W. O. W. TO GIVE RADIO CONCERT

The local Woodmen of the World lodge is in a flourishing condition and is growing both in membership and in interest in its monthly meetings.

Led by C. C. Smith as Council Commander, the members are all co-operating in a fine way and therefore all the deeply interested members are pleased with the fine condition of their Lodge. At next regular monthly meeting the members will enjoy a radio concert. Mr. Smith owns a fine receiving set and is thoroughly acquainted with adjusting it. He has agreed to install the receiving set in the Woodman Hall for the next monthly meeting, with a loud receiver and therefore all who are present will enjoy a radio concert. Many of the members are enthusiastic about the concert and all are working to have the largest attendance at the next meeting they have had in a long time.

The regular monthly meeting is the third Saturday night in each month. Let all the members take notice and remember the radio concert the third Saturday night in February.

JEWELRY FIRM HAS AD CONTRACT

The large and popular jewelry firm of Williams & McLendon of San Angelo have closed a large advertising contract with The Enterprise and the first ad appears in this issue.

This firm is composed of Tom Williams and Dew McLendon. Mr. Williams established the business in 1915 and operated same for some years then sold.

Just before Christmas Mr. Williams bought the business again and associated with him Mr. McLendon. They took charge, went to work and completely remodeled and beautified the interior of their building, installed modern jewelry fixtures and hence it now has as elegant appearance as to the interior appearance as it is possible for artistic arrangement to make.

These gentlemen also purchased and put on display a mammoth stock of watches, diamonds, rings, pearls—in fact every thing carried in a first class jewelry store.

Speaking to The Enterprise editor Mr. Williams stated that when formerly in business in San Angelo he had a splendid trade out of the Bronte territory and that he was anxious to have all his former friends and customers to know he was again in business at the same place and wanted them and all others to call on him.

As evidence that Mr. Williams and Mr. McLendon know the jewelry business from a to z and that they are going after the business of the Bronte section of country they made a time contract with us and their first

J. N. TANNEHILL BUILDS NEW SHOP

Another structure being erected in Bronte at this time is an addition to Bronte's industrial and business enterprise which shows that the business interests of the town are growing and taking on a more substantial aspect.

The building referred to is the new blacksmith shop Newt Tannehill is erecting on the lot where his shop has been for many years. Mr. Tannehill has torn down the wooden structure and is erecting a sheet metal building of a modern pattern. When the building is finished it will be a modern blacksmith and wood work shop.

Mr. Tannehill contemplates installing every modern equipment necessary to make his shop first class in every particular.

Let the good work go on until there will not be a town in Texas equal to Bronte when it comes to enterprise and progress in the business element and life of the town. It can be done. And men in the industrial and business life of the community with "pep" like Newt Tannehill will bring the much desired condition about. Who'll be next.

TWO CITIZENS BUY HOMES

Residence property in Bronte is in demand in Bronte as it has not been for some time. This is one of the best situations that can exist for the perpetual good of the town. When people own their own homes they usually feel a deeper interest in the community's welfare. Two prominent business men have bought homes this week.

E. E. Pruitt, one of the proprietors of City Market & Bakery, has bought the A. J. Nelson residence on Church street. This is a pretty residence and well located. Mr. Pruitt and family will occupy same.

C. R. Golihar, cashier of the Guaranty State Bank, has bought the Rotan residence on Church street. This is one of the prettiest cottages in town. Mr. Golihar will remodel and beautify the structure and he and family will be at home in their own residence.

W. A. Hurst, night agent of the Orient, returned Tuesday from a six weeks stay at the old home at St. Joe, Missouri. His friends are glad to see him home again.

Mrs. Charley Witt and little son from Ballinger were in town Sunday the guest of the Fred McDonald home.

ad this week announces that they will sell diamonds on the installment plan, with a small cash payment. This is a fine opportunity for any one wanting diamonds to buy them and pay for them as they can. Many people buy diamonds as an investment. Read the ads of this big, progressive jewelry firm as they appear in these columns.

Miss Smith Lectures.

The editor and wife were among a group of several who attended worship at the Methodist church at Blackwell Sunday evening. And we write with deepest sincerity when we state that we have not enjoyed an hour at a place of worship more in a long time than did we spend the hour Sunday evening.

The occasion was that of a chalk talk by Miss Verne Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Smith of this place. Miss Smith is a junior in Simmons College at Abilene.

Through the anxiety of the pastor of the Blackwell Methodist church, Rev. A. D. Jamison, for the young people of his congregation, he arranged with Miss Smith to give a "chalk talk" in connection with his Epworth League. Sunday evening was the hour. And the program from the beginning to the final benediction was replete with wholesome, helpful features.

Miss Smith is almost a prodigy in her chalk characterizations. Scarcely out of her teens and yet a junior in college, but she puts on canvas, pictures that speak their messages. She, and members of the Epworth League, portrayed and sang their way into the deepest graces of the audience that filled the auditorium. As a quartet sang familiar and beautiful hymns, in a soft, crooning way, Miss Smith threw on canvas, by the deftness of her hand, the picture that visualized to the enraptured hearers the sentiment of the hymn that was being sung. Perhaps, the best expression of her mastery of the art was in "The Light House." In this drawing she portrayed a dark, stormy night, on a boisterous, turbulent sea, where the mad waves were splashing against dark, dangerous reefs. The "light house" on the shore, amid the darkness and storm, cast its gracious, illuminating rays far out to sea, in the darkness and gloom. As she threw this picture on canvas, more quickly than we are here relating the incident, the quartet sang beautifully, "Let the lower lights be burning." There was perfect silence in the auditorium, save the voices of the singers, and the hearers could almost hear the wail of wrecked mariners at sea begging for some one to come and save. Concluding her "chalk talk" Miss Smith made a tender and beautiful appeal to those present to give their lives to the glorious task of saving and helping others. She closed her appeal with one of McDonald's beautiful poems.

We congratulate Miss Smith, and her parents as well. She is marvelously endowed and she—so different to the great hosts of young girls today who are wasting their young life in the false and frivolous—is consecrating her life's first hours to the holy and glorious task of preparing herself for cultured womanhood. The heights to which she will go are yet unmeasured. A girl thus blessed with talent and who

HAWKINS TO PREACH ON DANCE

Sunday night at Robert Lee Methodist Church at 7:12 after a rousing song service Will Hawkins will preach on the subject "The Caper Ma Cut at the Ball." All bunny hugging buggers and tango twisters and fox trotting loppers are urged to be present. Not to be abused or criticized but to listen to plain facts from a plain preacher who has studied the dance from many angles.

Sunday morning Rev. Hawkins will preach on "What it means to be a Methodist." Are you a Methodist? Is the Robert Lee Methodist Church Methodist? Come and see. 11 a. m.

W. E. Hawkins

thus chooses to use that talent as Miss Smith is choosing to do will be the queenliest woman in the esteem of all. Joaquin Miller, the rugged poet of the Sierras, had such a woman in mind, when he wrote:

"O, spotless woman, in a world of shame,
With splendid and silent scorn,
Go back to God as white as you came
The noblest warrior born."

Following the lecture by Miss Smith, Rev. Jamison brought a message that was filled with tender thought from the words of Paul, as a text: "Then cometh the end." Rev. Jamison is a prince in his spirit of good cheer and fine fellowship. He made everybody to "feel at home." And his topic was very timely, following the lecture of Miss Smith. His discourse was in pure diction and full of old fashioned religious, fervid oratory (which after all, is the most eloquent of human expression to which one is ever privileged to listen).

It was an hour not soon to be forgotten. And the writer here expresses his appreciation to Rev. Jamison, his league and Miss Smith for the distinct blessing the evening's program brought to our own heart.

BUY ROBISON UNDERTAKING

A change in one of the leading business institutions of San Angelo was effected first of the week.

Mr. E. M. Johnson, and his sister, Miss Alma, bought the interest of W. A. Robison Undertaking Co. Mr. Johnson and sister have been residents of San Angelo for a long time. Mr. Johnson is manager and chief stock holder in the Household Furniture Co., which is one of San Angelo's large and popular furniture establishments. His sister has been saleslady in one of the leading department stores, for quite a time. Hence both are experienced in modern business methods. Mr. Robison's interest in the Undertaking Co. was the largest of any stockholder. Its capitalization is $20,000.

Miss Johnson will assume business management the first of February. Speaking to The Enterprise editor Mr. Johnson stated that there would be no change in the policies of the Company, and that they would be ready at all times to serve the people in their needs in the undertaking line.

The Enterprise extends congratulations to Mr. and Miss Johnson and wishes them their part of the undertaking business.

Monster Rattle Snake Rattles.

P. L. Johnson was exhibiting a rattle snake's rattles Sunday morning which showed that the rattles had come off of a monster snake of the kind.

There were thirty three rattles and the button. And part of the rattles were missing. Mr. Johnson found the rattles near an old prairie dog hole in which a badger had been digging and dugged out the rattles. Old timers saw the rattles and all were agreed it was the largest number they ever saw from one snake.

Anyhow the man in the moon didn't spit in our face Saturday as he passed by.

But, evidently it was a matter of purely gentility on his part—if he is not to return again until the time set by the wise ones he had nothing to fear as to the possibility of "getting his block knocked off" by those who would have maltreated by such act.

Building and improving and beautifying is the order of the day in and around Bronte. Several new homes are under construction, others in the process of forming, while others are under consideration. And many additions that make the homes more beautiful have been added. Let the good work go on, for happy is the people who are contented. And the most contented people in the world are the great middle classes, when they have homes of their own.

The man who does not have the companionship, solicitude, sympathy and co-operative helpfulness of a noble woman and the influences of a peaceful, happy home, will never achieve as otherwise he would have done. From the beginning woman was to be man's helpmeet. And the woman who fills this sphere, provided she has a real, sure-enough man for a husband, fills the greatest mission of woman, after all, notwithstanding the craze of most women of today to play the role of man, and assume authority and relegate the plan of the Infidel Mind to oblivion.

When a man gets to where he thinks he can run any organized unit of society, whether it be the community in which he lives, a secret fraternal order or church of which he is a member simply because he has money, it is time for the masses to call him to halt. And that is what they usually do. The time was when a "guy," simply because he had wealth, could brow beat and mistreat those less fortunate as to worldly possessions. But that day is passed. And the fellow with five hundred thousand dollars is no more than the "gutter-snipe," provided the "gutter-snipe" is a man with honor and principle. Thank God for the fact that the working masses have come into their own.

"The Ku Klux Klan is un-Democratic, Un-Christian and un-American," declares the Democratic platform. And now the declaration is about to rise up, like Banquo's ghost, and smite its writers in the face. That cropped out in the race for the speakership of the House. We hold no brief for the Klan, but it must make interesting reading for Klan members who have kept informed on things political. It was un-Christian and diabolical as hell to write a thing like that into a political creed, unless the framers and their backers, believed that every klansman was a menace to good government, more infamous than a Russian Red. And, now, Ferguson wants to soft pedal when it comes to men who were klansmen that supported him—but that's the famous Ferguson way.

So many subscriptions have been paid us this week, and we have been so busy at different things, if we fail to mention each one personally with a "thank you," let no one feel that we are not appreciative. And this is an expression of appreciation to each one. We don't believe any county newspaper ever had a more loyal subscription family than we enjoy. We ask one and all to co operate with us by giving us the news. We want every legitimate item of news and must depend on somebody to tell us the happenings. Reader, decide right now that you will be one this good year to help "the old home town" paper. In the mean time, if any has not yet paid his subscription, do so at once. We plan improvements in our plant this year, but can't do it until we collect what is due us.

M. E. Church Notes.

Sunday was a very good day. Near a hundred present at Sunday school. Several new pupils came in and all of the officers and teachers who were not sick or attending upon the sick were present.

The services at Marie on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon were well attended and the interest manifested was fine. Rev. Joe Casey of Norton preached at Marie Sunday at eleven to an appreciative con-

Canst Thou Beat It?

Consider the editor! A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in the town. The physician getteth 20 plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at 9 pounds. Yea, he lieth even as centurion. And the proud father giveth him a Cremona.

Behold, the young one groweth up and graduateth. And the editor putteth into his paper a swell notice. Yea, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdom of the woman and of her exceeding comeliness. Like unto the roses of Sharon is she and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men and the editor getteth a note of thanks from the sweet girl graduate.

And the daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column solid. And the fair one remembereth him from afar with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jitney.

Behold, she returneth, and the young of the town fall down and worship. She picketh one and lo, she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our promising young men and getteth away with it. And they send unto the editor a bid to the wedding, and behold the bids are fashioned in a far city. Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth 10 bones. The groom standeth the editor off for a twelve month's subscription.

All flesh is grass and in time the wife is gathered unto the soil. The minister getteth his bid. The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubic of poetry and a card of thanks and he forgetteth to read proof on the head and the darned thing cometh out "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place."

And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps and they pulleth out their ads and cancelleth their subs, and they swing the hammer even unto the third and fourth generation.—

CONVERSATION OVERHEARD BETWEEN JONES AND SMITH REGARDING NEW CARS THEY HAD PURCHASED

JONES: "What did you give for that car, Smith?"
SMITH: "Thousand and Fifty, what did you pay for yours?"
JONES: "Oh, I bought a Ford, only cost me Four Fifty."
SMITH: "What do you figure you save buying that priced car?"
JONES: "Just Six Hundred to begin with."
SMITH: "What about the up-keep, the cost in the end?"
JONES: "It is generally conceded that the Ford Car has the greatest second hand car value but for the sake of argument, let's suppose that your car and mine will depreciate the same each year, which according to average depreciation figures amounts to 35 per cent the first year, 15 per cent the second year and 10 per cent each year following."
SMITH: "What's that got to do with it?"
JONES: "Just a little later to tell you, Smith. You've already bought. But here goes: You paid $1050 for your car. I paid $450 for mine, a difference of $600. That $600 invested in a more profitable proposition than you have already chosen would have brought you 6 to 8 per cent interest or $36 to $48 for twelve months."
SMITH: "Sounds pretty good."
JONES: "Your car will depreciate 35 per cent of the original cost the first year, or $367.50. Granting for sake of argument, that mine will depreciate in the same ratio, here is another difference of $210 in my favor."
SMITH: "That's right."
JONES: "That's a total of approximately $250. Now you'll drive your car at least as much as I do mine, and I figure I'll drive mine 5,000 miles the first year."
SMITH: "Yes."
JONES: "Well then, divide that $250 by 5,000 miles and you will see that it's going to cost you 5 1/4 cents more per mile to drive your $1050 car than it does to operate my $450 Ford, and I'll go any place you will. Yes, and I will have much more comfort driving my Ford car through the city traffic than you will driving your big car, not to mention the ease that I will have parking my car compared to parking yours."
SMITH: "I never thought of all those things, Jones."
JONES: "I did. And furthermore it's useless to mention the additional necessary expenses to operate the cars. Your insurance will be about the same as mine. We will say you will not spend any more for gas and oil than I will and give you an even break on the tires, though it will cost you considerably more to replace those 32x4 cord tires than it will for me to replace my 30x3 1/2 fabrica. And remember, Smith, the repairs are the most important expense of up-keep. You'll be paying $50 for a radiator when I'm only paying $17.50; or $9.50 for a front fender while I will only pay $4."
SMITH: "Say, Jones, where were you yesterday, ten minutes before I bought this car?"
JONES: "Round at the HOME MOTOR COMPANY'S buying this Ford."

WHEN "THE GHOST BETWEEN"

Was presented at the 39th Street Theatre, Richard Carlyle, noted New York actor-producer, was among those who saw the opening performance. He at once started to make arrangements for road production, knowing that it was the type of play that audiences would love.

His own company is to present it here on the evening of

Saturday, Jan. 31st
at the
School Auditorium

"THE GHOST BETWEEN" is an ingenious combination of big fancy drama, side-splitting comedy and genuine pathos. One moment a tear trembles on the eyelash only to be chased away with the heartiest of laughter. And behind the story is one of the most unique ideas that has been written for the stage in years. —In the character of the young doctor, who becomes famous and wealthy, there is an opportunity for some very fine dramatic moments. The girl who inspired him has an equally big opportunity. And, at the same time, all of the other members of the company have individual opportunities to please with the work they do. —"The Ghost Between" is not an ordinary play. It appeals to all ages and both sexes. It is a clean, swift-moving, down-to-earth story; a love story that will get under your skin, even though you think you have passed the time in life when you think you can be reached by romance.

Mourns Death of Friend.

To The Enterprise:

Clyde, Tex., Jan 25.—In your last issue I notice the death of my old friend and brother, C. W. McCutchen. When I think back on the past thirty years of my life and think how he has walked hand in hand with me, I can say for a truth, one that I loved has gone.

We all have our special friends, and he was one that came close to me. He loved his friends and was always ready to help a brother that was in need. He was not one that made much stir about the church, but he believed in the great fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, and the practice of the Samaritan was his motto.

I was on the board of school trustees three years with him and I can say for a truth that he was a friend to the young as well as to the old, and a builder of the school. And in the passing away of C. W. McCutchen Coke county has lost an old land mark that is worthy of more than I can tell.

Stolen Money Orders.

Postmaster M. M. Boynton suggests to The Enterprise to state that people had better be careful about cashing money orders until they come to the postoffice and ascertain whether or not such orders are bonafide, as many money orders have been stolen recently from different post offices over the country. It is evident that the thieves purpose to go into other parts of the country from that in which the orders were stolen and attempt to cash them. This is a bit of helpful information the postmaster is giving and it will be to the interest of all to give heed.
