LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert-----

With everyone in the governor's race except you and I and two or three more, there is no reason why everyone can't vote for his "kind of man" in the first go-round. And there's bound to be more than one go-round in the primary with that many in the race. The thing of it is, that in the second go-round, if there is one, it will be narrowed down to one of two choices, and both of those choices might be the ones that we had rather not make.

There is more than equal chance - at this writing - that Don Yarborough of Houston will come out seeking the liberal votes of Texas - of which there are considerable. And if he does, then the conservative vote could be split to such a degree that there would be a plurality without a majority. The conservative vote is not quite as stable as is the liberal vote, usually, and it could end up in a race.

There are some qualified men in the race already. Some are qualified for one thing, and some qualified for another, but they are qualified just the same. And there are those who have had some executive experience and some state or national political experience that could do well in the management of the executive branch of our state's government. We only hope that it comes out the best and that everyone would vote for the man most suited to do the best for all of the people instead of seeking to elect the one who will do the most for this or that ethnic, political, vocational, personal, racial, or whatever-else little minority group.

The political pot is going to boil in the governor's race, we figure!

According to a news release received this week, Terrell County has been allotted $32,308.58 to provide additional education facilities for 200 children in the county's schools who are said to be from low-income families or otherwise disadvantaged children. Supt. Ken McAllister said that this was only a funding of a project already in progress during the past couple of years and only the money received was new. The "low income or otherwise disadvantaged" children figure of 200 - which is about 2 of every five students, is based on the 1960 census figures, according to McAllister, and means from a family with an income of less than $2,000.00 per year.

We would be in favor of re-doing the figures to ascertain the number of low income children in the county, as it seems to us that this figure of 200 might be a little high and the percentage of students - if it is right or wrong - casts some sort of stigma on the entire county.

MEXICAN SUPPER FRIDAY

The El Buen Pastor Methodist Church is having a Mexican supper in the Legion Hall Friday, serving time from 5:00 to 7:00 p. m. The food may be eaten at the hall or it will be fixed to take home at $1.00 per plate.

Explosion Rocks Neighborhood Last Thursday, 2 a.m.

An explosion in the vicinity of Third St. and E. Mansfield at 2:00 a. m. on Thursday morning of last week, jolted the neighborhood to an alarmed wakefulness. It is said to be the third such explosion during the period of about 12 months past.

Neighbors thought the explosion to be in or near the yard of A. J. Riess, high school principal, and other reported explosions are thought to have been in the same vicinity.

Cause of the explosions is unknown but they seem to be of some type of home-made device of powerful potential since they detonate with such a loud noise.

There is reported to be an awareness on the part of residents in that neighborhood that such an explosion may be hazardous to houses by fire or concussions resulting from the explosions.

To Mr. and Mrs. Philip Eggleston was born a son, their second child, in an Alpine hospital on Monday morning. His birth weight was six pounds, 15 1/2 ounces, and he was named Ward Lee.

A daughter, their first child, was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Darrell G. Cox in Houston. She was named Dara Lynn and weighed seven pounds and 13 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Cox are the paternal grandparents and she is leaving this weekend to visit her son and family.

Progress Report Is Given On Dams Project

A report of the progress on the flood control work being done on the Sanderson Canyon Watershed was given this week by Darwin G. Schrader, local conservation technician with the Soil Conservation Service, the agency responsible for the survey, design, and construction of the flood control dams. The information from Schrader came from the Austin and San Marcos offices where much of the design and cartographic work is being done.

As of the first of December, the project was 17% completed, and as of the first of January 22% completion was noted in the progress reports sent to Schrader. He said that this figure does not, and cannot include all of the cartographic work being done and the man hours spent in this department - while they are essential to the lay-out and design - come from another agency working in connection with the design and lay-out men.

On February 1 four men will come to Sanderson, two of which will stay two weeks, and two will remain through the month, and the work schedule also shows eight man-weeks scheduled in lay-out and design during February in the San Marcos office. There were three man-weeks spent in this effort in San Marcos during January, Schrader stated.

Most of the work to be done on the site during February will be survey, according to Schrader.

It was stressed that this work is both routine and time-consuming, but absolutely vital to the completion of the project. The work of construction following the designs of the dams made according to elevations, soil, and other factors, is to give the best results to the efforts of controlling the flow of water in the mainstream.

Schrader stated that the work continued to Page Two
