Old Scottish Words.

A correspondent of the Glasgow Herald submits the following samples of old Scotch words from East Ayrshire: "Mowae"—To say anything is nae mowae means it is uncanny or dangerous. "Connached."—Spotted; clean connached would mean utterly destroyed or rendered useless. "Blaud."—To blaud anything would mean to coil it. A child would be joid. "Dinna blaud your cleas pina." "Gardies" or "Gardies."—A child's forearm. The last is a very old expression, but I have heard it used. "St bonnie gardies he has," means the baby has plump arms.

Arkansawers' Reunion, Bronte Tex., May 14th.

This year's gathering is the fifth annual of natives of Arkansas, those who have resided in that state in the past, their descendants and people, generally of West Texas, who desire to attend.

From the first year this annual gathering of the natives of Arkansas has been remarkable both in attendance and in the high class programs that have been rendered. Dr. J. D. Sandifer, of Ardmore, president of Hardin-Simmons University, is president of the Arkansawers' organization and Rev. D. M. West for many years editor of the Bronte Enterprise, but who lectured in Ballinger in the early part of the year, is secretary and manager of the organizations' annual gatherings.

First a program, in the opinion of Mr. West and the members of the program committee that will if possible, excel any program yet rendered. Dr. A. D. Porter, pastor of the Central Methodist church of Ft. Worth, who is a native Arkansan, is the memorial preacher for this year. The fact that Dr. Porter is the memorial preacher for this year's home-coming of the Arkansawers, Mr. West states, bring literally hundreds and hundreds from all over West Texas, "Dr. Porter presiding elder of the Brownwood district of the Methodist church for several years and hence not only is known as one of the most capable and pleasing pulpit speakers of Southern Methodism, and as a platform speaker with but few equals, but his genial spirit and pleasing personality has drawn people all over West Texas, to him and they will turn aside for the 4th Sunday in May and come in great numbers to hear this distinguished minister and great Christian gentleman deliver the memorial sermon. Dr. Porter writes:

"I have had in mind for a whole year, the contemplated trip to the Arkansas Home Coming Day at Bronte. It is still my full intention to be present on May 24, if not providentially hindered. I look forward to the occasion with great anticipation."

Due to the fact that the Hardin-Simmons Cowboy Band has been retained as official Texas Centennial band for May and on into June, it was feared they would not be able to present this year. But that has been adjusted and the cowboys with their Centennial spirit will be present to give two sacred concerts. This, of course, will bring the people for hundreds of miles.

That the management of the reunion are doing their best as far as physical arrangements for the day are concerned, already loud speaker arrangements have been provided for the day. Sears, Roebuck & Company of San Angelo provided the loud speaker arrangements last year and everybody was high in their praise of the perfect service the loud speakers provided—making it possible for one to sit hundreds of yards away from the large platform and get the program with perfect ease. Sears Roebuck have asked for privilege of supplying loud speaker facilities again this year. Mr. P. R. Nichols, manager at San Angelo, said: "Just say how many loud speakers it requires and we will supply them, I gladly for the occasion, which seems to be one of the outstanding gatherings of all the West."—Bronte Enterprise.

On Texas Farms.

Texas farmers and ranchmen are now engaged making out worksheets and planning their 1936 cropping under the new Soil Conservation program. You stretch your imagination as to what kind of conversations are going on around the farm home tables of Texas. Don't you think they are something like this?

"Papa" the mother of the family is saying, "don't forget when you make out that sheet on the cropping plan for 1936 that the Extension Service says we will need 20 bushels of corn per pig to feed the chickens and pigs and other critters we use for food—I mean 20 bushels allowed for every person in this family that has to be fed. Now don't you forget that, you have to figure out how many acres it will take to give us that."

"And we need an acre of garden for the whole family too. We never have had an acre of garden, but we should have. And you know we never have had enough potatoes, and peas and beans to last all winter either. This year we can raise them and learn how to store them, and they will be abig help to us. Besides that, I want some herbs like my grandmother used to have. They have to have a place that doesn't get plowed up every year, and if we have an acre of garden so we can have a place in there. And we can have an asparagus bed, too, that does not get plowed up. And we need 70 bushels of corn for every critter we have."

"Ma," the head of the family may say, "You know we never have fed old Beck any 70 bushels of corn in a year. What is the use of putting it down now? Might get some money from the government for the land if we don't plant it in corn."

Back Home Again!

IT'S a happy day at the Russells. Tom's had the telephone put back in. Mrs. Russell "visits" and "shops" by phone... Sally and Jimmie talk with their chums... the whole family seems more cheerful.

For only a few cents a day you can enjoy a telephone. Ask about one today.

State Pension Director Answers Questions.

Austin, May 20.—This is the first of a series of questions that the people of Texas are asking. Orville S. Carpenter, State Pension Director, answers them frankly and to the point:

Q—Why cannot assistance be paid to every person in Texas who is 65 years of age or older?

A—First, because the Texas law says that assistance may be paid only to those "in need;" second, because the Federal government will not allow us to pay Federal money to people who are not in need.

Q—Will not Federal money mean a lot to Texas?

A—Yes. It will mean that several millions of dollars each year will be given to the aged people of Texas that they would otherwise get; it will mean that with it a person will be able to receive as much as $30 a month, and without it no one could get more than $15 per month.

Q—What does the Federal law say about "need"?

A—It says that the Federal appropriation is made for the purpose of enabling states to assist "aged needy individuals." (Sec. 1.)

Q—Was this "aged needy individuals" question checked?

A—The Social Security Board stated that this was the correct interpretation of the law.

Q—How does the Texas definition of "needy" compare with that of other states?

A—Texas has the most liberal definition of "aged needy individuals" in the United States. The Texas law is much more liberal on this point than that of any other State in the Union.

Exception to the Rule.

"I have an awfully hard time catching people's names when I'm introduced," said one.

"So do I," said the other, "but I found a clever way to get around the awkwardness of asking to have the name repeated. I just ask, 'do you spell your name with an 'e' or an 'i'?' It usually works splendidly."

"I know. I heard about that before. It worked with me, too until I met a girl I wanted to know better. Now she won't even look at me."

"Why is that?"

"Well, when I was introduced to her, I didn't catch her name, so I asked whether she spelled it with an 'e' or an 'i'."

"What was her name?"

"Hill."

Mr. Henry Peck—My dear, really don't believe you can teach that dog to obey you.

Mrs. Peck—Nonsense, darling, Patience will do anything. Just remember how obstinate you were when we were first married.

Well, my little man, remarked the minister, I suppose you always do as your mother tells you?

You bet I do, replied little Billy. Then he added: So does father.

Electricity and Bacteria.

Among interesting papers read before the Royal Society in London recently was one by C. Russ upon the electrical reactions of certain bacteria as applied to the detection of tubercle bacilli in urine by means of an electric current. Another by Prof. H. A. Wilson described his experiments to determine the effect of a magnetic field surrounding it upon the electrical conductivity of a flame.

Wooden Flywheel.

After an accident to the flywheel in a large European electric station the superintendent designed and had constructed a flywheel of wood which has a diameter of 65 feet and a rim width of ten feet. The thickness of the rim is about 12 inches and it is made up of 44 thicknesses of beech planks with staggered joints. The boards were glued together and then bolted. The axle consists of a double wheel, the 24 spokes of which are fastened to two hubs. Spokes and hubs are operated at 75 revolutions a minute, which corresponds to a peripheral speed of the rim of 135 feet a second.

Railroad Service in Holland.

Of the railroad in Holland E. V. Lucas writes: "The trains come in to the minute and go out to the minute. The officials are intelligent and polite. The carriages are good. Every station has its waiting room, where you may sit and read and drink a cup of coffee that is not only hot and fresh, but is recognizably the product of the berry. It is impossible to travel in the wrong train."

Working Girls' Vacations

It is said that 8,784 out of the 100,000 working girls in New York got vacations through the Social Security Act and the National Youth Administration.

No Need to Suffer "Morning Sickness"

"Morning sickness"—is caused by an acid condition. To avoid it, acid must be offset by alkalis—such as magnesia.
Why Physicians Recommend Milkinesa Wafers
 These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—the most pleasant way to take it. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system and insure quick, complete elimination of the waste matters that cause gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts.
 Milkinesa Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Italy Takes Addis Ababa; the Emperor Flees

EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE of Ethiopia gave up the hopeless fight against the Italian invaders and fled from Addis Ababa with his family. Mussolini's victorious troops soon after marched into the capital, the first to enter being a picked regiment representing all units of the Italian army, the Askari, infantry, artillery, air force, engineers, grenadiers, bersaglieri, Alpini, cavalry, marines and Fascist militia-men.

Their coming was welcomed by the foreigners who remained in the city, for as soon as the negus left, the natives began to pillage, plunder and burn. The business center of the town was speedily wrecked and the government buildings were stormed and ravaged, these including the treasury from which the state's store of gold was stolen, and the armory. The streets were strewn with corpses and the Ethiopians, crazed by liquor, rushed about shooting at random and gathering up their loot to carry it to the hills.

Only one foreigner was reported killed. That was Mrs. N. A. Stadin, American wife of an Adventist missionary, who was struck by a stray bullet. Nearly all other foreigners were gathered in the well fortified British legation, but American Minister Cornelius Van H. Egzert with his wife and the male members of the staff remained in the American compound. They were armed only with rifles and pistols and were under orders from Secretary of State Hull not to risk their lives uselessly; but they were determined to hold the legation and radio station as long as possible. This plucky little group was attacked repeatedly by marauders but repulsed all onslaughts. Mr. Egzert was in wireless communication with Washington. The British legation offered to send a detachment of Sikhs to escort the Americans to the British compound, but Mr. Egzert declined to leave his legation at that time. Next day he and his staff evacuated the compound.

Haile Selassie went by train to Djibouti, French Somaliland, and was received with all honors at the governor's palace. He and his family boarded the British cruiser Enterprise and sailed for Palestine.

At first it was rumored the French would hold him for a time, but later advice said the French and British governments had decided that he remained a sovereign and must have full liberty of movement.

So ends the military part of Mussolini's African adventure, a success despite the opposition of the League of Nations and the imposition of economic and financial penalties. The duke announced the victory to his country from the chamber of deputies and there was wild rejoicing throughout Italy. It is taken for granted Mussolini will set up an Amharic state in part of Ethiopia under a puppet emperor; and presumably Italy, France and Great Britain will get together and determine their respective zones of influence in the ancient empire. The humiliated league can do nothing except lift the existing sanctions, which proved futile in halting the war. British Foreign Minister Eden and his fellows in the government must admit as gracefully as possible their failure to check Mussolini and get what they can for Britain out of the African tragedy. France probably is not sorry over the outcome, for her opposition to the duke's ambitious scheme always was half-hearted.

Vandenberg's Name Is to Be Presented

SENATOR ARTHUR H. VANDENBERG of Michigan has asked Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald of that state to present his name to the Republican convention in Cleveland for the Presidential nomination, but the senator insists this does not make him an active candidate.
 "The Michigan state convention generously instructed the Michigan delegation in Cleveland to present my name," the senator said. "But the delegation is unpledged—at my request. It is free to vote as it pleases. I have not sought a delegation here or elsewhere and I shall not do so. I have not sought the nomination and shall not do so. My situation is not changed in the slightest."
 Friends of Senator Borah in Utah tried unsuccessfully for a Borah pledged delegation from that state. The Republican state convention in Ogden voted to send an unpledged group to Cleveland, following the recommendation of the resolutions committee.
 The Arkansas delegation also will be unpledged, though the state convention approved an "expression of good will" toward Gov. Alf Landon.

Senator Vandenberg

Col. Henry Breckenridge, who offered himself to the Democrats as a Presidential nominee aspirant merely so that disaffected members of the party might have some place to go, received about one-seventh of the votes in the Maryland preference primary. The rest, of course, went to Mr. Roosevelt. Colonel Breckenridge had made no campaign.

Radicals Control French Chamber of Deputies

FINAL elections in France put complete control of the chamber of deputies in the hands of the revolutionary "Popular Front," a coalition of Communists, Socialists, Radical Socialists and minor left wing groups. The new chamber does not meet until June, and the confusion is so great that there are fears of chaos and financial panic in the interim. Many believe the Popular Front will be unable to form a stable government to succeed that of Premier Sarraut. The lead must be taken by the Socialists, for they now form the largest group in the chamber with 146 seats. The Radical Socialists have 115, the Communists 72 and minor left parties 44. The National bloc, including center and right parties opposed to the leftists, have 230 seats.

Senator Hastings Will Not Seek Re-election

DANIEL O. HASTINGS, senator from Delaware, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee and outspoken opponent of the New Deal, will not seek re-election when his present term expires. He so announced in a letter to the party leaders of his state, giving as his reason the necessity to devote himself to his law practice. This may have influenced his decision, but it is more than suspected that the real reason was the fact that the du Pont family, all-powerful in Delaware Republican politics, had decided that the senatorial seat should go to Gov. C. Douglas Buck, who is related to the du Ponts by marriage. Senator Hastings has always been ready and eloquent in defense of the du Ponts against attacks by the New Dealers.

Navy Expansion Measure Passed by the House

SINCE international naval disarmament efforts have failed, those who advocate adequate national defense rejoice in the passage by the house of the bill appropriating approximately $331,000,000 to build our navy up to treaty strength. Representative Marcantonio of New York and a few others put up loud opposition, but a record vote was not necessary. The objectors dwelt especially on a clause authorizing the laying of keels for two 35,000 ton battleships after January 1, 1937, should any foreign signatory to the London naval treaty start a battleship replacement program. Two days later they might have read dispatches from London saying rumors had reached there that Japan was considering laying down a 35,000 ton battleship armed with 21-inch guns.
 Appropriations in the bill, along with other available funds, will give the navy a total of $592,237,807 for the next fiscal year, starting July 1.

Business Men Differ With Mr. Roper

DANIEL C. ROOPER, secretary of commerce, appeared before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at its annual meeting in Washington and warned its members, most of whom are persistent critics, of New Deal policies, that unless private enterprise takes up the slack in employment, business must pay the relief bill out of earnings.
 "It is the responsibility of all business and industrial enterprises," said Roper, "and not of one particular segment of the government to increase its efforts for greater employment. If a substantial measure of increased re-employment does not take place the taxation for relief purposes will come largely from business earnings. There must be re-employment or a longer period of increased taxation."
 Roper admitted that the administration had fostered bureaucracy, but insisted that it was occasioned by an emergency, and responsibility for its increase again lay at the door of private business.
 Various members of the chamber replied spiritedly. Roy C. Osgood, vice president of the First National bank of Chicago, predicted that if the administration embarked on a sound fiscal program that would inspire confidence, business would make rapid strides toward recovery. He criticized the pending tax on corporate earnings as impracticable and a brake on business expansion and stability.

Rules of Life

THE longer I live the more I feel the importance of adhering strictly to the rules which I have laid down for myself in such matters:
 1. To hear as little as possible what is to the prejudice of others.
 2. To believe nothing of the kind till I am absolutely forced to it.
 3. Never to drink in the spirit of one who circulates an ill report.
 4. Always to moderate, as far as I can, the unkindness which is expressed towards others.
 5. Always to believe that, if the other side were heard, a very different account would be given of the matter.—Charles Simeon.

End of cord in Gum-Dipped Tire shows a sturdy, fibrous, fiber insulated, tested cotton with liquid rubber.

End of cord from ordinary tire shows unprotected cotton fibers inside cord.

The body of the New Firestone High Speed Tire is made from selected long-staple cotton dipped in liquid rubber, absorbing eight pounds of rubber in every hundred pounds of cotton. This patented Gum-Dipping process insulates every fiber in every cotton cord, preventing internal friction which creates the heat so destructive to tire life, and giving to the tire added strength.

This heavy, broad, traction and non-skid tread is held to the cord body of the tire with Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords, a patented construction, making the cord body and tread an inseparable unit.

A leading university in 2350 tire tests has found that the new, scientifically designed Firestone High Speed tread stops a car up to 25% quicker. Its super-traction and non-skid efficiency have also been proved in the famous Pike's Peak Race where for eight consecutive years it has been used on the winning cars.

Sao Miguel

Wine Barrels Are Carried Under the Carts.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

SAO MIGUEL of the Azores Islands is turning from oranges to pineapples as its chief source of wealth. Excellent oranges are still grown, but since the island lost the British market a few years ago, pineapple culture has occupied agriculturists.

Natives of Sao Miguel hope to develop their island into an "Isle of Pines" which will provide a good part of Europe with practically all its fresh supply of pineapples. An Englishman, a skilled horticulturist, arrived at Sao Miguel more than eighty years ago to lay out the famous Jose do Canto gardens. It was he who brought the first pineapples to his employer's hothouse. Twenty years later the fruit was shipped to England, each pine in its pot selling for two guineas. England and Germany are now the chief consumers of Azorian pines, France and continental Portugal following.

The plant, which is here of the smooth-leaved Cayenne variety, is grown under glass, special beds of fermenting heath or some other mountain shrub being provided. All the plants are brought to blossom at the same time by a process of smoking, the value of which was accidentally discovered many years ago when a carpenter, working in one of the pineapple houses, chanced to set fire to a pile of shavings. To the surprise of the grower, the plants, instead of being spoiled, burst into flower. By this method practically all the plants in a hothouse can be marketed at the same time, many months earlier than formerly.

Little glass houses shimmer on emerald slopes in various sections of Sao Miguel, the exclusive producer of pineapples in this archipelago. Wrapped in cellophane or packed in excelsior and crated, the fruit is shipped to the European market by a fleet of three vessels owned by the growers. In 1934 about 2,000,000 pines, worth half a million dollars, were exported.

Tea, Too, is Grown There.
 Another exotic industry on this island is the production of black and green tea, which here retains its original name, "cha." Ever since they discovered the sea route to India and planted their settlements as far afield as Macao (Macao), on the coast of China, the Portuguese have been a tea-drinking nation.

There is an old belief that tea is better if it has not crossed the sea. Whether this is true or not, Azorian tea tastes to some much like the far eastern variety on its native soil. It is consumed locally and shipped to other parts of Portugal.

A number of Chinese were originally imported as instructors in the tea culture, but now only native labor, chiefly female, is employed. The plantations dot the hillsides on the northern side of the island, which has greater moisture than the south coast. The stiff little evergreen shrubs stand in precise rows, very foreign in appearance, contrasting strangely with the familiar European flora about them.

A motor road parallels the coast of Sao Miguel, with connecting cross-roads, enabling the traveler to see much of beauty and interest, even in one day ashore, including trips to the two largest volcano craters.

On the country roads are slow-swinging bullock carts, with woven-willow bodies filled with heath for the pineapple houses. Some are of archaic pattern, with solid wheels of the Roman type, their approach heralded by a complaining, creaking "song."

Sao Miguel has a deliciously green and restful countryside. Checkerboard fields, brown and green, alternate with woods filled with songbirds. These islands, like those of the Madeira and Canary groups, are the habitat of the wild canary of greenish-gray hue. Its glad note is one of the pleasantest features of the Azores, where it seems to be more generous and more vocal than on the islands farther south.

Near every stone cottage stands a corn rick where brownish maize in the husk is hung to dry. It forms the staple cereal crop of the islands. Fava beans (broad beans) and yams are grown and are leading articles of export.

In the Crater of a Volcano.

Skirting pine-clad cliffs, a road climbs to a misty, heather-clad tableland; then descends into Furnas valley, shut in by towering green walls. Were it not for the puffs of steam ascending from its many boiling sulphur springs, it would be difficult to believe that this peaceful vale is the crater of a mighty volcano which more than once poured out its molten lava and which still speaks through vents in the hot sulphur-stained crust around the springs.

It is a beautiful picture from the heights, this quiet, sheltered valley with its long, narrow village meandering like a stream through woods and meadows. The lake, on a raised platform of the crater, lies some distance from the settlement, which is a favorite summer resort.

Prescott, the famed historian, came to Furnas as a young man to visit at the summer home of his grandfather, first American consular officer in Sao Miguel, who was appointed in 1795 by President Washington.

Furnas has a thermal establishment, where sulphur and iron baths are available. Near by fountains supply various kinds of mineral water, the place being noted for the diversity of its waters and the proximity of hot and cold springs.

One deep, cavelike cauldron, belching forth boiling mud and steam, is called "The Mouth of Hell." Its evil appearance and the strong smell of sulphur give the impression that this is really an entrance to the abode of His Satanic Majesty.

Stately manorial houses, erected centuries ago, are to be seen throughout Sao Miguel, usually set on the heights. One such house, built in 1724, is a delightfully romantic old place. The big stone-paved kitchen has a chimney-piece which is a room in itself. Standing in it, beside the huge brick hearth, one can look up the wide chimney, which towers above the house, to a patch of blue sky. Such chimneys are a distinctive feature of Azorian houses.

Life of the Inhabitants.

The upper class of Ponta Delgada leads a pleasant life, quiet as compared with the stress of American cities. There is a social club where dancing is a favorite pastime; a coliseum seating 2,000; a sports field for football, tennis, croquet, and handball; a baseball park; and an open-air sea pool built in the rocks by the shore.

There are motion pictures twice a week, chiefly from Hollywood. American influence is apparent in the English spoken throughout the Azores. There seems to be a genuine liking for the United States. The Stars and Stripes are in evidence at every festival. During the World War, Ponta Delgada was an American naval base.

Economically self-contained, the Micelenseses are no less independent when it comes to their social pleasures. In their amateur shows the scenery is apt to be painted locally, the costumes made in the homes of the young men and women who participate. In their singing, dancing, and acting these young people exhibit amazing talent and poise.

The young folks mingle in crowds, but there is here no such free and easy companionship among them as exists in the United States. The chaperon is still in vogue and "balcony courtship" is carried on with its own prescribed etiquette, the girl leaning over the second-story balcony to talk with her admirer on the street below.

The finest sight on the island is the crater of Sete Cidades (Seven Cities). The view from the rim is magnificent. The cup-shaped crater is nearly ten miles in circumference and holds, besides a lake with a hamlet on its shore, pastures and cultivated fields and three volcanic cones due to subsequent eruptions.

Owing to varying depths and deposits, the lake, shaped like the figure 8, and sometimes spoken of as two lakes, is vividly green at one end, brilliantly blue at the other.

The Lindberghs, on their aerial odyssey from Greenland's icy mountains to the steaming jungles of the Amazon, swooped down over this secluded lake.

There are many among the poor of the Azores who have suffered since money orders have ceased to arrive from Manoel or Antonio, who formerly prospered in Providence or New Bedford. The Azorian assets are a stout heart, a willing hand, a productive soil, and a climate which, though damp and rainy six months of the year, is without extremes of temperature. Wages are low, but food is cheap. The main diet of the peasant consists of soup of cabbages, beans and potatoes, white cornbread, and fish. Pork and beef are only for special occasions, such as religious holidays. In the Ponta Delgada market 60 small fish sell for two and a half cents; a pound of green peas for less than two cents. A fresh live lobster, which is only for the well-to-do, costs 25 cents.

Find Roman Ruins in Bavaria

A Roman temple, the third of its type, has been unearthed near Regensburg, in southern Bavaria. Coins found when a wall was excavated in an orchard at Ziegelsdorf, in this neighborhood, proved to hail from the Second and Third century after Christ, and inscriptions were discovered establishing beyond doubt that the wall had formed part of a temple dedicated to the god Mercury.
