JAPANESE AND CHINESE STAGE SEVERE BATTLE

Believe Main Bodies of Troops Both Countries Now Engaged—Rush Reinforcements to Scene

Mukden, Oct. 28.—Japanese and Chinese troops are engaged near Cheng Kiatung in the severest fighting since the recent Japanese occupation of Mukden and other non-treaty zones, it was announced at Japanese headquarters here tonight.

Following the ambushing of two companies of Japanese infantry near Cheng Kiatung, on the Supingka-Taonan railway, reinforcements were rushed out from Cheng Kiatung this morning and the Japanese began operations to rid the section of Chinese bandits and refugee soldiers.

Through the League of Nations is insisting the Japanese withdraw before Nov. 16 the extension of activities was an imperative necessity, it was stated at Japanese military headquarters here.

The two Japanese companies had been sent out to attack a thousand Chinese refugee soldiers holding a hill outside Cheng Kiatung who were threatening the railway. They were advancing at dawn when the Chinese suddenly opened fire on small Japanese detachments guarding the flanks, killing Captain Kuwahara and two soldiers.

Headquarters believe the main bodies of Chinese and Japanese troops are now engaged.

Moscow, Oct. 28.—Dispatches that Soviet troops were being mobilized along the Manchurian border were again officially denied today and authoritative quarters said they had not been informed of Japan's request that alleged demonstrations be discontinued.

Brooks of this city, was one of the members of the 40-piece Texas Tech band who was selected by the director to play at the Tech-Haskell, Oklahoma, football game in Dallas last week, according to a report received here from the school this week. Royce is a freshman in Tech this year and has gained quite an honor by being one of the few members of his class who are in the band.

THANKSGIVING TURKEY MARKET WILL OPEN HERE NOV. 3

Anticipating purchases for Thanksgiving dinners, produce houses are completing preparations for a turkey market. The Thanksgiving market is scheduled for Nov. 3-14 and the Christmas market to open Dec. 3.

The turkey crop in Texas this fall is expected to be one of the largest in years, local poultry buyers say. Central and southern sections of the state, especially, have record breaking numbers of turkeys. The crop on the South Plains, however, is somewhat less than normal. Huge feed crops in this section should result in a larger than normal weight per bird, especially for the Christmas season.

Mrs. A. J. Crager returned last week from Wortham, Texas, where she had been for some time at the bedside of her daughter, Mrs. John Tucker. Mrs. Tucker was much better when Mrs. Crager returned home.

DAWSON PIONEER PASSES AWAY

The following is an account of the death of Mr. W. R. Stone of Lockney, Texas, who died in Dawson county recently. Mr. and Mrs. Stone had been residents of Lockney since 1920. Mr. Stone had been in ill health for the past two years and was visiting in Dawson county at the time of his death. The account of his death is taken from the Lamesa newspaper as follows:

The death of W. R. Stone came as a shock to his many friends, though he had been ill for the past two years.

Mr. Stone moved to Dawson county in 1905 and was truly a pioneer. With his family of five they bought a farm two miles east of Lamesa and immediately affiliated themselves with the interests of the little town that was that year incorporated.

He supported the erection of the little frame school house; the county court house, now replaced by a brick and the Methodist church the community center for all denominational worship at that time.

He saw a bright future for the little town whose yard fences were entirely covered with mountains of sand. After the virgin days of pioneering and some real constructive helpfulness Mr. Stone moved to Lockney and purchased a home. Here he and his wife have resided for several years.

His two sons retained that inherent desire to continue in Lamesa and brought their father back for his last days. He passed away Saturday at 12:30 P. M. on his two sons farm six miles from the city limits.

Funeral services were held at the chapel of Higginbotham-Bartlett. The local pastor of the First Christian Church was assisted by the Rev. L. F. Sanders, a life long friend of the family. He spoke fitting words of the useful, unselfish, and unassuming life of him, a man who loved God and his fellow man. One who had the highest regard for law and order at all times, and who surely must have said at the last, "I Have Fought a Good Fight, I Have Finished My Course and Henceforth There is Laid Up for Me a Crown of Righteousness". Mr. Stone was seventy years old. He was laid to rest in the Lamesa cemetery Sunday P. M.

Survivors were his wife, Jennie; two sons, Jack and Bernie, Lamesa; and two daughters, Mrs. Carl Long, Alameda, Calif., and Mrs. W. P. Rlesington, Kansas. Other relatives attending the funeral were Judge and Mrs. Fritz R. Smith, D. P. Lane, Miss Elizabeth Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Boren, all of Snyder, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith, Big Spring.

PLAINS COTTON FREIGHT RATES GET REDUCTION

Texas Railroad Commission In Announcement Thursday Adds to Original Order Allowing Revised Schedule

Austin, Oct. 22.—The Texas railroad commission today issued a supplemental order to its recent authorization given railroads to reduce their freight rates on cotton in bales to meet truck competition, the latest schedule including points in West Texas and the Plains section not included in the original draft.

The original order stipulated that points not covered in the first tariff would be taken care of as soon as the railroads could work out schedules.

Points Are Listed
Some of the points included in today's order and the new rates per 100 pounds to Houston, Galveston and Texas City effective at once were: Lamesa, Slaton, Lubbock, Littlefield, and Brownfield, 72 cents; Plainview, Quitaque, Lockney, and Memphis, 75 cents; Midland, 76 cents; Odessa, 81 cents; Quanah, 66 cents; Sudan, 78 cents.

Rates for Sweetwater, Big Spring, and Chillicothe will be 61 cents, 66 cents and 63 cents, respectively, but will not become effective until Monday.

An allowance for 13 cents per 100 pounds for compression was authorized.

Others Listed
Tulia, 81 cents; Kress, 78 cents; Plainview, Hale Center, and Lockney, 75 cents; Floydada, Abernathy, Ralls, Crosbyton, Lubbock, Slaton, Anton, Littlefield, Levelland, Brownfield, Lamesa, Tahoka, and Post 72 cents; Seagraves, 81 cents; Amherst, Sudan, and Muleshoe, 78 cents, and Bledsoe, 87 cents.

The rates are based on mileage, zones and are the same for shipments over either the Santa Fe or Fort Worth and Denver from towns served by both roads, it was pointed out.

HOW GOVERNMENT WILL ACCEPT COTTON ON DEBT AT 8c POUND

The following direct communication from the United States Department of Agriculture is published for the information of any concerned:

"Cotton will be accepted as collateral for government seed loans on the basis of 8 cents per pound middling 7-8 inch, Acting Secretary of Agriculture Dunlap announced today. Borrowers who store their cotton will be required to deliver warehouse receipts to the department's field agents or regional collection offices on sufficient cotton to provide collateral for the loan at 8 cents per pound middling 7-8 inch rather than on the quantity required at current prices.

"The purpose of this plan is to encourage the storage of cotton and to release part of the crop mortgaged to the Government for the purchase of necessities and for the payment of taxes, interest on farm mortgages, and other debts. The right is reserved to withdraw this offer at any time or to establish a different basis in any area because of changed conditions such as the general lowering of the grade as the result of unfavorable weather.

"In certain areas where a large proportion of the crop normally is shorter than 7-8 inch in length the basis will be 7 1-2 cents a pound on middling 13-16 inch. In these areas borrowers whose cotton is 7-8 inch will get credit for the premium on the longer staple, so that where the basic price is 7 1-2 cents for 13-16 inch the 8 cent price will be allowed to the individual whose cotton is graded and the longer staple indicated on the warehouse certificate. Likewise individuals whose cotton grades better than middling or has staple length of more than 7-8 inch will be credited with appropriate premiums. With the average borrower, however, whose loan is approximately $150 it will no be necessary to present evidence of grade or staple as the number of bales required to provide collateral for the loan would be the same whether the basic price is 7 1-2, 8, or 8 1-2 cents. The necessity for having the cotton graded in order to take advantage of premiums on cotton grading better than middling or measuring more than 7-8 inch in length will exist only in the case of large borrowers.

"Warehouse receipts will be required on sufficient cotton to cover the amount of the loan together with storage and insurance charges and any advance which may be made for picking and ginning expenses. When the cotton is finally sold the borrower will be credited with the proceeds of the sale. In the event that the proceeds are not sufficient to pay the full amount of the loan the remainder will remain as an obligation of the borrower. If the proceeds of sales are more than sufficient to pay the loan and interest, the surplus will be paid the borrower or to other creditors as circumstances may determine."

FARMER HAS HAD TOO MUCH CREDIT ADAMS DECLARES
Dallas, Tex., Oct. 28.—Nathan Adams, Dallas banker, appearing as a principal speaker before mortgage bankers here yesterday, warned against further intrusion by the government into the banking or other private business fields.

Adams, central figure in the south-wide cotton holding program, scored the results of the Farm Board's operations which included holding over 3,700,000 bales of cotton and a large per cent of the wheat crop.

"The farmer has had too much credit already. He has had far more credit than any other group in the country," Adams said.

J. B. Sleeper of Topeka, Kans., president of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, urged a moratorium on curative plans including that for a central mortgage discount bank.

NEEDED!

I left my family in France and started back across the ocean, alone. There was none of the thrill that usually comes with heading toward America, none of the joy of coming home.

For a couple of days I was depressed. Everything cared for was behind me; I was sailing into silence.

Then one day the wireless spoke. "Have arranged the following appointments for you," my partner wired. "Tuesday after your arrival, Baltimore. Wednesday, Pittsburg; Thursday, Friday, Chicago. Best wishes. Please confirm."

Immediately came a feeling of relief and cheer. "I have work to go back to," I exclaimed. "Duties are waiting to keep me alert and a little worried and on my toes."

I was relating the incident to the chairman of the board of a large corporation.

"I know just how you felt," he said. "I've organized our company so well that I've almost organized myself out of a job. But every now and then a really big problem comes along, and the boys have to send for me. A hurry call came to my home from Chicago last Sunday, and I had to leave on an hour's notice. My wife thought it was a hardship, and of course I let her believe that we men lead terrible lives. But all the way out on the train my spirit was singing: "Somebody wants me, I have work to do."

Joseph Medill was asked: "What is the greatest pleasure of your life?" "To feel that I am at play when I am at work," he answered.

The book of Genesis presents work as a curse inflicted on humanity for its sins. We know in these times of unemployment how faulty that conception is.

To wake up in the morning and wonder: "Where shall I go today? What shall I do?" That is the curse. America's most important problem is not education, not the government regulation of business, not even prohibition. Our real task is to work out some economic system by which we can provide honest jobs for all the people all the time.

Every man and woman is entitled to the glorious self-respect which comes from being able to say:

"Thank God, I have a place. I am needed."

THE FAMILY DOCTOR By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

MORE EVIDENCE

A very old adage has it, "Fools make feasts; wise men eat them." But we are living in a different age; I don't call anybody a fool because he spreads a feast—if he can afford it; the very much bigger fool is the fellow that gorges himself at the feast!

Last evening, (much against my better judgment), I accepted an invitation to dine at 6 o'clock with a professional brother—our wives were in attendance. The cares of the day were past and gone; it was the time for recreation that is so essential to the brain worker. Every one in the happy group, except myself, adored the six o'clock dinner, and indulged in it at every opportunity.

To say that this was a fine, sumptuous meal, does not half describe the setting. It was a triumph of culinary skill—the quantity was limited to capacity only.

Incidentally, one of the physicians present said he was a little ticklish about coffee—he had a blood-pressure of something over 200, and was a bit apprehensive about it; he was only sixty and looked forty-five. Yet, he was being seriously threatened.

My wife and I went to the party in a neighbor physician's car. As we came home at 10:30 P. M., the doctor said to me, "I've had to be a little guarded here lately; Mrs. C—and I are both developing high blood-pressure."

Just one thing, dear reader: THE SIX O'CLOCK DINNER. Protein poisoning, from the absorption of excessive amounts of undigested food. A heavy meal, partaken of when the mind and body were tired and needed rest. REST. Stomachs compelled to work when relaxed and weakened from mental and physical tire.

Such a meal for BREAKFAST would have done no harm! The digestive organs rested from seven or eight hours of refreshing sleep. But, after this fine, sumptuous, six o'clock dinner, every guest awakened next morning with little or no appetite, feeling heavy, mentally foggy, lack of vim and energy for the new day's work. When shall we wise up?

This Week in WASHINGTON
BY RADFORD MOBLEY
AUTOCASTER WASHINGTON BUREAU
Special to Lockney Beacon

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(Auto-caster)—Free spenders of Government money are wearing a harassed look these days, particularly Secretary of the Navy Charles T. Adams, who has had to bow to the President's dictum that he lop $61,000,000 off the naval estimates. It is said by the gossipers here that he did not take the cut kindly and had many objections to raise. The net result of his kicks was that he made the slice, as ordered.

Secretary Adams is only one of many who have suffered but his case is, perhaps, the most glaring, particularly because of the spotlight that is being cast upon the enormous expenditures being made by European governments on their land, sea and air forces. The Secretary is said to have pointed out the dangers of unpreparedness to Mr. Hoover but all the answer he got in return was the order to stop what the President called unnecessary spending. It is well known here that Mr. Hoover has definitely put down his foot on all proposals that mean added expenditures and that all those close to him have found that he is not to be tricked into letting up on them.

Most of the taxpayers in the country fail to appreciate the exact position of Cabinet officers. Few realize that the men who sit in with President at the Cabinet meetings have less actual power than almost any set of men in the government. They are there for the simple purpose of advising their Chief, who makes decisions which are then carried out. Cabinet officers are merely the President's appointees and can be dismissed at any time.

The United States comes nearer to being an absolute monarchy than almost any of the world powers. It is a one-man country, not unlike that of Mussolini, Stalin and the other so-called advanced European powers. The only real brake on the President is Congress, particularly the Senate, which can lop off all appropriations and kill any action of any other branch of the national government. But when the President orders that spending be stopped it is almost impossible for anybody to alter his ruling.

Right or wrong, Mr. Hoover has set his hand to a career of economy in an effort to avoid an increase in taxes next year, a condition that would certainly work to the disadvantage of the Republican party when it goes before the country with an appeal to be returned to power.

While his attack on the navy budget has been the most publicized action on government spending in recent weeks, yet it is known that he has pared down many other demands for increased appropriations and all bureau chiefs here are squirming in their comfortable swivel chairs, trying to make four dollars do the work of five. Public approval is not wanting, the average taxpayer feeling that too much money is being spent on unneeded improvements by its civil servants.

One certain effect that will result from President Hoover's economy budget is that a chorus of complaint will arise from the coteries of admirals, major generals and permanent under secretaries of the various Washington bureaus. Only a few months ago the Government clamped down on interviews that the "brass hats" like to give out in the public press. Major General Smedley D. Butler's utterances a few months ago came near costing that fire-eating marine his official head. There will be is a from peak his predicted will be a parture audiences Uniformed m one service, however, are prevente... from commenting or lobbying for financial relief. Only a short time ago Congress passed laws providing for instant dismissal from the service of the Government of any man found guilty of spreading propaganda or lobbying against the orders of those in authority. They are only permitted to address criticism to the Director of the Budget, an official who is completely under the thumb of the executive branch, or to their immediate superiors, who can act only through the President.

Years ago all Congressmen were drowned out by the demands of civil service bureau chiefs and leaders of the armed forces for increased appropriations. Their incessant lobbying finally interfered with the orderly processes of legislation and Capitol Hill replied by putting up the bars against all lobbyists on the public payroll. Since then several bureau chiefs have lost their official lives as a consequence and the evil has practically ceased to exist.

When it is realized that there are roughly about three-quarters of a million people on the Government payroll, all of whom want to see their pay increased or their powers added to by increased appropriations, it can be seen that Capitol Hill took the only logical action to stop the underground attacks on the public purse. At that time the opinion was freely expressed by Congressmen that there are too many on the civil service payroll.

WHAT CONTRIBUTION DOES THE LARGE CHURCH MAKE TO THE SMALL CHURCH?

It has been said many times that "man cannot live to himself" no matter how much he may wish to be self-sufficient. He is a source of influence to others and is likewise influenced by others. He is also dependent on the contributing force of life for food, clothing, necessities, luxuries as the case may be and he is dependent upon God for his spiritual well-being.

We say we have prepared the breakfast, but we have to face the familiar thought that the grape fruit came from California, the breakfast food from a Michigan factory, the bacon from some packing house, etc. Do these states contribute to us? We will say that they do, largely, yet we are not a definite part of those states.

So it is with nations, quoting in part from the Mission Study book, "The Turn Toward Peace" by Florence Brewer Boeckel, we find this thought, "Germany is said to have held to the 99% self supporting in food stuffs before the war but her people starved during the war because she could not import phosphates for fertilizer." And "when Russians were unable to buy their usual amount of tea, the tea growers of India reduced their crop. This required less tin-foil for packages and the Cornish mines of England shut down, throwing many people out of work and reducing prosperous communities to poverty. The natives of India could not buy the usual amount of cotton goods, therefore, the cotton factories of England bought less cotton from America and our growers were affected." Be this as it may, we can see how we are dependent on one another and how each group either contributes to the upbuilding of others or helps to tear down.

In the educational world the high school sets a standard for its pupils. The small or rural schools must work with this in view if they are to enter high school; then further the colleges challenge the high schools with their program, and so it is, each contributes to the progress of the other. The small to the large and the large to the small. We might say too, that any institution, to be worthy, should contribute in a generous way to the smaller institutions around it.

In our church work this is especially true. We may think off hand that we are working alone—that what we do or don't do has no effect on other churches or Christian groups, that the program of work is for some other church, not ours. But we find even churches, like families, are dependent on one another to a certain extent, some large, some small, some strong, some weak—all working to the same end—the establishment of the Kingdom of God in the hearts of men. All have responsibilities and if we make the most of these we contribute to other churches and especially to those nearby.

There are several ways in which the large church contributes to the smaller groups:

One way of importance is in the sponsoring of training schools. It is impossible for the small church to hold a real training school but when the large church holds such a school and the smaller churches are invited to take advantage of that opportunity for training, a contribution has been made for the progress of all.

Another contribution to the surrounding country is through the revival and the evangelist the larger church usually secures. Recently many communities took advantage of the opportunity to hear Bishop Boaz in his outstanding messages because of Plainview's contribution. The small church pastor also appreciates such occasions.

Still another way is through the visits of the presiding elder, district and conference officers of various organizations of the church, who occasionally visit the small churches. These workers are a product of larger churches—perhaps not having spent their lives in the large church, but at least for a time have had training and work there. In the past two years or more our little church has been privileged to have visits from several such workers—former Conference Lay Leader Dean McKeown, Presiding Elder Beavers, Conference Secretary Agee of the League work, Sunday School Workers Nance, Lyons, Willis, and Watson and others, each bringing inspirational instruction in regard to their particular part of the work. We also had the privilege of hearing a number of splendid sermons from several pastors of our larger nearby churches, through the Pastor's and Layman's Zone meeting and the County M. E. Pastor's organization.

Every time the larger church opens its doors to zone, district or conference meetings of any nature, it contributes an intangible something to those attending from the smaller churches. To many it is an inspiration just to sit in such a church.

Still another contribution is the report of such meetings brought back to the local congregation. We were behind in these reports, so one Sunday night was given for this purpose. Brief messages from talks by many of our prominent workers in North-West Texas conference were given by delegates. These were inspirational, showing interest in every line of the work and were of the Missionary Institute at Plainview in January, the Lockney and Cone Pastor's and Laymen's Zone meetings, the Abernathy Missionary Zone meeting, the League Assembly at Abilene, the quarterly conference, sermon at Sand Hill, the District Conference at Muleshoe and the Lubbock meeting with the bishop, the Training School at Floydada and other League rallies had been previously reported. Several of the large churches had made it possible for these messages to be taken back to the many small churches.

Small church pastors who have had the advantage of membership in some large church or have been Junior pastors in such churches—also working church members who have come from a large church to a small, all bring something worthwhile with them, a contribution from the larger church.

Sure one great contribution comes to society through the character of the city in which the larger churches are located. Undoubtedly they have a far greater task and responsibility in asking a city what it should be than the smaller churches. As a result the country for miles around share the benefits of a clean, upright Christian city. Usually the larger church takes the lead when right is being questioned and her victories are far-reaching. The larger church sponsors many movements for good.

And so the large church lives (if it is a living church) as an EXAMPLE, an INVITATION, a REMINDER, and an INSPIRATION to the smaller groups about it, to put forth the greatest effort for the final victory of Christian forces and in the conquering of each task as it comes, through Christ whom we all love to serve.—Mrs. M. D. Ramsey, Ramsey community, Floydada, Texas, R. R. 4, Box 46.

BUILDING A COMMUNITY IS JOB FOR EVERYBODY

Every good community has resulted from active joint efforts of its people.

In building a modern community the service of Electricity is necessary. This service must be ample and it must be assured in machinery and equipment ahead of the need for it so that it will be ready when wanted.

Our part of the job in building Lockney and the entire territory served is to have this service on tap all the time. To do this we must look ahead and make the necessary improvements to keep the facilities ahead of the demand for service. We can do this with the cooperation of the people of this community, and the community will continue to grow, because this essential public service, coupled with the other things that make for growth will be on the job.

How One Family Dinner Dressed Up for Company

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

WHEN one's husband telephones late in the afternoon to say that he is bringing company for dinner, one always goes through mental gymnastics trying to visualize the possibilities for a creditable meal. And why is it that such messengers invariably seem to come at the end of a particularly trying day, when to undertake any further work is almost an impossibility? Recently, a friend was telling me about such a situation, and boasting how she had built up a splendid dinner from the simplest of materials. She had planned to serve Hamburg steak, baked potatoes, a lettuce salad and a fruit dessert; and she was almost frantic when her husband phoned late that he was bringing three guests. The Hamburg steak was not enough to serve so many, and there seemed to be almost nothing else to take its place. However, after some rapid thinking and acting she was able to offer the following emergency menu, and the dinner was a decided success:

Emergency Menu

- Cream of Pea Soup Crackers
- Stuffed Spanish Olives
- Casserole of Meat and Spaghetti
- Whole Wheat Bread
- Melba Salad with Mayonnaise Dressing
- Fig Pudding with Ice Cream
- Coffee

Isn't that a menu suitable for serving to company almost any time? The resourceful woman who prepared it was helped greatly, of course, by a well stocked supply shelf. From that shelf came the delicious Cream of Pea Soup, ready to heat and serve, along with the crackers and Olives that accompanied it and helped make a perfect beginning for the meal. The meat course presented the greatest problem; the hostess had a recipe for a Spaghetti Casserole, and she decided to try this to make the small quantity of meat serve more people. The new dish was most delicious, and this is how she made it:

Casserole of Meat and Spaghetti

1 lb. ground beef steak; 1 medium size onion; 1 large green pepper; 1 large can spaghetti (1 lb. 19 oz.); 1/2 lb. American Cheese (grated); 1 medium size can Cream of Tomato Soup.
Fry finely chopped onion in hot fat until light brown. Add meat and brown.

Then add chopped pepper and Cream of Tomato Soup. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Add spaghetti, place in baking dish, sprinkle with grated cheese, and heat until cheese is melted.
For a moment the salad seemed a hopeless problem. But there was a can of peaches and a bottle of Mayonnaise Salad Dressing on the supply shelf, and this ingenious homemaker soon devised an unusual and delightful salad.

Here is the recipe she used:

Melba Salad

1 can peaches, halves; 1/2 cup dates, chopped fine; 1/2 cup nuts, chopped fine. (Nuts may be omitted); Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.
Drain the liquid from the can of peaches and chill. Mix dates and peaches with enough Mayonnaise Dressing to hold them together. Put halves of peaches together with this mixture and arrange on crisp lettuce leaves. Serve with either French or Mayonnaise Dressing.

For the dessert course, the emergency shelf again helped. There certainly was not time to bake a cake; and ice cream, alone, is not quite a dessert for company. So the hostess sent for some ice cream, and just before dinner placed a convenient can of prepared Fig Pudding in a pan of water to heat. In serving, she arranged two small wedge-shaped pieces of pudding on each dish, and placed a spoonful of ice cream over it.
This successful emergency hostess told me her guests were more than enthusiastic, and that she had learned fully the value of a shelf well stocked with foods that keep indefinitely and are always at hand when needed.

GIVEN A BUNGHOLE! TO BUILD A BARREL

The following article taken from the Texas Christian Advocate, Methodist publication, is in regard to the building of the Highland Heights Methodist Church at Sweetwater, Texas, by Rev. H. W. Hanks, now pastor of the Lockney Methodist Church:

That seems to be rather a vague proposition, doesn't it? Well, it is; but its the proposition submitted for solution. Now if it were something like this, "Given the area of an inscribed polygon to find the area of a circumscribed polygon of double the number of sides"—there would be something come-at-able about it, some place to get a "toehold"—but it "ain't" like that. The proposition is "Given a bunghole; how long will it take to build a barrel around it."

What is a bunghole? Well, now; definitions are not so easily given as might seem at first thought. Bung-hole! BUNGHOLE! well, it is an imaginary area around which a barrel is to be built; a necessary area through which the barrel is to be filled. Will that do?

Now there was in a certain locality a perfectly GOOD bunghole around which no one had ever tried to build anything. So a friend and I were discussing the need of a Cooper to take care of it before it got too badly weathered. He said, "I'll put you in charge of it;" whereupon I began thinking and planning with considerable enthusiasm, but when the allotments were made, lo, and behold, not I, but a dear young friend was allotted the task; who, I'm sure, did not "root" me out of the prospect, for he is a worker and not a "rooter."

"Well," you say, "What was the bunghole in?" It wasn't in anything at all; there was neither stave, head nor hoop—just a bunghole, and it had lain around so long it was getting considerably weathered.

After the allotment, my young friend went promptly to the locality, took an inventory of the bunghole—that was all that was—then began looking about for a Cooperage where he could begin the manufacturing of staves, heads and hoops. He opened shop at about the highest point in the locality, and began operations at once with just a handful of sympathizers who said, "Lead out and we will follow."

Day by day—early and late, he worked, encouraged by that faithful little group; for months they prayed, and studied, planned and worked together, they began to "dig in" for the saving of the bunghole. At the end of one year they had it framed, then the Cooper (and I also) said, "Thank God, it is safe now, for there's no danger of its warping any more."

Beginning with the second year the Cooper called his group together and said, "Up and let us build, for we are able." They responded "Do all that is in thine heart, and behold, we are with thee according to thy heart." (1 Saml. 14-7.)

For four years the Cooper and his faithful group prayed, sacrificed and worked, gathering material and working it into the barrel, and before the fourth year was finished the barrel was completed "A thing of beauty, and a joy forever." It was a phenomenal achievement, the like of which, all things considered, has not been equaled in the Northwest Texas Conference. This is not said in disparagement of the heroic work done by others, but I know the conditions and circumstances under which this piece of work was done.

November 1926 there was not an inch of ground or building material—no organization of any kind to carry on our work; now there is a splendid church property consisting of a parsonage, valued at $4,000, and a church building worth $30,000, and on the whole property only $6,500 of indebtedness.

Highland Heights was the bung-hole, Wyatt Hanks the Cooper assigned to build the barrel, and right well he has succeeded, he, and the faithful men and women who stood and wrought with him, and not one of the group had any wealth except that of purpose and consecration.

Last November my old friend and coadjutor of other years was assigned the task of caring for, and filling the barrel; and right well he is doing his work. He, with official staff of enthusiastic men and women—about fifty in number—are carrying on beautifully. Sacrifice? Yes, much; but that is not what they are talking about, but of greater things yet to be done.

They are beautifying the property with Bermuda lawn and growing trees. A membership of over three hundred, a Sunday school of over two hundred, every department well organized, and best of all, working without friction of any kind. Too much cannot be said for the men and women and the pastors, so far, of Highland Heights Methodist Church. May the Lord give us many more such groups. The present pastor is Rev. J. E. CREDIT POOL ALMOST READY TO FUNCTION
 Will Provide Cash for Banks Unable to Turn Assets Quickly Into Currency

Washington, Oct. 27.—With subscriptions piling in, President Hoover's big credit pool will be ready by the end of the week to begin its task of providing ready cash for banks unable to turn their assets quickly into currency.

The President has been informed the $500,000,000 fund will be subscribed by that time and that soon afterward its actual operation will begin.

This was revealed today, simultaneously with a disclosure that although it had made some inquiries into the subject, the administration is contemplating no action at present to give special aid to holders of railroad bonds.

Help Weak Railroads

Some officials have felt it might be possible, under government leadership, to help weak railroads out of trouble and avoid any further receiverships. It was the belief such a step, if it proved feasible, would have a good effect on conditions generally, since such institutions as savings banks and insurance companies are heavy holders of railway securities.

One proposal put up to the Government was for the mobilization of a special pool by private bankers and others, out of which financial aid could be extended to the roads needing it. After inquiry, however, this was found to present many difficulties.

At the present time, all preparations of this character have been put into the background. In any case, the administration would not act while another branch of the Government, the Interstate Commerce Commission, has pending before the roads of the into the background. In any case, the through pooling revenue from a special schedule of rate increases.

The President's credit pool subscribed by private bankers, is intended to improve the position of the banks by enabling them to rediscount securities ineligible for such action by the Federal Reserve System. Through if they will be enabled to obtain cash on paper heretofore unobtainable and classed as frozen assets.

Hoover Gives Reports

Hoover received reports on the progress of the pool Sunday morning at breakfast from George Reynolds of Chicago, its chairman, and from Mortimer N. Buckner of New York, its president. They told him the project was receiving almost unanimous support throughout the banking world and already had served to increase confidence. The President is completing a busy month of close attention to both domestic and foreign phases of the problem of speeding economic recovery. By the credit pool and other plans, he hopes to swing the trend upward at home. Through his week-end conferences with Premier Laval of France and their resulting pledge of international co-operation, Hoover is confident of improvement in the field of international trade.

SUCCESS IS SEEN FOR CREDIT PLAN
 Support Is Given to Credit Proposal of the President

Washington, Oct. 28.—President Hoover has been informed that his $500,000,000 national Credit corporation plan is receiving almost universal support in the banking world and that at least the minimum subscription will be available before the end of this week.

The chief executive was said authoritatively to have been informed that the credit extension plan already has begun restoring confidence, as well as lending specific aid in some quarters.

Mr. Hoover met Saturday night and Sunday morning, during the midst of the visit of Premier Laval of France, with George Reynolds of Chicago, chairman of the board of the corporation, and Mortimer N. Buckner of New York, its president.

They reported the necessary associations are being organized rapidly. The president was informed that an Iowa state association comprising most of the banks within the state, has been developed.

Mr. Hoover believes this example has been or will be followed in many states in which central clearing house associations are not available.

With the completion of subscriptions by the end of the week, the chief executive feels the national credit corporation can launch out on an extensive scale to specific banks.

TRUCK LAW IS UPHELD BY U. S. JUDGES

Regulation of Private Contract Carriers by Railroad Commission Is Sustained

Houston, Oct. 26.—In a 2 to 1 decision Monday, a three-judge Federal court ruled as constitutional House Bill No. 335, which regulates private contract carriers and places them under the supervision of the State Railroad Commission.

At the same time, the temporary injunction, sought by J. H. Stevenson and several intervenors to restrain enforcement of the law, was denied.

The opinion was delivered by United State Circuit Judge J. C. Hutcheson, Federal Judge Duval West, concurring. Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly dissented.

"The power of the State to regulate and control the movements of motor vehicles over its highways in the interest of public safety and for the protection of the highways, for the proper use of which it is trusted to the public, is of the widest scope, and provisions of this kind have been uniformly sustained," said the majority opinion.

The opinion went on to say that the system of regulation in the interest of the public will operate out of his further d practically service on roads.

THE LOCKNEY BEACON

VERY LATEST

So many readers have asked for a simple diagram pattern for an evening jacket that we have been looking here and everywhere to find a jacket that was not too intricate. Some of the simplest in appearance proved to be too complicated when it came to making a diagram that could be easily followed. Finally we chanced to see just the thing—easy to indicate because all four pieces that go to make it up are perfectly straight, and therefore easy to cut once you have the right dimensions.

To make the little jacket in the sketch you will need taffeta silk cut in strips, hemmed on both sides, then stitched together.

On each side, extending over the shoulders, is a strip four inches wide and 28 inches long. In the back, connecting these two pieces, is a strip four inches wide and twelve inches long. The piece for the belt is three inches wide and long enough to go around the waist and tie in a bow—a yard and a half or more.

Here are the measurements in the diagram:

AB and HK, 4 inches.
AC and KD, 28 inches.
AE and KF, 16 inches.
FE and DC, 4 inches.
FD and EC, 12 inches.
CG, 3 inches.
The points X and Y are four inches apart. B fastens at X, A fastens at Y. To determine the exact location of these points, try the garment on when it is ready up to that stage.

NEW SCHEDULES

By Marvin Jones

I am very much pleased with the recent freight rate reductions on cotton from Texas points to the Gulf ports. For several years I have been making a fight to secure a lowering of these freight rates in order to place these commodities on the same basis with industry.

For many years industry has had freight rate reductions ranging from 25 to 40% on commodities moving in to export in order to assist the manufacturers in the disposal of their surplus products.

Steel and steel products moving in to export are allowed a 35% average reduction. Cement is given a 40% reduction. Practically all manufactured products enjoy similar reductions. Even farm implements are favored with a 35% reduction below domestic rates.

About two years ago I made the following statement on the floor of the House of Representatives:

"For many years iron and steel products, cement, farm implements and manufactured commodities have been given export freight reductions ranging from 25% to 40% below domestic freight rates. The United States Steel Company gets the benefit of these reductions, notwithstanding it has not missed a dividend in thirty years. During this period the major farm commodities, wheat and cotton, have not had reduced freight rates; in other words, they have been discriminated against.

"What peculiar charm is there about iron and steel? One of two courses should be adopted. Either those export rate reductions should be allowed on wheat and cotton, or they should be taken away from industry so that the whole rate structure might be lowered."

I am glad this principal of fairness is at last beginning to be recognized. The recent change mean from $1.00 to $1.50 per bale increase in price for West Texas farmers.

If the same reduction can now be extended to wheat it will be of great value. The wheat freight reductions made in August were of some value, but they were entirely inadequate. Agriculture should be placed on a parity with industry in these and all other matters.

To restore the purchasing power of the farming section is one of our great national needs.

The railroads are to be congratulated upon this concession. Heretofore their philosophy has seemed to be to solve all their difficulties by increasing freight rates. They have no monopoly on transportation. There is such a thing as freight rates becoming prohibitive and tending to destroy the traffic and to drive it into other avenues. I am sure they will find that these new rates on cotton will abundantly justify themselves.

Garza County leads all West Texas counties in home canning this season.

Twenty-four hour service will be provided at the air-weather station operated by the federal government at Abilene on the airways line.

A home products exhibit features the observance of home products week in Plainview recently participated in by twenty-nine local manufacturing concerns.
