TEXAS POLITICAL SITUATION

It becomes more and more important, as the Texas political situation warms up, that you, the voter, analyze what is going on. It is important for this reason - that you are going to be governed for the next few years by men you elect to office now. Do you know what they stand for, and what they have done in the past that may indicate their course of action in the

It is to your advantage to find out. Again we pass on this little test who says it, why does he say it, and what does he want me to do? No matter what any candidate says, or who he is - ask yourself those three questions when you hear or read about what he's doing or has done. Who is telling you, why is he telling you, and for what purpose, or what does he

We again go on record as condemning without reservation those candidates who indulge in mud-slinging and name-calling. Where is the proof of their assertion? How does their criticism of another candidate add anything to their own qualifications? Is it not possible that their entry into the race may be for one purpose only - to tear into an opponent in hopes of losing him some votes, even as they know they have no chance for their

Here's the story we were told recently by a man just back from Washington. While he was in a certain Senator's office, he heard a telephone conversation between individuals visiting that office and a candidate for office in Texas. The Texas candidate was told to smear another candidate during the race, and was promised that he would be "taken care of" for his troubles after the race was over.

The idea is this, you see. Let a man enter a race and smear a leading candidate. If he can take away enough votes by a smear campaign, another man more suitable to the "interests" may be able to win, and the smear candidate will then be cared for later.

Our comment is this as the various races continue - find out who says it, why does he say it, what does he want you to do?

WHERE ARE WE HEADED?

The pattern of national events over the last dozen years may well cause one to wonder how we got where we are now, if we can tell even that much. Remember when the youngsters used to care for their parents when the latter grew older and less able to care for themselves? Recall when people out of work would do anything to earn what was given them in exchange for the sweat of their brow? Have you forgotten that folks used to try to work out their problems in their own way, without depending on Federal money and red tape? If you do remember those things, what do you think about it now as you look about you?

Practically all candidates for office now promise bigger and better pensions for the old folks. That means that you and I are taxed to support someone else's parents, whether they need it or not under the present law. They may have property or funds; they may not need it, but they are getting it and we are paying for it out of our taxes. What has become of the belief that old folks used to be cared for by their loved ones, not the tax collector?

Have you tried to hire anybody lately? If so, did they tell you with in oath that they could make more by not working? Do you like the idea of having your tax money spent as a gift for those unwilling to work? Do you think it may encourage some folks to think the world owes them a living? When do you think it will stop?

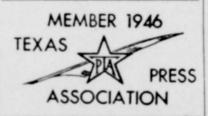

Remember when people, towns, counties, and states used to try to work out their own financial difficulties? Now when was the last time you eard some individual say "we ought to try to get money for that from the Government - it won't cost us anything." Then after you heard the fellow say that, did you hear him cuss the Government in the next breath for levying such high taxes? Ever think of the connection between the two?

If you have, why don't you ask yourself this question - "where are we

As for club reporters or news gatherers - don't worry about how your news may be written up or turned in -that's our job to fix things right. What we'd like are names of folks, what they did, when, where, why, and how. If you'll just turn in these facts, we'll arrange them as the case may be, and if necssary.

Club reporters may well wish to include the names of those present for their gatherings, as well as the names of the visitors. Such a record, when' compiled in the club scrapbook, will be a real source of interest later on. While the total number of those present is a help, some do prefer to list the names of those who attended, for they belive it adds to the interest of

Times Are Changing and It's Time for a Change

Fully realizing that the job of County Judge will demand energy, study, resourcefulness, and tireless devotion to duty - I decided to seek election to that office only after deliberation and careful consideration. I made my announcement strictly on my qualifications, without the endorsement of politicians or obligations to same.

I am 26 years of age, married, born and reared in Coke County. Upon completion of High School, I accepted a position as night office manager for a large concern in order that I might attend San Angelo Junior College. My major studies of business administration included the study of Business Law. I then accepted a position with the State of Texas in Austin in order that I might attend the University of Texas, but was interrupted along with millions of other young Americans to answer the call of Uncle Sam. I received an appointment as co-ordinator for the British West Indies where I spent about 13 months in this capacity prior to returning to the United States at my own expense and desire to enter the U.S. Navy. I enlisted in the Navy as an Apprentice Seaman, and was discharged 22 months later as a Yoeman Second Class, having spent the entire time aboard a minesweeper in the Pacific. My duties aboard this vessel included handling all office matters and recording of all Court Martials aboard ship.

When elected as your County Judge, I pledge an honest, fearless interpretation of the law. To make a lot of empty political promises would be futile and insincere I believe that the need of our present day government is the application of fearless, honest common sense to each and every problem as it arises. We are faced with new problems and a period of rapid change. Almost daily there are new obstacles to overcome that must be ironed out and adjustments that must be made, which will demand sound judgment, coupled with a willingness to meet the issues squarely as they arise. My first and foremost consideration would be the expression of the desires of the citizens of Coke County, and I assure you, that when elected as your County Judge, there will never be any problem too large or too small to receive my sincerest and fullest consideration. Times are changing and it's time for a change.

The post office will do more business the moving picture theatre, and every business concern should enjoy increased patronage. People who are in Bronte during this time may wish to stay after the dam is completed, and their needs will have to be cared for.

The present school system will, doubtless, be overcrowded, and new buildings will have to be erected, or other facilities provided.

New churches will doubtless be built, and other denominations may be expected to enter Bronte with their own programs and plans.

A hospital will be a "must", and can be expected to be built, as well as we may expect new business and professional men, all of whom will come to work or be of service to others in their individual capacities.

Those of us now in Bronte may well ome may wish to establish gambling halls or vice dens, and our public officials will be faced with the responsibility of meeting these challenges as they arise.

More law enforcement officers will be a necessity, an airport is quite probable, due to the increased need of transportation, and more trains may appear over the Santa Fe lines.

In short, Bronte may well look forward to a substantial growth in not only physical size but in population as well, and now is not too oon to begin planning for the prob-

NATHAN'S OPENS NEW STORE IN ODESSA

Nathan's of San Angelo, one of the finest jewelry stores in West Texas, is happy to announce the opening of their new store in Odessa this weekend. Abe Gerson, formerly with the San Angelo enterprise, is in charge of the new business in Odessa, and brings to the new organization a vast amount of experience and training.

Tonight's open house is scheduled to show people just what the store offers in new and quality merchandise and tomorrow they'll be open for business as usual, with a host of good wishes from their friends and fellow ousinessmen.

Not only is this new store open to the public, but Nathan's in Angelo is also undergoing extensive improvements, including an air-conditioned system of cooling that would do justice to the polar regions.

West Texans planning to be in Odessa for the week-end, as well as the folks in Odessa are cordially invited to attend the opening of this new store, where they can relax in cool comfort and find numerous items that they have been looking forward to having.
