Carly Drake is crowned 2019 Miss Friona

The 63rd Annual Maize Days "Fiesta Friona" Celebration began Saturday night as twelve young ladies took to the stage at the Friona High School auditorium to compete for the title of Miss Friona. Poise, elegance, talent, and communication skills were all part of the mix. Earlier in the day, the contestants had a luncheon and interviews with the judges. The main extravaganza, however, was in the auditorium where friends and family cheered on their favorite contestants as Emcees Ed and Tyleen Caffrey conducted the festivities and pageant judges Lesley Gama, Dr. Patricia Thatcher, and Whitni Buckley made their choices. The

Mayor's Minutes

It's that time of the year again!!! City Manager, Lee Davila has done a great job creating the new proposed budget for the new fiscal year ending September, 2020. The city council met on Thursday, September 5th, to discuss the new proposed budget and to make recommendations. The final budget will be approved at the next city council meeting rescheduled for Thursday, September 12th. The new proposed budget for 2019-2020 is $4,359,422.00 which is an increase of $253,652 compared to the current budget. Again, the proposed budget is a work in process and will be finalized by the council on Sept. 12th.

From the Friona Star Archives

September 3, 1994 (25 years)

Veteran calf roper Ab Hendley of Friona teamed up with Mark Freeman of Texhoma, OK and won their class at the U.S. Team Roping Commission championships at Albuquerque.

The local roper and his partner averaged 37+ seconds on four head of calves, to win the "Number 9" roping title.

They each won a nice cash prize, along with a new horse trailer from Logan Coach Company of Utah.

There were some 540 teams competing in the Albuquerque competition.

September 30, 1984 (35 years)

A group of concerned Parmer County citizens met with Highway Department officials in Friona Thursday night, to find out what needed to be done to get the widening of Highway 60 off "dead center."

District Engineer Ben Alley of Lubbock told the group that a delegation of concerned citizens needs to appear before the Highway Commission in Austin to ask for funding of the project.

Brought up at the meeting was the unusually heavy number of trucks which use the road, due to the high number of feed lots and packing plants in the immediate area. The soon to be open Millard Warehouse will increase the truck traffic, also.

The feeling of those attending Thursday night's meeting was that a delegation needs to be formed to take the case before the state Highway Commission, and make its needs known.

September 15, 1974 (45 years)

The Friona cattle industry will be part of a research report in France. Three French students were in Friona to make a tour through some of the plants here.

The students are currently touring the beef empires of the U.S. They have already been in 15 states and have ten remaining. The three are Economic and Agriculture students, who have been selected to study the beef market in the U.S. They were selected under a grant given by a well-known French foundation (ELF) working with the French Chamber of Commerce.

"The people of the U.S. and France are the same of mind in regard to government interference in business." It would be nice if the middlemen in the beef chain could be eliminated, then there could be more money for everyone.

"The beef situation is just as bad in France as it is here. It's now a world-wide problem. We came here to find a solution, but there appears to be none."

September 10, 1964 (55 years)

Friona's Maize Days celebration grew out of the community's 50th anniversary celebration in 1956. That celebration eight years ago was so well-received and enjoyed by the residents that it was decided to hold an annual celebration.

Wright Williams was Chamber of Commerce president in 1956, and directed the celebration's activities.

Several people worked many weeks for the 50th birthday event. And, as is still the practice, various committees were appointed to carry out the work of the celebration.

The 50th anniversary celebration was held September 20-22, 1956. In that first celebration in 1956, one of the big items, as it still is, was the parade. It was the first official attraction to the celebration, and was held on Thursday afternoon.

Texas Weekly Fuel Update and Outlook

Texas gas prices have fallen 1.5 cents per gallon in the past week to an average of $2.27 per gallon, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 13,114 stations. Gas prices in Texas are 13.1 cents per gallon lower than a month ago and 33.0 cents per gallon lower than a year ago.

According to GasBuddy price reports, the cheapest station in Texas is priced at $1.94 while the most expensive is $3.19 per gallon. The cheapest price in the entire country today stands at $1.84 while the most expensive is $5.09 per gallon. The national average price of gasoline has fallen 1 cent per gallon in the last week, averaging $2.55 per gallon. The national average is down 9.9 cents per gallon from a month ago, and stands 28.7 cents per gallon lower than a year ago.

"For its eighth straight week, the national average has declined even as oil prices have bucked the trend in the last week, moving higher on optimism over upcoming trade talks between China and the United States," said Patrick DeHaan, head of petroleum analysis for Gas-Buddy. "While most of the country saw gas prices continuing to drop, it certainly was not all. The West Coast had gas prices rise gently in recent weeks, but those increases likely won't last. Moving forward, I believe the market will closely watch the October trade talks and any comments made between the countries until then, and gas prices will track with optimism- should there be a positive conciliatory tone between the two, we may see a more organized, but temporary, upward move. If trade talks fall apart, then expect more price declines that will accelerate in the weeks ahead. Markets have been reliably unreliable in recent weeks and it seems that will likely continue as the talks hold significant meaning for oil and gasoline demand."

GasBuddy is the authoritative voice for gas prices and the only source for stationlevel data spanning nearly two decades. GasBuddy's survey updates 288 times every day from the most diverse list of sources covering nearly 150,000 stations nationwide, the most comprehensive and up-to-date in the country. GasBuddy data is accessible at http://FuelInsights.Gas-Buddy.com.

DOLLARS & SENSE

In retirement, guarantees matter.

An estate plan is not just for high-net-worth individuals, it's for everyone who is single, has a spouse, has a partner, has dependents, owns a business, has investments, has retirement funds, owns property, or has material possessions of value such as a car. An estate plan may reduce estate taxes and shield your beneficiaries from having to go through probate. It means your last wishes will be heard. You can name a guardian for any young children and can even direct how you wish a beloved pet to be cared for after you are gone. Having an estate plan can also prevent a mess by bringing clarity to your beneficiaries, and it can protect assets from unforeseen creditors.1

The estate plan² may contain a will or living trust, the names of your beneficiaries, the appointment of an executor, a letter of intent that tells a beneficiary or executor what you wish to be done with specific assets, funeral details, and special requests. It should contain a healthcare directive with a power of attorney appointing a trusted person to make medical decisions for you when you can no longer voice your opinion, and a durable power of attorney appointing a trusted friend or relative to make financial and legal decisions for you, if you become incapacitated. It may also contain a trust or trusts for passing on assets to your beneficiaries. Life insurance can be an important component in the overall estate plan.

You should update your estate plan whenever a major change occurs in your life, such as purchasing a home, moving in with a significant other, getting married, having or adopting a baby, selling your business, getting a divorce, retiring, or having a beneficiary die before you do. Review your plan when federal and state laws on estate taxes change.

If you should die without a will (which is called "intestate"),3 the state and federal governments will have standard procedures for distributing your assets, and they may not be in line with your wishes. Your beneficiaries may have to pay more in estate taxes, and probate may take considerably longer than it would if you had a will in place.

Consult a professional financial advisor on tax and estate planning. Trusts can be complicated to set up, so consult a professional trusts and estates attorney or certified public account before you begin.

Psalm 138—Give Thanks!

By Brett Hoyle, Pastor, First Baptist Church

What do Soccer, Baseball, Football, Curling, Golf, Basketball, Track and Field, and most all sports have in common? These are all spectator sports, in the sense that there are many more people observing the sport, as opposed to those actively participating in the game. Football in America and Soccer worldwide are the two biggest spectator sports with an elect few competing whole-heartedly, while tens of thousands of people cheer them on from the stands.

Although the nature of sports calls for crowds who spectate, WORSHIPPING GOD IS NOT A SPECTATOR SPORT! When the church gathers to worship God together, it is not a time to sit back, relax and cheer on when your favorite verse is mentioned or favorite song is sung, but worshipping God requires your full attention and affection to be laser focused on God. Sadly, many who go to church on Sundays, don't worship God, but simply spectate as others worship. Their spectating often leads to speculation about others motives for worshipping, and sadly can lead to cynicism because they refuse to worship, but are content to be a spectator.

Psalm 138 is a clear call for all people to be fully engaged to worship God with your whole heart. Trials, temptations, and troubles should not keep one from worshipping God, but drive you to pursue him more intently. In fact, seeing God's grace, help and strength through your struggles and stresses, is a greater reason to worship Him even more, because of who He is, and also what He does on behalf of His people.

Light The Fire!

By Jeff Procter, Minister, 6th Street Church of Christ

There is just something about a campfire that floods my mind with many memories. I have eaten many a hotdog burned on one end and not cooked on the other and smores enough said there, I think I am still getting the marshmallow out of my goatee. © But it all comes back to the fire. The smell of the pinon and the crackle as it burns, the flame as it dances in the darkness and the heat that contrasts the cool evening. I just love it.

As I step out of the woods and return to the busy life of everyday living I sometimes find it hard to keep the fire burning. My trips to the mountains always give me a lot to think about. Life too has mountain tops and valleys. It has moments of rest and moments of challenge.

Jesus called out those who would believe to be lights to the world. Yet that has to begin with a spark. A little flame, a little fire and some wood to keep it going. What does it mean to you to be a light to the world?

Light is attractive, especially in the dark. Light draws people to it while darkness tends to create fear and make us afraid even of each other. Light has many more attributes than mentioned here, but I think you get the idea.

Light the fire! Let the fire (your life) be a pleasant aroma to the Lord. Do not fear for there is no fear in one who truly believes in the Lord. Dance in the darkness (share your hope). Draw others near that they may be fed not smores, but every word that proceeds from the mouth of God. Be the warmth that contrasts the coldness of our culture (show compassion over judgement). Spend a little time with other believers (the wood pile), for that is where we draw our strength. So go ahead light the fire, fan it into flame and become the very thing you have been called to be...Light!

So here is the challenge. How Do We Affect Personalities?

By Teena Hughs

Tonight, I started thinking about all of the changes going on in my little world: fall is around the corner; cooler temperatures; new football coaches at Tech; new day for Community Bible Study in Clovis; changes in our Kidz for Christ program at church; teaching Sunday school to teen-agers; friends going through the losses of various kinds; going home soon to my parents' empty house.

Hours:

Thursday - Friday 11-5

Saturday: 10-3

I grew up in a family of non-risk takers, so change was hard for us. After I got out on my own, and after I married Feller, I started seeing that taking risks and experiencing change was not always a bad thing. You get to go on new adventures, meet new people, experience different things. And, as a person, you get to grow and change, I believe becoming the person God wants you to be.

Until I was nearly 18, I was extremely shy. When I started college, people told me I was about to go through the best four years of my life. I didn't want to have any regrets, but I knew I had to get over my shyness. So, while I was walking back to my car on campus one day, I made up my mind I would speak to the next person I met. It just happened to be one of the best looking guys in Uvalde. I spoke to him, and to my surprise, he spoke back. Right there, my life changed. I became a totally different person. I became the person my kids dreaded being with because I would, and will, talk to just about anyone. And, it happened all because I took a risk.

The best risk I ever took was grudgingly saying YES to working Camp New Dawn, our church camp for mentally-challenged adults. God has changed my life entirely because I said YES to something I considered a great risk, but something God considers a gift, an honor, a privilege.

Saying YES to Jesus can feel like taking a risk. We never know what He is going to ask us to do. But, we never know what He is going to do for us either.

Saying YES to Jesus and His offer of salvation may feel risky, but it is the very best thing you will ever do for yourself. Saying YES to something that seems risky can change your life forever; I know. But, unless you say YES, you won't ever know what God has in store for you; you won't ever know the person God desires you to be; you will miss out on seeing God work in you and others. Saying YES may seem risky, but with God, it is always worth the risk!!!

Executive orders address deadly mass shootings

AUSTIN — Gov. Greg Abbott on Sept. 5 issued eight executive orders in hopes of preventing further mass shootings.

Abbott's orders came days after seven people were killed and 25 injured in multiple shootings by a lone gunman along thoroughfares connecting the cities of Odessa and Midland on Aug. 31. The suspect fired at law enforcement officers and civilians, including while driving a hijacked postal van between the two cities. Law enforcement officers brought the rampage to a halt in an exchange of gunfire resulting in the death of the suspect when the van he was driving had come to a stop after ramming a police vehicle. The suspect, a 36-year-old white male armed with an assault rifle, was identified as Seth Aaron Ator of Odessa.

Posted online at gov.texas.gov, Abbott's orders enhance reporting requirements and ensure law enforcement and the public have the training, tools and resources to provide and respond to suspicious activity reports, Abbott said. Ordinary citizens' reports of suspicious activities are accepted via phone call to (512) 424-7981 or (866) 786-5972; by fax to (512) 424-7418; or by email to TXFusionCenter@ dps.texas.gov.

"Texas must achieve several objectives to better protect our communities and our residents from mass shootings," Abbott said in a news release containing the executive orders. "One of those objectives is to marshal law enforcement resources to stop violent criminals before they commit mass murders. But more must be done. I will continue to work expeditiously with the legislature on laws to keep guns out of the hands of dangerous criminals, while safeguarding the Second Amendment rights of law-abiding Texans."

The governor's office referred to the executive orders as "a starting point in the process to keep Texas communities safe...to further advance solutions and jumpstart legislative action." In related news, Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick and House Speaker Dennis Bonnen last week named select committees to study issues relating to the recent mass shootings and earlier mass shootings in Santa Fe, Sutherland Springs and Dallas.

Safety meetings are held

The Lone Star State's first meeting of the newly formed Domestic Terrorism Task Force was held at the Capitol on Aug. 30.

On Aug. 29, the second-ever meeting of the Texas Safety Commission was held in El Paso, the city where a suspect wielding an assaultstyle rifle was arrested on Aug. 3 in a shooting that took the lives of 22 people and injured 24.

In El Paso, Abbott said the purpose of the meeting was "to help the community heal, combat the rise of extremist groups and hateful ideologies, keep guns out of the hands of deranged individuals, and combat domestic terrorism in Texas."

Following the six-hour meeting in El Paso, Lt. Gov. Patrick told victims in attendance: "When one Texan is attacked all Texans are attacked, no matter your political party, no matter if you are black, brown or white, liberal or conservative. Every one of the 28 million Texans matters, and we stand together against hate, racism, white supremacy and evil as one Texas."

Transportation plan OK'd The Texas Transportation Commission on

Aug. 29 approved a 10-year plan produced by the Texas Department of Transportation that includes more than $77 billion dedicated to improving safety, addressing congestion and connectivity and preserving roadways for Tex-

Funds are earmarked for the widening of roads and the improvement of median barriers, bridges, guardrails and intersections including upgraded traffic signals and signage plus safety improvements for bicyclists and pedestrians.

According to the commission, many of the projects in the plan are roadway segments identified on Texas' list of its 100 most congested roadways. The projects will be financed through legislative and voter-approved initiatives that allocate portions of oil and gas taxes, sales taxes and other money to the state high-

Revenue report is posted

The state's fiscal year 2019 ended on Aug. 31 and Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar on Sept. 4 released totals for fiscal 2019 state revenues, saying "all funds" revenue was $127.94 billion, up 6.5 percent over fiscal 2018.

Hegar broke down the nearly $128 billion as

- General revenue-related revenue was $57.87 billion, up 1.2 percent over fiscal 2018; Sales tax revenue for fiscal 2019 was
- $34.02 billion, up 6.5 percent from fiscal 2018; Oil production tax revenue was $3.89 bil-
- lion, up 14.6 percent over fiscal 2018; - Natural gas production tax revenue was $1.69 billion, up 17.8 percent over fiscal 2018;
- All funds tax collections were $59.38 billion, up 6.8 percent over fiscal 2018.

Harvest Moon to appear on Friday the 13th By Cameron LeBlanc, Fatherly

For the first time in nearly two decades, this year's Harvest Moon will fall on the most haunted date on the calendar. The Harvest Moon is the full moon that occurs closest to the autumnal equinox in the Northern Hemisphere. This year's autumnal equinox is on Monday, September 23, and the full moon that falls closest to it is this Friday the 13th.

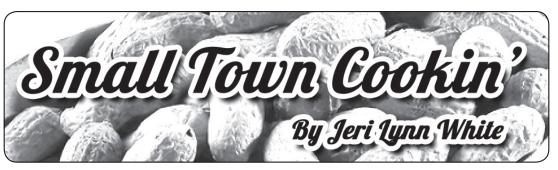

The Harvest Moon was so named because farmers could get in extra labor at harvest time working by the light of the full moon. Many of its other names—the Barley Moon, the Corn Moon, and Fruit Moon among them-also allude to its agricultural origins.

The last time this confluence happened was 2000, when the Harvest Moon happened on Friday, October 13. And you'll have to wait until August 13, 2049 for it to happen again.

The Harvest Moon tends to stick closer to the horizon, which means it looks bigger and has a redder hue than a typical full moon. The former is an optical illusion-things just look bigger near the horizon-while the latter has to do with the light reflect off of the moon passing through the maximum thickness of the atmosphere, which absorbs blue and transmits red light.

So if you've been meaning to celebrate the start of fall and/or pick the fruits and vegetables in your backyard garden, this Friday is a good a day as any to collect your harvest and toast your farmer forebears.

Peanuts

Peanuts have gotten a bad rap lately because of the seriousness of peanut allergies, but the peanut is a very versatile and nutritious legume. That's right, peanuts are actually a legume like peas and lentils. Interestingly, peanuts flower above the ground but produce their fruit underground. This happens in a process called "pegging." The peg enlarges and grows down and away from the plant forming a small stem which extends to the soil. The peg continues to mature and form a peanut. The growing cycle of a peanut is between four to five months depending on the variety. One important factor in growing peanuts is their nitrogen fixing ability where the plant's roots absorb nitrogen from the air and provide enrichment and nutrition to the plant and the soil.

Peanuts originated in South America probably in Peru or Brazil. There is evidence the Incans used peanuts as sacrificial offerings around 1500 BC. Tribes in Brazil also used ground peanuts mixed with maize as a drink. European explorers were the first to discover peanuts in Brazil and took them back to Spain. Traders soon spread the plant to Asia and Africa.

It was in the 1700's that the peanut made its way to North America on slave ships. The peanut remained a mainly Southern product and food for livestock or the poor because they were difficult to grow and harvest. In the early 1800's commercial production began. It grew consistently the first half of the 19th century. The peanut became more prominent after the Civil War when Union soldiers took the peanuts home to the North. PT Barnum's circus wagons also increased the popularity of peanuts. Around 1900 new equipment was invented for planting, cultivating, and harvesting as well as shelling and cleaning the kernels. The peanut became a significant cash crop when the invasion of the boll weevil threatened the cotton crops in the South. George Washington Carver, known as the Father of the Peanut. recognized the value of the peanut as a cash crop and a rotation crop with cotton. He invented 300 ways to use peanuts.

Worldwide the top peanut producing countries are China, India, and the United States. Peanuts are the 12th most valuable cash crop in the U.S. The most valuable market for U.S. peanuts is edible consumption. Americans eat more than six pounds of peanut products each year. Half of all peanuts are used to make peanut butter and the other half for snack nuts and candy. So even with all the allergy concerns, peanuts remain popular.

Peanuts are used in recipes from all over the world. We tend to think of peanuts in desserts, but many cultures use peanuts and peanut butter in savory recipes as well. I have tried to offer both sweet and savory recipe options this week. Information this week was found at www.natinalpeanutboard.org and www. peanut-institute.com.

Sharon's Peanut Butter Pie By Sharon White

Pie Crust:

You will need a cooked 9" pie crust for this recipe.

Filling:

2/3 cup sugar ¼ cup cornstarch

½ tsp. salt

1 T. flour 3 egg yolks, separated, keep egg whites

1 ½ tsp. vanilla 2 cups milk

Combine sugar, cornstarch, flour, milk, butter, and salt in the top pan of a double boiler. Heat mixture over a double boiler until it thickens. Then temper the egg yolks by mixing some of the hot filling in with the egg yolks in a separate bowl off the heat. Add the filling until the egg yolks are as warm as the filling and then add the egg mixture to the whole filling over the double boiler and cook for 3 minutes. Then remove from the heat and stir in the vanilla.

Crumb mixture:

34 cup powdered sugar

1/3 cup peanut butter

½ tsp. cream of tartar

Mix the powdered sugar and peanut butter together with your fingertips. At first it does not seem like it will combine but keep working and you will end up with a crumb like mixture. Sprinkle all but 2 T. of the crumbs on the bottom a baked pie crust. Then pour the filling over the crumb

Meringue:

3 egg whites

¼ cup sugar + 2 T. sugar

2 T. melted butter

½ tsp. vanilla

Beat egg whites with cream of tartar. Then very slowly add sugar to egg whites until stiff peaks form and sugar is dissolved. Rub the meringue between your fingers to see if the sugar is dissolved. Beat in vanilla.

Cover the pie with meringue. Then sprinkle the remaining crumb mixture on top of the meringue. Bake the pie at 400°F for 5 minutes or the meringue is lightly browned.

Peanut Butter Ramen Noodles

By Trisha Yearwood www.foodnetwork.com

Ingredients:

10 ounces ramen noodles, without the seasoning packet

2 tablespoons plus 2/3 cup olive oil

One 12-ounce bag frozen stir-fry veggie medley, thawed 1/2 cup creamy peanut butter (I like Jif)

6 tablespoons sweet chili sauce

2 tablespoons low-sodium soy sauce

1 lime, juiced

1/2 cup finely chopped green onion

2 teaspoons red pepper flakes

3 cups shredded rotisserie chicken

Directions:

In a large stockpot set over medium-high heat, cook the ramen according to the package directions, then drain and set aside. Heat 2 tablespoons of the oil in a high-sided medium skillet over medium heat. Add the veggie medley and then the peanut butter, chili sauce, soy sauce, lime juice, green onion, red pepper flakes and the remaining 2/3 cup olive oil. Cook, whisking, until the peanut butter is melted, and the oil is incorporated, 3 to 5 minutes. Add the drained noodles and the chicken and toss to coat. Cook until heated through, 3 to 5 minutes. Transfer to a large serving dish and serve warm.

Peanut Butter Breakfast Parfaits

www.thesweetestoccasion.com

Ingredients:

1/2 cup honey

2 cups cooked steel cut oats 1 cup creamy peanut butter 1 cup plain Greek yogurt

1 cup granola

1/4 cup chocolate chips 1/4 cup dry roasted peanuts

3 - 4 tablespoons water

Begin by making the peanut butter sauce. Combine peanut butter, honey and water in a blender or food processor and blend until smooth. Add additional water one tablespoon at a time if necessary, until creamy and the consistency of a thick sauce. In the bottom of a small jar, place 1/2 cup of steel cut oats. Layer 2 tablespoons of peanut butter sauce on top, followed by 2 tablespoons of Greek yogurt then 1/4 cup of granola followed by 2 more tablespoons of peanut butter sauce and finally another 2 tablespoons of Greek yogurt. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon of chocolate chips and 1 tablespoon of peanuts on top. Repeat for each of your parfaits. These measurements should give you 4 parfaits perfectly portioned for one individual serving. Refrigerate for up to one week.

Commissioners approve budget and tax rate

The Parmer County Commissioners Court met in regular session on Monday, September 9, 2019 at 10 a.m. in the County Courtroom of the Parmer County Courthouse in Farwell, Texas. The meeting began with prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag and Texas

The meeting began with an open forum. There were no public comments.

The Minutes from the previous meeting were read and approved. Approval was also given for the payment of the Accounts Payable. County Treasurer Sharon May presented the treasurer's report and it was approved.

A County Clerk Archive Fee of $10 was discussed and approved by the commissioners. This fee is regulated by the state.

Next, the Court discussed the adoption of the 2020 Parmer County Budget. The proposed budget of $6,262,845.36 was approved by a recorded vote of 4 to 1. Precinct 2 Commissioner Charles Wilkins voted against approval of the proposed budget.

Following approval of the budget, the Commissioners then discussed the 2019 Parmer County tax rate. The proposed tax rate of $0.5492 per $100 was approved by a recorded 5 to 0 vote. This is the same tax rate that was in effect for 2018. However, due to increased property valuations, it will result in a 0.9534% increase in tax revenue. The county will use the extra revenue for Maintenance and Operation.

Commissioners discussed a Burn Ban and a motion was made to not put a burn ban in effect. The motion carried by a 4 to 1 vote with Precinct 1 Commissioner Kirk Frye voting against the motion. No burn ban is in effect at the current time.

All meetings are open to the public. The Commissioner's Court reserves the right to go into Executive Session at any time. The agenda may be found on the Parmer County website. Information in this article is only a summary. Any questions concerning specific actions should be directed to the Commissioners Court.

Xcel Energy's Texas-New Mexico system beats the heat

Wind energy plays large role in meeting record electricity demand on Aug. 26

AMARILLO, Texas (Sept. 4, 2019) - The area's electricity grid passed its biggest test of the summer when demand set an all-time record on Aug. 26, helped by big investments in the reliability of power lines and substations and a growing amount of wind energy boosting the region's power generating resources.

"The investments we've made in new power lines, substations and power generating resources have better prepared us for these really hot days," said David Hudson, president, Xcel Energy - New Mexico, Texas. "Only a decade ago, we were challenged by a shortage of electricity reserves and overloaded lines and substations, so we've come a long way in a relatively short amount of time."

It can probably be fixed this way: Total demand around 5 p.m. on Aug. 26 was 6,198 megawatts, beating last year's peak demand record of 6,148 megawatts set in July 2018. A megawatt is equal to 1,000 kilowatts, or one million watts of electricity demand.

Electricity moves at the speed of light, and power balance customer demand with the same amount of electricity generated at power plants. If the demand surpasses the amount of electricity being generated, utilities are forced to use controlled outages, or "rolling blackouts" to bring the system into balance. Xcel Energy's strategic investments in the grid over the past decade have been made in order to avoid not only power shortages, but also to strengthen the systems that deliver electricity to the customers' homes and businesses, Hudson said.

Through the Power for the Plains initiative, which began in 2011, Xcel Energy has built more than 800 miles of new high-voltage transmission lines and has built or upgraded more than 70 substations. These improvements have enabled the company to tap into a broader market for additional and often more economical power supplies, and to move that power more efficiently to areas of growing demand.

Additionally, the company has upgraded neighborhood distribution systems across its Texas and New Mexico service area, which helps prevent overloaded lines on really hot days and speeds the restoration of service during storm-related outages.

A growing supply of wind energy on the system has added additional reserves of electricity while displacing higher-cost electricity generated at fossil fuel plants, saving customers millions in fuel costs. On Aug. 26, wind energy made up between 13 and 40 percent of the hourly power supply throughout the day, with close to 1,400 megawatts of wind energy, or about 23 percent of the total mix, coming onto the system at the peak time around 5 p.m. For the entire day, wind accounted for 27 percent of the average energy mix. The rest of the electricity was supplied by natural gas and coal-fueled power plants and solar facilities, located in the Xcel Energy Texas and New Mexico service region.

"Even though wind energy doesn't normally peak in the afternoon hours during the summer, we now have enough wind resources on the system that it often makes up a material amount of our electricity supply at the hour of peak of demand from our customers," Hudson said.

Since June, customers have benefited from 478 additional megawatts of wind capacity from the new Hale Wind Project near Plainview, Texas. Last week, the company announced it will move forward with the Sagamore Wind Project, a 522-megawatt wind energy project south of Portales, New Mexico. Together these two wind facilities will generate enough electricity to power close to 378,000 typical homes in the region annually, and at the cheapest cost of any other generation source on the regional system. The annual cost to customers to recover the investment in the new wind farms will be eclipsed by the fuel cost savings the facilities deliver by displacing power generation from older fossil fuel plants, Hudson

"Long term, the benefits of investing in clean and affordable wind energy and a more resilient grid will en able business and industry to continue creating jobs in our Texas and New Mexico service area, which has among the lowest unemployment rates in the nation and continues to grow," Hudson said. "The nearterm benefits are that we can weather the hottest and coldest days with an ample supply of electricity and a system that can hold up under extreme conditions."

About Xcel Energy Xcel Energy (NASDAQ: XEL) provides the energy that powers millions of homes and businesses across eight Western and Midwestern states. Headquartered in Minneapolis, the company is an industry leader in responsibly reducing carbon emissions and producing and delivering clean energy solutions from a variety of renewable sources at competitive prices.
