Jerry Comes Into Her Own

Jerry seemed to settle again into the routine of every-day life in her Middle Western home without change. She shared in the work of the house as she had done before she went to New York, practiced her music, read a great deal, and drove out very often in the handsome little "Harner" which was her personal possession.

Her return was hailed with a great lavishness of celebration on the part of her friends, for she had long been a leader in the particular little set she claimed as hers. Immediately she was made the occasion for a gay series of dances, dinners and parties. Little flirtations, inconsequential affairs, which had faded away and died upon her departure, struggled back into a semblance of rejuvenation on her return, and although they failed to stir Jerry to active interest, at least they played their part in willing away the hours, and helping to occupy her thoughts, which were not happy ones for the most part.

Even with so much to amuse and engage her, the days passed slowly, and Jerry, for all the demands on her time, remained distrustful and preoccupied, almost listless. And Prudence drove herself well-nigh to distraction in her maternal anxiety to bridge the dangerous chasm between times past and times present, but as in vain she racked her fertile brain for things to stimulate Jerry's interest.

"Oh, my dear, you haven't taught me to dance for nearly two years!" she exclaimed one night, in the extreme of desperation.

Jerrold and Jerry broke into laughter over her abject submission to martyrdom for her daughter's sake. For Prudence found in dancing nothing but punishment and tribulation.

Married life for her had been an intricate matter at best, having as she did the sacred shadow of Methodism for a background. The church itself had been the first shadow to cloud the heaven of their domestic harmony. Church, to Prudence, meant Methodist, and Jerrold, in the ardor of his young love, attended services with her in the beginning with some fair display of interest. His enthusiasm, however, was for Prudence only, not for the church of her affiliation.

When she asked him how he liked it he said: "Oh, very much," to please Prudence.

After a time, growing suspicious as to the depth of this interest, she pressed him further. Jerrold admitted at last that as far as he was concerned, he considered it no church at all, no real worship, no divine service. Prudence was shocked into speechlessness. But Jerrold, hard driven, stuck to his ground. He said the way the Methodists clubbed about the door and chatted and laughed was his idea of rank irreverence. And for a preacher to get down on his knees in the pulpit and talk in that offhand and familiar fashion to the Divine Being instead of reading respectfully from a book—he called it sacrilege. He was willing to go, to please Prudence, he was willing to shake hands, and discuss his wife's health and the state fair and the corn crop at the door—to please her—he was willing to follow through countless intimate paragraphs of extemporaneous prayer—but he did not call it church, and it was not his idea of worship.

Prudence wrote to her father. And her father wrote back, with that gentle and forbearing patience which seems more rare and more divine in the ministry than anywhere else, that Prudence must go with her husband. "We have learned," he wrote, "that there are lessons in stones, and sermons in running brooks. So if Jerrold finds no religion in our church, it is up to you to find it in his."

Prudence swallowed hard, but she did it.

It was not, as Jerrold frankly admitted, that he cared particularly about attending any church with a painful degree of assiduity, but when he had church, he wanted church, and not a Sunday morning reception without refreshments.

Of course Prudence had had to learn to dance. Having become an Episcopalian she could not plead the Methodist Discipline in rebuttal, and thus unexpectedly torn adrift from her spiritual backbone, she agreed with Jerrold, rather faintly, that it would be a shame for her to go through life sitting out every enticing waltz and luring one-step. She must certainly learn to dance.

She encountered difficulties from the start. A professional instructor was brought in to teach her. And after many painful, painstaking lessons, she managed to get around very nicely. But when Prudence, in fear and trembling, got on the floor with any other than the instructor, she had trouble.

"It isn't that I don't try," she told her husband despairingly, but eager in her own defense in the face of his derision. "I do try! I put my whole mind on it. I know exactly what I am supposed to do, I count every step, and I never listen to a word my partner says, and I keep both eyes shut so I won't be afraid of running into the wall! But I can't keep off his feet, nor from under them. You needn't laugh, either, for I can't help it."

When Jerry had come of an age to take a personal interest in her mother's social life, and to feel a personal responsibility for her public appearance, she shared this burden with her father. And at regular intervals, perhaps twice a year, the entire household was thrown into a tumultuous state of excitement with teaching Prudence to dance.

"Why can't you dance? Why can't you?" demanded Jerry earnestly. "Aunt Fairy dances beautifully, Aunt Connie dances, both the Twin Aunties adore it. Haven't they as much Methodist blood as you have? Why can't you learn?"

"I don't know," acknowledged her mother unhappily. "I certainly work hard enough to learn anything! I just can't, and that's all there is to it."

When Prudence, therefore, of her own volition and without coercion from anyone, voluntarily proffered herself as a willing sacrifice to learn to dance again, she was driven to desperation. To her surprise, to her great concern as well, Jerry only laughed, and would not accept such martyrdom at her hands.

"Nonsense, mother, you can't dance, and you don't want to. Why bother? You'd better just stick to Wesley and eschew the devil and all his works." "Bridge, then," pleaded Prudence hopefully. "You really ought to teach me something, you know."

Jerry consented to add a few final touches to a course in cards which had already extended fruitfully over a period of twenty years, but she warned her mother to let no one inveigle her into playing for points.

"For do your level best, mother, you can still lose the family fortune a great deal faster than father can earn it, if you go in for points, the way you play it."

And so March blustered away, and April came, and May. And in all these months Jerry could not fathom that great mystery of what girls do, who have nothing to do, and go quite mad over doing it!

It was a morning late in May when she was called to the telephone. A girl of her acquaintance, Rae Forsythe, was going over to the other side of town to look at a house. She asked Jerry to go with her. Jerry, who had driven her own car from the time she was fifteen years old, was used to these invitations to go with her friends on errands to remote and inaccessible places. Jerry understood it very well, but her understanding was quite without malice. She did not blame them. She was sure if she had to go a long way to a strange part of town, and had no car of her own, she herself would invite as company for the occasion—one who had.

So she accepted the invitation very sweetly, and said she would stop by for Rae in the car, about eleven o'clock.

Water Office Makes Out New Ledgers

New ledgers are being opened up this month by the office force of the City Water Works, their opening being made necessary by the great increase in number of water users in the city.

The town has been divided up into four sections by the Water Department and records kept in separate ledgers accordingly. The new system is a much better one, according to Louis Polk, and will save the office force much time and trouble.

There are now a total of 1320 meters in use in the city.

Local Bakery Holds Formal Opening

With several hundred Sweetwater citizens attending, the super-sanitary Stages and Tucker Bakery, on the east side of the square, held its formal opening Friday between the hours of four and eight.

The bakery was spotted from the front door to the back, and the proprietors showed the visitors through the building, bakers demonstrating methods of mixing and baking bread and pastries in a most sanitary manner.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Edith Moody, Mrs. Velma Sheppard-Henson, Miss Stella Watson, L. M. Hubbard, and Earl Harris. Mrs. Stages kept a registry of the visitors and Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. W. L. Wilson served punch.

SCOUTS CAMP OUT

A number of Troop Three Boy Scouts camped out on Sweetwater Creek near Stamper school Friday night, leaving town late in the afternoon and returning the middle of the next morning.

A football game and cooking in the open were enjoyed by the boys.

Mrs. J. A. McDaniel Died Wednesday

Mrs. J. A. McDaniel, well known as a long time resident of Sweetwater, died at her home here early Wednesday morning following an illness of several years and funeral services were held Thursday morning from the home, conducted by Rev. J. R. Henson and Rev. R. A. Stewart.

She was almost 57 years of age at the time of her death. She was a member of the Methodist church and a daughter of Rev. J. C. Moore, pioneer West Texas Methodist preacher.

Mrs. McDaniel is survived by a husband, two daughters, one son, three brothers and two sisters. Miss Anita McDaniel, who has been teaching at Baird, Virgil and Alline McDaniel, the children, were present at the services, as were all of her brothers and sisters except one, D. D. Moore, who lives in California. Brothers and sisters present were: Mrs. E. H. Crack, Gainesville; J. H. Moore, San Antonio; Mrs. E. M. Smiley, Loraine; and W. W. Moore, Cisco.

Floral offering placed on the grave in the City Cemetery were very beautiful.

Many Report On Radio Concert

Probably one of the largest audiences that ever heard a program in Sweetwater heard the program broadcasted over radio from the Presbyterian church Monday night, when many of Sweetwater's musical artists were heard.

Not only was there a large crowd at the church to hear the program, but at every house in town and all over the surrounding country where there was a radio, from one to fifty listeners were "listenin' in." During the program, between fifty and sixty calls were received from local citizens reporting large crowds "listenin' in," the program coming in fine, and complimenting the artists and the broadcasting station.

The following are some of the listeners who sent telephone messages: Keith Trammell, Mary Emma Simmons, Parks Neblett, H. M. Rogers, Bob Henthorn, Mrs. Lee Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Billy George, W. O. Miller, R. H. Whorton of Roscoe, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Collins, Mr. Campbell of Rotan, Bill Morton, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hull, C. C. Cooper, Dr. G. B. Fain, Ernest Kean, Jr., G. W. Ely, Mrs. R. C. New Prayer Circle Being Organized

An inter-denominational prayer meeting circle was organized last Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. Dee Trammell, to be known as the North Side Prayer Meeting. Though only nine people were present when the organization was perfected, Mrs. D. A. Myres states that they hope to build up a good sized organization.

All the people of the city are invited to attend the meetings, especially those living on the north side of town. The next meeting will be held tomorrow, Friday, afternoon at 3 o'clock in the home of Mrs. B. Anderson, 117 Locust Street, with Mrs. R. D. Cox, Jr., as leader. A study will be made of the first chapter of Hebrews.

Grand Jury Goes Behind Closed Doors

While District Judge W. P. Leslie and a number of local attorneys have been busy in District Court with the civil docket, the Grand Jury, composed of twelve representative Nolan County citizens, assisted by District Attorney Jas. T. Brooks, has been grinding away all week.

A number of cases of law violation are before the jury, and a number of indictments are expected by local officials as a result of their work. In all probability, several of Nolan county's citizens will have to answer questions in regard to violation of the intoxicating liquor laws.

The following grand jurymen went into session Monday morning: Chas. Lewis, foreman, A. L. Hogue, J. D. Childers, D. G. Crane, Oscar Russell, M. A. Daugherty, L. G. Anthony, L. O. Cardwell, W. L. Kinsey, Arthur Wimberly, Horace Wade, and M. C. Manroe.

Local Band Appears In Public Concert

A band concert given by the Sweetwater Band from the sidewalk on the north side of the square Tuesday night was heard by a large number of people. An excellent program was rendered, and the band showed that it was progressing rapidly in spite of the fact that it does not have a director who gives all of his time and attention to it.

Mr. Sam Goldman of Colorado, the temporary director, was present and conducted the band. Mr. Goldman was recently re-elected director of the Colorado Boosters Band for another year of service.

W. A. Foreman and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Fritchett and family of Snyder visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Shaffer Sunday.

Presents School and Library With Books

A set of "Southern Literature," in seventeen volumes, was presented the Sweetwater High School Library by Judge W. T. Hightower.

Judge Hightower saw the need of the two sets to be placed at the disposal of the school children of the city and the general public, and the purchase of them was made possible through subscriptions from a number of interested business men and citizens.

The books were badly needed by both libraries.

The regular meeting of the Self Culture Club has been postponed from Friday, October 9 to Tuesday, October 13, with Mrs. John Focht as hostess.

Sheriff Jack Yarbrough and former Chief of Police W. R. Johnson are in Ballinger where they were called to appear as witnesses in a murder case.

Miss Janice Dulaney is expected home the last of the week from Dallas where she has been visiting since the first of September.

Public Relations

THE West Texas Electric Company is a public servant operating a public utility, designed to meet a fundamental public need. It is fully aware of the limitations—and the obligations—involved in such a relationship. The West Texas Electric Company has one thing to sell—service. In payment, it must receive from the people not only their money, but also their good will. The good will of the people of this state and of this city is essential to the West Texas Electric Company.

It is our business to deserve it and give value received—just as it is our business to give service to patrons in return for their money.

Good will is based on understanding, and we believe it is vitally important to the future of your community that its citizens shall know and understand the policies—and the problems of their public utility organizations.

It is important that, in their treatment of these organizations, the people shall be guided by their best judgment of what will actually promote the welfare of this community.

It is important for them to know that, if the community is to enjoy a future commensurate with its opportunities, money must be spent for development in such amounts as only the investing public of the country can supply.

In its dealings with the public, the West Texas Electric Company realizes that its service must achieve the highest standards of economy, efficiency, honesty and courtesy.

To that end the Company and its representatives will continue faithfully to address themselves.

In return, it asks that the public, in assessing its qualifications for rendering this service, approach the task in a spirit of calm open-mindedness, remembering that, in the last analysis, we share a common aspiration—the ultimate growth and prosperity of this community.

CHROMINE STOPS CAR FREEZING TO FIFTEEN DEGREES

During the spring of 1921 there was developed by Miller Reese Hutchinson, Ph. D., inventor of the Klaxon horn, the dictagraph, acousticon for the deaf, and many other notable devices, what subsequently proved to be an ew discovery in the field of cooling liquids for automobile radiators. While possessing all the advantages of an exceedingly low freezing point, electrolysis action and, therefore, corrosion of the various metals, except aluminum, entering into the construction of an internal combustion engine radiating system, are obviated by the use of chromine.

Having in mind the disastrous experiences of many automobilists who have used chemicals in the radiating systems of their automobiles, anyone could be pardoned for being skeptical regarding the claims of this new radiator freezee-colution.

The boiling point of chromine solution is about the same as water. Water boils at 212 degrees Fahrenheit so that the use of chromine solution in an automobile will not cause the motor to heat up. When alcohol is put in a radiator it boils at a very much lower temperature than water, with the result that it evaporates very rapidly and the solution of the radiator begins to boil, overheating the water.

Chromine is also a preservative of rubber—the rubber hose connections of the radiating system of an automobile will be unattacked. The standard chromine solution as supplied will withstand a temperature as low as 15 degrees below zero and prevent freezing at any predetermined temperature. When replacing water, which has evaporated, it is not necessary to add more chromine, as it does not evaporate and one charge will remain in the radiator all season unless the radiator or pumps leaks. For this reason it is more economical than alcohol or any other non-freeze substance.

WILL RESTORE OLD IRONSIDES

ELKS CARRYING ON MOVEMENT IN SCHOOLS TO RESTORE FAMOUS SHIP

The old Constitution battleship, better known as "Old Ironsides" is to be restored by the people of the United States, and the campaign for the raising of funds will be taken up in Sweetwater during the week of October 19th to 24th, "Old Ironsides Week" by the B. P. O. E. Elks Lodge, 1257.

The campaign will be extended over the entire jurisdiction of the lodge, including all of the counties of Nolan, Fisher, Mitchell, and Scurry. Contributions, consisting of nickles and dimes, will be made by school children for the research work. Each child that donates to the cause will be given buttons bearing pictures of the old ship.

A bronze prize is being offered school students for the winner of essay contests in each school, and one has already been sent this lodge.

Below is a letter from President Coolidge, who selected the subjects for the essays:

Swampscott, Mass.,
August 24, 1925.

My Dear Mr. Secretary:
I have your letter of August 21st, requesting me to select subjects for essays by young people dealing with the historic frigate, the U. S. S. CONSTITUTION.

I select the following topics:
For Colleges—The contribution of the U. S. S. Constitution to human liberty and to national progress.

For High Schools—Why did the victories of the U. S. S. CONSTITUTION contribute so largely to our success in the War of 1812?

For Elementary Schools—Why will the preservation of the U. S. S. CONSTITUTION promote patriotism?

The active service of "Old Ironsides," extending as it did over the 84 years from 1798 to 1882, covers the greater part of our history, and a study of her record will turn the thought of our young people to many of the most important events in the development of our nation. I therefore trust there will be widespread competition for the Old Ironsides medals, because an understanding of the fundamentals of our history is most helpful to discharging the duties of citizenship. Very truly yours,

Hon. Curtis D. Wilbur,
Secretary of the Navy.

Talk To Students At Chapel Exercises

Talks by Rev. B. B. Hestir, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and County Clerk Gus Farrar were the principal numbers on the program at the High School chapel exercises Monday morning.

Rev. Hestir gave an interesting talk on "Reserve Strength."

Mr. Farrar spoke in the interest of the campaign inaugurated by the Secretary of the Navy to raise funds for the rehabilitation of the old "Constitutional" battleship, famous in American history. The campaign to raise the funds will begin in Sweetwater in the near future.

I'm Going To Get Well, Says Bardwell

"I'm going to get well", Roy Bardwell still emphatically states, according to information from his bedside.

Though seriously ill for over 150 days, Mr. Bardwell, Water Commissioner of Sweetwater, is still fighting hard, and members of his family believe that the determination and pluck that has kept him alive so long will soon bring him to his feet. Doctors say they have never seen such determination before.

"His complexion is good, he is living well on buttermilk, and talks all the time", says Glenn Bardwell. "He likes company, and talking seems to keep up his spirits and his mind off his condition."

Though Roy doesn't hope to get entirely well in time this year, he is planning for a big hunting trip for next year.

Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Canfil are in Fort Worth and Dallas visiting.

Farmers Stop Pickers On Road To Plains

A number of farmers whose cotton crops were literally suffering from lack of pickers to pick the fleecy staple have during the past week been holding up pickers on the road between Sweetwater and Roscoe and offering them jobs.

Farmers became so desperate for pickers that these laborers had to be secured in some method, and waiting along the road side they stopped all trucks and cars during the day which were carrying cotton pickers to counties on the Plains and other counties west and northwest of here.

When offered jobs here many of them, both negroes and whites, abandoned their cars and trucks to help gather the Nolan County crop.

From every section farmers are still howling for pickers, and the cotton movement has been greatly hampered and delayed because of the lack of pickers.

Art Exhibit At Fair To Be Good

Probably one of the biggest displays of painted pictures and other such articles of art will be shown at the Nolan County Fair late this month that has ever been shown in the county, according to members of the Self Culture Club, which club is sponsoring the exhibit again this year.

"The Club is seeking the co-operation of everyone in the county," Mrs. W. W. Davis, president of the club says, "and we want everyone who has any articles of art to exhibit them or enter them for prizes." All kinds of oil, water color, and pastel paintings are desired, as well as china painting, portraits, and articles of artcraft.

The committee from the Club which has charge of the exhibit is composed of Mrs. J. R. Henry, Chairman, Mrs. E. P. Reese, Mrs. N. L. Hall, and Mrs. P. G. Dabney.

WILL BUILD HOUSES

W. P. Curtis, according to reports will soon start the construction of several new residences in the city.

J. H. Brown has also announced his intentions of building a new home in the near future.

Gathering Clothes For Poor of City

W. D. Black and members of the Church of Christ are this week making a collection of clothes and groceries to be stored in the basement of their church and to be used in charity work in the city.

Mr. Black has charge of the campaign and states that he and the church are seeking the co-operation of the entire citizenship in this worthy movement.

He states that through the fall and winter months there is always a great demand for sufficient food and clothing from the poor, and he and his church proposes to, as far as possible, provide all families in need with such articles as they have to have.
