VOLUME 39.

MARFA, TEXAS, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1926.

NUMBER 76.

MARFA LOSES TO STOCKTON 3-0

Yes, Marfa lost, but Stockton was just a little bit the luckiest. Stockton lucked a field goal in the 4th quarter, after Marfa had been penalized for interfering with a man about to receive a pass. It sure was a lucky field goal, the ball touching the side arm of the goal and then glancing down and hitting the cross arm for a goal.

The teams were very evenly matched, Stockton reached scoring distance three times but the Marfa line held like a brick wall and smothered the Stockton backs for losses causing the Stockton team to try for field goals.

Marfa was on the defensive during the greater part of the game, but when they did turn loose with their offensive they made ground, and showed them that Marfa was just as good as Stockton.

Taking into consideration the experience of the two teams and etc., Marfa is the best, and should consider this game a moral victory.

And talk about the rooters and the pep squad, they were there in full force, and the town people were there too and for a Friday afternoon crowd it sure looks like Marfa is arousing from the dead in the Foot-Ball World.

Next Saturday Marfa will meet the Sanderson eleven here on the home gridiron, and if the town people keep up what they have started, we hope that there will be no lack of rooters. Every Foot-Ball fan should be there and bring some one with him.

Everybody is behind you boys, go in there Saturday and fight them to a finish, and we'll all be there to do the shouting.

AMERICAN RANCHES RAIDED BY MEXICAN REVOLUTIONISTS

The El Paso Post published a wire from Washington wherein it was stated that a raid had been made on the Kilpatrick and Fields ranches near Coyame, Mexico. Later a report came from Presidio that the Mexican soldiers had the raiders surrounded. The raid is reported to have occurred on Nov. 7. In the El Paso Post of Nov. 11 appears the following: Chihuahua state troops, better known as ruarales, have joined the campaign against a force of revolutionists who crossed into Mexico east of El Paso last week. Capt. Nvarez is in command.

This information came to Juarez today from Chihuahua City, where orders for the mobilization of ruarales at Julimes and Meoqui were issued.

Troops from Guadalupe, near Juarez, engaged the rebels in battle and killed two of the surrenditionists Sunday. These troops were sent out by Gen. Roman Lopez of the Juarez garrison.

The battle occurred in Sierra del Pulquito, in the Oinaga district.

There were 10 men in the rebel band, according to reports received in Juarez.

They had obtained new mounts and food at the TO ranch. An hour and one-half after they left the ranch a detachment of cavalrymen of the 42d regiment arrived at the ranch. The hard-riding loopers overtook the rebels a short time later.

Col Miguel Comanduran is in command of the rebels, according to dispatches.

Gen. Nicolas Fernandez, onetime commander of Pancho Villa's "golden guard," is leading another force that recently crossed into Mexico, according to universal field report. —El Paso Post.

A great deal of interest has been manifested in Marfa this week. One of ranches said to have been raided is owned by Kilpatrick and Murphy and is located adjoining the TO ranch, with their headquarters about 60 miles southeast from the line of the TO outfit. W. H. Cleveland of Marfa, a prominent Presidio County Stockman is now visiting the Kilpatrick and Murphy ranch. He is daily expected back and on his return will probably be able to give details.

It is reported that there is also some other Marfa people over there LATER: As we go to press we learn that W. H. Cleveland returned last evening from the Kilpatrick and Murphy ranch, and that he reported that there was a raid as above stated—that the Revolutionists only got two horses from the Kilpatrick and Murphy ranch where he was and he understood that from the Field ranch quite a number of horses were taken. The Mexican Soldiers were in pursuit, but when he left there the Revolutionists had not been captured nor even surrounded.

Mr. Andrews of Detroit, Michigan, who was a visitor with Mr. Cleveland at the time of the raid, by his distinguished conduct during the experience, has been promoted and is now known as Col. Andrews, while he (Cleveland) having taken all of the tobacco away from the raiders is now only a simple captain.

SUL ROSS TO PLAY McMURRY

The strong Sul Ross Lobos, Coached by P. E. Shotwell, formerly of Simmons University, will play McMurry College of Abilene here November 19, McMurry has had a bad season so far, playing Tech. to a 7-0 score, and being defeated by Randolph College and St. Mary's Rattlers, however, they defeated the Canyon Buffaloes by a 21 to 0 score.

The Lobos are crippled by the loss of their star quarter-back, Kell, but will be in pretty shape for the game. Much interest is aroused in this section over the game since Sul Ross defeated McMurry 13 to 6 last year and the indians will be bent on revenge. The outcome of this game will to a certain extent, show how Sul Ross compares with T. I. A. A. teams since they have played A. C. C. another T. I. A. A. Team.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

At the Chamber of Commerce Luncheon Wednesday at the Longhorn Cafe, the Orient railroad was the principal theme for discussion. Mr. Mobly, tax expert for the Orient, was present and made an interesting talk. It seems that until the Orient legal difficulties are settled nothing definite can be ascertained nor done towards having the road brought via Marfa to Presidio.

In regard to the highway between Marfa and Presidio, which is in a bad condition, a number of citizens went to Alpine a week ago, and received encouragement from the highway district department there that something would be done immediately towards repairing the Presidio road. And the committee was informed that the road would finally be taken over by the State Highway department.

However, it appears that no definite steps can be expected until something is definitely known what changes will be made by the new administration when it takes office in January next.

MURPHY-WALKER COMPANY

Saving the Longhorn

ABOUT four years ago there appeared in a newspaper in San Antonio, Texas, in the heart of the cattle country, an item headed "The Passing of the Longhorn," which read as follows:

The Texas longhorn is no more. Today this noble creature has taken its place along with the other outstanding figures of the romantic pioneer days of early Texas. The foundation and basis of the state's greatest industries, the nucleus of a thousand herds upon a thousand hills in years gone by, and the one-time pride of the range, is today but a memory, succeeded by a fat, sleek tribe of Herefords and other breeds that graze the open range.

What changes time can bring! A glance into the past and the mind sees the march of events in a never-ending panorama passing before the eye. The day of the Indian and the buffalo, long since passed into oblivion; the advent of the longhorn steer, the birth of the great cattle industry and then the passing of a creature that brought the great West through the days of hardship.

Whether or not there was any direct connection between this valiant creature and the action taken recently by the Texas Folklore society is unknown, but the fact remains that it was a statement of what was in the minds of many Texans—the fact that a picturesque animal and one which had played an important role in the history of the Lone Star state was in danger of extinction. So the Texas Folklore society at its meeting this year passed a resolution recommending that the legislature appropriate sufficient funds and provide adequate means "to preserve in its purity for future generations the Texas longhorn breed—the most historic breed of cattle the world has ever known."

Back of this resolution is the movement to save the longhorn by collecting as many as possible of the survivors and placing them upon a well-protected preserve. A start toward that already has been made. The nucleus of a herd has recently been placed in the Wichita National Forest reserve by Will C. Barnes, a veteran cowboy, now connected with the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture. So it appears now that the Texas longhorn is to escape the extinction which once threatened the buffalo, had not the American people been aroused to the danger just in time.

Not long ago a newspaper dispatch stated that a herd of 2,000 Texas longhorns had been shipped from south Texas to Kansas, but old-timers, who should be in a position to know, declare that it is doubtful if a tenth of that number of genuine longhorns could be found if a census were taken. Nearly every wild-west show or rodeo exhibition company has a few and there are a few running wild in various western states, especially their native heath of Texas. But, say the old-timers, the true longhorn is so scarce that it is now a curiosity even to the cattlemen of Texas. And these are all that are left of the thousands that the Texas plains once knew.

Just where the longhorn originated is unknown. Tradition has it that they descended from the original herd of Spanish cattle which stocked the ranch of Hernando Cortez, conqueror of Mexico, on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, nearly 400 years ago. They were a hardy, rangy, fleet-footed breed, whose long horns enabled them to make their way through the thick chaparral growth that covers much of their native home and because of the scanty grazing they were accustomed to range over a wide territory.

When the Mexican ranch owners were driven out of the lower border of Texas after the Texans had won their independence in 1836, many thousands of these cattle roamed the wilderness for a quarter of a century. They were almost as wild as deer when the re-establishment of ranches in that region took place. Even then they were never domesticated in the true sense of the word, and when the Civil war called nearly all of the able-bodied men of the Lone Star state away to battlefields in other states and left the herds in charge of boys and old men, the longhorns began to break away from what little "civilization" they had known and run wild again. The rounding up of these wild herds and driving them overland to Kansas shipping towns in the late sixties marked the beginning of the epic cattle trade and laid the foundations of Texas' prosperity.

It is interesting to note that Texas not only is making an effort to save the longhorn from extinction, but that it is preserving its memory in another way. Without branding, successful operation of the cattle business would have been impossible, for Mexican cattle thieves and dishonest ranch owners would have got away with the herds in short order, had it not been for the stamp of proprietorship emblazoned in bold characters on the hide of the animals. So Texas is commemorating the longhorn and the brand he wore with the unique idea of "branding" Garrison hall, the new half-million-dollar classroom building at the University of Texas, with the symbols of Texas' greatest industry. More than 20,000 cattle brands used at some time or other in that state were examined by E. W. Winkler, university librarian, who spent six months at the task, and from that number 32, representative of some step in the progress of Texas history, were selected to be engraved upon the white stone walls of Garrison hall.

No. 1 of the collection is appropriately the "Austin Spanish" brand of Stephen F. Austin, the "Father of Texas." The other thirty, pictured above, are as follows: 2—Capt. Richard King; 3—Maj. George W. Littlefield; 4—S. M. Swenson; 5—S. B. Burnet; 6—Mariano Sanchez; 7—Pedro Ibarbo; 8—Jose Antonio Navarro; 9—Jose Antonio de la Garza; 10—Eke T. Pryor; 11—A. H. (Shanghai) Pierce; 12—Capitol Land syndicate; 13—C. C. Slaughter; 14—Al E. McFadden; 15—Oliver Loving and Sons; 16—Mrs. Rabb; 17—Dillard Fant; 18—John R. Blocker; 19—Ellison and Devesee; 20—Joe Gunter; 21—Preston Rose; 22—Charles Goodnight; 23—S. A. Maverick; 24—Anna Martin and Sons; 25—George W. Saunders; 26—D. H. Snyder; 27—J. J. Myers; 28—John Lytle; 29—Mark Withers; 30—E. B. Millett; 31—W. T. Waggoner; 32—H. L. Kokernot.

The full history of these brands would fill volumes, but here are some of the outstanding facts connected with some of the better known ones:

5—S. B. Burnett, whose brand of the four sixes resulted from his winning a large ranch in a poker game in which he held "four of a kind."
9—Jose Antonio de la Garza, the oldest brand, was obtained from the Spanish government by Leonardo de la Garza, June 23, 1792.
11—A. H. (Shanghai) Pierce, who drove cattle from Matagorda county on the gulf and whose steers were known from the Rio Grande to the Canadian line as "Shanghai Pierce's sea lions."
12—Capitol Land Syndicate, whose XIT brand was generally known as "Ten in Texas." Their holdings covered ten counties and included three million acres, given in payment for the state capitol building at Austin.
13—C. C. Slaughter's "Lazy 8" brand was on more than 12,000 cattle a year in the trail-driving period after the Civil war.
21—Preston Rose was the first man to fence land in Texas and attempt to improve the longhorn breed.
22—Charles Goodnight, owner of the famous Goodnight ranch, Lome of buffalo, and experimenter in crossing buffalo and cattle to produce "catalo."
23—S. A. Maverick, whose name is applied to any cattle that bear no brand. He bought a small herd in the 40's, but a negro "o employed was so careless that he had to sell the few that remained from the hundreds stolen by rustlers.
31—W. T. Waggoner, whose brand was used on 25,000 horses and 100,000 cattle in 1895 after he had started in business with only 242 cows, 6 horses and a fifteen-year-old negro herd boy.

Mississippi's Governors

A student of Mississippi's historical records announces the rather surprising discovery that of the 34 governors who have served that state, only 10 have been native Mississippians, says the New Orleans Times-Picayune. South Carolina contributed five, Virginia four, Tennessee three, Georgia, North Carolina and Ohio two apiece, Pennsylvania, New York, Texas, Maine and Illinois, one each. It is explained, however, that practically all of the "outsiders" resided in Mississippi for many years before their elevation to the governorship. Gov. Adelbert Ames, the notable exception to this rule, arrived as "Military Governor" after the war between the states and his stay in Mississippi terminated with his retirement from the executive offices. Of the last eight governors it is noted that seven have been native sons. Also it is recalled that Mississippi has sent a number of native sons to governorships, senator-

Community Building

Retail Merchant Has Post of Importance

If the small restaurateur would serve a meal that would vie with home cooking, if the druggist would have any article a drug store should have when desired, if the small-shop laundryman would turn out crisp, spotless linen—

Then two specific needs in the merchandising of the nation would be removed, according to Ray Morton Hardy, business analyst of Lansing, Mich.

"And this would be much better than finding the town merchant serving his community by sitting on civic boards. His place in civic boards might better be a recognition of the effective, efficient and honest service he has rendered the public through his merchandising," said Mr. Hardy. "If the retail merchant attends to his business and does his work well he is a vital organ in the business body of his city or town. He is the distributor of good food, good clothing, shelter, warmth and every means of health, comfort and pleasure."

The retail merchant's first need is education, thinks Mr. Hardy. His second a recognized code of ethics.

"There are towns in the United States where 78 per cent of the retail business is lost to outside competition," he declared.

No Reason One Should Not Build in Winter

With due precautions and proper equipment, nearly all construction work can be carried on in winter and at no great difference in cost. The owner may often profit by saving interest on his investment and by securing earlier use of the structure.

Although equipment needed for protection and artificial heat in winter construction requires some expenditure and there may be some increase in overhead on the job due to delays from winter storms, these items may often be offset by the saving in salaries and the reduction in the contractor's general overhead. Labor in general is more efficient, as skilled workmen can be more easily obtained. It is feasible to plan now and build next winter—Exchange.

Home Setting Important

Buy your lot well in advance of the time for building and landscape it with trees and hedges. Is the advice given by a far-seeing reader who contributes a letter to the series on home-building in Liberty. "In planning my future home," she writes, "I purchased two lots, 40 feet frontage each, in what I believe will be a fine residential district in the suburban development of the city. My building program will not commence until 1930. I suggest to lot holders with such future plans: Plant shade trees and fence hedges now. Four or five years of steady, natural growth will make for hardiness that building activities will not disturb. The completed home will have the beauty and finish that otherwise would require four or five years to develop."

Ban Unsightly Billboards

A continuous campaign against the placing of billboards upon the state highways of Tennessee is now being conducted under the direction of the state department of highways and public works. Since December, when a state-wide "cleanup week" was proclaimed, the department has been removing disfiguring signs from the state roads in accordance with a law created by the state legislature in 1925 making it unlawful to erect signs of any character along the state highway system outside the limits of incorporated towns.

Build With Eye to Future

The home builder today is short-sighted if he puts his money into anything but a well-built and well-designed home. It costs very little if any more to build from a good plan that puts in those clever little touches here and there that give the house that individual and attractive look which means so much when the place is offered for sale.

Claims Everyone Can Now Be Well

After Suffering From Nervousness and Run-down Condition Stockman Regains Health and Strength, Quickly. Takes Tanlac

George B. Huguen, 2803 Live Oak Street, Dallas, Texas, a well known retired stockman says: "Everyone can gain good health by using Tanlac."
"A touch of malaria left me in a weakened condition, suffering from chills and dizzy spells, unable to eat without suffering indigestion and subject to constipation and gas. I became nervous and my work suffered because I was so weak. Still I dragged through the days, getting thinner and weaker, fighting off the dizzy headaches that became more frequent."

"Upon recommendation I tried Tanlac, and the results amazed me. I slept better, could eat my food with relish and without suffering from indigestion pains. I gained weight. My nerves were quieted and I was no longer dizzy."
"Tanlac made me a new man. I now enjoy perfect health, and work all day at high speed without tiring. Tanlac is the one remedy for continued good health, for keeping strong. Tanlac put me on my feet and I can recommend it as a great tonic."
"Tanlac has helped thousands of men and women. It is Nature's own

With an ordinary camera and a monochromatic film specially treated by the secret process, a film showing every shade of tone from the top to the bottom of the spectrum is obtained, which can be projected with an ordinary projector.

Night Schools.

It is pleasant to read that night classes at Aoy school will be resumed.

Enlarged state aid, through the legislature's recent action, makes this possible.

Adults of the south side, men and women who want to learn English, want to read and write, want to learn American ways of making a living and of making a home, will have their chance in this school as in past years.

They deserve all credit for being willing to go to school and study, struggling with unfamiliar mental tasks, after a hard day's work.

It is good for them to learn, and good for El Paso to have them do so. They are a worthy element in the city's life.

They were so anxious for the reopening of the school, these dwellers of the tenements, that they were willing to pay twice the tuition fee required on the north side where people are better off in an earning way.

It is to the credit of the school board that, hard-pressed as the board is for money, it refused to allow those poor people to make the extra payment. But they will have their night school.

—El Paso Herald.
It is to be noted that in recent years a change has taken place in the attitude of our Mexican population as to learning the English language. Formerly there existed a prejudice or rather a deep seated disposition on their part against acquiring the ability to converse in English, and sometimes when secretly able to speak English this knowledge was concealed. However, now most of the young Mexicans can either speak or have considerable understanding of it, and the older ones are now trying to follow in the ways of the younger. Our schools can be given a great deal of the credit in causing the younger generation to speak English and to become interested in American ways of dressing and living. For those who have no opportunity of attending day schools, these night schools will surely prove of great benefit.

Does this Indictment Catch You?

In discussing the subject of the inter-dependence of industry, Henry Swift Ives, Vice President, Casualty Information Clearing House, Chicago, Illinois, heaps some coals of fire on many of us when he says:

"There has been of late much viewing alarm, and rightly so, such modern political tendencies as government invasion into the field of private enterprise. The blame for these very real threats against our democratic institutions is variously assigned. The socialists and communists or most often accused, because it is their paternalistic theories and despotic economic codes which seem to be at the bottom of all the trouble.

"This undoubtedly is a valid indictment, but it would be much easier to sustain if those who drew it would include themselves among the accused. In my opinion the business man who is an ardent capitalist when his own business is concerned but who is inclined to be just as ardent a socialist when the other fellow's business is concerned, has had more to do with the headway made by the socialization movement in America than have all of the socialists and the ordinary mine-run of pink agitators combined. Indeed, if it were not for the very real aid and comfort given to the expounders of socialist doctrines by this type of business men socialism would still be in the theory stage of its development in this country.

business men, such cities as Detroit

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY

WHEREAS, Death has encroached upon the ranks of our organization and has taken away one of our members and officers, and esteemed, worthy and useful citizen, Mr.
J. H. Roark, and feeling keenly the severance of ties of friendship and interests that bound us all to our still greater loss sustained by his wife and family,

BE IT RESOLVED: That we, the members of the Highland Poultry Association of Brewster, Presidio, and Jeff Davis Counties, extend to his wife and family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy and condolence in the irreparable loss they are suffering in the death of husband and loved one May God whom he trusted sustain them in this hour of sorrow.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED:
That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. Roark, one published in The Marfa New Era, one in the Alpine Avalanche, and one spread upon the records of this Association.

would not have gone into the elec-business men, railroad nationaliza-business men, 76 states would not have gone into business of providthe exclusion of private insurance companies. Without the support of many business men, the obnoxious business men, the agitation for the socialization of coal mines, oil wells, packing plants, umbervards, cement works and a large number of other similar enterprises would not be of sufficient potency to be worth recording, nor could govern-support of business men, local, state

Also might be mentioned the encroachment of the Federal Govern-autocratic rule of bureaucracy, the curtailment of the privileges of the citizens by the enactment of Sumptuary Laws. All of these have a tendency to cause many to disregard all laws the breaking down of

NOVEMBER BRIDE COMPLIMENT-ED WITH SHOWER

Mrs. Monroe Slack and Miss Jettie Grace Pruett entertained Wednesday afternoon with a bridal shower, at the home of Mrs. Ben Pruett, complimenting Miss Florence Gilreath bride-elect, whose approaching marriage to Mr. Ed Pruett is to take place the latter part of the month. This interesting news was the inspiration for this prettily appointed shower. Beautiful cut flowers, ferns and pot plants were effectively used as decorations, accentuating a charming color scheme of white and orange, these colors prevailing in all the appointments.

The guests as they arrived registered in the bride's book near at hand. The bride-to-be entered the reception room to the strains of Lohengrins bridal chorus. Immediately following, Monroe Slack Jr., and Jack Knight Jr., made their appearance pulling a little express wagon, decorated in white and yellow, and resting upon the wagon was a large yellow pumpkin. The pumpkin proved to be filled with numerous gifts, including silver, cut glass, house linen, dainty articles for the bride's trousseau, and all sorts of pretty things. Much delight was taken in the array of lovely gifts and after they duly admired and the honoree had expressed her heartfelt gratitude for the love that prompted them, an attractive refreshment plate was passed. During this time the Marfa High School Orchestra played soft sweet music. Some sixty odd guests enjoyed the hospitality of the afternoon.

ENTERTAIN WITH SOCIAL

An affair of the week very much enjoyed by those present, was the delightful party given Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Metcalfe, who extended this delightful courtesy as a compliment to Miss Florence Gilreath and Mr. Ed. Pruett, bride and groom elect. Much good derived from this party, the men hemmed dish towels and the ladies gave their favorite receipts and good advice to the bride and groom elect. The guests were presented with cook aprons and caps and invited to assist Miss Florence in preparing the menu. Those present at this happy occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Pruett; Dr. and Mrs. Monroe Slack; Mr. and Mrs. Marsh Coffield; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wease; the honorees, Miss Florence Gilreath and Mr. Ed. Pruett, Misses Freda Burns and Jettie Pruitt and Mr. Alfred Ligon.

ENTERTAINS WITH AN- NIVERSARY DINNER

Charmingly reflecting the pastel tints in soft green, yellow and red in all the appointments, was the bridge dinner party given Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Casner, celebrating the second anniversary of their wedding. The guest arrived at the appointed hour and were served a delicious turkey dinner, consisting of four courses. The attractive interior was beautiful with its baskets and vases of Autumn leaves and cut flowers placed through the rooms. Three tables were placed for the players and the prevailing shades were prettily reflected in the score and tally cards. Mrs. Henry Coffield made high score for the ladies and Mr. Gallimore high score for the gentlemen. Mrs. Gallimore and Prof. C. Comer receiving the consolation prizes. The host and hostess complimented their guest with lovely favors, the ladies were presented with silver pencils and the gentlemen with linen handkerchiefs.

About 11 o'clock the guest departed, assuring their host and hostess of a delightful time.

Headache dizziness

"I HAVE headache once in a while, usually coming from constipation or torpid liver," says Mr. L. A. Morphis, of Pottsville, Ark. "and the very best remedy I have found to correct this condition is Thedford's Black-Draught. It acts quickly and easily, and it just can't be best."

"Black-Draught is the very best laxative I have found. I always feel so much better after taking it. My wife takes Black-Draught, too. For dizziness, costiveness and any little stomach disorder, we find it most satisfactory, and consider Black-Draught a family medicine."

Constipation, with an inactive liver, locks up poisons in the body and allows them to do their dangerous work.

Being purely vegetable and containing no harmful drugs, Black-Draught acts gently, helping the system get rid of impurities and preventing serious sickness. Get a package today. Sold everywhere. 25 cents.

ONE can't feel when there is a retention of poisonous waste in the blood. This is called a toxic condition, and it is apt to make one tired, dull and languid. Other symptoms are sometimes toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many people have learned the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, when the kidneys seem functionally inactive. Everywhere one finds enthusiastic Doan's users. Ask your neighbor!

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE WAITING CLOTHES

She Had Read a Great Deal.

Melly had been quite ill. She had had the most dreadful cold and she had first sneezed, then her throat had been sore, and then her chest had hurt.

She had been in bed for over a week. And that was unusual. For Melly had hardly ever been known to stay in bed in the daytime.

It had been rare and seldom that Melly had been in bed for any slight illness for more than a day at the most.

Sometimes she had been in bed but half a day. And now it had been for over a week.

She had felt very ill, too, and weak, and when she had stood up her legs had felt as though they didn't care to support her and were as tired as she was.

Then her head had felt dizzy when she had tried getting up, and she had felt hot and cold in such a mixed-up way that she had given in and gone back to bed again.

Some of her friends had sent her flowers and fruit and she had read a great deal.

What in the world would a person do without books? Melly had asked herself, with her own answer following quickly upon her own question.

Why a person would be miserable and oh, so lonely, if it weren't for books.

Then Melly began to feel better. She still felt weak but not nearly so weak as she had.

Then she felt better still and found all sorts of funny things at which to laugh.

She had smiled at things before but she hadn't really laughed, hardly at all.

And then she was told that the next day she could get up for quite a while and the day following, if it was nice, she could go out.

It was now foggy but she had a feeling that Old Nurse Fog would remove herself and her children before the day-after-the-next came.

Oh, the weather would be all right. And then she noticed her clothes hanging up in the closet just as she had left them over a week before.

They looked quite funny. There hung her very heaviest pair of woolen stockings, for the next day had promised to be so cold on the night Melly had taken ill.

She had hung up her warm stockings thinking she would be wearing them that following morning.

And there hung her little orange-colored flannel dress just as she had left it. There, too, was her coat, and her muff, and her funny little soft felt hat.

Her shoes were in the closet, side by side, as all good pairs of shoes should be, and they looked so quiet.

She could hardly believe they were her shoes. Her shoes were so used to being romped in, and even little spots of dirt and mud had grown clean looking in their week of quietness and closet-life.

She had quite forgotten about all her clothes, but here they were all waiting for her. They certainly wouldn't have been useful when she had been ill.

They weren't suitable for an ill person—they were too strong and stiff and healthy and made for out-of-doors, and they would be wonderful again, and almost new to her!

The clothes had waited, very patiently, while Melly had been ill, and would be ready for her the very moment she was all well once more.

No Tail to Wag John was showing off his Boston bulldog to his little friend, Mary, aged four, who had a fox terrier. John said, "My dog is better than yours. See, he has a screw tail."

"Yes," said Mary, "maybe he is, but your dog can't wag his tail when he sees some one he likes."

Both Outside Wraps Why are a door-knocker and an overcoat alike? Because they are both outside wraps.

FELT HAT STAGES COMEBACK; PARIS THINKS WELL OF PLAID

LIKE certain favorite players who perennially announce a "positive" last appearance the felt hat is successfully staging another "farewell" performance.

Not from present indications. Rather is the felt hat endearing itself to its audience even to a greater degree than heretofore, in that it is presenting an entirely new and varied program in which artful creased crowns and cunning rippling brims are playing leading roles.

Of course when it comes to dressy millinery for dressy occasions, the mode is very explicit in that regard, insisting on a more ornate and elaborate styling than we have been accustomed to for many seasons past.

If in Paris do as Parisians do, that is, choose any sort of material just so it is gay plaid. This vogue for plaid is sweeping through the entire of fashion's realm.

The picture portrays two unlike yet equally handsome versions of the plaid mode. Plaid worsted is given flattering treatment in the Paris-made two-piece frock to the right. In this instance the darker side of the plaid cloth is used for the skirt, the reverse giving a varied trimming for the blouse, which itself is made of beige kasha matched to the predominating tone in the plaid.

None other than a French stylist could contrive so intricate a fabric handling as is evidenced in the win-

Variety in Felt Hats.

For practical wear, youthful, novel and becoming types, such as the picture shows, are quite the proper thing.

There are points of outstanding interest in each of these models so carefully selected as representative of the mode. An evolution of the old-time cloche, but in softer effect, describes in a measure the first little hat. There is the inevitable crease in the soft crown and there is also the stylish trim of grosgrain ribbon.

Perforated felt gives us something new to think about. An effective patterning is worked out on the tall mod-some plaid silk frock shown here to the left. Manipulation of material is an outstanding bright light in the newer apparel creations.

Elaborately styled yet simple in appearance to the eye, is a sentiment which prevails throughout all dress design.

The latest smart combination registers leather and plaided woolen, using the latter for the skirt, lining the gay leather coat with the plaid where it also gives an enlivening contrast in collar and cuffs to match.

Very popular is the fashion for skirt of plaid, either silk or wool, topped with a velvet jacket. Also one sees the black or navy velvet skirt designed in scalloped tiers, with which is worn a tunic or blouse of plaid taffeta.

Perfectly stunning velvet plaid two-piece frocks are appearing on avenue and boulevard with which are worn velvet hats in solid coloring, shirred, corded or stitched, the ensemble enhanced by a handsome fur neckpiece.

Costume ensembles are of the latest which use plaid for the one-piece ish crown of the fine velours shape shown to the left of this group.

Some crowns show the crease from right to left as instanced in the little hat shown to the right. Note that it is a very fine velours, and it is this quality-kind which is in demand this season.

Exploiting the latest slant-back draped crown is the girlish felt hat shown in the center. It is in Lanvin green with a grosgrain banding in the now-so-much-talked-of jungle green.

Again the soft brim is apparent in the model to the left below, and it is ribbon bound, this being a feature of so many of the fashionable felts.

One of the whims of fashion is for the hatband carried out in two or three tones. Felt hats often match shoes and handbags in their coloring.

dress and for the lining of the top-coat which itself is developed of either solid-colored velvet or cloth.

Black and white plaid woolens are especially featured in smart coatings. These are offset with trimmings of furs blended to the color effect of the cloth.

Often the plaid presents a salt-and-pepper effect over its surface.

Ombre plaid is the very newest fabric sensation. It is especially effective in the heavy worsted materials. For instance a brown, green and beige plaid will be very dark at one edge of the cloth, grading into pale coloring at the other.

The climax of elegance in these ombre plaids is reached with the interweaving of gold and silver thread.

A good conscience, a good table, good digestion and a good wife—what better hast thou in thy store, O heaven!

CASSEROLE DISHES

The nice thing about casserole is it may be as pretty as one can afford to buy and may be used in countless ways as a serving and baking dish and then be an ornament to the table when you are ready to serve.

Buttered Apples en Casserole.—Peel, core and cut into eighths ten good flavored apples, arranging in the casserole. Add one-half cupful of sugar, or honey, and one teaspoonful of vanilla if the apple flavor is not pronounced, or a grating of lemon peel. Cover the top with bits of butter, cover and bake until the apples are tender. Decorate with marshmallows and brown. Serve with cream.

Chicken en Casserole.—Cut two chickens as for frying, remove the meat from the bones and put the bones into a kettle with one quart of cold water with salt and pepper to season, adding a clove of garlic and a stalk of celery. Simmer until reduced to half the amount. Fry the chicken and arrange in a casserole; over this put one cupful of cooked rice, pour in the stock and cook an hour and one-half.

Duck en Casserole.—Cut one cooked duck into pieces. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and fry the duck in it. Sprinkle with one tablespoonful of flour and brown. Add two cupfuls of stock, one chopped onion, a little parsley, a bayleaf, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, the same of meat extract and currant jelly, with a few drops of kitchen bouquet.

Cauliflower au Gratin.—Cook a large cauliflower until tender in boiling salted water, then drain. Divide in flowerets and place in a well buttered casserole. Cover with well seasoned white sauce, sprinkle with one-half cupful of bread crumbs and one-half cupful of grated cheese well mixed and brown in the oven.

Greek Stew.—Take one cupful of lamb cut into small pieces, one chopped onion and four tablespoonfuls of fat; cook all together until the meat is partly brown; then add three cupfuls of string beans, two cupfuls of canned tomato, and two cupfuls of diced potatoes. Cover in a casserole and cook 45 minutes.

Kidneys and Vermicelli.—Split and skin eight or ten sheep's kidneys and cut into slices, saving a few uncut for the top. Cook a few minutes in butter, add two sliced onions and fry. Add a tablespoonful of stock or water, salt and pepper to taste and put to stew in a casserole until tender. Place cooked vermicelli over the top of the dish, garnish with whole kidneys, reheat and serve very hot from the casserole.

Prune Butter.—Take one pound of washed prunes, soak overnight in water to cover, then cook slowly in the same water until tender. Remove the pits and mash through a colander, add one cupful of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of cinnamon and a little grated orange peel. Cook until thick. Put into glasses and cover with paraffin.

Hints Worth Noting. Nuts in the shell, which have become too brittle to crack without breaking, if treated to a bath of boiling water, will crack and seem like fresh nuts.

Keep the smallest bits of candle ends and put into a muslin bag. Use to polish the irons or keep the kitchen range bright.

If leaving an iron stove for any length of time for any length of time grease it well all over with unsalted fat, to keep it from rusting.

A broom which is badly worn may be made to serve much longer if the stitching is ripped out below the top row. Trim the bottom and soak in soap suds, then dry thoroughly.

A bit of ginger added to doughnuts is said to keep them from soaking fat, but all other conditions for good doughnuts should be met. Fat-soaked doughnuts are wasteful of fat and indigestible to eat.

The amount of bacon to be used for seasoning may be lessened if it is put through the meat grinder before adding to the dish. It is thus more evenly mixed through the dish in this way.

Stale bread put through the meat grinder, then browned in the oven, makes a fine breakfast cereal with milk. This is especially good for an invalid.

A run in silk hose, if not too long, may be taken back with a crochet hook. Old stockings cut round and round make fine rags for crocheted pillow tops. The silk hose with various colors are most attractive. The white ones may be dyed to get desired shades.

When making mayonnaise, if it curdles, beat another egg and drop the curdled mixture drop by drop into it, beating all the time; it will, if carefully done, blend well, then proceed to finish with more oil and lemon juice.

Lemons placed in the oven and heated hot will render their juice more freely.

THIS WOMAN'S BATTLE

Wins Against Ill Health

"At times I was hardly able to do my housework," writes Mrs. Margaret Wallace of 1647 Safford Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

How many women have found themselves in this same condition! How many women have fought bravely, on day after day, cooking, washing, ironing, doing the dishes, and keeping the house clean, when they were in a weakened condition and had not sufficient strength to perform these duties easily and properly!

When Mrs. Wallace was experiencing great difficulty in carrying on the daily tasks, a friend advised her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she gave it a fair trial. "I just can't give enough thanks to it," she writes. "Now I can eat anything at all and I am feeling better than I have for years. I shall never be without your medicine again."

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling bugles to cheer her on, no waving banners.

Many other women tell us, as Mrs. Wallace did, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was their faithful ally in the struggle for better health.

It is believed that the saddle and the boy's rubber-soled shoes acted as insulators and saved him from death.

WORK CENTER HANDY IN MAKING PASTRY

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
A marble top from an old bureau, and convenient shelves for storing supplies, especially those needed for making biscuits or pies, may be seen in this section of a Virginia farm kitchen. The photograph was taken by the United States Department of Agriculture. When it is also possible to have a high stool to sit on while at work the homemaker reduces fatigue noticeably and so gets more done. The cold marble is excellent for chilling and rolling out the dough, and is easily cleaned.

YEAST ROLLS ARE EASILY PREPARED

Temperature of Dough Important at All Stages.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Yeast rolls are made by the same general method as loaf bread. They usually contain more sugar and shortening and sometimes egg, and milk is almost always used as the liquid. If sugar and shortening are increased, they tend to retard the growth of the yeast and the rolls take longer to rise. If desired, rolls may be made from bread dough by adding the extra sugar and shortening when the dough is ready to be punched down the first time. In this case, of course, more kneading is required in order to combine the materials thoroughly and it may be necessary to knead in more flour.

The temperature of the dough is important at all stages of preparing yeast bread and rolls. The illustration shows the use of a thermometer to test the temperature of the dough at different times during the processes of kneading, rising, and punching down.

The straight dough method of mixing and handling the dough within a period of about four hours is perhaps the most convenient when only rolls are made. Details of this method are given in Farmers' Bulletin 1450-F, "Home Baking." Allow the dough to rise the first time in the same way as for loaf bread. The dough may be permitted to rise again before it is shaped into biscuits, or the second rising of the dough may be omitted. Roll the dough out thin and cut with a biscuit cutter, or cut off small pieces from the dough, roll them into balls, and flatten with the palms of the hands. Brush the top part lightly with butter, crease through the center with the handle of a tableknife, fold over, and press down the top.

After rolls are molded and placed in the pan, they may be put in a refrigerator or other cold place to slow down the action of the yeast, and baked later. If the temperature has been so low that the rising is very much checked, they should be kept in a warm place for a little while before baking so that the volume will be about doubled.

RECIPE TO MAKE GOOD BEAN SOUP

Same General Directions Apply to Various Kinds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The same general directions apply to any kind of bean soup, or to soup made from dried peas, which may be used if more convenient. They come from the same plant family, and supply about the same food materials. Naturally you are familiar with the white navy bean and dried lima beans. Red kidney beans are very good, too, and there are many others, some of them well known locally in various parts of the country, but little used elsewhere. There is the pinto, or frijol bean, mottled brown and white, abundant in the Southwest; the black or turtle soup bean, the flageolet or French lima, and the soy bean, which was introduced from the Orient. The cowpea is used in large quantities in the South, and is of the same character as these other beans, though a little different in flavor. These last two require longer preliminary soaking and longer cooking than the other varieties, so perhaps one of the first four or five should be chosen.

For a family of six half a pint of the dried beans will be sufficient for the soup. They should be soaked overnight in four times as much water, or one quart, and then cooked in the same water until very soft. If you like the flavor of onion, cook one or two slices with the beans. If you have a fireless cooker you will find it excellent for cooking them. Mash the beans through a sieve when they are done, and add water and milk, or stock—enough to make up a full quart. Of course you may prepare a double quantity of bean soup and serve it twice if you like, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture.

All bean or pea soups should have a little flour added to them as a binder to prevent the thick part from settling to the bottom. Mix a tablespoonful of butter with a tablespoonful of flour. Add a little of the hot soup, and stir until it is smooth. Then add the remaining soup and salt and pepper to season. Cook in the double boiler about ten minutes. Celery or any other soup vegetables you wish may be cooked with the soup. They should be cut up in small pieces. A tablespoonful of chopped parsley sprinkled over the soup at the last minute is an agreeable addition. A pinch of mustard and a little lemon juice are good when black beans are used.

Acid Solution Will Keep Kettle Free of Deposits

The hard deposits in tea kettles consist of calcium sulphate, commonly called gypsum, carbonate of calcium and magnesium, known as dolomite limestone or a mixture of these two substances together with small amounts of silica and oxides of iron and alumina.

If the deposit is not too heavy, it can be removed with a hot solution of vinegar or commercial muriatic acid, one part of which has been diluted with five parts of water. The acid solution should be handled carefully, as it is corrosive. Frequent applications will keep the kettle free from deposits. If the deposit is allowed to become thick and hard, there is no practical method of removing it.

Wild Life Not Wiped Out by Civilization

Notwithstanding a population of several million in northwestern states, and cities from 100,000 to 450,000, Oregon, Washington and Idaho still retain a generous supply of wild life of the primeval wilderness, mostly within national parks and forests. The federal forest service has just completed a census showing Washington still has fifty caribou and fifteen grizzlies, unknown to hunters and to millions who never have seen them. Idaho and Oregon have grizzlies, but no caribou.

Deer are the most numerous of the larger animals, numbering 100,000, of which Oregon has 59,000. Washington boasts 8,500 elk, Oregon 3,500 and Idaho 2,000. There are mountain goats, sheep, black bear, all the predatory prowlars and numbers of fur bearers in the wilder parts of the region. The census proves that with protection all wild life tends to increase rapidly.

Why your Light Bills are Higher in Winter than In Summer

This chart shows the average hours of artificial light used in the average home, averaging the days of each month of the year.

Average Electric lighting hours each day

January	6 hours 32 minutes
February	5 hours 38 minutes
March	4 hours 10 minutes
April	3 hours 48 minutes
May	2 hours 57 minutes
June	2 hours 33 minutes
July	2 hours 36 minutes
August	3 hours 09 minutes
September	4 hours 00 minutes
October	4 hours 54 minutes
November	6 hours 11 minutes
December	6 hours 51 minutes

This chart shows why your Electric Bills are considerably higher in December than in June. The average use of Electric Lights in a residence, in December is the heaviest of the year, in December the used is nearly 7 hours a day, whereas in June the average is only 2 hours 35 minutes. From June to January the daylight hours decrease and the Electric lighting hours grow. In January the daylight hours grow and the Electric Lighting hours decrease, and this condition continues from Month to Month until we again reach balmy days of June.

C. R. NORMAN, Manager

Highway Engineer Turns to old trade and Makes Remarkable Success

By Katherine Duckworth,
In San Antonio Express

MARFA, TEXAS, Nov. 6.—The strip of gold bordering Texas and known as the Rio Grande has given fresh proof of the agricultural wealth in the acres that its flood waters have deposited through the centuries by the remarkable success achieved in Presidio County by Paul Probst.

Paul Probst was born 42 years ago on a Salisbury, North Carolina farm, and it was here that he received his schooling, which consisted of three short terms in a little puncheon-floored, log cabin schoolhouse. While still a little boy, his parents moved to Southern Illinois and bought a 600-acre, diversified farm. Until the age of 21, when he married and "struck out" for himself, Probst worked on his father's farm, and between the laying of crops and harvesting seasons, "hired out" as a practical engineer. His father was sold to the theory that "an idle brain is the devil's workshop", and when his boy was not in the fields, he kept him on railroad and highway construction jobs, thus aiding him to gain—from two practical sources—the courage to stem adversity and grasp opportunity.

For seven years, Paul Probst was State highway superintendent for the Western Division of Texas, which includes the county of Presidio. Suddenly, some one gave the political rope a twist, and he was "popped off" and out of a job. He came up smiling and busy searching for another means of livelihood, so busy, that he says he had no time to nurse a grudge. That was less than two years ago. Today, Paul Probst is known as Presidio County's of agriculture, demonstrating a move of what can be done in the way of diversified farming in the Rio Grande Valley than any man in that section. The Probst farm of 200 acres is cut up into small tracts, which he works intensively, producing from them crops of cotton, corn, cane, wheat, oats, alfalfa, grain sorghums, beans, sweet potatoes, Bermuda onions, pumpkins, watermelons, pecans, and many varieties of fruit and vegetables. He also specializes in Rhode Island Reds, thoroughbred Poland-Chinas and Jersey cows for dairy purposes.

Two to Four Crops Yearly.

The season is long in the Presidio-Rio Grande Valley, therefore, from two to four crops can be made each year. Wheat, Oats and other small grain, sown last year in December and January, were harvested in time for a fall crop. The June harvest lands of wheat and oats were planted back into corn, which yielded abundantly by September. Sixty acres of acala, or long staple cotton, brought 47 bales. Some of this land produced 2 bales to the acre, while the late planting brought a smaller average. The June cutting of oats, from a seven-acre crop, yielded 65 bushels per acre and the yellow yam potato crop, 400 bushels. There is no waste on the Probst farm. Everything is utilized. Borders, sandy ridges and sand banks are made to pay a high margin of profit. Ridges and ditch banks are planted in peanuts, sweet potatoes, corn, cane and pumpkins. Between the corn, planted four feet apart—on borders and between cotton rows, watermelons are grown. Probst has 7 Jersey cows which are raising calves from registered Jersey bull. These cows are pastured on an uncleared tract, where they fatten on Bermuda grass and mesquite beans from native mesquite bushes.

Around the poultry yards snifflers form chicken feed are planted. Chickens, hogs and cows are fed the by-products of the farm, and all animals are being brought up to standard. The farm is irrigated by means of pumps. One, an 8-inch centrifugal, raises water from the Rio Grande by means of Ford tractor; the other a 4-inch centrifugal, is operated by a Dodge engine, and pumps from a spring. These pumps are used because water cannot be conveniently brought from the river by gravity. The lift from the river is only 12 feet and the cost of raising water has not proven a heavy tax on the income of the farm. In fact, the certainty of having water when it is needed, compensates for the difference in irrigation expenses.

A part of the Probst farm was formerly the old river bed, but the river is now eight feet lower than the average level of the farm, resulting from the scouring out of its banks, and although the river carries a greater flood than in previous years it never overflows the community.

Organization and team work on the Probst farm are ideal. He works with regular monthly paid men, 40 of his 200 acres, and employs 10 renters, who cultivate under his supervision, equal shares of the remainder, with the understanding that they raised sufficient feedstuff to supply the animals. This plan meets the approval of the tenants, who profit by the idea of diversifying on fewer acres, and nets the owner a splendid revenue.

Cleared $3,700

Product from the Probst farm—including chickens, hogs, fruit, vegetables and dairy products—shipped by truck to local markets of Shafter, Marfa, Alpine and other points, cleared last year, approximately $3,700. This year, there will be an increased profit because of improved farming conditions and a better season. The farm now has 100 acres in cotton, with the outlook of a bale and a half yield. The May planting of corn, which brought 75 bushels per acre, has been planted back into pinto beans—a short growth crop seven months' old fig trees are loaded with fruit, and 3-year old trees

PECOS COUNTY BRINGS IN OIL WELL

When the announcement reached Fort Stockton last Friday that the Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas Company had brought in a good oil well on the Ira G. Yates ranch 60 miles east of here, much enthusiasm was created and the long desire and wish for a real oil well in Pecos was gratified.

The well is located on Section 3 1-2 of the I. and G. N. survey, and is about two miles west of the Pecos River at the foot of a "nose" and on what is considered to be one of the best structures in West Texas.

The pay formation is a sandy lime, the top of which was picked up at between 992 and 994 feet. The total gravity of the oil is reported about 30 degrees Baum.

The production of the well has not been definitely determined, but is estimated at around 150 barrels. The well makes a head every 12 hours and throws oil each time for several minutes over the top of the derrick.

With the pay barely topped at 997 feet, it is believed the well will materially increase when drilled in. The placing of storage on the ground to take care of the production of the well is being rushed and as soon as completed, the well will be drilled in.

Oil scouts arriving here Thursday, reported that the well was rapidly increasing and that it had increased over initial production, about 100 barrels daily.

Leasing and selling oil royalties is very active and every indication now points to an immediate and tremendous drilling campaign in Pecos County.

AVERAGED 1608 POUNDS

This week L. C. Brite, sold to B. Pruitt for the Peyton Packing Co of El Paso two cars (thirty six head) of range bulls from his ranch which averaged 1608 pounds. This is probably the heaviest average of strictly range bulls of any breed ever loaded in Texas. These bulls were all bred by Mr. Brite, and altogether a home product, having been nourished on strictly Presidio County grass.

Miss Daisy Hamie, daughter of Mayor Hamie, came in Tuesday from Sul Ross where she is a student. Miss Daisy is slightly indisposed and will spend a short time at home recuperating.

COMMITTED SUICIDE

Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock, Private Daugherty of C Troop Camp Marfa, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart with a .45 pistol. It appeared he had been on guard duty and soon after leaving the adjutant's office the deed was committed. The body was shipped Thursday evening to his home in Massachusetts.

R. E. Evans of Alpine was a visitor to the city several days this week stopping with Mr. John Griffith.

Lets all be on the sidelines shouting for Marfa, on November 20.

have born two crops this season; black Hamburg and Magnolia grapes were gathered in July from vines set out in January; 3-year-old peach trees are well loaded. Two, 4 and a half acre tracts will be leveled for figs and grapes as soon as crops are laid by. Because of the Valley's temperate winters, Probst grows and sells vegetables throughout the year, and all fruits planted by him is an experimental problem to determine the best variety for this section.

CITRUS FRUITS FOR WINTER HEALTH

With the passing of summer and Fall, with its wealth of fruits in both orchard and garden, it seems as if we are suddenly deprived of all refreshing and juicy "fresh fruits". We miss the abundance of berries, melons and others succulent food fruits that we have been using for breakfast, in desserts and for countless ordinary uses. But, on the other hand, the late Fall brings to perfection an entirely different group of fruits, namely, the "citrus" fruits, which include the orange, the lemon and the grapefruit.

All these three fruits are distinguished by the amount of "acids and salts" which they contain. And this means that they are cleaning and refreshing blood purifiers—having a marked tonic effect on the system. Oranges contain the most perfect natural food sugar as well as salts; lemons are noted for their anti-bilious qualities; while we are just beginning to discover that grape fruits with its juices is invaluable in all cases of colds, catarrh and influenza.

Of all the wonderful fruits, perhaps the orange is Nature's most choice and healthful gift to man.

It is interesting to note that orange juice is digested, and therefore instantly assimilable by the system very shortly after taking. That is why it is so refreshing to exhausted or feeble persons, and particularly those suffering from fevers and other diseases. The sweeter the orange the greater its food value a pint of orange juice contains the same food value as three-quarters of a pint of milk. Moreover, orange juice is rich in salts, especially lime and alkaline salts, which counteract the tendency to bad effect of a sedentary life or a diet too heavy in meat or starch. Further, orange juice, as mothers of young children well know, has a particular effect on bowel action. No pills or purgatives can compete with orange juice as a regulator, not only efficacious, but totally without harmful results.

The acid of orange juice also stimulates digestion by increasing the activity of the gastric glands, and because of its odor, color and salts it is also an excellent appetizer to precede any meal. And while not all persons are interested in the diseases of scurvy, rickets or pellagra, it should be interesting for mothers to know that orange juice tends to prevent not only these dread diseases, but that it produces in palatable form the mysterious but necessary "vitamins" without which the growth of children is not satisfactory.

Because they can be secured in the winter, when many other fruits in fresh form are unobtainable, both oranges and lemons should appeal to the home manager anxious for the health of her family. In addition, both these inexpensive and now universal citrus fruits supply the flavor and color so desirable in countless dishes, whether cake, pudding, sauce or preserve.

Lemons, too, are what we may call "food fruits" since their healthful properties are so marked. The composition of lemon juice varies according to the season, and the citric acid is considerable greater in a lemon picked in cold weather than in one picked in the Spring. Lemon juice also contain an exceptional amount of "salts"—potash and phosphoric acid—which brings up the interesting point well worth noting, that lemon juice is an alkali in its effect and not an acid, as wrong popular opinion may suppose, and it is just because of this quality that it is so valuable as an antibilious tonic, and that is so ably counteracts the formation of undesirable acids which accumulate because of an ex-

CANE SUGAR, A NEW FOOD PRODUCT MADE FROM SUGAR CANE

Lovers of cane Sirup will now be able to obtain the genuine sugar-cane flavor in an entirely new form. A new product called 'Cane Cream' has been originated as a result of experiments by the Bureau of Chemistry of the United States Dept. of Agriculture, and 1000 cases of this new product are to be made by a Louisiana sugar factory during the present season for trial distribution to retail trade.

The new product is made entirely from the juice of sugar cane. Nothing is added and nothing is taken away. It has the color of cane sirup and the smooth, attractive consistency of the soft centers of chocolate coated cream candy. In fact, cane cream is made by the same process as is used in candy factories for making candy cream centers.

Cane cream can be made of widely varying consistency, but it always has the same attractive smoothness. When made of thinner consistency it flows like thick sirup, and is used exactly like sirup on bread, cakes, waffles, etc. Cane cream fits the taste of those who like a thick sirup.

When made of thicker consistency cane cream is excellent in sandwiches and also makes an attractive ready-made cake icing with typical cane flavor. All that is necessary is to melt it in a double boiler and pour. Cane cream can also be used at a soda fountain as a topping for sundaes. A limited amount of cane cream will be available this season through grocery stores.

cessive starchy and heavy meat diet. In short frequent use of lemon juice in beverages, in salad dressing and, of course (though to a much less degree), in sauce for puddings and as flavor in various dishes, will do much to increase body health during the cold weather when the general tendency is to overeat starchy foods, syrups and heavy gravies.

The Spaniards introduced the so-called grapefruit into Florida where it has attained its fullest perfection. Its original name, and one much better suited to its Spanish origin, is the "pomelo". It was nicknamed "grapefruit" because of the clustering grape-like groups in which it grows, although it is in no way related to the grape family, but is a citrus fruit, cousin to oranges and lemons. Unfortunately, this most excellent winter product is many times eaten before it is fully mature, and then it is regarded as "too acid" and sugar is mistakenly heaped and eaten on it. A perfectly ripe grapefruit requires no sugar and is much more wholesome eaten without any sweet.

Because of its enormous size, the grapefruit offers the housewife value as a salad fruit, or one from which fruit cocktail and combination fruit dishes can be prepared easily. The rind makes convenient baskets for containers, and is itself worth adding to marmalade and other dishes where the bitter flavor will relieve the excessive flatness or sweetness of other foods. The juice also may be combined with lemon or orange juice in lemon pie, in many pudding sauces and in other dishes.
