

MITCHELL CASE TO BE TRIED NEXT DISTRICT COURT

The fall term of district court in McCulloch county, formerly held in September, but which was changed by act of the 38th legislature to November, will be convened by Judge J. O. Woodward on Monday, November 26th, and at which time the grand jury will be empaneled. While a comparatively light docket will come before the court, one case of importance and great interest throughout this section is set for trial on Monday, the second week of the term, which will be December 3rd, and that is the case of Oatis Mitchell of Rochelle, charged with the murder of Sam Cole.

Other cases on the criminal docket include a number in which no arrests have as yet been made, viz: two charges of forgery, two charges of swindling and two charges of burglary.

In addition there are two counts against W. M. Levitt, charged with selling intoxicating liquors. Levitt recently broke jail at Coleman and has not yet been apprehended. Arthur Nolen, negro, who has been in jail since September of last year, on a charge of manufacturing intoxicating liquor, will have his case come before the court. Jim Ramsey has a case before the court on the same charge, while Jim Spencer is charged with transporting liquor.

The Goddess of Love appears to have had rough sledding, if the divorce cases on the civil docket are to be taken at face value, there being some twenty-eight divorce suits scheduled to come before the court.

The following is the list of sixteen from which the grand jurors will be selected, and also a list of petit jurors for the first and second weeks of court, as chosen by the jury commission:

LLANO GOLD MINE SOON TO BE REOPENED

Llano, Oct. 27.—The famous Heath gold and platinum mine, located five miles from Llano, is soon to be worked again, it is reported. It has been idle for several years on account of financial troubles. It is to be developed and worked, according to the articles of incorporation of the Llano Gold and Rare Metal Company, filed in the State Department, which concern has been granted a permit to do business in Texas.

The company was chartered under the laws of Arizona. The principal place of business is Llano, and its main office in Texas is at Dallas. The incorporators are all Dallas men, W. A. Nason, president; W. B. Green, first vice president, and McCarty Moore, secretary-treasurer. The capital stock is $500,000.

There has been thousands of dollars spent in developing and equipping this mine. The plant is of 50,000 ton capacity. The ore is easily reached, being only a few feet underground. The company owns 220 acres of mineral land at the plant. When in full running order the company expects to employ 50 men.

CARL STEFFINS AND FAMILY RETURN TO BRADY MAYHEW LOCAL HOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Steffins and son, Karl Keller, arrived this afternoon, with part of their household effects, from Eden and their many friends will be pleased to learn that they are again to make their home in Brady. Mr. Keller will be with the local house of the Mayhew Produce Co., taking charge of the office and books of not only the Brady headquarters, but of the four branch houses of the firm as well. While the position carries with it much responsibility, Mr. Steffins has the proven qualifications and enjoys the full confidence of the members of the firm, so that he is the logical man for the place.

Mr. Steffins, for the past year or more, has had charge of the Mayhew branch at Eden, but on account of a breakdown in health recently, he was forced to give up the heavy work there, and to accept the lighter office work with the local house. Hollis Smith, formerly bookkeeper and stenographer in the local house, has been placed in charge of the Eden produce house, while an expert poultryman is in charge of the poultry yard established by the firm at that place.

The turkey season is now opening up, two of the Mayhew's expert "roughers" having already arrived, and that will mean busy times in the produce business from now on through the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

JOHN T. WORTHAM SHOWS NEXT WEEK AUSPICES LEGION

A. E. Bently, special agent for the John T. Wortham Shows, which is to fill a week's engagement in Brady under the auspices of the Elijah F. Allin American Legion Post, is in the city making the final arrangements for the coming of the shows. Mr. Bently says that there are 16 high class, moral and refined shows—just the kind that the amusement loving public is looking for—and that there is no so-called "Girly" shows of any kind. Everything on the Midway of the Wortham shows is built and arranged for the ladies and children, and that every show will stand the most rigid inspection at any and all times.

Some of the feature shows that might be mentioned are the Wortham $10,000 Water circus, featuring Miss Bonnie Love, America's champion lady high diver who is supported by a group of other lady champions. Another feature attraction on the Midway is that of Wortham's big trained wild animal circus, where lions, bears, monkeys, dogs, ponies and high school horses perform to the delight of the old as well as the young.

Another one of the big shows is Mr. Clark's monster speedway, where you will see little monkeys in real autos racing around a special race track at the rate of a mile a minute. Why Barney Oldfield has nothing on these auto fans.

There is Madam Raney and her Broadway Strutters, one of the best minstrel shows on the road today. Madam Raney is known as the "Million Dollar Blues Singer." If you are a lover of good singing and dancing, come and see the "Broadway Strutters."

Still there is another wonderful show—Prof. Blackwell's freak animal show. This is the largest show of its kind now touring America, and is the home of "Nellie," the Texas Wonder. You will also see the smartest cattle in all the world, Major, his wife and son.

Now as to the fun houses, Noah's Ark, Whiz Bang, and the Jazzer, all which are strictly made for fun.

There is still another big show—Prof. Brown and his "Place of Wonders." Here is where you always are entertained.

Last, but not least, the monster circus side show, owned and managed by Mr. Buck McCallahan—10 big feature attractions, all under one mammoth tent, at one price of admission. It's well worth your time.

There are five big riding devices—the Whip, Merry Go Round, Sea Plane, Baby Terry Swing and the latest ride out—the Caterpillar. The Caterpillar is a wonderful and exciting machine, built especially for Mr. Wortham, at a cost of $14,500.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE PAST WEEK NETS CLOSE TO $300 IN BRADY ALONE

The annual campaign for funds for the Salvation Army, which is now being conducted throughout the state, was made in Brady the past week under direction of H. N. Sapp of Dallas, representing the Salvation Army in the campaign. Local committees cooperated with Mr. Sapp, and a generally cordial response was met with among Brady business men and citizens. The local drive up to Saturday afternoon had netted close to $300, with several committee reports to be made, and also pledges to be collected.

McCulloch county's quota has been placed at $500, and this amount was accepted by the local Advisory board; consequently there still remains something like $200 to be raised if McCulloch county is to do her full part. An appeal is to be made to the citizens and business men of other towns in McCulloch county to secure their pro-rata part of the quota, and thereby aid in putting McCulloch over the top on this drive.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT IS HALLOWEEN—MUDDY WEATHER HINDERS GHOSTLY PRANKS

Tomorrow (Wednesday) night is Halloween—the occasion on which ghosts are supposed to wander about, witches fly around astride broomsticks, black cats parade the alleys and back fences, and goblins and spooks an ever' thing prow around seeking whom they may frighten out of their wits. The budding young debutants also gaze into dark mirrors for a glimpse of their future husbands, and the future husbands dive into tubs of water for apples, etc. Also small boys are generally supposed to be about doing all manner of mischief, all of which is severely frowned upon by the law, and sometimes leads to serious consequences.

This year the weather man appears anything but friendly with the witches, goblins and spooks—and small boys—and with muddy streets, and a damp, chilly night in prospect, there is reason to believe that all the Halloween fun will be confined to indoor parties, of which several are scheduled.

Take it all in all, the Wortham shows are the largest of their kind that have ever paid the city of Brady a visit and the "Name is a Guarantee." All shows and rides will be open Monday night at 7 o'clock, and the public is invited out for an inspection. You will find an American Legion boy at the doors of every attraction to greet you and they ask your hearty support.

Just Received, a New bunch of Light Colors in Chiffon Hose—Beige, Log Cabin, Cinnamon and Several other shades. KIRK Nuf-Sed.

TRIALS OF A GOOD DAY.

Once there was a Good Day—a Perfectly Good Day, warm, but not too warm, bright and snappy and glorious. It took a walk to receive men's praises, and bask in their gratitude and this is what it heard:

Casper Kineheart: "Dear Me; we need rain." Mary Jones: "How monotonous this weather is." Samuel Sprague: "Getting horribly dusty." Morton Grant: "It's so windy today I can't burn my leaves."

Granny Simmons: "Heigh-ho. The weather today gives me the spring fever." The Good Day went back home discouraged. "What's the use," it said, "of being a Perfectly Good Day, if this is all I get for it." So the next day it rained.—Ex.

THE MILLION-DOLLAR TRADE-MARK

Rolling dice for a quarter is a dastardly crime, but "shooting for a million" gives the typical American the thrill he likes. The Attorney General's department is "out-smarted" at court by the legal experts of wealthy tax dodgers, but the little fellow who errs by a few dollars in the making of his income report suffers the penalty of a fine, an added tax and a stiff interest payment. Two little darkeys fight in an alley and a cop marches them off to jail, but a brace of husky prize fighters furnishes lawful delight to 80,000 cheering people packed in an arena while the complacent policemen patrol the aisles and keep three patrons in their $20 seats.

Anything that bears the million-dollar trademark finds an enthusiastic reception by the average American. The trouble is with the folks themselves. Isn't it about time that we peeled off the veneer and worked back to the simple, homely, wholesome, two-bit civilization that is our revered American heritage.—Farm and Ranch.

CIRCUS REMINISCENCES

I didn't go to the show, but I saw the most of the animals on parade. I am told there was no acrobats at all in the exhibition being exclusively an exhibition of animals, most of which were trained to perform remarkable stunts. I am sure it was the last menagerie exhibition that has ever been seen in Comanche, and was correspondingly instructive and educative to those who attended, especially the children and younger generation of men and women. Unless I fail to remember correctly, the largest crowd ever gathered in this town was gathered here and most of them paid an admission fee.

The first show of any respectability in size that I ever saw was about Oct. 1896, when I had just turned sixteen. At that time I had never been 75 miles from my birthplace in Goliad. The country was too sparsely settled to have shows traveling through it. Thayer & Noyes' Circus accompanied by a small menagerie—very small at that—came into the community at that time. I shall never forget the thrills of that circus day. I can sympathize with children and adolescents in their anxiety to get a glimpse of such a show. Aside from the few animals in the menagerie, the show consisted of the usual equestrian performances, jumping through hoops, acrobatics, tumbling, trapeze and a minstrel band at the windup. Of course one of the attractions was that of the clowns, among whom Jimmie Reynolds was chief, but perhaps the most interesting to me was the prima donna equestrienne whose name I have now unfortunately forgotten (strange to say), but with whom I fell desperately in love and was almost tempted to run away from home and follow the show on her account. Her face haunted me for at least a week, and I thought during that week that she was the sweetest looking most angelic being I had ever even dreamed of. But like all such cases of puppy love in the normal youth, it passed off long before I saw the humor of it. As usual after a show passes through a community, the children and even some as big as I was, went through the form of play shows for weeks afterwards. When I look back and recall the impressions of that first show I ever saw, I always want to see the children and young people have a chance to see a good exhibition, and I can always readily excuse the elderly man or woman who apologizes for going on the ground that somebody must take care of the children. My own three elder grandchildren of the Hamilton family never forgot this show, and will be probably a month telling me about all they saw and heard. God bless 'em, let 'em go.—L. B. Russell in Comanche Enterprise.

PERQUISITES OF PRESIDENT'S OFFICE.

Being President of the United States is a good sized man's job; but the trials and tribulations which beset the "chief executive of the greatest civic trust in the world" is offset by the rewards, incidental and otherwise, which the office affords. The President of United States receives, as a reward for his sacrifice, the following:

Salary of $75,000 per year.
Traveling expenses amounting to $25,000.
A home upon which is focused the attention of the world, furnished and maintained by the Government.
A private room in the Capitol building within which millions of visitors to Washington have stood and admired its appointments.
A flock of the finest automobiles that American factories can produce.
A private detective force, and a private police force.
A private art gallery, and a private library.
A score of greenhouses to keep the White House decorated and provide plants and blooms for dinners and receptions.
A private yacht, and a private railroad train whenever he wants it.
A musical band that is the finest in the world.
He has a private flag which no one else may use, a personal physician and naval and military personal aides.
He gets the right of way wherever and whenever he may go, and has a digest of the leading daily newspapers made for him every morning.
The first lady of the land, who is the social leader of the country has a social secretary.
The appropriations made by Congress take care of the upkeep and maintenance of the White House, including furnishing, repairs, heat, and, in fact, everything except what the President's family eats. Since he is commander in chief of the army and navy he can get his kitchen supplied at the Army and Navy Commissary at reduced market prices.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

McClulloch county and all this section has just experienced another period of rainy weather, and which has brought the total precipitation for the month up to 5.80 inches. Last night's heavy shower netted a quarter of an inch, and was followed by a brisk norther, which promises a freeze, or near-freeze for tonight. A cold snap now would greatly damage late feed, although it might serve to clear the weather.

When French Farmers Supplied Paris With Ice
BACK in the Seventeenth Century the French Government granted special favors to farmers who gathered ice and carted it to the cities. Our illustration therefore shows the ice man of three hundred years ago and proves two things.
One is that people have always craved ice and were willing to go to great ends to obtain it.
The other is contrast—the contrast of modernity. Today's ice quality is unquestioned—today's supply always certain. Your family should be making the most of this modern blessing by taking ice the year 'round. It lasts longer these days—more than pays its way in comforts and protection.

ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA & DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved — Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. Perfected Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The latest triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines thus enters upon a wider field of popularity, purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water,—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—(Adv.)

A FATHER'S CONFESSION.

Liston, son, I am saying this to you, as you lie asleep, one little paw crumpled under your cheek and the blond curls wet on your white forehead. I have come into your room alone. Just a few minutes ago as I sat reading my paper in the library, a hot, stifling wave of remorse swept over me. I came to your bedside.

These were the things I was thinking of son: I had been cross to you. I scolded you as you were dressing for school, because you gave your face merely a dab with a towel. I took you to task for not cleaning your shoes. I called out angrily when I found you had thrown some of your things on the floor.

At breakfast I found fault, too. You spilled things. You gulped down your food. You put your elbows on the table. You spread butter too thick on your bread. And as you started off to play and I made my train, you turned and waved a little hand and called "Good-bye, daddy." Then I frowned and said in reply, "Hold your sholders back!" Then it began all over again in the late afternoon. As I came up the hill, I spied you down on your knees playing marbles. There were holes in your stockings and I humiliated you before your boy friends by making you march on ahead of me, back to the house. Stockings were expensive—and if you had to buy them you would be more careful.

But do you remember later, when I was reading in the library, how you came in, softly, timidly, with a sort of hurt, haunted look in our eyes. When I glanced up over my paper, impatient at the interruption, you hesitated at the door.

"What do you want?" I snapped. You said nothing, but ran across the room, gathered all your childish courage in one tempestuous plunge, and threw your arms around my neck and kissed me, again and again, and your small arms tightened with an affection that God had set blooming in your heart and which even neglect could not wither. And then you were gone, pattering up the stairs.

Well son, it was shortly afterwards that my paper slipped from my hands and a terrible, sickening fear came over me. Suddenly I saw myself as I really was in all my horrid selfishness; and I felt sick at heart. What had habit been doing to me? The habit of complaining, of finding fault, of reprimanding—all of these were my reward to you for being a boy; it was not that I did not love you; it was that I had expected too terribly much of youth. I was measuring you by the yardstick of my own years.

And there was so much that was good, and refined and true in your character. You did not deserve the treatment you received my son. The little heart of yours was as big as the dawn itself. All this was shown by your spontaneous impulse to rush in and kiss me good-night. Nothing else matters, to-night, son, I have come to your bedside in the darkness, and I have knelt here, choking with emotion and so ashamed.

It is a feeble atonement. I know you would not understand these things if I told you during your waking hours. Yet I must say what I am saying. I must burn sacrificial fires, alone, here in your bedroom and make a free confession.

And I have prayed God to strengthen me in my new resolve. Tomorrow I will be a real daddy. I will chum with you and suffer when you suffer and laugh when you laugh. I will bite my tongue when impatient words come. I will keep saying, "He is nothing but a boy."

Better Biscuits-Cakes & Pastries? Sure!

—WHY tell you that Aunt Jemima Flour is made from highest quality selected Missouri soft wheat? Or that every grain of that wheat is washed individually before it is ground? Or that every particle of flour is sifted through silk fabric of the finest weave? Or why tell you of the many other details of extreme care essential to the manufacture of this perfect flour? The fact that Aunt Jemima sponsors it and that it is milled by the same folks who make Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour is sufficient proof that if a better flour could be made it would bear Aunt Jemima's name.

EARLY DAY HISTORY IN INTERESTING REPORT

The news editor of the Brownwood Bulletin recently made a visit to the northeastern corner of McCulloch county, and dug up some interesting early-day history, which he recounts in the following article, reprinted from the Bulletin of October 22nd:

The Daily Bulletin news man spent Sunday in the country and had a very enjoyable day, part of the time being at the famous Beasley place at the Beasley crossing on the Colorado, near the present iron bridge on the Brady road, and while there saw many things of interest, cedar lumber for instance sawed 45 years ago, and red elm lumber 45 years old and still hard as iron. John Beasley, emigrating from Georgia to Missouri and later to Texas, settled here in 1861. After buying the place from Dave Hull, who had already been there several days. The original building has been replaced by a fairly modern and very comfortable frame dwelling. The original barn, built of red elm logs was blown down in the storm which swept through the country June 30th, this year, but Mr. McBride, the man who now lives on the place, built another barn, a single room structure out of the logs that was salvaged. Jack Beasley, son of John Beasley, cut the logs and one day while he was busy at the job, Indians slipped up and stole his horses. From this old time place the news man went to Milburn, and spent an hour or so, part of the time being with John Long, the sage of Milburn, who runs a blacksmith shop on week days and reads good books on Sunday. He has an only daughter who lives with him and keeps house, but who is now visiting friends in Oklahoma. He has one son, who went across during the World War who passed through many battles and came back home untouched by bayonet or bullet. John Long has a good library, maps line the walls of his humble, and yet cozy home, a phonograph with countless records occupies a prominent place while in one corner is a large and excellent organ. The picture of the son who went to the war, hangs prominently on the wall. Milburn is an old town. Its pioneer name was "Dug Out" and under this name it was known all over the west. Old Dave McAllister, dead these many years was among the very first post masters and in connection with his little office and store which was in a dug out he carried on a mercantile business. He lived a mile or more from his dug out and one day while he was at dinner the Comanche Indians made a raid and broke into his dug-out store and burned it—post-office and all, scornful of the fact that Uncle Sam does not appreciate the act of unlawful fingers handling his mail business. Relatives of Dave McAllister still live, the widow being something like 70 years old, and his two daughters, in business in Milburn, one the postmistress and one—Mrs. Hollenbeck, helping her husband in a small grocery store. Milburn is to use an old Texas expression plum "kerdab" in the extreme northeastern part of McCulloch county. From the historic town of Milburn the news man passed on to Mercury and met the Beasleys, four brothers, in the Bank of Mercury a small wooden building and there a most enjoyable hour and thirty minutes was spent. Several men came in, and as well as the writer recalls they were all Beasley's except one—and what a dandy bunch they were, each and every one of them, big hearted, jovial, good natured. Tom Beasley was a member of the 35, 36 and 37th legislature and was there of course during the stormy period which included the Ferguson impeachment row.

Mercury suffered a great calamity in December, 1919, when the entire town was destroyed by fire. The town is rebuilding and is still a great factor in the material development of the section of country in which it is located. The following business enterprises are noted: One bank, one gin, three general stores, two rural routes, telephone system, fine school and churches, one grocery store, garages, blacksmith shop, depot and one railroad, an oil field in the immediate vicinity, drug store, two confectioneries, and a number of other important enterprises including water works and other progressive factors.

Walter Daniel, the photographer, accompanied the news man and dinner and lunch was enjoyed by the roadside between Milburn and Mercury.
