LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert:---

We read in the Del Rio paper last week and saw a picture of a lad on a horse with his school principal and riding around a corral on a ranch near that city. The purpose of the ride was in keeping with the "head start" program in that city. The story said that the activity showed the children some ranch activity, but mainly the children learned that school is not always hard and there is nothing to fear from school authorities.

Now this is a real switch!

The only people we ever saw that didn't think that school was hard were those that didn't study! And our teachers told us and proved to us that under certain circumstances we had plenty to fear - if we had sense enough to know when to be afraid!

I guess that's why so many in my generation grew up so backward, they didn't get to go horseback riding with the principal.

Somehow, I can't be ashamed of my generation. We assembled the greatest army that was ever assembled and under circumstances that were pretty difficult put that army in the right places to save a world from the threat of Nazism and Imperialism.

This generation also built, after it had reasoned out, rockets to put people - of my generation into orbit around the earth, etc.

No telling what we would have done if we could have gone horseback riding with the principal!

We had the groundbreaking of the beginning of a new building in Sanderson Monday morning.

Dudley Motors began the construction of their new sales room, parts room, office, and garage on Persimmon St. behind the service station.

This building should be an addition to the town, but it leaves a nice large building on main street vacant and we would like to see something go into that facility.

From the best sources that we can find, there is no consideration of money that has yet entered into the picture as concerns a doctor coming to Sanderson. It seems to be the opinion of some that this is the case, and it may well be, but so far as we know, it is not.

And, there is a smattering of rumors that there are other reasons why a doctor doesn't want to come to Sanderson, and as best we can ascertain, all of these are not founded in fact either.

The number of doctors that have been willing to sit down and talk to a local group about the possibility of coming here, can be counted on one hand and according to those who talked to the prospective doctors, money, or the amount of it, was not a consideration.

The doctor procurement committee is having a difficult time functioning because of the nature of their efforts and things what they are generally.

Intoxicants continues to be available to the youth of Terrell County under certain circumstances, which is not unusual for

Youth Dies After Truck Mishap Friday Morning

Walton Browning, 23, Midland, died en route to a hospital Friday morning of injuries received earlier in the day when a "jug truck" rolled over him. He was employed by the Globe Exploration Co. with a crew working on the Gatlin ranch about 15 miles south of Dryden when the accident occurred.

About 9:30 a.m. the crew on the jug truck had stopped on a slope and the driver walked down the slope to see if he could proceed in that direction. Browning was attending the cable reel on the back of the truck. When the vehicle began rolling, Browning ran and jumped into the cab and tried to stop it, but was unable to do so, according to reports, and when the left front wheel of the vehicle hit a gully it overturned, throwing Browning out and rolling over him.

The Terrell County ambulance was summoned, but Browning died en route to Dryden, according to Sheriff Bill C. Cooksey and Deputy Dalton Hogg, who went to the scene of the accident with the ambulance.

Justice of Peace J. A. Gilbreath ruled accidental death in the inquest held in Dryden.

The body was taken to the Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home in Midland by the Janes Funeral Home of Ozona and funeral services were held Monday.

Browning had been employed on the crew only during the summer, earning money to continue his education at Texas University, according to his co-workers.

Community Action Program Effort To Be Tried In Terrell County

Efforts to organize a Terrell County Community Action Program were made on Tuesday when Alex Gonzales, aide to Congressman Richard C. White, and Walter Parr, administrator of the Big Bend Community Action Program were here to further explain the program.

According to a paper from the CPA office in Alpine, the program is explained briefly:

1. Poverty is a condition of need, helplessness, and hopelessness. It is rooted in a network of social ills that include inadequate education, unemployment, poor health, and dilapidated housing. To alleviate them requires a varied and coordinated attack. Remedial reading, literacy courses, employment, counseling, home-maker services, job development and training, consumer education, vocational rehabilitation, and health services. These activities can be supported and coordinated within a community action program to attack poverty.

2. The purpose of the community action program is to help urban and rural communities to mobilize their resources to combat poverty. Because community needs and resources differ widely, considerable latitude is allowed in the development and conduct of a community action program.

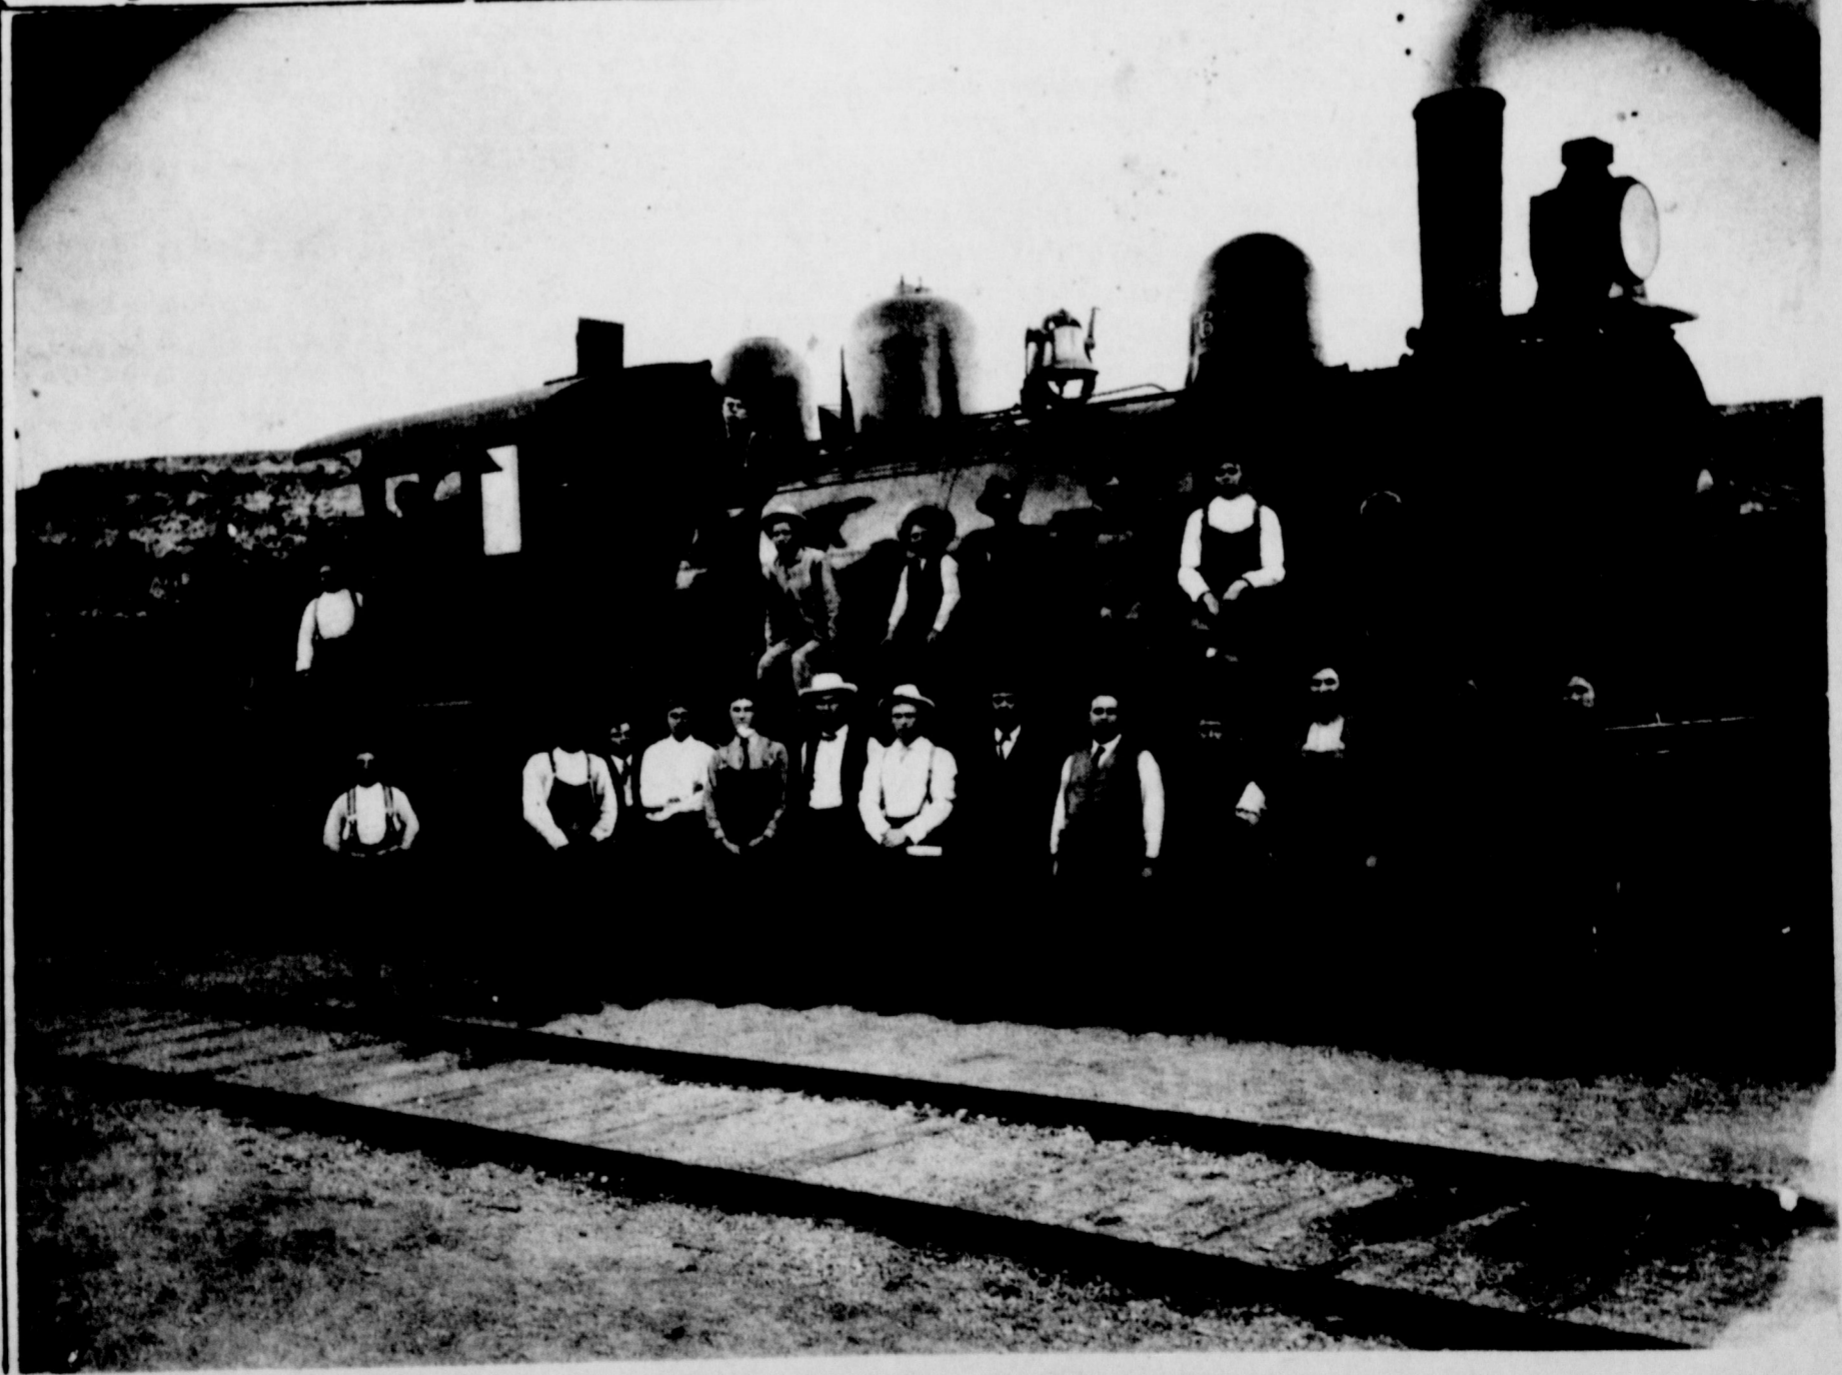

3. The program must give promise of progress toward eliminating poverty in the community, or toward eliminating one of the underlying causes of poverty. A community action program may do this through developing employment opportunities, improving human performance, motivation, and productivity, or bettering the conditions under which people live, learn, and work. The aim of community action is not merely improvement in the standards of life of the poor, but the provision of opportunities to enable poor people to move into the mainstream of American life.

4. Examples of Community Action activities are: remedial and non-curricular education, employment, job training, counseling, health and vocational re-

TOO MANY COOKS

THE UNWELCOMED GUEST

The American housewife may have her last opportunity to raise questions about "politicians in the pantry" when the Hart Packaging and Labeling Bill is considered by the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee of the U. S. House of Representatives.

The Senate, in passing the bill, chose to disregard existing state and national laws which protect against intentionally deceptive packaging and labeling practices. These laws are fully supported by industry and Better Business Bureaus.

Almost every shopper can tell which products are high-priced, which low-priced and which medium-priced, and she doesn't base her choice of product on splitting hundredths of a cent. Yet the bill would authorize government agencies to find that the fractional weights of products "are likely to impair the ability of consumers to make price per unit comparisons" and to issue regulations setting the only weights at which products could be sold, regardless of price.

In an Alice-in-Wonderland exercise of "making a word mean what I want it to mean," the agencies could establish what a "serving" of a product must be, and what "small," "medium" and "large" must mean. This arbitrary freezing of practices could seriously interfere with future efforts to provide better bargains for the shopper.

Other provisions of the bill duplicate and contradict existing state and federal laws and regulations. They would apply even though the manufacturer was making a conscientious competitive effort to supply the customer with a high quality product at the lowest possible price. Competition is still the best means to assure that Mrs. Housewife will get the best possible bargain—not unnecessary laws which interfere with competition.

Yes there are many questions which Mrs. Housewife could raise as to what influence the Hart Bill will have on her range of choice of products and on the cost of her market basket items.

One such question might well be, who knows better, and is more solicitous about, the needs of Mrs. Housewife than the manufacturer, whose life or death in business depends upon her confidence?

Nation's 300,000th M.D. To Be A 'Family Doctor'

NORMAN, Okla.—The nation's 300,000th physician was graduated from medical school in June at the University of Oklahoma School of Medicine.

Jerry Dean Leu, 29, of Alva, Okla., plans to become a smalltown "family doctor." First, however, he will go on for four more years of internship and residency training in internal medicine.

Dr. Leu's graduation marks a medical milestone—the first time 300,000 physicians have been available to serve Americans. The number of M.D.'s in the U.S. now is increasing faster than the general population. The ratio is better than one physician for every 680 people, compared to one for every 737 in 1960. By 1975, the AMA estimates, the ratio will be down to one physician for every 638 persons.

Even more physicians are needed to meet an insatiable demand for medical services, the American Medical Association says. The increase in demand for medical services has come about through a growing health consciousness on the part of the public, scientific advances in medicine, new government health programs and the growth in population, the AMA pointed out.

Becoming a doctor wasn't easy for Jerry Leu.

"When I was in high school, I wanted to go to medical school, but I had doubts about my ability and whether I could obtain the necessary funds," he said.

Dr. Leu said his wife's work and loans through the AMA's Education and Research Foundation and the Oklahoma State Medical Association made it possible to obtain his degree.

He was accepted for medical school in 1962 after graduation from Northwestern State College, Alva, and Air Force service as a medical research technician.

"I want to establish a family-type practice in a smaller town of 15,000 to 30,000 population," Dr. Leu said. "Why a family practice? It's hard to explain. I want to know my patients—know them as individuals and as families."

He plans to take his internship at the University Hospital, University of Oklahoma Medical Center.

Banquet Climaxes 50th Jubilee Of Catholic Church

A banquet in St. James Hall Monday evening climaxed the 50th Jubilee Celebration of the parish and the 25th Jubilee of the church and the pastor, Rev. N. Femenia.

About 150 attended the banquet which followed a mass celebrated by Most Rev. Thomas Tschoepe, Bishop of the San Angelo Diocese, of which the Sanderson parish is a member. The mass was in memory of the parishioners who had passed on since the organization of the church.

The tables for the banquet were fan-shaped away from the speakers' table which was on the platform on the east side of the hall. Place cards seated the guests.

A fruit salad, turkey and dressing, French-cut beans, baked sweet potatoes, cake, and iced tea comprised the menu. The meal was prepared and served by members of the church.

Simon Lopez Jr. acted as master of ceremonies. Rev. Bob Moon gave the invocation.

Mrs. Jim Kerr, a member of the parish for 51 years, gave a very detailed, interesting, and colorful first-hand account of the history of the church during her membership, and related the history of the early congregation and of their efforts to get a priest sent to this parish. Mrs. Kerr's remarks were interspersed with comical comments and remembrances as she reminisced the story of the church.

County Judge R. S. Wilkinson spoke briefly of the role the church had played in the community life throughout its history.

Rev. Femenia was then introduced and gave his version of the accomplishments of the past 25 years in the church. He began his remarks by telling the creed he adopted at the time of his ordination in Rome 41 years ago: "What can I give to the Lord for what He has given me?" He said that he has ever kept this question before him and tried to be aware of ways in which he could serve.

Rev. Femenia was strong in his praise of the work of the parishioners who, he said, were responsible in every way for any accomplishments that had been made. He stated that while he felt that the physical accomplishments were important and worthwhile, that he was more aware of the spiritual growth of the parish and the way that the Catholic community had reflected this growth.

He also related some interesting and amusing incidents during the past 25 years.

Gifts were presented Rev. Femenia by Miss Ernestina Ochoa, Mrs. Pablo Ochoa, and Andres Falcon from the three sodalities of the church: Altar Society, Holy Name, and Lady of Guadalupe.

Bishop Tschoepe then gave a short talk of congratulatory nature and pronounced the benediction.

Half-Way Mark Of Round-up For Boys Ranch Noted

The annual Round-up for livestock for West Texas Boys Ranch at Tankersley has reached the half-way point in animal units.

This year's round-up started on April 18 with a goal of 200 animal units, according to chairman Roddy Peebles of Midland. The total given to the ranch thus far is 100 head, Peebles said.

"With the late summer and fall movement of cattle and sheep still ahead and the heart-warming response West Texas ranchers are showing to the round-up, I'm confident that the original goal will be reached," Peebles said.

The livestock so far collected for the ranch, plus many cash donations, has boosted the funds to $15,775.00 this week. This is said to be a little short of the hoped-for amount with this number of livestock, but he pointed out that the livestock prices have weakened since the original goal was set, and therefore the total so far is proportionately reduced.

Peebles urged ranchers in the 60-county area served by West Texas Boys Ranch to remember the continuing need for operational funds for the ranch. Money collected during the drive forms a large portion of day-to-day operating needs such as food and clothing. Any farmer or rancher who would like to contribute any amount of livestock may do so by contacting his county Wagon Boss who will make arrangements for picking it up, or merely by designating those livestock to be contributed to the ranch when they are taken to market.

N. M. Mitchell is Wagon Boss for Terrell County.

White Launches 'Doctorcare' Drive

U. S. Rep. Richard C. White launched a bill aimed at attracting doctors to rural communities with a bill introduced in the House Thursday of last week.

White stated that he had received some requests for some sort of program to get doctors in some towns in his district including Sanderson.

He cited the doctor shortage in small towns throughout the nation and said he was moved to seek a solution to the problem because of the difficulties encountered by so many towns in the 16th Congressional District.

His bill would set up a cooperative system among federal, state, and local governments to enlist young doctors for service in rural communities.

He emphasized that his bill would keep interested doctors entirely free from federal control and that the federal government would be limited to aiding in the placement of doctors and in making available to them certain surplus medical equipment. This equipment, he explained, would be provided and could be purchased by the doctor if he elected to remain in the community after two years.

The bill would have the U. S. Surgeon General acting as an agent for the state and local community in recruiting doctors to serve at least two years. State and local agencies would join in guaranteeing a minimum income for the doctors in negotiating a contract.

The bill was referred to the House Commerce Committee.

Cong. White Reports On Water Situation

My Fellow West Texans:

Water -- that is the continuing plea from residents of our District. As your Congressman, I have been deeply concerned with our water problems since coming to the Congress, and have searched for ways to increase our water supply, control flooding, and conserve our existing resources.

Last month, in my position as a member of the House Interior Committee's Subcommittee on Irrigation and Reclamation, it was my privilege to work with Congressman Walter Rogers and obtain legislation which greatly adds to the prospects of future development of West Texas water. The Subcommittee approved and recommended to the full Committee the bill known as the "Lower Colorado Basin Project".

This bill authorizes a long-range water study for the Colorado Basin and the Southwest. All of Texas west of the 98th meridian is specifically defined as one of the major constituent parts of the Southwest. The study will consider water availability for all purposes up to a least the year 2030, and will include a search for basins which now have a surplus of water, part of which could be transported to supplement our area.

The Lower Colorado Project has been opposed by certain conservation groups, and by Congressmen and Senator of "water-surplus" area, who fear that the study might lead to a reduction in their abundant water resources.

The stated purposes of the study are:

1. To prepare estimates of the long-range water supply available for consumptive use in the Southwest and in each of its major constituent parts, including rate of growth of water requirements to a least the year 2030.
2. To investigate sources and means of supplying water to meet current and anticipated water requirements, including reductions in losses, importation from outside sources, desalination, weather modifications and other means.
3. To undertake investigations, in cooperation with other agencies, of the feasibility of proposed development plans in maintaining an adequate water quality throughout the Southwest.
4. To investigate means of providing prudent water conservation practices to permit maximum beneficial utilization of available water supplies in the Southwest.

5. To investigate and prepare estimates of the long range water supply in States and areas from which water may be imported into the Southwest, together with estimates of the probable ultimate requirements for water within those States and areas.

This bill will come before the full Committee soon, and I hope it will be reported to the House itself this month. I will continue to work for these measures which will mean more water for our thirsty West Texas.

Sincerely, your Congressman,
Richard C. White

SHORT AND SWEET

Chicory, a favorite ingredient of tossed salads and coffee blends, hitchhiked to the United States... It is thought that the seeds of the wild European flower made their journey in earthen ballast on ships... Chicory now grows from Canada to the Carolinas and westward to Nebraska... Norwegians are probably the world's champion cheese consumers... They average nearly 20 pounds of cheese a year per person... A cellulose sponge can sop up water 20 times its weight...

According to the National Geographic Society, the egg came before the chicken... Birds, they say, are an offshoot of reptile stock that laid eggs millions of years before the first prehistoric bird flew... Sahara, comes from a primitive word meaning, "wild land good only to be crossed"...

from The Bible
If therefore the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed. — (John 8:36)

Through the almighty power of God in us, we can be free from any and all habits that do not contribute to our well-being. Through the strength of God in us, we take dominion and authority over ourselves, our lives, our bodies and our habits. We establish freedom in our lives by virtue of our faith in God. Thank God, we are free.

Fiftieth Anniversary Observed at Paisano

The 50th Annual Paisano Baptist Encampment will get underway July 25 on the campgrounds between Marfa and Alpine on Highway 90 at Paisano Pass, in the Davis Mountains the Big Bend Sentinel at Marfa reports.

President of the encampment organization, Dr. W. R. White, president emeritus of Baylor, and Mrs. White will participate in the program again this year. Dr. White first came to the Encampment in 1931, but was not regular in his attendance until 1940.

Historic Paisano held an organizational meeting July 28, 1915. The minutes of that meeting showed that Dr. George W. Truett and S. J. Porter called the meeting, and at the time directed that the encampment be held at "the Paisano Mountain in Brewster County, Texas."

It was the next year, in 1916, that the camp meetings with religious programs began. This year's program will point up this important anniversary of the first meeting.

By the summer of 1922 the organization had purchased 1,000 acres of land for the site of the camp grounds, a tabernacle and dining shed had been built, and the Rev. L. R. Millican, pioneer Baptist circuit rider of pioneer days, had been elected president of the organization, an office he held until his death in 1938.

In 1939 all property was deeded to the Baptist General Convention of Texas, and the Paisano Baptist Assembly, Inc. was formed.

Water lines, a sewer system and several dormitories have been built, including the $31,500, ultra-modern dormitory built by First Baptist Church of Midland, used the first time last year. It can house 108, fifty-two in the girls' bunk room and 56 in the boys' bunk room. One structure is a $13,500 dormitory built by Alpine's First Baptist Church.

In 1950 the Crawford Mitchell Tabernacle was built. It can seat 1800 people. There are tennis courts, ladies lounge, a book store and last year a six foot cement sidewalk was constructed from the Tabernacle to the main office, a gift from Mrs. Blanche Gist McCarty of Abilene.

Young people's activities include hikes, tennis, softball, talent shows, and there will be a Youth's Vesper Service each day at 5:30 p. m. and the Friendship Circle each evening following the preaching service.

Meals will be served cafeteria style, and no specific charge will be made for each meal but everyone is given an opportunity to make an offering to cover expenses of meals and the program. Offerings may be left at the office if one leaves during the week, or may be given during the annual offering of the Encampment Sunday morning, July 31, the last day of the Encampment.

This well known Encampment is less than 3 miles east of Paisano Pass, highest point on U. S. Highway 90, (elevation is 5,116') and a stone marker has this notation, "Paisano Pass; legends recounts that two Spaniards meeting here greeted each other as Mi Paisano (My Countryman). First known to history when Juan Dominguez de Mendoza camped here on Jan. 3, 1684". This is a Texas Highway Marker. The road from Alpine was reconstructed last year.

--- about your SOCIAL SECURITY -----

Have you noticed an increase in the amount of social security tax you are paying? Most people have! H. P. Thomas, social security district manager in Odessa, explained today that on July 30, 1965, President Johnson signed the 1965 Amendments to the Social Security Act. The changes in the Social Security Act established a program of health insurance for the aged and liberalized many other provisions of the law. In order to finance these changes, an increase in both the earnings base and schedule of social security taxes was made.

Effective January 1, 1966, the F.I.C.A. (Federal Insurance Contributions Act) tax was increased from 3-5/8 percent to 4.2 percent for both the employer and employee and the self-employment tax was increased from 5.4 percent to 6.15 percent. The earnings base was increased from $4,800 to $6,600.

The Hospital Insurance Trust Fund and the Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund were created to finance the program of health insurance for the aged. These funds will be used to pay the benefits and administrative expenses of each separate program; they may be used for no other purpose. 0.35 percent of each persons' social security tax for the year will be used to finance hospital insurance and will be placed in the Hospital Insurance Trust Fund. Voluntary payments of $3 per month from people over 65, and an equal amount from the Federal Government will be placed in the Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund and will be used to finance medical insurance. The Government's contribution will be taken from general revenue. None of your social security tax goes for medical insurance.

Thomas said that if there are any questions regarding the recent changes in the Social Security Act, the social security office is ready to provide answers. The office in Odessa is located at 516 First National Bank Building, telephone FE 2-9423 or LO 3-0027.

Have you checked up on your social security account lately? According to H. P. Thomas, district manager, Odessa Social Security Office, if you are one of the 9 out of 10 working Americans protected by social security, the Social Security Administration should have a record of all the earnings reported for you since 1937.

The social security record keeping system is simple: an individual record is kept for you under your social security number. When wage reports are received from your employer, the amount reported is added to your social security record. Since many people have identical names, both your name and social security number are needed to identify your earnings. This is why it is so important for you to show your employer your social security card rather than memorizing the number, Thomas emphasized.

At least every third year, you should ask for a statement of your social security account. This is especially true if you work for more than one employer during a year, Thomas added. In this way, you can compare social security records with your own. If they do not agree, you should notify the social security office at once.

To get a statement of your earnings, ask the social security office for post card Form OAR-7004 which you can complete and mail to the Social Security Administration.

Double Jeopardy

To the athlete defeated in sport, the proverb says:

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

But to the prosecutor defeated in court, the United States Constitution says just the opposite:

"If at first you don't convict, you may not try, try again."

For, if the prosecutor tried the same case again, he would be putting the accused person in "double jeopardy"—that is, he would be forcing him to face trial twice on the same charge.

Why does the Constitution forbid double jeopardy? It is a matter of simple fairness.

"The underlying idea," the Supreme Court once explained, "is that the State with all its resources never; nor shall any person be subject, for the same offense, to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be and power should not be allowed to make repeated attempts to convict an individual for an alleged offense, thereby subjecting him to embarrassment, expense and ordeal and compelling him to live in a continuing state of anxiety and insecurity."

Yet society, by giving up its second chance of winning a conviction, takes the risk of letting some real criminals go free. To prevent double jeopardy from providing an "easy out" for rascals, the law puts careful limits on the rule.

Consider three examples: A mail fraud trial was called off because the judge became seriously ill;

a murder trial was halted by the discovery that the defendant had smuggled a friend onto the jury;

a forgery trial ended in deadlock when the jurors found themselves unable to agree on a verdict.

In each of these cases a second trial was begun. Each time the defendant objected that he could not be tried again because of "double jeopardy."

But each time the objection was overruled. For in none of these situations had the basic question of guilt or innocence really been answered. Through no fault of the prosecution, the law's machinery had been stopped short, its task yet undone.

In fairness to the accused, we do not ask him to face jeopardy twice. But in fairness to society, we do ask him to face it once. Society, too, is entitled to its "day in court."

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

A little over 30 years ago, in a period of economic stress, the nation's farmers turned to Washington for a solution to their then existing problem.

Now their chickens have come home to roost.

The entire situation was placed in perspective recently by Congressman R. H. Gross of Iowa who stated that last year the Secretary of Agriculture blandly explained to the House agriculture committee why the government sold millions of bushels of surplus corn on the open market.

"We purposely sold," he said, "in order to move prices down far enough so that they would be way below the support level, the loan level, so that we could thereby get compliance (by farmers in the feed grain control program). That was the whole intent and purpose and thrust of the program."

Congressman Gross then pointed out that recently the Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers appeared on television to say, "I mentioned the fact that increases in the supplies of pork depend on the difference between the price of hogs and the price of corn, and we're trying to hold down the price of corn."

In other words, the programs which farmers sought at one time are now being used against them. The price deflation powers exercised by government through stored surpluses is enormous.

Thus, when government-promoted inflationary pressures cause a rise in the price of pork chops, the political repercussions of angry consumers in the big cities blows up a storm. Hence, to mollify the irate housewife, the pressure is put on the farmer.

The Arabs have long warned against permitting the camel to get his nose in the tent. The American farmer is now learning the merit of this proverb.

For not only is government, once hailed as the saviour of the farmer, now seeking to manipulate the price he shall get for his products, but it is also seeking to dictate to him what labor he shall have, and what he shall pay for it.

This is evidenced in the West where Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, working hand in glove with the labor bosses, and aided by the big city sociologically minded dreamers who never planted a crop in their lives, are seeking to destroy domestic agriculture.

Senator George Murphy, California, is on record with well documented evidence that the big farm operators who have the resources, are moving to Mexico, leaving the smaller farmers holding the bag.

And this points up the problem the American farmer faces. The uninformed big city masses are political reservoirs which must be carried no matter what happens to the farmer.

habilitation, housing and home management, welfare, consumer information, education, and mutual aid, legal aid and information on the rights of the poor, resident participation, neighborhood centers, training and technical assistance.

A similar meeting was held in Fort Stockton on July 15, at which time that group passed a resolution to invite Terrell County to join Pecos County in organizing a Community Action Program. Pecos County has a quota of $25,000 assigned and Terrell County has about $7,000 allotted for administrative expenses and for developing an analysis of the needs of the community, according to a letter received from Pete Terrazas, steering committee member of Fort Stockton.

Terrazas stated that "we feel that Terrell County's quota is insufficient to carry on an effective Community Action Program, and therefore, we feel that it would be beneficial to the residents of Terrell County to join us in these efforts to help the needy."

The letter continued: "It is impossible to explain or answer the many questions that arise in your mind about the Community Action Program. Therefore, please come to our meeting so that we can answer these questions to the best of our ability."

After Mr. Parr had gone into a more detailed explanation of the workings and possibilities of the Community Action Program, Terrazas gave more information of the plans of the Fort Stockton group as did Mert Schrock, a consulting engineer who is working with the Big Bend group in planning and construction of the various projects undertaken.

Mr. Parr explained that the program could raise the standard of living of the people in the communities participating by affording them opportunities to aid themselves, it could raise the health standards in a community by affording them a chance to have proper sewage disposal facilities and proper water distribution system, it could also raise the physical standards of the community by furnishing a way to have needed surgery, dental, and optical repairs, etc. Examples were given of the possibility of having a vocational training school here to train in such crafts as carpentry, masonry, auto mechanics, etc.; adult education and counseling facilities to teach reading, writing, and some math to the middle-age and older people who had no working knowledge of those subjects.

These and many other examples were given as to how the Community Action Program may be effective.

It was explained that Mr. Parr is the executive director of the Big Bend Community Action Program Committee, administering the actions of the groups in Presidio, Jeff Davis, and Brewster Counties. After the organization of the Pecos County group, and if Terrell County wants to organize, then they would request affiliation with the Big Bend group and, upon acceptance, would be under the direction of a board of directors, six from each county, who would manage the work of the entire organization. They would not, however, be subject to the decision or action of any subordinate group, and each of the communities would use the larger organization to get help needed for their individual projects.

It was the consensus of those present that more information would be desirable and that a subsequent meeting would be held - on Thursday, August 4 - at 8:00 p.m. at the courthouse to hear more details of the organization. It was felt that this would also give local people who attended the meeting an opportunity to talk with their friends and try to form an opinion on the possibilities of such an organization in Terrell County.

Local men attending the meeting were Carlos Dunn, Chesley Wilson, Ray Hodgkins, Troy Druse, Jolly Harkins, Jack Hayre, Ken McAllister, L. E. Muller, Santiago Flores, W. H. Savage, R. S. Wilkinson, and J. A. Gilbreath.

Anyone interested in hearing more information about the organization is welcome to the August 4 meeting.
