Spearman Has Blackout Saturday Night!

Power Off From 9 till 10:05

What were you doing when the lights went out Saturday night? That has been the subject all day of this week, as citizens recall the late blackout Saturday night in Spearman, the rural area. At approximately 9 p. m., a light plane carrying four people made an approach to the Spearman runway from the north. Pilot, Edward Weigard, Bunker Hill, Illinois, let us know that these high-powered lines at the north end of the runway. His clipped the top wire of the high line, and the two wires of another, when he came in contact with the lines, the engine and pilot stated there was such a blinding explosion of fire from the 5,000 volt line, that thought it was all over. It all happened so fast they hit the ground rather hard, bounced, and landed just off the runway. It was the most miraculous thing any airplane pilot has ever done. The passengers included Doris Carney, Margy Cain all of Bunker Hill, Illinois and Manuel del Angel Angeles, who were flying Spearman to visit the McMillans. The complete how the McMillans see people is irrelevant. Incidentally, Spearman, and areas were without power for one hour and minutes after the plane clipped the high lines.

July, 1971, my two young boys, Jay and Kerry and I flew to Monterrey, Mexico in that I might attend school at the Instituto Tecnológico de Monterrey. We left about noon on a Friday leaving Canyon. The trip took 28 hours, we were tired, hungry, and flying from the cultural that usually lasts for a week while adjusting to a completely different environment. The boys were wishing they were still in Spearman, their daddy and although the same I had to act and not let them know. We found an apartment and went to the grocery. As I entered the store, I saw a blond haired woman and a teen aged brunette started to say something in English, but decided because every lighted person who I had that day that I had thought they were an American speaking but Spanish.

"Buenas Tardes" to the woman and waited to see if she had an English accent. I didn't detect one so I went to another aisle. As I passed my shopping I just couldn't stand knowing for sure if she was American. I went back and I heard her in Spanish if she was American and in English if she was not. "Yes, are you?" The woman Doris Carney, a teacher and her younger cousin Margy Cain from Bunker Hill, Illinois. They had come to Monterrey to attend the university as I. We were able to see another American who spoke English that we immediately became friends. Following Saturday night Margy and I were taking a young American man and Mexican wife who lived in an apartment as they were on the bus station when a man ran a red light and ran into their car. They had to be taken to the hospital. Margy had to have stitches in her head and was bruised internally. It was quite a shock to be awakened from a sound sleep the second night you are in a strange country by two men beating on your door and calling you name in Spanish. Doris had told me about the American man who lived in their apartment and after he had identified himself, I left the boys in the apartment again with the doors locked and with strict instructions that they weren't to open the door for anyone but me and went with the two men to the hospital. When the two girls could be released I took them home with me to my apartment where they stayed until they were well enough to go back to their own apartment.

After the first week and we began to feel at ease with the people around us the only time we ever shut our door was at night. Nearly all of the other apartments were occupied with young male college students who were attending Tecnológico. The other apartment doors were never closed in the daytime either because of the heat. (It was as hot as 115 degrees F and there were no air conditioners). Jay and Kerry, aged 9 and 11 at the time were free to come and go as they pleased to the other apartments. The young men (there were no girl students at all) were away from their homes and families and I wanted to enjoy spending time with my children. They would take them for ice cream and would play soccer and other games with them.

This is the way we met Angeles. Two weeks before time for us to come back to Spearman, my husband Jack and our oldest son David came to Monterrey to spend some time and then we were all coming back together. After Jack arrived the young men would come to the apartment to visit and we became particularly fond of Angeles. One month after we returned to Spearman he graduated from the Instituto Tecnológico with a Master's Degree in Electrical Engineering. He is now employed in Tampico, Mexico as an electrical engineer and teaches math classes 4 nights a week in the University there.

Angeles flew to St. Louis, Mo. last Wednesday. A good friend of the girls, Ed Weigard, who is also a teacher from Bunker Hill and owns his own plane flew them all to Spearman. They left Illinois early and meant to reach Spearman before dark but they were rained in in Missouri. Jack had thought to warn them of the grain elevators which sometimes cause a downdraft over the airport and other things but neither of us ever thought to warn them of the highline wires at the end of the runway.

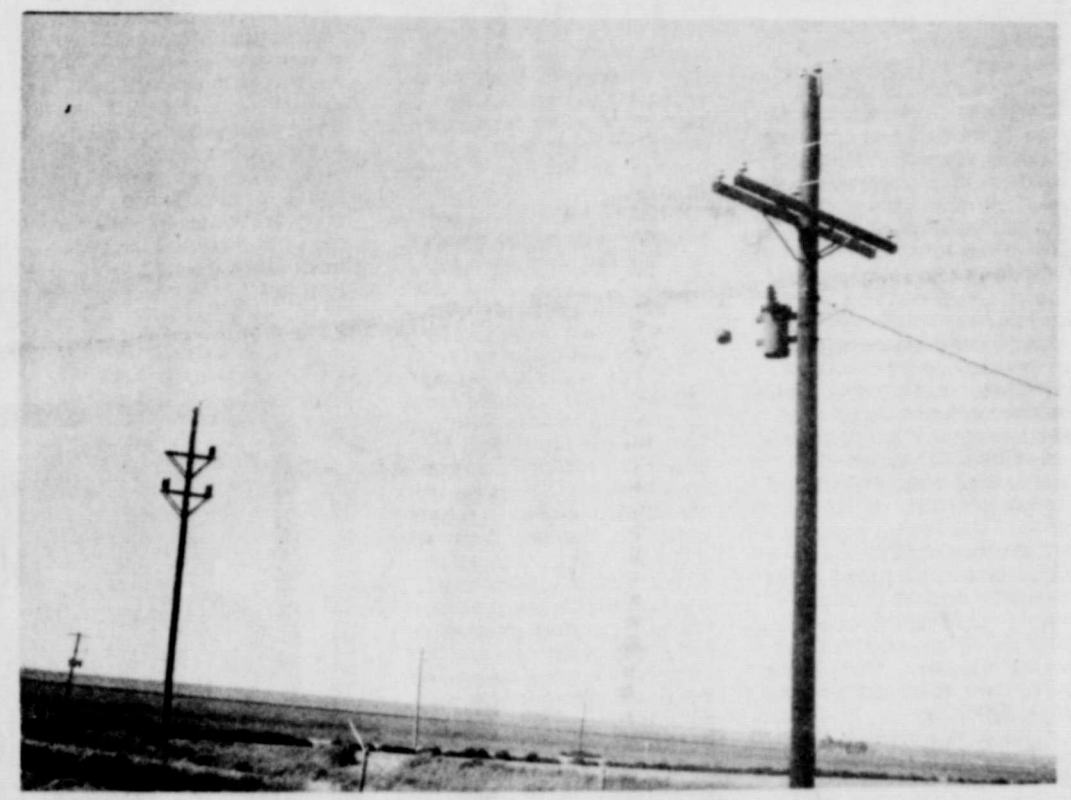

We had been watching for their plane and were the third car to arrive at their plane. All of us are thoroughly convinced that we have experienced another modern day miracle.

Glad to be alive, is Margy Cain, on the left, Manuel del Angel Angeles, in the middle, and Doris Carney on the right. They stated that the blinding flash and the explosion that accompanied the flash as they flew through the high lines at the end of the Spearman airstrip was quite an experience. They stated that fire completely engulfed the plane as it flew through the 5,000 volt high lines.

This is a picture of the 4-passenger plane that flew through 8 high lines, clipping 3 of them Saturday night. Only the nose wheel and the rudder were damaged. None of the 4 passengers in the plane were injured.

This is the maze of high lines that the plane flew through, clipping three of the lines, and cutting power off in Spearman, Saturday night for one hour and five minutes.

Mrs. McMullan, local high school Spanish teacher, pilot Edward Weigard and Mr. McMullan. Edward and his crew flew in from Illinois to visit the McMullans.

County City Radio Communications Centralized

A proposal, presented to the Hansford County Commissioners and the Spearman City Council, by Sheriff R. L. McFarlin and Chief of Police L. K. Wood, to centralize radio communications for the Hansford County Sheriff's Office and the Spearman Police Department located in the Sheriff's Office in Spearman. In so doing, this will leave the citizens of Spearman on a Central Telephone System with only one number to call, seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day. Citizens on Southwestern Bell will have a direct line to the Sheriff's office, with one number to call, seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day. This will also give the county and city twenty-four hour use of the Police Teletype located in the Sheriff's Office. Each department will have instant contact with the Texas Teletype Network, The Texas Crime Information Center in Austin and the National Crime Information Center in Washington D.C.

This proposal was unanimously approved by both the Hansford County Commissioners and the City Council, October 8, 1973, and is now in effect.

The number to call in Spearman is 659-2312. The number for Gruver, Morse, Hitchland, Oslo and Bernstein areas is 733-2901.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Take a deep breath and hold it! If you're lucky, you breathed in clean air. If not, you should have more than a passing interest in the week of October 14-20, designated as Cleaner Air Week.

This doesn't mean that the major sources of pollution—automobile exhausts, industrial emissions and rubbish burning—will cease for one week in October.

What the 25th Cleaner Air Week does is to give each community an opportunity to assess its own air pollution situation and what progress it has made towards improving the quality of the air the people breathe. It also gives the people a chance to plan a continuing program to improve that quality, says the Texas State Department of Health.

Most people know the immediate effects of air pollution. They realize it when there are bad odors or when their eyes blur, but often they don't realize that pollution can also contribute heavily to emphysema, asthma, bronchitis and other respiratory diseases. Many of these victims of chronic respiratory ailments are treated at the Health Department's Chest Hospitals.

Some studies have shown that air pollution can weaken the body's defense mechanisms and even contribute to stomach cancer.

A Dartmouth Medical School researcher recently told the American Chemical Society that children are victims of lead poisoning caused from automobile emissions. He said one to two per cent of all urban children have blood levels indicating they should be receiving treatment. Lead intoxication can affect a child's physical and mental abilities, bring about behavioral abnormalities and cause death.

Cleaner Air Week is held each year as a reminder that air pollution is a man-made problem, and that it only has a man-made solution. Only when citizens show enough concern to demand tough regulations on emissions from automobiles and industry and an end to open burning will air pollution be brought totally under control.

The Health Department in the past has had a major role in the fight against air pollution and will continue its interest. But authority for this important part of the environment has been given the Air Control Board by the Texas Legislature. The Air Control Board has the responsibility of setting and enforcing tough standards on industrial pollution and waste disposal. The agency must approve all plans for new plants and factories.

The air is one of our most valuable resources and necessary for life. Because it sustains life, its quality must be protected.

Many of the aspects of air pollution have become facts of life in some areas—corrosion, higher cleaning bills and eye irritation to name a few.

But efforts are paying off. For instance, residents in Galena Park near the Houston Ship Channel report some sure signs of success in pollution efforts. They find that screens on their windows are lasting longer—not corroding the way they used to. Paint on their homes also is staying on better and retaining its color. And, the outside of their homes aren't as dirty.

One physician noted that for the first time in years he has observed people taking walks at night or engaging in tennis and other outdoor activities. And, he pointedly remarked, the number of upper respiratory problems being seen at his hospital has decreased significantly.

Even the plant life is rebounding due to the reduction of toxic chemicals in the air.

These results have been accomplished primarily by the curbs put on industry.

But how about the private citizen? What can the individual do to help? He can keep his car tuned well for better gas mileage; he can check his home heating and air conditioning units frequently and maintain them at efficient levels; he can report pollution nuisances to authorities; he can support strong legislation controlling industrial emissions; and he can join car pools or ride on community transit systems to help reduce automobile emissions.

The Air Pollution Control Association has sponsored Cleaner Air Week every year since 1949. The American Lung Association joined as a co-sponsor last year. And, support of the week's activities has been given by the State Health Department.

Cleaner Air Week is a means of spotlighting one of the greatest problems of environmental health. You can help in making every week a cleaner air week.

CONGRESSMAN BOB PRICE TEXAS

Texas Panhandle Congressman Bob Price is requesting a full explanation from Secretary of State Henry Kissinger of a reported agreement to cancel some $2 billion in rupees owed the United States by the Government of India. Citing the serious U. S.

balance of payments deficit with foreign nations and our nation's own huge public debt, Price said, I find it incredible that representatives of this government would cancel a debt owed to us by a foreign nation.

This is especially true in light of the fact that while India claims poverty in repaying the United States, somehow the Indian Government has had sufficient funds to wage a war with Pakistan and purchase war materials from the U. S. S. R. Price added in the letter to Kissinger today.

The 13th District Congressman, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, also asked Kissinger why a more equitable arrangement such as interest reduction had not been negotiated whether India's other creditor nations were also canceling their debts; and whether India had made any concessions favorable to the United States in return for the cancellation.

In a separate action, Price voted "no" late Thursday in the House of Representatives on a bill to appropriate additional dollars to international financial institutions to compensate for the recent devaluation of the dollar on international money markets.

The House approved the bill, 274 to 90, to raise the fiscal '74 contribution to the World Bank and other such international financial institutions from $1.6 billion to $2,203,000,000.

Our Heritage of Faith... notes from Faith Lutheran Church

One of the special gifts which Our Lord gave to His church here on earth was the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. This is called by various names as Communion, Holy Eucharist, Sacrament of the Altar, etc. It is that event by which Our Lord is present in a special way with those who partake of the Communion.

The form of the Communion is very plain. There is bread and wine, but the Scripture adds another dimension to it. When Our Lord gave it to the disciples in that Upper Room, He said, "Take eat, this is my body," and "Take drink, this is my blood of a new covenant." It is surely that we partake in remembrance of what Our Lord has done on our behalf, but it is more. There is a Real Presence that is more than just bread and wine as we receive. Our Himself is present in a way which far transcends our feeble understanding. In what a wondrous way our Lord has sought to take care of those who love Him.

If you have no church home, we invite you to participate with us at Faith. Our morning worship is at 9:30 with Sunday School for all following at 10:30 & Junior Choir at 11:15. Make use of the time which you have now before the night comes for you when you shall not work anymore.

NEWS FROM YOUR HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT by Nelle Evans

This is National 4-H Week and we are pleased to have nearly 200 4-H'ers in Hansford County. 4-H cannot survive without the support of parents and leaders. We are always in need of people to help our 4-H'ers with their projects. If you are willing to help a group of 5-6 4-H'ers in a project please let us know. You will be involved for a 3-4 month period. Some of the areas in home economics include food and nutrition, clothing, child care, home management, home environment and consumer education. If you are able to help with a project, you will be well rewarded by your experiences in working with the youngsters. We are pleased that more boys are getting involved in the 4-H program.

The State 4-H Dress Revue and Fair was quite an experience. It is tremendous and exciting. There is so much to see and do a weekend isn't enough time. If you have a chance to go do so. Of course Saturday was Rural Youth Day so there were many young people present. Lesa Hardesty of Gruver, Diane VanZandt, Gina Hutchison and Carrie Clark of Spearman attended the revue and fair. All of these girls have been winners in the County Dress Revue and have participated in the district contest.

Keep in mind the upcoming quality handbook workshops in Gruver and Spearman. To learn to knit you will need size 8 needles and worsted weight yarn. For hairpin lace, broomstick lace and crochet you'll need worsted weight yarn, size H hook and a hairpin lace pin for that or a size 50 knitting pin for broomstick. For the sessions on crewel, needlepoint and rug hooking (latch hook) small kits are fine. These dates are October 18 at the Gruver Bank and October 30 at the Home Demonstration Clubroom. Both workshops will last from 9:30 A. M. -11:30 A. M. and 1:00-3:00 P. M. Get your supplies now. You will have plenty of time to make items for Christmas.

Researchers Wage War On Greenbugs

Researchers at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station are pitting plants against insects in a battle to keep the cost of grain sorghum production down. Dr. Jerry W. Johnson and Dr. George L. Teetes have developed a high-yielding sorghum plant that interferes with the normal development of the greenbug, a profit-robbing insect of national prominence.

The greenbug, an aphid which attacks small grain and sorghum has cost sorghum producers in excess of $10 million annually since 1968, say the scientists. During the last five years, Experiment Station researchers have crossed U. S. varieties with greenbug resistant sorghum types and have selected out agronomically improved greenbug resistant varieties. Johnson explains that the breeding program was necessary because the sorghum types in which resistance occurs are commercially unacceptable.

According to Johnson, agronomically improved greenbug resistant sorghums known as TAM BK-41 and TAM BK-42 were released by the Experiment Station in 1972, and are now being used by thirty-one commercial companies and eight public agencies to develop greenbug resistant hybrids for commercial production. Preliminary data on TAM BK-41 and TAM BK-42 indicates that good hybrids can be developed from this material. Greenbug resistant hybrids should be available for producers in 1975 and will have greenbugs feeding on them, but they will be able to withstand large populations of the insect without significant damage.

The greenbug resistant breeding project is a good example of what can be accomplished when producer organizations team with Texas Agricultural Experiment Station to attack a pest area, the scientists assert. "The Texas Sorghum Producers Association reported this project with great interest. This aid greatly helped up the development of reliable greenbug resistant sorghum. Although the work, both basic and applied, remains to be done, we show that greenbug resistant hybrids can become a reality," Johnson concludes.

School-age children are most likely to catch and read rubella, the State Department reports. Protected, expectant mothers can acquire the disease from them.

When Will We Import Water?

The question is no longer "Can we import water to West Texas?" The real question is "When will we import water to West Texas?" That was the summation of a study by the Texas Water Resources Council at its initial meeting in Lubbock, a study that updated the benefit/cost ratio of the water import plan to demonstrate that when calculated on the basis of current prices, such a plan could well be economically feasible.

Tommy Swann, Water, Inc., staff economist highlighted a study he has just completed showing a benefit/cost ratio with benefits totaling almost three times greater than federal agency ratios developed for the plan to import water to West Texas and Eastern New Mexico from the Mississippi River. Explaining that the federal agencies used average 1965-

69 prices received and paid by farmers in developing benefits and compared them to 1972 construction costs, Swann substituted current prices for developing both sides (benefits and costs) of a new ration, showing possible benefits as high as $2.88 for each $1.00 cost. (Swann used the same formulas and computations for developing his study as those used by the federal agencies, substituting only current prices for those used in the original study.)

Water, Inc., cited two major stumbling blocks in the way of importation of water to the area, both at the federal level. One was the need for realistic federal standards for evaluating proposed projects, standards that recognize all levels of benefits, and the other the final report of the National Water Commission recommending that the federal government virtually remove itself from the field of water development.

All levels of government must work together with unity of purpose before we can answer the question "When will we import water?" the statement concluded.

Veterans Day To Honor 29 Million Americans

Veterans Day this year will honor more than 29 million Americans, the most in the nation's history, according to Jack Coker, Director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office at Waco, Texas' veteran population has risen to a record 1,430,000.

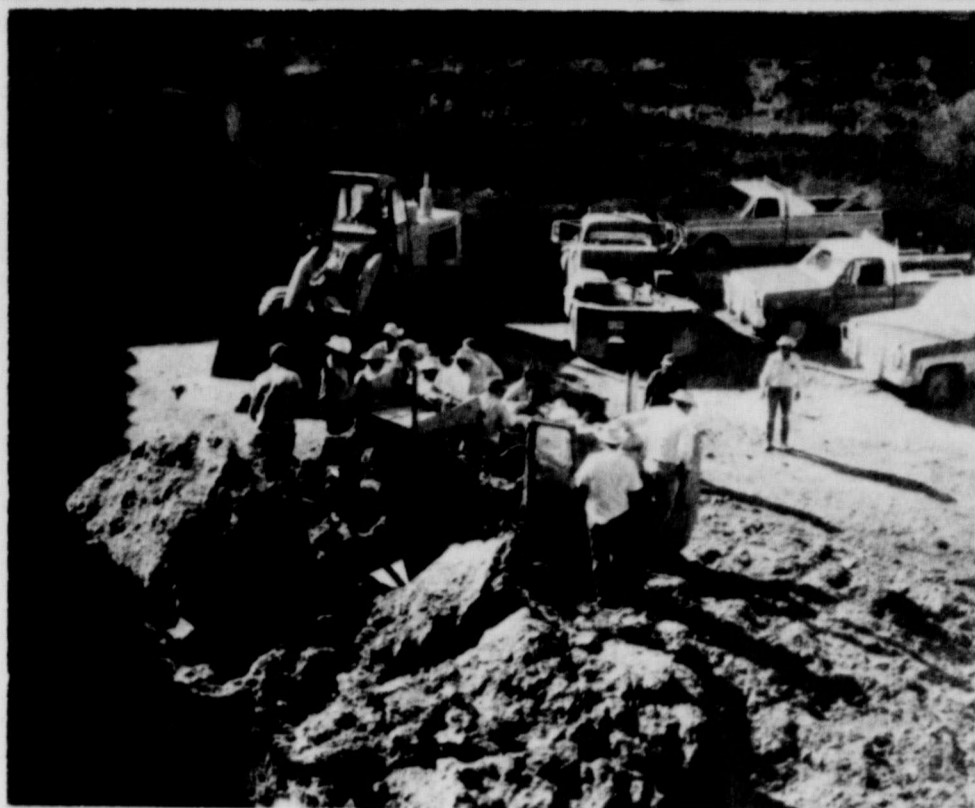

More than half of the 43.5 million who served from the American Revolution through Vietnam are alive today, the VA says. The oldest in this group are the less than 2,000 veterans of the Spanish-American War with an average age of 93. Veterans of World War II represent the largest group, about 14 million. The current Vietnam Era has produced 6.6 million veterans.

Once known as Armistice Day, the event commemorated the end of World War I on November 11, 1918. Following World War II, sentiment grew for the day to be a tribute to veterans of all wars. A Congressional resolution by Rep. Edwin K. Rees of Kansas was passed and signed into law in 1954.

That same year, President Eisenhower created the Veterans Day National Committee which coordinates the national ceremony and the observances within each state. "Peace with Honor" was chosen by the committee as the official Veterans Day theme and has been in use continuously since 1954.

National observance of Veterans Day was changed by Congress in 1968 to the fourth Monday in October. Many states, however, by legislation or proclamation, hold to the traditional November 11, date.

He was rushed to Hansford Hospital and as of late Monday evening was resting well.

Farm Bureau Opposes Agricultural Export

Texas Farm Bureau President J. T. Woodson has urged congressional and Administration leaders to oppose export controls on agricultural products.

In a telegram to six national leaders, Woodson said exports are vital to balance of payments, domestic price stability, confidence in the U. S. as a trading partner, and position of the U. S. in international trade agreements.

"Texas Farm Bureau members solidly support expanding exports of agricultural commodities and developing mutually advantageous trade with other nations," Woodson said in the wire.

Telegrams were sent to President Nixon, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, Treasury Secretary George Shultz, Cost of Living Council Director John Dunlop, and Texas Senators John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen.

The House recently passed a bill (H. R. 8547) to increase the President's authority to control exports of materials and agricultural commodities. The Senate is now holding hearings on similar bills (S. 2053 and S. 2411) which would increase the President's authority to limit exports.

Woodson said some processors of agricultural raw materials are exerting influence on Congress and Administration to limit exports.

The TFB president said "exports in recent months have brought decent prices and incomes to U. S. farmers and ranchers for the first time in memory."

The fiscal 1973 year export sales, which were 60 percent higher than a year ago, required the output of 85 million acres of the U. S. cropland—or the production of one of every four acres harvested, Woodson said.

Texas farmers' and ranchers' share of the 1973 fiscal year export sales amounted to almost $800 million, he pointed out.

Price States Gasoline Ceilings Should Be Posted

New gasoline ceilings under the President's Phase IV economic program should now be posted on all retail gasoline pumps, Congressman Bob Price said today.

The 13th District Congressman said he had received numerous requests from gasoline retailers as to how to comply with the Phase IV regulations.

The Cost of Living Council reports that gasoline retailers need only to add the increase in the price ceiling to the stickers which have been mounted on gasoline pumps since September 8th, Price said. "No other change should be necessary unless gasoline with a different octane rating is now being sold through that pump."

The stickers provided by the Council to retailers last month carry information as to the retail price ceiling and the octane rating. Under Phase IV regulations, retailers may charge less but not more than the ceiling price posted.

Price Sponsors Legislation To Release Funds

Texas Panhandle Congressman Bob Price today co-sponsored legislation which would insure that each state get back from the Highway Trust Fund at least 80 percent of the funds contributed by that state.

Texas will contribute some $400 million to the fund this year, Price said, but the state will get back only about $239.4 million. If passed, the bill would provide Texas with an additional $80.7 million.

Prime sponsor of the bill is Rep. Wilmer D. Mizell, R-N. C. Joining him were some 40 co-sponsors, including Price.

The Highway Trust Fund was built up through federal excise taxes on gasoline and tires. The funds are apportioned to the states primarily to assist construction of interstate highways.

The bill is expected to be referred to the House Public Works Committee.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN--How "used" is a used car?
If its vintage is stated accurately the prospective buyer received an honest statement of its mileage; the working parts are in working condition, and the price represents the fair market value of the specific vehicle involved, then it's entirely up to the consumer to decide if a certain used car is a good buy.
But a misrepresentation as to year of model, or a purposeful misstatement of mileage accrued would constitute a deceptive trade practice under the 1973 Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act.

And alteration or resetting of an odometer--the instrument on the car which indicates its total mileage--also is prohibited under the new Federal Odometer Law, which requires that each transferor of a vehicle make a certificate attesting to the mileage.
The certificate must identify the vehicle transferred by its make, model, body type, serial number and last license plate number. It must include the transferor's name, address and signature, and the certificate signed has to refer to the certificate signed has to refer to the fact that the giving of incorrect information may result in civil liability.

The alternative to the person or dealer transferring ownership of a motor vehicle would be to state that the actual mileage is unknown--if he really cannot attest to it.
The enacting of state and federal prohibitions on odometer "rollbacks" were affirmations of the long-held enforcement philosophy that this practice does work a fraud on consumers.
For instance, in Texas, the Attorney General's office in 1972 obtained 39 injunctions prohibiting used car dealers and auto lease services from setting back odometers under an umbrella prohibition against deceptive practices.
We thought that it ought to be spelled out, and the Texas Legislature agreed, so odometer rollbacks were added to the specific list of trade practices outlawed under the 1973 act.
It is easy to understand that there may be circumstances in which an individual trading in an old car or a used car dealer selling one may not be able to swear to the actual mileage--because the car has had so many owners, or because of mechanical difficulties.
So the state law (and the federal act) include the language, "with the intent to defraud."
Deceptions, frauds and misrepresentations are the blocks we want to remove from the consumers' path to an equal footing in the marketplace.
If you are shopping for a used car, and have reason to doubt the seller's statement on mileage, there are several clues you can follow to ascertain the true figure: For one thing, examine the vehicle itself. Do the brake pads, emergency brakes or tires indicate more wear than the mileage would appear to warrant?
Almost any reputable seller also will encourage you--or at least, permit you--to drive the car to your own mechanic for an even closer check.

You are always free, of course, to talk to the previous owner. If he can't be identified easily, you can write the motor vehicle registration division of the Texas Highway Department enclosing $1 and the vehicle identification number, and get a history of the title.
If a consumer suspects that mileage has been misrepresented, he can file a complaint under federal law, which prescribes penalties for violation of three times actual damages, a maximum of $1,500.
Or, a private suit could be filed under the new Texas law, and if the court determined that there was a violation, the judge could award three times actual damages.
If you have a complaint, contact your county or district attorney, or the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office

Baker & Taylor Drilling Company

Rates its employees No. 1

Beulah Burger

Beulah Burger is the Baker & Taylor employee of the week. Beulah is night communications officer and night-watchman at the large BT yard in Spearman. Beulah goes on duty at 9 p. m. each evening, and she literally "loves" her work there. In fact, the Spearman native says that the main reason that she likes her work there, is that the men all get along so well, and it is just like being a part of one big family.

Beulah has been living in and near the Spearman area for 50 years. She is the former Postmaster at Waka, where she held that job for 15 years. She owns her own farm near Waka.

Beulah's job is exciting and interesting to her. She is enthusiastic about all of the things that are done at Baker & Taylor's shop in Spearman. She had to take this writer on a personal tour Tuesday night, and this included visiting her bosses offices; her bosses are Larry Sexton and Mike McCormick. And, she also conducted us on a tour to see one of the large caterpillar engines that the mechanics had just re-built and painted.

Beulah checks all personnel in and out of the yard at night, and says that the city policemen and the Sheriff's dept. have been a great comfort to her at her "night" job for Baker & Taylor in Spearman. We join in saluting a woman who works so "enthusiastically" at her job, and we feel that she is an asset to Baker & Taylor and our community.

Troubled -Hungry-Soul by Mrs. E.A. Greever

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness for they shall be filled, Matt. 5:6.

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful, but his delight is in the law of the Lord and in his law doth he meditate day and night, Psalms 1:1-2.

This is a people who have peace with God and if possible as much as lieth within them live peaceably with all men, and are anxiously waiting for the return of the Prince of Peace, and in this year of 1973 more and more daily we are entering into the time of trouble such as never been known, and no doubt as God's word tells us will soon be crying, "Even so come Lord Jesus."

This group of people are remembering the commands of the Lord, "Pray always that ye may be accounted worthy to escape the awful things that are coming upon the earth and to stand before the Son of man," St. Luke 21:36.

Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation the Spirit indeed is willing but the flesh is weak, Matt. 26:41.

Take ye heed, watch and pray for ye know not when the time is, St. Mark 13:33.

Watch therefore for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh, Matt. 25:13.

Watch lest coming suddenly he find you sleeping, St. Mark 13:35-36.

The preceding verse tells them as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth. This chapter and Matt. 24th chapter tells them of things that will be taking place at Christ's return.

Let us meditate now upon the miraculous things that will be taking place when Christ returns. He returns as he went away. Ascended to heaven from the Mount of Olives east of Jerusalem. A cloud received him out of their sight. Read Acts 1:9 thru 11.

Rev. 1:7 reads thus: Behold he cometh with clouds and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Even so Amen.

The meaning of Amen, It shall be so.

Jesus said before going away, "Let not your heart be troubled, I'm going to prepare a place for you and if I go and prepare a place for you I will come again and receive you unto myself that where I am there ye may be also. This scripture found in St. John 14:1 thru 3.

For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout with the voice of the arch angel and with the trump of God and the dead in Christ shall rise first. Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air and so shall we ever, be with the Lord. Wherefore comfort one another with these words, I Thess. 4:16-18.

This is the first resurrection. And God's word tells us this group are blessed and holy, Rev. 20:6.

This mortal must put on immortality and the corruptible, incorruption, then shall be brought to pass. The saying that is written, "Death is swallowed up in victory".

Our beloved Bro, Paul tells us in I Cor. 15th chapter of a mystery, we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed and this takes place in a moment in the twinkling of an eye. O what a wonderful day that will be.

My troubled friend doesn't these scriptures make you hungry to be among this number? We are praying for you. It is wonderful to be looking forward for Christ's return.

Sorrow and sighing shall flee away, tears wiped away and all former things be forgotten. Praise the name of the Lord. His foot shall touch Mt. Olivet it shall cleave into here his beloved who have returned with him, the holy dead, and living will be gathered together and with the fighting forces of the different nations at war at Armageddon. Christ the Redeemer will make an end of war. He will tread the wine press alone. This great decisive battle, one between the forces of good and evil, There will be Peace.

Babylon fall. Read Rev. 19:11 thru 16.

Out of the mouth of Christ who is called Faithful and True, goeth a sharp sword that with it he should smite the nations. He treadeth the wine press of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God. A name written King of Kings and Lord of Lords is on his vesture.

The blessed and holy can then say, this is our God we have waited for him.

Remember dear friends at his return the mercy door closes. Please read St. Matt. 25: from verse one through 13. What a sad time for all who are not ready. Another scripture St. Luke 13:25.

When once the Master of the house is risen up and hath shut the door. And ye begin to stand without and to knock at the door saying, Lord Lord open unto us, and he shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are. Verse 28. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth when ye shall see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God and you yourself thrust out.

This scripture should put God by sorrow for sin in the life of every body that would work repentance.

Dear Lord I seek the better way
It leads me to an endless day
Then I'm clothed with immortality
And see thee face to face.

Dear Lord I'm glad for a hope today
As I journey here along life's way

Help me to ever watch and pray
Until I see thy face.

Dear Lord a change by faith I see
Burdens laid down tears wiped away
In thy blest image I shall be
When I shall see they face.

The One who saved me by his grace
Redeeming from a sinful race
Thy words of comfort I'll embrace
Until I see thy face.

May we all be worthy of this great change in my sincere prayer.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

The Spearman Lynx will rest this Friday, but the Gruver Greyhounds will journey to Texhoma, Oklahoma, for a varsity football game. Also, Panhandle A&M College at Goodwell will be having homecoming festivities all week, and their football game will be at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Spearman 7th and 8th grade teams will play at Phillips at 5 p.m. Thursday. The 9th grade will play here at 5 p.m., Thursday, in a real thriller against arch rival Phillips. The B team will also entertain the Phillips Black-hawks at 10 a.m., Saturday morning, Lynx stadium. The B games on Saturday morning have been real good games and fans are invited out to watch the hustling B boys this Saturday morning.

Remember the varsity will rest this week, and then open their conference game against Panhandle here next week.

A member of possibly the greatest conference football team in the school's history stated this week that he expects the Lynx to win district this year. This great team we are talking about was the team of 1951, which won the championship over Happy, at Happy on Thanksgiving day, 14-0. Team members included Sonny Nollner, Buck Tucker, Don Floyd, Dacus boys, John Patterson, Larry Reed, Frank Buzzard, Leon Moorehead and Lester Munday. This was truly a great team, and several of the members have talked with me this week and wanted me to tell this year's team that they were proud of them and their coach, and wish them the best of luck when district play rolls around this next Friday.

LITTLE LEAGUE PARK IN NEED OF REPAIRS

October 2, 1973

To: Interested Persons:

The Little League Park is in bad need of some repairs before winter. The Jaycees have agreed to help us in an all-out campaign to get the park in good condition to begin the Spring season. We are appealing to you to help us. As you know, this is a very good program for our Youth and we need you, whether it is for one hour or several hours.

The Little League Ladies Auxilliary will pay for the necessary expenses of the repairs, but what we need is "Manpower". Saturday, October 13th, has been set aside to work on the Little League Park. The Concession Stand will be opened and free sandwiches, coffee and hot chocolate, furnished by the Baker & Taylor Women's Association will be served to anyone who is willing to come and help us.

To give you an idea of what tools you might bring with you, the following is what we would like to accomplish.

1. Recover the announcer's stand mounted on the bleachers. (Bring hammers and saws--wood will be furnished).

2. Repair and repaint radio announcer's booth. (Bring paint brushes--paint will be furnished).

3. Repair fences. (Pliers)

4. Repair Bleachers.

5. Cut weeds around park. (Hoes and rakes--we have someone lined up to mow).

We hope you are willing to give an hour or so of your time to this worthwhile organization.

Sincerely,
Charlene Bulls, President

Educating people in their communities on the current energy shortage is the primary role of the 130,000 4-H'ers enrolled in the national 4-H electric program. This 4-H'er is doing just that by passing out literature and talking to people at a 4-H electric exhibit in his community. Sponsored by Westinghouse Electric Corporation and supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, young people in the program are learning how to better utilize electric energy and resources.

These young people are the best 4-H has to offer. They're part of the 4-H Report-to-the-Nation Team, a group of top 4-H members selected by the Cooperative Extension Service. Here, they are talking with 4-H leaders during 4-H Congress. During the year the 4-H'ers travel around the country representing 4-H to others and showing them what 4-H can produce. Encouraging 4-H'ers "to make the best better" through achievement and leadership programs are: The Conrad Hilton Hotel, sponsor of the 4-H Report-to-the-Nation program; the Ford Motor Company Fund, which encourages young people in the 4-H achievement program; and Reader's Digest, a new 4-H donor in 1973, helps develop leadership abilities among 4-H'ers through the 4-H leadership program.

This newspaper wishes to thank Mr. C. D. Riggins, and all of the employees at Community Public Service for their sincere efforts in restoring power to our city Saturday night, after an airplane cut three lines of power supply to Spearman.

This 4-H'er checks the automatic feeder in a large bird laying house as part of his work in the 4-H poultry program. Young people in the Cooperative Extension Service supported program learn various aspects of poultry raising-growing, keeping their birds healthy and improving marketing techniques. And encouraging these young poultry producers is Kentucky Fried Chicken, donor of awards in the program, for the first time in 1973.

Getting a close-up view of a dragonfly is part of these 4-H'ers activities in the 4-H entomology program. Sponsored by Hercules Incorporated, young people in the program, supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, study insects and their behavior. They also learn how insects can be controlled and used to man's benefit. And Hercules aids these 4-H entomologists with incentives and recognition awards in the program.

CHESS TIME

Will Mecking meet Fischer?

By JOSEPH MILL BROWN
Copley News Service

Now that the interzonal tournament at Petropolis, Brazil, has been won by that country's 21-year-old prodigy, Henrique Mecking, there may soon be an increase in suicides among chess promoters.

If the South American boy wonder wins the Candidates Matches, next year, he will be Bobby Fischer's challenger. What the public will get are two Fischers for the price of one. The fallout would make a French nuclear scientist turn green with envy.

At the Church's Fried Chicken Tournament, in San Antonio, Tex., Mecking's play was mediocre, but his off-the-board performance was Academy Award stuff. Later, there were reports from Brazil that Mecking complained of being cheated, which raised eyebrows on some high-foreheads a good half-dozen inches.

Some remembered Mecking's practice of moving his pieces with one hand while punching the clock with the other — a fine device to drive nuts any tournament director trying to figure if the time limit has expired. No known grandmaster employs the gimmick, although the International Chess Federation has no specific rule against it.

Mecking was democratic with his complaints; they accused almost everyone of doing almost everything. Even the tournament director, Harry Golembek, was verbally chastised for causing the floor boards to creak as he walked by.

world champion who became a grandmaster the year Mecking was born, was a prime target. Petrosian was accused of slurping his coffee, shuffling his feet, humming, whistling and singing, and rolling nickles all around the table.

When Mecking demanded that Tigran's agitated legs be tied to the table because they were wrecking his concentration, the former champ, who is partially deaf, inflicted the cruelest cut of all: he turned off his hearing aid. This so infuriated Mecking, he gave the table a vicious kick (it had probably missed Petrosian), which galvanized the placid Armenian into a few protests of his own.

Henrique Mecking learned chess at the age of 4 and was champion of Brazil at 13. His favorite training for chess is an hour of karate lessons a day "to balance the mental strain."

"Even when I am dealing karate blows, I feel like smashing my opponent at the chessboard. It is great exercise," he explained. In chess-happy South America, looking for an idol to replace the soccer god, Pele, a Latin Bobby Fischer could possibly get himself elected vice president. At the Petropolis tournament, the playing hall was adjacent to a construction site full of the usual abrasive noises. Mecking reportedly went to the police with his complaint.

"Senor Mecking says you are disturbing him," the cops told the construction workers. "Stop working!" And they did.

One report has it that, if Brazil wins a match between

CALL ME MS. Of equal pay for equal work

By AUDREY GELLIS
Copley News Service

Feminist demands for equal pay for equal work have been viewed with alarm in some corporate circles which fear that its application will mean the demise of the family.

Lawdon Masters, president of the NCP Manufacturing Co., was outraged recently by a memo from his publicity director, Miss Handout, a single woman of 35 earning $12,500. She had requested a raise to $15,000 pointing out that her predecessor, a man, earned $25,000.

Flabbergasted, Mr. Masters summoned his personnel chief. "Does this woman realize that the man she replaced has a wife and three children? Has she no respect for the institution of marriage?"

"I'll speak to her about the situation," the personnel head replied humbly.

"Thank goodness, Miss Jamison, there are still truly feminine women like you around. Your 30 years of service with MCP will not go unnoticed."

"Thank you, sir," Miss Jamison replied, pouring Mr. Master's coffee.

"I am issuing an employee directive," Mr. Masters continued, "regarding MCP personnel policy, making it clear that while we take pride in being an equal opportunity employer, MCP also recognizes that men are the breadwinners in our society. A woman working for personal fulfillment simply can't expect the same pay as the head of a household."

"Make that about 10 pages, Miss Jamison. Just polish up what I said and put it in your own words."

A week later, Miss Jamison's neatly typed report was in her boss's "in" box. Five minutes later, she was in his office.

"Are you drunk, Miss Jamison? What is the meaning of the recommendation that my salary be cut in half. As president of MCP, I earn every cent of my $100,000," Masters said.

"It's like this, Mr. Masters," Miss Jamison crossed her legs and kicked off one sensible oxford. "I checked with Mrs. Masters and you certainly do take good care of her and the children. But all those girls she told me you take care of aren't part of your family, so you don't need all that bread."

While Masters was struggling for breath, Hughbert Hutchener, MCP's star salesman barged in.

"Jamie, old girl, there you are. Will you please explain to the cashier that the cut in my paycheck is a mistake?" Hutchener asked.

"It's no mistake, Hughbie, ol boy. It's Masters' orders. He wants salaries based on family responsibilities and you're a bachelor," Miss Jamison said.

"But I've got responsibilities. The payments on my stereo and my sports car ... my nightclub bills ...," Hutchener said.

"When there's a Mrs. Hutchener, Hugh, the cut will be restored," Miss Jamison said.

"However, since MCP is now concerned with family breadwinners, I've doubled the salary of our charwoman, Mrs. Struggle. You know, the widow who's raising four children on $4,200 a year."

"Also in line with this policy, every widowed, divorced or single mother will get a dependent's allotment added to her pay check. And, oh yes, I've made arrangements for child care center on MCP premises so working mothers won't have to leave their children with neighbors."

"You'll never get away with this, Miss Jamison. You're fired," Masters screamed.

"You've got five minutes to clean out your desk."

"I'm afraid you can't do that," Miss Jamison said. "You see, the female employees of MCP held a mass meeting and unless my recommendations are accepted we're all going out on strike. Of course, if you think MCP can manage without its secretaries, clerks, bookkeeper, telephone operators, assistants ..."

"Miss Jamison, be reasonable," Masters pleaded. "Look, I'll give you a two percent increase. Raise your salary $13,000."

"That's very good of you, Masters, but as vice president in charge of personnel, I'll be making $30,000."

"Miss Jamison, you're a 50-year-old spinster. What are you doing with all that money?"

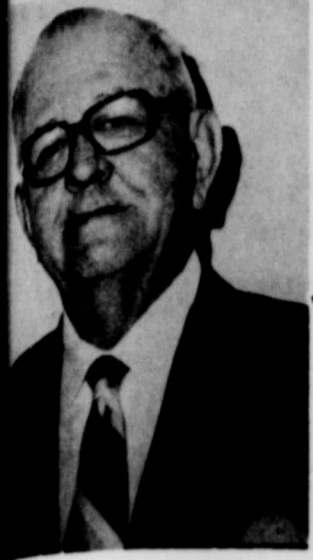

"It's Ms. Jamison now, the vice president said, standing in the doorway. "And I'm getting myself a plush pad, yacht and a boy friend ... that order."

"See you on the company plane," Ms. Jamison slammed the door behind her.

Judge Boyer was the first president of the Northeast Panhandle Bar Association. Prior to his appointment to his judicial post, he was Chairman of the State Bar Grievance Committee of the Judicial Section of the Texas State Bar.

In his letter of recognition Boyer said "I have been very reluctant to tender my resignation, as my sixteen years of service on the bench has been very enjoyable and interesting; however, I shall be subject to assignment and have been assigned by a number of the judges in Texas that they expect to ask for me to be assigned to cases in their respective districts. Chief Justice Greenhill has advised me to request authority for such assignment and that same will be granted upon request as required by law."

warmer than their native one often bear poorly because of insufficient cold. Before planting a fruit tree, check its adaptation to your area.

Late winter frosts will kill open fruit blossoms, as experienced across the state this past spring. If temperatures are predicted to drop below 28 degrees after blossoms are open, trees should be covered or some type of artificial heat should be provided.

Another frequent problem is pollination. Some fruits such as apples, pears and plums require cross-pollination to insure fruitfulness. Therefore, two or more varieties of each fruit type should always be planted together. These fruit types are described as "self-fruitful". On the other hand, all peach varieties recommended for Texas are self-fruitful, and trees of a single variety may be planted.

Occasionally, fruit trees will bear heavily one year and sparsely the next, which is known as biennial bearing.

Most trees set more fruit than can be maintained, putting stress on the trees to mature such a large number of fruit. Thinning the fruit annually and especially in heavy years will relieve some of the stress and helpfully keep the tree from falling into a biennial bearing pattern. After thinning, the fruit should be larger and tastier.

Guy Lombardo In Borger Concert

One of America's favorite band leaders will be presented in concert by the Tri-City Community Concert Association in an evening of entertainment at 8 p. m. Monday, October 15 at the Borger High School auditorium. Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians have kept the world's feet dancing and toes tapping to "The Sweetest Music This Side of Heaven" for more than four decades.

He offers a pleasant, easy-going evening of music with melodies of the past intermingled with those of the present. His ability to discover songs destined to become hits is one reason for his continued popularity. Having been credited with introducing more than 600 songs which subsequently became favorites, he continues to be one of the best loved band leaders of today.

Local members of the Tri-City Community Concert Association are urged to make every effort to enjoy this rare treat being offered at this time. Attendance to this concert will be by membership only.

FARM & RANCH NEWS

County Agricultural Agent

Never before have soil tests been as important to Texas farmers as they are today.

With limited supplies of nitrogen and phosphorus, nutrients must be applied where they are needed to maintain production and profits.

This is especially true for phosphorus, which accumulates in the soil and can be found in a wide range of levels.

A reliable soil test is the best place to start, and fall is the best time to collect samples. Early sampling gives time to make plans and place fertilizer orders early.

To provide a valid guide for fertilization, soil samples must be collected carefully. A slice or core of soil should be taken from 5 to 10 spots in each field to get a good sample. For field crops, the slices or cores should be taken to plow depth.

Put the soil in a clean plastic bucket, mix it thoroughly and remove a pint box full to send to the laboratory. Information sheets should accompany each sample to show past history and plans for the next crop. These plus mailing cartons for the soil samples are available at the county Extension office in the Courthouse basement.

Act now to insure that your fertilization programs are based on a soil test.

Many homeowners may be wondering why their fruit trees failed to bear this year. The failure can be the result of several different factors.

The first step in fruit production is to keep the tree healthy by proper watering, fertilization, pruning and insect and disease control. A soil test can determine the proper nutrient requirements for a particular species of fruit in that soil. All purpose fruit sprays can prevent foliage and fruit damage from insects and diseases.

Most hardy fruit trees need a certain amount of cold weather to break their winter rest period and to promote spring growth, when winters are too mild, spring is delayed, irregular and slow as occurred in 1971 and 1972. Trees grown in climates
