LISTEN TO LUKE

We felt quite a relief when we heard that the President's "medical" bill had been soundly killed. We think it should have been killed, as all other legislation is intended to put the people under the spell of the federal government.

We believe that we should get up to our federal government, but not from our knees or on our bellies. It is something to think about that in the beginning of FDR's reign that the income tax was paid by all earners was comparable to or less than people today pay to social security. Social security keeps going up, and JFK wants to build up higher and spending more on paying hospital bills for the elderly, whether they need it or not.

He said "only a handful" of Democrats — actually about a third of them — went along with the Republicans to defeat the bill.

In our opinion, it was the fact that more than half of the Senators did not want the socialistic bill furthered through the medical bill. We don't know the names of the ones who voted against the bill, and their party affiliation doesn't matter to us as long as they continue to be against socialism or further federal controls of anything.

A new school superintendent will be in Sanderson sometime next week, according to some members of the school board. We hope that the school board, the school patrons, and the citizens of the county interested in the local schools will get line to the work of doing the job best for the local boys. Mistakes will be made by anyone or any group who is doing something, but as long as there is a unified effort on the part of everyone toward the overall best interest of the school, we feel that we and the schools will be much better off.

Times a person's zeal for a particular thing carries him beyond the realm of reasoning. It is in our every day lives, it is in public life, and will be in school life. We remember, it wasn't too long ago there was a loud wail of increase, enlarge, and enrich science program in schools. We all kids understand Einstein's theory of relativity even if I couldn't spell it, or write it. Not too long ago, there was a danger that Russia would win in Olympic events and needed to make track and field stars out of the youth. And the time, when a tragedy took the lives of all the top skaters in the nation, ice skating enthusiasts bemoaned the fact that that it was practically dead for a decade or more. President Kennedy is worried over the physical fitness of our youth.

Two-Way Radio Installed Here For Local Officers

Work was completed last week on the installation of two-way radio communication for the Terrell County Sheriff's Department and the local unit of the Texas Highway Patrol.

The system is FM and proven range of the communication possibilities includes all of Terrell County accessible to automobiles, according to Bill C. Cooksey, sheriff.

There is a unit at the courthouse so that calls may be relayed to the officers from that point or it may be used to coordinate efforts of some county-wide activity.

The FM transmissions and receptions are free of static or interference, but the range is shorter than ordinary radio transmission. The range of the local transmissions was increased by the installation of a tower and antenna on top of the courthouse.

Local officers, area officers, and the Department of Public Safety all expressed joy at the knowledge of the local installation since this area was one of the few left in the state without radio connection with other law enforcement agencies.

Legion Meets In Regular Session

The Clarence Hallie Mulkey Post of the American Legion met in regular monthly business session last Thursday evening in the Legion Hall.

A Certificate of Merit will be presented to Newt Harper and Pat Harris for the work which they did on the framework of pipe to provide shade for the 4th of July on the Legion grounds. The framework is a permanent fixture.

The Lions Club was voted authority to operate the concession stand at the Legion ball park. The managers of the Little League teams and the president, vice-president, and secretary of the Lions Club will be invited to the next meeting of the Legion as their guests.

Announcement was also made of the joint installation service planned for Thursday, August 9 for the Legion and Auxiliary. James Lamotte of Monahan, 16th District president, will be the installing officer for the Legion.

Mrs. J. C. Halbert Has Surgery In San Antonio

Mrs. J. C. Halbert is recuperating satisfactorily from major surgery for the relief of a gall bladder ailment, according to reports she is in the Baptist Memorial Hospital in San Antonio. Her sister, Mrs. Grace Wheeler, accompanied her to San Antonio and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton White, spent several days with her last week.

Several Area Ranchmen Practice Deferred Grazing

Several ranchers in the Rio Grande-Pecos River Soil Conservation District are now deferring a portion of their ranches. Many others are planning on moving stock out of their pastures in the next two weeks. This will enable them to rest the country at least three months during the growing season.

Among those deferring at the present are Bill Goodwin, Jack Riggs, Robert Gattlin, Bob Allen, and Clarence Chandler.

Bobbi Sid Wood Brought Home

Bobby Sid Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Wood, was brought home Sunday from an El Paso hospital. The young man is now in a jacket cast. He has been hospitalized about two months for treatment following an accident in his pick-up truck when he received serious injuries.

Rain Clouds Tease Ranchmen

Rain clouds teased some ranchmen of this area in recent days, and aided some others with some moisture.

Some areas in the northwest part of the county received rainfall last weekend, others in the west and south received rain last week and other showers this week.

There was also some rainfall in the northern portion of the county Monday night.

There has been nothing like a general rain over this area since last fall.

Sanderson received about 10-inch of rainfall Monday night and a trace of rain late Tuesday afternoon.

Heavy clouds have been prevalent in late afternoons recently, and showers can be seen falling in spotted areas as the clouds have moved eastward.

Telstar Programs Seen on Television

A small satellite hundreds of miles in outer space is sending signals to earth in tests that will lead to better communications services for Sanderson residents.

The satellite, Telstar, is the Bell Telephone System's pioneer in the new frontier of space communications. Telstar tests will help pave the way for a worldwide satellite communications network to send overseas phone calls, live television and other signals. The satellites will receive and re-transmit signals, such as overland microwave systems do in today's long distance calling.

Telstar was successfully launched from Cape Canaveral by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration which is cooperating with the Bell System in the experiments. The Bell System will repay NASA for the Telstar launching costs, about $3 million.

Sanderson television viewers had the opportunity to see Telstar's work firsthand in a series of live telecasts between this country and Europe. Television signals were sent from ground stations in England and France to Telstar and re-transmitted to the Bell System's ground station at Andover, Maine. American programs also were sent to Europe via Telstar.

Live overseas telecasts have not been possible up to now because ocean cable and radio systems in use don't have the transmission capacity for the signals.

Major experiments involve sending signals from the main ground station to another Bell station at Holmdel, New Jersey, via the satellite. Telephone calls, video tape signals, facsimile news photographs and high-speed data signals are being transmitted in these tests.

In addition to communications transmission, Telstar gathers technical information on outer space as it orbits the earth at altitudes up to 3,500 miles. These findings will be shared with scientists throughout the world to help advance the peaceful use of space.

Built by Bell Telephone Laboratories, Telstar is a 170-pound satellite, just under three feet in diameter. It carries more than 10,000 electronic parts and this gear amplifies signals 10 billion times for their return trip to the earth.

A number of Bell Laboratories inventions, including the transistor and solar battery, are essential to Telstar's operation. The small transistors make possible the satellite's complex circuitry. Telstar is lined with 3,000 solar battery cells that convert sunlight into electricity for the satellite's power supply.

SATELLITE TALK—Telstar, the Bell Telephone System's first communications satellite, is now orbiting the earth at 16,000 miles per hour. White lines show how signals for phone calls, live television and other communications are sent from a ground station to the satellite and retransmitted to another earth station. Electronic gear on Telstar boosts signals 10 billion times for their return trip to earth. Telstar tests will help pave the way for a worldwide satellite communications system.

'Big Tex' To Greet World At State Fair

Big Tex, the gigantic cowboy who symbolizes the biggest State Fair of them all, will "welcome the world to Dallas" in October.

"Exposition of Nations" will be the theme of the 1962 State Fair of Texas October 6 through 21 in Dallas. Now in its 77th year, the Fair is the nation's largest annual exposition in terms of attendance.

The "Exposition of Nations" theme, which will be carried out in exhibits and activities, will emphasize the international flavor and world renown of the State Fair. Foreign exhibits will be featured at the 1962 exposition in the Texas International Trade Fair.

A nightly special event will be the "Torchlight Parade of Nations" around the fairgrounds. The twilight parade will be elaborate with marching bands, beauty queens, gaily decorated circus animals and illuminated floats, including one for each foreign nation exhibiting at the Fair.

The international theme will be carried out in music and pageantry in the Fair's major special events—the Texas Music Festival, Dallas Symphony Spectacular, Circus Night and East Texas on Parade.

For Fair-time the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts has scheduled one of the most important exhibitions in its history. This will be "Arts of Man," a survey of the entire art history of the world.

As the oldest of the state fair's international features, the 10th annual Pan-American livestock exposition will be an integral part of the "Exposition of Nations" celebration.

Gene Allen Jr., was the name given to the son and first child born in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston to Dr. and Mrs. Gene Richardson on Friday, July 13. His birth weight was seven pounds and 10 ounces. Rev. and Mrs. Irl Richardson are the paternal grandparents.

Railroads To Abolish Jobs On August 16th

According to an Associated Press story appearing in Wednesday's papers, the railroad companies of the nation plan to put into effect on August 16 new work rules recommended by a presidential commission, which would eliminate 13,000 firemen now employed on diesel locomotives.

The plans would not eliminate jobs of some 27,000 other firemen working as second men in diesel locomotives in freight yards.

According to the story the action was announced by J. E. Wolfe, chairman of the carriers' joint bargaining committee, only one day after the National Railway Mediation Board formally relinquished its efforts to help reach a settlement in the long manpower economy dispute.

The story stated that five operating unions are expected to schedule a nationwide strike, but President Kennedy has the authority to invoke emergency provisions of the Railway Labor Act and name a board to make settlement recommendations. Such action would bar a strike for 60 days after the President's action.

No strike by unions or change in salaries and working conditions by the railroads is permitted for 30 days after abandonment of the mediation board's efforts. The August 16 date set by the carriers is the earliest possible for applying new rules, the syndicated story stated.

Economy changes were first proposed February 11, 1959, by Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads. Railroad management officials estimated that obsolete work rules providing pay for unnecessary or overlapping work were costing the carriers over $500 million a year.

Union men charge that the proposed changes would endanger the safety of operation of the railroads and cost the jobs of 40,000 firemen.

Firemen occupying second cab posts in passenger train diesel locomotives are not affected by the proposed job cuts. The new work terms include recommended pay increases for some 75 per cent of the operating employees — engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, brakemen, and switchmen.

Those in yards and freight service who will be dropped from payrolls, the story said, are employees with less than 10 years seniority. Those with 10 years or more on the job will remain, the story said, subject to natural attrition, death, and retirement.

The retention of those men, the operators say, will at the outset, cost the railroads about $216 million a year for doing nothing, according to the story. Those who are dismissed will receive severance pay equal to 60 per cent of a year's wages. The carriers will pay 75 per cent of the tuition for retraining education up to two years, and the employees will set up a rehiring pool.

The story stated that, according to J. E. Wolf, chairman of the carriers' joint bargaining committee, most of the men who will lose their jobs are under 31 years of age, many of them in their early 20s.

Sanderson, being a terminal on the Southern Pacific, will be affected by both a strike and by the proposed abolishment of jobs, if either or both goes into effect. Statistics are not readily available on the number of employees in this division who are thought to be affected directly in the abolishment of jobs, but many will be affected in the many moves and switches in efforts of the many employees on the road to hold a job.

R. H. Venn Named Director For Humble Oil Company

The election of R. H. Venn as a member of the board of directors of Humble Oil & Refining Company has been announced by C. E. Reistle, Jr., president.

Mr. Venn will transfer to Houston from New Orleans, where he has been a vice president in charge of the company's Southeast Esso Region.

C. G. Herrington, who has been general manager of the Southeast Esso Region, was named to succeed Mr. Venn as vice president in charge of the region, and A. A. Diffey, who has been serving in Houston as executive assistant to the Humble board, will transfer to New Orleans, where he will succeed Mr. Herrington as regional general manager.

The changes are effective August 1, and will bring the Humble board membership to twelve.

U. S. Supreme Court's decision that federal courts have power to review acts of state legislatures in reapportioning representation was met with an uproar from many states.

"Reapportionment" is the business of redistricting a state to determine the number of legislators according to an area's population. National and state constitutions both provide for re-examination of representation in legislative assemblies every 10 years.

An area frequently gains or loses representatives to the state house. This happened in Texas recently, when a 1961 redistricting act by the legislature took effect.

Working under a constitutional amendment adopted in 1936, limiting cities to one representative for every 700,000 inhabitants, Texas' representative districts got a pretty good going over.

The 31-member senate body was not greatly affected by the reapportionment, however, since the law states that the senate "shall never increase and no single county shall be entitled to more than one senator."

What the U. S. Supreme Court would hold about such a condition, in view of a congressional provision for two U.S. Senators from each state, regardless of population, won't be known unless the question is put to its nine judges.

There is some reason to believe that the higher court would look with disfavor on this state's constitutional provision limiting House representation to one member for every 100,000 inhabitants after a county attains a population of more than 700,000.

In the event citizens dissatisfied with the situation in Texas ever go to court for a reshuffling, they'll be armed with the information that 11 urban counties have a little more than half of Texas' 9,579,677 inhabitants and more than a third of the 150 members of the House of Representatives.

Hope for Trapped Fish

An "escape route" for thousands of fish which risk death daily in a shallow pool off Padre Island is planned by the State Game and Fish Commission, which estimates that tons of game fish have died in a nine-mile hole north of Port Mansfield over the last 10 years.

Howard Lee, the commission's director of field operations, said red fish and trout swim into the shallow pool in the course of their north-to-south migration "and don't recognize the fact that there's only one way out."

As the temperature increases in the late spring and summer, the water level drops, and fish are caught in a dry water pool created by drifting sands and are trapped there until death releases them as food for birds and other scavengers in the area.

Dredging of a six-foot deep, 50-foot wide channel running 4,000 feet through Laguna Madre into the Intracoastal Canal is expected to stop the waste of fish and make them available for "harvest" — a Game and Fish Commission euphemism for fishing.

Up to now, fishermen have been unable to get to them in the pool trap without trudging through long distances of mud and sand.

Permian Basin College Urged "A Citizen Relations Committee" of 20 West Texans flew into Austin to ask the Texas Commission on Higher Education to approve plans for converting Odessa Junior College to a state-supported four-year "Permian State College"

According to their spokesman, W. D. Fleck of Odessa, 30 per cent of the Ector County's college enrollment of about 1,600 is composed of out-of-county students. Administrators estimated a 3,686 enrollment by 1970, if it's changed to a state-supported college.

Commission will study the matter further before making a recommendation to the next legislature.

TEC Teams To Aid Small Towns

Two teams which form the working force of the Texas Employment Commission's newly-organized Expansion Employment Service for Small Communities recently moved into Brady where they will survey job seekers and job opportunities for the next six weeks.

Service was set up with funds from the Federal Bureau of Employment Security to assist communities like Brady which have "substantial and persistent unemployment problems," yet are too far from one of the Employment Commission's 91 local offices to get help from a regular staff.

According to Ted Clifford of the commission, the teams will go into economically-distressed areas to try to determine what has caused a long-time unemployment slump, offer remedies and either find job opportunities elsewhere or assist local civic groups in launching industry re-

New "TELSTAR" relays phone calls and TV pictures for first time!

Bell System microwave-in-sky satellite is latest communications triumph for America arising from telephone research

The world's first private enterprise communications satellite is now being used for dramatic experiments in relaying telephone calls and television internationally.

Its name: Telstar. It was launched from Cape Canaveral at Bell System expense by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

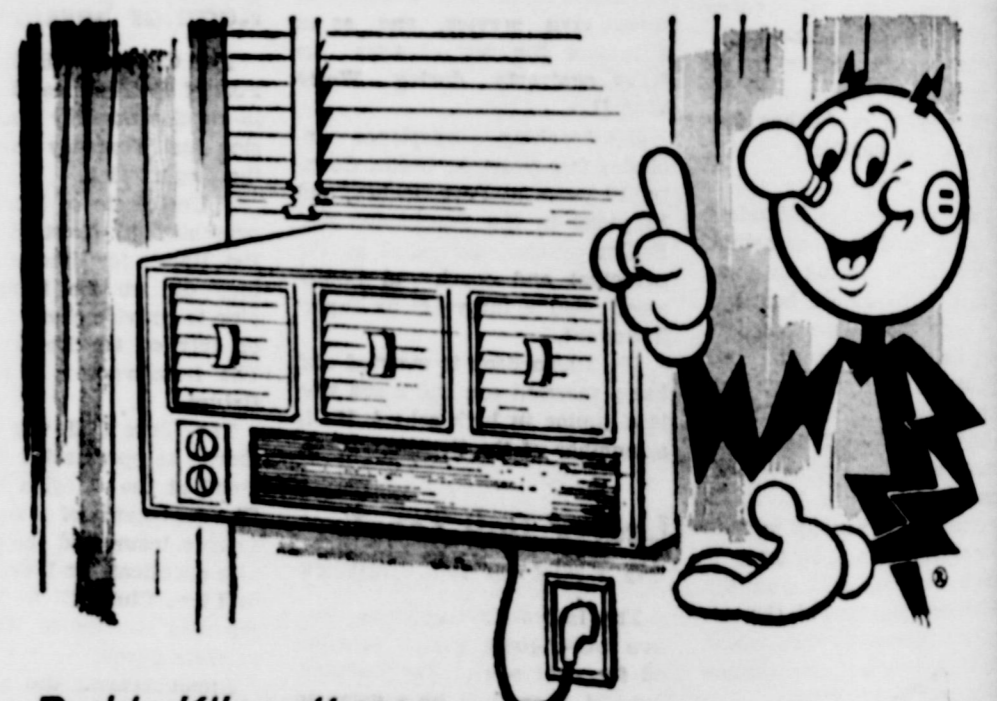

Telstar receives signals beamed to it from a ground station, amplifies them and transmits them to another station on the ground below—perhaps an ocean away from the first one. The new satellite thus acts as a microwave relay station in the sky, enabling voices, TV pictures and data messages to leap thousands of miles in a new and exciting way.

The ground stations in the U.S. now being used for Telstar were built by the Bell System at Andover, Maine, and Holmdel, New Jersey.

Telstar is a first major experimental step toward a worldwide satellite communications system that was first proposed as a practical venture at Bell Telephone Laboratories. Progress toward such a system would not have reached its present state without continuing research and development by the private communications industry.

Above all else, Telstar is the latest achievement in an unending Bell System quest—the search for ways to make your telephone service still better, more economical, and more useful.

Reddy Kilowatt says: FOLLOW THESE TIPS to get the most efficient cooling from your room air conditioner

- KEEP AIR FILTERS CLEAN. Clogged filters reduce cold air output, add unnecessarily to operating cost. Filters should be cleaned about once a month. If filters are not the permanent type, they should be replaced after one cleaning.
● Just as your car has a maximum speed, your air conditioner has a maximum capacity to cool. Keep in mind that your window unit is a ROOM air conditioner.
● Remember, air conditioners cool by REMOVING HEAT. Therefore, KEEPING HEAT OUT will improve indoor comfort and can reduce operating cost. Shade glass areas from direct sunlight, and bear in mind that proper insulation can reduce both cooling and heating costs.
● Have your unit checked by a qualified serviceman at least every other season.

Following these suggestions will help your air conditioner last longer and cool better at lower cost . . . help you live better electrically.

If you take your truck for granted

...it's a good one!

A truck that doesn't call for a lot of attention, that just does its job every day, is a great asset. This is the thing most users tell us they like about Chevrolet trucks—their reliability. And this, of course, comes from quality. Sound engines, strong frames, double-wall construction, insulated cabs, separated bodies and cabs, tight tailgates . . . are some of the features that help Chevrolet trucks work longer and bring back more of your investment at trade-in. If you wish you had a truck that cost you less thought and attention, put your money on quality. Make your next buy a dependable Chevrolet truck.

"ovals and push-pulls" in the teaching of legibility in handwriting, and the use of whatever method it was to teach the old method of spelling and reading?

Something has changed those methods of teaching, or the reasons for teaching better handwriting, more accurate spelling and more comprehensive reading. And something will come along and change other things.

And we have to be ready to accept certain changes in lots of things, too.

But those who, like us, like good penmanship, spelling and comprehensive reading, must try to understand the needs of the science department, social studies, band, football, basketball - both boys and girls - elementary library, playground equipment enthusiasts, visual aids addicts, and all other phases of school life instruction.
