"LEAVE US OUR TREES"

(This verse was written by a local citizen upon learning that a proposition had been seriously considered by the City Council to chop out the trees in the business portion of Pecos, in order that the proposed lighting system might be the more conveniently installed. Happily, the Council yesterday afternoon voted down the proposition.)

Leave us our trees!—Their saving grace Screens all the nakedness of the place; Softens the glare; delights the eye; Freshens the hurrying passer-by, And names this "Home!" Let all their bloom-crowned crests still smile On every street of Pecos, while Our visitors pay tribute meet To feathery leaf and blossom sweet, Whene'er they come.

We would but voice the protest keen Of those who love the cool, soft green— The fuzzy fringe of these, our trees, That lend sweet breath to every breeze. And shade us here. We would protest for those whose hands Have placed them there, where each one stands. A sentinel to civic pride, A boon our love has ever tried To make more dear!

We live most in the garish day, And need our trees most in the ray That beats at noon on pavement hot— Sure, Councilmen, have you forgot The naked street That was, before they grew to break The radiant heat, and served to make This more like God's Own Country here? Change not our trees for space so drear— We but entreat!

MRS. W. J. WOODS.

Mrs. W. J. Woods, our good neighbor and true Christian Mother in Israel, was born 65 years ago in Giles County, Virginia. She was translated to her heavenly home on Monday afternoon, May 25. Her funeral services were conducted from the home of her youngest daughter, Mrs. Willie Rannels, Tuesday, May 26, at 4 p. m. The service was a beautiful affair. Tributes from the many individuals she had served and loved and from the church she had loved and labored for these 50 years and more. The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, J. F. Hedgpeth, assisted by Homer Maceo, pastor of the Christian church, and J. B. Cole of the Baptist church. She had been a faithful and consistent member of the Methodist church for over 50 years. She was laid to rest in our Greenwood cemetery, while the voices of friends sang of the "Beautiful Home Over There."

TOYAHVALE TALK.

Toyahvale is still blessed with good rains. Miss Ruby Boyd is visiting at Toyahvale this week. The people around Toyahvale are very busy with their bees and they are also busy doctoring their stings. A few of the people around here visited Mr. Boyd and family. They consisted of Mr. B. Brock and family and Miss Lanora Williams. They all report having had a delightful time until they went to rob some bees near the house, with the result of getting about ten pounds of honey and seven of them getting in a battle with the bees and they were whipped so badly they had to go to the house and dress their wounds.

James Harper is selling out his dry goods here and is going to his home at Roswell, N. M. Miss Maggie Williams visited her friend Miss Ella Mae Weinacht the first of the week. If you want to see a beautiful country—come to Toyahvale.

Glenn Stancliff of Saragosa visited among his many little friends in Pecos Sunday.

ALFALFA GROWERS ORGANIZE

Yesterday afternoon, at the Pecos Commercial Club, the Pecos Alfalfa Growers were organized, with F. W. Johnson as president, R. N. Couch, vice president, and H. B. Link, secretary-treasurer. The directors are F. W. Johnson, R. N. Couch, J. B. Sullivan, John Lopoo, and Pink Bowie, all of Pecos; and Thomas G. Ashe of Hoban, and Floyd Goodrich of Porterville.

The Pecos Alfalfa Growers is a local association, and will affiliate at once with the Southwestern Federation of Alfalfa Growers and Shippers. The local organization will probably handle a little more than five hundred cars this season. An assessment of 50 cents a ton will be charged for all hay handled, to defray expenses of marketing.

Howard Russell, who is secretary of the Toyah Valley Co-operative Society, and president of the federation, came in yesterday afternoon, reaching the Commercial Club room just as the organization was being effected. Mr. Russell pointed out to those present some of the big advantages to be gained from such an organization, and told of the work being done, as well as that contemplated by the federation.

Practical unanimity prevailed throughout the meeting, and the need of the organization was brought out by every man present. Almost all of those present had had personal experience in the shipping of their own hay, and the hay of other men, and they agreed that organization was the only way to combat the evils and the impositions to which the shipper is subjected. The constitution and by-laws of the organization will be printed at an early date. A membership fee of a dollar each will probably be charged. Those who desire membership should communicate with the secretary at once.

HEAVY RAIN AND HAIL; LIGHTNINGHITS HOUSE

(From Wednesday's Daily) A heavy rain and hail storm, accompanied by thunder and lightning, passed over Pecos yesterday evening.

The hail was very heavy, some of the hailstones measuring over an inch in diameter and it destroyed some of the gardens. Mr. Brisco said that it totally destroyed his vegetables, and that he would have to plant over again.

Lightning struck P. C. Sideman's house and shattered an one corner of the building, but failed to hurt any of the family. Mrs. Sideman was standing at the window holding one of the children in her arms. She was not shocked, but it deafened her so that she could not hear for some time. Mr. Sideman had a wire fastened to the corner of the house and stretched out to hang clothing on and the lightning must have been conducted by this wire for Mrs. Sideman could see the lightning playing on this wire. It was a very fortunate thing that none of the family were in that room at the time the lightning struck the corner of the house, for it shattered it, tearing it up.

FAMILY REUNION.

Mrs. J. B. Cole's three brothers and one sister, together with members of their families, will meet in a reunion at the home of Rev. J. B. Cole and wife June 16.

It is a custom of this family to meet once a year at one of their homes and spend a few days together in happy conversation and fellowship. Mrs. Cole and all her family are looking forward to the meeting with much pleasure.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS COURT IN SESSION TODAY

(From Thursday's Daily) The County Commissioners Court convened this morning at the court house, with Judge H. N. McKellar presiding. The Commissioners court will be convened as a board of equalization for the purpose of receiving from the county assessor of taxes of Reeves county all the books and reports of his work for this year.

Mrs. Mabel H. Kirk has been appointed psychologist of the Essex County, N. J., courts.

THEY DECLARE HIM TO BE A MARTYR

FAMILY AND FRIENDS OF BOY WHO PAID EXTREME PENALTY OF THE LAW HAVE UNUSUAL SERVICE.

HERE IS THE VICTIM!

VICTIM of the corrupted "Historical Justice," the 11th of this month at noon, was assassinated at Pecos, the youth Leon Cardenas Martinez Jr. at the early age of 18 years, 11 months, one day.

His parents, brothers and friends, who labored in favor of Leon, invites you and family to be present at the Funeral Oration in honor of the

which will take place at Undertaker's establishment of this city, Franklin St. No. 420 to-day at 8 p. m.

Waco, Tex., 4-16 de Mayo de 1914.

Note: At the Oration the funeral of Leon, Jr. for the destination of the body.

L. Medina, Printer, 112 Bridge St. Waco.

(Courtesy Waco Tribune) Photographic reproduction of the invitation sent out to funeral service. The globe in the upper left corner was in blue and the word "Solidaridad" and the heavy oblique line were in red.

With the flag of the ruling republic of the world, the Stars and Stripes, the flag of a sovereign state, the Lone Star of Texas, and the flag of a strife-torn republic now ruled by a dictator, the red, white and green of Mexico, have the body of Leon Cardenas Martinez Jr. lay in state in the mortuary chapel of the John Fall Undertaking company last Saturday night while fellow countrymen gathered about to pay tribute to the lad as a martyr and as a victim of an unfair court.

The claim of the family is that the lad was but 18 years of age at the time he was executed for the murder of Miss Brown, which occurred in Reeves county in July, 1911. Too much morbid sentiment has taken the place of real news in the type columns of the newspapers on the case. Martinez was charged with the killing of the young woman in a brutal manner; he was tried and convicted; for fully two years his case was considered by the higher courts; the verdict of the jury was affirmed; appeal was made to the governor for clemency, and the record was examined carefully, and then resort was had to the federal court, the gracious writ of habeas corpus being invoked, but Federal Judge Maxey declined to interfere with the verdict of the jury; appeal was made to the state department at Washington in an effort to make it an international question, but to no avail, and Martinez was hanged May 11, 1914.

Then followed the most remarkable funeral services ever held in Texas. The body was brought to Waco and for two days it lay in the mortuary chapel of the John Fall Undertaking company. Undertaker Will Moore estimates that during that time 7,000 people passed in and out to review the remains. Among these were men, women and children, white, black and Mexicans. They looked upon the face of the boy who had paid the extreme penalty, and walked out, the morbid curiosity having been satisfied. Martinez was not a bad looking young fellow. He was pure in breed, and his countenance was that of the highest type of humanity. The unmistakable marks of the hangman's noose were present, the drawn condition of the throat, the displaced bones of the jaws, which cannot be rectified, indicated that he had stretched the rope's end of the law.

Saturday invitations printed in English and in Spanish were sent through the mail and by messengers to many people in this city and in the country surrounding it. These bore the picture of the boy, above which were the words "Here is the Victim," and beneath the picture was the following:

"Victim of the corrupted 'Historical Justice,' the 11th of this month at noon, was assassinated at Pecos, the youth Leon Cardenas Martinez Jr. at the early age of 18 years, 11 months, 1 day. His parents, brothers, and friends, who labored in favor of Leon, invites you and your family to be present at the funeral oration in honor of the martyr, which will take place at the undertaker's establishment of this city, 420 Franklin street, today at 8 p. m. 'Waco, Texas, May 16, 1914. LEON CARDENAS MARTINEZ. Isidra de Cardenas Martinez.'"

FERNANDO SUBIA WILL NOT HANG

(From Thursday's Daily) Tom Harrison, the sheriff, received a telegram from Governor O. B. Colquitt last night that he had commuted Fernando Subia's punishment from hanging to life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

This is a case where there was no mitigating circumstances. It was a case of absolute murder in the first degree. T. Y. Moorhead was murdered just because he was a good man and a good officer and never failed to enforce the law whenever violated. Fernando Subia, the self-confessed murderer, doesn't claim to be justified—only that he was under the influence of whiskey.

"Let no one say he ought to die. It matters not what you are, you are our neighbors. Let it be taught in the schools that you are our neighbors." Mrs. Spurgeon then rambled on in disconnected sentences, repeating over and over again that we should have "co-operation" of all classes and all people, and expressed the hope that there could be a meeting place where the white woman with her child, the black woman with her child, and the Mexican woman with her child, can come together and be taught "co-operation" and to "love your neighbor as Thyself." She said that this injunction did not mean to love under the American flag only, or under the Texas flag only, or under the Mexican flag only, but to love under all flags. She said that a prejudice exists against the Mexican that does not exist against the English, the Germans and other nationalities. "Are we to keep up this prejudice, this strife that has caused blood to flow?" she asked. "Let no one say he ought to die."

Then the last letter of the boy was read. It was in Spanish and was read in Spanish. A full translation of it was not given, but in the beginning it said: "Our enemies have obtained what they have been trying to do from the start. In this country of liberty they have sent one more victim to his death. It is a crime. The constitution has been vetoed in every respect. Now there is nothing left but to take what they expect to do. This is the best friend to wipe away the tears that flow for the departed ones."

In the letter the boy declared that he ever confessed.

Tributes to the dead boy were paid by his three brothers, and C. G. Lopez, a born Mexican, delivered an oration in Spanish.

The father of the boy said the body should not rest in hostile soil. That if it was possible to do so he would send the corpse to Mexico, where it could be interred in his native country, but if not, he would bury him in Waco, his reason for this being that the people of Waco are friendly to him and his family.

The above is only a partial report of the funeral services held over the body of Leon Martinez Jr. at Waco, but there is enough of the report to show to the public that the lad, as they call him, did not only die as one who committed murder, but he died with a lie in his mouth, in that he wrote a letter to his father that he never had made a confession of the crime. Then the woman, Mrs. M. A. Spurgeon, a socialist, who delivered her address and in said speech she took occasion to quote the following Scriptures: Love thy neighbor as thyself. This is a wrongful text for one to adhere to in such occasions, but we are persuaded that were it possible to get a report from the departed spirits we would find that a majority of the inhabitants of hell would be quoting some favorite Bible quotation.

MELON GROWERS TO MEET

THE PECOS DRY GOODS COMPANY

The Pecos Dry Goods Company is proving to be one of the most progressive and up-to-date stores in this part of the state.

In appreciation of the prestige this store has enjoyed during the past, and to show their progressiveness, they will inaugurate a sensational fourteen days "Profit-sharing and Trade-getting Sale," and it is the first sale of this character ever held by any merchant in this part of the state.

The Pecos Dry Goods Company has arranged with the Clifford J. Halpern Sales Company of San Francisco and El Paso, who will conduct this great sale. This company is positively the greatest sale promoters in the United States.

Mr. C. J. Halpern Jr., who has in the past two years conducted some of the most successful sales in El Paso, will be in charge of this sale. Mr. Halpern is now arranging for the big publicity campaign, and by the looks of things this merchandising event will be the greatest ever seen in this part of the state.

The Times will be used as Mr. Halpern's medium in telling the public of this county of the wonderful values and money-saving opportunities this sale affords. The Times is now doing real city work getting out the biggest poster ever printed in this shop. The Times wishes the Pecos Dry Goods Company and Mr. Halpern success in their great undertaking and we hope that the public will take advantage of this great progressive store's profit-sharing sale.

REASONS FOR DOING MURDER (Chicago Tribune.)

Why men kill has been made the subject for investigation by a noted criminologist—Dr. Echols Ardman. Each murderer is found to give a different reason for his crime.

"I killed him out of pity," was the answer of Dr. Clark, the Eurasian doctor, whose trial for the double murder of his wife and of Mr. Fullman created intense excitement in India.

The infomous Thomas Wainwright was believed by his most intimate acquaintances to be kind-hearted and good. He was particularly kind to animals.

At 5 o'clock one morning a man walked into the police station at Franconville, near Paris. "I have killed my wife," he said.

He was found to have told the literal truth. His wife was a hopeless invalid, partly paralyzed and suffering great agony.

Some murders appear without object. One was the shooting by the so-called "Silent Man" in the bar of the Horse Shoe Hotel in Tottenham Court Road, London.

A man in Vienna asked a woman for a rose she was wearing. She refused. He shot her dead.

Dr. Echols Ardman, criminologist, has come to the conclusion that the form of insanity that causes murder is the small bone pressing against part of the brain and that a small operation, removing the bone that is pressing and inserting a thin silver plate, will turn the murderer into a kind-hearted person.

The trouble, Dr. Ardman confesses, that is hardest to overcome, is to find the man with criminal tendencies and perform the operation before and not after the crime.

STILL DEAD

Our Newburg correspondent tells us that a patient in the hospital out there imagined that he was dead. Nothing could drive the delusion out of his brain, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Did you ever see a dead man bleed?" "No, of course not," was the reply.

"Did you ever hear of a dead man bleeding?" continued the doctor. "Sure I never did," answered the patient.

"Well, then—let me stick this knife into your arm. Aha! You are bleeding, aren't you? Well, then! Doesn't that prove that you are not dead?"

"Naw," said the patient. "You ain't much of a scientist. What you've proved is that dead men do bleed."

THE ROOF GARDEN PLAN OF BUILDING HOUSES (Dallas News.)

The Brooklyn Eagle urges the builders of houses in New York to build more roof gardens. Now that summer heat may be with us any day, one wonders anew that so little use is made in New York of roofs as a refuge from the heat and to give touches of out-of-door charm to our daily living.

"Some of our largest hotels utilize them for summer dining, and find them an attractive addition to their equipment. We are glad to see that more buildings, like the main building and the Eastern District Branch of the Young Women's Christian Association and some hospitals, are creating such gardens.

A front foot that formerly cost only $1 or $20 has gone up in price to $1,000, or to even $100,000. Sky-scrapers are now resorted to in order to save space and to increase comforts and conveniences.

POOR SOILS AND POOR FARMERS GO TOGETHER

(Texas Farm and Fireside.) The fact that poor soils and poor farmers go together should be sufficient to cause to put the farmer to thinking. The farmer who takes virgin soil and turns it into worn soil can not be regarded as a good farmer, because he is not.

No one race, nation, age, or class of farmers has done otherwise, and in allowing our soils to become depleted we have done no differently and no worse than all others have done during all times and in all countries.

Owing to the fact that cotton depletes the soil less, can resist drouth better than most crops and is the best money crop for poor farmers known to the agricultural world, we were able to continue our soil robbing longer than other sections have been able to do.

BRYAN THE GOAT (New York World.)

Mr. Bryan has discovered by painful experience that destructive criticism is a much easier task than constructive administration. In practice it is not such a simple matter to conduct a department of the national government so that other people will not find fault.

Mr. Bryan is probably astonished and indignant at the character of the criticism directed against him. He is not only held responsible for his own department but he is blamed for everything that happens outside of it.

Scurrilous refugees who have been got out of Mexico at great trouble and expense sail into southern ports shrieking, "To hell with Bryan!"

Criticising Mr. Bryan is generally regarded as a much safer amusement than criticising President Wilson, and doubtless it is. The secretary of state is vulnerable, but nobody could be well guilty of so many offenses against intelligent government as Mr. Bryan's enemies are charging against him.

ARMY AS A LIFE-SAVING AGENCY

Philadelphia Ledger: Our army is doing more to save than to destroy life; it is an indication of a new militarism. What is considered the duty of American soldiers would have been impossible with the legions of Caesar or the regiments of Napoleon.

Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines have been transformed. The soldiers have been the heroes of our great disasters. When the Mississippi floods threatened property and lives, they were there to help.

Our military attitude to Mexico reveals a singular sense of restraint, impossible in any other period of military history. Mexico has already learned that the American people are slow to wrath, but swift in punishment, and that the army is controlled by a dignified purpose to save and not to utterly destroy.

SEND PHOTOGRAPH BY

The newspaper of the future will not be handicapped for photographs sent by slow mail. In illustrating its news correspondents in telegraph plants of some important moments will be able to photograph a battle, so that readers in New York, for instance, can have a picture of an engagement in Mexico a few hours after it takes place.

The photographs are sent by a sort of telauto graphic instrument in which a revolving cylinder and a stylus traces a spiral groove in a manner that the transmitted from the stylus graph line varies from moment to moment with the thickness.

At the receiving end the instrument is used to reveal a beam of light on the photographically sensitive surface of a similar cylinder, and exactly the same original on a shutter so that the photographing varies from moment to moment with the strength of the received over the wire. The process is rapid, with striking simultaneity. Electrical World.

DISTILLERY FROM UNITED STATES.

Santa Fe, N. M., May 25.—The Women's Christian Temperance Union has purchased from the United States the distillery at Farmington, San Juan county and will dismantle it. The distillery is fully equipped with stills and paraphernalia to make apple jack and brandy whiskey.

San Juan county is the driest of New Mexico counties and the distillery at Farmington had been a thorn in the flesh of the prohibitionists for years. There was much rejoicing when the United States seized it because it had unlawfully permitted whiskey to be taken out without paying revenue thereon as the statute provides.

The plea of the manager that he had taken it out to sample the product availed nothing and he was sent to the penitentiary, but was pardoned by President Wilson.

The distillery was put up at public sale by the United States marshal and the W. C. T. U. bought it in for $305 to prevent its falling into hands that would resume the manufacture of liquor.

Barbed wire cuts, ragged wounds, collar and harness galls heal up quickly when BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT is applied. It is both healing and antiseptic. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Pecos Drug Co. (Adv.)

NAME YOUR FARMS AND RANCHES.

H. H. Jones, one of Reeves county's hustling farm-ranchers, is in Pecos on a business trip from his "Fairview Farm" near Hoban. He made this office a pleasant visit yesterday and ordered a supply of printed stationery. We are glad to see that some of the farmers and ranchers are naming their farms and ranches and believe that it is a good idea to do this for it individualizes a place and makes it more prominent in its section of the country.

GOOD NEWS ABOUT A FORMER PECOS BOY
There will be many Pecos people who will be pleased to read the following letter, written about Clarence O. DeWitt, who for a number of years lived in Pecos and was well and most favorably thought of:
American Consular Service.
Limon, Costa Rica, April 4, 1914.
Hon. Wm. P. Brady, District Attorney, Pecos, Texas.
My Dear Sir:
Thanking you for your very courteous and agreeable letter of March 12, 1914, I take pleasure in reporting to you that my reason for asking information regarding C. O.
DeWitt were: First, I took a special interest in him from the first,
when he came to me asking for work, and grew to like him more as I knew him better; secondly, he became interested in a young lady here who had a right to know of his past, etc.; and, thirdly, I decided to give him a position in this office as secretary and clerk of the consulate which position he now occupies with honor, and will soon be married to one of the nicest girls in the country. Yours respectfully,
DONALDSON,
U. S. Consul.

We are certainly glad to learn that Clarence has proven to be such a hustler and pusher to make something of himself and the Times joins his hosts of friends in this section of Texas in wishing him well and extend him their hearty congratulations.

IRISH HOME RULE BILL IS FINALLY ENACTED

London, May 25.—By a vote of 351 to 274—a majority of 77—the house of commons this afternoon passed the home rule bill. The end of the hard fought struggle came quite suddenly, the Unionists refusing to debate the bill without further information as to the government's intentions in regard to the proposed amending measure.
Premier Asquith lifted a corner of the veil, but, though Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition admitted that the premier's words were conciliatory, he hastened to add that Mr. Asquith had not told them anything.
To discuss the third reading under the circumstances would, he said, be futile and ridiculous. He added:
"Let the curtain ring down on this contemptible farce. It is only the end of an act and not of the play. The government can carry the bill through the parliament, but the concluding act of the drama
will be in the country, where an appeal to the people will not end in a farce."
In a brief speech Premier Asquith defended the government against the charge of ignoring the rights of the minority.
The vote was then taken, and the announcement of the figures brought out a great demonstration
by the Nationalists and the Liberals.
The divisions were taken strictly on party lines. The followers of William O'Brien abstained from voting. Mr. O'Brien expressing the view that "the premier's action was not straight dealing with either England or Ireland."
The home rule bill will become a law whether the house of lords assents or not.

History of Irish Home Rule:
1874—First Irish home rule party
formed under leadership of Isaac Butt.
1879—Land League founded by Michael Davitt.
1880—Charles Stuart Parnell became leader of Irish party; declared he would never be satisfied "until we have destroyed the last link
which keeps Ireland bound to England."
1880-5—Premier W. E. Gladstone passed land act and coercion act and imprisoned Irish members.
1882—Phoenix Park murders, at Dublin.
1884—Fenian outrages in Eng-
land.
1885—Gladstone converted to home rule.
1886—First home rule bill introduced; rejected by house of commons on the second reading by a majority of thirty, thus splitting Liberal party.
1893—Second home rule bill introduced; passed by commons, but rejected by lords by 419 to 41.
1912—Third home rule bill introduced by Premier Asquith, April 12.
1913—Passed by commons Jan.
16, vote 367 to 257; rejected by lords Jan. 30, vote 326 to 69.
1913—Reintroduced in following session May 7; passed reading in commons June 9, vote 368 to 270;
third reading July 7, vote 352 to 243; rejected for second time by lords July 15, vote 302 to 64.
1914—Introduced for third time
March 5; debate on second reading began March 3, when Asquith offered six years' exclusion of individual counties, if so decided by popular vote. Opposition rejected this offer, passed second reading in original form April 6, vote 356 to 276.

Terms of Home Rule Bill.—Imperial parliament remains supreme,
but Ireland is given real autonomy
in regard to purely Irish affairs, subject to certain reservations and safeguards.
Irish parliament to sit in Dublin,
consisting of a senate and a house
of commons.
Irish senate of forty members at first nominated by Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. They will hold office for terms of five years. After expiration of first term they will be elected under proportional representation, as follows: Ulster 14, Leinster 11, Munster 9 and Connaught 6.
Irish house of commons of 164
members elected by existing constituencies on a 27,000 population
unit. This will give Ulster 59,
Leinster 41, Munster 37, Connaught
25 and Universities 2.
Power of Irish parliament subject to "territorial limitation." No authority to deal with questions of peace and war, army, navy or treasure. Irish constabulary to be transferred to control of Irish parliament after six years; postoffice savings bank after ten years; if Irish parliament wishes; pensions after a year's notice if Ireland wishes.
Irish parliament prohibited from directly or indirectly establishing or endowing any religion, from giving any preference or privilege or imposing any disability on account of religious belief.

Lord lieutenant, appointed by crown, will have power to veto laws which go beyond constitutional powers of Irish parliament. He will exercise this veto on instructions from the imperial cabinet.
Validity of laws passed by Irish parliament subject to appeal to the Irish court of appeal and afterward
to the judicial committee of privy council.
Lord lieutenant's appointment
not subject to religious disabilities as now. (Thus a Catholic may be appointed.)
Taxes to be collected by imperial government for the present, with certain exceptions. Imperial exchequer will pay into Irish exchequer every year a fixed sum based on cost of Irish government when act passes, together with Irish postal revenue and $2,500,000, to be reduced gradually to $1,000,000.
(Thus if Ireland saves, the money is her own; if she is extravagant,
she will have to pay for it herself.)
Irish parliament to have limited power to tax, but not to impose customs duty save on articles already dutiable in the United Kingdom.
There are restrictions on legislation on income tax, state and stamp duties. Growth in receipts from revenue other than taxes imposed by Irish parliament will go to diminish the deficit ($10,000,000 at present).
Forty-two Irish members (or one per 100,000 of population) will sit in imperial parliament at Westminster, instead of 103 as at present.
If parties were divided as at present this would give representation at Westminster of 34 Nationalists and 8 Unionists.
Bill to take effect not earlier than eight months after passage or later than fifteen months, as may be ordered by the King in council.

COMFORT

Mike, who was out of a job, sat
under a tree and smoked his pipe,
as he watched Jerry O'Toole winding a pick under the blaze of an August sun. Jerry was using the pick on a railroad cut, and the watchfulness of his foreman was such that he found few opportunities to interrupt the ceaseless rise and fall of his implement.
Mike watched an old man, thinking with pride of the industry of the Irish race.
"Holy Mother!" Jerry exclaimed,
"what a fine pick, and a momentary lapse in the foreman's attention."
"This is the hardest job I ever tackled."
"Gwan!" said Mike, leisurely blowing out a whiff of smoke, "Sure and it's an easy job."
"Easy!" shouted Jerry. "It's hard and it's hot! Bodad, the ther-mometer's a hundred and twelve in the shade."
Mike let another whiff of smoke
curl from his sensitive lips.
"What's that to you?" he asked carelessly. "You don't have to work in the shade, do you?"

SLUGGISH LIVERS STARTED PLEASANTLY.

No Need to Risk Disagreeable, Dingerous Calomel Now That Dodson's Liver Tone Takes Its Place.
Plenty of people—thousands of them—have found that it is no longer necessary to risk being "all knocked out" by taking calomel when constipated or suffering from a sluggish liver.
Nowadays Dodson's Liver Tone
takes the place of calomel.
What calomel does unpleasantly
and often with danger, Dodson's Liver Tone does for you safely and pleasantly, with no pain and no gripe. It does no tinterfere in any way with your regular business, habits or diet.
Calomel is a poison, a form of mercury, a mineral. Dodson's Liver Tone is an all-vegetable eliquid.
Of course, this reliable remedy
has its imitators. But Dodson's Liver Tone has been made to take the place of calomel right from the start. The label on the bottle always has said so, beginning with the first bottle sold. And it is widely known today how good Dodson's Liver Tone is as a remedy and that Dodson never makes extravagant statements. He says that it "lives the liver," overcomes constipation agreeably and makes you feel good,
and if you are not satisfied completely with it the Pecos Drug Co.
will hand back the purchase price
(50c) to you with a smile.
Such statements could not be made without true merit to back them up and it is easy for you to prove them for yourself at no cost
if not satisfied and convinced. (R)

WEDDINGS.

GREEN-MOORE.

At noon Wednesday, May 27, at the residence of the officiating minister, Homer L. Magee, Mr. James Newman Green and Miss Madonna
Gladys Moore.
Miss Moore is a charming young woman, well known in Barstow and vicinity. Her parents live in Salt Lake City, but she has been visiting for several months with her sister, Mrs. Rob Carson, at Barstow.
Mr. Green is one of Barstow's respected young men, and is a prosperous farmer.

The young couple have everything in readiness to begin housekeeping at once. The Pecos people join with their fellows at Barstow
in wishing Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Green
the best of all good things in life.

THORP-PECK.

Mr. Will B. Thorp and Miss Alice Peck were united in marriage at the residence of Rev. J. B. Cole Wednesday afternoon. The happy couple will reside at Balmorhea. Bro.
Cole says this is the greatest year for marriages of any since he has been in Pecos. He now has a quiet of four recent y-issued marriage licenses to certify and return to the district clerk. Peace and plenty abound in Reeves county and Pecos is the center of commerce and the matrimonial mecca.

Max Krauskopf, the John Deere implement man, sold one wagon
each day last week. You know why?
He sold the Davenport Steel Roller Bearing Wagon, the ones that you can pull more with three horses on than you can on any other kind with four. Everyone who once uses them buys no other. 21-2

KNOWN BY OUR FRUITS.

A teacher in a Japanese Sunday school asked, "What does it mean to glorify the Lord Jesus Christ?"
A little girl answered that it was like her mother's flower seeds.
When she bought them they were black, ugly little grains, but when she sowed and tended them, they sprang up and grew and blossomed into wonderful beauty. One day a neighbor saw them and cried out,
"How lovely! Can you give me some of the seeds?"
Had the woman seen first only the seeds, the little girl went on,
she would not have cared anything for them, but the flowers showed her how precious the seeds were.
Just so is it with faith in the Lord Jesus. When one only looks to the Japanese about the truths of the gospel, they seem dry and hard and not very attractive, and the people do not care to know anything more about them. But when they see these truths blossom into loving words and generous deeds in the lives of Christians, then they consider what it all means and want some of the good seed for themselves.—Selected.

Scrubs Fatten Quickly

You want your pigs to eat as much as possible when you fatten them. Give them a great variety of feed, keep the appetite keen and the digestion in good order, and you will obtain the desired result; especially if you mix with the grain ration a dose of Whets the appetite—Helps digestion.

Overland Autos
Again in Pecos!

For ten days I have been unable to get Overland orders on account of the "Spring Rush" that is now the territory. I now have an auto on hand and will load this week ready for delivery. Some of these cars sold, and I have no hopes of getting more cars after as this is all the cars I have contracted for until July.

When You Come to Consider that the most serviceable cars that have ever been Country are unquestionably the OVERLAND cars.

When You Come to Consider
the size of a car and the general make-up—including base, horsepower, the electric source, the carburetor and general finish of a car for $950 to $1350, the one with the money is unquestionably the OVERLAND car.

When You Come to Consider
what you are to get from your car the one offering the most questionably the OVERLAND car.

When You Consider
the factory building a car, and their financial strength, their position and assurance of help to buyers the one offering the
is unquestionably the OVERLAND.

These Facts
coupled with the fact that I have already sold in this territory more than my yearly supply; that 90 PER CENT OF ALL THE CARS SOLD THIS YEAR IN THIS CLASS IN PECOS HAVE BEEN OVERLAND CARS.

All These Facts
should be conclusive evidence and assurance that you should tate no longer as to your new car, but consider YOURSELF LUCKY if you get one of this year's production. Place your order now while you can get it filled at once.

Let me show you this new car.

There is little excuse for failure in this day when modern inventions have multiplied opportunities and advanced thought has limited the powers of the bigot and tyrant. The man who succeeds today grasps circumstances firmly in his right hand and shoves aside the lebris with his left and embraces opportunity with a spirit that can not be downed, dissipated or turned aside. There is no fortress that can not be scaled, if human touch has ever before crept within its portals, but many are the heights yet unreachd. The man who runs away at the first skirmish, is not worthy of victory, of home, of freedom but a slave to his adversaries who bind him hand and foot. His is not the blood that flows in the veins of pioneers and conquerors, but consigned to slavery, to penury and woe, he goes forth cursing the day of his birth and bemoaning the whole world.

It is getting too easy for a man to live. Life often starts without sufficient friction to develop the qualities of a man. Ease fails to polish and develop the brilliants that creep through life unrecognized. We need a touch of fate to lay its heavy hand upon us and awaken us from the lethargy that holds us all supine. That man may win who so desires. It is only the very simple matter of paying the price, but sometimes the price means hardships always sacrifice of some kind, and energy and enthusiasm. But then what is there that is worth while that does not call forth these wholesome elements?

ONE BUTTON SHY.

One day the teacher was trying to impress on the mind of the youngsters the fundamental features of the Declaration of Independence. To this end, she gave each of them three buttons, saying the first represented life, the second liberty, and the third the pursuit of happiness.

"Johnny," said the teacher to one of the boys of the class a few days later, "take your three buttons from your pocket and tell me what they stand for."

"I can't, Miss Mary," was the confused response of Johnny. "I hain't got 'em all."

"Haven't got them all?" severely demanded the teacher. "Where are they?"

"Here's life an' here's liberty, Miss Mary," answered Johnny, producing two buttons, "but mother sewed the pursuit o' happiness on my pants."

GREAT SHOOTING.

Smith and Jones were walking along the boulevard one afternoon when Brown was incidentally mentioned.

"Speaking of Brown," thought fully remarked Jones, "I understand he is something of a shot."

"He is a wonder," was the prompt rejoinder of Smith. "We were out in a field practicing the other day when he hit the bullseye at the first shot."

"Fine for Brown," commendingly returned Jones. "Ticked him almost to death, I suppose?"

"Don't you believe it," answered Smith. "He had to pay for the bull."

NEW IDEA OF EARTH'S AGE.

If such an authority as Prof. Arthur Holmes of the Imperial College, South Kensington, London, has any weight at all with people, the discovery of radium means that geologists must change their calculations materially as to the age of the earth if they wish to be taken seriously. He says it is a well-known fact that if the proportion of radium in the interior of the earth is in any way equal to the radium in the rocks at the earth's surface the earth will not grow colder, as has been taught, but it ought to be growing hotter. Calculations, however, show that the distribution of radium as it is found would be more than enough to keep the temperature of the earth stationary. Thorium and uranium also supply a great amount of heat and must be taken into account.

In order that the earth should be neither growing hotter nor cooling at a rate allowed by the radio-active elements as they disintegrate it is necessary, he says, to assume that the earth's store of radium be concentrated near the surface. The radio-active elements are found most abundantly in acid rocks, and their most basic associates are less rich. These acid rocks are characteristic of only the outermost zones of the crust, and there are many reasons for believing that with depth the non-acid rocks are predominant.

Earthquakes and similar terrestrial events have provided facts which the condition of the earth's interior may be deduced with confidence. First, there is the crust zone, which has an approximate thickness of 30 miles. Then comes the stone zone, something under 100 miles thick, and, finally, the central iron core of the earth, with a density eight times greater than water. Meteorites contain radium, and Professors Strutt and Holmes say that these meteors contain the proof that no radium is found in the stone zone or inner core.

It is supposed that the earth began, of course, as a misty, nebulous mass and that it has become the great mass it is by the capture of meteors and greater masses floating in space during the ages. It is very unlikely that the earth was ever, as a whole, in a molten condition. It is surmised by several English savants that the internal heat probably arose in a great measure from the condensation of the mass as it grew.

The temperature would slowly rise until the fusion point of certain of the earth's constituents was reached. Then the pockets and tongues thus formed would tend to move away from the center and the less heavy, stony substances would be squeezed outward relatively to a network of the heavier, rigid metals.

Surrounding the metallic core a thick zone of sandy rocks would be formed, and the radio-active materials would be concentrated in the stony layers. When the oceans and the atmospheres were produced the sediment rocks appeared for the first time, and then came the earth's crust with the rocks that contain most of the radium and other radio-active elements. Before the advent of radium geologists did not recognize the difficulties presented by the peculiar make-up of the earth's crust. Radium did not create this difficulty, but it certainly emphasized it in the attention of scientists.

It can hardly be said that radium has given a blank check on the bank of time, for its discovery not

BREAKING CRUSTED SOILS

The following was written by M. Bainer, agricultural demonstrator Santa Fe System, Amarillo.
"Row crops planted before heavy rains need assistance to break crusts that form before the plants come through. Even though the plants should come up, the compact condition of the ground tends to restrict the development, and to prevent this, the crusts must be broken. This applies especially to such crops as kafir, milo, feterita and cotton planted in furrows. As soon as the ground becomes sufficiently dry, crusts that have formed should be broken, so that the plants can get through and not be smothered or stunted."

"Several implement attachments have been devised for just this class of work, among them being planks through which spikes were driven resembling a harrow, to drag each row behind a cultivator or harrow. Some farmers, in similar manner use posts through which spikes have been driven, while others have found that troughs made to fit the furrows, with spikes driven through them from the inside, are quite good as breakers of crusts."

"Unfortunately all of the foregoing devices are not entirely successful, in that they destroy some of the plants, especially of cotton and other crops, when they are through or almost through the surface."

"The following described cultivator attachment is recommended by the agricultural department of the Santa Fe system, and has been fully demonstrated by L. L. Johnson and other representatives of the department. As a result of these demonstrations, many farmers are making these cultivator attachments and using them with remarkable success."

"The attachment should be made entirely of iron. To make it, use a piece of iron 3x6x1/4 inches as a block, and in the center from end to end of this piece of iron drill two 7-16 inch holes 1 1/2 inches apart on centers, or 3/4 of an inch from either edge (top and bottom edges). Ream out or countersink these two holes on the front face, so that the same bolts used for securing shovels or sweeps to the cultivator, may be used for this attachment. Next drill four 1/4 inch holes, one at each corner of the metal block, half inch from the ends, and half inch from the sides, or 2 inches apart on centers. The end pairs of holes are used for rivets that faster spikes or teeth on the front face of the metal block. These spikes or teeth are made of half inch iron rods, that extend 6 inches below the lower edge of the block or plate. The spikes or teeth are flattened at the upper end, where they are riveted to the block or plate, and are sharpened like a pencil at the lower end. This completed cultivator attachment straddles the row one tooth or spike on either side, breaking the crusts, without damaging the plants. The cultivator on which two of these attachments are fastened, straddles the ridge and breaks the crusts in two rows at once. A man and team can cover from 15 to 18 acres per day with the cultivator and attachments. These attachments can be made by any blacksmith at very low cost."

only destroyed all the old measurements of the earth's heat, but it necessitated a new method for getting at it. Every kind of radio-active mineral, as well as radium, may be regarded as a self-contained hour-glass, the radio-active emanations, such as helium, and residues such as lead, slowly accumulate at the expense of their ultimate parent, uranium.

The geologist, who five years ago was embarrassed by the brevity of the time allowed to him for the evolution of the earth's crust, is now still more embarrassed by the over-abundance of time that now confronts him. The recognition of radium means difficulties for the geologist and the absolute overthrow of every acknowledged theory as to the earth's age and development. The age of the earth, according to what happens to be radium, varies from five billion to eight billion years, but what matters a few thousand million of years among geologists?

SCIENTIFIC NOTES

An experiment test has been made in Paris of a portable road-mending machine, consisting of a six horsepower gasoline engine, actuating an air compressor the air being led from a storage tank to a pneumatic rammer and a pneumatic pick, the latter being described as merely a modification of the well known pneumatic riveter.

The manufacturer of a British car has provided an exceptionally simple means for cleaning the fuel tanks on his cars. He has merely made the filler cap large enough to admit a man's hand and arm. Incidentally, the large filling orifice facilitates replenishing the supply and as it makes possible heavy, substantial threads on the cap it eliminates the chance of their failure.

Dr. Chapman read a paper before the Royal Astronomical Society describing investigations made on the total light of the stars. The results show that the total light from the stars is about equal to that which would be given by 630 stars of the first magnitude.

Prof. Stanley describes the fall of a meteorite in the N'Kandhia district of Zululand, which took place on August 1, 1912. An explosion took place, which was audible over a considerable area, and a rapidly moving body was seen accompanied by a spiral trail of smoke and emitting a rumbling or crackling sound. The meteorite discovered by Prof. Stanley fell within a few yards of a native woman. It weighs nearly thirty-eight pounds.

The Great Western Railway has begun the investigation and patenting of inventions suggested by their employes for improvements in railroads. The plan is not intended to prevent inventors from offering inventions elsewhere but it is meant to encourage and help employes who are not in a position to patent their ideas. The soundness of the plan is recognized by other companies which are considering its adoption.

The Venezuelan government has instituted plans for the preparation of the d'Herelle virus for inoculating grasshoppers or locusts, great swarms of which have been working havoc with growing plants. This method of combating the pests has given favorable results but the insects are still numerous and their inroads on vegetation are serious.

Metal ties have been largely used to replace those of wood on Swiss railroads. The experience with iron ties goes to show that though the initial cost is considerably greater than that of wooden ties, the longer duration of the former make them most economical in the end. Wooden ties are used where drainage conditions are poor and where the track is graded up to the level of the ties.

TO HIS MOTHER.

"Madam," began Weary Willie, as an elderly woman opened the door in answer to his knock, "could you—"

"We have no cold victuals to give away!" she coldly interrupted him with.

"I was going to ask you, madam," he continued, "for—"

"And we don't give away old clothes!" she broke in again.

"Nay, madam, neither do I ask for clothing. Will you kindly loan me a pencil and a bit of paper and an envelope?"

"What do you want them for?" she asked suspiciously.

"I would write to my poor old mother, madam—my poor old mother who sits knitting in far away Kalamazoo, and—"

She handed him the articles, and five minutes later he got her to the door again to show her what he had scrawled. It read:

"Dear Mother—This being Thanksgiving Day, and a kind-hearted and good, and beautiful lady having given me an old coat and a pair of shoes and made me drink three cups of Mocha coffee and eat a large piece of roast beef and a whole mince pie—"

"I took you for a tramp," she said, as she returned the scrawl.

"But I am, ma'am."

"Oh, no, you are not—you are a lawyer."

But he got a square meal.—St. Louis Times.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

ABOLISH GUARANTY LEGEND AND SERIAL NUMBER ON FOOD AND DRUGS.

The legend "Guaranteed Under the Food and Drugs Act" is held to be misleading and deceptive, and the use of a serial number on food and drugs is prohibited after May 1, 1915, by a food inspection decision signed May 5 by the secretaries of the treasury, agriculture, and commerce. The taking effect of the new regulation is postponed until May 1, 1915, in order to give manufacturers an opportunity to use up their present stocks of labels.

After May 1, 1915, guaranties of compliance with the law should be given by manufacturers directly to dealers and should be incorporated in the invoice or bill of sale specifying the goods covered. This guaranty should not appear on the label or package of the product.

The reasons for the action of the three secretaries, as given in the decision, are as follows:

(a) It having been determined that the legends "Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906," and "Guaranteed by (name of guarantor) under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906," borne on the labels or packages of food and drugs, accompanied by serial numbers given by the secretary of agriculture, are each misleading and deceptive, in that the public is induced by such legends and serial numbers to believe that the articles to which they relate have been examined and approved by the government, and that the government guarantees that they comply with the law, the use of either legend, or any similar legend, on labels of packages should be discontinued.

Inasmuch as the acceptance by the secretary of agriculture for filing of the guaranties of manufacturers and dealers and the giving by him of serial numbers thereto contribute to the deceptive character of legends on labels and packages, no guaranty in any form shall hereafter be filed with and no serial number shall hereafter be given to any guaranty by the secretary of agriculture. All guaranties now on file with the secretary of agriculture shall be stricken from the files, and the serial numbers assigned to such guaranties shall be canceled.

Many reputable manufacturers have used the legend and serial number in good faith solely as a convenient way of notifying a dealer that they assumed full legal responsibility for their goods. Other manufacturers have employed this legend in such way as to lead the public to believe that their product had been passed upon and certified by the department of agriculture. The widespread deception of the public resulting necessitated abolishing the department's practice of accepting guaranties for filing and issuing serial numbers.

The food and drugs act does not prescribe any guaranty legend or serial number, nor has any manufacturer ever been required to file a guaranty or to use a serial number or the legend. The appearance of the serial number and the guaranty legend on the products, moreover, has been of no material assistance to the government in detecting or prosecuting violations of the food and drugs act, nor has it promoted the manufacture and sale of pure foods or drugs. The presence of the number and legend on an adulterated or misbranded product does not enable federal officers to secure any heavier penalty for violations than if the goods were not so labeled, although in many such cases it made deception of the public more certain.

The only mention of a guaranty in the food and drugs act is section 9, which provides that where a dealer can show a guaranty from the maker of goods that they comply with the law, the manufacturer, and not the dealer, shall be amenable to prosecution.

When manufacturers believed it to be commercially inconvenient to give a separate guaranty as part of the bill of sale or invoice to every dealer with every interstate shipment of their goods, and soon after the passage of the act of 1906 asked the committee appointed by the three secretaries to draft regulations to allow them to file a blanket guaranty to dealers at Washington under which the makers of goods would assume full legal responsibility for all goods manufactured by them and shipped into interstate commerce. This guaranty was not in any sense to be a guaranty to or by the government, but was merely to be a guaranty protecting the dealer from prosecution in accordance with section 9 of the food and drugs act. This permission was granted, and the department assigned a serial number to each of the guaranties so filed. The manufacturer was then allowed to use this serial number on this label in connection with the legend, "Guaranteed under the food and drugs act, June 30, 1906." There was no requirement, however, that any manufacturer should file such a guaranty.

A large proportion of the public took these words to mean that the government in some way guaranteed the article. In an endeavor to make it clear that the guaranty was not the guaranty of the government the legend was amended Dec. 8, 1908, to read "Guaranteed by (name of guarantor) under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906." The public, however, persisted in taking these words, even after the amended form was employed, to mean that the federal government had actually analyzed and found the product so labeled to be pure and wholesome and of standard quality. This misinterpretation on the part of the public was, in some cases, encouraged by manufacturers, and there is no question that the serial number and legend were used in some instances to increase the sale of highly undesirable foods and drugs for interstate shipment of which the manufacturers were later prosecuted and fined.

The only guaranty approved by the new regulation for use after May 1, 1915, is the individual guaranty identifying the goods sold by the manufacturer to the dealer. This guaranty can be incorporated in the invoice or bill of sale specifying the goods covered by use of a form, stamped, or printed in the document, and signed by the manufacturer. When the goods are properly described in the document, they can be referred to in the guaranty, without repetition of the detailed description contained in the invoice or bill of sale. This guaranty should not appear on the label or package of the product. In the meanwhile the public is notified that the presence of a serial number and the words "guaranteed under the food and drugs act" on packages merely means a guaranty to the dealer that the manufacturer is legally responsible for his goods, and in no sense implies that the federal authority has investigated or approved the quality of the goods so labeled.

The remainder of the regulation which deals with the method of using the guaranty is as follows:

(b) The use on the label or package of any food or drug of any serial number required to be canceled by paragraph (a) of this regulation is prohibited.

(c) Any wholesaler, manufacturer, jobber, or other party residing in the United States may furnish to any dealer to whom he sells any article of food or drug a guaranty that such article is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the food and drugs act, June 30, 1906, as amended.

(d) Each guaranty to afford protection shall be signed by, and shall contain the name and address of, the wholesaler, manufacturer, jobber, dealer, or other party residing in the United States making the sale of the article or articles covered by it to the dealer, and shall be to the effect that such article or articles are not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the federal food and drugs act.

(e) Each guaranty in respect to any article or articles should be incorporated in or attached to the bill of sale, invoice, bill of lading, or other schedule, giving the names and quantities of the article or articles sold, and should not appear on the labels or packages.

(f) No dealer in food or drug products will be liable to prosecution if he can establish that the articles were sold under a guaranty given in compliance with this regulation.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

The following item from the Silver City, New Mexico, Independent is self-explaining and to the point:

"Among careful and successful business men there is a systematic allowance for advertising, usually 5 per cent of the store's receipts. One of the greatest merchants the world has ever known established this rule in his business and did not vary it, no matter how enormous his sales were. The little store is no exception to this rule, and the little store that adheres to it is not likely to remain a little store very long. Of all the methods of advertising, the money invested in newspaper space will undoubtedly give the best returns. The successful advertiser does not scatter his advertising appropriation promiscuously, but concentrates it on the newspaper medium which carries his message into the homes of his patrons and into the homes of those who ought to be his patrons. In Silver City this real medium is the Silver City Independent."
