BRONTE, COKE COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY FEBRUARY 6, 1925

51st YEAR

BREAKS DIRT FOR NEW BUNGALOW

Frank Keeney broke dirt Monday for his new residence on Church street, between the A. J. Nelson residence and the Egan residence. This is a beautiful location for a home and Mr. Keeney is having erected a beautiful modern bungalow. The structure consists of five rooms and bath. W. C. Walton has the contract and a force of men will be kept right on the job and the house will be rushed to completion. Mr. and Mrs. Keeney are looking forward, expecting to enjoy many years in their pretty new home. Let others follow Mr. Keeney's example.

Great Sermon on Dance.

Quite a number of Bronte people attended worship at the Methodist church at Robert Lee Sunday night, and heard the pastor, Rev. W. E. Hawkins, Jr., deliver a sermon on the dance. The report is that it was a masterful delivery, arraigning the modern dance in its awful immoral effects upon the individual and society generally, and is one of the greatest contributions to the growing immorality of young women and the undoing of both young men and young women. From reports, the sermon should be written out and put in pamphlet form.

Made President Fair Association.

Ed Blanton has been made president of the San Angelo Fair Association—a wise selection by the board of directors. And if the town follows his leadership, "Bill" will put on a show that will even startle the natives. Here's hoping that this year's Fair may be the best everwise that has ever been held. And Coke county should begin right now to have part in the display—if nothing else there should be put on exhibit a collection of Coke county jack rabbits. Anything to attract attention—that's the virtue in advertising, and an exhibit at a Fair is only an advertisement of the section or community putting it on. The big show this year is October 26th to the 31st.

Installs Service Station.

As evidence that the borders of the business section of Bronte are enlarging themselves, The Enterprise announces this week a filling station being installed by W. L. Butler on the Federal Highway to Robert Lee, near his home. Mr. Butler has a suitable block of land on the highway near his home and is putting in a filling station. He may also establish a tourist's park and arrangements for the passersby to spend their nights in Bronte so comfortable that they will be loath to go elsewhere.

PREACHERS WILL EXCHANGE PULPITS

Rev. A. D. Jamison, pastor of the Methodist church at Blackwell and Rev. W. E. Anderson, pastor of the Bronte Methodist church, will exchange pulpits next Sunday. The arrangement is for Rev. Jamison to worship with Pastor Anderson and congregation Sunday morning and bring the message and at the evening hour Rev. Anderson will be with Pastor Jamison and congregation and will bring the message.

This is a fine arrangement, for one thing that is lacking in the churches' program is more social intercourse between the members and the various congregations. The Enterprise begs to assure the people of Bronte that they have an opportunity to hear a real evangelical sermon, couched in as choice diction as one rarely has opportunity to hear, Sunday morning when Rev. Jamison preaches. And to the Blackwell people we want to say that they not only have an opportunity Sunday evening to hear a real heart message, but also to listen to a preacher who is a preacher purely because he wants to help suffering men to a better understanding of the best way to live.

Lodges Insert Cards.

The local W. O. W. and I. O. O. F. Lodges insert the announcement cards of the meeting hours and officers of their lodges in this issue of The Enterprise. This is as it should be. Almost every newspaper carries such cards for the lodges of its community. It is a credit to lodges to carry such announcement. It shows that the officers and working members of such lodges are progressive and that they love their lodges and their principles. Secret fraternalism is a fine thing when lived up to by its members. Such announcement cards also show that the officers and members always want any visiting brethren when in the community to visit them. The stranger coming to town, when he picks up the local newspaper and sees the announcement of the lodge or lodges of which he is a member, feels at once that a royal welcome awaits him if he wishes to attend. And isn't that a fine feeling—the feeling that you are welcome?

Such cards are also a credit to the community. Usually the very best men in a community are members of the lodges. Hence when such cards of the lodges appear in the home newspaper, it shows that the community stands for the very best. We thank the brethren of the lodges in question and invite other lodges to do likewise.

1,000 Pounds of "Necessities"

The things people consume are classed—necessities and luxuries. Necessities are the things that the people must have while luxuries are the things they use simply because of their liking for such.

F. C. Price & Co. are always on the alert in order to take care of the needs of their customers. The other day they received a thousand pounds of one brand of snuff. It is a known fact that many people classify snuff and tobacco with life's necessities. One would think that in this day of "woman supremacy," "bob hair," and cigarette smoking women that "snuff" would lose its prestige. But, from the way our merchants are receiving it in one thousand pound shipment, "ma" and "gramma" must still delight in "sipping the mop." And, "pa," he will take it and pour it in his lip—some of them use it for "bad breath," some to make them sleep, and some for a "bad stomach," but for one simply because he likes it. More money is spent by church members in Bronte for snuff and tobacco than is contributed to all the preachers in town for them and their families. O, how we love the Lord!

As for removing the impeachment penalties of J. E. Ferguson, we are where we have always stood—if he is not guilty, then every member of the senate that voted to impeach him ought to be in the penitentiary for the remainder of their lives. This is true of one or more men, when they happen to be in a position of so, ruining a man, if they possibly can, whether he guilty of any wrong or not, is as infamous as hell. And the man who would violate his oath of office to ruin Jim Ferguson, simply because he did not like Ferguson, regardless as to whether Ferguson had done any wrong or not, ought to be confined to penal servitude the balance of his days here, then, he ought to go to hell for eternity. They have no new evidence proving Ferguson's innocence. Hence the man that voted to impeach him then has just as much evidence still that he was guilty. One of two things: Let the shame rest on Ferguson, else lift it and then send the last one of his traducers to the penitentiary who voted to ruin an innocent man.

Cut off Small Toe.

Fay Smith happened to an accident Tuesday that caused him the loss of a small toe. He was cutting wood when his axe caught on a limb and glanced, cutting off the small toe and sinking deep into his foot. So far he has suffered but little and is doing fine.

J. H. Weathersbee of Ballinger advances his subscription figures and advises us to keep The Enterprise coming to him. Mr. and Mrs. Weathersbee have returned to their home at Ballinger from a several months' visit with relatives in Dallas.

BUYS PART OF CUMBIE FARM

Mrs. Maggie Scott has bought part of the R. M. Cumbie farm. She gets 120 acres off of the North side of the tract. The consideration is $500 per acre. This is a fine piece of property and Mrs. Scott shows her judgment in fine as to really value in buying this piece of property. The tract she purchased was put in cultivation, most of it last year, and is fine soil. She gets the small house that was also erected last year, but has to move it over on her tract.

EDITOR AND FAMILY IN OWN APARTMENTS

The Enterprise editor, since the beginning of the new year, has been as busy as the proverbial cranberry merchant. Due to high rents and the high cost of living, as a matter of economy he was compelled to provide residence quarters for himself and family. Due also to the almost prohibitive cost of building, we were not ready to build a residence yet, such as we contemplated building on lots we have for that purpose. Having an abundance of room in the stone business-house we bought last year as an office for The Enterprise, and finding out from carpenters that residence apartments could be provided with a minimum of cost, that for convenience and comfort could not be excelled even by "a brown stone front" mansion, we did what economy and our present—had apartments. And now the editor, and wife and baby "sit beneath their own vine and fig tree," without any fear of being told to move. And for convenience and comfort the apartments afford all that could be desired. Therefore we invite all our friends to call on us when they will, in "our own home," and as for our hospitality, we will do our best to make it purely Christian, which is expressed in this Scriptural phraseology, "Such as we have we give unto thee."

Ed Hickman and family moved to the farm Wednesday, where they will listen to the mocking birds sing where they will not be disturbed with the rush and bustle of town life—we almost envy them.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Smith were Hamlin visitors Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. John Sayner of Tennyson was in town Thursday and gave The Enterprise a pleasant call. The editor had wanted to meet Mr. Sayner for some time and it was a genuine pleasure to have him call.

Charley Copeland of Blackwell was a caller at The Enterprise office Tuesday. The editor regrets his absence from town that day and therefore did not get to meet Mr. Copeland.

JUBILEE IMPLEMENT SALE IS ON

This is an age of surprises, in the business world the same as in every other sphere of life. It has been said that there is nothing new under the sun. But, it seems that the B. F. Avery & Sons, through their Fort Chadbourne dealer, O. D. Spoons, has "sprung a new one"—and that is a "Jubilee Sale of Farm Implements." This large and universally known implement manufacturing establishment has been in existence for one hundred years. And to celebrate the event the Company is observing a two weeks sale through Mr. Spoons in which they are making one of the most remarkable offers ever made. The B. F. Avery & Sons' implements need no introduction—everybody knows they never been surpassed. The big sale is not an ordinary sale, but they are putting on simply as a way of celebrating their one hundredth anniversary as a manufacturing establishment. Therefore, somewhat as conveniences of the event they are giving away genuine guaranteed Rogers' silverware. Through Mr. Spoons they have a large ad in this issue of The Enterprise. It explains the whole matter—turn and read it. Mr. Spoons extends not only to all the farmers an invitation to visit his store during this Jubilee celebration, but all others as well are invited to come.

Grandmother Mackey Dies.

Grandmother Mackey, 82 years passed from this world to the realms beyond, at her home near Maverik, Sunday afternoon, and the body was buried in the Norton cemetery Monday afternoon. Religious services were conducted by Rev. Robert Milam, assisted by Revs. H. L. Potest of Norton and Rev. W. E. Anderson of Bronte.

"Grandmother Mackey," as she was affectionately called by all who knew her was a native of Tennessee as we are informed, but came from Georgia to Texas a long time ago, and made her home here until death called her hence.

Grandmother Mackey is survived by her aged husband, eight children, all of whom were present to pay the last tribute of love to the memory of mother, and more than thirty grand children. A host of friends sorrow with the bereaved ones, yet grandmother's death has in it fadeless glories and sweetest memories, for she was a devoted member of the Methodist church for long years, and she leaves a benediction not only to her loved ones but to all the world. May her fragile, tired body rest in peace.

It seems that gas was "gassed" again the other day—the way it "blew up"

Every thing seems to be as harmonious as an old fashioned religious love feast down at Austin.

One thing about the protracted dry spell, there will be a happy ending of it some day, for it will break up with a wet spell.

If it would rain so that oats can be planted by the middle of the month some spring oats would be a fine venture for the farmer.

The proposed tax is put on its present price all not be long until be a world full of for sale, for gas will be active.

We are "agin" cigarette smoking. But, we hate like thunder to have to look our children in the face and tell them that the money with which they were educated in the public schools was collected from those who smoked. It's the same story that we used to hear about revenue from saloons for maintaining the State. "Woe unto that city that is builded with blood."

Sir Ground Hog has no sense of humor, else he would play a joke on the populace once in his life time at least. It was so very of him to condemn him and for people to forty days more of shivering weather, it would be a fine joke for him to stay out and let spring come early, especially with the shortage of coal at its present prices.

Comments on Billiard Hall Law

The writer has received a copy of the billiard hall law that will be introduced in the present legislature, from the state secretary of the National Billiard association of America.

In a private letter to us as an editor he states that our game had been furnished him as one who was in sympathy with the proposed law and hence he would appreciate it, if we would make some comments on the measure. We are delighted to comply with the brother's request and therefore we comment as follows: Comment No. 1. Evidently, there is a mistake, else there is one or more of the most notorious liars around this town that ever attempted to tell a lie. If we ever breathed in connection with such places and such a law, except to condemn them, from our boyhood, we know nothing about it.

Comment No. 2. We are "agin" the proposed measure, for in No. twelve, it forbids dominoes. If such a law should be passed with that provision what in the heck would some "amen-corner-praying" church members do, with reference to their domino parties, and little "booby" (whatever that may mean) prizes? To have a law in Texas that wouldn't allow in billiard halls what "the brethren and sisters" have in their homes? No sir-ee, not us.

Comment No. 3. Section thirteen (think of it—section thirteen) says that there shall be no "stalls" in connection with a billiard hall. We think "stalls" most necessary adjunct to such a place, for everybody knows that when such a place has an existence in a town, usually it is the "stomping ground" of every first class jackass in the community. We think the "stall" provision should go in, so there can be ample provision for properly taking care of the jackass.

Comment No. 4. The writer in his personal letter asserts that the billiard hall is something "the great majority need." He underscores the word need to impress us that there is dire calamity staring "the great majority" in the face if the bill should fail of passage. There is some ground for his position, for until recent time, the barber shop was the lounging place of the nasty-mouthed, filly-tongued, smutty story-teller, provided the proprietor would allow it, to use his vulgar language and tell his smutty stories. But, the "bob hair", bunch now have crowded the chap in question off the board—hence he must have somewhere to gather with his pals. We really sympathize with the poor fellow.

Comment No. 5. The last clause of the bill is an emergency clause, which openly asserts that there is "an emergency and an imperative public necessity" with reference to billiard halls and hence it asks that the customary rule of reading for three successive days in the legislature before passage be suspended. The gods of Greece come to our rescue! Give us billiard halls or give us death! The old ship of state will be on the rocks in thirty minutes in spite of "Ma," if we don't get billiard halls and get them instant!

Comment No. 6. Our last comment is as serious as we are capable of making it—if the people who do not want the billiard hall on them again (which has always been and will always be one of the biggest nuisances ever fostered on a people) they had

Prejudices That Are Hard to Account For

Among Scottish fishermen there is a superstition that the word "rabbit" must be avoided at all costs in conversation while at sea. This word, like "salmon" and "minister," is regarded as being unlucky, though no one knows how this queer belief arose.

In certain London theaters the use of the word "fire" is forbidden, "tide" often being adopted as a substitute. "Water" is a word that brewery workers regard with disfavor, while in some hospitals it is breaking an unwritten law to mention the word "disease."

Perhaps the queerest rule of this kind was that imposed on his workers by the late Herr Krupp, the German armament magnate. A maker of death-dealing weapons himself, he had a horror of the word "death," and it was understood by his staff that it should never be mentioned in his presence. It was this curious foible that led, it has since been revealed, to the almost life-long estrangement between himself and his wife.

Blow at Columbus

Now comes the claim that America was discovered by the Basques. Francois Michel in his book on the Basques affirms that Basque sailors were familiar with the coast of Newfoundland and North America centuries before the birth of Columbus, and claims that it was from them that the great navigator gained his belief in the existence of a western continent. It has even been surmised that the connection between the Basque country and America began before the dawn of history, for there is a strange resemblance between the Basques and Indians, and some have wondered whether, ages before Europeans discovered America, the Basques came from America and discovered Europe!

Fish Flour Makes Giants

Dr. Victor G. Heiser, director in the Far East of the international health board of the Rockefeller foundation, has been convinced of the claims made by the Japanese institute of nutrition that a certain flour made from fish powder actually does increase stature. The flour is made from cooked and dried fish. Strangely enough it is an American chemical-manufacturer and it is thought it short stature that

The Angelo Drug Co.
Is Now Under the Management of Sam H. Jones

THE ANGELO Drug Company is back under the management of Sam H. Jones, who for 15 years was one of the leading druggists of West Texas. Mr. Jones started The Angelo three years ago, sold it, went into the automobile business and is now back behind the counter greeting his friends in the same old way.

The Angelo Drug Company knows the drug needs of the people of West Texas—knows how to supply them and is able to supply them. The store has been remodeled, the front enlarged, show windows rebuilt, new fixtures installed and new stock assembled. It is now ready to do business—to serve you.

The Angelo Drug Co. has always been a REXALL store. Mr. Jones has been a REXALL druggist for 10 years. He has held some of the most successful Rexall sales that the Rexall company has ever seen in Texas. Next May he will have another sale—and you can expect it to be one of the old time bargain sales.

We especially invite ranch people of this section to take advantage of our mail order department. We will be able to serve them in the same old way as in years gone by. We are prepared to take care of every branch of the ranch drug business from fly and worm medicine to Black Leg aggressins.

We appreciate the business of the past—and look forward to the future with the hope that the friendships and pleasant business relations which we enjoyed in other years will be accorded us in this re-entry into the drug business in this city. When in San Angelo come to see us.

Locomotive Repair Bills

The repair bills of the railroads of the country for disabled locomotives alone is a huge item, according to the American Railroad association, which reported that in the last half of September 33,955 locomotives were repaired and turned out of the railroad shops of the country. At that, better handling of the big iron horses is responsible for a gradual cutting down of this item of expense.

Louisiana's Strawberries

The cultivation of strawberries is one of Louisiana's thriving industries. Beginning on a two-acre farm in 1876, it now embraces 16,000 acres and brings a return of $3,500,000 and employs about 4,000 families.

Fur Trade Picks Up

Improvement in the economic positions of European countries is leading to a larger foreign trade in furs. Shipments of foreign furs to the American sales are increasing and heavier buying for foreign account at the winter sales in this country is predicted. Americans and Canadians bought plentifully of native North American furs at the London sales, despite the added cost of shipping the pelts to the sales and then back to this country. Beaver and lynx, particularly, were heavily bought by the Americans at the London sales.

His Handicap

"A pretty bad fire you had here in Petunia last night," said a recently arrived guest.

"You just betcha!" replied the landlord of the tavern. "You see, the Sock and Bustin' club put on the play, 'The Farmer's Iron Will,' in the old op'ry house, and the chief of the fire department was the farmer who had the will. He was so earnest about it and sweat so much while he was doing so that it is thought he rusted his iron will, so that when the fire alarm sounded he couldn't move faster than a slow walk, and the fire was so far ahead by the time the firemen arrived that there wasn't any such thing as stopping it till it burned up all three of them buildings."—Kansas City Star.

Finns Neglect Schools

Students in "folk high schools" of Finland, particularly young men, have not increased in attendance in proportion to the number of schools in the last few years, according to a report from Barton Hall, American charge d'affaires, Helsingfors. In two institutions of the type no man students were registered during the last year. A general tightening of economic conditions in Finland, forcing sons of farmers to stay at home and work instead of studying, is the reason given for the present situation.

SAM JONES IN DRUG BUSINESS

Sam Jones of San Angelo, known probably to as many people in the San Angelo trade territory as any business man in that city, is again in the drug business.

Mr. Jones is one of those men who makes a success of every thing to which he turns his attention. The Enterprise editor has known Mr. Jones for about two decades. He was formerly in the drug business, but in recent years he turned his attention to the automobile business, of which he made a success, selling his interest in that line recently. Some years ago he established the Angelo Drug Co. store, but sold it to go into the auto business.

Mr. Jones a few weeks ago bought the Angelo Drug Store. He set to work at once to remodel and beautify the interior of the building which he did at great expense, then bought a complete stock of fresh drugs and now he has a drug store that for its service, cleanliness and beauty is surpassed nowhere. Mr. Jones believes in printer's ink—hence he has an announcement in this issue of The Enterprise which it will pay every one to read. The drug store is in the block of the San Angelo

National Bank. For business integrity and square dealing The Enterprise commends Mr. Jones to its readers.

The local Odd Fellows Lodge is enjoying this week to the fullest. The Order has a school of instruction in progress, which is being conducted by J. J. Noonan of Dublin, Texas.

"Uncle George" Woullard advances his subscription figures for which we thank him. He said, "I told the folks I was going down and pay my subscription—that I was sure you needed it now and would appreciate it, as you are having so much expense getting your new living quarters arranged and moving." That is friendly thoughtfulness of the right kind.

Paul Good is another who has made "good" with us—he paid all back subscription and advanced his figures, for which we thank him.

A Tex Rickard Story

One of the pet stories of Tex Rickard, fight promoter, is about a poker game that took place in a mining camp in Alaska.

Seven miners got together one night for a game and were snowed out by a storm that lasted nine days. Although they probably had not $5,000 in real money among them, by the time the ninth day came they were making wagers of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

On the ninth day the cards were dealt and one man announced that he would open the pot for $100,000.

Just then a ray of sun penetrated the cabin, indicating that the storm was over.

"I'll see your hundred thousand," said one of the other men, "and raise you 50 cents cash."

And that broke up the game.

Cleanliness First

Young Lord Castleross, the earl of Kinmare's son, said at a dinner in New York:

"We English are undoubtedly the cleanest people on earth. We can no more do without bathing than we can do without drinking. This was proved during the siege of Ruba-Ruba by the ferocious Nyam-Nyams.

"When the ferocious Nyam-Nyams besieged Ruba-Ruba, the English garrison was on water rations, and this notice was posted in large letters in all Ruba-Ruba bathrooms:

"Please do not use soap when you bathe, as the water is required for the tea."

Whale-Shark Pride of Natural History Museum

A great deal of interest is being felt in a highly uncommon specimen recently acquired by the Museum of Natural History. This is the immense shark, greatest of all living fishes, which goes by the various names of whale-shark, Indi-Pacific basking-shark and bone-shark. The last refers to their method of feeding, which resembles that of the whalebone whales. Like these, in spite of their huge mouths and capacious maws, they feed on comparatively minute organisms which they strain out of the water as they rush through it with open jaws, by a sieve-like apparatus in the mouth. This apparatus consists of an interlocking set of gill rakes. Most fishes possess gill rakes which consist of a double fringe of filaments attached to the arches of the gills. These fit into each other in the same manner as interlocked fingers. But in a few kinds of fishes, among the largest of which is the species in question, the gill rakes are so tremendously developed that they serve not merely to protect the gills from solid particles which might clog or injure them, but perform the function of a sort of trap for the food, as described above.—American Review of Reviews.

Mrs. Evans Best who submitted to an operation at Ballinger last week is doing splendidly we are glad to report and they expect to bring her home soon.

Robert Kalerim returned Thursday night from Big Spring where he attended the district meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. He reports a great meeting.

Mrs. John Baker was carried to San Angelo Tuesday morning, to a sanitarium. She was suffering with pneumonia. Mr. Baker is a member of the Orient paint crew that is painting the depot.

Mrs. Homer Wilkins and Mrs. Will Cumbie of Robert Lee returned this morning from a week's stay in Dallas where they bought spring and summer goods for the stores both here and Robert Lee. Mrs. Wilkins was ill all the time she was gone, but stayed with her task and bought a fine line of spring and summer merchandise.

Colossus of Rhodes Had Short Existence

"Rhodes—the city and island of the Colossus." So, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society, "ideas follow one another in most minds whenever Rhodes is mentioned. This 'clitic monument' of Rhodes stood only 56 years.

"Perhaps the most picturesque era in Rhodes' history was from 1309 to 1522, when it was the stronghold of the crusading knights of St. John and the bulwark of Christendom against the Moslems. The old Greek city had practically disappeared when the knights came and they built anew great moats and walls, bastions and towers and stanch stone dwellings. They evacuated the city to the Turks in 1522, but the deep marks their two centuries of occupancy left remain today. No trace of Rhodes' famous Colossus remains today. This bronze statue, more than 100 feet high, which ranked as one of the seven wonders of the world, was toppled over by an earthquake in 224 B. C. The pieces lay where they had fallen for nearly 900 years, when a more ignominious fate overtook them. They were sold to a junk dealer."

M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

Sunday was a very good day with us. A little over 100 present at Sunday school, and a good congregation for the eleven o'clock service.

The afternoon service at Ten nyson was well attended and the interest manifested there is fine.

The young people rendered a short, spicy, and very helpful program at the opening of the evening service, and they promise to do this more often from now on.

Rev. A. D. Jamison of Blackwell will preach for us at the eleven o'clock hour Sunday morning, and at Hayrick for us in the afternoon. We will be with him at Blackwell Sunday night. There will not be any service at our church Sunday night.

On Sunday night of February 15th, Miss Verna Smith of Simmons College will render a program at our church, beginning promptly at 7 o'clock. Miss Smith is an artist in young people's work, and we are anxious that all the young people of the community will see and hear this program. Miss Verna indicated that she may bring some other young people of Abilene with her, and if so, they too will have a part in the program. Keep the gate in mind and tell others. Join the Sunday school choir and worship with us. We say as did Jesus, "Who soever will may come."

Faithfully,

Delve Far Into Earth

in Search of Riches

The oldest mines in the world of which there is any certain record are the copper and turquoise mines of the Sinai peninsula. These were worked by the Egyptians as early as 8700 B. C., but have never been sunk to what would now be considered even moderate depths.

The silver lead mines of Mount Laurion, in Greece, are very old. Xenophon, writing in 855 B. C., said: "They were wrought in very ancient times." The Phoenicians probably began to work the tin mines of Spain and Cornwall as early as 1500 B. C.

The deepest mines of Europe are coal mines. Several shafts are now being sunk in France and Belgium which will go to a depth of 4,000 feet.

Most of the mines of South America might more accurately be called high rather than deep. In Chile one of the big copper mines opened in recent times is entered at the bottom and worked up. The copper mines at Corro de Pasco in Peru are about 1,000 feet deep, though they are at an elevation of 14,000 feet above sea level.

The St. John del Rey gold mine in Brazil is the deepest in the world. It is worked to a depth of 6,726 feet.

Holes have been bored much deeper into the earth than mine workings have penetrated. The deepest hole in the earth is one in West Virginia, which was bored 7,579 feet in search of natural gas.

an international establishment for the scientific study of food resources in the Pacific area, has been made possible by the gift to the institution of the Castle home, one of largest residences in Honolulu, together with four acres of adjacent land. It is expected that this will be the nucleus of a Pan-Pacific university, which has been planned for several years. It will be neither American, nor Hawaiian, nor Japanese, nor the property of any other single nationality, but will be governed by scientists from all the countries of the Pacific. The directorship of the institution has been offered to Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Stanford university, once president of Indiana university.

Not So Slow, After All

At Wembley may be seen what is regarded as the world's slowest moving creature, the Tuatara lizard. This strange creature often stays still for as long as two weeks without even moving its eyelids. It is to be added to the exhibits in the New Zealand pavilion at Wembley. It has the remains of a third eye on the top of its head, and is the slowest breathing animal in the world. If two of the species are menaced by a rat, the smaller jumps on the back of the larger. If, then, the rat approaches too near, the big Tuatara grabs it in its jaws and goes to sleep, leaving the rat no alternative to a gradual extinction.—London Mail.

Memento of Wagner

Richard Wagner's baton, a thick stick with one end broken off, used by the great composer when he conducted at the musical festival in Albert hall in 1877, was wielded again in the great auditorium by Miss Susan Spain-Dunk, who is one of the few women who have conducted orchestras in London's largest concert hall. Wagner's vehemence before his musicians was such that he broke many batons and one of them came into the possession of Miss Spain-Dunk, who decided to use it just for luck at her debut as a conductor in London.

Whether you spell it "break" or "brake," a bad one gets you into trouble.

Stand-
a young man, essed, a flower in his

in his eyes which went well with his long hair, reaching almost to his shoulders.

Mary saw him at once, and began to ask embarrassing questions. I told her to keep still and look out of the window.

For two blocks she sat, looking out of the window, then said in a shrill, high voice, that was audible to every one in the car. "I'm looking

Watch "Set in Its Way"

A watch that's dead set against daylight saving time is owned by Alexander Comeau of Portland, Maine, says the Boston Globe. Last spring Mr. Comeau set his timepiece an hour ahead. A few days later he was surprised to find that the hour hand on the watch had dropped back just one hour, to standard time.
Again he set it ahead one hour. The faithful timepiece ran along this way for another few days and then went back to standard time. He made no further effort to tinker with the watch.

Odd Omens and Signs of the Emerald Isle

Ireland stands well in the front rank among lands whose people's lives in ancient times were ordered upon the observance of omens and signs. The Celtic idea of getting rid of diseases was in many respects quite similar to that entertained by the orientals, from which people, no doubt, many of the beliefs were borrowed. Belief in disease transference was quite universal, all folklore showing its existence in some form or other.

They thought to cure whooping cough by holding a fish or frog's head in the whooping child's mouth.
Toothache was supposed to be transferred forever to wood if an iron nail, after being used to scarify the gum about the aching tooth, was driven up to the head into a block of wood. When scarlet fever appeared among the people some of the patient's hair must be passed down the throat of an ass when, according to a popular belief, the animal would immediately receive the ailment.—R. H. Tingley, in the Chicago Journal.

Wife Made Victim of Really Shrewd Scheme

A certain western congressman has a strong aversion to fat women, says the National Republican. His wife, at the time of their marriage, weighed 106. Since then she has fleshed up to 186. In vain has the mild-mannered husband suggested long walks, golf, tennis and less eating. Friend wife seemed quite satisfied with her spherical proportions.
Some months ago a system of secret diplomacy was adopted and the results are most satisfactory. The congressman drops pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars in all the rooms of their home—100 of them each day—and then watches the fat one gleefully stoop over and grab them one by one.

The wife brags about her wonderfully generous husband, while that happy man silently thanks the stars for the fading fat.

Class Directs Service.

The Sunday school class of Mrs. O. H. Willoughby, which is a class of young men and young ladies, led the service at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

The program consisted of vocal and instrumental renditions, readings and so forth. It was a most happy occasion. The young people under the leadership of their teacher rendered a program that was not only entertaining but inspirational as well.

Mrs. C. C. Holder also rendered a helpful part, as many of the young ladies who are members of the class are music pupils under Mrs. Holder.

MCCORMICK-DEERING

There is a Reason!

There is a reason why McCormick-Deering tractors are increasing in popularity by leaps and bounds. There is a reason why these sturdy, completely equipped tractors are rapidly replacing cheaper tractors in all sections of the country. There is a reason, also, why the farmers and orchardists of one county in California bought, during 1924, over a hundred McCormick-Deerings—more than all other makes combined in the same period.

The reason is that McCormick-Deering 10-20 and 15-30 Tractors are the long-lived kind, and are by far the most economical per year of service.

The crankshaft and crankshaft ball bearings in every McCormick-Deering are guaranteed against breakage for life. There are ball and roller bearings at 28 points, and all wearing parts, including cylinders, are replaceable. Entire frame is in one sturdy unit. All gears and important wearing parts are enclosed, running in oil. All parts are easily accessible, easily removed.

Complete equipment includes throttle governor, wide platform, adjustable drawbar, Alemite lubricating system, impulse magneto, fenders, etc. Weight is distributed perfectly for good traction and safe operation. Short turning radius for convenient handling.

All in all, the McCormick-Deering is the tractor for every farmer in this community.
Let us show you what it will do for you,
then we'll tell you how easily you can own one.

Enterprise Ads Get Results.

As an evidence that the people of this section read The Enterprise and that it pays to advertise in its columns, we had two instances recently.

Hervey Humlong two weeks ago advertised a lost dog. He said he did not suppose The Enterprise had been in the post office more than an hour until a lady in Bronte phoned him that the dog was at her home.

Some mornings ago, W. L. Fox associated with The Enterprise found a gold class pin, near the South Texas Lumber yard. He inserted a notice in the columns of The Enterprise. A few days later Miss Beulah Beavers called to see the pin. It proved to be her class pin of the San Angelo High School. She went away a happy young lady, and we were happy in the fact that we had aided her in finding the long lost pin which she so highly prized. She lost the pin last March.

Fewell Sims lost a mule and inserted an ad for it. He phoned us from his farm the other day to discontinue the ad—that the mule had been found and returned to him.

We are always pleased, almost as much as the advertiser when he gets results from his advertising in our columns.

PAINTING ORIENT DEPOT.

A crew of painters is at work giving the depot of the Orient railroad a new dress of paint, which is making it look beautiful. The Bronte depot is one of, if not the prettiest depots, on the whole Orient system in Texas. It has always been an object of pride to every one, both the local citizens and the visitors. And the new coat of paint is going to greatly enhance its appearance.

The building will be beautified both outside and within. The sitting room and the agent's office will be treated to a dress of finishing and stain which when finished will make it "spick and span." Agent O. W. Chapman is already beginning to feel his importance and when the work of beautifying is finished, the common masses will understand that the said agent will expect them to tip their hats and address him as "Colonel," when they approach him.

The road's management will have the thanks of all our people for this contribution towards making Bronte "the town beautiful." Let all our people join in the movement.

Stationery For Ranch Company.

Hervey Humlong has our thanks for giving us a nice order for stationery for Geo. R. Humlong & Sons, owners of Live Oak Ranch. This ranch company, composed of father and sons take pride in their ranch and their stock. They have a fine ranch and are breeders of fine stock. They are getting good returns now on their efforts at breeding a good strain of stock.

G. W. Keese helps us out by extending his subscription figures, for which we thank him.

Rev. A. D. Jamison, pastor of the Methodist church at Blackwell, was in Bronte Saturday. The editor regrets his absence from the office when Bro. Jamison called.

Seek to Make School

Interesting to Child

The funny column of a daily paper tells of a teacher who asked Willie to locate several cities and he answered, "I can't locate 'em, but I know how to tune in on every blamed one of 'em."

This story carries a first-rate idea for teachers. The schools are open and millions of children come from the free, playful, natural social child life to the different atmosphere and life of the school. Teachers try mistakenly to change most of the child's physical and mental habits in a day. The shift from hours of activity to hours of sitting, still will cause much illness among them if the teacher is not careful.

From learning what is interesting and what appeals to them they will be forced to change to set lessons about things that they do not use daily and that they probably feel never will be any help. Fortunately more and more schools are fitting themselves to make the child life in them more free, easy and natural. The rows of stiff desks are being replaced with study tables and chairs; the textbook is giving way to the library; the deadly silence to the hum of business, and restraint and repression to encouragement and expression. The schools are "tuning in" on life.—Exchange.

When Crocodile Has to Hustle for Living

Crocodiles, although happiest in water, are still capable of traveling long distances on land when necessity demands. When moving on land they do not crawl along with bellies on the ground, but move at a sort of waddling run, just like the large desert monitors or iguanas, with bodies right off the ground and legs nearly straight. The tail alone drags on the ground, and when the soil is soft leaves a track which is not unlike that made by a native plow. In the rainy season, when the large rivers are in high flood, the crocodile finds life rather hard. There is an abundance of water everywhere, and the game neither comes to the rivers to drink nor does it any longer lie up in the luxuriant cool grass on the islets or in the marshy areas in the low-lying river bed. In consequence the crocodiles begin to make their way up tributary streams and nullahs, which are dry at other seasons, but which during the monsoon lead them far inland to localities where they have a better chance of capturing game. The crocodile then takes up his abode in some favorable spot where he does not have to go hungry, and possibly later on discovers that the nullah he is living in is fast drying up.

Steam From Mid-earth Coming Motor Power?

What will happen when the earth runs short of coal and oil supplies? This problem was discussed by Prof. W. W. Watts in a paper on "Geology in the Service of Man." He suggested the possibility of a great new power which humanity may harness to its service—nothing less than the heat of the earth's ether regions.

A beginning has been made at Volterra, in Italy, where a new source of power has been found in the high-temperature steam from Fumaroles, which has previously been used only as a source of borax. Now the steam is being tapped by boring, and its chief heat is employed in running great power stations.

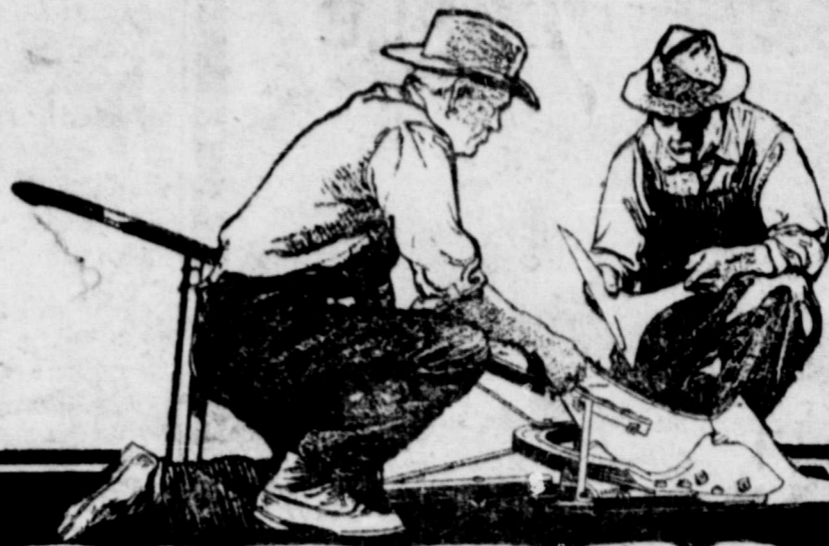

This may be but the beginning of the application of a new and valuable source of power in which the services of geology will be required.

We are haunted by the fear that a limit will be imposed by the temperature to deep mining, and that very heat may provide energy as valuable as the material which would otherwise be mined—just as we dread the gas from certain coal seams, when the gas might, if it could be exploded, give a return equivalent to that of the coal itself.
