LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert---

It was interesting to talk to Dudley last week and find that he was well acquainted with a dignitary. Stanley R. Resor, who has been appointed head of the Army by President-Elect Nixon, was a former battery commander of Lee's during his GI days at Fort Benning, Ga., in WWII. Resor was listed as Louie at the time, Lee's, and "a pretty good Joe".

We don't know of any of our graduates that attained the notoriety as Lee's former C.O., but I knew some "pretty good ones", too!

We can't help but remark about the unusual windshield wiper service available at the local service station last week. We are not going to say any more about it than that, except to say that if you drive a little more you have to watch out for dogs in more ways than one.

The American Legion was primarily responsible for the installation of the new flag pole at the elementary school, so we were told. There were some others who helped in one way or another, but the Legion - or a few of the members - saw to it that the school had a flag pole, and that's what's important.

The Legion should not have a monopoly on the installation of flag poles or responsibility for seeing that the flag is flown, by any means. It seems to us that this is one of the areas of neglect on the part of us - teaching respect for the flag, for our country, for ourselves as individuals, respect for so many things - - -
At home, where the beginning of most of our habits and attitudes are, we lay the foundation for so many things to follow and then blame our society for the way our youth are shaped.

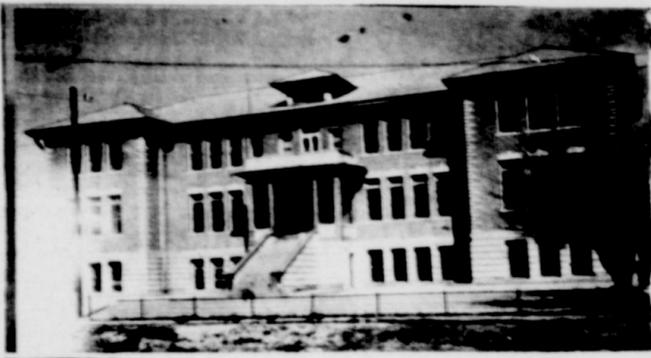

We can remember only too well, when we had the JP office, we were called upon to "dress down" some of the young people who were accused of minor infractions of the law. We invariably placed the responsibility of "dressing down" on the parent who asked for "favor".

Threats of punishment idly made, or warnings that are not carried out are worse than those that are left unsaid - and those are bad enough.
But our young people who respect themselves, their parents, their friends, our laws, their associates with positions of authority, and the rights of others, and of the property of others, are the respected young folk of this era.

And there is a goodly number of them, too!

There is a number - 2378 - in my note pad that has no significance whatsoever to me. If it is a telephone number that I am supposed to call, or whatever, I'm sorry that I did not do what I should have done.

And only one more thing on the mock turtlenecks - I was promised another one the other day, and I hope that I get it.

Razing Old School Begun This Week

Crews arrived in Sanderson this week for the razing of the old red brick school building. The three-story building has served Terrell County as an institution of learning since its completion in 1912. It served first as the building for all 11 grades, later serving the first 7 grades when the present high school was built in 1930, then when the 12th grade was added the first 8 grades were in the old building with the high school still used for the top 4 grades.

Subsequent changes included the building of the building that now houses the band - Lamar Ward - built first for Latin-American students who were housed in the building now used as a field house, later used as the building for the 1st and 2nd grades, with intermediate-grade students in the red brick building.

Later, in 1962, with the construction of the new elementary school, the red brick building was used as a junior high and continued until this term of school when the new junior high building was occupied after the beginning of this school year.

The top floor, which housed the auditorium and library, and some of the class rooms, was abandoned and closed off with the semi-basement and first floor continuing in use until the entire building was abandoned.

The building housed the boiler used to heat the high school - a source of no little amount of contention over the years. The heating system for the high school now is in the dressing room building added last summer.

SSgt. Lupe Lopez Gets Bronze Star In Vietnam Action

Vietnam combat provides many opportunities to test a soldier's feelings and emotions. With these trials, U.S. soldiers are finding themselves witnessing and performing acts of heroism which, to those involved, are "all in the line of duty."

SSgt. Guadalupe M. Lopez, now serving with Co. A, 1st Bn., 67th Armor, 2nd Armd. Div., is among those credited with performing an act of heroism in Vietnam and he, too, feels his actions were just a part of his duty.

Guadalupe served as a platoon sergeant with Co. C, 1st Bn., 7th Cav., 1st Cav. Div. (Air mobile) and received the Bronze Star Medal with V device.

"When I talk about duty, I'm talking about two kinds. My primary duty in Vietnam was being a platoon sergeant for the 3rd Plt., but when one of my men got into a jam, I felt an extra, special duty," said Lopez.

Co. C came under intense enemy fire from an estimated battalion of North Vietnamese soldiers during a reconnaissance in force operation in northern Quang Ngai Province.

"At first sight of the enemy, we only spotted a few of them. Later we found out that the main body of enemy soldiers was inside the woodline. They had a trap waiting for us and we fell right into it," said Lopez.

As the U.S. infantrymen entered the thick jungles within the woodline, the enemy battalion surrounded them and opened fire.

"Charlie employed heavy automatic weapons, small arms fire and 82mm mortars at us. We formed a defensive perimeter and returned fire," added Lopez.

During the battle, one of Lopez's platoon members was wounded and separated from the company perimeter.

Exposing himself to open enemy fire, Lopez left the perimeter and rescued the casualty. "Aiding a distressed soldier becomes a sense of duty in combat. I could have very well been the wounded man in need of help," he said.

A landing zone was prepared in the middle of the company's perimeter, and evacuation of the casualties took place.

Continuing to demonstrate his courage, Lopez guided his men in evacuating the casualties, and became wounded by shrapnel in the process.

"Some kind of mortar or rocket landed near us as we moved toward the evacuation helicopter, and the concussion knocked us to the ground," said Lopez, a native of Sanderson.

With the helicopter only a few feet away, the rescue crew rose to their feet and completed the trip. Realizing his unit's need for his help, Lopez refused to be evacuated, and remained with Co. C.

"I got hit by a couple of pieces of shrapnel during the initial contact, but I wasn't hurt bad," he said.

Aided by continuous artillery and air strikes, Co. C successfully drove the insurgents away from their positions, ending a 15 hour battle.

Lopez was awarded the Bronze Star for his actions.

"It was an honor to receive the award, but I was only doing my duty. Not ordinary duty, I have to admit, but a duty," said Lopez.

He is now a Master Sergeant and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lopez.
