Federal Dollars Flow
Legislative budget writers awaiting the end of a long trail are confronted with a new problem. Question is how to anticipate the effect on state finances of an unprecedented flood of federal dollars flowing into a variety of programs.
Some think a special session of the legislature may be necessary, after final congressional action, in order to tie down overlooked matching-fund requirements.

Two proposed federal programs are perplexing the appropriations bill conferees.

1. Medicare — hospitalization and health care for the aged blind, disabled, and children — now on public assistance rolls.
2. The elementary and secondary education act which passed the House of Representatives in Congress. It would provide over $85,000,000 to Texas schools next year.

Conferees, wrestling with the problem of how to balance the books, or recommend new taxes hope to figure some way that federal funds can be used to reduce pressure on state school money.

Medicare offers some complex questions as to how much money the state must provide in matching funds to meet federal program requirements.

With new federal programs springing up in all areas, veteran Texas lawmakers are looking toward annual sessions of the Texas Legislature. They say the state's antiquated system of biennial budgeting soon must yield to one-year financing and annual sessions if Texas is to keep in line with congressional operations.

Service Merger

Twenty Texas communities will lose their standby military service units under the state's plan for merger of Army National Guard and Reserve forces.

Plan, already approved with reservations by Gov. John Connally, will be sent to the Department of the Army this month. The Pentagon has ordered Texas forces trimmed by 4,600 men and 155 organized units.

Maj. Thomas S. Bishop, the Texas adjutant general, said the Guard payrolls of the 17 towns losing their units totalled $368,492 last year.

Water Plans Move

Senate passed and sent to the House key water proposals recommended by Governor Connally.

One would make the Texas Water Development Board, a six-member agency, the state's official water planning agency.

Another would authorize $200,000,000 in additional bonds for construction or purchase of water storage facilities. Earlier the Senate passed a measure giving the Texas Water Commission a new name — the Water Rights Commission — and authority to decide water rights and conflicting claims.

Enlarged Senate Re-Approached
Senators saw bugs in the plan they passed earlier to enlarge their membership from 31 to 39 guaranteeing all but five incumbents terms extended through next year's election.

Sen. Louis Crump of San Saba introduced a new version which would require all Senators to run for re-election in 1966 if they want to keep their jobs. New measure quickly won committee approval.

Increasing terms from four to six years still is a feature of the "big senate" plan. If approved by the legislature, it will go to the voters July 24. Senators think it will be a relatively painless way out of re-districting for them.

A Senate bill to legalize variances of 15 per cent over and under the mathematical population average for House and Senate districts also received committee approval. This despite warnings that federal courts, which ordered districts of equal population, might disapprove.

Horses Stopped at the Gate

After the longest committee hearing thus far this session, the bill by Rep. Maurice Pipkin of Brownsville to legalize parimutuel bets on horse races in counties which approve by local option was sent to a subcommittee. Whether it is reported out of House by about 2 to 1. If no better results can be expected, Pipkin will ask the subcommittee to kill the bill quietly for this session by not reporting it out.

Texas Racing Association which has been trying to "educate" Texans on horse racing says it will be around for another try.

At a public hearing the association presented a series of "expert witnesses" on horse racing as a sport and also as a money-raiser both for the general economy and for the local and state tax coffers. It emphasized the impetus horse racing reportedly gives to agriculture and argued that parimutuel betting is not so much betting as it is a test of knowledge and skill in selecting a winning horse.

Opponents of the bill attacked it on moral grounds, saying that horse race betting would attract undesirable persons and would weaken the moral fiber of Texas society.

April 7 Is World Health Day

"Smallpox - Constant Alert" Theme for 1965

The concern this Columbian mother shows for her daughter certainly is expressed aptly in the words - constant alert. Displaying just this vigilance, she watches intently as her pony-tailed child receives vaccination against smallpox.

The vaccine that thwarts death and disfigurement has been around for a long time. Yet despite its development in 1796, smallpox killed 25,000 and afflicted 100,000 around the world during 1964 alone - some 170 years later.

Not only in countries burdened with disease, but as well, in countries cleaned of it does smallpox endanger health still. A few hard facts show why:

• Often a country beset by smallpox lacks enough vaccines to immunize all of its citizens.

• Too, more-primitive groups frequently refuse vaccinations offered, either through fear of it, or because long-held beliefs forbid it. About 12,000 Ecuadorian Quechuas, a mountain-dwelling Indian, so resisted vaccinators recently.

• So long as smallpox exists anywhere, a country even though free is not safe. Wiped-out in the United States and Canada, it still penetrated New York and Toronto - in each instance re-introduced by a traveller.

• Also in such countries, few are the MD's who've seen an actual smallpox case. Added to this, the disease's tricky to diagnose. Often, a mild case is taken for chickenpox, and a severe one for acute leukemia or meningitis or even pneumonia. To call public attention to such problems, the World Health Organization chose "Smallpox - Constant Alert" as the theme April 7, World Health Day, in observing the 17th anniversary of its founding.

Much has already been done to eradicate smallpox. A global campaign begun in 1958 has cut the number of reported cases by one-fifth - from a high half million of a dozen years ago.

According to WHO Director-General, Dr. M. G. Candau: "The complete eradication of smallpox would not only rid the world of a disease which is a constant menace, but would also show what international co-operation can achieve."

"In the meantime, a 'constant alert' against smallpox will have to be maintained."

hearing of a bill to require labeling of imported citrus fruit, dating original packing of fruits and vegetables, and marking "cold storage" any bin in which produce has been under refrigeration for as long as 60 days.

Atwood and Bob Lilly of the (Rio Grande) Valley Farm Bureau told the committee that the bill is intended to help build consumer acceptance of fresh Texas fruits and vegetables over cold-storage and imported products.

Grocers argued that the provisions of the bill would be a nuisance and would serve no useful purpose.

Put telephone wires underground and you've put them in a safe place. Safe from wind, rain, hot weather, cold weather, stormy weather. All around safer from the kinds of trouble which can affect your phone service.

That's why this year Southwestern Bell is spending $10 million burying hundreds of additional miles of telephone cable underground. In effect, buying life insurance for your telephone service.

There's another benefit. New jobs will be created. Some in the telephone business and an estimated 500 new jobs among the hundreds of firms which sell supplies, services and materials to the telephone company.

This is a 1965 communications bonus. Part of a massive construction effort to make the world's best telephone service even better.

Who are these owners? They are people from all walks of life and from every state in the Union, including many from Texas and New Mexico. Perhaps your neighbor is one, or a relative, or perhaps you.' A box contains the text: 'Unlike money spent in government-supported power systems, money spent by investor-owned companies like Community Public Service Company, costs you nothing in taxes. opinion to cause a breach in friendships or social relations.

We found out a long time ago that when someone disagrees with me, I, too, disagree with him. We don't know that there can possibly be anything wrong with a difference of opinion.

The person who has no one to disagree with him has no one to talk to.

I am grateful that you have the privilege of disagreeing with me because we don't need as many newspaper men as there are people in Sanderson. We would all starve to death.

We hope that we can always go on killing screwworm flies, trying to kill type-lice, trying to keep the government straightened out, hoping the school board will keep the school straightened out, and each one of us trying to keep ourselves in line in the meantime.

We had some difficulties in getting out the paper last week, and because of the difficulties we had some mistakes. We hope you'll overlook them with our apologies for them and a sincere effort to straighten them out or correct them. Some of our mistakes show up a little plainer than do most mistakes of other people's. We try to be careful, but we're not perfect, yet!

Card of Thanks
Our sincere thanks for the flowers, cards, visits and well-wishes from our many friends at the time of our opening.

Card of Thanks
At the time of our recent sorrow, we appreciated more than can be said in words, the kindness of friends expressed in so many ways. For the food, flowers, visits, and prayers, we extend special thanks.

FUTURE TOURIST ATTRACTION - Preliminary model of HemisFair 1968 shows how the 90-acre site in downtown San Antonio would look for the first major international exposition in the history of the Southwest. Located two blocks from the Alamo, the proposed scale model is dominated by a 70-story tower and a civic center complex that would include an arena and fine arts theater. Theme of the fair, scheduled for 184 days in mid-1968, will be a centuries-deep probe into the varying cultures of the family of Americas.

To My Friends

"All things work together for good to those who love the Lord." These words are true, have always been true, and will continue to be true throughout all time, to those who truly love the Lord. It is also true that some of us were created to serve in one capacity, some in another.

I am neither unhappy nor disappointed with the results of the school board election; nor do I hold any ill feelings toward anyone. The two gentlemen elected to serve on the board are, in my opinion, two of the finest to be found anywhere. I am confident that they will both make excellent trustees; and I urge all of you to cooperate with them, and with the other board members. Only through our combined efforts, and our pulling together in the same direction, will we ever attain any measure of success.

I entered this race for the simple reason that I am interested in the good of all people. The fact that I was not chosen to serve in this capacity will in no way lessen my interest nor my effort. Freedom to vote for the candidate of your choice is one of the very few freedoms we are still allowed. I would be the last person in the world to wish that changed.

To those persons who supported me, I offer my sincere thanks. Your words of encouragement and your confidence in me are things I shall long remember and be grateful for. I am not ungrateful to those of you who defeated me, for I am sure you sincerely felt someone else better qualified. You may be a better judge of human character than I.

I promise you the same opportunity next year, the good Lord willing.
Mrs. J. M. Jones.
