DARBY FOR DISTRICT CLERK: TOWERY FOR COLLECTOR

DARBY AHEAD FORTY VOTES AND TOWERY WITH THIRTY-EIGHT

In Hale county the only interest in the local election was in the races for district clerk and county tax collec-

For district clerk W. D. Darby is the total to date being Patterson 587 and Darby 625, with Darby having two majority at Westside, which has not reported. There are 175 votes to be counted at the city hall box and the Lakeview box has not ben reported.

For tax collector the totals, except for the unreported votes mentioned above, are: B. H. Towery 430, W. M. Jeffus 392. Nine McComas 37, Levi Schick 68, J. W. Stovall 64, II. M. Bailey 176, Geo. Stanford 92.

Many women voted in the election. On account of some of the courts of the state having held that women could vote without a poll tax receipt, the local lawyers signed a stateaent saying it was their opinion that they could do so, hence many women who had not paid poll tax voted.

New York, Nov. 3 .- With definite | can, re-elected. returns lacking from only a few states, Senator Warren G. Harding today has been swept into the presidency by the greatest popular majority in the history of American politics. In complete returns today gave Harding 391 electral votes, Cox 127, with 13 doubtful.

As tabulation of returns was completed today, the Harding landslide was seen to be greater than it had appeared even last night when the great republican sweep from coast to coast became manifest .

The most optimistic predictions of Republican National Chairman Will Hays were exceeded in practically every instance. The women's vote swelled the totals to unprecedented proporitions and made the democratic; defeat appear all the more over-

Harding, when he assumes the presidency March 4, 1921, will go into office with a senate and house of representatives republican by wide margins, according to the returns to

The republicans gained seats in both the upper and lower houses.

It was estimated that the tot-, 75te cast was more than 20,000,000 and that Harding polled nearly 6,000,000 votes more than Cox. This broke all records for political landslides. The no state ever gave a presidential candidate more than a 500,000 plurality. This was surpassed by New York, which gave Harding a probable lead of more than one million; by candidate has a margin of more than 700,000 and in Illinois where Harding's estimated pdurality is about 800,000. Harding's margin of vic-John W. McCollum of St. Joe, agent tory in Ohio was estimated at 400,in favor of the latter, apepars to have gone for Harding by more than lican.

> New York, Nov. 3 .- The Harding landslide increased in size late this afternoon when more complete returns indicated that the republican latest returns, following is the eleccandidate had carried Tennessee, Montana and Arizona.

These returns threw thirteen additional electoral votes to Harding who apparently will have at least 391 votes in the electoral college.

In addition, late returns from Oklahoma indicated that the result is still in doubt there, though Cox was holding a slight lead. In capturing Tennessee the president-elect succeeded in breaking the democratic 31.33; 1918, 16.66; 1917, 9.87; 1916, front there for the first time since

Westside Forty-Two Club Entertained by Gentlemen

On October 7th, at the regular meeting of the Westside 42 club the gentlemen decided to entertain the ladies of the club and a committee ladies of the club and a committee was appointed, consisting of R. A. Underwood, C. D. Wofford and J. B. Scott, to make necessary arrangements. On Friday, October 29th, the gentlemen of the club escorted the ladies to the Cozy Cafe to an especially prepared dining room. Covers were laid for the entire club. The menu consisted of a six course dinner of oyster cocktail, cream of tomato soup, dill pickles, celery, roast turkey and iressing, cranberry sauce, cream potatoes, shrimp salad, punch , ice ream, cake, coffee and mints.

The tables were beautifully decorated with cut flowers, Miss Neal acted as toastmistress and Mrs. Way-land, Mrs. Curl, Mrs. Scott offered toasts of appreciation to the men of the club, to which R. A. Underwood, ed in his happy and jovial manner.
The success of this banquet and this most enjoyable affair was due to the efficiency of the committee who had the affair in charge. Every detail to make the evening a success had been looked after.

After the banquet the ladies were aken to the Olympic theatre where seats had been reserved for them. This was one of the many pleasant evenings spent by the club.

> For the first time for years the Paris restaurants are now sending orders to the snail farms in the provinces, as well as to Italy and Switserland. The snails are collected during June and July by women and children, and must be as tenderly handled as eggs, for on no account must the shell be cracked. At the farm they are placed one by one on grass in fine wire enclosures, and are fed on lettuce and cabbage. A large cabbage in an enclosure with two hundred snails will disappear in an hour. Undecisive Character.

A person of undecisive character wonders how ait the embarrassments actly in his way, to place him just in Pay Hubert F Bulled ways that one situation for which he is peculiarly unadapted, but in which he ts also willing to think no other man could have acted with facility of con fidence. Incapable of setting up a firm purpose on the basis of things as they are, he is often employed in vain speculations on some different supposable state of things, which would have saved him from all this perplexity and irresolution. He thinks what a determined course he could have pursued if his talents, his health. his age had been different: if he had been acquainted with some one person sooner, if his friends were, in this or the other point, different from what they are; or if fortune had showered her favors on him. And he gives himself as much license to complain as if all these advantages had been among the rights of his nativity, but refused, by a malignant or capricious fate, to his life.-Rev. John Foster.

BLAME ON PAPER

Atrocious Wall Coverings Cause of Bad Temper.

in Article on the Subject, English Journal Makes Serious Charges Against Designers Who Give Fancy the Rein.

"It isn't your liver which is wrong, It is your will power!" may possible be the exclamation of the doctor in the near future. Instead of sending round to the chemist for salts and senna, the man who feels his nerves to be jangled, his digestion to be rotten and a taste in his month like sucked pennies, will call in the men the slapdash brushes.

Many a man thinks he is bad tempered and takes himself seriously to task, as he reads his paper in the train, for having left behind him a family in tears, when really, he is perfectly innocent.

If he did break out and say things and slam doors and throw things about and ask who had been chopping firewood with his best razor and call the breakfast bacon "putrid"-it probably was-it was not that he was "ratty." but that the wallpaper all over his house was enough to give a rhinoceros a thin skin, a writer in London Answers asserts.

In the days before wallpapers were invented the world bred quite a large and regular crop of saints. The renson no new saint ever appears on the horizon is due to wallpapers. Who could be a saint and live with the atrocious convolutions, evolutions and pyrotechnics of the modern wallpaper?

The thing is impossible. A wall covered with a fruit salad of cherries, with leaves to match, may be borne with for a day, or even a week, but when it comes to living with it a whole year, and often much more, it gets on the nerves and frays the edges of the nervous system.

Then there is the flower paper, a few degrees worse than the fruit salad contraption. A little red rose or two scattered broadcast on a nice, creamy background may be all right, but when ft comes to what the Covent garden porter calls "A market bunch" repeated all over the wall, 520 times it is calculated to send a Galapagos tortolse into hopping madness.

Then it is a funny thing how wallpaper designers love big flowers. They wouldn't be seen looking at a daisy or a primrose, but put a sunflower or a dahlia or a rhododendron or a prize chrysanthemum or some mixture of all these which makes a flower no one ever saw outside an opium dream and they go for it with avidity and reproduce it by the hundred gross!

Paperhangers would be well advised to change their method of advertising their craft. It is no use to put up a sign simply saying that you are a house decorator, "estimates free," and that sort of rot. Say, rather:

"N. O. Arsnik, Professor of Rest Cure. Are you jumpy? Do you tremble when you see a job of work? Are you given to language? Do you assault the gas meter man and set the dog on the tax gatherer? What you want is a new wallpaper or twosomething in low tones, restful and soothing."

"Giddap!"

The Stars and Stripes prophesies that long after the last of the American forces have left France echoes of Yankee vernacular will linger among the French peasantry, and to bear out Its prophecy it tells the following story of a good woman at Vouvray, a sub urb of Tours, who bought at a sale, conducted by our remount service, a horse with which on the whole she was well pleased. When, however, she had, it only a short time a private from the Tours barracks came upon the worried old lady, circling horse and cart in a vain effort to get the beast to

"How goes it, madame?" he inquired. "Ah, monsieur, he is a bon cheval, but he understands not the French. How is it you say 'allez!' monsieur?" "Voila, madame," he replied, and took the reins and with a single "giddap!" urged the horse into action.

"Ah, merci, monsieur, merci!" ex-

If ten years from now she remembers no more than "giddap!"-well, that's something.

Secretary Baker a "Bartender." "I might have a chance to get a job after March 4, 1921," said Secretary of War Baker the other day, "if it had not been for the prohibition business. "Once when I was mayor of Cleveland I had a hand in settling a labor row. When it was all over one of the men asked me if I carried a union card. Unnecessary Work.

The other day when the second grade teacher announced the singing lesson she noticed that Russell was reading a story book.

"Put away your book, dear, while we are learning to sing," she said. "But I don't really need to learn now to sing," he calmly protested. "You see, we have a phonograph at

ALL ARE TALLER LYING DOWN

Fact Which at First Seems Peculiar Is Easily Susceptible of Scientific Proof.

How many people are aware that we are shorter when standing than when lying, and taller is the morning than in the evening?

An Englishman was the first to diserver his, but afterward Doctor Marand of the Royal academy of France made several experiments to prove the theory. He found after a year's trial that usually in the night he gained almost three-eighths of an inch, and lost almost as much during the day. The cause of this is to be found in the different state or condition of the cartilages which go to make up the spine.

The joints of this part of our bodles are separated and yet joined by with the ladders, the paste bucket and particular bony substances, every one which has a springy resilience. These are capable of yielding on all sides without bending the backbone or spine itself. Of course, the difference is searcely perceptible in one joint alone but the combined effect is appreciable. Naturally, when the spine is supporting the weight of the head it is liable to contract, and we are tallafter lying down for some time than after we have been walking about all day with our bodies in an upright position, with the spine supporting the weight of the head.

At night time, when we lie down in more or less horizontal position, these top parts do not weigh so heavfly, and the springy muscles being expanded, our spines consequently become longer.

Another proof of this is to be found in the increase of height sometimes experienced by invalids who have spent a long time in bed; and also in the fact that the more rest a young child has, the taller he will grow.-London Tit-Bits.

This Toad Was a Vagrant.

How she indulged in an experiment to determine the truth of the esser-Louth's Companion contributor that toads have homing instincts, and was disappointed, Miss Dora Read Goodale tells in the Springfield Republican.

Some time ago, she writes, I read that the unassuming toad has the "homing instinct" to as great a degree as the homing pigeons, and the assertion was supported by detailed accounts of various toads that were removed to a distance but returned to their native haunts even before their owner or landlord. Therefore, on & fine Sunday morning I caught in my garden a portly toad, whose puffy corpulency suggested that he had executed numberless flies, and, after tying a red thread round his leg like a badge of honor, I carried him, partly by automobile and partly on foot, three miles from home.

When I gently deposited him near mossy log by the wayside, he sat perfectly still for fully two minutes, as If getting his bearings; then, after winking two or three times and catching an ant or two with his lightning tongue, he gave a prodigious leap and disappeared in the undergrowth. I confess I had not much hope of seeing him again-and I never have.

No "Mute Inglorious Miltons."

There are no "mute, inglorious Miltons," although there are many inglorlous persons who imagine that they are Miltons, writes St. John Ervine in the Manchester Guardian. A Milton may be "inglorious" for a period, but he is never "mute" for a moment. Even the inglorious persons who imagine that they are Miltons, when they would be much better employed as haberdashers, are never mute. They are as a rule, more articulate than the Miltons, for they put into their tongues what they are unable to put into their

The problems of society in dealing with men of genius is not how to encourage them but how to keep them in order. It is probably true that in a disorganized nation the average intelligent man, if he be reared in poverty, will fail to rise to his level, but it is equally true that the man of genius, however harsh his circumstances may be, will find his tevel as certainly as water does.

War Divorces Increase.

The post-war divorce crush in England is steadily increasing and it was declared in London that no diminution is in sight. There were 1,325 undefended cases in the January list of the divorce court and a new list is being prepared to take care of the surplus cases. The big increase in divorces is attributed to the upheaval in social conditions caused by the war.

GATHER YE ROSES!

Happiness Never a Thing One Lightly Casts Away.

Too Beautiful, Even Though Evanes cent, to Be Passed By When One May Hold It, If Only for the Moment.

We were coming home from a din ner party together, my friend and I It was late at night and rather rainy and as we sat together in the damp almost empty trolley car, my friend spoke very suddenly and seriously writes Margaret E. Sangster in the Christian Herald.

"Just now," she said, "I've a chance to be very happy. But I'm almost afraid to take it!'

The rain bent in a futile manner against the car windows. I listened to it for a moment before I spoke. "Why?" I questioned at last-"why are you afraid to take your chance to be happy?" "Because," answered my friend, and her eyes looked far away--past the car and the rain, even-"because I'm afraid that it wen't last!" When it is autumn and the leaves are crimson and gold-colored and very beautiful, we know, even as we admire them, that they will be brown and withered seme day. But that does not keep us from loving their glorious col-

It's like that, too, with flowers, and springtime, and the blue sky of summer. We know that the flowers will fade away and that springtime will go and that there will be winter storm clouds where there were once sparkles

And so this is the answer to my friend and to other friends of mine: Never be afraid to grasp at happiness because it may not last. For happiness is as beautiful as the flowers of the vivid leaves of sutumn. And even though it might not helt, happy too beautiful to pass by with never & spring and the sky of summer and

And then, as the philosopher said, and as we know, don't be sure, as you take your chance at happiness, that it will not stay. Look around your circle of friends, look at your business associates, look at the casual crowds and note the average of happy faces is rather high. You'll see more smiles, I think, than frowns; more merry faces than sad ones! Don't be afraid to take a chance at happiness because you fear that it is too beautiful to last. Take your chance, instead, arguing that happiness is too beautiful not to last!

WHEN AIRPLANE WAS NOVELT.

In 1910 Newspapers Considered Ordinary Flights as Something Worthy of "Splurge", Headlines.

Nine years ago who would have dreamed of an NC-4 flying easily from Rockaway to Halifax, from Halifax to Trepassey, from there to the Azores and on to Lisbon, and thence to Plymouth? Or of Hawker and Grieve, the indomitable ones, jumping off at St. John's in a land machine with an ocean between them and the Irish coast, whither they were bound? Or of Alcock and Brown who won after Hawker and Grieve had failed? Or of a dirigible, large as the ocean liner Adriatic, with five gondolas and a crew of 30 men, sailing swiftly through the fog, most of the time seeing nothing else, from England to a landing field in Mineola?

On July 7, 1910, a New York news paper published the latest "ocean flight" news with a three-column head: "Curtiss, in Great Ocean Flight, Soars 1300 Feet Above Waves.'

"Remains Aloft More Than 12 Minutes, Circling Atlantic City's Throngs." The story goes on to describe the flight:

"Steady as a sea gull, the great yellow biplane flew over the sea, 1,300 feet above the waves and a mile out from the shore, remaining aloft for 12 minutes and 13 seconds." It tells how Curuss almost wrecked the plane at the start in a dash through a breaker. The accident forced him to descend after he had covered 1,300 feet.

"Sending for new propeller blades," the account says, "Mr. Curtiss superintended their adjustment, and after a single test he forgot the accident and daringly reascended. This display of confidence and courage brought a cheer from the multitude."-New York Eve-

LAST HOME OF SEMINOLES

Indians to Whom High Tribute Has Been Paid Have Been Removed

Now that the state of Florida has gathered the Seminole Indians together and placed them on a definite reservation in one corner of the Everglades, that remarkable tribe attracts passing attention. For many years they have inhabited the Everglades, and been undisputed masters, beyond the outskirts of that region of swamp and jungle, of some 800 square miles of country which no white traveler has ever penetrated. Few whites have known the Seminoles at all, and perhaps none better than Mrs. Minnie Moore Wilson, who was recently interviewed for a New York paper. "The Seminole brave," she said, "is the most upright man in the world. He is altogether moral, and never lies, cheats, steals or breaks his word, while his wonderful squaw holds a rank in her family and community unrivaled among all the women of earth." A race could hardly be more Walking over the battlefield in highly spoken of; and the Seminoles themselves, says Mrs. Wilson, dread contact with American civilization, lest it destroy their own standards of conduct. One cannot but sympathize with them when seeing the engineers

WEALTH IN DETROIT RIVER

Waters Said to Conceal Valuables That Would Easily Be Worth Millions of Dollars.

While thousands are striving if stretch the shrinking dollar to mee the H. C. L. in Detroit these days, a fortune lies unclaimed in the bed of Detroit river. No one can estimate even approximately, the value of the submerged treasure in dollars, but it safe to assume that it will run into e millions.

Marine divers testify to the tons of copper ingot, coal, machinery, unsalvaged vessels and money scattered. along the river bed from Windmill Point to Detroit River light. The banks and shelving beaches of the harbor line at and above Belle isle are in shallow water, but the bank of the undivided river section below the island is built out to deep water, and explorations are more difficult than

In recent years it has been known that money and jewelry to the value of $500,000 has been lost in the river. One rum runner lost $500 in a wallet while trying to escape federal officers by jumping overboard from a boat. A wealthy woman dropped a $7,000 necklace from a passenger boat when the string of gems broke as she leaned over the boat's rail.

James McCabe, immigration in-spector, who patrols the Canadian border for Chinese smugglers, affirms that within the past ten years smugglers drowned Chinese to escape immigration officers who pursued the smuggler's boats, and in nearly every case the drowned Chinese had large sums of money concealed in their clothing. Neither the bodies nor the money have been recovered because the feet of the drowned Chinese were weighted with

MARKED EPOCH IN INDUSTRY

Experience of Years of Warfare Should Have Effect on Coal Mining in This Country.

The inventory of the nation's resources that the war made necessary brought to light many new facts about coal mining which will be of lasting value to the industry and to the public. As long as the war lasted these incidental lessons were lost sight of under the pressure of meeting the emergency created by the shortage of fuels, but with the return of peace the experience gained during the war is being gathered together in a series of reports on the industry, the first which, "Coal in 1917," by C. E. Lesher, has been published by the United States geological survey, department of the interior.

The period from 1914 through 1917 and 1918 and into 1919 may be regarded as a distinct epoch in the coal industry, of which the year 1917 represented only one section, but a section which, if not the most remarkable for its achievements, was at once the mostchaotic and the most momentous in the history of the industry,

In response to the unprecedented de mend the bituminous mines produced 551,790,563 tons, or nearly 10 per cent more than the output of the year be The anthracite output was 99. 611,811 net tons, an increase over 1916 of 13.7 per cent. The total output of both hard and soft coal was thus over 650,000,000 tons.

This record output was accomplished by a labor force of 603,143 men in the bituminous and 154,174 in the anthracite mines. In spite of the draft the number of workers in the hituminous industry was greater in 1917 that Island of Afognak, on South Coast of Alaska, Peculiarly Adapted for a Parpose.

One of the most picturesquely interesting parts of our national domain is a large island off the south coast of Alaska. It is called Afognak and is about 65 miles long by 40 in width, with a very irregular shore line and deeply indented by bays.

It is the property of the government. and in 1892 was set aside by President Harrison as a game and fish reserve. The important purpose that it serves is that of a preserve for salmon, all stream in great numbers at the breeding season to spawn.

Soldiers and Banana Growing.

The New South Wales government has not been long in providing its returning soldiers with work. One of the enterprises undertaken with this object is the cultivation of bananas on a large scale. There is no fruit crop that yields such a quick return as the banana and in the present flourishing state of the market no better undertaking could have been selected, given the right men. It is not work for the lazy. But among the demobilized troops are plenty of men. who are young, tough and teachable. Four hundred acres have been taken as a beginning and each settler has 12 months' probation before a black is intrusted to him. The sum of £625 is advanced to each for implements, stock, and house-building material. The soldiers have already started and enjoy their rough life in the hills. The experienced planter, Mr. C. Rose, who is in charge, sees nothing but success ahead in reward for their efforts.

Prickly Pear Proving Pest.

Australia is suffering from a prickly pear pest, which takes advantage of the rivers as a means of spreading. Shoots break off from the parent plant growing along a stream and the part is carried downstream to found a new colony. Thousands of acres are being rulned yearly owing to the ravages of this plant, and no means have been discovered of stopping its march. Rolling, spraying and polsons have proved ineffectual, and it is hoped that some scientist may find was the pattern of the French flag and some commercial use for the plant.

WHILE "GEORGE" LOOKED ON

Party of Tourists Helped Pretty American Woman to Kiss the Real Blarney Stone.

Three or four of us made up a little party to go to Blarney castle to improve our ability in the art of talking by kissing the Blarney stone, says Capt. Albert R. Wonham in "Spun Yarns of a Naval Officer." The saying that all roads lead to Rome applies somewhat to Blarney, too, but the Irish miles-I cannot think how they reconcile them with the miles recorded by the taxicab indicators!

However, we got there, and, bounding up the stone stairs, reached the top of the tower. Two persons were already there, an old man and one of the lovellest women I ever saw. We were rather pressed for time, and so proceeded to kiss the stone.

The Blarney stone faces the outside of the tower, about three feet down, If you wish really to kiss it you must be let down headfirst, do the trick, and be hauled up. All round the top of the tower is a hanging parapet projecting about a foot from the line of the tower wall, built to enable the defenders, when the castle was attacked, to pour boiling water or melted lead on top of the enemy operating on the front door.

Having let one another down, we finished under the wondering gaze of the lovely woman. "Excuse me, gentlemen," she said, "but what have you been doing?"

We told her.

With a disdainful look she turned to the old fellow and said, "There, George, I told you that," pointing to a meek-looking stone inside, "was not the Blarney stone, and I have not kissed the Blarney stone! I have not come all the way from America to go away without doing it!" As she said that she looked appealingly at us, for George did not seem inclined to rise to the occasion.

The end of it was that we lashed round her her, and pulled her up triumphant.

"There, George, now I can go back to America and say that I have kissed the Blarney stone!" she cried.

I am bound to say that George, who proved to be her husband, did not look happy or pleased. His reputation for telling the truth had suffered, and I am pretty sure that he wished we never had come.

"Boys" Got Good American Food. If the American mother could come face to face with some of the women cooking meals for her soldier boy at the Y. M. C. A. hut over here it would gladden her heart, says a London (Eng.) correspondent.

They would prove to the American mother that her boy while here is getting real good old "Yankee Doodle" meals, cooked by real American mothers just like herself.

These women-most of them American volunteer workers supply about 2,500 meals a day, besides hundreds of "teas" (yes, mothers, he's got the English tea habit now; you'll have to give him tea every afternoon when he gets back), luncheons and night meals.

The "chief cook" is Hon. Mrs. Arthur Coke, and her specialty is griddle cakes "fit for a king." One month recently she turned out 20,000 of them, six of which were eaten by no less a personage than King George himself.

The king and queen recently visited Eagle hut. They gave the king three of the cakes. He cleaned his plate and came back for a "refill."

A preacher literally comes down out of the heavens to preach the Gospel to American aviators in England.

An Allied Uniform.

In a vaudeville theater at one of the French ports there was a comedian who had an act which he called "Le Nouvel Uniforme." He wore a French steel helmet topped with the cock feathers of the Italians. His coat and breeches were of khaki. About his waist was slung a Scotch sporran. He wore golf stockings. Riding a hobby differs from riding a borse, said the wise lunatic, in that you can get off the horse.

Anyhow, Mr. Newton takes his own medicine, and for some 30 years he has ridden a hobby all over the continents in search of rare books, Girard writes in Philadelphia Press.

He's a collector, he is, and his home contains an immense and highly valuable library.

"What is the prize book in the whole world?" I asked him

"The Gutenberg Bible," said he. "for which Henry E. Huntington paid $50,-

This son of the old Southern Pacific railroad builder has what Mr. Newton declares easily the greatest private IIbrary on earth.

You would hardly think it possible to write a book about book collecting which would interest the rank outsider who doesn't know a first folio from a side of sole leather, but Mr. Newton, whose style is delightfully whimsical, has succeeded in doing it.

A copy of Ben Franklin's "Cato Mafor" was found in a Chester county garret not long ago and was afterward sold for $300, so Mr. Newton reports. Of all the books and pamphlets Franklin turned off his Philadelphia press, that one, said the famous print-

The Airplane as a Decoy.

Ever since wars have been waged man has made use of decoys to outwit the foe. Even in the recent war a decoy proved to be useful once in a while. An instance occurred at a point on the western front where the British trenches faced a salient of the German trench system. At the time when the British staff determined to reduce the salient, the Daily Chronicle tells us, the Germans were expecting an ordinary attack with its primary bombardment. They promptly fell into the trap

Early in the morning a British airplane flew very low over the frontline trenches and passed parallel to behind it. The Germans thought the plane a target that could not be missed. and turned their backs on the British trenches to fire on the machine. While they were engaging the airplane, the British infantry suddenly went over the top and in a few minutes captured the position and took a number of pris-

The machine returned to its airdrome riddled with bullet holes, but both the pilot and the observer were uninjured.

Industry Overdone.

The development of the coconut off industry in the Philippines has been very rapid, due to war conditions. The exports of oil in 1918 amounted to 115,000 tons, as compared with 45,000 tons in 1917 and 16,000 tons in 1916. There is a scarcity of shipping to take copra to Hull, England, and Marseilles, France, which are the great centers for oil crushing, hence it is found more profitable to ship the less bulky oil to the United States. A number of new oil mills have been constructed in the Philippines in order to fill the demand for oil, but it is a serious question whether the present crushing capacity of the Philippine mills is not in excess of the normal supply of copra.

Philippine Tobacco.

The Philippine Islands' tobacco exports increased greatly in 1918. In that year 25,700 tons of tobacco were exported, as compared with 6.890 tons n 1917. The bulk of this tobacco was shipped during the early months of 1918, and the later months showed a marked decrease. The exports of cicars, however, showed a steady inrease during the entire year, the numper shipped being 359,000,000, valued at $7,000,000, as against 284 000,000 shed at $4.500,000, in 1917. Most of his production was absorbed by the American market. The increase is argely due to government supervision in order to guarantee the quality of all shipments to the United States.

Real War Scrap Book.

To keep a scrapbook on the recent war sounds like a herculean task, but was really done by a regular, everyday human being, a man from Seattle, Wash. He began in August, 1914. never realizing the enormity of the undertaking, but he stuck to the job and now owns a book containing thousands of columns of war reports and pictures clipped from his favorite papers. It weighs more than 100 pounds, is carefully indexed and promises to be a valuable addition to reference it-

Humorous Aboriginal Belief.

Australian natives tell queer stories of creation, each tribe having a different legend. One tribe says that in the beginning the earth opened up in the midst of Perigundi lake and various birds and animals came out. They lay down in the sun to be "finished" into human beings by its rays. When the finishing process was over they got up and walked away.

Another tribe says that before man was made a tribe of magical creatures, known as "Mura-muras," lived on the earth. While one of these was hunting a kangaroo the animal hopped out of sight. Paralina, as the hunter was called, asked some old women where it had gone, but they lied to him, as they had killed it. He became angry, and seeing some half-finished bodies lying on the ground he straightened out their limbs, blew in their ears so they could hear, and rammed some clay down their throats, and clear through their bodies, to make them stiff. These then became men, and he continued to make more men and women.
