Austin - Main impact of the 54th Legislature will be felt next week when most of the bills it passed will become state law.

Taking effect September 6 will be laws designed to eliminate insurance abuses, overhaul the scandal-racked veterans land program and restrict some labor union activities.

Tax increases are most likely to be noticed first. To augment state revenue by $50 million per year, new levies were placed on beer, cigarettes, gasoline and corporate franchises.

Ultimate payment will fall to the consumer.

Nine major insurance bills are aimed at strengthening the industry and providing better protection for the buying public. Capitalization and surplus requirements will be raised, and sale of insurance securities and stock regulated.

Individual insurance commissioners will be empowered to act together as a board. Insurance counselors will be licensed, and agents will have to pass an examination.

Veterans land program legislation will tighten regulations and impose more stringent controls on both buyers and sellers. Both are made liable to jail terms up to 10 years and fines up to $10,000 for fraud or misrepresentation.

Major labor legislation includes the "Port Arthur bill" It will enable employers to enjoin strikes by a union which cannot show it represents a majority of workers. Already effective is the "Ford Motor bill" denying unemployment payments of union workers by a strike in another plant of their company.

Other new laws will provide $7-million more for public assistance and bring 30,000 more state employees and college professors under federal Social Security. Corruptive comic books will be banned, and incorporation requirements will be broadened to include "any lawful purpose".

Integration Upheld

Big Spring's test case on the legality of Texas public school integration headed toward the Supreme Court.

A suit to enjoin the Texas Education Agency and comptroller from making payments to desegregated schools was denied in district court. Judge Charles N. Sullivan ruled invalid that part of the Gilmer-Aikin law which applies to segregation.

Notice of appeal was given at once by the attorney for the pro-segregation Texas Citizens Council who brought the suit. If the district court opinion is upheld, there apparently would be no need for an immediate special session of the legislature to revise the school laws.

Attny. Gen. John Ben Sheppard has warned that school integration should not precede legislative action. He, like the Citizens Council, has insisted that the law is presently set up to make state payments only to segregated schools.

Gov. Allan Shivers declined to comment until after the final court action.

Thirty Deaths Predicted

Thirty traffic deaths are predicted by the Department of Public Safety for the upcoming Labor Day week-end.

Last year 29 Texans were traffic fatalities during the three-day holiday.

Only once recently has the department's forecast missed by any sizeable margin. For July 4 it predicted 29 fatalities. Only 18 occurred.

Col. Homer Garrison, department director, expressed hope for a similar error for the September 3-5 holidays.

Politics is Budding

Texas' governorship campaign seems to be shaping up, considerably ahead of schedule.

Former Supreme Court Justice and University of Texas Chancel-or James P. Hart addressed an East Texas meeting at Henderson, sponsored by the liberal Democrats. Liberals have been court-ing his entry in the race, and he is "thinking about it".

There were those who said he "sounded like a candidate" in his talk on "ideas and ideals".

Former Speaker Reuben Senterfitt of San Saba, only announced candidate for governor, has held a meeting of his statewide campaign steering committee in Austin. He said he will name county and precinct campaign chairmen by January.

State Senator Jimmy Phillips of Angleton is an intended candidate. He was present in Henderson when Hart spoke. A statewide rally in Galveston on September 1 was planned by his friends as the send-off for his campaign.

Mrs. Wayne W. Wagoner of Bowie, widow of the senator killed in a car wreck two weeks ago, has been mentioned as a possible candidate. She was the only other speaker at the Henderson rally which her husband was to have addressed. Hers was not a political speech.

Senator Price Daniel, currently abroad, is holding up disclosure of his decision whether to run for governor next year, two years before expiration of his first term in the Senate.

Governor Shivers hasn't announced his plans. "Anything can happen; at this time I am not a candidate for anything," he told newsmen.

Biggest But Not Cheapest

Texas has become the principal producing state of Aluminum Co. of America's vast chain of aluminum refining and smelting operations.

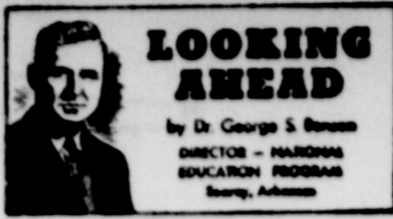

Persuaded to try aluminum for some of its road signs, the Highway Department asked for bids. When they were opened, the Canadian aluminum industry turned up with a bid on imported metal eight per cent under the lowest domestic bid.

Gov. Shivers and his family returned to Austin September 1 after a summer in Woodville. Before coming back to his job as Texas' top executive, the Governor hunted antelope in Wyoming with several other governors. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's Austin office opens September 1 also, manned by staff members. Johnson is at his Gillespie County ranch, recuperating from a recent heart attack.

Notary public commissions were mailed to 90,932 Texans last week by the Secretary of State's office.

Mr. and Mrs. John Huey and daughter left Tuesday on their vacation, going to San Antonio and Austin where they will visit with relatives.

Mrs. T. R. Arrington went to San Antonio Monday for a medical examination.

LOOKING AHEAD

by Dr. George S. Brown DIRECTOR - HARRIS RESEARCH PROGRAMS Irving, Arkansas

CALLING ALL TAXPAYERS

If the Hoover Commission's specific recommendations for saving money were to be adopted tomorrow the Federal government's budget could be balanced, the towering $280 billion national debt could be reduced, and taxes could be trimmed substantially. And the action would be the healthiest thing that has happened to the American economy in a long, long time. It would strengthen the foundation of our prosperity at home and strengthen our hand in international affairs.

There are 350 specific recommendations in the Hoover Commission final report which former President Herbert Hoover formally presented to the Congress and the President on June 30. One hundred and forty-five of the recommendations could be adopted tomorrow without legislative or presidential action. The heads of the government agencies and departments have all the necessary authority to put them into force. Only about 166 of the recommendations would require legislation. A number of bills covering these already have been introduced.

Up To Citizens

A grass-roots demand for the adoption of the Hoover Commission recommendations is necessary if the department heads are to be moved to action and if Congress is to act favorably on the legislation which will be forthcoming. Therefore every taxpayer ought to de- quately inform himself on the Hoover Commission findings and recommendations. Information can be obtained from the Senate Committee on Government Operations which is headed by Senator John L. McClellan of Arkansas. The Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report was set up with a view of stimulating and directing grass-roots action on the recommendations. Its headquarters is in Washington.

The studies and recommendations were made by 20 Task Forces of from six to thirty men, each with research and clerical staffs. The Task Forces comprised more than 350 professional men and executives, most of whom had had previous experience in government activities. They were from both political parties.

Lists Savings

In his formal report to the nation, Chairman Hoover noted that the various Task Forces had reported that the following savings were possible (annually!) if Task Force recommendations were adopted: Budget and Accounting activities, $4 billion; Depot Utilization, $253 million; Federal Medical Services, $290 million; Lending,

Guaranteeing and Insurance activities, $200 million; Overseas Economic Operations, $360 million; Paperwork Management, $288 million; Personnel and Civil Service, $48 million; Real Property management, $185 million; Special Personnel Problems (Department of Defense), $388 million; Subsistence (food and clothing), $400 million; Transportation, $151 million; and Use and Disposal of Federal Surplus Property, $2 billion. Seven of the Task Forces did not make estimates of possible savings. Mr. Hoover emphasized that adding up these sums would produce a misleading figure because some of the estimates are partially overlapping. "In any event," he said, "with all such discounts, there are enough possible savings left to enable the balancing of the budget and reduction of taxes, — without impairing services."

In The Pocketbook

Another source of substantial savings dealt with by the Commission was the Federal enterprise now producing goods and services in competition with private enterprises. "The Task Forces," said Mr. Hoover, "roughly estimate proceeds (from the sale of real estate alone in enterprises which should be closed down) at $10 billion — to be returned over a number of years."

State Board Make-up Needs Reorganizing, Says John B. Shepperd

By JOHN BEN SHEPPERD
Texas Attorney General

One of the most vexing problems of modern Texas government is the present system of state boards.

These boards are like the story of Topsy, who just grew and grew. At the present time some state officials serve on so many boards that proper administration is almost impossible.

This problem is so important to the citizens and taxpayers of this state that I have done a great deal of research to determine possible answers to it.

You might say that I am one who speaks from bitter experience, for as your Attorney General I have served on twenty-five of these boards, and I have had a first hand view of the inefficiency of the system.

Those men who will be elected Attorney General in the future should not be hamstrung with this impossible number of sideline duties.

In the Old Days

When the State Constitution was written in 1875, a state official was not busy by today's standards. He could take care of his duties, attend a couple of board meetings a week, and still have ample time to go fishing on the Colorado. So the Legislature put the State's constitutional officers on various boards as "ex-officio" members.

One of the most important reasons for making the state officials members of boards was the fact that they lived in Austin. In those days of slow transportation a man could not leave his farm or his store for weeks and travel down here to serve on a board.

Austin was from Hempstead, 50 miles north of Houston. Almost all of the 1,566 miles of track in the state were running north and south in East Texas. In order to get to Brownsville, you had to take the stage from Waco to Comanche, and go on by back. Or you could go by horse in 10 days from Austin and save $10.00 stage fare.

The men who travelled to the Constitutional convention travelled an average of 386 miles, round trip, mostly by horse. The trip from El Paso, Texarkana, or Amarillo, on horseback took from one to two weeks.

News by Wire
Now a citizen can fly from his home town, attend a board meeting, and be back home for supper. In 1875 Austin had telegraph communication only with New Orleans and Galveston, and not a permanent newspaper correspondent in town. Now we have 40 correspondents in the capitol to cover all the activities of state government and almost instant communication with any part of the United States.

We don't have to look any further to see why the Legislature started putting these same officials on boards. They have continued to use them to man new boards through the years, thus avoiding possible criticism for adding new "bureaucrats" to the payroll.

During the past 50 years the rate of addition of these extra board duties has speeded up to twice what it was in the 54 years from 1875 to 1930. The seven constitutional officers — Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of State, Treasurer, Comptroller, and Land Commissioner — are now required by law to fill 38 seats on 27 separate boards and commissions of state government, not including about two dozen inactive boards that still exist in theory.

Few Men — Many Boards
The Governor serves on nine boards; the Land Commissioner, eight; the Comptroller, seven; State Treasurer, five; and the Lieutenant Governor, four.

The Attorney General carries the heaviest load. He serves on 24 boards, many of which are active enough to require considerable time. He often feels the need of 24 hands and two dozen eyes to keep up with them. He was placed on most of them for no better reason than to provide the boards with handy legal advice, which is fundamentally a bad idea.

Board membership places the Attorney General in the unseemly position of a man witnessing his own contract. He is often called upon for an official opinion on the legality of a policy which he as a board member helped to establish. Other states have recognized this conflict and refused to place their Attorney General in such a dual role. In fact, in recent years almost all the states have shown a tendency to stop placing their legal officer on state boards. Texas is unmatched in the number of ex-officio responsibilities placed on the Attorney General. He has more than any other state, six times as many as the average.

177 boards and commissions of Texas government determine state policies and secure the Attorney General's legal opinions (which are purely advisory) without the presence on the board, so his services as an ex-officio board member hardly seems necessary and is in most cases unwise.

Office Duties Expand
The primary duties of constitutional officers have been so expanded with the development of state government through the years that none of them now have the time which should be devoted to state boards.

The constitutional and statutory duties of the Attorney General, outside of board membership, fill hundreds of pages in the law books. He is charged with the approval of all bonds issued by the state or any lesser unit of government and these have run to over 375 million already this year. He must examine the characters of the thousands of corporations in the state and inquire into anti-trust violations.

He must advise the Governor and ALL other state officials, agencies, boards or commissions on their legal problems. With 2,000 lawsuits a year to prosecute or defend in the state or federal courts and the preparation of over 1,500 opinions a year, his job can hardly be called part-time employment.
