IT'S TAMMANY

No one in close touch with the situation doubted for a moment that Tammany Hall would continue in charge of the political destinies of New York city. So firmly entrenched is this organization with its political ramifications extending to the suburbs, and a municipality of other fat municipal contracts that others, without this promise of pie, seem hopelessly left out. The population of New York city proper is hopelessly indifferent to anything of the nature of civic betterment. Its business men and all others who can live outside the city, over in New Jersey, Long Island, Connecticut or up the Hudson. It looks like Tammany to the end of the chapter.

MERGE

The unmistakable tendency of the times is one newspaper to the town, even in larger cities. This has been very forcibly illustrated in Fort Worth recently as well as in a number of other cities.

Rising costs of newspaper production, the demand for better and ever better news, have forced the merging of newspaper properties by the sheer force of economic pressure.

The day has long since gone by when a printer with a font of type and a handpress could start a newspaper and get away with it. Modern newspaper making is a highly specialized field, requiring a very expensive equipment and costly overhead.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

BY CHARLES P. STEWART, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Samuel M. Ralston's death strengthens President Coolidge's hand in the upper house of Congress.

The Big Indiana Democratic Senator's seat is sure to be filled temporarily through gubernatorial appointment, by a Republican. An election will have to determine the choice of Senator Ralston's permanent successor, and Indiana is doubtful.

Still, the administration's political meteorologists predict "Republican weather" for some time to come, and are quite hopeful concerning the next Hoosier Senatorial test at the polls. The upper house is so close that even one vote counts.

The point is raised in the Washington press—not yet in court, but that may come if the case looks good enough—that the District of Columbia is legally wet, despite the Volstead act, or else that it isn't the District of Columbia, but part of Maryland.

One J. A. I. Solf was first to dig up the facts. If they are facts, Lead Big wells are studying them, to determine what they're worth. The args, not perturbed, nevertheless, are alert.

In 1791 President Washington couldn't persuade residents of the district villages of Hamburg and Carrollburgh to sell their land to the government. The state of Maryland was appealed to and Dec. 19, that same year, it ceded the tract Washington wanted.

It did so, however, upon various conditions applicable, Solf says, to the whole district. Among other things, they included certain regulations of the sale of drink.

This compact, agreed to at the time by the Federal Government, appears never to have been revised or modified, and Solf contends that it takes precedence, perhaps not of the eighteenth amendment, but at any rate of the Volstead law, which gives the amendment force. Or, if not, Solf argues, the agreement has been broken by the government and the district, Washington and all, reverts to Maryland.

Washington motorists are so much bothered by pedestrians that Traffic Director Eldridge's finally called Manager E. B. Letterts of the public safety (safety for motorists) department of the Automobile Club on southern California into counsel. He chose Letterts because in Los Angeles, where the California man lives, he had heard the pedestrian pest has practically been stamped out.

"It's quite true," Letterts assured him. "We got the Los Angeles pedestrians under control five years ago and have kept them iron-handedly ever since." "A more unruly lot of pedestrians I never saw," he told Eldridge. "They're a disgrace to the nation's capital. Jail! Jail! That's the remedy."

So Washington pedestrians who get in autoists' way are to be arrested in future, if Director Eldridge's recommendation is approved. The district lawmakers must okay it first, however, and strange to say, there are a few reactionary residents who are urging them to turn it down.

When a man rests on his laurels it crushes them.

In Annonson, Ala., a man weighs 50,000 pounds. But it is iron pipe, and he does it every day.

It is doubly hard to bear your cross when it is caused by some friend double crossing you.

Half the world is half asleep

It is as terrible to feel all day long as if you were in a constant state of wakefulness. Yet thousands do, because constipation is destroying their energy—even their interest in life. Only Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings sure and safe relief from this disease.

Great oaks from little acorns grow, and their friends criticize them for not being other kinds of trees.

All the optimists are not dead. Some stole 12 electric fans in St. Louis in October.

If the man who stole a dozen electric fans in St. Louis is caught he will be sent to the cooler.

Make a wish when you see the first star and it will come true, if you wish it hard enough. All wishes do that.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—See sawing up and down Broadway I saw Win-well Smith, a former officer of clean and wholesome Goldenesque plays, entering in the Astor where he could look at upon the billings throngs of decadent Boulevard—Saw Arthur Hopkins, the jovial producer, and as seemeth in good spirit, albeit two plays produced in his Plymouth Theater thumped out within the first month. And, by the bye, both plays were from Ray Maxwell. And soon Lawrence Stallings combination—Saw George M. Cohan, the eternal song and dance man, stepping jauntily along his beloved white way, it seemeth to me the jauntiest man in town—Saw the lovely and haughty Grace George whom the years treat lightly and with great favor—Saw a man leading a dog through the Bronx, advertising a tobacco and the congestion of gawking humans because of such proportions that traffic was stopped. I bethought me it was interest in a handsome dog rather

Little Star

Here's "Shorty" Norman, feather-weight backfield star of Tulane University at New Orleans. Norman weighs only 128, but is a sure enough regular. He is thought to be the lightest backfield player on any major college eleven.

er than in the advertising which caused hurrying men to halt—Saw Brooke Johns, the hairy man, and a fellow passenger on the boat which brought him back from Europe tell me he is the most popular man with little children he ever did see—Saw Muggsy McGraw, as the leader of the Giants was once more or less, chiefly base, affectionately called, and he seems to have been much changed by 19 years; now being stolid and content with the stungness of a successful broker—Saw Ernest Vajda (you pronounce his name "Voy-gah"), the European playwright, and he was having a right good time doing the first nights—Saw Mrs. Eugene O'Neill and am told that the good woman is soon to become as famous a playwright as her famous husband.

During the last few weeks I have been much away from New York. Traveling has carried me to several New England towns, to Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and other cities of the Central West. And the New York and other cities of the country, more evident than any other, is that of civic efficiency. There are many things about New York which make it an abnormal and uncomfortable place in which to live. A fellow from any other part of the country soon tires of it. Yet without New York has the best police department in the country. Its traffic is better regulated. Its transit facilities are better. Its streets are cleaner. Its service to travelers at the depots is better. Its hotels are better. The external man is served better here than in any other part of the universe, even though the inner man may grow warped and vain.

OPEN MIND COLUMN

The following letter was written by Geo. R. De Nise a former resident of Sweetwater, following the publication of one of his stories entitled "West of the Rails" in a current magazine. Mr. De Nise is well known here, hence his letter is reproduced herewith: Seattle, Wash., Oct. 3, 1925. Dear Mr. Bondies:

I am asking Doubleday, Page and Co. to send you an advance copy of the October 10th issue of the Short Story Magazine, featuring my novel, "West of the Rails."

This serial is an abridgement of the book which in the manuscript, I called "Baker's Gal." Judge Maury read the original, and criticised the title, in which matter he was right.

We are located here, except George and his wife, who are in Spokane. I am devoting myself to literature, and have other novels on the way.

What has become of my old friend, O. H. Roberts, formerly editor of the Reporter? Is that paper still in business? You will remember that I used to do a good deal of writing for it, and it is possible that the present editor might be glad to call attention to the story in his columns. If it should happen to merit some slight review, I should be gratified to receive copies of the paper. It all helps with the publisher.

Though having very pleasant recollections of Sweetwater and its people and climate, I have found no place to compare with Seattle, and consider that I am here permanently. The summers are cool, and the winters mild.

I am not likely to forget the highly agreeable association with you in those offices of the Crane Building, or the luck that landed my there in Sweetwater after the rough neck experience in the oil fields of Texas. I would doubtless be there still, were it not for the events that took me away; you remember that I saw great possibilities of irrigation in that section of Texas. What a wonderful country that would be with plenty of water.

I certainly will be glad to hear from you, and to know that you and Mrs. Bondies are well and prosperous.

Hoping you will like "West of the Rails," I am,

Sincerely,

Geo. R. De Nise 3769 University Way.

"Nothing seemed to interest her"

By THE end of the second act she wished she were home in bed. She was tired—always tired. That fact showed in her face. And "she" may be multiplied by tens of thousands of women in America. For it was the world's most universal disease that was sapping her strength and killing her interest.

It is good to know that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has brought permanent relief to thousands of sufferers from constipation.

When ALL-BRAN travels through the system, its fiber remains unchanged. Therefore, it can sweep the intestine clean. It can absorb and carry moisture through the intestinal tract and stimulate it to natural, healthy action. ALL-BRAN is what doctors call a bulk food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delightful with milk or cream, sprinkled over other cereals; cooked with hot cereals; in soups, or made into the many recipes given on every package. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or the grocer returns the purchase price. Eat two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Be sure to get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. You can see that a part-bran product can, at best, be but partially effective.

Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. It is the bran which doctors recommend. Accept no other if you would be sure. All grocers sell it. Leading hotels and restaurants serve it. Buy a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN today.

May Peterson at Austin

Ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary are sponsoring the May Peterson concert. Its membership will act as patronesses.

Friday, Saturday and Monday and Tuesday they have charge of the sale of tickets, which have been placed with Mrs. Jess Robertson at the Robertson Cafe. Any tickets left over, (if there be any) from the work of these committees will be placed on sale at the Davis Drug Store on Wednesday of next week. Many have already signified their intentions of attending.

Among the many other tributes which have been conferred upon May Peterson, who sings here at the Palace Theatre on the evening of Nov. 12, was that of being the first to officially sing the recently adopted state song, "Texas, My Texas." She is here shown mounted on the old gray mare, with Governor Ferguson and others during the inauguration of Texas' first woman governor when she sang the state song. In Sweetwater Mrs. Peterson will offer not only the best selections from the heavy and light operas, but she will sing the folk songs dear to all.

JUDGE ORDERS TOWN MOVED

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Nov. 4.—Just eight months ago the town of Old Lavoye, Wyo., was doing a business of $3,000,000 a year. Property in the town was valued at $75,000.

Today there isn't as much as a shack to mark the spot where once the town of 1500 people stood.

In place of the hotels, stores and homes stand only tall grease covered derricks. For it was "black gold" that literally forced Old Lavoye off the map.

A New Town

Already three miles distant a new Lavoye has been built. Some of the buildings were moved there intact, others were torn down and rebuilt and some weren't worth moving.

The story is one of the most unusual arising out of the numerous battles for oil in the otherwise barren lands of the west.

For a time it was feared this dispute would cause armed warfare in the Wyoming fields.

In 1920, Joseph Lavoye, a French Canadian, applied for a homestead on the site of Old Lavoye, but never received the final patent to the land.

Then came a great oil boom in the rich Salt Creek field. The homestead was in the heart of the field. Lavoye leased lots to build stores and the town sprang up with the typical overnight rapidity of a trading center in the oil fields. Prices were high and Lavoye was getting rich fast.

All the geologists said great quantities of oil were underneath the town-site.

The tall oil derricks came closer and closer to the town. The Ohio Oil Company, which had the oil rights to surrounding oil lands, wanted to drill a well on the main corner of the town.

The townspeople objected and the company filed its suit to wipe out the entire town.

Lavoye fought it through the courts until his funds were exhausted. Then the townspeople took up the fight. Appeals were made to Washington without avail.

Finally Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy, who decided Teapot Dome belonged to Harry Sinclair, decided that the townsite belonged to the oil company and ordered that it be vacated.

Revolt Was Feared

The decision stirred the oil fields almost to the point of revolt, but the townspeople finally decided to abide by the decree.

The new town has been built almost as quickly as the old one, but it is much cleaner and more attractive than Old Lavoye. But there isn't a derrick in sight, and the ground on which the new town stands is as yet worth nothing compared to the riches which underlaid Old Lavoye.

Meanwhile, at Old Lavoye, "black gold" continues to come from the earth but its founder is getting no share of the treasure.

The fight is over, but it has left bitter sores that may cause unrest in the oil fields for many years.

PALACE

"Chu Chin Chow" opens today at the Palace Theatre. This production is a film version of the famous stage play which ran five years in London and three in America, the consensus of opinion calling it the greatest of all spectacles, and the picture has been said to even surpass the play for gorgeous scenes and thrilling action.

Beautiful Betty Blythe of "Queen of Sheba" fame is seen as Zahara, the desert flower and the much desired slave girl. Never has Miss Blythe appeared more radiantly beautiful than in the wonderful Oriental gowns she wears, among them one made entirely of pearls. With her in the role of Chu Chin Chow of China will be seen Herbery Laughey, a famous English actor. Thousands appear in the great cast, with many dancing Harem girls.

LYRIC

"Salome of the Tenements" produced by Sidney Olcott for Paramount from the novel by Anzia Yezierska, who wrote "Hungry Hearts," and other just as successful stories, comes to the Lyric today for two days.

Jetta Goudal, French beauty seen in "Open All Night," Godfrey Tearle, Conway's brother, and Jose Ruben are featured in the cast.

The story is one of Sonya Mendel, nicknamed Salome of New York's tenement district. She meets and falls in love with a millionaire who has established a settlement house in her neighborhood and has sacrificed a comfortable home and social position to live there and help brighten the lives of the inhabitants of Manhattan's Ghetto district.

Soya borrows money from an unscrupulous usurer to make an impression on her philanthropic friend and by so doing almost ruins her chances for happiness and love.

DESIGNATE HIGHWAYS

Ballinger and Sweetwater Route Is Now Assured

BALLINGER, Nov. 3.—County Judge Paul Trimmer has been notified by the State Highway Department that designation has been granted on the Ballinger-Bronte Highway.

This was a pleasant surprise to Judge Trimmer and others here who had applied to the department to designate a highway from Ballinger to Sweetwater, but at the same time is tinged with disappointment on account of the road not being designated through Wingate as first asked. Because the highway through Wingate would parallel another highway that route was not granted. Nevertheless the new route will run within four miles of Wingate and should serve that community to a certain extent.

The new route connects Ballinger with Sweetwater, via Maverick, Bronte, Fort Chadbourne and Blackwell, and in addition leads directly into a cross-state highway from Sweetwater, Roscoe, Lubbock and to points in New Mexico and states to the west. The state departments will take over maintenance of this highway on January 1st.

NEW MACHINE PLEASES

New Principles Sound Reproduction Demonstrated Here

The Victrola Orthophonic, the new product of the Victor Talking Machine Co. is on demonstration here by Rufus Wright at his new furniture store.

Involving new principles of sound reproduction, the new machine performs amazingly, especially on the bass notes and the piano, two items where previous machines were especially weak.

There is also a considerable increase in the volume of tone produced. And surprisingly enough, the new machine is cheaper than former styles.

This weather is so changeable the man in charge must be a woman.

It is foolish to go around knocking people with the hope that you will be mistaken for opportunity.
