4 TH QUARTER
NO 20

Amarillo, Texas, May 30, 1900.

25c PER MONTH

Washington, D. C.—May 30. showers tonight, showers fair tomorrow
Temperature at Amarillo at 7 o'clock this morning, 55.

CITY CIRCULATOR—At THE EVENING NEWS office, for anybody having papers to deliver—very reliable. Won't "wad" and "pile" and "scatter" but do according to contract. Cash.

Mr. D. L. Britain announces today as a candidate for county commissioner, precinct No. 1. Mr. Britain was our commissioner two years ago, and had served in the same capacity in Clay county before moving to Amarillo. He has ripe experience, and is thoroughly competent to discharge the duties of the office. Besides he has but little other business on hand, owing to feeble health, and ought to be able to give much thought to the official matters.

Whenever an enterprise is thought of in Amarillo a rush is made at the "business man," and the poor dupe whacks up—just to encourage a competitor to sit down beside him to divide profits with him. But lot values have no competitors, but flows on forever—whack 'em for contributions.

Amarillo must have some kind of entertainment on the 4th of July; and it ought to last two or more days. Suppose the Fair Association arouse from its sleep and set a ball in motion. First by getting the Cattlemen's Association to make it a show and sale day; next by any trimmings of base ball, fire works, riding, roping, etc. Think it up and get about it—if it is worth anything. Carlsbad has raised a thousand dollars for such an entertainment and expect to make it a good investment. Hotels, restaurants, merchants, barbers, and even saloons are expected to reap a profit, and the people much recreation.

When you are looking for a tax assessor to serve Potter county the next term remember the fellow who can serve us most is the one who will drive vacant land holders out of the county by taxing them out. As they are taxed out occupants will come in. It is the latest discovery to attract emmigration, and the man that cannot catch onto that idea is not fit for tax assessor.

When you tax vacant lots you tax the tin cans off and houses on.

If land values were taxed high enough no man in Chicago could have held us up for $400 for school house purposes. Taxing land values high enough makes vacant lots the bears we would be glad to turn loose.

Tax land values as high as the law will permit in order to make non-residents anxious to get out. Tax improvements as low as possible to make house builders anxious to get in. We have no earthly use for foreign dogs in the manger, but do want citizens. Can't sell goods to vacant lots.

Why do the business houses—all of them—not put a plank seat in front of their doors for the weary pedestrian to rest upon? It would add immensely to the comfort of all, and the cost is next to nothing. It would be so nice to find a seat whenever you stop to look at passers-by. Patton and Temple seem to be the only houses having them, and it is hoped they are profited by them.

Sect'y of the treasury, Gage has discovered there are $400,000,000 less in the treasury than should be there, according to his statistics, and is now wondering what has become of it. Yes, indeed before the ides of November the whole country will be wondering "where we are at" and Bryan's election will be assured.

Mr. Umphres says he gets out his laundry twice a week; on Wednesdays and Saturdays. It is earnestly hoped that this enterprise will receive the patronage commensurate with its importance, and not have to close doors again. A steam laundry speaks well for a town—and is immensely useful.

The view of the eclipse was unobstructed all along the line of totality; and great satisfaction is expressed by the astronomers at the result of observation. The Scientific American and other educational publications will be profusely illustrated and entertaining for the next few issues.

Wm. Harrell, asked what he was doing, replied "just monkeying around," and added "what else are any of you doing?" Harrell is correct in his inference; the people of the whole country are only monkeying—that is to say, all of them outside the monopolies—so far as making any progress is concerned. Yes, only monkeying around! And it's a pretty state of affairs in a "free country"—a pretty sight under nature's bountiful and boundless blessings. The single taxer only can explain what the trouble is—and why men are reverting the to monkey.

That bridge across the Canadian, the Evening News begins to think, is really what we next need. But remember, the lot owners in Amarillo ought to be the biggest subscribers, because they are sure of their profits, while the merchant may have a competitor to sit down beside him and keep down his profits, but they can't put a lot down to compete with another lot. See?

SOLDIER MADE CRAZY.

Sanfrancisco, May 10.—The Examiner today prints a letter from an American soldier in Manilla, telling of brutal treatment in the ranks for trivial offenses. As an instance the writer says John Farrell, Company F, Fourteenth infantry, was tied to a post, where he was kept under the fierce glare of a tropical sun for eight hours without food or water, although he begged piteously to have his thirst quenched. He fainted and hung there unconscious for some time. At dusk Lieutenant Brambila ordered him to be cut loose. Farrell has ever since been a maniac and confined in the first reserve hospital, and his life is dispaired of by his comrades. The offense for which he was brutally punished was trivial.

F M Ong and R W Graham have returned off a ten-day's pleasure run through Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota, spending the major part of their stay among the mines, one while about 700 feet beneath the surface.—Leach City and Deadwood ores yield $8 and $10 of gold to the ton, but that all such lands are in control of a few monopolists, and the multitude of others wanting gold out of their mother earth have to get it as hirelings, or pull their freight to other fields. The rents of the mines of Dakota, if turned into the public till, would be ample to pay the whole expense of the State government, not taxing the people a dollar—and still there are a few in the country who cannot see any good in the single tax!

Mr Ong says his friend Graham had his weather eye out all the while on the pretty corn-fed girls they passed in the Dakota trip, but enthused little over them—preferring the more tropical and sweeter home product.

W. P. TAYLOR.

It is reported by the Oklahoma city papers that the Choctaw, Okla & Gulf Ry has contracted the construction of their road 170 miles west of Weatherford and a large force of men are now at work pushing westward as rapidly as possible.

The article on the 2d page, headed "Imperialism and Expansion" is written by one of the most accomplished scholars and profound economists in the U. S., a wealthy man and owner of extensive real estate—and withal, is not, and never was an office seeker. The intelligent reader will be profited by a perusal of the article.

Shaw's Ice Cream and cold drinks parlor is in full blast just now. For such good things his is the popular place. His new, fine soda fountain is up and will be opened out in a few days. Note: A big general treat will be given, then.

John Eiland of Potosi, and Pat Dooling claim agents of the Denver, and W. J. Clark and J. H. Harrison and wife, of Panhandle, are here today.

Keep on reading and thinking over the following:

N. Connally thinks the Canadian bridge is the most important enterprise for Amarillo just now; that there are rock bluffs on each side on which a permanent bridge could be built, and the cost would not be over $15,000.

A. M. Potter has on hand a pair of horses for sale cheap for cash.

Imperialism and Expansion.

From the Chicago Public.

The imperialistic wave, at present sweeping the English and American nations from their base, gets its impulsion from land ownership. However veiled in sounding and deceptive names, the true purpose of each country is that of gain and power. If the control of territory did not bring with it wealth and arbitrary sway, neither the Filipinos nor the Boers would be on the defensive now.

I try in vain to recall a single war which had not at its root the same motive. I am unable to conceive how two countries in which the right to the use of the earth were authorized in practice, could be brought into armed conflict. In the Philippines a conquest without control of the material resources residing in land possession would be absolutely barren. In the Transvaal no Englishman, except for curiosity or travel, would care to set foot were there no land values to be monopolized. But for the possession of the gold and diamond fields there would be no bloody war now in progress, if progress it can be called.

The origin of the expansion craze is an economic one. No nation has sufficient incentive to go abroad for land, at the expense and risk of war, until its own land is appropriated and absorbed. Such a condition does not imply a scarcity but a monopoly, which has the practical effect of scarcity. To men who are prohibited from employing themselves on unused land it has in effect no existence.

Debarred from home advantages, what wonder that multitudes rush to all quarters of the globe for a chance to make a living! It is natural that where they find unclaimed land that they take possession of it, or if occupied by weaker peoples, that they dispossess them by force or cunning. Domestic land monopoly is therefore primarily the impelling cause of imperialism and expansion.

Could any plea be more absurd than that this country needs new territory in which to expand? With nearly 75,000,000 of people it remains a wilderness, touched in spots only by the hand of man. The United States need no additional areas, however much some of their inhabitants suffer from want of access to land. Unlock the land and these would have excess of room for all their energies, with no temptation to seek the fever breeding islands of the tropics. When that day arrives, a war ship or a regiment of soldiers will seem the ridiculous and wasteful thing it is.

It is, moreover, the denial o the right to use the land that produces the material for armies. Landlordism is thus protected by its power to enforce idleness. Who are the ready recruits to fill the regiments? The unemployed. They are thus made to serve the monster that destroys them. I was greatly impressed by your recent diagrams given in the article called "The Black Dot." The dot represented less than 11,000, out of nearly 40,000,000 of people in Great Britain, who nevertheless owned 71 per cent. of all the land. It is the 11,000 that have forced the South African war. It is the disinherited masses who are furnishing the food for powder in a conflict where they are to receive the stripes and the "black dot" the prizes.

Peace conferences may deceive the people of the earth with their platitudes, the pulpits may repeat the lofty sentiments of the Prince of Peace, but war will grasp its bloody fruits as long as that element from which human beings must gain subsistence is withheld. Where man robs his fellow man of the means of gaining a livelihood, strife and hatred are the ordained penalty.

Inheriting a belief in the wrongfulness of war and the higher and nobler duty of non resistance, I am yet inexpressibly grateful for the gospel of Henry George, which shows how, through justice, the ideal may be attained in the near future upon this earth. Imperialism and expansion, in the sense of force, cannot coexist with the single tax.
