NUMBER 6

WOODWORK BOWLING NEW OFFICEHOLDER

BY DALTON

ONE OF the candidate state railroad commission; Judge Jesse Owens of Vernon, is adopting tactics used by W. Lee O'Daniel to get elected. He's using a song, which his followers are trying to get folks to sing to the tune of "Deep in the Heart of Texas".

The first verse goes:
"To set things right
Stand up and fight
And vote for Jesse Owens
We must arrange
To make a change
So vote for Jesse Owens."
There are three more verses, but I don't believe the song will ever catch on, so I won't bother to pass them along.

The name Jesse Owens may get the man some votes on its own merit, simply because some folks may feel like I did when I first noticed it — that I seem to have heard of him somewhere. That vague familiarity comes from the fact that the holder of the world's record in the 100-yard dash was named Jesse Owens. It's as plain as black and white that the two aren't the same.

Incidentally, I know a rather amusing story about the song "Deep in the Heart of Texas", but postal regulations prohibit my repeating it here.

STARTLING statements dept: A diet expert in Germany says that "hunger is the major enemy of diet... Kill hunger, and victory is assured." And that was reported as news.

IT WAS a real struggle for those people who successfully gave up smoking after the recent cancer-link report. Now they may have to give up eating charcoal broiled steaks. The report, as aired in a front page story in the Star-Telegram Tuesday said, in part: "That tasty staple of back yard cookery — the charcoal broiled steak — may be as risky, health-wise, as the cigaret."

It goes on to say that in the recent House subcommittee hearing on the budget for the National Cancer Institute, the director of the institute reported a "very high" concentration of carcinogenic materials in charcoal-broiled steak.

Carcinogenic is the quality of producing, or tending to produce, cancer. Said the director:

"It has been demonstrated in several different laboratories that in cooking procedures in which fats are heated to high temperatures and incompletely combusted, that chemical carcinogens are produced in the reaction. So that it happens when you burn tobacco, it happens when you burn steak."

I wasn't too concerned with the cigaret report, since I'm an occasional cigar man, myself. But now, as the saying goes, they've quit preaching and started meddling.

You Can Hit What You Cannot See

"You cannot hit what you cannot see", is true on a ball diamond, but you can hit what you cannot see on the highway.

The eye is like a fast camera, flashing 30 to 40 pictures to the brain every second. The eye uses two different types of detecting equipment. One is fringe or peripheral vision.

When looking directly ahead, it allows you to see both sides. Fringe vision does not allow you to see anything clearly or in color. It is fuzzy, out-of-focus, but it does many jobs. It picks up objects, lights and movements in the upper, lower and side range of vision. It is in effect a scanning device that helps you select the objects upon which to focus.

The second type of detecting equipment is central vision. It is a narrow three degree cone of clear vision, your sharp central sight. The central vision sees things sharply and clearly and in color. In using central vision you are focusing your attention directly on an object. Your fringe vision could be termed "detection vision", while your central vision serves as "identification vision".

To demonstrate your two visions, pick out the bold underlined word in the next paragraph. Fix your eyes on it. You will not be able to read the words next to it. That is your narrow central vision in action. It is used to great advantage by speed readers who have learned to scan whole pages in seconds.

This scanning process is also used when driving. As the wheels turn, the picture changes every split second, DEMANDING drivers' eyes to stay right with it. Trouble starts when correct seeing stops when vehicle wheels are still turning! When you are alert, your attention shifts automatically at least every two seconds as you drive. When you allow your eyes to hold on something longer than two seconds, a dangerous fixed stare results. The blank stare is even more dangerous since the mind is not interpreting the images sent it by the eye. This is most apt to occur when you are preoccupied or inattentive.

Most of us trust our eyes. Seeing is believing, we say. But this is blind faith if we have not developed correct seeing habits. We are trusting a mechanism, our eyesight, that has not been properly trained for driving.

Florida Uses Safety Tags

Florida's 1964 license plates are novel ones. They will be "safety" tags covered with a reflective material similar to that currently used by 16 other states and the District of Columbia. Pat T. Tierney, Miami, demonstrates the plates, which can be seen up to 1,500 feet after dark.

They have markedly reduced night rear-end collisions in the states that have been using them. The American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators recently recommended the adoption of the reflective license plates believing their widespread use would further its aim to promote highway safety and reduce automobile accidents. Referring to the five-cent additional charge for the "safety" plates, Col. Henry N. Kirkman, director of the Florida Department of Public Safety, said: "That's mighty cheap insurance."

Concern For Kids Highly Contagious Nation's Youth Leaders Happily Find

Our growing preoccupation with youth, ranging from over-indulgence, through under-concern, to obvious hostility, is a subject of seemingly endless interest to those who enjoy exploring modern society's moods and motives.

Whether this primarily reflects a yearning for the past, an awareness of the future, or a healthy and sincere interest in our off-spring and their role in the nation's future remains an oft-debated, seldom-settled point. Happily, no such indecision hampers the century-old Boys' Clubs of America. To this national youth-guidance organization, preoccupation with youth is certainly not new, hardly novel and obviously healthy. That it is also highly contagious becomes more apparent each day.

Newly recognized as the nation's fastest growing youth organization, the Boys' Clubs movement adds one new Club—on the average—every twelve or fourteen days. Each "Boys' Club," as the name implies, is a Club for boys.

Every Club is staffed by a full-time, paid, professional staff of trained youth workers. Widely varied programs offer Club members from seven through seventeen participation in physical training, printing, art, science, sports, music, public speaking, wood-working, cooking and dozens of other character-building activities. Boys' Clubs are open every day after school, each evening and all day on Saturday.

Close to 700,000 deserving boys use more than 685 Boys' Clubs in some 431 communities every day, under the supervision of some 6,500 staff members. An additional force of 80,000 volunteers donate skills, services and leadership abilities to both staff and operate the Clubs.

Friendly Foursome—Boys' Clubs of America's board chairman, former president Herbert Hoover, flanked by, extreme left, board member J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, president A. L. Cole and national director John M. Gleason, extreme right, happily reviews progress report.

Locally, each Club relies heavily on its community for support. It is here that adult concern for today's youth becomes clearly evident. Through Community Chest, United Fund, civic, service, labor, veterans' and fraternal organizations, more than $20,000,000 is annually provided for the Clubs' operations. Replacement value of the Clubs and camps is well over $120,000,000. Last year, more than $11,000,000 was spent for new Boys' Club buildings, alterations and additions.

Boys' Clubs' board chairman, former president Herbert Hoover, says about Boys' Clubs. . . . "I do not know of any subject so easy to speak about as the Boys' Clubs. They are all just downright good." He has gathered about him well over 100 of the country's leading business, industrial, labor, government, civic and fraternal leaders to help develop the Boys' Clubs movement. President of the organization is A. L. Cole, who is also general manager of the Reader's Digest. Under his leadership, during the last decade, the number of Boys' Clubs and members has doubled. Operating head of the national Boys' Clubs group is John M. Gleason, internationally known as an authority on youth problems.

These men offer an effective answer to those who make it their business, to question motion.

"Once are simple," says a Boys' Clubs executive. "We just try to offer the right answer for every boy."

JOHN B. CONNALLY
Democratic Candidate For Governor

John B. Connally's achievements both in private business and in high positions of trust in state and national government is an unique success story.

Born near Floresville, Texas, he was one of seven children of John B. and Lela Wright Connally, typical pioneer farmers.

Connally attended public schools in Floresville and San Antonio. Following high school graduation, he entered the University of Texas, where he worked at odd jobs to help finance his education.

At the University he met Ida Nell Brill of Austin, a campus beauty and UT sweetheart. They were married on Dec. 21, 1940. The Connallys have three children: John B., III, Sharon, and Mark. They are members of the Methodist Church.

In 1941, Connally received his law degree from the University of Texas. Following graduation, he took a position as secretary for Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson.

Later in the year, while on Congressman Johnson's staff, Connally joined the Naval Reserve. Months before Pearl Harbor he volunteered for active duty.

Following military service, during which he received citations for action in the Pacific, including the Legion of Merit and the Bronze Star, Connally returned to Austin.

After several years as a business executive and practicing lawyer, Connally returned to Washington to serve for a period as administrative assistant to the then Senator Johnson. Later, he returned to Austin to practice law.

On Dec. 27, 1960, Connally was appointed Secretary of the Navy by President-elect John F. Kennedy. After a year in the Kennedy administration, Connally resigned to run for the governorship of Texas... a race he won. Today he is a candidate for nomination to a second term, subject to the May 2 Democratic primary.

Governor Connally was accompanying President Kennedy on his tour of Texas when the Chief Executive was assassinated in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. Connally was critically wounded by one of the three shots fired, and required extended hospitalization and convalescence in recovering from the wounds.

MILLARD SHIVERS
Democratic Candidate for
Commissioner of Agriculture

Millard Shivers of Waco, candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture in the May Democratic primary, has followed a career that has spanned practically all phases of agriculture.

As a lad on a cotton, corn and livestock farm, Shivers planted, cultivated and harvested. In the classroom he acquired a degree with a double major in agricultural education and dairying. He also earned a membership in the Phi Delta Kappa honorary education fraternity.

For the past 15 years, Shivers' efforts have been in the organizational phase of Farm Bureau work.

While in college, he earned part of his expenses by working in agricultural research at an experiment station. While teaching vocational agriculture, he managed a community canner. During World War II, he collaborated with college researchers on studying methods of preserving quality in the dehydration of fruits and vegetables.

Shivers was born on a farm in Gibson County, Tennessee. He graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1941. Later, he taught vocational agriculture in Kentucky two years and served on the University of Tennessee faculty two years.

He was manager and half-owner of a flour mill for five years. Shivers sold this business and joined the staff of the Tennessee Farm Bureau in 1949 as a field representative, and advanced to director of organization.

In 1956 he accepted the position of director of organization of the Texas Farm Bureau and moved to Waco. He resigned this position in January of this year to run for the office of Commissioner of Agriculture.

Shivers married the former Marian Hasty of Knoxville, Tenn., in 1941. They have two children, Diane, 14, and David, 11. He and his family are active members of the Crestview Church of Christ in Waco.

CHURCH CENTER OPENS IN HOUSTON

A dedication of the new Church World Service Center in Houston has been set for Thursday, April 16, according to the Rev. Norman A. Sundwall, executive director of CROP-CWS in Texas. The new center will replace the center once located in St. Louis, Mo., and will receive used clothing from the United Clothing Appeal of the churches of central United States. The clothing will be processed and forwarded to different parts of the world.

The need, it was explained, far exceeds the supply. It is expected, for example, that demands in 1964 will exceed 10 million pounds, while the church people of the United States, in cleaning their closets of idle clothing, will provide approximately 7.5 million pounds.

Offering the dedicatory luncheon address on April 16 will be John C. White, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture.

METHODIST WSCS BEGINS NEW STUDY

"Teaching Toward Christian Perfection" was the new study begun at the meeting Monday morning at the meeting Monday morning of the WSCS of the First Methodist Church. Rev. Frank Weir led the study. Mrs. A. Pinkerton gave the dismissal prayer and Mrs. E. C. Minyard, president, presided at the business meeting.

Others in attendance were Mesdames Weldon Shaffer, Frank Lane, Kenneth Burgess, Donnie Cowart, Frank Weir, Rodney Nichols, Matt Nix Jr.

SUDAN BEACON-NEWS
THURSDAY, APRIL 9, 1964

There is now a good possibility that the months of hard work by various segments of the cotton industry toward getting new cotton legislation may not go for naught. It looks now like the revised version of the Cooley Bill, which was passed by the House early last December and is being considered by the Senate as of this writing, has a good chance of becoming law in time for the 1964 crop.

The bill now being considered by the Senate would not do all things for all people. What it would do, however, is accomplish the stated objective of correcting the inequity of the two-price system and providing cotton to domestic mills at a price which is competitive with world markets. The increased consumption, together with reduced production through the domestic allotment plan explained below, would substantially reduce the alarming surpluses which threaten to bring on drastic acreage cuts across the board if new legislation is not passed.

The bill, as it now stands in the Senate, provides for the following:

(1) National acreage allotment of 16 million acres. Release and reappropriation law unchanged.

(2) Roughly 2/3 would be domestic allotment and 1/3 export, based on total allotment plus any reallocated acres.

(3) Loan at 30 cents per pound Middling 1/2 inch at average location. In future years loan level would be set as under present law between 65 and 90 percent of parity, with cost of production as an added factor to be considered.

(4) If farmer plants only his domestic allotment he would be eligible for the 30 cent loan plus direct P. L. K. certificates on the normal yield from his domestic acres, thus bringing his price up to a point not over 15 percent of the basic loan, or a maximum premium of 4.5 cents per pound (total 34.5 cents).

(5) If farmer plants over his domestic allotted acres to any degree up to his total allotment, he would be eligible for a 30 cent loan only, with no P. L. K.'s on any portion of his crop.

(6) For the farmer taking the lower price support, an over-plant privilege of up to 10 percent of his allotment, strictly for export at the world price, might be allowed above the 17,000,000 acres national allotment.

(7) For farmers with 15 acre allotments or less, the entire allotment would be considered domestic and he would receive P. L. K.'s on his total production. Under no circumstances would a farmer have to reduce below 15 acres if his allotment were above that.

(8) A farmer could plant any non-controlled crop on diverted acres and preserve his history.

(9) To make cotton available to U. S. mills at the same price as to foreign mills, P. L. K.'s at full value would go into effect when the farmer's choice program became effective. Until then the value of domestic P. L. K.'s would be left to the Secretary of Agriculture.

(10) Domestic P. L. K.'s would be paid on inventory stocks of raw cotton as of the date program becomes law.

(11) As originally written the bill was applicable to the 1964, 1965, 1966 and 1967 crops, but amendments may be attached limiting life of the bill to either two or three years.

By Vern Sanford
If there is any one body of water in Texas that might have what you would refer to as "everything," it is Lake o' the Pines.

Here on Cypress Creek in East Texas, only a short distance from the Louisiana line, is a marvelous lake for all types of recreation. It is one of the newest lakes in Texas, finished only three or four years ago by the Corps of Engineers. It is located 9 miles west of Jefferson, and only 65 miles northwest of Shreveport, La.

Lake o' the Pines is created by what is known as the Ferrell's Bridge Dam, which is 70 feet high and 10,600 feet long. The water supply pool covers an area of 18,700 surface acres, which makes it a fair-size lake in Texas.

There is no more picturesque spot to be found anywhere in the state.

The name Lake o' the Pines is well adapted to this body of water. Its shores are lined with towering pine trees and surrounded by huge oaks, pecans and other native shrubs.

For the fisherman, there are portions of the lake where the underbrush has not been cleared. In these areas still stand towering trees of every nature. At the root of every one of these trees is some kind of fish.

Although most Texas lakes are fished mainly for largemouth black bass, this particular lake offers outstanding blue gill! People travel for miles just to pole fish for those fellows.

In most areas the growth is a little too heavy for fly fishing, but in the more open waters and around the edges of the little islands, the fly or bug fisherman has a field day.

There also are monstrous catfish in the lake. Some alligators have been found, but they are recognized as beneficial to the waters.

The Engineers have done an excellent job of providing recreational areas around the lake. Also they have provided enough open water for those who are just interested in water sports.

There is no reason for the man who fishes and the man who skis to get in the way of each other. In the area around the dam there is a great deal of open water where racing is possible.

There also are a number of excellent commercial accommodations for those who do not care to camp out.

Lake o' the Pines is a long lake, extending in a northwest direction from the dam up Cypress Creek to the area of the Lone Star Steel plant. It can be reached through Pittsburg, Daingerfield, Ore City, Longview, Marshall, Jefferson, Avinger, Lassater and Gilmer. The lake is split up with a score of smaller streams flowing into the main body. Backwater in these streams also provide wonderful fishing spots.

In other words, you can hit the lake most anywhere and find a good place to catch a fine string.

Although the open water of the lake gets rough and is dangerous in bad weather, there are many coves where fishing is possible almost every day of the year.

If you are looking for something different in a lake than a weekend at Lake o' the Pines is it.

Scripture: St. John 20:20-24, 31; 21:1-17.

Simon, Peter, the fisherman, even after knowing that the Lord had arisen from the dead, became restless in a sort of "waiting" time, and decided to take some action of his own, so he said to the other disciples, "I go a fishing". Then Thomas, Nathanael, James and John and two of the other disciples said they would go along with Peter.

NOW there actually was nothing wrong in an overnight fishing trip—except for one thing: Peter forgot to ask the Lord first what the Lord wanted him to do, or to wait until he heard from the Lord. Peter evidently just got restless and decided to take some action of his own, and since fishing was what he knew how to do, he said he would go a fishing.

There is a very important result to this fishing trip led by Peter: they caught no fish all night. Then, as morning came, Jesus stood on the shore (none of the disciples knew who He was). He asked them if they had caught any meat, and when they said no, Jesus told them, "Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find." When they did as Jesus told them to do, their net was filled so full of fish that they could not draw it into the ship. John, seeing this result, recognized Jesus and said to Peter, "It is the Lord!" So, Peter forgot all about the net full of fish, and jumped into the water to hurry to the shore where Jesus was.

Have you ever thought certain things were a good idea, (even in church work perhaps) and you decide to do them without taking time to ask God what He wants done, to ask for His Power, and blessing and guidance? Have you in your individual life done things, made decisions, that looked good to you without asking God His opinion and will?

When we start out even in our church work without asking God to guide ("Cast your net on the right side of the ship") our results are likely to be as barren as Peter and the other disciples' all night fishing trip. But, when we listen and Obey God, He is the one who takes care of the results of our action. It is His right, as our Father, to take the responsibility for the result of our actions, after we, His children, do what He has told us to do. We ask in Jesus Name, and He always hears, and answers our asking.

Then Jesus asked Peter the same question three different times (remember Peter had denied Jesus three times) after they had dined, "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me?" Only after the first time Jesus added, "more than these?" More than the fish that would bring Peter only physical food and material gain—More than the opinion or the companionship of the other disciples—More than anything? And Peter answered every time,

"Thou knowest I love Thee." Then Jesus said, "Feed my lambs" once and said, "Feed my sheep" twice.

Are you ready for service for Jesus, or do you just get restless or discouraged and decide to do things without waiting for His bidding? Can you say, as Peter said, to the Lord, "Thou knowest I love Thee"? Does Jesus know that you love Him? Are you as ready to recognize the Lord's work as John was able to recognize Him? Are you willing and prepared to feed the "lambs and sheep" of God's flock, with the bread and meat which Jesus supplies?

These are some questions we all need to ask ourselves as we take up our cross of service daily, denying ourselves, and follow Jesus.

There is a surge of joy in my heart as I read how Peter tied his coat around himself, not waiting to dress or bring the ship in, and leaped into the water to get back to where Jesus was.

When we can say truly, "Thou knowest I love Thee more than these", only then are we cleansed and made ready, made fit to be used in the service of our Risen Lord.

Water Level Measurements In Observation Wells In High Plains Water District

EDITOR'S NOTE: Official water-level measurements for a majority of the observation wells within the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District are shown below. The measurements were made by the High Plains Water District in cooperation with the Texas Water Commission.

The accompanying maps show the approximate location of the observation wells together with identifying well numbers. Use of a data processing system by the Texas Water Commission in tabulating and maintaining the state-wide observation well program necessitates the use of a seven-digit number.

Measurements made in 1959, 1963 and 1964 are shown. Also, the decline for the five-year period 1959-1964 and the one-year period 1963-1964 are shown. The purpose of using these three years is to show what has been happening to the water-level over a several-year period, as well as during the past year.

Measurements are made each year during January, prior to the beginning of extensive pumping for preplant irrigation. All measurements were made by personnel of the Texas Water Commission and the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District.

WOMEN DO HOUSEWORK FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

A team of three women from the Sudan Church of Christ last Thursday visited the New Mexico Christian Children's Home for a work day detail, ironing clothing, and doing other needed jobs.

The women of the Sudan church have set up the first Thursday of each month to go to the home and work.

"This work is deeply appreciated, since the home has about 88 children and only four sets of house parents," a spokesman said.

The children's home is sponsored by churches of Christ in New Mexico and Texas. Making the trip last week were Mrs. Weldon Wiseman, Mrs. Jerry Ray and Mrs. Thomas Lee Harper.

COMMISSIONS MEET AT LOCAL CHURCH

Also meeting Monday evening were members of the church board when 19 were present. Weldon Shaffer is Chairman of the Board.
