LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert: ---
 We read a story syndicated by Associated Press last week and we are quoting the first two paragraphs of that story: "Texas must upgrade its jails if it wants to avoid federal court orders that would force reform, says Dr. Charles Freil, director of a jail research institute at Sam Houston State University. Unless we put these jails in order soon, the courts are going to put them in order for us, probably at a greater cost, Freil told a House State Affairs sub-committee Wednesday night."

We know that this is just an opinion of Dr. Freil, but his opinion is shared by many and we would be more than just naive if we continue to ignore the warnings of many and not begin to do something to avoid intervention by higher authority.

The story goes on to say that under the present law, counties are required to meet certain minimum standards, but there is no penalty if they do not. There is a bill now before the state legislature that would create a state commission on jail standards, made up of a director of the Department of Corrections and six persons to be appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. Of the six, one would have to be a county judge, one a sheriff, and one a medical doctor. The commission would establish minimum standards for jails in Texas, and could order prisoners moved to an adequate jail, with the cost to be paid by the county failing to meet the standards set down by the law.

And there is always the possibility that it would be cheaper to transport prisoners to other jails and pay for their incarceration in some area jail. It might be very inconvenient for local law enforcement officers, but it may be better. We don't know the answer to that!

There is no point in anyone trying to play "ostrich" about something like that, and say that if we ignore it, it may go away. Or there is not any justification in saying: "if the news media would shut up, maybe nothing will have to be done about it" -- or anything else!

Locally, we can remember when a fire on the top floor jail of our courthouse caused one person to be overcome by smoke and might have caused one or two deaths had the fire department or someone else not been able to get there in time. We can remember that incident, because the person who was overcome by the smoke weighed a bunch of pounds and the carrying wasn't easy. And we can also remember when a woman was overcome by smoke from a fire in the downstairs cell and died as a result of that incident. And we can remember that because it was not easy to act as a coroner under those conditions, knowing that that woman had as much right to protection, even from her own foolish (by our standards) devisions as does any other person.

Hindsight in so many instances is so much better than foresight that there is no point in comparing them. But we wonder when something like this happens, and some other catastrophes occur; or when some people are so sorely neglected or mistreated, or ignored; or a situation exists that is potentially harmful, dangerous, inconvenient, disastrous; or just a nuisance continues to plague, "bug", or stand in front of us-- whose fault is it? Who is responsible? Who is going to take the blame when and if something does happen?

Would we be responsible in any way if we see such a condition and fail to say something about it? Would you be responsible in any way if you see such a condition and fail to say or do something about it?

One could always say: "C'est la vie", or "Que sera sera", or "That's the way the cookie crumbles".

We guess that it's like a lot of other things: It depends on how you look at it!

There is a report that the local committee should hear sometime this month if a doctor is going to be available through the National Health Service Corps. Then availability or assignment of a doctor then would be a fact sometime near June 1, according to our understanding. This information is being anxiously awaited and there seems to be an eager expectancy on the part of the committee.

We would commend them for all of their work and efforts and express an equal hopeful anticipation of a favorable response to our request.

There is no one, nor any way that we could see where anyone could say that there has been some "stone left unturned" in this particular effort!

There is also a great expectancy that Dr. Jerome Svajada will be able to begin his regular trips to Sanderson for the practice of dentistry. Dr. Svajada resides in Alpine and equipment is being readied in the Trans-Terrell Medical Center Building so that he can practice here.

This accomplishment is also one that warrants, demands, and receives our commendation and we hope the appreciation of everyone in the community.

When people show they care about people, something gets done!

Mr. and Mrs. Otilio Escudero and family were in Kermit last weekend visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Valdez and family. Mrs. Escudero is a cousin of Mr. Valdez.

To All LP Gas Users:

There has been a lot of discussion about fuel shortages recently. During the past few days many worried people have been in my office wanting information about the shortage, and what they should do about additional storage, and if there will be enough Butane and Propane next winter.

First of all, let me assure you that Big Bend Gas Company has an unlimited supply of fuel for many years to come. Big Bend Gas Company has been associated with our present supplier for the past 20 years, so we are well established. We transport our fuel directly from two of the largest plants in the Southwest located near Kermit, Texas. Our supplier is Sid Richardson Gasoline Company, a Texas-owned company, which is also a leader in the industry.

Should there ever be reason for anyone to stockpile fuel, we believe that is our responsibility and not the customer's, therefore saving you the costly expense of additional storage.

We will continue to offer our customers fuel, supplies and appliances at the lowest prices possible.

Our tank prices are as follows:

150 Gallon Propane Tank with regulator	- $142.00
250 Gallon Propane Tank with regulator	- 175.00
350 Gallon Propane Tank with regulator	- 208.00
500 Gallon Propane Tank with regulator	- 270.00
1000 Gallon Propane Tank with regulator	- 450.00

The above prices include delivery and installation. Should additional piping be necessary, the cost will be reasonable as always.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The following is a reply to the comment and offer to permit candidates to express their purposes, as stated in "Listen to Luke" last week.

Voters: My reasons for running in the school board election to be held April 7th are as follows:

I would like to see the continuation of a basically good school system and help to better the present system if possible. I also feel it is my duty to offer my services for the school board post as a parent, a taxpayer, and a resident of Terrell County. I feel that the school board must operate as directors in any other business. It can not please all of the people all of the time. But by trying to make wise decisions on what will give all school children in Terrell County the best possible education available is my interpretation of the school board and my intention should I be elected.

Your write-in vote will be appreciated.

Regardless of whom your choices may or may not be do exercise your rights by voting on Saturday, April 7, 1973.

Thank you,
Gilbert Bell.

Workshop Held For Evangelism

The evangelism workshop at the First United Methodist Church opened Monday evening with a fellowship supper served in the fellowship hall of the church.
 The original schedule called for two ministers and two laymen and their wives to conduct the workshop, but unavoidable circumstances made it possible for only two to come to Sanderson, Rev. Leonard Dillingham, pastor of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and "Buck" Rogers, charge lay leader, both of El Paso.
 In order for the Dryden members to participate in the witness there was a coffee in a cafe there Tuesday morning. All of the other services were in the Sanderson Church culminating in a visitation period Tuesday evening prior to the closing session.
