To Our Subscribers

There are many things an editor of a weekly paper has to be thankful for. One is for the kindness of the ones who send in items of news which enable him to produce a better and newsier paper and the other is that the majority of his subscribers pay their subscriptions when they are due.

Since establishing the News we have that "grand and glorious feeling" of having many subscribers come in voluntarily and pay up, and in advance. Others, we feel have neglected to do this because their attention has not been called to the fact that they were in arrears.

This is the second issue of the News on the third year and all subscriptions, that have not been paid, since at the time the paper was established are due.

Mullican Test Standing 180 Feet in Oil

With oil standing 180 feet in the hole, it is believed by many experienced oil men who have visited the Mullican well, located five miles east of Littlefield, will make a good producer.

The well is 430 feet deep. Casing has been set in the hole, a test pipe run down and analysis of the oil has been made. The test showed 38 gravity at 80 degrees. Hundreds of people have visited the well during the past two weeks, many of them well known oil operators, and all come away with the idea it is probable another oil field will be opened along the east side of Lamb county.

Plans are now being perfected for the drilling of an offset well, to be located about 800 feet from the original test well. This well will probably be carried to a greater depth, as it is the expressed idea of many visiting oil operators that other strata of oil bearing sand will be found, one at about 700 feet another between 1200 and 1400 feet.

The original contract for drilling of the Mullican well, as made by judge Clark Mullican and relatives, was for a 3,500 foot hole, and they have all expressed great surprise that oil in paying quantities should have been struck at such shallow depth. The report has it that Mullican has contracted for the drilling of two other wells on the ranch.

This well is located in section 21 block B, in the R. M. Thompson survey. It was drilled by the Engle King Drilling company. Leases in that vicinity are reported to be turning at from $25 to $50 per acre, and excitement is running high throughout that section. The drillers have a lease on 6,400 acres in the drilling block. Interest has also spread to Littlefield, resulting in several of the local lease holders owning property north and east of Littlefield taking their leases off the market or else raising the prices of them.

Judge Mullican states that he and his partners in the enterprise have full control of it and there will be no stopping until full development of the property has been made.

Tex. Thornton, of Amarillo, has purchased the interests of the Engle King Drilling company, in the well, according to a report carried in the Sunday Amarillo News, the purchase price being named at $59,000.00. Thornton is one of the Panhandle's oil field's most picturesque characters whose knowledge and tact in handling nitroglycerine has not only helped to swell the field's production but has aided in putting out innumerable oil and gas fires.

The sale of the Engle King well and blocks was made with John Kegan, of Tulsa, president of the contracting firm, which had a mineral lease from the Mullican estate.

Thornton plans to take over the Engle King drilling company and to start the No. 2 Mullican,

Don't Be Mislead

Quite a great deal of interest has been aroused in this territory with regard to caponizing young roosters, or roosters just before they become of frying size. Capons are profitable, and bring as much as three times the amount of an ordinary rooster, or to state the amount that capons sold for this spring to the Simmons Produce of Sudan, was an average of $2.00 a head. The market was lower at the time these capons were sold than it was afterwards. These capons were sold in March and the latter part of April capons were quoted on the New York market at 48 cents per pound. A car load of capons were shipped out of a neighboring town the latter part of April and were sold on the New York market.

We have written for a statement from the Chamber of Commerce of this neighboring town, and we will be able to give you a definite statement as to the amount per pound that the car load brought.

Statements to the contrary are misleading and are not based on facts. Why sell a fryer of two pounds in weight at 35 cents a head when a capon will bring from $2.00 to 4.00 at ten months old.

located a few hundred feet north west of the No. 1, and in section 25, same block and survey. The cellar was dug last Friday and the Axtell drilling machine moved to new location Saturday. This is the machine used in drilling the Mullican No. 1 well, the first oil well in Hale county.—Littlefield Leader.

He Ran A Newspaper

A preacher at the close of one of his sermons said: "Let's all in the house who are paying their debts stand up." Presently every man, woman and child with one exception rose to their feet.

The preacher seated them and said: "Now every man not paying his debts stand up." The exception, a care-worn, hungry-looking individual, clothed in his last summer's suits, assumed a perpendicular position.

"How is it, my friend," asked the minister, "you are the only man not able to meet his obligations?"

"I run a newspaper," he answered, "and the brethren here who stood up are my subscribers and—"

"Let us pray," exclaimed the minister.

The Need of Good

Dairy Cows

The farmers of the Sudan Community are recognizing the need of more and better livestock. The second bull circle was formed in this Community. It is the desire of many that more circles be formed, and that some good heifers and cows be introduced in this section. There are no other kind of livestock that will help to diversify farming, as the dairy cows. There is nothing finer for pigs and chickens than milk: Cream seldom drops below profitable productions.

The following men are in the circle just formed, R. E. Thomas A. D. Newman Wm. H. Walker, W. H. Burrow, U. J. Burrow, J. B. Wingo, and B. G. DeLoach. We need more organizations of this kind, as it puts the cost of good breeding stock in the reach of all.

Mrs. J. P. Ernest of near Bledsoe was a pleasant visitor at the News office, Tuesday. Mrs. Ernest has our thanks for the renewal of her subscription to this paper.

FACE FAILURE WHEN FETTERED BY FEAR

Lack of Confidence Great Handicap in Life.

"I'm afraid I can't," said one man, when asked to do something unusual, and a trifle difficult. He tried—and failed.

A domestic servant asked to carry a tray of ornaments downstairs, murmured: "I'm afraid I'll drop them." And she did.

Said a young man, also asked to do something a little out of the ordinary: "I fear I can't manage it." He tried—and failed.

Look at those three statements—quite ordinary ones—and then split them in halves.

I'm afraid—I can't.

I'm afraid—I'll drop them.

I fear—I can't manage it.

Do you see the startling significance? On the right hand are the results, self-stated. They sprang from the left-hand cause. Fear, with its self-hypnotizing and demoralizing effect on mind and muscle, had made failure certain.

Insert a "so" between the split sentences ("I'm afraid, so I can't"; "I'm afraid, so I'll drop them"; "I fear, so I can't manage it") and the significance becomes quite clear. Failure is practically asked for. Of a hundred tasks, how many would be accomplished if "I'm afraid" prefaced each?

The other day a professor of industrial psychology said, and with truth, that amongst servants it was the fear of breakage that led to breakage. The fear affected the nerves, and they in turn spoiled the grip and made the muscles useless.

Have you ever noticed the curious "deadening effect of your legs and feet when, hurrying for a train, you've muttered to yourself: "I'm afraid I'll miss it"? That's the muscular result of mental fear.

The moral is obvious. We shall do nothing worth doing—no deed that may bring fame, honor, money, position, or advancement—if we put ourselves into a state of fear with that fatal "I'm afraid."

Find Rare Maori Relics

A Maori burial cave of great antiquity and importance has been found in wild mountainous country in Auckland province, Australia. It contained many hundreds of skeletons in an excellent state of preservation. The discoverers were lowered into the cave by ropes. They were met by an eerie sight as the candlelight flickered on the grinning skulls of the dead warriors of funny generations. The most noticeable find was the mummified body of a chieftainess of high rank, indicating that the preservation of the dead was a skilled art among even the very ancient Maoris. Rare relics were also found in the cave. A noticeable point was the fact that the teeth in skulls hundreds

First Known Envelope Is in British Museum

The first envelope of which there is any knowledge inclosed a letter sent May 16, 1696, by Sir William Turnbull to Sir James Ogilvie. The epistle dealt with English affairs of state, and, with its covering, is carefully preserved in the British museum.

At that period, and long afterward, it was the general custom to fold letters and seal them with wafers of wax. As a matter of fact, it is still fashionable to use sealing wax on the flaps of envelopes. Many people now living can remember the time when the old method of sealing was still in use.

A reference to a "letter with an envelope" is found in a poem written by Dean Swift in 1726.

Tree Centuries Old

In northern Utah, beside the Logan Canyon highway, is to be seen what is believed to be the oldest juniper tree in the world. Scientists state that the tree is not less than 3,000 years old. Its diameter, breast high, is seven feet six inches and the height is 42 feet. Only a few hundred years ago the tree was growing as rapidly as at any time during its life. A section of the heartwood shows that 209 years were required for the first two inches of thickness, indicating that the tree's struggle for existence was made under adverse conditions. Later the tree was growing at the rate of two inches every 60 years, a remarkable fact, considering its location and age. The forest service has erected a sign near the tree giving the interesting facts about the veteran.

Mexican Couples Go in State to Wedding

Ancient wedding customs are still observed by the Mexicans. Their church weddings are always held in the morning. The bride and groom ride to the church in a closed carriage, with a footman and a driver in white trousers and correct English livery. The horses have docked tails and heavy white leather collars, besides white cockades streaming from their bridles.

The real picture, however, is said to be inside the carriage, which is completely lined with satin in a sort of tufted effect. The contracting parties sit beside each other. The bride wears conventional white and the groom evening clothes. Directly opposite them is a small child dressed in white velvet with the ring pillow on his lap. The wedding ceremony contains many picturesque symbols. The climax of the affair comes when the bride and groom are bound together with a heavy string. Immediately after the ceremony the whole party goes to the photographer's.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Gather Every Fifteen Years to Honor Deity

On the great hill of Sravanbelgola, in Mysore state, southern India, stands a colossal image over 60 feet high of the god Komateswara. Every 15 years a great festival is held in honor of the deity, and hundreds of thousands of Jains come from all parts of India to participate in it.

One of the principal events of the festival is the ceremonial anointing of the image with ghee, milk, sandalwood oil and other liquids. A huge scaffolding is erected around the figure to render it accessible, and the right to anoint it put up at auction—a curious feature of a religious festival.

The figure of the god is a huge monolith—probably the largest in the world. It was hewn out of solid rock at least a thousand years ago and is in a wonderful state of preservation.—Wide World Magazine.

Victim Turned Lure

While in the Hawaiian Islands Mark Twain was assaulted unmercifully by mosquitoes. Attempting to fool them, he had a fine netting put all around his bed. In spite of this precaution, however, the pests managed to find their way inside and nearly tormented the life out of him. After careful investigation the victim decided that after they once got inside of the netting the mosquitoes were unable to find their way out. Consequently, every evening Mark would crawl inside the netting, wait patiently as a lure until he figured that all of the pests were inside, then lift the covering cautiously and sneak outside to spend the night on the floor. Moreover, he always declared that he was never afterwards bothered.

Pat Beat the Law

The story of dogs is closely connected with the story of man. For instance, there is the legend that relates how lap dogs came to Ireland.

In the beginning Britain seems to have had a monopoly on tiny dogs, and it was forbidden to give or sell a tiny dog to an Irishman.

Then parliament passed a law which decreed that a criminal should be given to the man he had wronged.

So a clever Irishman, as the story goes, succeeded in getting a tiny lap dog to bite him.

The ruse succeeded, and the dog was taken to Ireland, where all the kings fought among themselves for the possession of her, until she brought peace by producing a large litter of puppies.

Warning to Wives

If you expect your marriage to be happy, I warn you to beware of the following:

Trying to "boss" your husband.

Talking too much.

Interrupting serious conversation with banal interpolations.

Jealousy—when there is no cause for it.

Belittling your husband in public.

Overpraising your husband in public.

Talking too much about yourself.

Lying unnecessarily—about the price of things, for instance.—From "The Passion Called Love"—Elinor Glyn.

"Art for Art's Sake"

Art for art's sake does not mean that art is more important than morals or is to be pursued to the exclusion of every other interest. It simply means that art is a region free and autonomous. It cannot be bent to ends of moral edification or practical propaganda without condescending, warping and cheapening it, any more than a church steeple can be turned into a silo. And even the most practical farmer would hardly dare to suggest that the church trustee ask the architect to plan a church without a

In Memory of Mrs. Briscoe

She is dwelling with her Savior.

No more cares her Soul shall try.

In a fairer world up yonder, let us meet her by and by.

We may go to the place where she is laid,

And silently stand by the tomb.

But we know that in snowy white garments arrayed,

Her Soul is with Jesus at Home.

The tempest may beat and the billows may roll,

Unbroken will be her sweet rest.

Afar from all danger at home is her Soul,

She sleeps on the Saviors' breast.

We may stand by her grave, But now she is gone and is safe at the beautiful goal,

Where she is at rest, her labor all done.

In the beautiful home of the Soul.

Yes she's gone to that home above.

Leaving here a vacant chair, But by living and doing God's will,

We hope to meet her there—

SUDAN A GOOD PLACE TO TRADE

Sudan offers you much in happiness and contentment. Of a nice size, and growing, you have the friendliness of a city not too large, and the convenience of many larger cities.

Children have the freedom of the clear air, with a nearness to open space that does not entirely separate them from the joys of nature, nor force them upon the streets for play and exercise.

Attractive and clean, with a high moral standard, Sudan is a good place to live. Schools and churches mean educational and religious training that leads to good citizens and insures continued future growth.

You can show your loyalty and your pride in Sudan by telling desirable people of the natural, commercial and civic resources of our community,

Sudan will continue to be a good place to live if every citizen consistently supports necessary home improvement, and patronize home institutions.

Always remember when purchasing, that the institution which owns a place of business, and is in business 365 days of the year, pays taxes on a large investment is glad, to serve you in season as well as out of season, will appreciate your business and your business will help that institution to expand which enables it to pay more toward the up keep of the town and community.
