LISTEN TO LUKE

There is definitely a lot of interest being shown especially in the office of Justice of the Peace of Precinct One...

One could consider such an office as insignificant and take little interest in the selection of a man for such a job that is well paid and good until the holder of the office tries to enforce, legislate, and judge all within the power of the office...

A Justice of the Peace cannot dismiss charges except by motion of the prosecution, he cannot suspend a sentence, nor forego the execution of a sentence...

Highway Dept. Releases Figures On Accidents

Capt. Itay B. Butler, Commanding Officer of the 24-county Midland Highway Patrol District, announced this week that 161 rural motor vehicle traffic accidents occurred in September. Twelve persons died in nine fatal traffic accidents and 73 persons were injured with property damage of $129,634.00.

Three persons died in Martin County, two in Culberson County, two in Howard County, one in Borden County, one in Pecos County, one in Reeves County, one in Terrell County, and one in Ward County.

Capt. Butler reminded that the trend always has increased during the last months of the year therefore all drivers are urged to drive with utmost care, paying special attention to road, weather, and any unusual conditions that might contribute to an accident.

"We are proud of the fact that our number of fatalities is 25 less than for the same period last year, however this reduction can be erased in a very short time unless we all do our best in driving," Butler stated.

Speed violations still remain as the number one contributing factor in fatal accidents; and the most common hazardous traffic violation by far too many drivers, Butler stated.

L'ENVOI TO TEXAS
Melinda Gilbreath

Largest of the forty-eight—
Texas was so grand and great—
Proudly boasting all her charms,
Embracing all within her arms,
Varied climate, sundry places,
Harboring all the different races.

Find a place to suit your taste—
Woodland, seashore, desert waste—
It's all here, you'll see, and more,
And other things you'll learn from lore.

All these things are in the past:
Our bubble's broken now at last—
No more grandeur, no more glory,
It's a sad and solemn story,
What's her trouble? Well, let's ask her—
"They had to let in big Alaska!"

TOURISM
Peggie Cooke

You know, I'm really a tourist,
A tourist of my own state, Texas—
Every day I see something that I hadn't seen before—Beautiful hills clothed in lush green or brilliant yellow or silvery purple,
Big rocks sparkling in the sun after an autumn rain,
A rain that makes the greasewood give forth such a clean and pure smell,
Yes, I'm a tourist every day in this state of many countenances!
Plains, deserts, mountains, farms, ranches, cities
All contribute to my journey,
Why, only a while ago I saw such a golden sunset
As I've never seen before,
And yesterday, I believe, it was the stars that took my eye,
Or was it a ranch road
With blue mountains as a background?
Ah, and history also lends atmosphere to my travels:
The Alamo, San Antonio, Old Langtry, Goliad, Bowie,
Stephen F. Austin, Crockett
So many people and places
That lived and died for the land they believed in,
I've traveled and traveled,
Yet I'll remain a tourist all my life
Before I'll view all the splendor of this state, Texas!

The two poems printed above, are first and second place winners. In the order printed, of a contest sponsored by the Sanderson Culture Club last week. The contest was in keeping with the study of the club

Austin — Austin is up to its ears in opinions and pronouncements as the pre-legislative de-

Taxes and schools are leading topics.
Committees, study groups and associations, both public and private, come to town, hold a meeting, hear speakers and, usually, pass some recommendations.

Hale-Aikin Committee reconsidered and reversed its previous opinion and that Texas schools should not take federal aid for lunch programs and vocational education.
New statement, passed 11 to 8, was offered by Ed Ray, San Antonio Express-News editor. It affirmed the committee's belief in state control of education but did not feel this would be achieved by accepting federal aid for lunches, vocational education and

Hale-Aikin Committee of 24 lawmakers, educators and other citizens was set up by the Legislature to advise it on public school needs and problems. Some six weeks ago it stirred up a hornet's nest by recommending that Texas quit accepting several million dollars a year in federal aid to schools. Arguments, pro and con, flared over the state, and many legislators were rendered uncomfortable by the necessity to take a stand. In many cases, the lawmakers disapprove federal centralization in principle but were hesitant to get in position where they might be accused of taking milk from the kids.

Hale-Aikin Committee also gave final approval to a recommended program of public school improvements. It would raise the school costs by about $112,000,000 a year — mostly for teacher salary, raises, sick leave, building upkeep and transportation.

Calls for Big Tax
A meeting of the Texas Association of School Boards was the sounding board for more ideas on school financing.

Only a state income tax or general sales tax can produce sufficient revenue to cover school program improvements, a spokesman for the Texas State Teachers Association told the meeting.

P.T.A. Sets Membership Month

They'll Knock On Igloo Doors In Newest State

When more than eleven million P.T.A. members open their annual Membership Enrollment month this October, they will be urged to "knock on every door" to find new members interested in advancing the welfare of children.

Some of those doors may open to the oldest dwellings in the Western hemisphere—stone igloo homes in Alaska, scheduled soon to become the nation's 49th state.

Here, as throughout the U.S., the National Congress of Parents and Teachers will seek to add some half-million new "parents, teachers or friends of children" to what is already the nation's largest voluntary service organization.

Mrs. James C. Parker, of Grand Rapids, Mich., president of the National Congress, cites "the dynamic potential of Alaska, our newest state," as "comparable to the spirit which has enabled Parent-Teacher associations to contribute so much to the welfare of children."

The variety and scope of P.T.A. activities in the 49-year history of the National Congress are reflected today, Mrs. Parker noted, in the everyday life of Alaskans which ranges in spirit from the quite sophisticated to the "truly frontier."

Alaska's Congress of Parents and Teachers, which became part of the national organization in 1937, today faces problems which can be compared, Mrs. Parker pointed out, with those recorded over the years in tiny American communities or in its largest cities. For it is a land where . . .

School youngsters may ride for miles in a dog sled to a crowded, poorly-heated quonset hut, or walk across the street to a modern, several story building.

—Where accountants, school

"Home is the child's first school," explains Mrs. James C. Parker, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, whether it's in Point Barrow, Alaska, or the continental U.S. Here, Chicago school children examine picture of Eskimo family standing under eaves of caribou tent outside their far north home. In proclaiming October as P.T.A. Membership Enrollment month, Mrs. Parker points out that development of P.T.A.'s in Alaska, soon to become the nation's 49th state, parallels the organization's pioneering days in this country.

teachers and government workers regularly make trips "back in the bush" to hunt and fish for food for their families—and store it in modern freezers.

—Where the airplane is the accepted means of travel between cities, but where the number of sled dogs is increasing.

—Where teachers in schools with large Eskimo or Indian populations must teach a second language—English—to many of their charges, while other schools, especially those on U.S. army bases, maintain typically American libraries, theaters and bowling alleys as part of their recreation program.

Aims of the National Congress membership month will apply equally well in this dynamic new state, Mrs. Parker pointed out, as in its member organizations throughout the continental United States, in Hawaii and on American military bases in Europe.

"For the primary purpose of the P.T.A.," she explained, "is to safeguard children, to build for the future in such a way that of home may always shine out."

In designating October as the period for membership enrollment, she called upon "every parent-teacher member to knock once more on the door, and at the heart of every American, so that all of us, working together, may make America the best possible home for all our children."

other taxes proposed thus far would hardly get the state treasury out of the hole, let alone cover new needs.

School Board members also heard Dr. B. F. Pittenger, one-time dean of the University of Texas College of Education, say he had felt for 30 years that public schools need "a considerable amount of federal aid."

Also urged by Dr. Pittenger, more discipline in schools, more attention to students "most highly endowed with brains".

Gov. Price Daniel's request that state department heads try to pare down their budget requests for the next two years brought no dramatic tax-saving slashes.

General reaction of the department heads was that they were already being as economical as they could be and still maintain the services expected of them.

Altogether the requests totaled $225,000,000 more than is being spent during the present two-year period. But some are, indeed, "not cuttable" under present law. Biggest increase $90,000,000 — is for public schools whose costs go up automatically with the number of students. Similar unavoidable increases occur in welfare, highway and retirement costs.

In other areas, department heads declare there is "no fat" in their budgets.

Formula For Colleges

Commission on Higher Education has adopted two major policies on division of studies and funds among the state's 18 colleges and universities.

One is a plan for study program which concentrates graduate study, especially for PHDs, at Texas A&M and the University of Texas. Other is a formula for asking for appropriations based on the number of semester hours taught.

Officials of UT, A&M, and Texas Tech did not oppose the money formula, but indicated they would need additional funds to maintain desired standards of quality.

Out of the Woods

Texas Employment Commission officials took a look at steadily improving employment figures then at the still-substantial unemployment compensation fund and breathed a sigh of relief.

This recession, at least, had not broken the bank.

A year of high unemployment had taken $64,000,000 from the fund, but it still had $272,523,000. It was only $30,700,000 lower than at the beginning of the recession year.

It was in October 1957, that the upsurge in joblessness began. In the first week of that month benefits paid out totaled $484,617.

From then figures moved swiftly upward until the mid-April peak when $1,875,000 was paid out in one week, nearly four times as much as the pre-recession figure.

Steady improvement began in the summer months. By this October the cycle is not back to its starting point; latest report shows $1,099,201 paid out in one week.

But with new claims falling sharply and economists generally agreed that the recession "was fizzling, it seemed as if the dark period were over."

It's A Long Story

More insurance legislation and, possibly, more grand jury action may result from the reports of the Senate Investigating Committee.

Sen. Charles Herring, chairman, released the first of five reports on the committee's findings. It dealt with the means by which ICT Insurance Co. rose and fell. Herring said testimony suggested that some people not indicted should be called before grand juries. There was, he said, conflicting testimony, under oath indicating perjury.

Recommendations for new legislation are to be included in the last report, due in December. The testimony on which the reports are based totaled 4,000,000 words, enough to fill 40 long books. This may not be all since the committee is to meet again in November.

Panel members, in addition to Herring, are Sens. Grady Hazelwood of Amarillo, Jarrard Seccrest of Temple, Culp Krueger of El Campo, and Frank Owen III of El Paso.

Although still confined to his bed Clyde Higgins continues to improve from a recent heart attack. He was brought home Friday from a Fort Stockton hospital.

al amendments. We hope you have studied these various proposed amendments and will be able to vote intelligently on the merits of each of them. Particularly we would like to call your attention to the Amendment to be No. 7 on the ballot which, if passed, will place Texas in the same category with many other states and will untie the bonds that now prohibit the state from advertising its beautiful country to the rest of the world.

Careful study of the results in other states shows that for every dollar spent in advertising, twenty-two dollars come into the state. Some of these are tourist dollars; some are from people who decide to move to the state; and some from new industry moving to the state.

There are some of the amendments which I believe will do more harm than good, but I do believe that No. 7 is one which should be passed.

Please study the text of the proposals carefully before you go to vote.

We have heard local pastor:

and members express concern at the lack of attendance of so many local people at the churches here. A lot of that is the fault of those who do go to church. They do not extend a cordial invitation to newcomers here nor do they make them feel welcome when they come to worship with them.

If you are not in church Sunday morning, we hope your conscience hurts you to the extent that you will be there Sunday week. Please don't wait for an invitation.
