LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert: ---

The possible closing of some military installations over the nation caused some odd reactions. The hue and cry goes up quickly that the federal government is trying to kill a community or area by cutting off one of the economic plums upon which it has gotten to rely and the closing or curtailing of the base will be the ruination of the community.

And at the same time the nation is crying for a cut-back in the military involvement in Vietnam, the cutback in military expenditures, etc.

We are a nation of selfish individuals.

There are those who want to be on the receiving end of everything and give absolutely nothing for the benefit of anyone else.

And the area in which selfishness is exemplified is not restricted - by any means - to the opposition of a military base by the people of that area.

If someone withholds a "howdy" it is high-hat. If I do it, it's pre-occupation or oversight.

I don't go and drink coffee with so-and-so because I am better than they are. But they don't drink coffee with me because they are too busy at the times I can drink coffee.

It depends on how you look at something that determines what you see!

The show that prompted the saving of milk carton tops for the West Texas Children's Home at Pyote has been discontinued, so that project is another one of the past. It was good while it lasted, but no more need to save the cartons and - our thanks, for the kids - to all those who helped in the project in any way.

In other columns of The Times is a story of a project "Crime Stop" that should be of interest to many.

In a conversation with Sheriff Bill Cooksey Monday morning, he said that there were two stolen cars, one AWOL airman, and a 14-year-old run-away girl returned to her parents, all because of participation by citizens in a pre-"Crime Stop" activity.

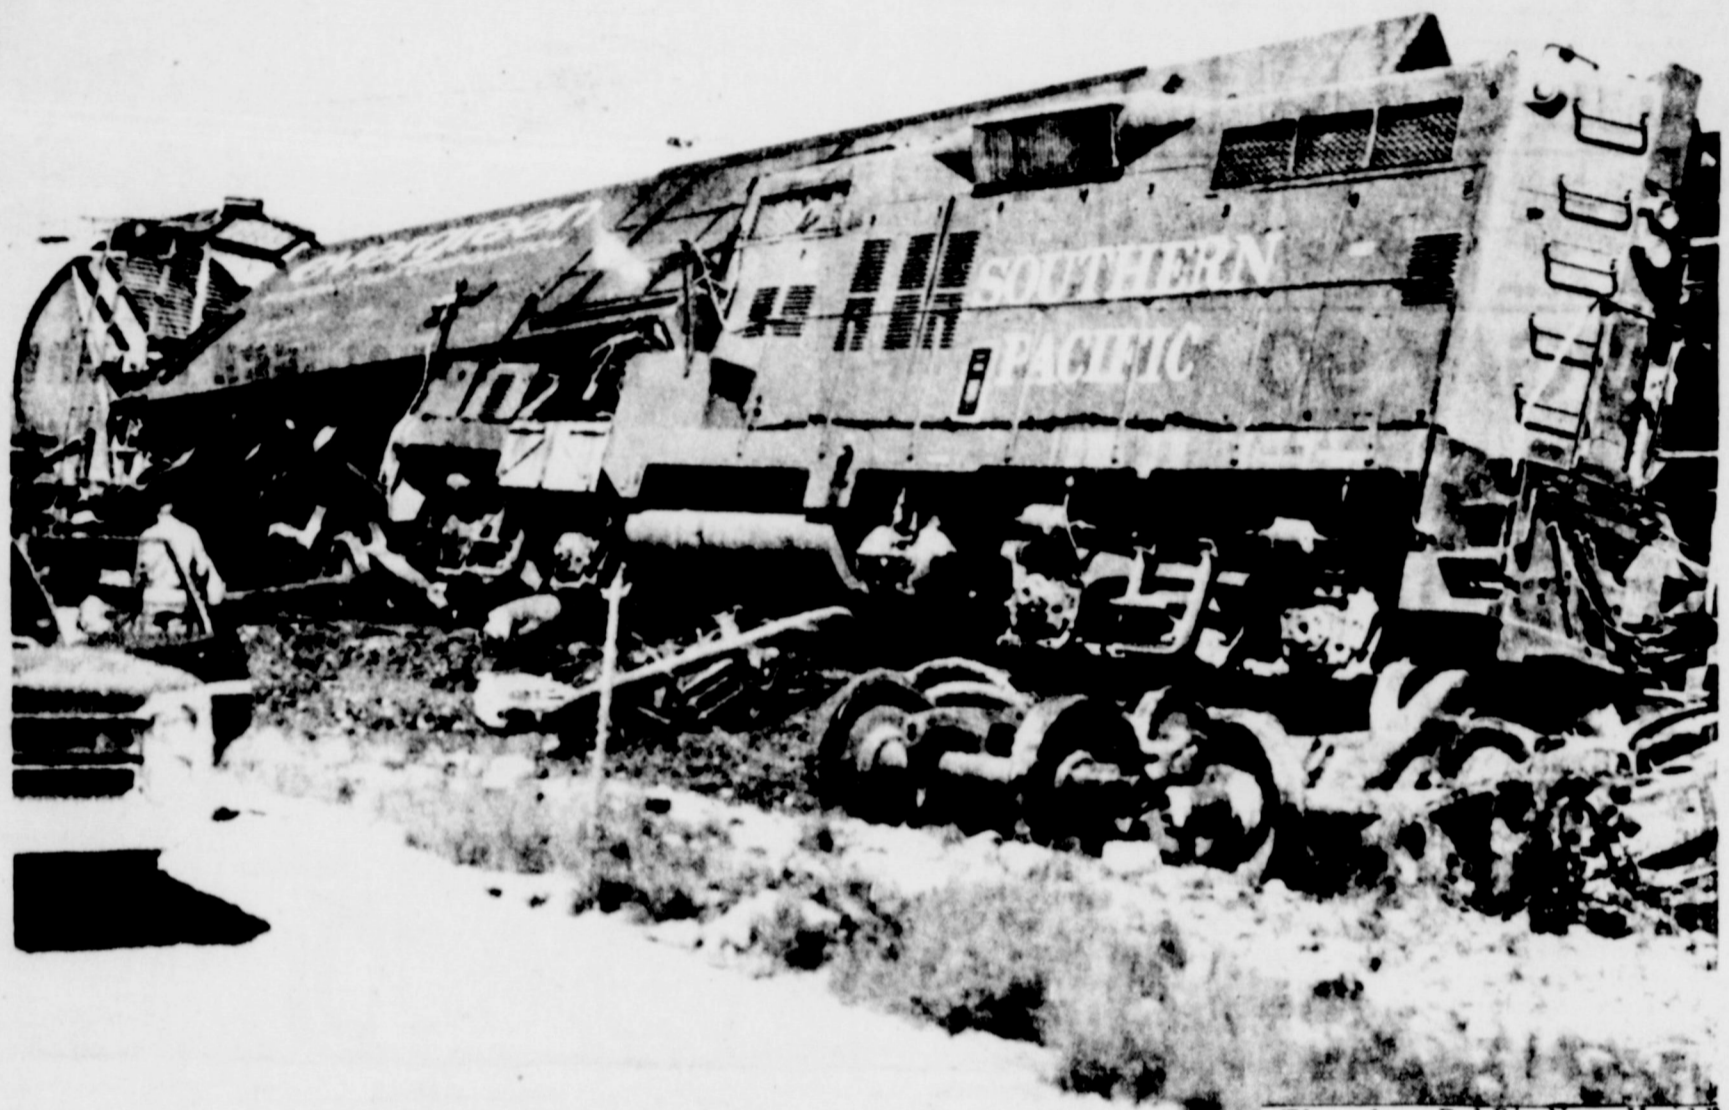

If you have occasion to report a crime or suspicious actions of individuals, call Sheriff Cooksey at the office during hours of 9-5 Monday to Friday, and at home other hours to make the report. The sheriff would appreciate knowing the identity of the caller, but it is not necessary.

"Crime Stop" should be of interest to all responsible citizens and warrant their cooperation.

Failure to report a crime or failure to report a suspicious person or act could cause another person to suffer unduly.

Twisted wreckage and wheels sheared from four cars derailed in a railroad accident west of Shumla Wednesday morning of last week, are piled together after they were separated from the vehicles. At the left the demolished front portion of the first locomotive unit is seen. Three railroad men were riding in this unit at the time of the collision; two were killed and the third, apparently thrown from the cab, was seriously injured and is under treatment in Val Verde Memorial Hospital.

Funerals in Del Rio For Railroaders Killed in Crash

Funeral services were in Del Rio last week for Robert G. Baker and William L. McCullar, conductor and engineer for the Southern Pacific Railroad. The two men were killed in an accident just west of Shumla Wednesday morning of last week.

Baker, 57, was buried in Del Rio following services in the First Baptist Church on Friday. He had worked for the railroad since 1940. He had lived in Del Rio since childhood. He is survived by his widow, three brothers and two sisters.

McCuller's body was taken to Arkansas for burial following funeral services Saturday. He moved to Del Rio in 1939 and worked for the highway department before going to work on the railroad about 30 years ago. He is survived by a widow, two daughters, and his mother of Camden, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Garner made a business trip to Odessa Wednesday.

Rabies Outbreak Noted by Doctor

Dr. A. N. Clanton asked The Times to publish that he had learned of the outbreak of rabies in wild animals in the area and there had also been a report of rabies in cattle in this immediate area.

The facts were told so that all area citizens could be on the alert for strange actions in both domestic or wild animals that are seen and anyone having knowledge of such animals is asked to contact him or the sheriff's department immediately.

Dr. Clanton, Terrell County's Health Officer, stated that he had contacted the State Health Department and apprised them of the situation to seek their help in case of a more concentrated outbreak of the disease.

Dr. Clanton stated that the Parks and Wildlife Service was going to send members of that department to Sanderson to put out poison and traps on ranches of this area in an effort to rid the area of varmints that may be spreading the disease. Ranchmen interested are urged to be at the court house at 4:00 p. m. on Monday to meet with representatives of the Department and get detailed information.

The doctor stated that he was presently treating two people with the rabies vaccine and there were several cases of sick cattle near Sanderson and it was presumed at this writing that they had rabies.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Savage were in San Angelo last week for several days for medical check-ups and dental work. They returned this week to San Angelo for Mr. Savage to enter the hospital for surgery on Wednesday.

Crime-Stop Is Initiated Here

A statewide effort to reduce crime by stimulating public awareness and participation in law enforcement was launched this week from the office of Governor Preston Smith.

In an appeal to Texas newspaper publishers, Governor Smith asked them to initiate, co-ordinate, and publicize "Operation Crime-Stop" in their respective communities as a part of the Governor's Crime-Stop Program.

The plan has been endorsed by the Board of Directors of The Texas Press Association. It seeks "to enlist the aid of newspapers across the state and to join them with other resources in their home communities in the campaign to involve all citizens in crime prevention and control."

The role of the law enforcement agency in Crime-Stop, the Governor explained, consists principally of providing a telephone number for citizens to call to report suspicious persons or circumstances, and of making the necessary response to such calls.

Though the police agency naturally prefers to know the identity of all callers, it gives assurance that those wishing to remain anonymous may do so.

Beyond this, the program is largely one of creating public awareness of crime problem, and persuading citizens to observe suspicious persons and circumstances, report them by calling the Crime-Stop number, and advising citizens of precautions which can be taken to prevent certain crimes.

The Crime-Stop telephone numbers are 2525 day and 2617 after office hours for the sheriff.

If 65, Enroll for Medicare Medical Insurance

People who are 65 and haven't already signed up for Medicare medical insurance may enroll now through March 31 at any social security office, according to social security officials here.

Medicare medical insurance helps pay doctor bills. A person may first enroll in the program within the 3 months before or the 3 months after the month he reaches 65. He may also sign up in the general enrollment period—January, February, and March—within 3 years following the end of his first sign-up period.

"Almost anyone 65 or over in the United States is eligible for Medicare medical insurance," a social security spokesman said. "More than 9 out of 10 in that age group are enrolled."

Medical insurance is funded by individual voluntary monthly premiums that are matched by the Federal Government.

If a person enrolls after his first sign-up period, he pays a premium that is 10 percent higher for each full year that elapses after that first sign-up period, the spokesman said.

"If you enroll and then cancel your Medicare medical insurance, you're eligible to re-enroll only once," he said.

Miss Mitchell is a graduate of the Ozona High School and Trinity University. She was a member of the "Spurs", a sorority, and on the Dean's list every semester.

Mr. Hayre is a graduate of Sanderson and will be a candidate for graduation in May from The University of Texas College of Business in Austin.

Both are members of pioneer families of Terrell County. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hayre, pioneer rail-roading family, and she is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alec Mitchell, early-day ranching family.

Garden Mulches Explained in Leaflet

Garden mulches and how to use them is the subject of a new leaflet available from the USDA Soil Conservation Service.

Herbe Senne, SCS district conservationist at Sanderson, said the leaflet "Mulches for Your Garden" has the best and most concise explanation of how to use mulches and compost in a garden that he has ever seen.

"The leaflet explains how mulches cushion falling raindrops which reduces soil loss and soil compaction keep the soil cool in the summer, conserving moisture; and they also furnish food for earthworms which are an asset for aerating the soil. Organic matter added by mulches helps keep soil crumbly and easy to work."

The leaflet lists the number of cupsful of various kinds of fertilizer, wood ashes, or epsom salts to add to a bushel of compost to speed decomposition and to increase the compost's plant nutrient value. Details are also given on how to make acid compost for use with azaleas and rhododendrons.

Leaving mulches from grass clippings, tree leaves, straw, stems, and stalks from vegetables helps to reduce erosion and conserve moisture.

To get your free copy of the leaflet contact any Soil Conservation Service office. The Sanderson office is at 112 Per-stimmon St., Box 427, phone 345-2595.

Kite Flying Calls For Safe Measures, Caroline Warns

Traditionally the red-breasted robin was the harbin-ger of spring, but one of the surest signs that winter is wan-ing is the sudden clutter of kites, kite strings, and tails, tangled in trees and power lines and draped over televi-sion antennas. Kite-flying has been popular for many years with young and old alike, but like any other activity, it is done better if it is done safely.

This was the observation of James Caroline, Community Public Service Company man-ager, who urges all kite-fly-ers to memorize the few sim-ple rules of kite-flying safety.

"Be sure there is no metal in the kite, and use only twine that is dry and non-metallic. Don't fly your kites in rainy weather, and avoid busy high-ways and streets. Fly your kite far away from television an-tennas, electric wires, and if your kite gets snagged in a power line, don't pull the string or climb a pole. Call our office for help," Caro-line recommends.

Posters listing kite-flying rules of safety have been dis-tributed by Community Pub-lic Service Co. for use on the bulletin boards of local school buildings.

IN HEART ATTACK, INACTION AND INDECISION CAN BE FATAL

Ideally, following a heart attack, you will be within minutes in a coronary care unit of a local hospital.

Essentially, the coronary care unit is a hospital installation where trained personnel are on hand within seconds if there is any change in heart rhythm or rate above or below a preset range.

These crises usually take place within 72 hours following the attack and most often involve an irregularly beating heart. Once the alarm is sounded, steps can be taken in a few seconds to correct whatever is wrong - intravenous medication, electrical methods of re-starting or repacing the heart, mouth-to-mouth breathing, chest compression and others.

The principle of coronary care service stems from this concept:

Death from heart attack is not necessarily the result of heart muscle damage but may be due to a reversible electrical derangement of heart rhythm occurring as a result of a relatively minor heart muscle injury. It is in promptly correcting these derangements that coronary care service scores its greatest gains.

About 90% of all hospitalized coronary patients experience an irregular beating of the heart called arrhythmia. This condition bears close scrutiny but is not necessarily dangerous.

Very often these arrhythmias can be prevented through the administration of antiarrhythmic agents when the first signs of trouble present themselves.

Only a few years ago the cessation of the heart beat was considered to be an absolute indicator of death. This is no longer true. Many thousands of hearts that have stopped beating briefly have been restarted and restored to normal function.

In the coronary care unit of a hospital in Hartford, Connecticut, for example, there were 78 instances of cardiac arrest over a period of three years. Of these, 17 were revived and experienced long-term survival.

It should be emphasized that the life-saving potential of the coronary care unit diminishes with each minute's delay in getting into the hospital. One group of investigators, for illustration, found that ventricular fibrillation (an often fatal arrhythmia) is about 25 times more likely to occur during the first four hours from the start of heart attack than during the ensuing twenty-four hours.

This means, for example, that the individual fortunate enough to receive high-quality coronary care within an hour is far more likely to survive than one with an attack of comparable severity not obtaining such specialized care until after 12, 24 or 36 hours.

Among the prime factors inhibiting earliest possible admission of a heart attack victim to coronary care is his own indecision and inaction.

In a study involving 160 consecutive coronary patients admitted to two hospitals, it was found that the average "decision time" was three hours one minute; in other words, the average patient (or relative) delayed about three hours before lifting the phone off the hook.

Other factors, too, are involved - time to contact the physician, time for the doctor to reach his patient, time for the doctor to arrive at a diagnosis, time to obtain an ambulance service, time to move the patient to the hospital, time for hospital admitting procedures, and time for transfer from emergency room to coronary care unit. Since nearly all heart attacks occur outside of hospitals, it is likely that there will always be some time lag between onset of symptoms and hospital admission. The best we can hope to do is to minimize this time lag, now believed to be in the neighborhood of eight hours for the average coronary patient.

Of America's 7,000 hospitals treating acutely ill persons, only an estimated 3,000 are now equipped to render specialized coronary care service. Full-scale coronary care facilities and staff are concentrated in larger hospitals. In smaller hospitals, comparable service is being made available on an increasing scale in intensive care facilities.

It should also be noted that one's chances of survival are better in a hospital than in a home, although the hospital may not be equipped to render monitoring service. Almost all hospitals have equipment to electrically control a faulty heart rhythm. Further, they are prepared to administer medications designed to correct complications, as well as to utilize a new technique known as external cardiopulmonary resuscitation - E CPR.

Tuesday Bridge Club

Mrs. Austin Nance was host-ess to the Tuesday Bridge Club in her home this week. She used yellow daffodils in the dining room for floral decora-tions.

Mrs. J. A. Gilbreath held high score at the end of the card games, Mrs. Roger Rose was second high and shared slam with Mrs. W. J. Murrah.

Other guests were Mmes. F. J. Barrett, Jim Kerr, Tol Mur-rah, Weldon Cox, Willie Ban-ner, C. E. Litton, W. D. O'-Bryant, Herbert Brown, and S. H. Underwood.

Telephone Count In Sanderson Told

The World: 255,200,000; Pitcairn Island: 17.

That's not a lopsided foot-ball score, but rather a census of the world's telephones for 1969. Pitcairn Island achiev-ed the dubious honor for hav-ing the fewest number of tele-phones on record.

"By contrast, Sanderson re-corded 698 telephones, which is more than all of the tele-phones in the country of Por-tuguese Timor," said Don Lincoln, manager for South-western Bell Telephone Co.

The United States leads all countries of the world with the number of telephones - 114,798,000, with Japan and the United Kingdom runners-up.

In the past 50 years the world's population has nearly doubled while telephone use has increased 12-fold.
