TWO GUNMEN GET $50 LOST AT MIDNIGHT

The West End lunch room, in front of the Prairie Oil and Gas company's offices on the Blackwell road, was held up by two armed bandits Friday night, and the contents of the cash register and the money belonging to the cook and waiter taken at the point of a gun. About $50 was secured, according to A. P. Erwin, the owner of the restaurant.

The robbery took place at about midnight. The bandits came into the restaurant about ten o'clock and ate supper, according to Mr. Erwin's story. He said one of them was about five feet eight inches in height and probably thirty years old, and the other one was slim and tall and was about twenty-seven. The two watched every movement of the men in the restaurant, Erwin said, and finally went outside the door where they talked awhile. About midnight they came in again and covered the restaurant employees with their sixshooters and made them hold up their hands and turn their faces to the wall. Then the bandits looted the till and went through the pockets of the waiter and cook. After they had secured the money they stepped out into the darkness and disappeared.

1,500 DISABLED SOLDIERS TO BE REHABILITATED

DALLAS, TEXAS, Sept. 6.—Fifteen hundred disabled soldiers, sailors and marines will enter schools this year for vocational training under the supervision of the federal board for vocational education, W. F. Doughty, vocational officer announced. These soldiers are suffering with major handicaps and they will begin their courses this month. Applications from men suffering only minor handicaps for vocational education aid will be considered as soon as possible, Mr. Doughty said.

Nearly twenty per cent of the applications for aid made through the board have been rejected. Mr. Doughty issued a statement explaining the process of sifting applications. It has been found on examination by medical officers, he said, that many of those applying for aid were not incapacitated for their pre-war vocations, though technically they were suffering from handicaps. The musician who lost a finger is entitled to first consideration, in the opinion of the board, because he is handicapped in his means of earning a livelihood, but a lawyer, for instance, who was similarly afflicted is not entitled to aid because such handicap does not incapacitate him from his profession. The Medical Board is composed of five physicians. Mr. Doughty said, and every effort was made to give each applicant a just decision.

SENIOR CAPTAIN HANSON BEARS PROUD RECORD

AUSTIN, TEXAS, Sept. 6.—W. M. Hanson, senior captain of the Texas rangers, who has been suggested for appointment as a special investigator for the sub-committee of the foreign relations committee of the United States senate in their investigation of Mexican affairs, has a career which is woven through the history of Mexico and the border.

Captain Hanson was born in 1866 in Gonzales county, Texas. In 1881 he was appointed deputy sheriff of that county under Dan Price, a famous Texas sheriff. He served as deputy sheriff there until 1895, when he was appointed deputy United States marshal in the western district of Texas. In 1902, when the southern district was created, he was appointed United States marshal for that district. He served in that capacity until 1906 when he resigned and went into Mexico.

He came out of Mexico "on the toe of Caballero's boot," as he expresses it, in 1914, and served as special agent for the S. A. U. & G. Railroad which was under the administration of Judge Duval West as receiver.

In January, he came to the ranger force as a captain and investigator. When the law reorganizing the ranger force went into effect last June, he was made senior captain. Captain Hanson says that his holdings in Mexico at the time he was driven out aggregated $400,000, and that he has never recovered a cent. He was held fourteen days under a death sentence on a charge of being in favor of intervention and an alleged Huerta spy. He was then escorted to the border and told that he would be shot if he entered Mexico again. When he was arrested, Captain Hanson said he had ten cars of oranges on one of his ranches ready for shipment. He also owned an interest in an oil company in Tampico and several large bodies of land.

MISSISSIPPI IS WANTING NEGRO TO COME BACK

MEMPHIS, TENN., Sept. 6.—Mississippi is organizing a movement for returning to the South hundreds of negro families that have come north in the last few years and who now are anxious to get back to Dixie. Mississippians need their help to handle a big cotton crop and to do other work.

It is proposed to establish offices in Chicago, St. Louis, and later in other cities where there are many Southern negroes; to place competent men in charge of each office and to make it a clearing house in the handling of negroes who really want to come back to Mississippi.

Definite work will be under way before winter, when hundreds of negro families accustomed to the mild winters of Mississippi will be anxious to return south but will be without means of getting back, in many instances.

It has been estimated that a 14,000,000 bale cotton crop will require 2,000,000 pickers during the picking season of from 90 to 100 days. Also it is asserted that the South must each year recruit 90,000 pickers to handle her crop. With the present dearth of help, consequently, good wages and an offer by many of the big planters to pay transportation back to the south have resulted.

ROAD BOND ISSUE WILL BE SURE GO

Special to The Times.

CISCO, Sept. 6.—With the heaviest permanent population in the west part of Eastland county standing solidly behind the county commissioners and the executive committee in the matter of voting $4,500,000 on Sept. 27 for the purpose of constructing permanent roads in Eastland county, the success of the measure is largely assured.

Included in the good roads system, of which a map is now being prepared, will be approximately 200 miles of hard surfaced roads capable of standing up under the enormous truck traffic which they are subjected to. The county judge, county commissioners and the executive committee have signed a statement in which they pledge themselves to the citizens of Eastland county to secure 100 cents' value for every dollar expended in this large project. This statement, together with a map showing the roads that are to be built, width and character of construction, will be distributed broadcast over the county, leaving nothing to guess-work for the voters. It is estimated that it will take two years to complete this work and the great quantities of raw material adjacent to a great amount of this improvement will permit the work being done at less price than in many other Texas communities.

LAKE DEATHS INCREASED IN LATE MONTHS

THE WORLD'S GUARANTEE

In the early days of the United States when it consisted of the original thirteen states opposition to the adoption of the constitution, still triumphant today, was quite as ardent and militant as the opposition we visualize today against the ratification of the peace treaty and the league of nations.

This fact tends to prove that no great and worthy movement of moment but has its enemies as well as its friends. So much distorting of facts about the covenant has been going on that the minds of thousands formerly pledged to it have been poisoned so that they forget that its purposes are the most lofty and genuine that could be conceived by peoples of the earth to eliminate carnage and set the world on the road to perpetual prosperity.

While no one has presumed to declare the covenant flawless, it contains a sufficient number of practicable features to eliminate the dangers and perils of great wars so that substantial support of the unbiased is readily granted. No one doubts that the league of nations as constituted under the covenant will be called upon at times, especially during the first years, to exert its military jurisdiction. This is the point against which the strongest attacks are being made. But these scolding critics fail to appreciate the wonderful transforming power which the league will have, and no one can doubt that the benefits which will accrue to the world through its organization and exercise of prerogatives will reclaim the earth from going re-enactments of the diabolical conflicts of which the German was a replica.

The question is whether the nations of the earth will be benefited without the league than with it. We can deny the benefits of havations combining to preserve the peace of the world. We know that there is no deterrent to war, strifes of the most disastrous type will re-appear, uninfluenced by a league of nations will seek aggrandizement, territorial robberies. The question of right should be dominant over everything else. If it is right that a world war be despatched in its inception by America taking its part in sending its proportionate force of military to Europe to supplement the troops of other nations in putting a quietus to it, the wisdom of such commendatory action should be readily apparent. This bugaboo that has gotten afloat throughout the land that America would be continually sending punitive and expeditionary forces across the water against the small nations which have become obstreperous, is perfectly absurd. With a combination like the league of nations petty kingdoms and independent entities would never judiciously pick a fight even among themselves because of the transcendent knowledge that such impropriety would meet with instant rebuff through the persuasive military forces of the great nations.

A ten-year-old kid will not become obstreperous in the presence of five or six strapping big men after having been sternly warned of consequences of a liberal chastisement by each. The same thing is applicable to the miniature nations of Europe which would essay to bring about an embroilment over boundaries and kindred internal controversies. And even before we should be so materialistic in mind as to suspect such disorders of this nature, we should remember that the league of nations is constituted with a powerful tribunal which would quickly and effectually solve the little differences outcropping in these countries.

The most pronounced enemies of the league of nations are for the most part politically opposed to Wilson. Many of them believe in compulsory military service, giant navies and huge munitions plants and the fabrication of implements of human destruction. The friends of the league are high-minded, Christian gentlemen who want to see eternal peace established in the world and want to put into practical application the Golden Rule of government, which is so effectual in the lives of individuals and which can be made as practicable and effectual in the lives of nations. The extent to which the nationals of a government are willing to go to concede to the nationals of another nation their points when right, to that extent will the league of nations covenant become the grandest and most cherished of all charters for the peace and prosperity of all the peoples of the world.
