have to sell," some tell us. Yes, that's true. People know who Henry Ford is and where his products can be bought, etc., but does this wizard of the industrial world rest on his notoriety? No! He is probably the most extensive advertiser in the United States.

An unadvertised business may not be a dead one, but you can rest assured that it is a business that is at a standstill, and a business that is at a standstill is not in a very good position to sell the customer at a bargain, or even reasonable prices.—Junction Eagle.

When Simonides Took Pen in Hand

THE famed Greek poet attended a banquet at which he was served wine of temperature unpleasing. Moved thereby, he encribed that "no one will commend the man who gives hot water to a friend." History fails to reveal the name of his hostess.

Imagine the glee with which Simonides would have greeted cubes of sparkling ice! Or think of the lip salads, the unrefreshing drinks, which would be our portion today if ice was still uncommon.

Just an incident—but serving well, we think, to bring home again the moral that ice is a luxury-commodity of first order—a necessity in well served meals—a necessity the whole year 'round for the proper protection of foods.

ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA & DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved — Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. Perfected Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The latest triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines thus enters upon a wider field of popularity,—purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water,—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—(Adv.)

BRIEFLY TOLD.

Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, says, "It will take five years to write a sensible law to govern immigration and until that time the United States should bar those who are coming here seeking to avoid the consequences of a war which they brought upon themselves."

One of the world's greatest iron ore regions is located in the interior of Brazil. The ore-beds are pure and abundant and the only drawback to development lies in the lack of transportation. The natives smelt the ore and fashion it into utensils and farming implements by the crudest process known to modern man. With the abundant waterpower to develop current for electric furnaces, the economic development of this area will soon be solved. Brazil now imports large quantities of iron and sheet from other countries.

Although Montenegro contains rich and fertile fields in parts of the country, taken as a whole it is one of the poorest countries in Europe. Before the European War Russia built roads, bridges, churches and schools there. The natives are brave and fearless and have beaten back the Turkish swarms for 500 years. Of all the Balkan people, they alone have never bowed to the Turk.

Chinese, and other Oriental people have lower blood pressure than the people of the western nations, according to a writer in a prominent medical journal.

A model type farmhouse consisting of eight rooms and all modern city conveniences—intended to keep folks on the farm—has been built at the South Dakota Agricultural College at a cost of $5,900. Its most important feature consists of an electric light system generated by a gasoline engine, contributing to the operation of a vacuum sweeper, a cream separator, a churn, a washing machine, floor lamps, flatirons and other electric contrivances. The house contains large, comfortable rooms, summer kitchen with sink and drains, septic tank for sewage disposal, bathroom, furnace and laundry.

More than 3300 persons were killed by wild animals in India during the past year.

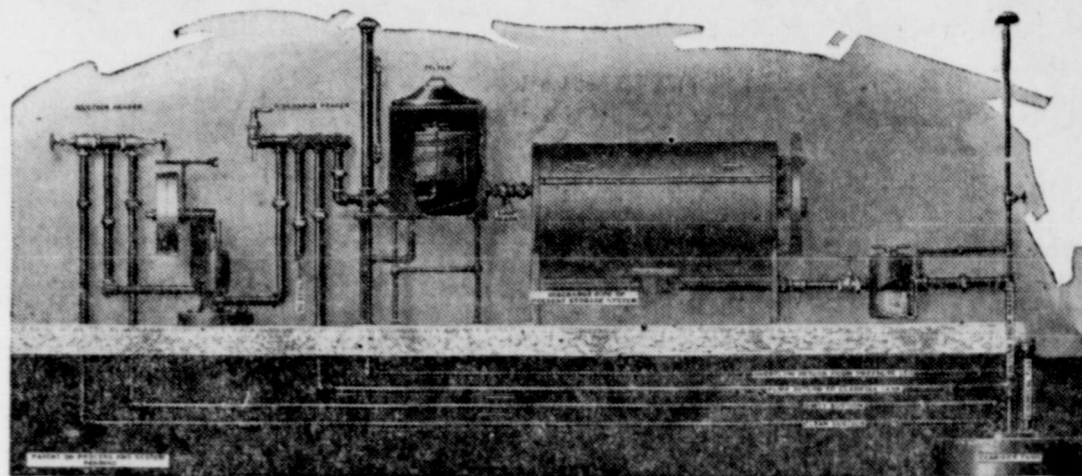

A new form of life belt which supports the head of the wearer clear of the water is a great improvement over the old form of belt. Women of hysterical tendencies and old people sometimes collapse the minute they find themselves in the water. In this case the head falls forward or backward, the mouth is opened, and they drown at once. The new type of belt would prevent drowning while unconscious.

Chinese stores and restaurants have become common in every street of Tokyo. They were rare a few years ago.

The swastika symbol, according to a writer in the Journal of the Asiatic Society, Bengal, is a modification of the mode of expressing the ancient Hindu syllable Om, which is used in religious rites. The earliest example known is on a spindle wheel from the third city of Troy, about 1800 B. C. It has been found in the ancient Swiss lake dwellings, in Japan, Korea, China, Italy, France, Germany, Russia, Great Britain and in the mounds of North America and South America.

Japan has retired 850 officers, including seven generals, since August 1922. The Japanese Government has announced that it will shortly discharge from the service 1,371 additional officers, including four generals, seventeen lieutenant-generals, and thirty-three major-generals. Many retired officers have entered the Department of Economics of the Imperial University to qualify for civilian occupations.
