LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert: ---
 The picture of the plaque on the Terrell County Public Library was not printed as it should have been printed last week, and we are trying it again. There is no persuasion that could have been offered to have gotten me to do what was done, and we had no more connection with what was printed than any of you readers. We are stating our regrets, not apologies, since what happened was not our fault in any way. The regrets were expressed privately to those involved and we hope that they were taken with the sincerity that they were offered! We could not explain how it happened other than to say that possibly in the rush of the photo-printer operators in Alpine, they did not take the time or trouble to be sure that what they printed was what they should have printed. Sometimes those things happen, and we do not have any control over them. If we were doing it, there would probably be some other mistakes. Nobody's perfect, and the trouble with printing is that our mistakes are there for everyone to see. It's a whale of a responsibility, and few there are, comparatively, who want it!

The parade on the Fourth was the best ever! The rodeo on the 3rd was well attended, as was the one on the 4th; some say the barbecue had the largest crowd since the 50th birthday anniversary. The attendance at the arts and crafts was very poor, considering, and the participation of exhibitors was even poorer. Some say that there was no one really pushing that side of the celebration, and consequently there was very little activity by exhibitors. There were about "a jillion" paintings, lots of needlework of several kinds, not so many pieces of craft other than needlework, and only one relic, no other hobbies or displays like bottles, rocks, etc., etc.

We feel that there should be more participation and displays of relics, bottles, stamps, memorabilia, guns, etc., and we feel sure that the handicrafts could have had more exhibitors. It's a real pleasure for many to view those things, and it's a real pleasure for many to display them. It's just a matter of getting the two together. The Mexican supper was served to a big crowd and the dances were both well attended. The day was a big success in every sense, except the arts and crafts exhibits and viewers.

No one knows where, how, or when the Watergate mess will come to any kind of conclusion. Now we have people stepping forward and admitting to having been strong-armed into large contributions to a "slush" fund for the administration. We are amazed that there are those who have that kind of power and the lack of decency that permits them to use it. Blackmail comes under a bunch of headings and can occur by the paying or the withholding

Formal Opening Of Library Sunday

The formal opening of the Terrell County Public Library will be Sunday afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock. The new building is on the northeast corner of the courthouse block and was given to the people of Sanderson anonymously. Plans for the opening were completed at a called meeting of the Friends of the Library on Sunday evening with Mrs. Irvin Robbins, president, presiding. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to come by the library at some time during the hours of the opening as the facility with everything so generously provided for the comfort, convenience, and pleasure of everyone in the county and with the sincere desire that frequent use might be made of it. The large supply of books, magazines, reference books, etc., available will be a surprise to many who have not been frequent visitors to the library in its former location.

Well Completed Then Abandoned

Texas Oil & Gas Corp. filed a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 25,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day for its No. 2 Allison, 2,300 feet west of the depleted opener of the Mesa Grande (Leonard gas) field of Terrell County, 20 miles south west of Sheffield. Production was through perforations at 3,503-522 feet, which had been acidized with 5,500 gallons. Drilled to 3,800 feet, with 2 7/8 inch casing set at 3,620 ft., it is plugged back at 3,585 ft. The Permian was topped at 64 ft. and the Leonard at 3,468 ft. on ground elevation of 2546 ft. The project had been reported as abandoned May 4 and apparently will not be produced. Location is 2,250 ft. from the south and 4,000 ft. from the east lines of 8-A4-Mrs. A. Pride. The discovery, Hunble Oil & Refining Co. No. 1 Allison, was finalized May 11, 1963, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 4.6 million cubic feet of gas per day through perforations at 3,373-387 ft. It became depleted in July 1967 and was re-entered by Texas Oil & Gas and abandoned again June 1, 1972.

He had resided in Sanderson since 1904, coming here from Marathon. Until his retirement, he was an employee of the Southern Pacific Railroad for 31 years. He was married to Paula Alvarado of San Angelo in 1942. Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Reyes Fuentes of Fort Stockton; a daughter, Jacinta Fuentes of Sanderson; three brothers, Alberto Fuentes Sr., of Sanderson, Jesus Fuentes and Jerado Fuentes of Fort Stockton; three sisters, Manuelita de la Cruz and Maria Alvarez of Fort Stockton, and Santos Barrera of San Antonio; also six grandchildren.

Winners of Events On 4th Named

Various participants in the events of July 4th were competing for prizes given by the sponsors, the American Legion and Auxiliary, Young People's Chamber of Commerce. In the parade, there were five categories with three places recognized in each category with the exception of the motorcycles. In the horse division, Miss Nelda Kay Sudduth was first, Bobby Stegall, and Connie's Dress Shop. Eddie Benavidez, Nancy Condes, and Chuck Hornsby; Tony Calzada and Rocky McDonald in motorcycles; "unusual" entry: Alpha Theta Alpha, and Beverly and Larry Choate.

In the Arts and Crafts exhibit at the courthouse: Mrs. Gene Thompson, Mrs. Ernest Massey, and Mrs. Charles Stavley won the first three places in paintings; Mrs. Wallace Pendleton, Mrs. Barton Massey, and Mangum's Rock Shop were the top winners in crafts; in arts division, Mrs. W.E. McDonald, Mrs. Jack Hardgrave, and Mrs. A.J. Hahn.

The crafts division was mainly composed of decoupage, miniature shadow boxes, and rock work, and the exhibit consisted primarily of needlecraft and sewing.

Visitors to the arts and crafts exhibit were the judges of the articles there, and the judges for the parade were Jack Hayre and Messrs. and Mmes. A.H. Zuberbueler, R.S. Wilkinson, Ervin Grigsby, and Roger Rose.

Trash Hauling Fee Raise Initiated

Local citizens who receive water bills will notice that there is an increase in the amount listed on the bill under "sanitation". The fee jumped from $1.00 to $2.50 for residences and for business houses went from $2.00 to $4.00 with the promise of one pick-up per week for businesses and residences.

There are several residences and/or businesses in Sanderson that are not on a separate water meter and consequently do not receive a billing for the hauling of their trash, it was pointed out. The sanitation fee is printed on the water bill and collected by that source if the water customer wants to pay the fee, as there is no connection between the Terrell County Water Control & Improvement District and the Terrell County Commissioners Court, which pays the water district for collecting the sanitation fees and reporting to the commissioners the amount collected.

There is also a 50¢ charge printed on the water bill and water meter customers arbitrarily pay this amount for the maintenance of fire fighting equipment and maintenance.

The raise in the sanitation fee was a decision of the commissioners court after a study was made of the costs of the service to local people and the amount paid.

Get a-head..use the library!

ELAINE BROWN NAMED TO TOP HONOR AT WALDEMAR

Two young ladies, doing some clowning for the "Kodaker" and the displeasure of the donkey provide interesting reminiscences for our readers. The picture was taken in about 1917 and is from the collection of Mrs. E. E. Harkins Jr. Miss Ruby Cochran, aunt of Mrs. Harkins, is one of the two, and someone, a long time ago, wrote: "Hello, Central!" beside the picture.

of funds, but one is as bad as the other. We have our own opinions of anyone who will use his position unfairly to take advantage of another person, and this goes for those in the news media who are guilty as well as those who are not in the news media. The latest admission of the airlines of a large "contribution" after some gentle persuasion (by warning them that their proposed merger with another company would be blocked if they didn't ante-up) is only one of a long line of examples of the degradation to which people can sink when prompted by power, money, or some other selfishness.

When each one of us, in every way that we individually operate, can be genuinely concerned with the welfare of every person with whom we deal, live, visit, associate, work, play, worship, and react, then maybe we will all begin to know how pleasant it is for men to dwell together in unity.

We have heard it said of Sanderson and almost every other town that we have heard anything about: All that town needs is about five good funerals of the right persons! We do not like to think that anyone would say those words except in the greatest jest. This town is what we make it, and more and more we are realizing that we depend upon each other more and more. It is only those principals at funerals that are no longer dependent upon us, nor we upon them.

Our offer for writers of letters, got not one single response, which leads us to opine that there are many more who like to read letters than there are those who like to write them.

That's the way we look at it!

Dad had another light stroke Tuesday morning last week and was in the hospital for 48 hours for observation before being taken back to the nursing home where he has been for two years. He has apparently suffered no further ill effects from the stroke.

Historical Group Fetes Old-Timers

The Terrell County Historical Survey Committee chose the week of July 1 to 7 as County Appreciation Week.

On July 4, the committee participated in the parade, and under the direction of Mrs. C. P. Pravy, chairman of the history appreciation committee, and in cooperation with the YPCC, invited old-timers to the courthouse lawn for visiting and renewing old friendships. Sixty-two were present to drink lemonade "made in the shade" and stirred with a wooden spoon over 100 years old.

E.S. Lambert, 93, was awarded a prize as the oldest person present. Mrs. Addie L. Halbert was presented a gift for having lived in the county the longest time. Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Boykin of Houston won the prize for having traveled the farthest to get to Sanderson. Others registered from Odessa, Eagle Pass, Marathon, Fort Stockton, Del Rio, McCamey, Midland, San Antonio, Uvalde, Alpine, Sheffield, and Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wagner of Marathon, former residents, spent the Fourth here.

Citizens Rally For Biggest Fourth

Local citizens, clubs, and organizations rallied to the efforts started by several local organizations to make the annual July 4th celebration here this year bigger and better than ever before.

A parade through the business district opened the day's celebration. Led by Sheriff Donald Hogg and Deputy Donald Turk, the color bearers in uniform followed: Larry O'Keefe of the Legion, Rudy Perez, Robert Salazar, Dionisio Venegas, and Ambrosio Rodriguez of the V.F.W. Post.

Brad Harrison was instrumental in getting the high school band together for practice and the parade which was led by the drum major, Miss Barbara Freeman. There were many bicycle and motorcycle riders, horseback riders, floats, and individuals, including the "Super Duper Scoopers", Barton Harkins, Billy Choice, Ben Mangum, Skipper Harris, and Mario Salazar following the horses.

The serving of the barbecue dinner at the Legion Hall by the Legion and Auxiliary was next on the program, with the Mexican supper, rodeo events, and dances taking up the rest of the afternoon and night. There was also an arts and crafts exhibit at the courthouse from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and an old-timers' get-together from 3:00 to 4:00 p.m.

Other details of the day's events appear in other columns of The Times.

The Post was also presented a "Pace Setter" award from the V.F.W. Department of Texas for the period from September 1972 through May of 1973. Several other awards have been presented to the Post, including Post Commander Citation, Post Quartermaster Citation, and a Distinguished Service Citation. All were earned through the effort help, and cooperation of the V.F.W. members and the officers have expressed their hope that the organization can continue being a "Pace Setter" post for the coming year.

Oil, Gas Produced Adds To Coffers

Terrell County was one of 190 of Texas' 254 counties that produced oil and gas valued in excess of $100,000 in a record production year for the state's No. 1 industry, according to figures compiled by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

The study by the Association also shows that production last year in Terrell County resulted in the payment of $816,000 to royalty owners.

The state of Texas received $490,000 in production taxes from county wells, almost all based on natural gas production.

Oil and gas producers and developers spent $363,000 drilling six wells in the county last year, with $115,000 of that figure lost in three dry holes, according to the figures from Mid-Continent.

According to the Texas Employment Commission, 84 oil and gas industry employees worked in the county in 1972 and shared a payroll of $818,000.

Library facilities on the south campus are equipped with the latest multi-media instruction devices, such as tape recorders and slide and motion picture projectors for self-paced instruction.

Texas' newest university is sprouting from the West Texas plains at Odessa with what its administrators describe as the most revolutionary program in higher education today.

If the experts are right, Yale, Stanford, Harvard, Rice and the rest will be studying the ultra-modern campus of The University of Texas System that opens its doors this fall as The University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

Texas-Permian is the first two-year, upper-class university in Texas designed for junior, senior and graduate students. It is accepting all credits with a minimum grade of C from all accredited colleges. But killing the credit transfer hassle isn't enough. The university is challenging students to transfer in as members of the pioneer class.

A look at the completed South Campus facilities indicates that "innovation" is more than an idea. The hardware is there, and so are the faculty, Ph.D.'s drawn from throughout the United States because of their particular expertise and their desire to crash out of the aged classroom lecture technique. This faculty is composed of talented people with years of teaching experience at the best universities in America.

Their boss is U.T. Permian's president Bill Amstead, an Austin native with his doctorate from The University of Texas. At 51, Amstead looks just as natural behind his desk in suit and tie as he does tramping fearless about the construction sites under a hard hat, chomping cigar and transmitting a "Ten-four" over the walkie talkie in his hand.

"Socrates has been dead more than 2,000 years, and academia is still hung up on his methods," says Amstead. "Business and the military have run away from us in techniques of learning. You'll find some of what we're doing here on other campuses all over the country. But these attempts are isolated. Some in classes or in only one department. Or else they've gone overboard for one technique or idea, and made it some kind of panacea.

"Here we're developing a campus-wide learning management system, based on individualized learning. We have modular classrooms, where professors can give students one-on-one instruction, and students can progress at their own pace."

Another innovation Amstead cites is multi-media training, or use of slide and film projectors, tape recorders and closed circuit television.

"Each professor will virtually tailor each course to the individual," says Amstead. "The instructor will plan the course by starting at graduation day, so to speak, and determining what the student should know, be able to do. Then he'll work backward and develop course segments.

"He'll use whatever devices that will best advance the student — self-paced instruction, multi-media or even classroom lecture methods.

"We'll have mobile units designed as roving laboratories with live-in facilities to travel anywhere in the country."

Amstead said the roving classrooms will consist of 13 custom-built vans designed for a specific function, such as science laboratory, classroom-study hall, bubble-top art studio and dormitory. The units will be kept on the move for fossil hunting, life science study, on-location art classes and even snow skiing trips.

"It's part of our philosophy of removing students from the classroom and placing them in real-life conditions," said Amstead.

Amstead says about one fourth of the classes beginning this September will utilize self-paced instruction. "That percentage will increase as we move along, to where there is less and less lecture."

Texas-Permian professors are being trained in a systems approach to learning management. A computerized faculty activity analysis system has been designed to provide each professor with feedback on learning results, so he can modify and improve on innovative techniques.

"Nothing that is implemented will be experimental, and yet we'll experiment with whatever we implement," Amstead said. "All these techniques have been proven elsewhere — on other campuses and in business and the military. They'll give the student more freedom. For example, in self-paced learning courses, students won't have to attend conventional classes. They'll be tested on a course segment when they say they're ready for it. Laboratories will be open all the time for whatever students require. If they can 'quiz out' successfully in half the allotted time, they'll have the course wrapped up. If they need more time, they'll get it."

"Financing should be no problem to the student," said Amstead. "We have many sources of help, including scholarships, grants, loans and part-time employment. Just let us know."

The main campus under concrete-mold construction even now looks like an avant garde institution where something mind-boggling is under way. Amstead is proud as punch of it.

"We looked at 19 other modern campuses, including the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs. And this design incorporates the best features and concepts to date."

The $14 million main campus has three levels, each with an acre of modular classroom space, built 22 feet above the ground on a man-made mesa. The ground level will contain above-ground utilities, which eliminated the cost of digging into Permian Basin rock. Vehicular traffic and parking facilities will be on the ground, with pedestrian traffic concentrated on the second level. One will be able to walk outside but under cover to every building in no more than six minutes.

The East Texan, South Texan and out-of-stater who attends Texas-Permian will be in for a shock or two besides those encountered in the "classroom." The university is pointing at New Mexico ski slopes, a mere four-hour drive from Odessa, and a nine-hole golf course — soon to be 18 — on the 558-acre campus. The school will have the largest Olympic swimming pool of its kind in the country, which it will need if enrollment predictions click. Amstead expects 3,500 students by the third year, about 6,500 in five years and 10,000 by 1990.

Odessa's Shakespeare Globe Theatre will be one of the university's drama workshops. The theatre has been described by The New York Times and history experts as the world's most authentic replica of the London theatre made famous by Shakespeare. The theatre is directed by Charles David McCally, widely recognized Shakespearean actor and director.

Considering the preferences of today's contemporary student, Texas-Permian will have no dormitories, except for the mobile study units. Students will live near the campus in apartments and homes. "This way they'll be part of the main lifestream of the community," says Amstead. "When they are graduated from here — whether their degree is in chemistry, math, engineering, aviation management, law enforcement management, creative writing or what have you — they won't be coming out of an idealistic ivory tower. They'll be on the ground and running."

Restitution For Mail Fraud Victims Made

More than $6 million was restored to potential victims of mail frauds during a recent nine-month period, Postmaster J.R. Hodgkins reported this week.

Mr. Hodgkins said he had been advised by Chief Postal Inspector and Assistant Postmaster General William J. Cotter that Postal Inspection Service enforcement activities resulted in $6,222,660 in restitutions to those victimized by mail frauds. The report covered the first three quarters of the current 1973 fiscal year, through March.

"The report shows that it is worthwhile for those who have good reason to conclude they have been the victim of a scheme to defraud in which the mails were used to report the facts to the post office," the local postmaster commented.

"Included in the 12,000 or more mail fraud investigations completed each year by Postal Inspectors," Postmaster Hodgkins said, "are those based on complaints from postal customers who allege failure to receive merchandise or promised refunds from mail order firms. Not all such failures or broken promises indicate a scheme to defraud, but may, in fact, be merely the result of poor business practices," he said.

"However, when a postal customer cannot obtain satisfaction through his own efforts," Mr. Hodgkins added, "he should not just write his transaction off as a loss. Return of his money is possible in some cases."

Grant Aids PBRPC Law Enforcement

Governor Dolph Briscoe today awarded a $28,200 planning grant to the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, Midland, to carry on its criminal justice planning program during fiscal 1974.

The money will come from the Criminal Justice Council, which administers the state's block grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act.

It is conditional, however, on future congressional appropriations.

The award is to continue employment of a full-time criminal justice coordinator, his assistant and secretary and provide operating expenses in the Permian Basin RPC.

Counties served by the regional planning commission are Andrews, Borden, Crane, Dawson, Ector, Gaines, Glasscock, Howard, Loving, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler.

The Permian Basin application was among 71 for action and planning funds considered by the CJC Executive Committee June 8. Requests totaled $4,565,876.

Improved Grasses Get Improved Result

"Our survey revealed that in the past 20 years, 5.9 million acres of land has been planted to new grasses released by the Soil Conservation Service," Edward E. Thomas of Temple, state conservationist for SCS, stated. "Statewide increased beef production is averaging 56 pounds per acre per year from these grasses."

Thomas said 23 grasses released by SCS are being grown in Texas. Each has its own area of adaptability and is used to fill a specific conservation need.

Two grasses account for a major share of the acreage planted. Buffelgrass, released by SCS in 1949, has been planted on 1.8 million acres. Other widely-planted grasses include Pensacola bahiagrass, El Reno sideoats grama, and weeping lovegrass.

In addition to the increased beef production, the survey revealed that the new grasses have increased mutton production by more than 1.1 million pounds. Smaller increases were noted for milk, mohair, wool, and goats.

Other benefits from the planted grasses include erosion control, reduced sediment damage to lakes and streams, fewer dust storms, and more abundant wildlife.

Thomas said that there were other factors contributing to increased beef production on Texas grasslands, such as better livestock, improved grassland management, irrigation, and increased use of fertilizer.

Bentsen Seeks To Retain Wilderness For Park, River

Senator Lloyd Bentsen has introduced bills to include the Big Bend section of the Rio Grande in the Wild River System and to preserve more than half of the Guadalupe Mountains National Park as a wilderness area.

"Despite their rugged appearance, both these stretches of West Texas wilderness are parts of ecological systems that are easily damaged and difficult to repair," Bentsen said.

He noted that the unusual relic forest in the Guadalupe Mountains has already suffered damage due to extensive use of the park. And the segment of the Rio Grande which flows through Big Bend National Park is susceptible to the unregulated development that often occurs in popular scenic areas.

"We must act now to insure that these natural heritages are saved, unmarred by the designs of man, for future enjoyment and scientific study," the Senator continued.

One of Bentsen's measures would designate 46,850 acres of the 77,000-acre Guadalupe Mountains Park as a wilderness, in line with a recommendation by the National Park Service.

The other proposal would bring the Rio Grande, through Big Bend Park and on south for 94 miles, under the protection of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers Act. A total of 212 miles of river is included.

Bentsen compared the lower canyons of the Rio Grande to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and the Hells Canyon of the Snake River. And he added that the geology and biology of the proposed Guadalupe Mountains Wilderness are of considerable scientific interest.

"Each of these areas represents a unique portion of the Southwest that encompasses some of the most sparsely inhabited and well preserved wilderness on the North American continent," Senator Bentsen said.

Girls State was organized as a national Americanism activity in 1937 by the American Legion Auxiliary. Non-partisan and non-political, the purposes of the Girls State program are to provide citizenship training for girls of high school age, to afford them an opportunity to live together as a self-governing group and to inform them of the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities which they will assume when they become adults.

They learned the problems of government by simulating the duties of city, county, and state officials. Each year citizens are selected at local levels from students who have just completed their junior year in high school. The selection is based principally on character, leadership and scholarship.
