CONTRACTS FOR BEET SUGAR FACTORY MUST CLOSE JANUARY 20TH

The Best Proposition Ever Offered to Portales Valley

Nothing Gained by Not Signing These Contracts

There are a great many public spirited farmers who have come forward and signed contracts for the growing of sugar beets without any hesitation, believing that the erection of a sugar factory in this valley would be of the greatest benefit and believing also that the offer held by the American Sugar Manufacturing & Refining Co., to get their land under irrigation without any cash outlay, is the greatest opportunity ever offered the farmers of the Portales Valley. Therefore, they hastened to sign these contracts that virtually means to them, not only prosperity for themselves but the whole country at large. There are numbers of others however, who are hesitating in this matter, thereby causing the required acreage to be delayed which means that the work of this great enterprise must be postponed longer. The time is almost up for the closing of the necessary contracts to get in the orders for the machinery so that the farmers will have their land under irrigation for this year's crop. Every man owning land in this valley who fails to sign the contracts for the growing of sugar beets in the next ten days has virtually robbed himself and his fellow man of the greatest opportunity that has yet been offered him or probably ever will be, of becoming independent and getting out of debt and from the necessity of borrowing money at from twelve to thirty-six per interest.

The man who is hesitating in this matter, patiently waiting and hoping that his land will be benefited by his neighbor signing will doubtless find himself in the same embarrassing position five years hence as though the factory had never been mentioned. Dry land practically will not be worth more five years from today than it is at the present time, from the fact that irrigation has opened the eyes of the practical farmer and dry land must be placed under irrigation before it becomes profitable. The farmer now has the opportunity to improve his land and put it under irrigation by the installation of a complete pumping plant of his own without the cost of a dollar of interest and without any fear whatever of losing his land.

Out of each one hundred and sixty acres of land, forty acres is to be planted in sugar beets, leaving one hundred and twenty acres of each quarter to be planted by the farmer to any crop he pleases for which he is furnished water for irrigation. Forty acres is never touched by the sugar company, but is left free from rotation of crops to be used by the owner of the land for his house permanent buildings, orchard, garden and meadow. The cost of the pumping plant is refunded to the company out of the crop of sugar beets, as well as all cash advances made by the company, either for seed, implements, teams or for anything else and these amounts do not bear interest but are charged on open account. Who in this community has ever offered to lend to anyone a cent of money without interest for any improvement? Now that you have the opportunity offered you to be started in the farming business, fully equipped with irrigation, seed, tools and in fact everything necessary to make a success and reap a profit that will enable you to live in comfort and out of the embarrassment of being in debt, if such be the case, and high interest on money, why hesitate to come forward and accept the help tendered you by this company? The time to sign the contracts and secure the sugar factory expires on January the 20th. The time has come when this proposition has come to a close.

Patience these representatives have labored for the promotion of this project and that now it is so near complete it would not be a wise idea to remain in idleness and let it pass. If you believe in industries that will promote the welfare of this country, now is the time to come forward and show by your actions that you will endeavor to push this proposition, it may never come again for it has been said, "Opportunity knocks at your door but once."

Art Exhibition.

Be sure and see the splendid collections of pictures on exhibit at the commercial club rooms January 16 to the 21. Admission ten cents. Season tickets, twenty-five cents. There will be two lectures connected with this exhibit, one by Mrs. W. O. Oldham and the other by Mrs. E. P. Alldredge. These lectures alone would be worth more than the price of a season ticket.

Woman's Missionary Society

The woman's Missionary society held its first meeting of the new year at the home of Mrs. Ferguson Thursday and we anticipate a good year's work under the leadership of our president, Mrs. W. S. Merrill. Mrs. W. O. Oldham will have charge of the children's work during the coming year and hold their meetings on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. D. Hardy will have charge of the young people. Mrs. J. R. Goodloe is leader of the mission study work among the women and has already organized a class for that purpose. Mrs. C. V. Harris is in charge of the local and social departments and is developing some excellent plans along this line. Owing to a general call to set aside Thursday the 11th as for consecration and prayer, we will have a prayer service at the church beginning at two o'clock. All christians are invited to attend this service. The next regular meeting of the society will be held at the home "Grandma" Flocum on Thursday the 11th inst., at two two o'clock.

At the M. E. church Sunday night the officers of the Woman's Missionary society were installed with appropriate ceremonies. After the installation Rev. Goodloe explained the nature and scope of the work being done by the woman of southern methodism and the whole service was a profitable and instructive one.

PORTALES NATIONAL GUARDS NOW UNDER CONSTANT TRAINING

Necessary Supplies for the Company Have Arrived

Will be One of the Strongest Companies in the State

The militia company recently organized in our town by Captain T. J. Molinari, and is now in training under that enthusiastic officer and his two highly efficient lieutenants, J. B. Priddy and A. B. Seay, is now convincing the world that a company of National Guards is a reality in our midst. The Hardy building, which has been rented by Captain Molinari to be occupied by the company as its headquarters, is being replaced and added to, and will soon be a model armory. Upon completion of the building, the company will abandon the quarters used for drilling at present, being too small for the accommodation of the number enlisted.

The equipments for the company, consisting of uniforms, rifles, and all other paraphernalia needed by such an organization has been received. However, such is now being delayed removal from the depot for the reason of the army being under way of repair.

The company is composed of the most stable citizens of Portales and community. It will, after short training, be a credit to the town and will rank with the best companies of the state. All of the enlisted men are very enthusiastic and are very determined to make good.

Why is a Leap Year?

While much printer's ink is being spilled over the question: Shall women propose? poor man is asking what's the use of arguing about it this year. Its leap year, anyhow, and if the female of the species feels inclined to pop the question any time during the year, it will be all perfectly ladylike and proper.

Maybe it was the approach of another leap year that inspired Kipling to hand the suffragists and suffragettes that poetic wallop. But what protection is poetry, the male of the species sadly asks of Rudyard. Of course, the man who receives a proposal might reply by reading the poem to the fair proposer. Stronger nerved persons than militant suffragettes have been unable to survive until the last verse.

All dictionaries and encyclopedias agree that a year of three hundred sixty-six days is called leap year, because February leaps over another day, and because it is the year when men are afraid to say "no" take the fatal leap. All the dictionaries, encyclopedias, federal reporters, United States statutes, books of international law, the Magna Charta, the constitution and the almanacs have been carefully scanned but not a word of authority is found giving women the right to propose during leap year. It seems to be an unwritten law. And, in all history, no man has appeared brave enough to test it.

As an institution leap year grows more dangerous as the suffragette grows more militant. Who knows but the time will come when women lawmakers place upon the statute books a law making capital punishment the penalty for any who dares to refuse to give his hand during leap year to any member of the deadly species who ask it.

Usually strong minded bachelors say, come what may they're not afraid. It is noticed, however, that they say this loudest in masculine company.

Be wary, and, if you have the courage to say "No," say it distinctly and loud enough to allow no mistake to be made, is the advice to all bachelors. The woman who proposes remember can file a breach of promise suit as well as the woman proposed to.

Remember also it might be a lot worse. It might be leap year every year. Consider the male of the Taos Indians. He finds life one leap year after another. The Taos maiden proposes and disposed and every year looks like leap year to her.

Lately someone has suggested that the custom of the Taos tribe be adopted in the United States. Things might be worse than they are, indeed.—Roswell Morning News.

We are indeed glad that this is leap year for, as we understand it, the conditions that have heretofore existed have become monotonous on the part of the young ladies of this city. Surely they can understand that they have been deprived of many pleasures of life by the young men here who have shown by their actions that they are backward and they should take in consideration that their opportunity now lies at stake. If by some unknown means he failed to make his usual calls throughout the year nineteen hundred and eleven it is now your duty to offer to him your heart and hand and place the diamond ring on his finger, he will appreciate it, and if there is someone you desire to keep company with we do not see why he should not be extended the invitation to make the call, for it seems that this would be in harmony with the usual methods of the leap year.

Buys Out H. B. Ryther

This week J. R. Darnell, who lives at Elida and who has owned half interest in the Herald for some time purchased the remaining half interest from Mr. H. B. Ryther together with his residence in the east part of town. Mr. Darnell is a live newspaper man and is a thorough believer in pushing every enterprise that will better the country and we feel sure that the Herald will progress under his management.

Art Exhibit at Club Rooms.

There will be a fine art exhibit at the Commercial club during the week following January 16th 1912. It consists of two hundred carbon photographs and engravings supplied by A. P. Elson Co., of Boston, Mass., and contains only the very best representation of the master pieces of art of different countries and different periods.

The exhibit is to be presented in the Commercial club rooms for the purpose of increasing the interest of art and for the purpose of raising money for the purchase of pictures for the Portales High School. A small admission of ten cents for one visitation and twenty-five cents for more than one will be charged and the public is cordially invited to visit the exhibit. Nearly every art gallery in the world has to be visited in order to see the originals of these pictures which, although copies, are some of the best in existence.

Catalogues can be had at the Commercial club rooms for fifteen cents which will show cuts and sketches of the many productions to be exhibited. Tickets will be sold by the school children who will contest to see who will sell the most in order to win prize pictures for their rooms. The following are some of the productions:

Mothers Club.

The Mothers club held a very interesting meeting on the afternoon of Friday the 5th, inst. "The Relation of Health and Happiness" was very ably discussed by Mrs. W. E. Lindsey and Mrs. Dr. Patterson had an excellent paper on "Rainy Day Amusements for Children."

The dictionaries ordered for the high school by the club have arrived and are very satisfactory. Let us have another good meeting on January the 14th.

Social Entertainment

Last Friday evening, January the 5th, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Brock charmingly entertained with a Leap Year party given in honor of Miss Marguerite Calloway. Many interesting games that usually appeal to participants of social events were heartily enjoyed by all present. At ten-thirty o'clock Mr. Brock passed some slips of paper bearing the names of each young man present. The ladies were then allowed the chance to make their proposal to the one whose name she held. The proposals were indeed interesting showing that they really were not cultivated along this line. Owing to the fact that the guests were heartily enjoying themselves they thought nothing of the hour that had approached, when some one remarked the lights would soon be out. At three minutes until twelve o'clock the merry crowd dispersed thanking the hostess for the pleasant evening and voting Mr. and Mrs. Brock the very best of entertainers.

Those present besides the guest of honor, Miss Marguerite Calloway, were: Misses Belle Bramlett, Edith Connally, Eula Mae Terry, Gertrude Horney, Myrtle Cuebon, Georgia Ferguson. Messers. Howard Lindsey, Elbert Terry, Chester Garret, Arthur Terry, Sammie Osborn, Will Carter and Jimmie Hatch.

NEW MEXICO IS NOW THE BRILLIANT STATE OF AMERICAN STATES

President Signed Proclamation Saturday, January 6

Admitting One of Strongest States into Statehood

Great rights and principles for which a courageous and righteously indignant people struggle long and faithfully are never lost. The right of self government, that principle for which the masses of the American people have stood since the establishment of their colonial governments has finally triumphed in all its struggles. So it is that New Mexico, after more than half a century of untiring efforts to obtain for herself that sacred right, has been awarded her long merited dues—statehood, and its accompanying rights and privileges. However, the powers which have controlled the course of the nations events for years, but whose power is now apparently slipping from their grasp, endeavored to shackle us with conditions placed upon our entrance into statehood. But thanks to a change in the political complexion of congress, a change made possible by the high handed methods of the party which has controlled of late, we are now admitted into the order of the sisterhood of states as a full fledged member and entitled to all the rights and privileges of a state government.

President Taft, after holding the issuance of his proclamation, the last formality to be considered before our real admission into statehood, signed that document so full of meaning to the people of New Mexico, at one o'clock and thirty-five minutes on the 6th inst. That proclamation heralding to the world the birth of a new state into our American federation and the addition of another gem to sparkle with its kindred on our country's ensign, that banner so feared by the tyrannical nations of the world and beloved of the oppressed, comes to make the whole of our new state glad. It is the hope of the citizenship of New Mexico that the star which now glitters so brilliantly to the fair name of our state, may always be pointed to with pride as the emblem of not merely a just government where justice to all and special privileges to none prevail in reality. May that star ever shine brilliantly, and its brilliancy increase with speeding time, evidencing the growth of the state in all things which go to make up the true greatness of a commonwealth. Now as we enter the threshold of the Union of American states to enjoy the blessings of statehood, let every citizen commission himself a committee of one to strive for the upbuilding of our commonwealth, its institutions of government and all else that stands for the furtherance of our good. Such a resolution made now and kept inviolate will so redound in good that are the present generation of citizens have gone the newest state will outshine the oldest in the Union. New Mexico—the Land of Promise—is now a state.

DEMOCRATIC IN POLITICS

The Inauguration

The date of the inauguration of W. C. McDonald as the first governor of the state of New Mexico has been definitely decided on. It will be held Monday, January 15th without fail.

This is expected to be one of the historic events of historic New Mexico, and will be attended by hundreds from within the state and many from without.

Hospitable Santa Fe is preparing to entertain fitting all who come, and everyone will be provided for, accommodations being reserved in the hotels and in private homes for a thousand guests.

The thoughtfulness with which Santa Fe is preparing for this event will be better understood when it is known that every important detail is being looked after by a special committee, being actively at work, each in charge of some department of the work.

The new governor will be sworn in at noon on the 15th following a short program, but the big occasion will be the reception and inaugural ball held that evening in the historic Palace of the Governors and the National Guard Armory. Tickets for the inaugural ball will be $10, and already over 400 have been disposed of. It will be the finest thing of its kind ever seen in New Mexico, and will be an occasion one can ill afford to miss.

W. C. McDonald, the first governor of the state, will be the 101st governor of New Mexico counting all the different regime which have held sway over the territory during a little more than 300 years.

If you have not already made your arrangements to attend the big inaugural ball, a ticket will be reserved for you if you wire Arthur Seligman, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Santa Fe, N. M.

McNamara Caught

In spite of the fact that two of the McNamara boys have been brought to justice recently, the third one, John J. and some of his bold associates on the night of September 14th dynamited a bank of Montreal of New Westminster, B. C., were arrested on January 8th. They secured seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars, eleven hundred dollars of which was found in his wallet and the detectives are searching for two hundred and forty thousand dollars which they believe he had brought to New York. In his tour through the different cities he was known as "Australasian Mack." When the detectives arrested him he quietly submitted and asked to see the warrant, and upon its being read, he smiled and said: "I am greatly relieved. I thought it was some more serious charge."

Charles Hoffman, one of the four conspirators when arrested, had the sum of one thousand two hundred dollars in cash on his person. These men with Link Taylor, J. B. Edwards and J. C. Hall have been implicated in many cases of this kind, a noted robbery being the hold-up of a train in Minnesota. Thus it can be seen that the lives of the McNamara boys have been one of crimes.

1912 Will be a Democratic Winner

Democrats generally are on the outlook for a 1912 winner, and the ultra-practical of the party, sometimes termed politicians, are eager to learn both by experience and the present political drift or sentiment. The appeal to prospective candidates for office is peculiarly timely and appropriate, because experience has taught us that a poor vote getter at the head of the ticket will drag down to defeat many strong and popular candidates for subordinate offices. The comparative vote of 1896 and 1904 in Ohio, was extremely interesting.

"In 1896 the Democrats elected six congressmen; Republicans, fifteen. This result was exactly reversed in 1910, the Democrats having fifteen and the Republicans six.

"In 1896 the Democrat candidate for president carried thirty-four out of Ohio's eighty-eight counties. In 1910 the Democratic candidate carried sixty-seven out of eighty-eight counties

"Taking the state as a whole we find that the Democrats lost it in 1896 by approximately fifty thousand majority, and lost it in 1904 by over two hundred fifty thousand, but carried it in 1910 by over one hundred thousand majority.

Going a little farther it is found by consulting our election statistics of 1906 that the Democratic candidate for president received in Ohio five hundred thousand votes, while the candidate for governor at the same election received five hundred fifty-two votes an excess of fifty thousand votes. Looking a little farther at the 1910 vote we find that the majority received by the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor himself a very popular man, lacked fifty thousand of being the majority that the Democratic candidate for governor received. While the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor carried forty-eight counties, the Democratic candidate for governor carried sixty-seven out of the eighty-eight counties.

It is also to be observed in the 1910 vote that, while the Democratic candidate for governor at the same election carried twenty of these twenty-one districts.

"There are more Democratic office holders in Ohio at the present time than at any time in the history of the party. Our party holds a majority of the clerks of the courts of common pleas, sheriffs, treasurers, recorders, surveyors, prosecuting attorneys, county commissioners and infirmaries directors in number at least one third greater than our party had in the period 1896, '97 and '98. 1896 and 1904 were both presidential years; 1910 was not; but the fact that the Democrats in their state convention of that year unanimously adopted a resolution to the effect that if the then Democratic candidate for governor was successful in his candidacy for reelection his name would be proposed to the Democracy of the Union as the first choice of Ohio for the presidential nomination in 1912 gave a national character to the campaign of 1910. Many of the friends of the candidate for governor thought it was a mistake to introduce national politics into the 1910 fight, and the following editorial from the Cincinnati Enquirer of June 23d, 1910 showed its attitude on that subject:

"The indorsement of the governor as a presidential possibility may have the effect of forcing the Democrats to discuss national rather than state issues in the campaign. Independent Republican votes may be lost to Mr. Harmon through this action. It is probable that the convention would have dodged the indorsement proposition but for the fact that the governor has been brought so conspicuously into the light of publicity as a Democratic candidate.

"The history of the campaign of 1910 is well known to everybody. The last two weeks of the campaign five members of the president's cabinet namely, Secretaries Knox, MacVeagh, Nagel, Wilson and Attorney-general Wickersham were brought into Ohio to campaign, and singularly enough, they visited no other state in the Union in this capacity but Ohio. The overwhelming majority of the candidate for governor demonstrates that no mistake was made in the presidential indorsement.

"The Enquirer in its series of editorials has been admirably impersonal, but I hope it will not be offensive to any one to state the naked fact that in 1910 Judson Harmon was the Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio.

Thus we can see that it will be a very hard matter to keep Ohio out of the Democratic column for the president this year. And not only Ohio that has been drifting toward the Democratic column but New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and in fact nearly all of the eastern states and many of the western states have been drifting toward the Democratic standard. All we now need is harmony in the rank of the Democratic party and the president is sure of being a Democrat.

Is Your Name Written Here?

The secretary of the commercial club reports the following members as being in good standing: W. I. Luikart, T. J. Lomax, J. B. Priddy, C. P. Mitchell, Jeff Hightower, W. E. Lindsey, W. W. Van Winkle, T. J. Molinari, A. D. Wallace, W. S. Berry, R. M. Sanders, C. O. Leach, C. V. Harris, Roy Connally, W. B. Reid, G. M. Williamson, S. A. Morrison, J. P. Deen, Fred Crosby, G. L. Reese, H. B. Ryther, G. V. Johnson, Coe Howard, R. A. Larson, A. F. Jones.

There is really not one good reason why every business man in the city should not find his name in this list. Let's hope that by the time the secretary makes his next report there will not be one name of any business man in the town missing.

Teacher's Examination.

"According to the usual practice of holding the midwinter examination in the middle of January, we have set the dates, Friday and Saturday, January 12th and 13th for the next regular examination of teachers." This statement has been received by the county superintendent from the office of the territorial superintendent, and the teachers of the county of Roosevelt, who desire to take this examination, are asked to report at the office of the county superintendent, by 8 o'clock on the morning of the 12th of January 1912. All permits expire on the first day of this examination. With Christmas and new year greetings, I am,

Very respectfully,

PRETTY IDEA FOR EGG COSY

Simple Design Worked in Beads is Decoration for One Shown in Illustration.

Either for use at home or sale in a bazaar, new and pretty ideas for egg cozies are always welcome, and in our sketch we show a neat little cosy, decorated with a simple design worked in beads, and trimmed with a bead fringe that reaches almost to the base of the egg cup.

The cosy is made very much in the shape of a miniature tea-cosy, and is cut out in two pieces and sewn together at the edges. A silk cord covers the seam and is carried into three loops at the top. The interior can be lined with two or three thicknesses of flannel, and the bead fringe added to complete it.

The bead fringe is made of separate strings of ten beads, eight small beads with a large one in the center and another at the end.

The success of the cosy will, in a great measure, depend upon the colors of the materials chosen for the making of it, and when intended for home use it is a nice idea to choose the colors to match or harmonize with the breakfast service with which it is likely to appear.

COURTESY IN THE HOME

Remember Your Home People Are Under Inexorable Necessity of Living With You.

If you are a boor among your acquaintances you can severely leave you alone; you can give the cold shoulder to the cad in the office or the works; you can escape the fool in the morning train; you can have a prior engagement if your pet aversion asks you to supper.

But your home people are under the inexorable necessity of living with you. A man sometimes gets into the habit of thinking that anything will do for his home people; he treats them as daily bread; he does not exert himself; he reserves his best for outsiders.

He says he likes to be home at home; that is very well, so long as it does not mean being vulgar. He says he likes to be at ease in his home; very well, too, if it does not mean being thoughtless.

Familiarity breeds contempt. It is not easy to be constantly patient and profitable and pleasant to those whom you meet every morning at breakfast. The breakfast table is often the greatest distillometer. More secrets of character are revealed over the bacon and eggs than over the dessert.

There is no severer discipline in the world than that of the home, and most of us go down under it in this matter of courtesy.

Don't let us put off our manners when we put on our slippers. Let us be the more considerate when it is only our own whom we have to consider. And just because our home life is private, and is screened off from public judgment and is sheltered from the restraint of public opinion, let us be the more scrupulous that we may be void of the offense against the heart of love.

We have mixed feelings toward a successful agent because he can do things we can't, and because he can do us when we say he can't.
