LISTEN TO LUKE

You don't start growing a beard May 16, you may be a very popular, or unpopular, person in Sanderson.

The local Lions Club has undertaken the project of seeing that every male citizen is encouraged in growing a beard to help give enthusiasm to the Fiftieth Anniversary celebration here July 16.

Permits to go beardless may be purchased for those who for one reason or another can't adorn their "mugs" with whiskers. There are some who, for professional reasons would be obliged to shave, and some who must shave or lose their jobs. But Mr. Average Citizen has a reason other than personal dislikes for the hairy growth of beard on their faces, for not having.

The stunt is designed to only promote enthusiasm for the coming event, and is in no way intended to embarrass, ridicule or constrain in any way, an individual, who does not enter into the project in the manner of fun in which it is intended.

Certainly no strong arm tactics will be used against those who feel they don't want to enter into the theme, but it would be a fine and fun-furnishing event if every male would attempt a resemblance to a set of whiskers — even if it is only a shadow.

Daily shaving is a chore, certainly, and the opportunity to take a vacation from the task is a little incentive, even if one can only look forward with dread to the day when the clipper, scissors, strong soap, razor and a strong determination are needed to rid the face of the unsightly mess of discolored hair.

Certainly we would rather have a man go barefooted, almost, than to have to put up with growing an ugly, unsightly wad of hair on our countenance, but that is the way things have turned, and so we will try as hard as the next person — as soon as we are forced to — to grow some whiskers.

Already the job of housing of many visitors has become a cause for concern to the housing committee. It will be necessary for every room and bed to be made available to a friend or acquaintance as local accommodations will be filled probably far in advance by reservations.

If you have a room or more, call Luke, the chairman of the committee, or call Mrs. Jettie Harvey, who will assist in listing available quarters.

The more we talk about rain in this column, the more we have to talk about.

And we're not taking credit for the rains, either.

More spotted showers and hard rains came to portions of the county Sunday with heavy overcast here up until Monday evening late when we had reports of other showers around and then again Tuesday and Wednesday.

It is a blessing, without doubt!

We heard Tuesday that the Pecos River crossing was under way. (Continued to Page 2)

Minimum Price of CCC Wool Continues Until November 1

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that the present minimum selling price for wool owned by the Commodity Credit Corporation will be continued until November 1, according to a wire received by R. W. Hodge, president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association.

"This is a policy that we and the National Wool Growers Association have been working for since it was announced that the Defense Department would not use any of these wools for use in manufacture and storing of cloth," Hodge added.

"It is hoped that this announcement will tend to help the wool market in general as the 1955 clip is now moving into the warehouses in Texas. These CCC wools have been hanging over the market and naturally depress it."

Penrose B. Metcalfe, Vice-President of the National Wool Growers' Association, and a past president of the TS&GRA, spent considerable time in Washington in April with other officers of the National Wool Growers' Association on this problem, Hodge said.

'Bodie' Hunter, Former Coach, Dies Wednesday

Marfa — Boren (Bodie) Hunter, 48, who was head coach-principal of the Marfa High School, died of a heart attack at his home Wednesday morning.

Hunter was coach of the Sanderson High School for one year just prior to his going to Marfa 13 years ago.

Mr. Hunter had to leave school Tuesday after having been ill all last week.

Born in 1907 in Gatesville, he received his early schooling in the schools of that city and attended Texas Tech and Daniel Baker College in Brownwood.

He had served as athletic director of the Marfa High School before being given the position of principal-coach.

Hunter was an active member of the First Presbyterian Church in Marfa where he served as Sunday school superintendent.

Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. Thursday from the First Presbyterian Church in Marfa. Additional services will be held Friday at the First Christian Church in Brownwood where burial will be made.

Dalton Hogg has attended the General Motors Training Center at El Paso to learn advanced automotive service techniques. His course was in various phases of body repair work.

E. J. Hanson, owner of McKnight Motor Co., where Hogg is employed, stated that the school is aimed to give customers the benefit of improved technicians.

Eagles Lose 5-7 To Rankin Nine

The Sanderson Eagles lost their last home baseball game of the season to the Rankin nine here Tuesday afternoon. The game went for two extra innings and ended 7-5 in favor of Rankin.

The game was tied up 4-4 in the seventh inning, with the 8th frame going scoreless.

In the ninth inning, with two on, a Rankin batter got a hit that scored a runner from third. On the play there was a wild throw to third which allowed another runner to score and immediately following, Roland McDonald, Eagle pitcher, committed a balk, walking in the third score of that inning.

Sanderson came to bat in the bottom of the ninth with Gary Harrell, 1st baseman, the first batter. He slammed a drive between second and short, going through the center fielder for a home run, his second of the day. The other three batters were retired in order to end the ball game.

Juan Ramirez also scored a round tripper earlier in the game.

McDonald went the full nine innings for the Eagles, walking only one batter, Higinio Pena was the catcher.

Carroll Eggleston played second base; Kenneth Stutes, short stop; Popo Flores, third base; Dickie Escamilla, left field; Juan Ramirez, center field and A. Salazar, right field.

Sanderson has one loss to Big Lake and a win from McCamey, plus the loss to Rankin Tuesday.

A Court of Awards was held on Wednesday night at the Scout Hut for girls of Troop No. 2.

Eleven girls were awarded first class badges because of their efforts in earning at least 10 proficiency badges in various fields. It was necessary to get at least four badges in one field of work, such as home-making, fine arts, crafts, or sports to qualify for the first class award.

The girls who were awarded their first class badges were: Diane Brown, Joan Wood, Susan Harkins, Melinda Gilbreath, Sue Vaun Haynes, Cecil Hufford, Kay Williams, Vicki Littleton, Kathleen Robbins, Sharon Wooten, Peggy Teenor.

The program began with the flag ceremony, pledge of allegiance, and the Girl Scout Promise, followed by the singing of the Scout song, "Girl Scouts Together", and the song "Our Chalet."

Mrs. Gilbreath made the presentation of the awards to the girls.

The leaders served refreshments to thirteen girls and many of the parents and the Girl Scout Council.

The girls are planning a two-day trip to Mitre Peak on May 20. They will be under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbreath and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brown.

The local administrators also pointed out that they have not yet received the necessary forms for the handling of account sales receipts of wool and mohair on the incentive payment plan; but added that area ranchmen will be notified when the ASC office is ready to begin processing the receipts.

SANDERSONIAN'S KIN CASUALTIES OF FIRE

Two Latin-American farm workers near McCamey were fatally burned Friday afternoon by flames from a butane tank which ignited on the farm belonging to R. N. Fowler of Amarillo. Four small houses and several pieces of farm equipment were also destroyed by the fire.

Tomas Rejino, 20, and Benny Rodriguez, 24, died in a McCamey hospital Saturday afternoon as a result of second and third degree burns. L. C. Rejino, father of Tomas and father-in-law of Rodriguez, also received serious burns in the fire.

L. C. Rejino is a cousin of Feliciano Romo of Sanderson.

Funeral services for the two fire victims were held in McCamey on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Anderson and children spent the week-end in Uvalde and D'Hanis with relatives.

Improvements Noted in Growth Of SCD in Texas

The Texas State Soil Conservation District law was passed in 1939. Since that time, 171 Soil Conservation Districts, embracing 96 per cent of the land area of Texas, have been organized. Each of these districts is a subdivision of state government. Each district is governed by a five-man board of supervisors made up of landowners. The supervisors are elected by the landowners within the district.

Each Soil Conservation District has an inventory of soil conditions as they exist within the local district and a plan of work which supplies the possible remedies for soil and water conservation problems. Each district in the state has one or more work units of Soil Conservation Service Technicians who help individual landowners map their soils, plan for needed soil conservation work and furnish engineering and planning help. Other agricultural agencies such as the Extension Service, Vocational Agriculture and the various federal lending agencies assist the landowners plan and carry out Soil and Water Conservation Programs on their individual farms or ranches.

Any landowner can receive help from his Soil Conservation District by making application to the board of supervisors in his district. Application to the district and help from the district does not involve any financial obligations.

As of January 1, 1955, there were 160,000 farmers and ranchers cooperating with the districts. This is 41 per cent of the farm and ranch units and 55 per cent of the farm and ranch land in Texas. The number of district cooperators is increasing by about 15,000 per year.

Considering that soil conservation district supervisors serve without pay, the job they have done during the past 15 years is a monumental one. These stewards of the soil deserve the cooperation and support of all of the people of the nation.

Ways of assisting a soil conservation district are listed as:

1. Becoming a good district cooperator;
2. Getting acquainted with your district supervisors;
3. Encouraging friends and acquaintances to become cooperators and
4. Promoting the local district program.

Rain Clouds Recall Flood of June 1954

Rain clouds which have hovered near Sanderson, especially to the northeast and east, are reminiscent of similar clouds which brought disastrous torrents to the people of Ozona and along the Pecos River, in the Independence Creek area of Terrell County, and caused the wash-out of the Pecos River bridge on U. S. 90 last June.

Very dark and dismal clouds have passed to the north of Sanderson in an eastward direction of travel during several days this week with heavy lightning accompanying the clouds and often reports of strong winds.

Local businessmen have been viewing the heavy clouds with a mixed inner emotion, realizing only too well what rain means to this country and also realizing what another disaster such as last year's could do to nearby residents, and also to the temporary crossing on the Pecos.

The complete cessation of traffic through Sanderson last year was an extreme hardship on the entire population here, businessmen and others alike.

One rainfall in the Pandale and Langtry area put the Pecos River up to a reported height of six feet over the bridge, but no damage was done to the crossing and traffic was resumed as soon as the water subsided.

Alerts sent out to tourists traveling in both directions slowed traffic slightly through Wednesday.

Rainfall in Sanderson gauged 17 on Friday afternoon and 63 Sunday afternoon, bringing the total for the two-week period to two inches. Varied amounts have been reported from ranches of the county with the area to the south and southeast receiving the smallest amounts. Ranchers report that the ranges are already showing good growth of brush and weeds as a result of the rains.

George Turner, who ranches on the old Billings ranch near Langtry, had from 4 to 6 inches of rain Monday night. He reports an excellent lamb crop with plenty of feed on the range and he has had frequent rains all Spring.

School Bands Heard In Spring Concert Here Monday Night

The Sanderson school bands presented their annual Spring concert in the high school auditorium Monday evening.

The concert consisted of march music, overtures and novelty tunes. Eighty-three students participated in the concert, directed by Charles Matney.

Three members of the senior band who played for their last time, since they are May graduates of the Sanderson High School, were Kenneth Stutes, Estela Flores and Juanita Valdez.

Challenge to Management and Labor

When fair-minded and intelligent people sit down together, each with an appreciation of the other's self-interest, progress can be made towards solving some of the most difficult problems confronting individuals, groups and the nation.

The Forum brought together 120 people from all walks of life, all receptive to developing a better understanding of varying interests and viewpoints.

At the Forum were organized labor officials and union members, industrial and business executives, clergymen, college presidents and professors, public school administrators, civic club representatives — in fact, a good cross-section of America.

Both men are intelligent and fair-minded. Each showed an appreciation of the other's self-interest, viewpoint and organizational interest.

Sound Labor Talk

Here are some excerpts from the thinking of Perrin McElroy:

LEONA BENDER, popular radio star of KTSA says, "Every woman knows Karo is best for cooking... and on the table..."

it's Karo for me, the best-tasting waffle syrup of 'em all'

Yes, indeed... biscuits go like hot cakes when you pour on plenty of delicious Karo waffle syrup. There's nothing like it for good eating. Satisfyin' flavor. So rich it stands right up on top of biscuits (keeps 'em light and fluffy). Keep Karo on your table morning, noon and night... it tops anything!

Ask your grocer for Karo waffle syrup, in pints and quarts who rose step by step through the ranks of organized labor to become a wide recognized leader.

"Employees have absolute responsibility unto themselves and to their local union. They have a qualified responsibility to the community and to the public. Too many times in negotiations both employer and employee forget the third man at the table, which is Mr. John Q. Public, unless he can and will buy that which is produced by labor and management, then we had better look for another goose, for we are going to kill the one that is laying the golden egg (the American economic system)."

"I have oftentimes told labor groups that if we want to be square, not only with ourselves but with our community, then there must be foresight. There is your side, there is my side, there is the public's side and then there is the right side. And the right side invariably embraces part of each of the other three sides."

"Any representative of labor can put his people on the street and take them out of work. The intelligent labor representative is the one who can keep his people working and get for his people that for which they are rightfully entitled. Any worker can pick up a small piece of wood and chalk and sit down and determine how much he is going to lose if they are on strike to get two, three, four or five cents an hour increase, and the strike stretches out beyond a few weeks."

"There is a need in today's world for a blending of thinking, a coordination of planning and the channeling of conduct — so that to the community, the state and nation may best be served. I believe that we, employer and employee, search for that which we believe to be security the likes of which we have never before encountered. And in groping around in the dark, I believe that we can well ask for wisdom, for talents and for the grace of leadership that we may better serve this America of which we are a part."

Monday night and it just left us with remembrances of our predicament last summer when we had no east-west traffic. We sure hope that the highway department is busy with plans for the permanent bridge and that construction can begin soon.

We don't want the rains to cease or delay in waiting for the new bridge, but neither do we want the bridge builders to wait for another flood to wash out the temporary construction.

If you are the type who would normally have tendencies to be superstitious, notice the dateline on the paper if you get the paper before Friday. — Yes, it is the 13th, and yes, it is Friday.

We are not the kind who would let a little thing like the day of the week that a certain day falls on hurt us, but we are not going to take any chances on bad luck coming our way, either. But we don't normally take such chances on Monday, the 4th, or Wednesday the 25th, either.

We just want to be sure that those who are superstitious, have a reminder of something to be superstitious about.

Austin—Right down to the wire, the Legislature fought out the battle of taxation.

Pay of the legislators — $25 per day — stopped May 10. So there was all the more reason, from their point of view, that the toughest, most complex and controversial problem of the session be solved as soon as possible.

First, the House passed a tax bill, increasing or putting new levies on gasoline, cigarettes, snuff, tobacco, natural gas, trading stamps, uranium, and wine and beer dealers.

When this bill went to the Senate, amendments were introduced to tax auto storage and parking lots, jewelry, furs and clothing, storage warehouses, airlines, real estate brokers, chemical manufacturers, hotels, tourist lodges, department stores and chain stores.

Sen. Dorsey Hardeman, chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee, scheduled hearings almost as fast as amendments were introduced. First witness was E. H. Thornton, Jr., chairman of the State Highway Commission. He asked that the state tax on gasoline be set at six cents per gallon, instead of the present four cents. (The House bill increased the gasoline tax to five cents.)

Gov. Allan Shivers had advocated a two-cent increase in the gasoline tax to provide for the state's highway needs.

He continues to express the hope that there be no income or sales tax.

Big question is whether the House will accept what the Senate does — especially if it changes the gas levy.

Political Aspect While they were discharging their legislative duties, some members were thinking seriously about the political campaigns of a year hence.

Mentioned often as potential candidates for Governor have been John Ben Shepperd, U. S. Sen. Price Daniel, Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey and Sen. Jimmy Phillips.

But a new face entered the picture this week when Sen. Otis Lock of Lufkin was approached by friends who urged him to give serious consideration to the race for Governor in 1956.

Shivers Returns Governor Allan Shivers brought back much news from Washington.

In a long press conference he made the flat assertion that the Democratic Party cannot nominate another left-wing candidate and win.

He repeated that he did not intend to support Adlai Stevenson as the nominee for President next year.

He praised the work of U. S. Sen. Lyndon Johnson as Senate majority leader.

He stated that he had started negotiations with U. S. Interior Secretary McKay, looking to the solution of technical problems involving control of tidelands oil and gas leasing — and he expressed the opinion that Texas' tidelands problems were more technical than legal.

Shivers may ask the Legislature to set up state control over the distribution of polio vaccine. His decision will follow a conference with Dr. Henry Holte, state commissioner of health.

One of Shivers' first visitors on his return from Washington was 12-year-old Bernard Andrews. He is spelling champion of the Negro elementary schools of Houston.

Young Andrews told the Governor and Rep. Charles Murphy of Houston that the hardest word he had to spell in winning the championship and a trip to Austin by airplane, was "zephyr".

Park Bill Passes Ready for Governor Shivers' signature is the long-fought park bill.

Jointly sponsored by Rep. Charles Murphy of Houston and Sen. Carlos Ashley of Llano, the measure provides for $25,000,000 worth of bonds to build tourist accommodations in state parks.

The entire program is self-liquidating.

Veterans Land Program Loopholes in the veterans land program will be plugged if bills by Dolph Briscoe and Rep. Buckshot Lane meet with Senate approval.

These two House-passed measures would set up stiff requirements and regulations for land purchases and place full responsibility for administration of the program on the shoulders of the chairman of the Veterans Land Board.

'Moonlight Prom' Given For Young Set Thursday Night

The Masonic Hall was converted into a moonlit garden Thursday evening for a formal dance sponsored by several mothers of high school students. Hostesses for the "Moonlight Prom" were Mesdames H. M. Beckett, Weldon Cox, E. L. Van Cleave, Peggy Sullivan, J. D. Nichols, J. W. Carruthers, Jr., C. C. Mitchell, Carl Werneking, E. F. Pierson, Jerry Bell, H. C. Rock, Hollis Haley, T. O. Moore and F. N. Harrell.

Entrance to the hall was made over a bridge with potted plants and decorative figurines arranged to each side beneath trees by the water's edge. The favors, toy guitars, were on a table by the door. Blue cellophane paper shaded the lights in the hall and the ceiling of the hall was a canopy of strips of blue and white crepe paper in a swag-effect. The background of the front stage was a trellis covered in red roses over which changeable lights played. A realistic bird bath and bird house were to one side with chairs and settees arranged around a table in the garden. Evergreens formed the foreground decoration of the simulated garden scene and the area where the orchestra was seated. A large full moon enhanced the garden scene.

Punch and cookies were served throughout the evening from the table of the well arranged to one side.

The grand march was led by Kenneth Stutes and Sarah Pat Crosby with Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson operating the piano music. The Kivell orchestra from Marfa furnished music for the dance.

About 85 of the high school set attended the prom.
