LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert---

There are very few things that we could write about that would give us more pleasure than noting the academic achievements of the students of our schools. There are few things that could be more important for the students than these achievements and also knowing that it makes some kind of difference to someone else whether or not they make any achievements.

We would not labor under any kind of disillusionment that any students is striving for some degree of excellence in their grades so that they can have their names printed in the paper, or this kind of a blanket commendation for their efforts, but we feel sure that any person is pleased when someone notices that he has accomplished something. And we know that we are glad to recognize and acknowledge the accomplishments of the young people--and old ones, too!

We would not want to be misunderstood by any stretch of the imagination and be thought to be belittling those who have made higher levels of accomplishment in track and field events and in twirling, but we would like to see, also, some students who discipline themselves to the task of attaining some higher levels of accomplishment in some of the literary events of University Interscholastic League competition. Mental exercise or development, too, is a very rewarding adventure.

Probably we have stated before, but it is worth stating again, that there are some students who demonstrate a great amount of self-discipline in making even barely-passing grades, and the same thing is true from there on up, and the mark on the card is not, by any means, a true picture of the mental or academic ability of the student, but rather of what he did during a particular time. Mental effort, or success, in other words is not measured by an excellent mark, but is an immeasurable quantity of knowledge that is attained by the application of the ability.

We'd better quit right there on mental achievement, lest we be thought of as some kind of an expert on grading students, or something like that!

Anyway, congratulations to the students who took advantage of the possibility of gaining knowledge and experience in academic fields during the year past -- whether or not you gained the list of name-mentioning or not.

We were impressed last week during the early-morning news program and the "SkyWarn" portion, when the announcer stated that this year there were 35 who lost their lives to tornadoes, and that "we've got to do better than that and increase the alert competence on the local level to reduce that figure to 0". We thought that a very commendable goal.

And we wondered what if

Because of the poor turn-out for day camp registration last week, the deadline has been extended to June 11. Only 27 girls have registered and 75 girls were expected to enroll.

All girls in the 2nd through the 8th grade are eligible. The day camp is a great opportunity for outdoor fun and for learning camping skills and crafts. Senior scouts from Odessa, Midland and Fort Stockton will be directing the day camp and they are bringing many new ideas to our community.

The Baptist Church is making their bus available to take the girls to and from the day camp site. The bus will pick up the girls at the Girl Scout Hut at 8:50 a.m. and return them to the hut after 2:00 p.m.

The people of Sanderson have been very generous in donating egg cartons, clorox bottles, newspapers, and other materials to be used, but now the day camp needs girls. Three dollars buys a lot at day camp. For more information call Mrs. P.F. Eggleston, 2619.

as an elder and accepted into the conference in full connection.

The conference will also take action on eight amendments to the denomination's constitution referred by the 1972 General Conference.

One proposal would give laymen a vote on such matters as ordination, character and conference relation of a minister.

The second would permit each of the 76 annual conferences in the 10.6 million member denomination to elect as many additional lay members as necessary to equalize lay and ministerial membership in the annual conference.

A third proposal would remove the 21-years-of-age qualification for delegates to General Conference.

Other amendments deal with boundary changes within the denomination, substitution of nouns and pronouns in the constitution and a provision to permit more frequent meeting of the general church body.

The conference council on Higher Education and Campus Ministry will report to the conference and this report is expected to go a long way in determining the future emphasis of campus ministry. Rev. Clyde Chesnutt of Grace United Methodist Church of El Paso is chairman of the council.

The Camps Board is expected to propose a long range plan of development and an architectural plan of the Sacramento Camp between now and 1980 with developing being in three phases.

The Annual Session will also honor retiring ministers and hold a memorial service for pastors in the New Mexico Conference who have died within the past year.

Thoughts

From The Living Bible

And remember that your heavenly Father to whom you pray has no favorites when he judges. He will judge you with perfect justice for everything you do; so act in reverent fear of him from now on until you get to heaven. God paid a ransom to save you from the impossible road to heaven which your fathers tried to take, and the ransom he paid was not mere gold or silver, as you very well know. But he paid for you with the precious life-blood of Christ, the sinless, spotless Lamb of God.
