Dr. Keller Greenfield, formerly of Yoakum, Texas, arrived in Denning this week and has opened his medical offices at the Yoakum County Hospital.

Greenfield is no newcomer to the area, having been born in Yoakum. When he was three years old, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Greenfield, Sr., moved to Yoakum, Texas, and Dr. Greenfield received his medical education in the city of Yoakum.

In 1934, the family moved to Brownfield, where he attended high school and graduated. He was employed for some four years at the Magnolia Oil Company in Brownfield and Midland, before enlisting in the Air Force in 1942, serving as a bombardier-navigator in the Far East theatre of operations.

Released from the service in January of 1946, Dr. Greenfield entered the following March at Baylor University, for pre-medical studies, then attended Baylor Medical School in Houston, graduating in 1953. He interned at Hermann Hospital in Houston, and two years ago established a medical practice in Yoakum.

Greenfield was married in Yoakum to the former Wanda Jean ... DOCTOR on page 6

... considerable work remains to be done, according to Robert Young, manager in the store with Foy Cogburn, but the establishment will be open for business. "We are sorry for the inconvenience caused our customers during the move," Young said yesterday, "and they appreciate their consideration."

The new cement block building has a modern glass front, and is 75 feet long. Interior decorations have been done in a soft green, and fluorescent lights installed, and a floor of asphalt tile laid. New pegboard display fixtures of the latest design, in attractive colors, have been added. Owner of the building is Mrs. Cora Reed.

The firm plans to remodel the rear location next door including a new front, and add a complete line of furniture, it was announced. Augmenting the staff is Jimmie Lou Huffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Huffman, who began her new duties this week.

The store was established by the partners in April of 1951.

More Names on Petition For Hospital - Clinic

Additional signatures on the petitions for a hospital-clinic at Plains—enough to assure a county-wide election being called on the proposition—are expected to be presented at the next meeting of the county commissioner's court, it was learned this week.

Amos Smith, who presented the original petition carrying 67 names at a recent meeting of the commissioners, said yesterday that at least 20 other petitions have been circulated, and he was certain enough bona fide signatures would be obtained to assure an election being called.

Ten per cent of the qualified voters in the county must sign the petition before the calling of such an election by the court is mandatory. The election must pass by a majority.

The petition asks for the building of a $150,000 hospital-clinic at Plains, providing for six or more beds with complete clinical and laboratory equipment, plus modern medical and surgical departments, and all other elements necessary for favorable comparison with other hospital clinics of like size.

The petition proposes that bonds be issued for the purpose of erecting such a hospital-clinic, the bonds to run for a period of not to exceed 15 years and to mature annually as may be determined by the Commissioners Court, and to bear interest at the rate of not to exceed three per cent per annum.

Prayerfully and sincerely,

Nine counties had entries in the Share-The-Fun contest and the Yoakum County boys placed second. They will not get to compete in the state contest unless the district winners fail to attend the Round-Up.

Gean and Ross each played guitars with Ross doing the singing for their six minute act in the contest. They were defeated by a group of six girls from the Spade community in Lamb County who had a similar act.

While at the Round-Up they will take a short course in recreational activities under the direction of the Extension Service Recreation Specialist. They will be accompanied on this trip by Leo White, Yoakum County Agricultural Agent.

THREE COMPENSATION CASES ON FILE THIS WEEK IN DISTRICT COURT

Three compensation cases were filed this week in district court. Texas Employers Insurance Association has been named as defendant in the case filed by Freddie Hinz, resident of Levelland, who alleges that on or about December 30, 1955, he was an employee of the Livermore Drilling Co. in Cochran county, and that while engaged in the regular course of employment was injured.

The plaintiff declares that while unloading one-half of substructure which was about 4 feet thick, 20 feet long and 18 feet high, the truck driver let the winch line slip and the substructure fell on him. As a result, the plaintiff alleges he sustained injuries to the right ankle, foot and leg, and right arm, as well as injuries to his neck, shoulder, and upper back. He further charges that as a result of the injury, he has lost considerable strength in his right arm and hand, and when he attempts to stoop, lift or bend, he is bothered with pain in his back, low back and hip. As a result, the plaintiff alleges that he is totally and permanently disabled from performing manual labor.

The plaintiff sets forth that at the time of the injury, his wages were not less than $531.66 per month, and that his actual earnings for said year preceding the injury were at least $6500. He is asking to receive compensation at the rate of $25 per week for a period of 401 weeks, or a total sum of $10,025.

In the case of Sherman Spencer vs. Houston Fire & Casualty Insurance Co., the plaintiff sets forth that he is a resident of Levelland, and that on or about February 7, he was in the employ of Paul Muslewite in Yoakum county. That while engaged in regular employment and while working a one inch winch, the line broke striking the claimant on the right side of the head, fracturing both right and left jaw bones and causing concussion of the brain. As a result, the plaintiff alleges he suffered concussion and contusion of the brain, causing severe headaches, dizzy spells and injuries to the plaintiff's neck.

The plaintiff sets forth that for more than 12 months preceding the injury he was receiving a wage of $300 per month, and that his actual earnings for the year preceding were at least $3600. He alleges that he is entitled to receive compensation at the rate of $25 per week for 401 weeks or a total of $10,025 for total disability.

Traders and General Insurance Company have been named defendant in the suit brought by R. E. Boss of Denver City. The plaintiff alleges that on October 29, 1955, while in employ of Wayside Gin in Yoakum County, he was suddenly injured. While working on tying out press the lint kicker choked and as he climbed up to help un-pack the packer 10 feet above the floor, the ginner turned packer on which he was standing, and he fell. While he was trying to pull his arm out of the packer, he claims, he was thrown across the sideboards to the line distributor, then fell several feet after missing steps, pulling right shoulder out of place and injuring his back. The claimant alleges the accident also caused rupture of the operation site of a previous gall stone operation.

The claimant sets forth that he was receiving a wage of $433.33 per month, and that actual earnings for the year preceding the injury were at least $5200. He is asking for full compensation of $25 per week for 401 weeks or a total of $10,025.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Wertz of Amarillo left Sunday to return to their home after visiting since Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Aschenbeck. The ladies are sisters.

Mrs. Don Lackey of Lubbock spent last Thursday, Friday and Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alf Carpenter. Mrs. Lackey is going to attend summer classes at Texas Tech beginning this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Compton of Morton spent the day Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alf Carpenter.

The A. B. Carpenter family attended a family reunion in Sweetwater May 27. There were about 40 members of the family present for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Nordyke have been vacationing for the past week. They visited the Black Mountains, Silver City, Hot Springs, and Ruidoso, N. M., and returned home Monday.

ACROSS THE Cattle Guard

By LEO W. WHITE
County Agent

A plentiful supply of Form 2240 has been sent to the County Agents Office. This is the form that a farmer will use when he files for his two cents per gallon Federal Excise Tax on gasoline used for farming operations. Any farmer who is using gasoline as a tractor fuel will be needing one of these forms in the very near future because he will be entitled to a two cent refund on each gallon that he has bought for farm use since December 31, 1955. This new law was signed by the President in April but it was made effective at the beginning of the year and the reporting date is from June 30 through September 30. All of the gasoline that is bought since July 1 will be eligible for the two cent refund provided, of course, that it is used in a farm tractor or irrigation engine and provided that the farmer fills out Form 2240 properly and sends it in. In other words, the government will not make the refund unless the farmer asks for it.

Form 2240 is a card that fits into a large envelope and it has 1956 stamped on it so one card is all that is needed by each farmer who used gasoline to produce crops. It would not be wise to get several cards because new ones will be sent out in 1957. Form 2240 can be obtained from the office of the County Agricultural Agent, the Post Office or the Internal Revenue Office. After this year, the application for refund may be sent in only once each year and it will cover the period from July 1 through June 30.

There is one thing about the new gasoline law that applies to custom operators. It may be more trouble than it is worth but if a farmer hires a combine to harvest his crop, then the farmer is the man who is eligible to send in the gasoline refund and the combine operator. The law also states that the farmer must furnish records with sufficient information to permit verification of the claim by the Internal Revenue Service. This probably means that the combine operator would have to sign a statement that he used a certain number of gallons of gasoline while he was harvesting the crop for the farmer. It would amount to about fifty or sixty cents a day for a self propelled combine.

Diesel fuel is considered a special fuel and after April 3, 1956 when sold for use on a farm for farming purposes, it is exempt from the excise tax. A farmer who bought diesel fuel for farming purposes between the period of December 31, 1955 and April 3, 1956, will be eligible for a two cent per gallon refund.

Most of the farmers in Yoakum use butane to operate their tractors but there are a few who are using gasoline. The County Agent doesn't have a record of which farmers use gasoline as fuel so the forms can't be mailed out. If it isn't convenient to come by the office and get the form, then we will mail them to those who request them by mail or telephone. The main interest of the County Agent in this matter is that the farmers know the facts. It is being said on the present day farmer that he can make more money with a pencil than with his plow. That is an overemphasis but it points out one certainty. It takes penciling as well as plowing to keep up with present day agriculture and a farmer relying on either exclusively will be out of the running. Computing gasoline tax refunds will be well worth the effort of the farmer who uses gasoline on his farm.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson this week were their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Roberts. Warren is stationed at the Navy Base in San Diego, Calif., and is currently on leave. The couple will return to San Diego next week where Warren will finish his time in service. Mrs. Roberts has been working in Big Spring for the past six weeks while Mr. Roberts finished boot training.

AUSTIN, Tex. — Nearly 100,000 young Texans take off their mortar boards and roll up their sleeves this week.

Analysts predict that figures, when complete, will show a record number of diplomas and degrees awarded this year.

Texas Education Agency pegs public high school graduates at between 64,000 and 65,000. Degrees being conferred by state-supported colleges and universities are estimated by the Texas Legislative Council at 20,000. Private and church-supported schools swell the graduate rolls several thousand more.

Awaiting these young people, said commencement speakers, is unprecedented opportunity. Examples of the '56 high school graduate's future, as outlined by an Austin speaker: (1) a longer life span — 44 years ahead for boys, 49 for girls; (2) higher earnings averaging a quarter million dollars apiece; (3) less work, dwindling to a 30-hour week and (4) ever-increasing ease and leisure as technology advances.

Concrete evidence of the speakers' promises is the job placement story. University of Texas Student Employment Bureau reports five to ten job offers per graduate at better than ever salaries. Personnel in some deans' offices speak warily of the impossibility of coping with the year-end flood of would-be employers.

High school officials say many graduates began work between their last exam and commencement night.

MIXED REACTION TO HIGHWAY BILL — A bonanza or a blunder — Texans are in disagreement as to which term applies to the new federal highway bill.

Senate passage of the bill left only a few details to be ironed out in House-Senate conference before sending the measure to the President. Final enactment will set into motion a 13-year, $51,000,000,000 interstate highway construction program.

Texas Highway Department officials are frankly jubilant. They are poised to begin letting contracts August 1, using the new supply of federal funds. "We'll be scraping the bottom of the barrel in the July letting," said State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer.

Greer said the new law would mean a minimum increase of $7,000,000 a year in federal road building aid to Texas — or double the present amount.

He called it "the most far-reaching piece of highway legislation yet enacted." He predicted an era of unparalleled development.

Gov. Allan Shivers was less enthusiastic. He charged turning a state function over to "bungling bureaucracy" made it unduly costly.

His objection was to the provision giving the Secretary of Labor, rather than the states, power to set wages on all contracts. "This means a third less highway mileage than the people would otherwise get," said Shivers.

"Tax money always dwindles in value," said the governor, "when it is sent to Washington for processing and returned to the states."

LEARNING — A rising skyline has been proposed to meet the University of Texas' critical classroom needs.

Pres. Logan Wilson suggests that the only two remaining sites on the original 40-acre campus be used for eight-story buildings. Most present buildings have four floors. For development five to ten years hence, Dr. Wilson recommends expanding to the east of the present campus in the area adjacent to Memorial Stadium.

"TV TRIAL" APPEALED — Fairness of the first televised murder trial in Texas history is being challenged in the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Defense attorneys charge that Dist. Atty. Tom Moore of Waco was more interested in "putting on a show" in the Waco trial of Harry L. Washburn, than in giving the man a fair trial.

LAW VIOLATION ADMITTED — Violation of Texas Election law was admitted by C. T. Johnson in a deposition just taken in Austin. Johnson admitted spending $1,200 in travel expenses during his 1954 campaign for Lt. Governor, but reported only $125 to the Secretary of State. Previously he had testified under oath that he had spent "no more and no less" than $125.

TRUST CREDITORS FACE TANGLE — US Trust and Guaranty Co. depositors still may have a long, weary wait for their money.

Plains High School Grads Report on Senior Trip

(Editor's Note: The following account of the senior class trip was submitted for publication in The Review.)

The graduating class of 1956 left at midnight May 18 for Colorado Springs. Making the trip were Beth Ward, Velma Wilson, Betty Jackson, Avid Sudduth, Nell Randall, Norma Strickland, Sandra Pharr, Mylone Patterson, Carter Snodgrass, Bobby Chambliss, Earl Robertson, Melroy Borland, Bobby Moore, Jerry Brantley, Tom McRae, Troy Farquhar, Neil Billingsley, Tommy Barren, Joe Brown, Lanny Smith, Mrs. Reda Mae Snodgrass, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Taylor, Mr. B. J. Campbell and Mrs. Jo Verden. The group left the Roger Harveys on a chartered bus driven by Jim McClendon of Lubbock.

The first stop was in Hereford to stretch about fifteen minutes. About twenty miles out of Dalhart, sleep was interrupted by a blow-out. We got to Dalhart and had it fixed, much to our surprise, with everything that was going on around the station and cafe. Breakfast was eaten in Raton, New Mexico, with biscuits that would knock a horse down a mile off.

A coke stop was made between Pueblo and Colorado Springs. The group entered Colorado Springs about twelve o'clock and after getting on the wrong street a time or two found its way to the Ute Courts. Rooms were assigned and suitcases unloaded, but not unpacked except for a bathing suit to journey to Broadmoor swimming pool. It was so crowded that very little swimming was done. We went back to the courts and unpacked, ate supper, and went to a movie.

Sunday morning was started off bright and early by a certain character that got up at five o'clock with nothing to do until church time. We attended the Church of Christ Sunday morning, ate dinner, and went out to the Garden of the Gods. It started raining before we arrived back at the courts. After eating supper the group attended the Bethany Baptist church and afterwards went to a movie.

Monday morning was started off by the same character getting up at five o'clock to wake everyone else up. We cooked breakfast and ate, except Joe Brown and Neil Billingsley never did get enough to eat or it wasn't the right thing or what they wanted. Everyone boarded the bus to go to Cripple Creek with the exception of two who didn't have their nap out. We went through the Mollie Kathleen mine which is 1,000 feet down under the ground. After going thru the mine we drove on into Cripple Creek and visited the ghost town. We almost lost one of our passengers trying to find out the person who owned some old cars. Can you guess which one that might be? The group saw about every kind of old car that was imaginable. Some of the town had been cleaned up and most of the houses had been bought for summer homes. We ate lunch at the park and got some new directions to go to Royal Gorge. The bus driver almost gave up before we got back to civilization, even though we saw some pretty country, investigated several bridges before we crossed them, and put some more rattles in the dear bus on those rub board roads. We all went in the Royal Gorge entrance. Most everyone walked across the swinging bridge and went down to the bottom of the Gorge to view the Arkansas river. Ask Beth how sick you can get on that swinging bridge. We got back to the courts about seven and waited for the ice palace to open. Tom thinks that the ice comes up and hits you instead of you hitting the ice. He had quite a fall and several others came out with some blue spots. Mrs. Snodgrass still has hopes of someday just learning to stand up on ice skates whether she gets around the rink or not.

Tuesday morning was started out by the same girl. After eating breakfast the group left for a full day in Denver. We arrived about nine thirty at the bus station. The bus driver went to service the bus and the group of students went to the capitol, museum, and then shopping. At one thirty the group boarded the bus to go out to the zoo and museum of natural history. Anyone wanting to go can get the directions by asking Mr. Taylor. Don't be surprised if you wind up twenty-two blocks the opposite direction. Mr. Campbell received directions to go to the Lakeside amusement park. Much to our surprise we got to the place without having to turn around and go back the opposite way. The amusement park has almost any kind of a ride you might want to take. The one where most of the Plains money was spent was on the bumper cars. Joe of course talked another person into riding the hammer with him and said a few prayers before he got off. Mr. Campbell can help the barrels in the crazy house, but anyone that wants to go through take some advice and be sure he never helps you through. He wound up on the floor with the other person beside him and both had to be carried out. It rained on us all the way home that night.

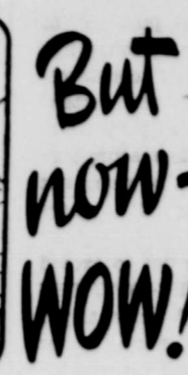

Wednesday morning was started off again at five by the same varmint. Everyone went horse back riding except the sponsors, Avis and Neil. They were glad they didn't go when everybody started moaning and groaning. That afternoon the group walked to the Cliff Dwelling and on to the Cave of the Winds which was only supposed to be twelve blocks and turned out to be about four miles of climbing. At least they said that Miss Verden told them it was only twelve blocks and she will probably never live those many miles of hard climbing down. Wednesday night the bus driver called and made reservations at Maria's for Mexican dinners. It was ready if we would hurry. We entered the cafe at seven and got out at nine-twenty. The bus driver almost walked home that night. Part of the group went roller skating and part of them went to the show.

Thursday morning was invaded by a little tiny girl instead of the usual early bird. After breakfast had been eaten there was a search made for Mr. Campbell and Joe Brown before we left for Seven Falls and the zoo. We didn't find him but he sure wishes we had. At least he might not be the owner of a buggy. If you see a horse drawn carriage going up and down the streets next year, you can say that Mr. Campbell will explain to the freight agent next time that he is wanting to ship a buggy, that it's not a baby buggy. Seems like Mr. Taylor has half interest in it. They may charge to ride in it to help pay the freight bill that it cost to get it here. We stopped by a grocery store coming home and bought stuff to make sandwiches and surprised our bus driver with a birthday cake and gift. After eating everyone went to different places. Some went horse back riding, shopping, to the movies, roller skating and ice skating with the Meadow group.

A different set of people were heard from the next morning. I think Mr. Taylor had to wake the early birds which were usually Betty and Jerry, but one morning happened to be Beth and Velma. Our journey home was started at seven thirty. We came by Canon City and went through the prison where the last few dollars some people owned were spent. The next stop made was in Walsenburg for some of the hungry ones to eat lunch. The country had changed quite a bit on the way home due to some good rains. The group ate supper in Dalhart and made one last stop in Muleshoe to coffee up. We arrived home at midnight, a tired group, but one that had had a most enjoyable time. Thanks to everyone who helped make it possible.

WANDA SUE SIMS BECOMES BRIDE OF ALTON BILLINGS ON SUNDAY

In a lovely and impressive ceremony held Sunday afternoon, June 5, at the First Methodist church in Plains, Miss Wanda Sue Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sims, became the bride of Alton Earl Billings, son of Mrs. Ruby Billings. All are of the Bronco community.

The double-ring service was solemnized at four o'clock, with the Rev. B. C. Stapleton, pastor, officiating at the rites.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white French lace, over satin, fashioned with scalloped neckline and hemline, and of waltz length. Her veil of matching lace cascaded from a scalloped crown of lace over satin, trimmed with pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red roses atop a white Bible.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Jan Sims, while Frances Payne of Plains was bridesmaid. Pamela Randolph was flower girl, with Reg Trout as ringbearer.

Serving as best man was Leroy Edwards of Bronco, and usher duties were carried out by Dallas

Navy Enlisting All Texas South Plains Unit Now

The United States Navy is enlisting an all Texas South Plains high school company in June 1956. All recruiting stations in the South Plains area are now accepting applications for this special company. This special Texas South Plains company will receive their recruit training at San Diego, California. This select group will be completely processed, both mentally and physically, prior to enlistment date on 29 June 1956, and then will board a special train for the U. S. Navy Training Center in San Diego, California. The length of recruit training for this special company will be nine weeks.

The Texas South Plains high school company will compete for honors with other all state companies from all over the United States. Competition will be in military bearing, all phases of sports and recreational activities. This will be the first company of its type ever enlisted anywhere.

If you are interested in serving with this special Texas Company of the world's greatest navy, if you want to get your military obligation over with at an early age, and at the same time learn a worthwhile trade as well as serving with your friends and buddies, then contact your local navy recruiter immediately at any of the following places. ## OVERFLOW CROWD HEARS SPEAKER AT COTTON CONGRESS IN LUBBOCK

An overflow crowd heard Lamar Fleming, Jr., discuss what Americans are paying for their price support program.

Mr. Fleming, Anderson, Clayton & Co.'s Board Chairman, was the featured speaker at the 17th Annual American Cotton Congress meeting held in Lubbock May 31-June 2.

"The supports have accelerated the expansion of cotton growing and production of alternative materials here and in other countries, and have contributed to the accumulation of a crushing surplus", Mr. Fleming said.

To check this accumulation of surplus, we have restored to restriction of cotton acreage, and American farmers have been deprived of freedom to plant cotton on new cotton lands and compelled to reduce their cotton acreage on old cotton lands. This substantially has stopped the natural migration of cotton-growing to lands within this Country that can produce it cheaper than the less suitable of the old lands, so that natural reductions in the production cost of the U. S. cotton have been impeded. Moreover, the reduction of acreage on every cotton form has increased the cost of production of all of them, just as running a factory on a short-time basis increases its costs. And the objects of checking accumulation of surplus has not been accomplished. Obviously, it cannot be done merely by restricting cotton acreage in this Country; since that has no restrictive effect on cotton production in other countries or production of competitive materials here and in other countries.

"These devices have cost the farmer his freedom in use of his land and his possibility of achieving low production-cost on the land that he still is permitted to use.

Now we are embarking on a continuous fire sale of our cotton for export, until the surplus is dissipated. This involves the sacrifice of hundreds of millions of the value of the surplus cotton in which the taxpayers' money is invested, the milking of American consumers for many times more in the difference between an artificial domestic price and foreign prices, and grave handicaps on our textile industry in competition with foreign mills. It involves a ruthlessness toward foreign competitors which is entirely at variance with and destructive of our national policy of promoting expansion, cooperation, and equity in foreign trade, as well as our national interest in friendship with other peoples.

"The further we go with price supports and with the unnatural measures that become necessary to protect them, the greater the cost becomes to the cotton farmer himself and to the rest of the American people.

"We cannot ignore the rest of the American people; for we are only a small fraction, and we can have no cotton program at all except by their sufferance. If they conclude that our fraction is too expensive or too fractions, some day they will write the ticket, and perhaps not with too great consideration for us. It seems to me that continuation of the arrogantly demanding attitude of some groups which profess to represent cotton, if it is continued, inevitably in the end will provoke the American people to what has been called an agonizing re-appraisal.

"I hope the cotton growers of the Country will have the wisdom to do the reappraising themselves. They know that income is just a matter of price, that it is volume times price, less cost of production. They know that cost of production is lower on some lands than others. On the best lands, they know that the lowest cost is achieved when the cotton field is fitted in size to full use of labor-saving equipment and machines. They know that regimentation of acreage checks the movement of production to the land of lower production cost and frustrates reduction of cost on all farms. So they know that attainment of the lowest possible cost of production depends upon elimination of acreage regimentation and return to freedom in use of the land.

"But without a drop in price to increase offtake, the increase in volume would mean a further accumulation of surplus. There must be a drop in price.

"The domestic offtake would increase with a drop in price to the extent that it made cotton more competitive with synthetics and that it fitted the products more easily into the buying budgets of could be increased in the same consumers. The foreign outlets way, provided our price were low enough in relation to prices of foreign cottons. And a lower price unquestionably would deter the expansion of foreign cotton production and would tend to diminish those foreign productions that are high in cost, which some of them undoubtedly are. For no cotton growers anywhere will continue or expand cotton growing if they can't sell their crops for cost plus a living.

"We are told over and over that American farmers cannot produce cotton at a cost competitive with costs in other countries, on account of the differences in labor rates. I am sure this is true under conditions of regimented acreage. I would challenge the truth of it if our farmers had again their entire freedom to grow cotton on the lands best suited for it and on the scale of operation best suited to their investment in land and equipment.

The element of cost in which the foreigner has the advantage is labor. In all the other elements of cost, it is we who have the advantage. We spread our expensive labor by our greater means of mechanization. We already have gins and oil mills, built at lower than present costs, whereas new ones must be provided in the new foreign cotton areas at the present high costs. We have superior ports, warehouses transportation, communications, technical assistance, and marketing organization. We have a tremendous advantage in the availability and cost of credit. Machines and implements for farming, ginning, and crushing are more expensive to foreigners and come mostly from American factories. Their insecticides and and fertilizers are more expensive than ours; and the ingredients come mostly from this Country. Their fuel and lubricants and power are more expensive than ours. Then foreign cottons have to pay export taxes or other corresponding tolls before they reach a foreign market. On Mexican cotton, the tax is 5 1/2 cents.

"In some of the countries of very low standards of living, cotton may be grown cheaper than we can grow it by people who never have known a condition far from starvation. But the dynamic expansions of cotton production have not been in that kind of country. Mexico is a good example of the dynamic expansion. I would like to see proof that cotton can be grown there and the export taxes paid upon it, with a combined cost less than the cost on an efficient U. S. cotton farm, operated at its most efficient rate.

"Until we can reduce our cotton surplus, we cannot avoid transitional measures that would be objectionable if regarded as permanent policy during this period. I see no choice but to continue to limit our cotton acreage. I hope this can be done rather through the workings of the Soil Bank and Conservation Reserve than through marketing quotas and acreage allotments; for this would ease the growers hardships and would substitute voluntary agreement for regimentation and tend less to drive cotton production from the lands where production costs are cheapest. I would hope the price supports would be scaled down with a gradualness that would at least temper the hardships involved. I would hope too that our price cutting in foreign markets would be eased gradually upward so that eventually our export and domestic price curves would come together again.

"I believe the ultimate salvation for our cotton economy must be sought in fundamentals—in making use of the bestland resources we have in reducing the cost of production on such land by ever better farming and by operating at the rates most efficient for each unit, and by meeting competition price-wise both in the home market and the foreign market. That way, we will not be
