Bacon Announces Candidacy

Judge O'Neal Bacon, presiding Judge of the First Judicial District of Texas since 1959, has announced his candidacy for the position on the Texas Supreme Court vacated by the retirement of the Honorable Price Daniel, Sr., of Liberty, Texas, who appointed Judge Bacon to the bench while Governor of Texas. The First Judicial District is comprised of Jasper, Newton, Sabine and San Augustine Counties. Prior to becoming District Judge, he was the District Attorney for these same counties.

In this time of increasing complaints of over-crowded docket, and inability to get disputes resolved in our trial courts for lack of competent working Judges, Judge Bacon's record shows that by hard work and diligent service, there can be prompt and efficient resolution to civil and criminal disputes. In his tenure as District Judge, Judge Bacon has entered judgement in over 14,000 cases. He has presided over more than 900 jury trials. Certainly this record should be indicative of what hard work and experience can do.

Judge Bacon is a Charter Fellow of the Texas Bar Foundation, Charter Fellow of International Academy

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The State Democratic Executive Committee has placed a referendum on the May 6th Democratic Ballot asking the voters of Texas to vote for or against "The 1979 Legislature's authorizing higher interest rates on loans under $5,000." The referendum was submitted without prior notice in a surprise move by S.D.E.C. member Carrin Patman, wife of Senator Bill Patman, and placed on the ballot although one member of the S.D.E.C. pointed out that the wording is "lopsided" and intended to elicit a negative response from the voters.

The Texas Consumer Finance Association members filed suit to enjoin the S.D.E.C. from placing the referendum on the ballot. There is no question that the wording will elicit a negative response nor is there any question that its sole purpose is to pressure the 1979 Legislature and prevent a rate increase. The Constitution of Texas provides that the Legislature shall have exclusive authority to regulate our industry and set maximum rates of interest. In this regard the consumer loan industry is in a unique position, for we are the only industry in Texas to have its affairs exclusively regulated by the legislature.

We know that this is an effort by one Senator to prejudice and predetermine the rate issue without providing the industry the opportunity of a fair hearing. The court recognized the referendum as worded would receive a large negative vote and that this industry would be harmed, however, the court felt the time had come for judicial restraint in political matters and refused to grant the injunction.

We feel that the referendum as worded is ludicrous and we are confident that it will receive the same response as would a referendum to increase taxes, increase utility rates or increase insurance rates. The people of Texas would vote against these increases, just as you and I would, unless it meant that services would be curtailed or eliminated.

Statistics in the Office of the Consumer Credit Commissioner will reveal that "Article 3.15" lenders represented by this Association have lost money in Texas since 1974 and have reduced their loans from 913,213 in 1970 to less than 650,000 at the present time. This represents a 30% reduction in availability of credit. "Article 3.15" lenders have voluntarily relinquished over 274 licenses since January 1, 1975. We are limited by law to a rate of $18 per $100 per year on loans under $300 and $8 per $100 per year on loans from $300 to $2500. We have not had any adjustment in this rate since 1967 and inflation has nearly doubled the cost of doing business since that time, not to mention the additional costs of government regulations.

The House Financial Institutions Committee in its 1976 interim study recommended increases, however, we could not get the necessary 2/3 vote in the Senate in 1977 to pass rate legislation although we got 19 of the 31 votes in the Senate.

Obviously, we cannot present the facts on such a complicated issue to the voters prior to their voting on this referendum. We are prohibited from using corporate funds to address this issue and all our members are corporations. We cannot win on such a loaded question and are dependent upon the members of the next legislature to provide a fair hearing and reach conclusions based upon facts and not on loaded and lopsided referendum.

This is the first time that a referendum has been placed on the ballot without a petition of the voters and you can readily see it was drafted to suit the purposes of one minority voice.

Sincerely,
Bob Hollingsworth
President
Texas Consumer Finance Association

City Receives

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said his office mailed checks totaling $69.2 million to 915 Texas cities as their March share of the one percent city sales tax.

The March rebates are 17.4 percent larger than those for the same month last year and raise the year-to-date total to $101.5 million, up from $89.4 million for the first three months of 1977.

"This increase, which represents increased retail sales, is just another indicator of the bullishness of the Texas economy," Bullock said.

The City of Houston received the fattest check, $13.5 million, raising its total for 1978 to $20.5 million, up 15 percent from the same period the previous year.

The City of Earth received $4,081.06, Amherst received $2,098.58 and Sudan received $1,931.18.

Carter Names Texas Boy As Boy Of Year

President Carter, in a special Oval Office ceremony, announced and introduced to the nation, the 1978 "Boy of the Year."

Ray Anthony Owens, 17, a high school senior from Austin, met personally with the President shortly after learning of his selection. He was chosen from five regional finalists in the 32nd annual "Boy of the Year" competition, sponsored by Boys' Clubs of America.

In congratulating Owens, the President cited Ray as the "Boy of our Country who faced intensive competition, particularly coming from a fatherless home which posed no handicap to him in his fine achievements."

"I know that many Boys' Club members come from disadvantaged homes," Carter said. "I am very proud of Boys' Clubs of America and thankful for their work."

President Carter noted the tremendous input of professional staffs in Boys' Clubs and the inspiration they give the youngsters.

The President presented Owens with a plaque "in recognition of superlative service to home, school, community and Boys' Clubs." In addition, Ray received a $5,000 scholarship check provided annually to the "Boy of the Year" by the Reader's Digest Foundation.

In thanking the President, Owens said, "I admire you, Mr. President, as a human being and a person. I sense your willingness to serve and I admire this in any man," he said.

As the oldest son at home in a fatherless family of six children, Ray has played a vital and dominant role in the Owens' household. His dedication and devotion to his younger brother and mother has been evidenced by working to supplement the family income and providing a sound role model for his brother.

For so young a citizen, Ray's contributions in his minority community have been outstanding. Through his work, interests and leadership positions in Austin politics, he was selected as a Page to the 1976 Texas State Republican Convention. Ray is an active member of the Austin chapter of the Junior NAACP, and has been involved in local efforts to "Bring East Austin Together." He was selected as Boy of the Month by the Austin Exchange, a community service organization, and has received the annual Youth Community Services Award.

Leadership, service and academic ability recently won Ray the William R. Travis High School Trustees Award. He is a member of the National Honor Society, and has been accepted by the University of Texas at Austin. He plans to teach on the college level and entertains thoughts of a political career.

The four Regional Finalists include: Russell David Beck, 16, Boys' Club of the Virginia Peninsula, Newport News, Virginia (Southeast); Darrel Ford, 17, R.W. Brown Boys' Club, of the Crime Prevention Association, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (Northeast); Hieu Khac Ngo, 17, Boys' Club of Fullerton, California (Pacific); and Rick J. Preister, 18, South Omaha Gene Eppley Boys' Club, Omaha, Nebraska (Midwest).

Hill Announces

Attorney General John Hill announced Friday that recent negotiations have resulted in significant progress in the lawsuit, Texas and six other western states have filed against the Environmental Protection Agency and the Departments of Interior and Agriculture on the issue of the use of chemical toxicants in predator control of coyotes.

In 1972, E.P.A. cancelled the registrations for various chemical toxicants used by ranchers were given an advance warning of the ban or an opportunity to introduce evidence in opposition to E.P.A.'s decision. After numerous futile attempts to obtain administrative hearings on this issue from E.P.A., the states of Texas, Wyoming, South Dakota, Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho, and Utah, together with livestock organizations and individual ranchers, filed suit in Wyoming to get the federal agencies to re-examine their original decision.

Hill and attorneys in the Environmental Protection Division maintain that coyote damage initially was primarily inflicted on sheep and goats. However, as the numbers of sheep and goats have declined and, as the coyote population has increased because of the absence of chemical toxicants, coyotes have in certain geographical areas shifted their attention to calves and various species of wildlife such as deer, antelope, and wild turkey. Many ranchers maintain that the decline in the sheep and goat industry has been directly caused by the extensive losses they have suffered from coyotes.

"The coyote problem has gotten out of control in Texas," Hill said. "Our lawsuit is certainly not intended to eradicate the coyote or threaten its continued existence. However, as so often happens, the federal government overreacted in totally banning the use of chemical toxicants, and now we are faced with a serious over-population of coyotes."

"Controlled use of chemical toxicants by properly trained governmental employees is an essential element in an overall predator control program. Our experts with Texas A&M University have assured us that chemical toxicants can be used effectively against coyotes without posing any threat to humans or other species of wildlife."

As a result of the litigation, and the experience of the last six years, the Department of the Interior has recently appointed an advisory committee to re-examine the entire issue of coyote control. A public hearing of this committee is scheduled to be held in San Angelo May 23rd. Hill said his office intends to ensure that the committee is provided with all available evidence from Texas on predator control of coyotes.

"At the same time we are negotiating with the Department of Interior on all the issues in coyote control, we are optimistic about our success in negotiations with E.P.A. to obtain immediate relief for the ranchers," Hill added. "In 1974, we helped the ranchers and the Texas Department of Agriculture get E.P.A. to register the use of sodium cyanide in certain coyote control devices and are continuing our efforts to get E.P.A. to give the states and the ranchers the opportunity to have evidentiary hearings on other types of chemical toxicants."

Regardless of the merits of an individual chemical toxicant, the states and the ranchers have the right to have the appropriate federal agencies make informed decisions on these matters. The ability of ranchers to earn a living from ranching has been seriously jeopardized by uninformed and premature actions by the federal government. They deserve the right to have these issues decided on the basis of all the evidence and we intend to ensure that they get that right."

Folklife Workshop

A folklife workshop, especially for West Texans, will be held at The Museum of Texas Tech University on April 7-8 to train participants in approaches to preservation and presentation of their cultural heritage.

The workshop is presented by the Center for Intercultural Studies in Folklore and Ethnomusicology (Folklore Center) in the Division of Continuing Education of The University of Texas at Austin and through the Texas Tech University Division of Continuing Education.

Similar workshops being held throughout the state by the Folklore Center have two major purposes. They are designed to stimulate awareness of the Texas heritage and develop methods for preserving and presenting this heritage to the public. They also are designed to help develop regional profiles of tradition in Texas.

The profiles, to be compiled by residents of each section, will contain descriptions of the folk art and tradition from each region. They will become a part of the Texas Folklife Survey to be completed next fall and made available to workshop participants and the general public.

Beverly Stoeltje, a primary presenter for the workshop, said that a major goal is to bring together individuals with a special interest in preserving the traditions of their region and in implementing local projects in preservation and presentation of folklife.

Others presenters from the Lubbock area include Dr. Warren S. Walker, folklorist with an international reputation for his work in Turkish folklore, Dr. Evelyn I. Montgomery, anthropologist, Dr. T. Lindsay Baker, authority on Polish settlements in Texas, and Shirley Mansell, Lubbock resident and daughter of the late John Lomax, famous collector of cowboy songs. Walker and Montgomery are on the Texas Tech faculty. Baker is associated with the Texas Tech History of Engineering Project.

The workshop fee is $20. Participants will receive a text and supplementary materials to complement films, tapes and demonstrations. Teachers will provide specific methods for researching a region, eliciting information and transcribing and archiving material.

Treasure In Silver Or Gold

Treasure in silver and gold and priceless artifacts recovered from the 1554 wreck of three Spanish ships off the southern coast of Texas will go on exhibit at The Museum of Texas Tech University April 9.

The West Texas Museum Association, sponsor of the exhibit, called "Treasure, People, Ships and Dreams," will be the host for a reception opening the exhibit. During the reception, from 2:30 to 4 p.m., there will be two showings of a film, "Graveyard of the Gulf." Film times are 2:30 and 3:30 p.m.

On April 29, the WTMA's Junior Program, given at 10 a.m., and repeated at 11 a.m., will give children from the fourth through the ninth grades special background for understanding the exhibit.

The treasure was recovered and the historical data compiled by the Texas Antiquities Committee which was created in 1969.

The exhibit opens on the 424th anniversary, to the day, when the ships sailed from San Juan de Ulua, the port for Vera Cruz, Mex., to Spain. Boarding the original fleet of four ships were 410 persons. About 300 of them perished. Those who survived the shipwreck were attacked by Indians as well as confronted by natural hazards for which they were not prepared.

One priest finally made the trek to Tampico, reaching there in July following the April wreck.

Although Spanish authorities in Mexico did not recover some of the treasure from the sunken ships, 20th century teams have recovered more: gold and silver bullion, coins, crosses, cannon and other armament, ships' instruments and tools. These are among the treasures that will be on display at The Museum through June 4.

Special group tours can be arranged through the museum's program office by calling Program Director Judy Hunter, area code 806: 742-2456.

West Texas and Eastern New Mexico children with diabetes will have the opportunity to attend a local summer camp June 5 through 9. The camp will offer all the fun and activities of traditional summer camps plus special preparations designed for children with diabetes.

The camp will be free for all children thanks to the Southwest Rotary Club of Lubbock. With the help of other Rotary Clubs, Southwest Rotary will underwrite the expenses of every child attending, regardless of ability to pay.

Children ages 6-16 may be recommended for the camp by physicians, school nurses, Rotarians, members of the American Diabetes Association and other interested adults. Reservations for the camp must be made by May 1. Reservations may be made through the Department of Pediatrics, Texas Tech University School of Medicine (806) 743-2310.

The camp will be held at the Plains Baptist Encampment near Floydada. The camp is being designed and will be directed by the Texas Tech University School of Medicine department of pediatrics in cooperation with its division of nutrition and social services and the Texas Tech University department of health, physical education and recreation.

Tech physical education majors will serve as counselors, providing a variety of sports, crafts and games appropriate to the children's ages and skill levels.

TTUSM nutritionists will plan and supervise all meals and snacks. A member of the pediatric faculty will be in residence to supervise each child's medical needs. Faculty and members of the social work staff will work with children and their parents and will provide brief sessions on diabetes management.

The Rotary camp is the first camp offered in West Texas for children with diabetes. A pilot project, it has been modeled after similar successful camps in Central and South Texas. If successful, the camp may be expanded in future years.

WHAT IS PARITY?

There has been a lot of talk about Parity recently, but few people really understand the term. Parity is simply a measure of farm buying power. Here is an example of Parity that demonstrates what has happened to farm buying power in the last few years.

In 1973 a popular size and brand of diesel tractor was selling for $14,189 and that same year cotton was selling for 65¢ per pound. It took 43 bales of cotton to buy the tractor.

Today, that same tractor costs $27,487 — and that same grade and staple of cotton is selling for 45¢ per pound.

To buy that same tractor today it takes 122 bales of cotton. Simple mathematics tells us it takes 79 MORE bales of cotton to buy the tractor today — than it did as recently as 1973.

If it took the same number of bales — that would be PARITY. Agriculture is basic in Texas. America needs a strong Agriculture.

RABIES STILL PERSIST IN TEXAS- Rabies, a malady that has persisted for years, continues to rear its ugly head in Texas. Although most cases are found in wild animals, some domestic animals also continue to suffer from the affliction. According to data compiled by the Texas Department of Health, there were 382 confirmed cases of rabies in 103 of the state's 254 counties in 1977. Most cases were reported in skunks, 254, followed by bats, 46, and dogs, 45. The remainder of cases were categorized as cats, 13; bovines (cattle), 11; and equines (horses), 5. The highest number of positive rabies cases were recorded in Webb County with 38, all in dogs. DeWitt County had 30 rabies cases, 28 of these in skunks. Other leading counties were Fort Bend, 18 cases; Denton, 17; Callahan and Wichita, 12; and Bexar and Wharton, 11.

Although there is little that can be done to reduce rabies cases in wild animals, pets such as cats and dogs should be vaccinated annually. A veterinarian should be contacted for advice on vaccinating other farm animals if rabies are diagnosed in such wild animals as skunks or coyotes. Vaccines are available for protecting cattle, horses and other animals from rabies if the need exists. PLAN LANDSCAPE WITH A PURPOSE-Many of today's home landscapes are overcrowded with plant materials because the landscaping was done without a purpose. Landscaping without a plan or purpose is like traveling an unknown road without a map. It can only lead to confusion. The most important usage of shrubs or smaller plants around the home is to soften architectural lines and accent the entrance. The old custom of outlining the foundation of the house is seldom justified. Plant materials are also used to break up and soften large unbroken wall surfaces. Since most new homes no longer have symmetrical shape with a centered entrance, symmetrical balance in the landscape is seldom needed or justified. To reduce maintenance and to avoid cutting the front yard into ribbons of concrete and grass, the entrance walk generally comes to the front door from the garage or driveway rather than straight from the street. This side approach to the home entrance frequently allows for the development of a garden-type planting around the main entrance. Instead of having a symmetrical, balanced planting at the entrance, landscape materials can be used to create an informal garden area for the guest to pass through as he enters your home. So whatever landscape design you develop, always remember to plan before you plant.

TEXAS 4-H CENTER A TRIBUTE TO 4-H MEMBERS AND OTHER TEXAS RESIDENTS-The $14 million Texas 4-H Center, located on the banks of Lake Brownwood in Central Texas, stands as a tribute to 4-H members and dedicated Texas residents who made this dream become a reality. The Texas 4-H Foundation provided key leadership in planning and financing this facility. Funds came from individuals, industry, organizations and the 4-H Club members themselves. More than 1,000 adult and teen leaders benefited from intensive training programs conducted at the center during 1977. At least 8,000 participated in other educational experiences there from April 1976 through August 1977. 4-H and youth and adult leaders, Extension staff members and other groups outside the Extension staff utilized the facilities for educational activities, such as weekend workshops, seminars, forums and camps.

The main point about the Texas 4-H Center is that it provides an opportunity for leaders to work together to improve the experiences youth have in 4-H.

The 4-H Center is a source of strength, knowledge and inspiration for all. It is a tribute to 4-H members and leaders. It stands there because people believe in youth and in the work of 4-H leaders. It also stands as a vivid reminder that youth work is never complete.

Youth work grows and adapts, reshaping itself as times change. The Texas 4-H Center provides an opportunity to keep pace with change and to equip ourselves for new challenges in working with youth. That's why it's there.
