Graduation At Hartley is To Be Tonite

Hartley, May 15.—District Attorney John B. Honts of Dalhart tonight at 8:00 in the high school auditorium will deliver the commencement address for the seven graduates of Hartly high school.

His subject is "We're Chosen To Live In These Times".

Honor students are Miss Grace Cullender, valedictorian; Miss Dorothy Kelley, salutatorian. Miss Cullender's four-year average grade is 94. Miss Kelley's is 86.7; and Miss Nadine Young's is 86.3.

Kenneth Brown, only boy in the class, is ranked third honor student, Superintendent H. H. Wilhite said. Other graduates are Anna Lou Lankford, Emma Brown and Fayrene Henderson.

After the processional, Rev. E. L. Bowman, Baptist pastor, will give the invocation. Miss Young will give the class phophesy. Graduates will offer a song; and then Mr. Wilhite will sing. Mrs. Forrest B. Robinson will play the piano accompaniments.

Superintendent Wilhite will also present the diplomas and the recessional will close the program.

Song Convention Sunday At Conlen

The public is invited to attend the Dallam county singing convention at the Conlen school house, beginning at 10 o'clock, Sunday May 25. Dr. J. P. Powell, president, said today.

John F. Taylor, president of the Plateau association of which Dallam is a unit, is expected to attend, Dr. Powell said.

Singers are urged to bring basket lunches and spend the day, Powell said.

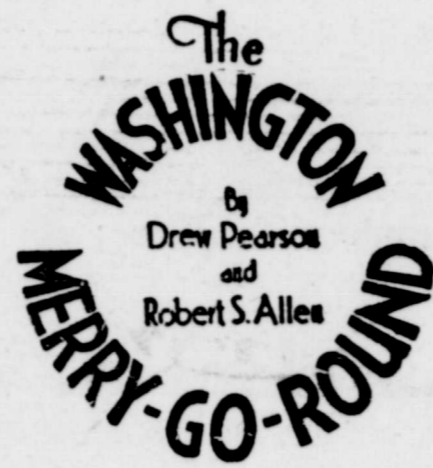

Low Bid Revealed Highway Slab

yon into Hartley county, according to an announcement late yesterday by the Texas Highway Commission in Austin.

The bid was $15,672.59. Apparently, said local highway leaders, this does not include a bridge across the Rita Blanca draw ordinarily dry but which is blocked by the slightest rise.

About two weeks ago it was blocked for several days due to heavy rains here and north and west of here. Water at times was six to eight feet deep and more than 100 yards wide.

The highway department announcement simply said low bidders on various projects, this one among them, had been determined.

WASHINGTON.—Yesterday The Washington Merry-Go-Round revealed how, through war risk insurance on shipping, the United States was supplying the Axis with large sums of money and vital military information on the movement of cargoes.

Here is another disclosure of how one American pharmaceutical company alone last year poured $2,235,000 into foreign exchange channels readily accessible to the Nazis.

The firm is the Schering Corporation of Bloomfield, N. J., manufacturers of highly complex biologicals and serums used by physicians throughout the world. One of these products is anti-shock serum, an essential for the Army Medical Corps. Justice Department sleuths, tracking down sources of German revenue in this country, have disclosed these interesting facts:

Up to 1936 the Schering firm was German-owned. But in 1936 the stock held by Germans was sold to a Swiss banking corporation known as Chefa, which now holds large interests in Schering com- (Turn to Page 4—Col. 1)

Lions-Andy James Program Tonight

A program sponsored by the Dalhart Lions club will be presented tonight at 8 o'clock at the Andy James school, C. E. Hill, Lions club extension chairman, said today.

Principal speakers will be Miss Lillie Henrichs, Dallam county home demonstration agent, and B. N. Richards.

Also taking part on the program will be Dr. E. U. Johnston, in charge of group singing; and a trio, Billy Jo French, Irma Jeanette Karnes, and Betty Steele, accompanied by Mrs. B. N. Richards.

Shrine Ceremonial Being Held Today

Eight Dalhart Shriners and one novice are attending the spring ceremonials of Khiva temple in Amarillo today, Potentate Aide M. Ervin said.

Dick Perrin of Channing is a candidate. Shriners are Arch Sneed, O. H. Finch, Gus Coots, Cecil Johnson, Herbert Peeples, J. P. Oliver, Bill McIntosh, and George Walker. Ervin was unable to attend.

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the first and third sections were held at the municipal auditorium. The second was to follow at 3:30. The Potentate's reception and dance will be tonight at the Herring Hotel.

Mrs. G. F. Callahan's Body Sent To Her Home In New York

The body of Mrs. Eugene Callahan, 54, wife of a Rock Island conductor, left Dalhart this morning on the Rock Island flyer No. 44 for her home in New York City where she was born and reared.

Mr. Callahan accompanied the body which is to arrive there Saturday. A brother and sister live in New York, and last rites will be held there over the weekend. No services were held here.

In failing health since last September, Mrs. Callahan died Thursday at 12:15 p. m. at her home at 514 Rock Island Ave. She had lived in Dalhart since 1933.

George Ward Case Is Slated Today

George Ward of Texline, charged with possessing a forged instrument, is scheduled to go to trial early this afternoon, it was learned from District Attorney J. B. Honts. Art Schlofman is defense attorney.

Case of Robert Green, charged with assault with attempt to murder, has been continued till next term, Honts said. The prosecuting witness, he said, is in Los Angeles. Letters and subpoenas have been sent to him, Honts said, but there is no way to compel a witness to return from outside the state.

Underpasses Are Being Beautified

Dalhart's $500,000 double underpass promises to be a place of beauty this summer.

And if so the credit will go largely to Joe Young, employee of the West Texas Utilities company, also a city councilman, and a number of Dalhart women who have donated flowers and trees to be set out along the sides of the underpasses.

Dalhart women who have given flowers or trees or both include Mesdames A. M. Reese, C. L. Dinwiddie, Raymond Strucker, Ludrick Jones, John Howell, O. W. Raillard, E. F. States, A. G. Stevens, Joe Young, Ford's Market and Porter Bros. Market also gave a number of flower seeds.

"I believe," said Joe Young today, "that this is a complete list of donors. I've tried to keep track of all of them, and I want them to know that I surely appreciate their help and generosity. I couldn't have got anywhere without them."

Flowers planted along the sides of the underpasses, and in the center strips include Texas bluebonnets, sweetpeas, bouncing bettys, zinnias, cosmos, nasturtiums, roses, verbenas, bachelor buttons. Trees include salt cedar and Chinese elms. Young has also planted a double Devastating strikes, paralyzing the nation's effort for defense and aid to Britain, and threat of still more strike paralysis today claimed No. 1 spot in U. S. interest.

CIO leaders, after an all-night parley with General Motors officials and federal conciliators, agreed to postpone the scheduled GMC strike from this morning to 7 a. m. tomorrow.

The CIO-UAW, however, called a strike at the Hudson Motor company, paralyzing work on $30,000,000 of defense orders.

Sixty-one GMC plants are involved in the threatened strike and hold $750,000,000 in defense orders. The CIO says men working on defense orders will not be called out, but company officials claim the defense and non-defense work cannot be segregated.

Agreement has been reached on some issues, conciliators revealed, but there is still a deadlock on the wage increase demands. CIO warned that if a strike is averted, an agreement will have to be reached by 4:10 tomorrow morning.

The 11 shipbuilding plants on the West Coast, strike-bound since Monday, today eagerly awaited word from their pleas for intervention sent to President Roosevelt, the OPM and the Navy.

The Colt's Firearm company, in Hartford, Conn., got back to work today on defense orders. It had been strike-tied two days.

The Senate today definitely sidestepped a showdown on the convoy issue. Senator Tobey, New Hampshire Republican, had intended to try to tack an anti-convoy amendment onto the bill that would empower the President to take over (Turn to Page 12, Column 3) row of Kansas sunflowers along the north end of both underpasses. A lot of our Kansas friends come through here each summer. We want them to know that we appreciate them," he said, "and think enough of them to be growing their state flower."

Sweet clover is growing abundantly in some spots along the sides of the underpasses and down the center strip. Young is letting it seed, so he can plant more along the sides. He hopes eventually to have the clover all along the dirt slopes leading down into the passes. They will stabilize the slopes, present a picture of beauty and a delightful fragrance.

Young is doing all this work just because he is interested in beautifying the underpasses and contributing that much to the attractiveness and beauty of Dalhart. Under its agreement with the State, the City is charged with a certain amount of maintenance at the underpasses, and it is furnishing some men and water to irrigate the flowers and trees.

"I'm not near through," Young said today. "A lot more women have offered to donate flowers or trees, and so a lot more of them will be set out along the underpasses."

Rudolph Hess Takes the 'High Road'

Whether:

Rudolph Hess is crazy or not
He deserted Hitler and the German people;
He knew what he was doing and why;
He had a dispute with Hitler;
Or a fuss with his wife;

We are frank to say that we don't know. We've read and heard a lot of explanations, some good, some not so good. Mr. Hess may have:

Found he was on the wrong boat;
Discovered the "handwriting on the wall";
Wanted to save his own hide;
Had an idea he could promote peace;
Been tired of seeing small countries destroyed;

And he may have known all the time that as soon as the chance offered he was going to get out of Germany and live among those who believe in the democratic way of life.

None of these things we know. Your guess is as good as ours. It will probably be a question that only time and history will answer. It may be that Mr. Churchill, Mr. Roosevelt and a few others high in government affairs already know the answer to these puzzling questions.

Leaving Mr. Hess in England with his broken ankle, we would like to mention a few things that we do know: for instance, we know that the most popular farm equipment in use in the good old U.S.A. is made by the International Harvester Company, and that this firm manufactures the most popular, most economical, easiest-operating farm tractor there is made. So you'll pardon us if we merely mention that THE FARMALL is the tractor we are talking about, and the subject is just as popular with farmers and ranchers as all this talk about Mr. Hess is with the English nobility.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 49 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Mrs. R. E. Henzlik, Hollywood, Calif., will arrive soon to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Surratt, and other relatives.

Mrs. Elwert Wadkins and brother, Leonard Potter, are in Amarillo today on business.

Billy Reed is in Dallas. He expects to begin working for an airplane factory there soon.

Mrs. Wm. Schlofman, who spent Tuesday night here with the Art Schlofman family, is now en route to her home in Boise, Idaho. Mrs. Schlofman was called to Fritch, Texas, a few weeks ago to the bedside of her brother, Willis Howze, well-known cattleman, who suffered a stroke of paralysis. On Mother's Day she went to Roswell to be with her son, Scott Schlofman, student at New Mexico Military Institute.

City Attorney Joe Bailey is visiting his brother W. G. Bailey in Albuquerque. Mr. Bailey joined his brother at the New Mexico Mthodist Conference in Santa Fe last week.

June Alexander, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Alexander, is recovering from a tonsilectomy.

A small fee will be charged and all are invited to be present. "From Harvest," published in 1938, is an interesting study of living people and sharp plot makes one breathe, according to a known critic.

panies throughout the globe. Justice agents are investigating reports that Chefa is German-controlled.

When the stock transfer took place, New Jersey Schering entered into an agreement with the parent Schering company in Germany not to engage in the export business anywhere in the world. It promised to confine its operations solely to the United States, leaving the German concern and its subsidiaries a completely free hand in other markets.

BLOCKADE CONDITIONS

Then came the war and the English blockade. The parent Schering firm in Germany no longer could ship its medicines to South America. So the New Jersey company was given "permission" to move into this field—but only on three conditions. These were as follows:

1. That the U. S. firm deal only through agents of the parent Schering firm in South America.

2. That all labels be printed so that the packages and trade marks exactly resemble those formerly supplied from Germany.

3. That the profits of this business be split, the lion's share going to the Swiss holding company.

As a result, New Jersey Schering, with a total capitalization of less than $500,000, last year turned over a net profit of $2,235,000 to Chefa.

NOTE.—Key man in the Justice Department's war industries investigation is Edward P. Hodges, brilliant young anti-trust attorney who will shortly publish his first book, "The Supreme Court and Section One of the Sherman Act."

STOLEN TONSILS

Democratic glamor girl Evie Robert (Mrs. Chip Robert on more formal occasions) was sitting in the lounge of the Mayflower hotel. Suddenly she pointed across the room.

"There's Julian Greene," she said, "and I have a notion to have him arrested. He stole my tonsils."

"We were in the same hospital having our tonsils out, and I sent my tonsils in to his room so he could see them. And I haven't got them back yet. Mine were bigger than his and he stole them."

STEEL SHORTAGE

Those "business as usual" chickens of the $1-a-year men are still coming home to roost—and to plague the progress of armament production.

Everybody now knows about the grave shortage in aluminum, due to failure to get new plants started in time. Recently this column also revealed that an 800,000-kilowatt power shortage was expected by 1942, when defense production is scheduled to reach its peak.

Latest inside word is that a similar situation is developing in steel

—a commodity vital to every phase of the defense program. A serious shortage would be disastrous to both the United States and Britain.

Like aluminum, the question of steel capacity has been a hot behind-the-scenes controversy for months. As early as last summer, some defense experts urged immediate expansion of plant facilities. The industry, backed by One Dollar Men denied that this was necessary, insisted there was ample productive capacity to meet demands.

Finally, after many weeks of argument, Gano Dunn, head of the J. G. White Engineering Corporation, was asked to make an impartial report on steel, and his findings, in effect, upheld the steel makers' contention that new plants were not needed.

However, as a hedge, he promised another report in three months to keep abreast of developments. This report is due in a few weeks, but meanwhile a lot has been happening on the steel front.

30,000,000 TONS SHORT

Dunn's report estimated steel requirements in 1942 at 91,000,000 tons. But the private estimates of OPM experts, based on the expected expansion of the defense program, now go as high as 120,000,000 tons, or about 30,000,000 tons more than Dunn's total.

Inside word in the steel industry is that Dunn will boost his first estimate to 100 or 110 million tons. But even if he does, this will still be at least 10 million short of what the OPM experts say will be needed. If they are right, the only solution will be a drastic curtailment of steel for civilian purposes.

That is what is happening in aluminum, and it may happen in steel even before 1942. Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson, chief of the Bureau of Ships, predicted this last week before the House Naval Affairs Committee.

"There is not enough steel in this country for everything," he warned bluntly. "Steel is going to have to be rationed like aluminum. That is a question that has got to be decided soon."

NOTE.—It takes from 15 to 18 months to build a blast furnace, from 8 to 12 months for an open hearth furnace, and from 4 to 6 months for an electric furnace. This does not include possible delays in securing construction materials.

STRATEGIC BUYER

The reason Cordell Hull asked Thomas Finletter to join his staff in the State Department was not because Finletter married Walter Damrosch's daughter. Hull was more interested in Finletter's qualifications to negotiate for the purchase of strategic raw materials.

More and more the State Department, working with OPM and Metals Reserve Corporation, is buying tin and rubber and manganese for the expanding defense production. More and more, these negotiations swamped the office of Herbert Feis, Hull's economic adviser, and Hull commissioned Feis to look around for a good man.

Like a big league scout looking for a good pitcher, Feis went to New York, and Hamilton Armstrong, editor of Foreign Affairs, suggested Finletter. He was a good lawyer, secretary of the Business Men's League for Roosevelt in the last campaign, and active in the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. Further, he has been secretary of the strongly pro-New Deal New York Post, since its purchase by George Backer.

Today you find Finletter in a State Department office that looks out over the White House grounds. He has a head like Bill Bullitt, with about as much hair, and he comes from Bullitt's town, Philadelphia. His father is judge of the Court of Common Pleas in Philadelphia, and so was his grandfather.

Philadelphia still knows this Finletter well, for he has been a member of the law faculty of the University of Pennsylvania since 1930. But New York was the home he left last month, when Washington called.

Gretchen Damrosch was doing her bit for the doughboys in France when Finletter, a captain in field artillery, met her at Chaumont, just after the armistice. Two years later, in 1920, when Papa Damrosch was touring Europe with the New York Symphony Orchestra, Gretchen and Tom were married in Paris.

Gretchen Damrosch Finletter is a playwright, and Broadway has seen her "Sidelight" and "The Runaway Road." To the already substantial State Department colony in Georgetown, add now the names of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Finletter and their two children.

Mrs. August Hesse and daughter, Mary Elizabeth, have returned from a motor trip to southern Texas points. In Laredo they visited their niece and cousin, Miss Louise Macon; and in San Antonio were guests of Dr. and Mrs. John Gault, Miss Macon and the Gaults are former Dalhartans.

Henry Linin, accompanied by Mrs. Linin and L. J. Bollinger, was taken to Amarillo this morning by ambulance for treatment at St. Anthony's hospital. Mr. Linin has been in a serious condition for over two weeks with stomach ulcers.

Mrs. Stella Gill has returned home after a five week stay in New York City on business and visiting friends.

Now I've got a swell German police dog for someone who lives in the country and wants a good watch dog. Its a female and fully grown and can be found at the Victor Stewart place on Denrock street. Mrs. Stewart says they are going back to th ranch soon and since they have three dogs already they can't take care of another one. So the first person that calls for it will get this valuable police dog.

Guess what today is? To you of course it's Thursday, May 15, 1941. But to me it's my fifth birthday with the Dalhart Publishing Co.

Just exactly five years ago today I started on the payroll of this business, drawing a salary for not knowing a lot of things I was supposed to know and not doing a lot of things that were expected of me. The only change the five years has brought is that I am doing less now of what I am supposed to do, and know less about more things.

At the beginning I was pretty sure I didn't know anything about the newspaper business. Now I am sure of it. At that time no one told me I was so ignorant, now they all tell me. At the beginning I was quite sure I wouldn't please everyone but I exceeded my expectations in that respect. Its a rare occasion when I please anyone. I started out to get rich like a lot of the big publishers of the country. But I didn't know then that most of them were looking high and living low.

All in all it hasn't been a bad five years for me. I doubt that there is another town in the country that would have put up with the drastic change that took place in the management of this newspaper (from John McCarty to yours truly) without raising a big howl. And I'm quite sure that not another town in the U. S. A. would have supported its newspaper as loyally as The Texan has been supported when everyone knew that the man was inexperienced, uneducated and a complete novice at the

Looking back over the five years there are many things that have changed had I known now. I would never have been satisfied to let my name alone in many instances would have been much more full of what happened in the umn. And I never would have opposed Mr. O'Daniel for nor nor criticised the New That is if I had known!

I should have known, when people said they wanted a newspaper to write the truth didn't know what they were talking about. I should have known that when people said they wanted their names in that blank little dinky sheet they meant they didn't want all the told about them, just that they were proud of. We've bawled out just as many times the folks who didn't want names in the paper for them out as we have for them in. And I should have known that there's no use trying to please everyone, or do business with one who does business with me. And I should have realized regardless of what you think contribute to the general good of the community most of the think you should have done

But this thing I know. There are no people anywhere more aggressive than folks right here in old Dalhart. No one will ever know what a thrill it has been to some friend call by telephone a wire, or drop in the office to express personal appreciation something that we have done. Certainly we've had our ups and downs as any small paper in the country but we have been so encouraged by those who believed as we did that together it has been a most profitable and profitable five years. This I shall always be indebted to readers of The Texan

Notice to Ernest Guillot: pecans you brought The Texan are excellent and much appreciated. But may I suggest the future you bring or mail that valuable direct to my home. Of course I always the "bunch" gets a fair share anything sent us but there's a difference in opinion relative to share and this can be avoided I do the dividing in private!

Perennial Dog Is Back In Gag Of What Makes News

Things have to come to this pass in Dalhart:

It's no longer news when dogs tear up a lawn—it's news when they don't.

Mrs. R. L. Duke called up this morning and said: "I have a news item. I've been trying for ten days to make a lawn, and last night was the first night dogs haven't torn it up."

Mrs. Duke is no dog-hater. She likes dogs. She has one. So does one of her neighbors. But they keep them penned, as they are supposed to do under the city ordinance.

A lot of folks will argue with you, but the facts are that the city ordinance provides that all dogs must not only be licensed, but must be kept constantly penned or on a leash.

A lot of folks think a license entitles a dog to run wild.

Incidentally, Mrs. Duke is trying out—or will try out if the dogs let her—a new type of lawn grass. It is Highland Bent. It requires attentive care while its young, but when it gets a start it's tough and can take it on the chin from then on, if grass has a chin.

It's the type of grass used on golf courses in Denver and other big cities, she said. It makes a marvelous turf. If I can get the grass established, she said, chances are the dogs won't hurt it.

Some Labor Men For Horse Racing

Fort Worth. — Return of horse racing to Texas will provide 2500 more jobs in the state, $2,500,000 additional tax return and "would be very beneficial to labor," according to a joint statement signed by several railway brotherhood officials.

The statement endorses the bill that would return horse racing to Texas, and that is now pending in the legislature.

Signers included C. E. Bailey, Switchmen's Union; C. H. West, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; A. W. Skaggs, clerks; C. F. Crave,

Powell, of the printing pressmen, also signed, as did Dewey Cornelius, president of the Trades Assembly. All the signers are of Fort Worth. Cornelius signed individually; all the others, according to Boyce House of Fort Worth, signed for their organizations.

Pasadena, Calif. (UP)—Confused by strange surroundings, a doe deer, that had wandered into the city jumped through the plate glass window of a bank, and took refuge in the elevator. As it had suffered a broken leg in this too close contact with civilization, a game warden had to be called to shoot it.

Against the blood-pounding and inspiring background of air thrills, "Power Dive" tells the story of three young people in an unusual love triangle which gives the film heartfelt romance.

Richard Arlen, a test pilot, falls in love with titian-haired Jean Parker, daughter of an airplane inventor. His kid brother, Don Castle, has lost his heart to the same girl. Jean, it appears, loves them both, and the way in which she finally has to make her choice supplies the film with some surprise and lots of charm.

One scene that alone is worth the price of admission, according to reviewers, is where the two brothers are testing a ship and making a ten-mile-a-minute power dive when the controls jam.

They can't bring the ship out of the dive. At last a parachute opens over a unconscious man—a purplish knot swelling slowly up on his jaw. The other man stays with the plane, and lands. But how? The answer to that is one of the big thrills.

"Spoiled Girl" by LUCILLE MARSH JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS

Wealthy Sam and Helen Snow object to their daughter Gabrielle's interest in handsome Peter Parsons because he has no social background. Gabrielle thinks their disapproval unfounded because her father started as a roustabout in the Oklahoma oil fields before he made his fortune in oil. She becomes angry when her mother reminds her of her Uncle Gabriel's will, which stipulates that if Gabrielle marries before she is 21, she is not to receive his money until she reaches 35. With her Boston terrier, Odd, Gabrielle breakfasts at the drugstore where Peter works as an $18-a-week soda clerk. A talented pianist, Peter occasionally makes a little money playing at dances. Gabrielle assures Peter that she really cares for him. "Just having you and a piano is heaven for me," he tells her, and that afternoon Peter got his wish when he visited Gaby during his hours off and Mrs. Snow was at a bridge. As he takes his leave, Gaby promises to meet him at 11 P.M. after he is through working. Later, Gaby's mother tells her that her father is giving them a trip to Europe. Gaby wonders why she isn't enthused when it is what she always wanted. That evening, she jumps at an invitation to a party at the home of her friend, Dorothy Mackey, for it will facilitate her meeting Peter. As eleven o'clock draws near, Gaby confides in Dot and asks her to make it a foursome. "I'll find Tony and see what he says," Dot replies.

CHAPTER FOUR

Dorothy went away laughing and Gabrielle went in search of Bob Elkhorn, her escort. She found him eating sandwiches and drinking beer in the dining room. He grinned at her, handed her a plate from the buffet, and asked with assumed gallantry: "Oh! My dear lady, and where have you been? Will you help yourself to these delicious viands, or shall I fill your plate for you?" She shook her pale yellow head, saying softly, "Not hungry, Bob. Please come out on the veranda—I have a confession to make!" Bob Elkhorn, tall, lanky, not very good looking, but extremely popular, silently set his plate on the table and turned to accompany her. Out on the almost dark porch, Bob stood very close to her. "What's on your mind, sugar?" he asked gruffly. "Bob—" her voice was hesitant; she knew Bob thought a great deal of her; he had told her so many times—"I'm sorry, and I know I shouldn't have let you come and get me—" Again she stopped and gazed up at him helplessly. "Sorry about what, sugar?" Bob asked softly, placing a hand on her shoulder, and smiling down on her encouragingly. "Well, you see, Bob, I had a previous date for tonight—late. I should have told you, of course," she said quickly, staring up at him. "But Dot insisted I come over, and—I wanted to, Bob." As was usual, Gabrielle Snow kept friends in spite of what she did to them. Bob took a deep breath, then said gently: "Let you off this time, sugar, if you'll give me a date Sunday." Gabrielle considered. Well why not, she thought. No need to argue with him tonight, and besides, it was almost time for Peter. Better agree with him now and think up an excuse later. With Gabrielle, tomorrow was always another day. "Okay, Bob," she said, smiling up at him. "Pardon me," said a voice that made Gabrielle jump, "but is this Miss Dorothy Mackey's home?" "Peter!" exclaimed Gabrielle. She turned and quickly introduced Peter to Bob. They shook hands, murmuring something polite, but the air was not so comfortably cool on the veranda as it had been only a moment before. Bob excused himself and went inside. Gabrielle turned to Peter with, "Oh, darling, I managed it!" "Managed what?" inquired Peter, crouching.

"To meet you, silly!" "You managed to meet someone else first, I see!" "Peter Parsons! Are you jealous?" His arms shot out instantly, pulling her to him. "You know darned well I'm jealous!" he said, his lips against hers so hard they hurt her. "Did that fellow have his arms around you, Gaby? And—had he kissed you?" "No, no, Peter! He only had his hand on my shoulder." She proceeded to tell him how she had gotten away to meet him. "I had to explain to Bob, Peter," she finished. "After all, he did bring me here."

"Well, he won't bring you here or that, Peter," she said gayly. "I don't eat much and we wouldn't need a large place." Peter held her close. Only a little past 20, he wasn't sure but what they might be able to get along on what he made himself. They would have each other and that would be everything! "Wouldn't your folks raise Cain?" he inquired. "More than likely," laughed Gabrielle. "They most generally do!" "Gaby?" Peter's voice was eager, entreating. "Gaby, you do love me? You wouldn't mind being poor? I'll make lots of money some day—I know!" With Peter's strong arms around anywhere else from now on," vowed Peter gravely. "How do you know?" laughed Gabrielle, teasingly. He did love her, the big darling! "Because you're going to be engaged to me, or else I won't be seeing you any more," he replied quietly. "Goodness, Peter! Is this a proposal?" "I'm asking you to be mine, Gaby. Forever and ever!" "Oh, Peter." Her voice was only a whisper. Not many minutes later they were comfortably settled in the rumble seat of Tony's roadster. Gabrielle was glad it was a rumble seat because they had almost as much privacy as though they'd been alone. Peter was murmuring into her ear, "I'll get with a really good orchestra, Gaby, and then we can be married!" It sounded delightful to Gabrielle. Even better than going to Europe. "Peter, in less than two weeks I'm going with mother to Europe." "To Europe!" echoed Peter; then said, "Oh, Gaby, you can't do that! I couldn't let you go now." "I'm afraid I'll have to, Peter," Gabrielle went on, thoroughly enjoying the trend of the conversation. Peter's arm tightened around her and they rode along for almost a mile before he spoke. "Gaby—" he hesitated—"I'd like to marry you tonight; but you know that, don't you? I only have $18 a week except when I get to play with Winter's orchestra. Well," he sighed, "we couldn't live on that I suppose." Gabrielle hadn't been really serious when she'd said she'd have to go to Europe. She was, however, amused and interested with the idea of being married. Everything had been so dull in Tecumtelalla until Peter had arrived.

her, his firmly molded red lips so close to hers, the dimple in his chin showing plainly in the moonlight, Gabrielle was thrilled. . . . "Say you love me enough, Gaby!" Peter urged breathlessly. "Oh, I do, Peter!" cried Gabrielle, her low voice husky. "Let's be married tonight, sweetheart," begged the boy impulsively. "Let's tell Tony and Dot now." Gabrielle giggled. "It would be fun," she agreed. "It will be more than that," announced Peter gravely. "I will be yours and you will be mine—forever and ever, Gaby." They were interrupted abruptly by the sudden stopping of the car. Appearing at the side of the rumble seat, Tony inquired: "Where do you two want to go? New Iris?" "Meet the future Mrs. Parsons," said Peter proudly. "Would you like to be married in New Iris, Gaby?" "Say—what is this?" cried Tony. "Hey, Dottie! These kids have gone wild with the moonlight, or something!" "Moonlight and Gaby," sang Peter, improvising in his warm, sweet barytone. "What is it?" asked Dorothy, coming around to the rear of the car suddenly. "Let's eat; I'm hungry." "Meet the future Mrs. Parsons," repeated Peter. "How do you do," said Dorothy flatly. "Now, how about New Iris and food?" "But, we're being married to-night," giggled Gabrielle. "So are Tony and I," replied Dorothy. "Don't joke about it, Dottie," pleaded Tony. "I've just asked her for the thirty-third time," he explained.

Hess Flight Proves Planes' Peace Power

(By ROGER BABSON)

Babson Park, Mass., May 15.—The Hess story reminds me of what I was told when in Belgium before the World War II broke. I was standing in the public square at Brussels watching the soldiers kiss their wives and sweethearts goodbye as they left for the front. When I commented as to their earnestness, a man at my side remarked: "Yes, they are earnest, but they are only the infantry. Infantry will not count in this war. The war will be STOPPED and the war will be great events are happening in Europe, or Africa, or on the seas; we are apt to forget that the world's fliers can be as potent in forcing peace as in waging war. Then the Hess incident brings us up with a sudden jerk, makes us rub our eyes and wonder!

Watch the Airplanes

Armies are helpless to desert except with the cooperation of their officers. Members of the navy can do little by themselves, but are dependent upon their comrades. Armies must be fed; battleships must be fueled; and even lone submarines are useless without torpedoes. The present system of warfare has been built up through the centuries under centralized control whereby the soldiers and sailors are mere helpless pawns. The idea of a "democratic" army or navy is beyond imagination! It never did exist; it does not now exist; and it never can exist! With fliers, however, the situation is entirely different. Each plane is Lord unto itself and is free to go anywhere it wishes and land anywhere it desires. There can be a truly democratic air force.

Confidential information has for some time been coming through that airmen on both sides have been giving up voluntarily to the enemy. This was the real reason for the Italian collapse. The Quakers have some very interesting stories to tell along these lines. They, who do not believe in war, have especially been on the lookout for fliers who land on enemy soil, being tired of the war and its brutalities. Their motto is: "Be kindly to everyone, but especially to the enemy fliers. They may become the world's peacemakers."

Camp Blanding Story

When visiting Camp Blanding the past winter, I said to an officer: "I suppose all these men now in training will some day make up a new and powerful American Legion." To this he replied: "They will probably form into an American Legion, but they will not have much influence. The FLIERS will be the dominating force after World War II. They will have their own organization; will continue to have their own planes, and—in an emergency—could bring about or squelch any revolution. It may well be that these fliers, which we are now training to fight the Germans, will some day "rule over us."

The bigger an army is, the more dependent it is upon supplies; the bigger a navy is, the more dependent it is on bases; but the bigger an air force is, the less dependent it is upon anything! Lindbergh talks of the 50,000 or more planes which Hitler has; but you note that Hitler does not do any bragging about these numbers. He well realizes that his risk of desertion increases as the number of his airplanes; yes—some mathematicians claim that they will increase as the SQUARE of the number of his airplanes.

How Long Will the War Last?
The military men with whom I talk appear to look forward to a long, drawn-out war, extending from five to ten years. The navy men, who are "rearing to go," talk of a war of from three to five years. When, however, I talk with officers of the air force, I find that they look forward to a very much shorter war. They visualize the tremendous destruction possible to both sides with a constant increasing force of bombers. A prominent officer of the States Air Corps gives me the date of November, 1941, the air force of both sides "Let's quit. This ruthless action has gone on far enough; we owe something to our children."

So much space and time by the newspapers and radio to WAR news that it is well some thought to PEACE now. It is wise to be war-minded at the moment, but let us not get war-crazy. It is a point to talk more with members of the air force and military and naval officers. The latter are still living in the past and are pessimists; but the force men are living in the present and are optimists. It is a good idea to remember that the air force is made up of men of high character and of greater intelligence than are the men in the Army or the Navy.

Be Prepared for Anything
We hear much today about preparedness. I am for preparedness, but for preparedness in every sense of the word. We should prepare for peace, but we should also prepare for war. We should look up to the heavens. We should be realistic, but we should also be idealistic. What the real truth is, I do not know. Hess may be a fake or another trick. Hess may be "crazy" as Galileo was labeled "crazy" when he announced that the world revolved around the sun. Luther was labeled "crazy" when he deserted the man church, while S. Joan was labeled "ultra-crazy" when she turned the tide in France. Many of my friends think this war ultimately will be a whole world a lot of good. I all have our strong points and weak points. I confess the weakness is the belief that the world always has been growing better and is growing better today, even now. It is true the planes have developed into weapons for destruction; but they will also serve as mammoth weapons for peace. Righteousness and mercy are far more powerful than armies, battleships, and marines. Therefore, when we think of our lives, or our businesses, or our investments during 1941, let us mind that the war may be over in 1942. There can be 1000 or more Hesses! This is something Lindbergh and the other peacemakers seem to forget.

Better than 25 per cent of all Retail Sales in Dalhart are made by Food Stores* . . . Roughly, grocers account for approximately 25 per cent of Local Retail Newspaper Advertising. Grocers lead the field as a classification in consistency of advertising and of purpose.

Dalhart Grocers More Than Hold Their Own Against Outside Competition!

The Grocery Classification is the only one which leads the classification in a nearby city in average sales per store. Dalhart Food Stores average almost 10 per cent greater sales per store than the food stores of the city mentioned.* (The drug store classification is second—only 8 per cent below the average per store in the same city.)

There must be reasons for Dalhart Food and Drug Stores' splendid comparative showing! Consistency of advertising by the classifications as a whole—along with their modern retail methods—undoubtedly help explain the answer.

IN THE ARMY NOW!
WHY AND HOW
By S. T. Williamson

When Harry, mother's pet and neighborhood nuisance was drafted and went to camp, all of us looked forward to a rest. We thought his mother would have something else to talk about aside from Harry. But we forgot about the United States mails. "Ought to be a law against reading aloud some one else's letters," said Mr. Conover. "Censorship can't come too soon," observed Mr. Spaulding. "The Army ought to keep him too busy to write," declared Mr. Edwards.

You gathered from his mother that Harry didn't approve of the Army. "Has to get up at 5:45," said Mrs. Conover. "That used to be his bedtime," said Mrs. Spaulding. "And no cream; nothing but milk in his coffee," said Mrs. Edwards. "Nuts!" said Messrs. Conover, Spaulding, and Mrs. Edwards.

Harry, said his mother, had no privacy. "His blankets are too rough," said Mrs. Conover. "His uniform doesn't fit," said Mrs. Spaulding. "All the boys in the barracks sleep in their underwear," said Mrs. Edwards. "Whoops!" said Messrs. Conover, Spaulding, and Edwards.

Harry wrote his mother that the Army was inefficient. It made soldiers make up their own beds. "Tst! tst!" said Mr. Conover. On kitchen police he had to scrub the floor, and then they made him do it over again. "I don't see how he stands it," said Mr. Spaulding. Officers didn't ask the men for suggestions. "Well, what do you know!" said Mr. Edwards. One of the sergeants was extremely unpleasant. "Boy how!" said Mr. Conover. "I'd like to be," interrupted Mr. Spaulding. "That sergeant," said Mr. Edwards.

Now for some mail.

C. R. E., West Brownsville, Penna. I would like to know if you could give me certain information. Who could I write to, to find a man in Panama Canal. It's very important that I locate him.

Inquire the man's address of adjutant General's office, War Department, Washington, D. C., or Headquarters Canal Zone Department, Quarry Heights, Canal Zone.

F. C. K., Donora, Penna. How many teeth are required in order to pass the test? How many molars? I have six chewing teeth, will I be eligible?

Twelve teeth; molars, three upper, three lower; incisors, three upper, three lower. If your six chewing teeth fulfill these requirements you might be eligible.

Dr. Victor Moore Ill At Fort Worth

Dr. and Mrs. Victor Moore, who have been attending the State Medical Association meeting in Fort Worth, will not return today as scheduled, it was learned this morning.

Dr. Moore is ill with influenza at a hotel in Fort Worth and will not be able to return home until Saturday or Sunday, his office reported.

"MEET JOHN DOE."

"DEAR BILL:

"I don't think I care to go out with you again.

"Most of last evening was wonderful, Bill. But the drive home spoiled everything.

"You behaved so nicely and acted so considerably up till the minute you got your hands on the wheel and we headed home. Then you suddenly were transformed into what seemed to me a bad-mannered and irresponsible gorilla.

"You yelled at people who had just as much right on the road as you. You disregarded white lines and signs put there for your safety. You scared my wits out by going at an absurd speed.

"That might have been considered smart once upon a time, but I assure you it's silly and childish today. Call me stuffy and prudish if you like. But I don't relish dying quite yet.

"Nor do I want to get in one of those accidents where I am just hurt. I have sense enough to realize that you and the rest of the boys wouldn't be ringing my phone if my face and body were inexpertly rearranged by a smash-up in your automobile.

"So I don't think I'll go out with you again, Bill. At least not until you've grown up enough to behave decently as a driver, and not until you realize that you owe a certain responsibility to the person you ask to share your car with you."

Formal Mission Opening To Use 'Meet John Doe'

While the Mission theater is reopening tomorrow, after being closed ten days for complete remodeling, its formal opening will not be till Sunday, Manager J. C. Parker reminded today.

The show tomorrow and Saturday is "Power Dive," a thrilling air yarn, and timely because of the current air race among the world's nations.

But the show for the formal opening is "Meet John Doe", produced by Frank Capra who gave the world "Mr. Deeds Goes To Town", "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington", "Lady for a Day" and others.

Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck are starred, along with Edward Arnold, Walter Brennan, Spring Byington, James Gleason and Gene Lockhart.

Parity Bill Veto Feared; Wheat On Markets Decline

Wheat in Chicago reacted strongly today to persistent Washington rumors that President Roosevelt may veto the farm parity bill which the Senate passed yesterday 75-2.

The House passed it the day before and wheat jumped up four cents—within one cent of the advance limit for one day.

The measure is designed to pour millions of dollars onto American farms, proponents said, through government loans pegging the price of wheat, cotton, corn and possibly other commodities. It permits loans at 85 per cent of parity prices.

Wheat dived nearly 2 cents today; May 99 5-8. Corn was off be-

Walter B. Pitkin Book Is Offered Graduates Free

"How to Get a Good Job and Keep It". Walter B. Pitkin tells in his little 29-page booklet of that same name.

It is written in Prof. Pitkin's clear, concise and vividly interesting style. It can be read in 15 to 20 minutes. Yet it is packed with just the information that will be most helpful to a high school graduate.

And the best part of it all is that this book can be had for the asking.

Mays Ervin, Dalhart jeweler, has arranged for enough of these books for every Dalhart high school graduate. All they have to do is call at his store for them.

He is giving them in cooperation with the Gruen Watch Co., Time Hill, Cincinnati, Ohio, which he represents.

Prof. Pitkin, one of America's foremost educators and writers, tells graduates "How to hunt for a job"; "How to make a good impression"; "How to determine what jobs you are fitted for"; "some simple but effective rules of health"; "How to keep a job"; "How to use your leisure pleasureably and profitably"; and "How to recognize and grasp opportunities".

Square Dance Club Meeting Tomorrow

The Dalhart Square Dance club will meet again tomorrow night from 8:30 to 11:30 at the Legion hall. President S. F. Weaver reminded today.

The club, he said, will meet only once more on Friday, after tomorrow. Subsequent meetings will be held Wednesday night. The three Friday night meetings were held to avoid conflict with the dancing lessons being given at the Country club.

Only old-time square and country dancing is done at the club meetings, Weaver said, and only members and out-of-town guests may attend. Special records, all of old-time music, are played over amplifiers and someone calls the dances.

To add authentic color to the affair many women are making long cotton print dresses, like were worn a half century ago, and men are wearing cowboy or Western attire. These clothes are encouraged, he said, but not required.

Presbyterian Picnic Is Largely Attended

Approximately 50 members of the Presbyterian Sunday school and church ate picnic lunch at Rita Blanca lake last night, Rev. C. C. Dooley, pastor, said today.

Important NYA Meeting Tonight

Persons interested in establishing an NYA project in Dalhart may be able to achieve that goal if they will join in a meeting tonight at 8:00 in the county court room, chamber of commerce officials reminded this morning.

A similar meeting, they said, was held several weeks ago. More than 50 attended and a program was launched that now appears to be making definite headway.

W. L. Cotton, the officials said, has been asked to take charge of the meeting. And everyone interested—youths who may seek NYA employment, and adults who want to see a project established—are urged to attend.

O'Daniel Yet May Enter Senate Race

Austin—The legislature today acted on the measure prohibiting appropriations in excess of probable revenues, an action Gov. O'Daniel had requested as an aid to helping him decide whether to enter the special U. S. Senate race.

Unconfirmed reports circulated yesterday that O'Daniel would announce for the post early next week or the week following.

"Bone Dry" Morris opened his campaign at Abilene today and set the prohibition issue up alongside pensions, national defense and Hal Collin's efforts to replace all Texas pallets with mattresses.

Congressman Lyndon Johnson still nurses a sore throat; and Congressman Martin Dies clicked off three more speeches on his self-imposed list of 150 before the June 28 balloting.

Mrs. L. T. Williams has been ill for several days with an attack of flu. Williams is recovering from an attack.

J. E. Barnhill has joined his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Barnhill in Austin. The trio will return to Dalhart within a few days.

foreign ships in U. S. harbors and use them as the sees fit.

The ship seizure bill may pass today. Administration spokesmen have said that the President will not take German and Italian ships and turn them over to the British because it would be an unnecessary provocative act.

Tobey emphasized though that the issue is not dead, but indicated he would wait for the administration to make the first move.

Senator Wheeler of Montana, who sees eye to eye with Chas. Lindbergh and is a leading isolationist, today urged President Roosevelt to take advantage of the Rudolph Hess incident to propose a negotiated peace.

Most important European development today came just before noon. A bulletin from Vichy quoted Premier Marshal Petain as saying France must collaborate closely with Germany in both Europe and Africa.

England has feared all along that Germany was pressuring France into some such agreement. The announcement gave ominous point to reports that Germans in considerable numbers are going into French Syria. There had been hopeful speculation that they were there merely on routine business in connection with the German-French armistice.

Foreign Minister Eden in London today charged that France is permitting Nazis to use Syrian air bases to strike at Britain in Iraq. This is, he said, a clear breach of the Nazi-French armistice.

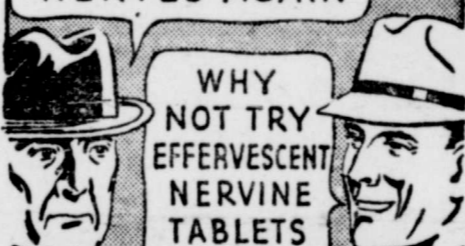

Iraq reportedly is still asking German aid, and today actively sought help from Iran. Afghanistan reportedly told Britain she would support Iraq if the Iraq-British trouble is not quickly settled.

DNB, Nazi news agency, said today that Britain is landing more troops at the captured Iraq port of Basra.

Britain and Germany are still sparring for advantages in the propaganda war based on flight of Rudolph Hess, No. 3 Nazi, from Germany to a landing in Scotland.

Germany still says he was deluded and sought the Duke of Hamilton in an effort to start an effective peace move. Britain revealed that three months ago Hess had written the Duke urging a cessation of "this lunacy of war."

The Duke, on advice of British authorities, did not reply.

The British government today indicated its belief that the Hess flight was made with Hitler's knowledge. The British Labor leader strongly condemned Hess as a murderer, and said he would never negotiate with him.

Churchill delayed his report to Commons on Hess, apparently in an effort to string Hitler's nerves tighter. British claim Hess given them valuable military information.

However, part of the British still hold that Hess had to Reich.
