LISTEN TO LUKE

We in America, are probably peculiar a group of people as can be found on the face of the earth when it comes to our actions. We let ourselves be overcome by our own emotions to the extent that sometimes we lose sight of many things. We give private and personal consideration of all the things we oppose, and yet fail to give our opinions where the thing will be most effective. (Then this may be for our distrust of controversy, and our striving for unity, but under whatever it is giving silent assent to whatever happens.)

That we become a part of it. Take, for example, the image that has been built up of "Penny-pinching" Lyndon. He turns off the lights in bathrooms, bedrooms, and thus receives publicity which has pictured him as the epitome of "Scott-likeness". And there have been so many instances actually only four or five such instances—that our deficit spending, our national debt, and the increasing cost of taxes does not register with the average citizen as the result of this man's efforts for the Great Society.

Recently we heard the Administration praised for its efforts to help the aged with various things that give-away programs, but the speaker went on to say that these efforts almost seemed to be useless and futile because the Internal Revenue Department was taking more and more in taxes.

Now we are going to blame the contradictions on naive, innocent and pure unadulterated ignorance.

Recently the Treasury Department reported that the Executive Office of the President, which includes not only the White House, the Bureau of Budgets, National Aeronautics and Space Council and several other agencies, was $2,214,372, compared with 1,881,244 in March of last year. In the first nine months of this fiscal, the cost of EOP was $12 million compared to $15.7 million for the same period last year.

And figures also revealed that while the present administration has collected $63 billion in revenue, it spent during the same period $71-billion, or $7.2 billion more than was taken in.

The present Democratic regime, it is said, has increased the national debt by $28 billion. There is a good reason for all of this — we all have our hands tied in one way or another, and we are looking for more handouts.

When we talk to one of our national representatives, or when we write a letter to one of them, let's concern saving or spending.

When our representatives or national leaders talk to us, do they tell us they are going to cut this waste or that expense? Are we told what new projects they have obtained for us, or are they asking what can they do for us?

Let's face it: Ed Foreman proved what happens to a U. S. representative who tells the people they should cut their own hair under the Pecos, that the Guadalupe National Park proposal is not needed and will only be an expense, etc, etc, etc.

It is much more popular to tell somebody you're going to give them something, than it is to tell them you are going to save them some money.

Watch your own actions, and the actions of others, to see how right this is.

Richard Hodgkins had a tonsillectomy in a Fort Stockton hospital last week and his mother, Mrs. J. R. Hodgkins, took him for a post surgical check-up on Monday.

Districting Guidelines Set

Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham says the House Districts Committee aims to get a congressional reapportionment measure to the floor by May 1. Mutscher is chairman of the committee.

The optional plans for state House of Representatives redistricting also are due from subcommittees by May 1.

Committee has adopted these tentative legislative redistricting guidelines:

Population variance between districts should be held to a maximum of 15 per cent over and below the mean average.

"At least one attempt" will be made to eliminate "floterial" districts.

Small counties without population sufficient to justify a representative of their own will not be divided.

Two or more representatives will not be allowed to run at large in two or more counties.

Committee also approved Senate-passed bill to permit up to 15 per cent population variance in forming legislative districts.

House Speaker Ben Barnes is optimistic that the Legislature can solve the thorny redistricting problem without need for a special session.

Amendments Get Priority

State representatives returned from their brief Easter vacation to find two proposed constitutional amendments high on their worn assignment list.

Governor Connally finally got the balky House Amendments Committee to clear for debate a measure to increase terms of governor and other officials elected statewide from two to four years.

Committee also approved redistricting pain-easer calling for increase of State Senate membership from 31 to 39, but stripped from its provision to lengthen upper house terms to six years.

Pressure for submission of both measures to Texas voters (in November and August 7 elections, respectively) were intense. New Laws Adopted

Dozens of bills have been given final passage in one house and sent to the other for further action.

Two bills would authorize commissioners courts in all but the largest counties of the state to give county officers raises of up to 20 per cent.

A bill would authorize Texas A&M to accept James Connally Air Force Base for the state and establish a technical institute.

Poll Tax Repeal Fails

Proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the poll tax fell four votes short of getting the necessary two-thirds in the House of Representatives. But measure was kept alive by a parliamentary maneuver.

Budget Writing Tougher Than Ever

Appropriations bill conferees failed to make the April 15 deadline set by House Speaker Ben Barnes for completion of their work.

Despite any sharp differences between House and Senate bills, the budget-writing job in general is tougher than ever this year. That's because of creation of new state agencies and transfers of duties - particularly in hospitals and water fields - plus impact of federal programs just being evolved on state finances.

Loan Bill Advanced

Legislation which opponents charge would allow annual interest rates on installment loans of $9 per $100 up to $6,500. An amendment, finally accepted after strong objection, exempted small loan companies from terms of the bill. Another amendment exempted mortgage loans on real estate.

Short Snorts

Bill to authorize the Texas Water Development Board to issue

$100,000,000 more in Texas Water Development Bonds was heard by the House Conservation and Reclamation Committee and assigned to sub-committee.

Governor signed into law the bills raising compulsory school attendance to 17; renewal of foreign student exemptions from tuition in Texas colleges; and providing for election of school trustees by the place system in independent school districts of 500 or more scholastics.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

There has probably never been a more charming bureaucrat in Washington in all history than Mrs. Esther Peterson, the presidential advisor on consumer affairs.

Highly intelligent, most articulate, and very personable, she is a fantastically able platform performer. In fact, if in entertainment industry instead of politics, she might easily be a competitor with Helen Hayes for title "first lady of the theatre."

C. W. Harder

Of course, it is hard to imagine why the Federal government needs an office for consumers. It would seem obvious that all people are consumers of something or other. Thus compared to Senators and Congressmen who only represent a part of the people, the office must be higher than the Congress, as what Congressman can claim the whole nation for a constituency.

However, it is interesting to note some of the activities of the office for consumers. Just as invasion of advertising has to a large extent diverted the Federal Trade Commission from important tasks it is supposed to perform, advertising has become a very big thing in the affairs of the office of consumers. Last year it was attempted to get the Federal Communications Commission to issue an edict prescribing exactly how much advertising a radio or TV station could do.

The Congress passed a law prohibiting the FCC from making any such ruling.

But in a recent speech Mrs. Peterson commented on this legislation saying "Can self-regulation work in an area where there is such limited guidance from government?"

This is a very provocative and interesting statement. It means "Can the members of the broadcasting industry, largely made up of independent entrepreneurs, run its own business, or should government tell each operator how to operate?" Thus in a nutshell is expressed the entire bureaucratic concept, namely, that nobody, but nobody, is as competent to run a business as a government employee.

Actually, there are two very strong regulatory agencies working on the broadcasting industry. One is that if a station's programming becomes too clogged with advertising, then it fails to attract listeners. The second regulation is that if this happens, then it fails to attract advertisers. In other words, the law of supply and demand works quite freely in the broadcasting industry.

As a matter of fact, this law is working right now.

Because many stations have been running too much commercial content, many big advertisers are now forsaking the airways to place their advertising budgets in newspapers.

Government guidance is no substitute for the guidance contained in the profit and loss statement of any business.

Notice to Notaries Public
Secretary of State Crawford C. Martin announced that all qualified Notaries Public desiring re-appointment for the new term ending June 1, 1967, must requalify by the payment of the required fee and the filing of a new oath and bond with the County Clerk of his residence between May 1, 1965, and May 15, 1965, inclusive.

Martin emphasized that Notaries Public should not send requests for re-appointment or for commissions directly to the Secretary of State. The law specifically requires that the County Clerks approve notary bonds.

Any person not now a Notary Public who desires appointment should apply to his County Clerk before May 20, 1965. Application during this period will assure that the appointment will be made in sufficient time for the applicant to qualify at the beginning of the new term.

The Secretary of State further pointed out that each person applying for a commission as a Notary Public must be at least 21 years of age and a resident of the county for which he is appointed. The exact name and permanent address of the applicant must be furnished the County Clerk.

FORD COUNTRY

When you live in the Great Southwest, you're really living. Big country calls for big pleasure in an automobile. Take the 1965 Ford Galaxie 500 XL for example. Bucket seats, command console, vinyl upholstery, V-8 engine, Cruise-O-Matic transmission are standard equipment. But there's more. You get Ford's great new smooth, silent, stable ride to boot. Try it on for size. Take a test drive. Once you do, you'll be champin' at the bit to take that Galaxie XL home for keeps. And that's just fine. Because there's a man who can make it mighty easy for you right now...
