

Explorers Bring Plants Able to Thrive In Drought

WASHINGTON.—After searching the deserts and foothills of Russian Turkistan and most of Turkey for plants to control soil erosion, H. L. Westover and C. R. Engle, plant explorers of the U. S. department of agriculture, have returned after seven months with nearly 1,800 lots of seed. Among these is seed of a desert grass that may be eroded by the wind but whose roots hold when it lands. Other surprising plants of pioneer sturdiness are in the list.

The drought of last summer with its frequent dust storms emphasizes the great need for more soil-binding plants such as these men were looking for, says F. D. Richey, chief of the bureau of plant industry. "Because of the unusually adverse conditions for plant life where much of this seed was collected, we are hopeful that something of real value for our Great Plains and Southwest will be found in the collection."

Most of the seed collections represent grasses or legumes which form a thick turf close to the ground, enabling them to bind the soil and hold it against the ravages of wind and water. Others represent shrubs whose root systems looked promising as soil-binders. Seeds from a few trees also were brought back. Most of the seed lots came from plants that are edible by livestock but this quality was not regarded as of principal importance in making selections.

The explorers penetrated far into the foothills of some of the republics of Turkistan. On one occasion they visited the village of Ziddi, in the Gissar mountains of Turkistan. They were the first Americans to visit this village, and only a week before the natives saw their first automobile. The villagers were so delighted they immediately prepared a feast for their guests.

Officials of the Soviet government gave the explorers every possible assistance. Botanical experts were able in almost every instance to give the Americans all the necessary information concerning the plants of the regions visited. This information made it possible to avoid plants which are poisonous or otherwise undesirable. The officials of the various republics supplied automobiles, horses and camels to transport the exploration party over Turkistan, sometimes referred to as Middle Asia. Turkish government officials likewise co-operated in every way.

One of the most promising collections is seed of a bunch grass, Aristida pennata, which grows in scattered clumps in the dry wind-swept sands of the Kara Kuu desert in the vicinity of Selkar. This grass provides good grazing over a large area. All through Turkistan the explorers encountered many species of Stipa (feathergrass), all of the much more hardy than the species which are grown in the western part of this country. They found one of the blue-grasses, Poa bulbosa, growing throughout Turkey. Many of these localities have practically no rainfall except in the winter.

The settlement of the West with its intensive grazing so changed the environment that many of the best native grasses are practically gone. Department officials are hoping that some of this new material from regions where climatic conditions are even more unfavorable than our own may help to restore the ranges of the West.

From the dry, rocky mountain slopes near Issyk Kul—the largest freshwater lake in Turkistan—Westover and Engle brought back two bunch grasses. One of them, a species of Agropyron, is a relative of the crested wheatgrass which is winning favor rapidly in the Great Plains since its introduction a few years ago. The other, a species of Hordeum, is a wild perennial barley. Both of these introductions show promise for the Northwest.

Another species of Agropyron was found growing on the flat desert lands near the Aral Sea, in the vicinity of Selkar. This grass provides good grazing over a large area. Louis the Surprising came into gangster prominence at 20, when he was the bodyguard of Duke of the Broken Nose. That was back in 1917. He soon became more prominent and then he was not heard of for several years.

But in the very height of his depression it became known that he was enjoying a good income from a number of clandestine gambling joints. His success at such a time apparently aroused the ire of less prosperous members of the milieu. Anyway, he was snuffed out and the following victims were his closest friends.

Conviction Grows That Centennial Must Now Be Held

DALLAS, Tex.—That a constantly growing conviction that Texas Centennial celebrations, as proposed, must be held in 1936 is in evidence throughout every section of the State...

These activities are indicative of the opinion of leading newspapers of the State and nearly every Texan seems now convinced that so much time, effort and money already has been expended in the promotion of the Centennial...

Howard was tried three times on a charge of killing N. V. Nixon, an El Paso taxi driver, who had been hired by Howard and a companion to take them on a prospecting trip...

Howard contended that though he had gone with Nixon and a companion to Pecos, he had left them there and returned to El Paso by train. Testimony about Howard's washing stains from a shirt had a part in his conviction. This testimony later was taken back. Howard, now tubercular, will live but a short time if kept in prison, the proclamation said. He has had short furloughs to aid his physical condition and returned at the expiration of the last one.

Governor Ferguson today issued a conditional pardon for Luther Berwick, who received 23 years for murder in Harris county, burglary and theft, 11 years, convicted in February, 1932.

EL PASO, Dec. 13.—Arthur Wilson, Cleveland, Ohio, steel chemist, was convicted by a district court jury today of slaying Mrs. Irene Debolt, Cleveland widow, on the desert near Van Horn, Nov. 7, 1933. Sentence was set at 99 years in the state penitentiary.

The verdict came after deliberation that lasted all night. The state had asked the death penalty. Mrs. Debolt's body, nude except for one silk stocking, was found in a kneeling position on the desert near Van Horn. Death ended a transcontinental automobile trip on which she and Wilson had embarked from Cleveland...

When returned here for trial several months ago, Wilson made a statement in which he said he killed Mrs. Debolt in self defense. The state attempted to prove: That Wilson killed Mrs. Debolt at a tourist camp after the couple reached Texas on a return trip from California to Cleveland...

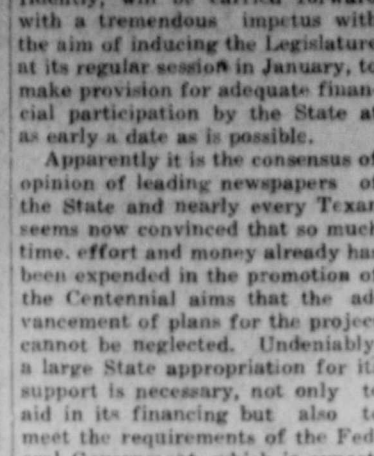

That motive for the slaying was robbery. Testimony disclosed Mrs. Debolt had received $4,000 in insurance when her husband, Henry Debolt, died...

That the killer removed her clothing after the slaying, not only with a view of preventing identification of the corpse, but also to find large sums of money that relatives of Mrs. Debolt said she had stashed to her underwear.

HUNT BEGAN FOR KIDNAPERS AFTER RANSOM NOTE WAS FOUND

(Editor's Note: The following is the second in a series of articles about the Lindbergh kidnaping, by Sidney Whipple.)

By SIDNEY B. WHIPPLE
On the morning of March 2, 1932, the whitewashed garage that formed one wing of the Lindbergh manor in the Soudland foothills became the field headquarters for a regiment of police officials.

Dirt roads leading to the estate were alive with another army of unofficial investigators and morbidly curious citizens who spread, fanwise, through the desolate territory and up the sodden slopes of the mountains, in eager attempts to discover clues to the kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

They tramped through the meadows and into underbrush and forest. They marched through winding paths and unused lines, churning the muddy ground with their heels and creating a confusion of tracks and trails. And they found nothing at all. The only tangible clues to the kidnapers' identity had been left behind, inside, or within 100 yards of the Lindbergh home.

From the vacant crib in the nursery, Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf had taken—with extreme care, lest a fingerprint be blurred—a pencilled demand for $50,000, the price for returning the child to his parents. The notes, in blurred and pencilled script, said:

"Dear Sir:
"Have 50 000 $ ready 25 000 $ in 20 $ bills 15 000 $ in 10 $ bills and 10 000 $ in 5 $ bills after 2-4 days we will inform you where to deliver the money.

"We warn you for making anything public or for notifying the police."
... (blurred).

"The child is in gut care. Indication for our letters are signature."

Then followed a "signature" consisting of a strange device of interlocking circles, colored with red and blue ink and bearing the imprint of three slight indentations—pin pricks, perhaps—near the edges of the circles. Subsequent notes, in negotiation for payment of the ransom, bore the identical symbol.

When Colonel Schwartzkopf and Colonel Lindbergh, lighting their way with electric torches, made their first hurried search of the grounds, they had stumbled upon the second physical clue—an abandoned ladder.

The ladder was of "home-made" construction, and consisted of three sections which, when joined together, rose to a height a little above the nursery window. It had been made by a skilled artisan—by a man adept at carpentry. The pegs by which the sections were joined fitted perfectly into grooves carved for them. The rungs were sunk, to be flush with the sides. One rung apparently had broken beneath the weight of the kidnapers and his burden. Could that have been the sound heard by Colonel Lindbergh outside his window?

Not far from the nursery window they found a heavy chisel. Part of the kidnapers' equipment, and evidently intended for forcing the nursery shutters, it had not been needed. The shutters, warped by inclement weather, had resisted all efforts to lock them.

From the house, and trailing away into nothingness at the main road, were a series of heavy footprints. But they were not clearcut. They looked to have been made by one who had bound his feet in an overcoating of cloth.

These provided the only physical evidence of the kidnapers' visit to the Lindbergh home. The investigators turned to an analysis of the note.

Manifestly, the demand had been written by a person of foreign antecedents and of slight education. The English speaking races do not write "50 000 $". The note said "We warn you for making anything public." It said the child was in "gut" care. The word and the Teutonic arrangement of phrases stamped its author as German.

Quite obviously, the kidnaping had been staged for gain, and neither with the hatred of a crank nor with the thought of "revenge" by a deranged mind. Colonel Lindbergh announced his willingness—his eagerness—to pay the extortioners their toll.

In the 24 hours that followed the kidnaping the police forces of three states swung into action with increased momentum. Every road in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania was patrolled and guarded. Squads of state police began a systematic, house-to-house and hotel-to-hotel search in a 10-mile radius. Reports of "suspicious characters" and of "a man, woman and baby" seen by toll bridge keepers, filling station attendants, lunch wagon counter men and other night workers poured into the white garage at Hopewell. The warped minds of cranks tottering still further under the shock of the tragedy, filled the mails with cruel, useless "clues."

The town's one-man postoffice force staggered, that afternoon, to the Lindbergh home under the burden of three heavy sacks of mail.

It was the forerunner of a deluge. Meanwhile the questioning of the Lindbergh household had begun. Betty Gow, the comely Scottish nursemaid who had ministered to the baby since his birth, became the subject of intensive investigation. Her story had certain aspects that, for a time, were to prove startling.

Ranger Represented At Insurance Meet

FORT WORTH, Dec. 13.—D. L. Jameson of Ranger is in Fort Worth today attending the thirty-first annual convention of the Southwestern Life Insurance Company.

More than 500 representatives from all parts of Texas are here for this convention, which is the largest life insurance event of its kind ever held in the State. Southwestern Life agents earn the right to attend these meetings by writing a certain volume of business during the year; and, as the number of qualified agents is about twenty per cent greater than in 1933, a larger volume of business is indicated for 1934.

Registration took place this morning at the Blackstone Hotel, at which all sessions of the convention will be held. Thursday, Friday and Saturday mornings will be taken up with business meetings, in which the following officers of the company will participate: C. F. O'Donnell, president; Arthur Coburn, vice president; R. E. Lee, vice president and agency director; E. G. Brown, vice president and actuary; T. L. Bradford, Jr., vice president and treasurer; R. A. B. Goodman, vice president and secretary, and Dr. DeWitt Smith, medical director. The Southwestern Life is a Texas Company operating in Texas only.

The afternoons are being devoted to golf, sight-seeing and other activities. This evening, the visitors will be entertained with a dinner dance, at which the Dallas agents and home office employees of the company will stage a minstrel show. Friday evening, the annual banquet will be held at which time the awards for the year will be made.

Eastland County Federation Met Saturday

The Presbyterian church of Gorman had an attendance of 50 club-women Saturday afternoon at the meeting of the Eastland County Federation of T. F. W. C.

The session was opened by their president, Mrs. Louis Pitcock, following the serving of coffee, sandwiches and nut cakes, by members of the Excelsior club and their president, Mrs. W. A. Sutton, hostesses for the meeting.

The high school quartet, girls, gave a group of musical numbers, very pleasing, and heard during the seating of the assemblage.

The feature of the program was the report by the county federation chairman of American Homes, Mrs. W. H. Davis of Desdemona.

The Eastland county library report was brought by Mrs. James Horton, chairman of this division, and announced that Miss E. S. Gooch of Austin, state library organizer, would be in Eastland the third Saturday in January, in attendance at county federation meeting that afternoon, to be held in Eastland county courthouse, with the Eastland County Council of Parent-Teachers, as hostesses.

This will be an open meeting and it was announced all Parent-Teacher associations and women's clubs are invited to attend.

Mrs. Pitcock appointed as nominating committee to present the slate for election of county federation officers, to be held at the January meeting:

Personnel — Mrs. McGlamery, chairman; Mrs. W. H. Davis of Desdemona, Mrs. J. F. Dreinhof of Ranger, Mrs. Henry Capers of Bass Lake.

The program was presided over by Mrs. J. M. Perkins, Sixth district president T. F. W. C.

State federation convention reports formed an interesting round table, discussion, concluded in the delegate from county federation, Mrs. James Horton's report of the convention programs.

A round table community discussion of Christmas tree celebrations in the different towns and rural communities of Eastland county, was held, and the Civic League of Eastland's manner of conducting a community Christmas tree, explained. The league received many compliments on their community work in this discussion.

An interesting exhibit of rugs and quilts showed the recent work of several clubs.

The DeLeon club of Comanche county was officially accepted as a member of the Eastland County Federation, this making the latter an inter-county federation in which other counties also are privileged to enter clubs for membership.

The church was beautifully decorated with roses for the meeting in which towns represented were Desdemona, Eastland, Ranger, Bass Lake, Morton Valley and Gorman.

Cooper Junior Glee Club Presents Program For Lions

The Lions club met for their weekly luncheon at the high school upon invitation from the High School Home Economics class instead of at the Gholson, their usual meeting place.

The girls under the able direction of Miss Morgan, Home Economics teacher, served almost a hundred percent attendance of the Lions club with a delicious turkey dinner that portends happy homes for lucky grooms-to-be.

Lion R. V. Galloway presented a wonderful program in the form of the Cooper school junior glee club, under the direction of Mrs. Homer Smith and Miss Mittie Pettit. The youngsters of the primary department dressed in their uniforms of white and green, made a pretty picture as they stood in a double row of little boys and girls singing Christmas carols. Little "Sonny" Smith, in the part of the radio announcer, stood before an improvised radio announcing stand bearing the gilded letters, "XMAS." Each song, reading and dance was announced by "Sonny," who let his voice trail off after each announcement with, "I hope you'll H-k-e-t."

After the program and the introduction of visitors the club was thanked by Miss Lonie Mae Martin in behalf of the home economics class for having given them the privilege of serving their luncheon and explained the money thus derived was to help in the financing of that work in our school.

At each Lions' plate was a questionnaire prepared by the high school librarian, Miss Irene Chadwick, asking for the vocation of each member, his hobbies and preferences in a list of books which she explained could and would be obtained from the state library for free use of Ranger readers immediately after the new year when the high school library will be open from 7 until 8 several evenings each week for the convenience of those who would like to take advantage of the opportunity to read the excellent books that will be sent out.

A report of the banquet honoring International President of Lions Clubs Vincent C. Hascall on last Tuesday night was given by Lion Clyde H. Davis. After the report there was a round-table talk concerning the banquet, at which time every Lion present expressed his entire satisfaction with the way every bit of the program went. Many reported that visitors from all over the district, as well as local non-Lion visitors, had said that it was the best banquet they had ever been privileged to attend.

Lion President Colonel Brashier expressed his thanks to all the Lions for their whole-hearted cooperation and support in arranging and carrying out the entire affair.

Murderer Got Speedy Justice

VIENNA.—With all the speed it could summon, justice has disposed of handsome Alois Gaidasch, 23. Three hours after a special lightning court had sentenced Alois to death for the murder of his father, he was hanged.

Even then, the proceedings might have been quicker, but Alois kept fainting, and the Austrian law requires that the condemned man shall be conscious when the noose tightens.

Gaidasch killed his father during a quarrel in which his father forbade him to continue a love affair with a married woman. Gaidasch used a crowbar, which, it was established, he premeditatedly hid in his home.

When he had killed his father, he hid the body in a loft, and in-

Allred To Have Many Appointments To Make When He Takes Over Office

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Tex.—Governor-Elect James V. Allred's first appointments and the rumor list of those to follow confirm the expectation that the new Governor will surround himself with "brain-trust" assistants.

R. B. Anderson of Godley, his choice for the important tax commissioner, distinguished himself in prep school, college and law school.

Robert Calvert of Hillsboro, whose candidacy for House Speaker is generally conceded to be pleasing to Allred, is a University of Texas degree man.

Another week likely will elapse before additional appointees are announced. After the Governor's oil conference at Ponca City, Okla., Governor-Elect Allred plans a hunt before returning to Austin to settle down to plans for his administration.

A Governor must consider geography as well as individuals in choosing his official family. West Texas seems likely to get the member of the state highway commission, whether or not Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene is re-appointed.

North and Central Texas seem to lead among home places of those being discussed as possible State Labor Commissioners. Travis is J. Lewis of Fort Worth for his numerous strong endorsements for it.

Who Owes Who a Living?

After it is all said and done, any recovery program depends upon business, industry and agriculture.

Every government expenditure is financed by money that is taken from the earnings or reserves of business, industry or agriculture. With no earnings to be taxed, government must go bankrupt.

It is useless to blind ourselves to the fact that today industry is afraid of radical legislation, radical labor policies and radical taxation.

Under the guise of "social service" plans a lot of people are being made to think that somebody owes them a living. That's the "grasshopper theory." It works fine until winter comes.

The fad of social service can live on existing "crops" (productive wealth) until it has eaten it all up like the grasshopper did the seasonal crops and then the beneficiaries of the "service" plans die like the grasshoppers unless they rustle some food. It's just the law of nature. Try to beat it and see where you land—out in the cold like the grasshopper.

Conferences are being held in this nation to devise means of promoting social security to lessen fear of unemployment, deprivation and dependence. All men regard that goal as most desirable. The great danger is that overly enthusiastic theorists will allow their hopes to dominate their good judgment and smother the virtue of individual thrift.

At such times they should be guided by the lowly grasshopper who found out that no one owed him a living and that if he wished to share in the stored labor of others he had to fiddle for the food he received.

LINDBERGH CASE HISTORY IS REVIEWED AS DATE OF HAUPTMANN TRIAL NEARS

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series reviewing the events in the Lindbergh kidnaping case, which lead up to the arrest and indictment of Bruno R. Hauptmann, who will go on trial at Flemington, N. J., later in the month.)

By SIDNEY R. WHIPPLE
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, United Press)

The desolate, rain swept Sourland Mountains of New Jersey provided, during the dying winter of 1932, a setting for the most shocking crime in modern American history—the kidnaping and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

In an effort to escape the unwelcome attention and adulation of the world and to rear his son in the atmosphere of an average American family, Colonel Lindbergh had built his home, that winter, in an isolated community near the Dour foothills, three miles from the little town of Hopewell.

The home was a rambling, white manor, in which French regional architecture, dominating a knoll which overlooked an estate of some 500 acres. To the north, penetrated by dirt lanes and rough roads lay a 10-mile woodland. On its south were rolling meadows and occasional swampland, descending gently to the village.

Colonel Lindbergh, his wife, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, and their 20-month-old son had not yet established themselves permanent-stairs to her own bedroom, and prepared to retire.

Colonel Lindbergh recalled, afterwards, that at some moment between 9 and 10 o'clock he was startled from his reading by hearing a loud noise outside the window. With a furious wind blowing, however, he laid the sound to the possible crack of a tree branch, and resumed his studies.

A little before 10 p. m. Betty Gow made a final visit to the nursery. She turned on the lights and went to the crib. It was empty.

Puzzled, she sought Mrs. Lindbergh and asked, "Did the Colonel take the baby?"

"Perhaps you'd better go downstairs and see," Mrs. Lindbergh suggested casually.

Betty Gow went downstairs to the study. The Colonel was at work and no child was to be seen.

"The baby isn't in his room," said the nurse. "I thought you might have him."

Colonel Lindbergh and Miss Gow hurried upstairs. With Mrs. Lindbergh they stared at the vacant crib and then began a frantic and fruitless search of the upper rooms. The open shutters of a nursery window—warped shutters which could not be closed—appeared to point the trail of the kidnapers.

Colonel Lindbergh told that suave, efficient butler, Ollie Whately, to call Harry Wolf, chief of the Hopewell constabulary. Then, in desperation, he seized a rifle and rushed aimlessly out doors, to be met only by an impenetrable darkness, falling like a curtain between him and his kidnaped son.

The police, augmented by the highest officials of the New Jersey state police, headed by Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, reached the Lindbergh home within an hour. Teletype messages sputtered over the police wires of three states, galvanizing the news rooms of newspapers and press associations into frantic action.

Out of New York and into New Jersey rolled an army of news gatherers, special writers, professional and amateur detectives. Back of them marched another division of workers—the communications division with truckloads of telephone equipment and telegraph cable, to converge on the sleeping town of Hopewell and turn it, for a time, into the news capital of the world.

The advance guard of this army reached the village in the early hours of March 2. Its leader pounded insistently on the door of Debbart's general store.

"Wake up, Pop," he shouted, "You'll have 300 here for breakfast!"

(Next: The chase begins.)

ly in the great white house. It was their habit, however, to spend week-ends at the manor, supervising the touches that were transforming it into a year-round residence, and to spend the remainder of the week at the home of Anne's mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, in Englewood, N. J.

But March came in like a lion. On the morning of March 1, Mrs. Lindbergh looked out upon the dismal prospect, and decided not to risk driving through the storm to Englewood with her son. The child had a slight cold. Accordingly, she telephoned, shortly before noon, to the baby's nurse, Betty Gow, who was at the Morrow home, and told her of the change in plans.

Betty, a Scottish maid who had attended the family since the baby's birth promised to be at the Hopewell home by mid-afternoon. But before she left Englewood, she attempted to telephone to Henry Johnson, a red-headed young man with whom she was friendly, to break an engagement with him that evening. Unable to reach him at his boarding house, she left word for him to call her at Hopewell.

Colonel Lindbergh, who was in New York, was not expected home for dinner. He had promised to be present at the dinner of a New York organization of university men—a promise, it developed, he had completely forgotten.

At 7 p. m. the child was put to bed in his crib in the large nursery on the second floor. His mother, ministering to his cold, had rubbed his chest with oil. Betty Gow had dressed him warmly in a woolen sleeping garment, to the sleeves of which were affixed little aluminum cups, device of modern mothers to prevent the habit of thumb-sucking.

Thereafter, at half-hour intervals, Nurse Betty Gow looked in at the sleeping infant and saw that all was well. The lights were turned out and she went below stairs to visit with the impeccable English butler, Oliver Whateo, and the butler's wife, Elsie.

Shortly after 7:30 p. m. Colonel Lindbergh unexpectedly made his appearance. He inquired as usual about the baby and was told Charles seemed to be suffering from a slight lung infection. At 8:15 p. m. Ollie Whately announced "dinner is served."

After dinner, the Colonel retired to his study, adjoining the living room, and became engrossed in work. Anne Lindbergh, tired with the day's vents, went upstairs to her own bedroom, and prepared to retire.

Colonel Lindbergh recalled, afterwards, that at some moment between 9 and 10 o'clock he was startled from his reading by hearing a loud noise outside the window. With a furious wind blowing, however, he laid the sound to the possible crack of a tree branch, and resumed his studies.

A little before 10 p. m. Betty Gow made a final visit to the nursery. She turned on the lights and went to the crib. It was empty.

Quarter-Final Game Plans Being Made at Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Dec. 11.—The dope on the Amarillo-Big Spring high school quarter district championship football game which will be played in Lubbock Saturday, Dec. 15, beginning at 2:30 p. m., is much the same as the quarter final game played here last year. Last year Pampa instead of Amarillo survived in District 1 and eliminated the District 2 winner, San Angelo rather than Big Spring was the District 3 winner, likewise eliminating the District 4 winner, San Angelo, like Big Spring, was the under dog last year, but they came through to out play a heavier and a more powerful eleven from the North Plains.

Big Spring fans hope the Big Spring Steers can do the same trick here next Saturday.

While betting odds favor Amarillo, Obie Bristow's Steers are highly respected and it is expected that a record crowd will jam the stands at the Tech field to witness the battle.

Eight thousand tickets have been printed and a capacity crowd is expected with possibly late comers taking standing room around the field. An extra four thousand fans can be taken care of if there is the demand as approximately 12,000 fans were checked in for the Lubbock-Amarillo high school game here Nov. 12. Price of tickets will be $1.00. Reservations may be made at the J. & J. Sporting Goods house here.

With the exception of Amarillo's powerful back, Bufkin, suffering from a shoulder injury, both Amarillo and Big Spring are expected to have their full strength on the Tech gridiron for the quarter final classic Saturday.

County Gets State Per Capita Money

The state's second payment of their $16.50 per capita apportionment has arrived. County Supt. B. E. McGlamery states. The payment was for $2.00 to each of 8,505 students in the county and totaled $17,010.

The two dollar payment received makes a total of three received to date from the state. The per capita apportionment payment is three dollars ahead of last year's schedule as no money was received until after Jan. 1, the superintendent states.

Being distributed from the superintendent's office is 25 cents per capita apportionment out of the county available fund.

Well, repeal didn't bring in as much revenue as its proponents thought it would, but it made a pretty good showing against the bootleggers at that.

Farm News of Interest to the Farmers of This Section

WALLACE PRAISES FARM PLAN IN HIS ANNUAL REPORT

By WILLIAM A. BELL, Jr., United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace in his annual report today that the farm recovery program had proved more than worthwhile as an experiment and should be continued indefinitely as a necessary function of national government.

Reviewing 19 months of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's efforts to put the nation's farmers on their feet economically, Wallace concluded that upon further industrial revival and the restoration of foreign markets depended additional gains to agriculture.

"Agriculture cannot achieve prosperity by itself," he said. "Sounder buying power Industrial activity must increase enormously, affording employment for additional millions and by lowering costs of manufactured products create sounder consumer buying power, before general liberalization of crop controls can be considered," Wallace wrote. Likewise, he said, the only way alternative to the adjustment programs is expansion of foreign trade to a point where average restriction is no longer necessary to prevent price-depressing surpluses.

"Everyone now recognizes that in the combination of benefit payments and processing taxes agriculture has an effective means of adjusting its production to the needs of the market, a method which overcomes the obstacles that wrecked all previous efforts to accomplish this end," the Secretary told the President.

"So successful has the new method proved that we hear louder than ever the objection that it will work too well for the good of the community, that it creates want and not welfare."

Denies AAA Creates Want

That the AAA ever will create want Wallace denied, pointing out "it was never contemplated that reduction, once started, should be continued indefinitely." The aim, he declared, is "a balanced abundance," involving reduction at some times, expansion at others.

"Agriculture cannot create scarcity at will, because the motive to keep men and land out of production weakens as surpluses disappear," Wallace wrote.

He reported that partly as the result of the drought, partly because of the AAA, the emergency period of drastic reductions in farm output was coming to view, to be replaced by milder adjustments according to market conditions.

"Farming would return to erratic and senseless swings if we dropped the principle of co-operative adjustment," Wallace warned. "The swings due to weather are wide enough without having them further complicated by human miscalculation."

Full Employment

Emphasizing his belief that the AAA had done its part toward pulling agriculture out of the post-war hole and that it was up to industry to contribute more, the secretary said:

"The farmer's great need now, as he continues his efforts to produce a balanced output, is that of getting full employment to the industrial population in order that consumers may be able to pay fair prices for higher consumption."

"Necessary as it was to meet the curtailed foreign markets and the surplus crisis of 1933, reduction in output is only a very partial and paradoxical answer in the long run to the crying need which is briefly expressed in the phrase, 'balanced abundance.'"

Wallace submitted that "public opinion almost unanimously approves reducing production to remove surpluses," because it realizes, he said, that "consumers gain nothing in the long run by getting farm goods at less than cost."

"In one form or another they

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food doesn't get to our bowels. Our food stays in our stomach for so long that it begins to rot. This is the cause of bad breath. It makes us look unclean, and no good for anything. What makes the food stay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bowels can't get to work. They're too full. It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless it gets to work, our food stays in our stomach and our bowels get hard and constipated. It is of our bowels that we should be afraid. This daily secret poison all over our body every day.

When our bowels aren't working, we feel like a whooping cough. We feel like a whooping cough. We feel like a whooping cough. We feel like a whooping cough. We feel like a whooping cough. We feel like a whooping cough.

Activities of the H. Demonstration Clubs of County

Cuttings

"Strip all leaves except top two to save vitality and prevent moisture loss when putting out cuttings," states Mrs. Louis Pitcock, yard demonstrator for the Ranger Co-Workers Home Demonstration club. Mrs. Pitcock has her cutting bed well spaced and cultivated and the soil is in the best shape for rooting these cuttings. This is a good time to get the cutting root started in the garden where it can be cultivated along with the garden from time to time. Mrs. Pitcock will put approximately 250 or 300 cuttings in her bed to use in the spring and fall planting.

"Strictly the adjustment of farm production under federal guidance involves not regimentation but merely social discipline," Wallace remarked.

And much of the so-called regimentation, he counseled, can be removed if America decides to buy enough abroad to supply sufficient purchasing power for imports by other nations of U. S. agricultural products.

"Broadly," the report continued, "agricultural trade can increase only through an increase in the number of consumers. This is a consequence of the often-mentioned limitations of the stomach. Hence the only feasible alternative to the recovery of agricultural export trade is the contraction of agriculture."

"No similar contraction of industry would result from an increase in industrial imports. For many industrial products the potential demand is boundless."

Foreign Goods

"Hence the admission of foreign goods into the American market, since it would be accompanied by an increase in the purchasing power of the farmers, would handicap industry far less than the alternative policy of enforced farm contraction would handicap agriculture."

Wallace said the experience of the summer's record drought emphasized the logic of the AAA program, an orderly adjustment of animal numbers having been accomplished. Another benefit, he said, was apparent in the fact that agriculture came through the season with more grain per grain containing animal than otherwise would have been available. In the most hard-hit regions, the only income of many farmers was derived from AAA crop benefit payments.

One of the secretary's pet plans—the "ever-normal granary"—to which resort may be had in years of crop failure—was developed at some length. Reduced production for export, Wallace said, makes it necessary to maintain larger reserves. These would remain in control of farmers through storage and government loan arrangements, coupled with an obligation to participate in continued acreage control. Under this plan, the report points out, farmers would have the basis for permanent control of livestock production cycles.

Private Traders

The government would guarantee private traders against the apprehension of sudden disruptive releases of stored goods," Wallace promised.

Federal action under the New Deal has furnished three principal types of agricultural relief, the report stated:

"1. By devaluing the dollar it has caused the prices of certain farm commodities to rise more than the prices of the things that farmers buy and increased their ability to meet debt and taxes."

"2. Through production adjustments financed by processing taxes and through marketing agreements with production control features, it has brought the supply of farm commodities more nearly into a profitable relationship with the demand."

"3. Through credit relief it has lightened and refinanced farm debt."

"It would not be correct," Wallace said, "to ascribe the whole improvement in farm conditions during the last two years to federal activities."

"Must not be credited to the country's natural recuperative power. But the farm recovery of the last two years owes little or nothing to recovery in the world market. It is the result mainly of domestic changes, in which the activities of the federal government have been the most important element."

Cotton Raisers Urged to Approve Bankhead Act

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 8.—Declaring that though the welfare of those engaged in the transporting, handling, storage and processing of cotton is vital, but secondary to that of two million cotton producers of the south, E. F. Creekmore, vice president and general manager of the American Cotton Co-operative association, called upon farmers to "not swap horses in the middle of the stream" and vote for the continuance another year of the Bankhead act.

Mr. Creekmore took note of recent moves in sections of the south for the organization of cotton industries employes for the purpose of working for the repeal of the bankhead act and the abandonment of the government program on cotton control, stating that "we have not crossed the stream of excessive surplus and the program of the agricultural adjustment administration has proven beneficial to the producer and it is the producer whose interest should be paramount."

"The cotton farmer's first duty is making a living for himself and family," said Mr. Creekmore, "it is not the duty of the farmer regardless of price to produce cotton, in order to sustain or increase employment of those engaged in handling the farmer's product."

"Some 90 per cent of the producers of cotton are pledged to reduce their acreage for the coming year, not to exceed 25 per cent, based on the five-year average acreage, at the discretion of the secretary of agriculture. This reduction may be compared to the 40 per cent for 1934 resulting in a production of approximately 9,600,000 bales of cotton."

The support of the Bankhead act by a majority of the producers and the patience displayed by them in its administration was caused by their desire to have a minority who refused to co-operate in crop control, join in the acreage reduction program.

"It is estimated that the 25 per cent reduction ordered for 1935 with normal weather conditions will produce a crop of 12,000,000 to 13,000,000 bales. The elimination of the Bankhead act will materially increase this production."

"I believe that producers should carefully weigh their objections to the act as compared to the benefits to be received through the results of its administration and that it should be carried on another year with the hope that during that time officials of the agricultural adjustment administration will work out a long time cotton program which will afford the cotton producer a price for his cotton and protect him to the extent that other industries of this country are now protected."

1934 Cotton Crop Was 9,731,000 Bales

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The 1934 cotton crop was approximately 5,000,000 bales below the 1928-32 average, the department of agriculture reported today.

The final estimates of the year placed production at 9,731,000 bales, an increase of 87,000 above the last previous estimate of Nov. 1.

The crop this year was 3,316,000 bales that of last year. The drought cut sharply into the harvest in Texas, Oklahoma and Western Arkansas, but in other areas the acreage was "nominal" the report said.

If Japan breaks the Washington naval treaty, Chairman Vinson of the house naval affairs committee says he'll ask congress to approve the building of five ships to every three of Japan's. Five to three the people lose.

The assassination of a high Soviet official embarrasses those who have been blaming the Communists for all such murders.

Cotton Balance Shows a Decrease

AUSTIN, Dec. 8.—As of Nov. 1 the indicated supply of cotton in the United States was 14,510,000 bales, a decline of 2,457,000 bales from last year, according to Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Stocks in European ports and afloat to Europe are also 886,000 bales less than last year, making a total decrease of 3,343,000 bales. Average change in price per 100,000 bales during the last seven years equals 15.02 points. Based on these relationships and changes in the bureau of labor statistics index, the price of cotton should be 14.15 cents, he pointed out. Calculations based on percentage change show a price of 13.41 cents. On the other hand, the Bureau of Business Research supply-price chart indicates a price of only 11.50 cents.

Arkansas May Have Rangers Recaptured After A Short Liberty

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Centralization of law enforcement authority is urged by Carl E. Bailey, attorney general-elect, to take Arkansas from the top of the list where a citizen's chances of being murdered are greater than in any other state.

He would centralize that enforcement in the attorney general's office, the same as federal officers work under supervision of the United States district attorney.

"The state law enforcement problem is exactly analogous to that of the federal government," he said, "and if we are to give it the same intelligent treatment as that adopted by the national government there would be a very marked improvement in crime conditions in this state."

A recent tabulation of the United States bureau of justice, placed Arkansas at the top of the murder-rate list with 17.6 killings per 100,000 residents during the first six months this year. The national average was 4.8.

Gov. J. M. Fretwell has advocated a state police organization "similar to the Texas rangers," and his proposal is certain to come before the legislature when it convenes in January.

The idea of the governor and the attorney general-elect closely coincide.

Bob Sikes, Troy Taylor Elected May Co-Captains

Bob Sikes and Troy Taylor were elected co-captains of the 1935 Eastland Maverick squad by lettermen of this year's team recently.

Sikes played half this season and is a junior. Next year he is expected to play quarter.

Taylor played end this season and is a sophomore.

Lettermen announced by Coach Petty for the season are Sam Butler, Billie Joe Bagley, Truman Brown, Aubrey Brawner, D. C. Frost, John Garrison, John Hart, Horace Horton, Ben Mackall, Evan Mitchell, Bob Sikes, Bill Shoopman, Troy Taylor and Darrell Tully. Tom Harrison, manager, was awarded a letter. One hundred conference minutes of play were requirements to earn the letters.

May Field May Be "Turtle Backed"

A project making Eastland's football field one of "turtle back" layout may be submitted as a project at the relief office soon. By the term "turtle back" it is meant planting and taking the dirt off the field so as to make drainage automatic.

As it is understood, the field will rise from the sides and the height of the center will make drainage of water natural.

W. I. Clark, Eastland civil engineer, has in the past weeks donated his services to the Eastland school board and worked in conjunction with C. A. Hertz, tax collector, in making a contour and related work on the proposed project.

Also being considered is the planting of hedges near the north side of the fence. The hedge planting will set the field off, it is believed.

Bermuda grass will be planted on the field soon.

PLANE USED IN FOX HUNT

KENTON, O.—An airplane circled the lines and gave the marchers signals when the second annual fox drive and turkey shoot sponsored at Big Springs, O., near here, was held.

If that bridge expert, who wants $300,000 for the use of his name in a liquor ad, wants to make real dough, he should get after those who use his name in vain in nearly every bridge game in the country.

Roy Thornton Is Recaptured After A Short Liberty

ANGLETON, Texas, Dec. 10.—Roy Thornton, former husband of the notorious Bonnie Parker, who was slain with Clyde Barrow, today was safely back at Ramsey State Prison Farm after a brief liberty.

Thornton, under a 99-year sentence from Dallas county for robbery, and another convict, E. D. Davenport, serving 15 years from Harris county, stole a prison car last night and drove toward Houston.

Thornton, who attempted to escape from Huntsville several months ago by climbing a ladder, was free about three hours. Davenport was caught an hour after the break.

Montana Trying Out Newest Crop

SIDNEY, Mont.—From the steaming, tepid fields of the tropics has come Montana's newest crop—safflower.

Because the safflower yields an oil valued highly in manufacture of paints and varnishes, and because it appears to thrive in soil and climatic conditions of the northwest wheat belt, agricultural experts predict a bright future for it.

Alfred Rehbein, a painstaking farmer near Lambert, pioneered development of safflower growing in the United States and this year shipped four carloads of the seeds to a Milwaukee plant company.

Safflower oil has proved unusually satisfactory in drying oils, has many characteristics of linseed oil, and is superior to the latter in many respects.

The U. S. bureau of plant industry has been studying Rehbein's experiment with interest and now proposes to encourage safflower growing wherever feasible in this country, it is reported.

Cash value of the crop depends upon prices paid for paints and varnishes, and for safflower cake, which, it is believed, will make a satisfactory cattle feed.

Substantial production of safflower may fill the gap between present production and consumption of linseed oil and would not compete with U. S. flax production, inasmuch as about half of the latter oil used in this country is imported.

Kimble Pecan Crop About Fourth Normal

KERRVILLE, Texas.—Kimble, one of the leading hill country pecan counties, exported about 25 per cent of a crop this year, about 200,000 pounds, compared to 800,000 pounds last year. One large producer, in spite of severe drought, had harvested 16,000 pounds which was about 5,000 over his average yield.

The Kimble county market opened at eight cents this year and rose to a steady 13 cents whereas last year it opened at four cents and closed at seven and eight cents.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS HAS RARE CARROLL BOOKS

AUSTIN.—Rare copies of "Alice in Wonderland" and other Lewis Carroll works are a treasure part of the book collection in the University of Texas. A first edition copy of the facsimile edition of the manuscript is included. In the Wrenn collection at the university library there is a rebound first edition with the original red cover intact inside the new red morocco cover by Riviere. The Stark collection in the same library, gathered by Mrs. Miriam Stark of Orange, includes children's stories; both parts of "Bruno and Sylvia," and Carroll's humorous summary of the Jovett controversy which originated at Oxford. Many of the copies are autographed.

Fresh Vegetable Market Increases

LAREDO, Tex.—In spite of temperatures as low as 35 degrees the first part of December, the fresh vegetable market has shown an increase here.

Carloads of spinach, tomatoes, brocoli, carrots, beets, mustard greens, cabbage, turnips, oranges and grapefruit are being shipped to market centers.

Armadillo Is Shipped from Texas to Sweden

KERRVILLE.—Fifty-five armadillos shipped to Sweden from an armadillo farm near here, said to be the only one in the world, reached their destination safely, according to word from the European country. The farm, operated by the son of a German basket-maker, has sold armadillo shell baskets to foreign countries, and now is receiving foreign orders for live armadillos.

WATCH KIDNEYS SAME AS BOWELS

Watch Out Your 75,000 Feet of Kidney Tubes

Your bowels contain only 27 feet of intestine, yet the kidneys contain nearly 15 million tiny tubes or filtres which would measure 75,000 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are Nature's chief way of taking the acids and poisons waste out of the blood.

Healthy persons pass 2 pints a day thru the bladder which contains only 2 ounces of waste matter. If you pass less than this amount, your 75,000 feet of kidney tubes may be clogged with poisonous waste. This is the danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic twinges and distress.

Kidneys should be watched closely and need cleaning out the same as bowels. Ask your drugist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out your 75,000 feet of kidney tubes.

Autos Have Killed More In Five Years Than World War

AUSTIN. — The number of deaths in Texas due to automobile accidents during the past five years more than equals the number of Texans killed during the World War, according to a statement issued by the state department of health. Last year over 1,200 persons met death in this manner and from the figures compiled so far for 1934 the number of deaths will be even higher.

Most of the automobile accidents occur on week-ends or holidays. This is a surprising fact since fewer pedestrians are abroad and traffic congestion in towns and cities is less on Sunday than on other days of the week. This paradox may be explained in part from having more inexperienced drivers on the road, together with their failure to observe traffic rules.

Some of the most frequent violations of traffic rules are: exceeding the speed limit, driving on the wrong side of the road, failure to give right of way, and running without lights. The observance of rules and regulations is not enough to prevent all accidents. The car itself must be in good shape, especially the brakes and steering connections. The common sense must be used in all situations.

The consequences of an automobile accident are so disastrous that no one can afford to stand on their legal rights in a situation of impending danger. Only if you have conceded such rights and have made every possible effort to avoid an accident, can you consider yourself blameless in case of accident.

The decedent was born in Birmingham, Alabama, in 1851, and had been a resident of Ranger for a number of years.

I've had HANES before and believe me, I'm for them! I can't describe it exactly, but they make you feel like you are somebody. But the main reason I like them is, they keep me warm. I can't 'take' the cold. The Missus is all for HANES, too. She hasn't sewed a button since I don't know when. ### Work On Carbon Black Plant to Begin Next Year

CISCO, Dec. 9.—Construction of a carbon black plant near Cisco by the Hickok company will begin shortly after the first of the year, it was announced by R. L. Ponsler, superintendent of Hickok interests in Texas.

"I can't say just where the plant will be located," he said, "because I don't know yet. But I do know that it will be in the immediate vicinity of Cisco. But the direction of the plant from here has not yet been settled."

"We will know some time before Jan. 1 just when and where construction will begin. We want to start construction of the plant as soon after the first of the year as possible."

He explained that the production and grading of the carbon black has changed greatly even in the last few years. "They used to burn it and scrape it off and maybe screen it a little," he said, "but all that's changed now."

"The product itself is not tested as it once was, but is vulcanized in raw rubber and the rubber is tested. For this reason the laboratory alone at a carbon black plant will cost from $5,000 to $10,000." He explained that, inasmuch as the chief use of carbon black is in rubber, it is placed in the rubber and must pass elongation, compression and shearing tests, just as metal would.

He said he hoped he would not be directly connected with the duties in the field now assigned to him. The plant will burn 6,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, he said. The Cisco gas was recently tested at a university laboratory in Oklahoma, with this finding:

District Census Office Located

District 8 farm census headquarters have been established in Eastland in the ground floor of the Exchange National Bank building. Ernest E. Wood of Eastland is supervisor of the census for the district which comprises the following counties: Callahan, Comanche, Eastland, Erath, Fisher, Hamilton, Jones, Nolan, Palo Pinto, Shackelford, Stephens and Taylor.

Wood is a long time resident of the county. He has lived in and around Eastland for the past 45 years. He once served as district clerk for six years.

Actual enumeration is slated to start Jan. 2nd. It was made clear by Wood Tuesday that enumerators are not appointed by himself and that an advisory board set-up in each county performs the task. After advisory boards appoint enumerators they are given examination and a certified list is sent to the Eastland office. Six enumerators will work in Eastland county.

Peoples' Tax Lobby Urged For Session

AUSTIN, Dec. 10.—A "people's lobby" to represent the public at hearings on tax bills was suggested to the senate's tax research committee today by State Tax Commissioner H. P. Edwards.

He pointed out that big business fighting a proposed tax, is able to send well-informed lobbyists to raise countless objections. The legislator sponsoring the bill being no tax expert, is unable to answer every objection raised. Commissioner Edwards, who will retire with the Ferguson administration, recommended that the present law taxing intangible assets of railroads and pipe line companies be revised to provide a specific method of calculating intangible assets.

Sulphur Is Still Important Natural Resource of Texas

AUSTIN, Dec. 8.—Sulphur continued in 1933 to be the most important, in dollar value, of the minerals produced in Texas, aside from petroleum, despite a drop in both production and value of approximately 50 per cent since 1930, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology. A total of 1,082,967 tons of sulphur was mined in 1933, with a value of $19,089,202, according to compilations taken from the state comptroller's office. Actual production according to the United States bureau of mines, totaled 1,083,445 tons, valued at $19,502,010, the difference in values being accounted for by the assumed value per ton for the sulphur. The gross production tax is paid to the state comptroller on the assumed value of $13 per ton, while the bureau of mines uses a value of $18 per ton. In 1930, production was 2,129,593 tons, valued at $38,332,674; in 1931, it was 875,947 tons, with a value of $15,767,046. The value of output in 1929 was $46,047,546, according to reports to the state comptroller.

Production of other minerals in Texas during 1933, according to the university bureau's report, were: 126,069 tons of asphalt, with a value of $353,847; 3,091,071 barrels of cement, $5,268,605; clay products, 28,951 short tons, valued at $207,817; coal and lignite, 821,787 tons, $835,000; Fuller's earth, 45,295 tons, $411,350; gypsum, 112,106 tons, $1,058,869; lime, 36,286 tons, $339,305; sand and gravel, 4,317,312 tons, $2,284,905; stone, 1,215,820 tons, $1,140,589. Miscellaneous minerals valued at $925,396 were also produced.

Mining of copper, lead and silver has been at a standstill since 1929, the report showed. In that year production of these metals had a value, respectively, of $18,693, $19,841, and $149,857.

Pension Plan of Aged Assumes One Of County Aspect

Supporters of an old age pension plan have evidenced themselves in the county by signing of a petition that is in the lobby of the commissioners court. Over 300 persons have signed the papers urging creation of a law that will provide income for persons free from a habitual criminal record who are over 60 years of age.

The petition is addressed to Senators Tom Connally, Morris Sheppard and Congressman Thomas L. Blanton.

The petition urges that $200 be paid persons over 60 years of age and providing it is passed, all of the sum should be spent in each month. The petition urges that a national sales tax be enacted to provide revenue for the plan. Ages of the signers vary from 20 to 81. The plan is believed of Townsend origin. W. L. Coley, Fort Worth attorney, spoke in behalf of the measure in Eastland recently. Representative Blanton, who blocked a House vote on the old age pension bill for the District of Columbia at the last session, is known to be agreeable to some sort of type of national statute. The bill for the District of Columbia, which failed in the House would have paid up to $35 a month to indigents who had lived in the District ten years prior to the passage of the act and who were 65 years of age or older.

THE CHRISTIAN AND THE LORD'S SUPPER
I Cor. 11:23-34

Paul wrote this letter to the church at Corinth from Ephesus during his third missionary journey, A. D. 53-56.

In this passage he pictures again for the people of the church the last supper, originating under the dark shadow of the cross, reminding them that it should ever be a memorial of Christ's death for the remission of sins. Paul explains that this is not his own counsel but "received of the Lord."

Paul remembered that when this rite was instituted he was not a disciple but he put his counsel upon the same level with the companions of Christ by a direct vision. Paul also knew that greed and sin had crept into the church at Corinth in observing the Lord's Supper.

He gently rebuked them for drunkenness and scorn by letting the beautiful light of Christ's words and life shine into the memory of the betrayed night.

"The Lord Jesus in the night in which he was betrayed."

How they must have remembered the Christ, his heart heavy for the people of the world, shadowed by the dark shadow of the cross so near that it darkened into purple; sitting, teaching them to give thanks before eating.

"This cup is the new covenant of my blood; do this, as often as ye drink it, in remembrance of me."

"For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye proclaim the Lord's death till he come."

of praise should be sung, causing all hearts to picture the Christ, dying to save the world from sin. With such a picture gripping the hearts of Christians, they cannot fail to see the Lord's Supper only as a great symbol, setting before them the incarnation and sacrifice of Jesus Christ our Lord. In praise the Christian can pledge anew his faith in Christ.

A new vision can be opened in the heart making everything, even the commonplace things of life beautiful and lovely when accomplished in the light of God's love and approval.

Growth and great strength will bless the life of the person catching this vision. They will mount in Christian service, nearer and nearer to the Christ, partaking of the great beauty and understanding that falls to those who follow the path wherein is found the footprints of Jesus.

Golden Text: For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye proclaim the Lord's death till he come (I Cor. 11:26).

New Tax System Still Being Urged By Some Experts

Editor and student of taxation, today, advocated enactment of a 2 per cent retail sales tax to retire $730,000,000 in local bonds now outstanding in Texas.

Counties, cities, towns, school, road and other taxing districts "became a veritable paradise for bond promoters and graders" 30 years ago, Smith told a senate committee.

"The property owner was forced by law to stand by and watch the dog and gun owner who paid no taxes vote bonds on the landowner's property," Smith said. The senate committee is seeking to make the dog and gun owner pay a part of the government costs. Each hearing develops new support for a sales tax, which James Allred has promised to veto if enacted.
