Dramatic Scene Marks Final Hour in Silent Room Before Funeral

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 11. (AP)—Her hour of sorrow over, Marion today returned to her accustomed ways.

Gone were the silent crowds that streamed into town yesterday to pay their last respects to the late Warren G. Harding, the gentle, unassuming newspaper editor, who became president of the United States.

In the uncertain future a mausoleum is to be erected to house the body of the president to die in office, and when completed, possibly on the top of the Indian mound near the cemetery where his body is buried, the American people will have another shrine.

Friends and neighbors of Mr. Harding today congregated to talk over the events of the past week. The feature was gone over in detail. Many were the stories related.

President Harding's father, Dr. George T. Harding, was a prominent member of the cabinet. He was introduced to Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and the other members of the cabinet.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge arose to greet Mrs. Harding. "I greet you," said Mrs. Harding in a clear, distinct voice as she held out her hand to the man who succeeded her husband.

Then, turning to Mrs. Coolidge, she wished her success as the new mistress of the White House.

The next greeted Chief Justice Taft and Attorney General Daugherty, and when Secretary Hughes stretched out his hand, she grasped it and said, "Mr. Secretary, I can't say to you more, tears filled the eyes of Mrs. Harding.

Quickly recovering, Mrs. Harding greeted the others, saying, "I can't talk to you, but I could not think of having you enter this home without taking each of you by the hand."

There was deep silence as Mrs. Harding retired and then the voice of a minister thanked God for the work of the late president and invoked the divine blessing on the mourning company. The casket was taken out, President Coolidge, Chief Justice Taft, Secretary Hughes and the other members of the cabinet followed.

Justice Taft, Secretary Hughes and the others following. Pictures of President Harding were placed in the procession, and the funeral procession and the service at the cemetery from the viewpoint of a member of the official party.

The slow procession wound its way through streets where silent multitudes stood, uncovered, and with scarcely a movement and whisper, so great was their affection for Mr. Harding and their sense of loss over his death and their desire to sympathize with the stricken family.

The casket was placed on a catafalque. President Coolidge stood facing it at the foot with the cabinet members ranged behind him. Officers of the army to the right and officers of the navy to his left.

Some one gave a signal and the Trinity Baptist choir began singing the old hymn so dear to Mr. Harding, "Lead Kindly Light" amid the sobbing.

Then reverently the word of God was read from the Bible in a city where there is no sorrow, no aching, no pain, nor no death, no parting. Then the prayer asking for the mercy and comfort of the Savior.

As the prayer ended Mrs. Harding was heard to say fervently, "Amen, as though she too believed that God's grace was sufficient to meet her time of need."

The members of the funeral party entered the waiting automobiles following President Coolidge, according to rank, and the funeral cortege again wound its way out of the city.

brewing for generations, so it cannot be traced to any set of any one individual.

However, in that case the socialists were close to gaining the whip-hand in Europe when the war stopped them off their feet. And it is, at least, remotely possible that the war might have been avoided if a half-witted radical youth, spurred on by a more militant, hadn't loaded his pistol and set off the fireworks.

The world is making a terrible mistake if it inclines to attribute the great war to fate—that it was inevitable.

Yes, things might have been different—tremendously different—if the boy-assassin hadn't lost loose with his pistol.

It's too late now, of course, to unscramble the eggs. But the pistol of Gavrio Princip should make us do a lot of serious thinking about the dangers of allowing pistols in general to get into the wrong hands.

There's a campaign gaining headway to stop the sale of revolvers except under police permit, especially by the mail order route. Back that campaign. It would partly disarm the criminal. "Householders could protect themselves with rifles or saw-off shot guns—which cannot be carried by crooks without detection.

To stop murders by revolvers, take away the revolvers.

Called together, women and children crowded within. Then comes a fine strong new brick building, across it the words "Palmer's" and "Palmer's". And that, like the rattling skeletons, is a sign of civilization.

What a horrid fate human souls, and fine brick for a wall in a corporation. Does that mean civilization?

Yes, not now but later. The ancient emperor had his huge bath of marble, cooled by snow that slaves brought down from the mountains. He was the only bath. Now he's gone, slaves are gone, bricklayers make $1 a day, and everybody has a bath tub.

Everybody, some day, will have as fine a house as Standard Oil. In that day there won't be any Standard Oil, perhaps, only public service organizations, men of brains will open to own unnecessary million. He they would secure, now, to own unnecessary slaves.

Meanwhile if you are one of the few that have freedom and are where you please, come here to New Mexico, for half the year at least. This land will increase the bodily strength of your children, and their father's mental power.

FIRST PICTURES OF WASHINGTON'S HONORS FOR PRESIDENT WARREN G. HARDING

WILSON HONORS HARDING BACK TO SCENES OF TRIUMPHS

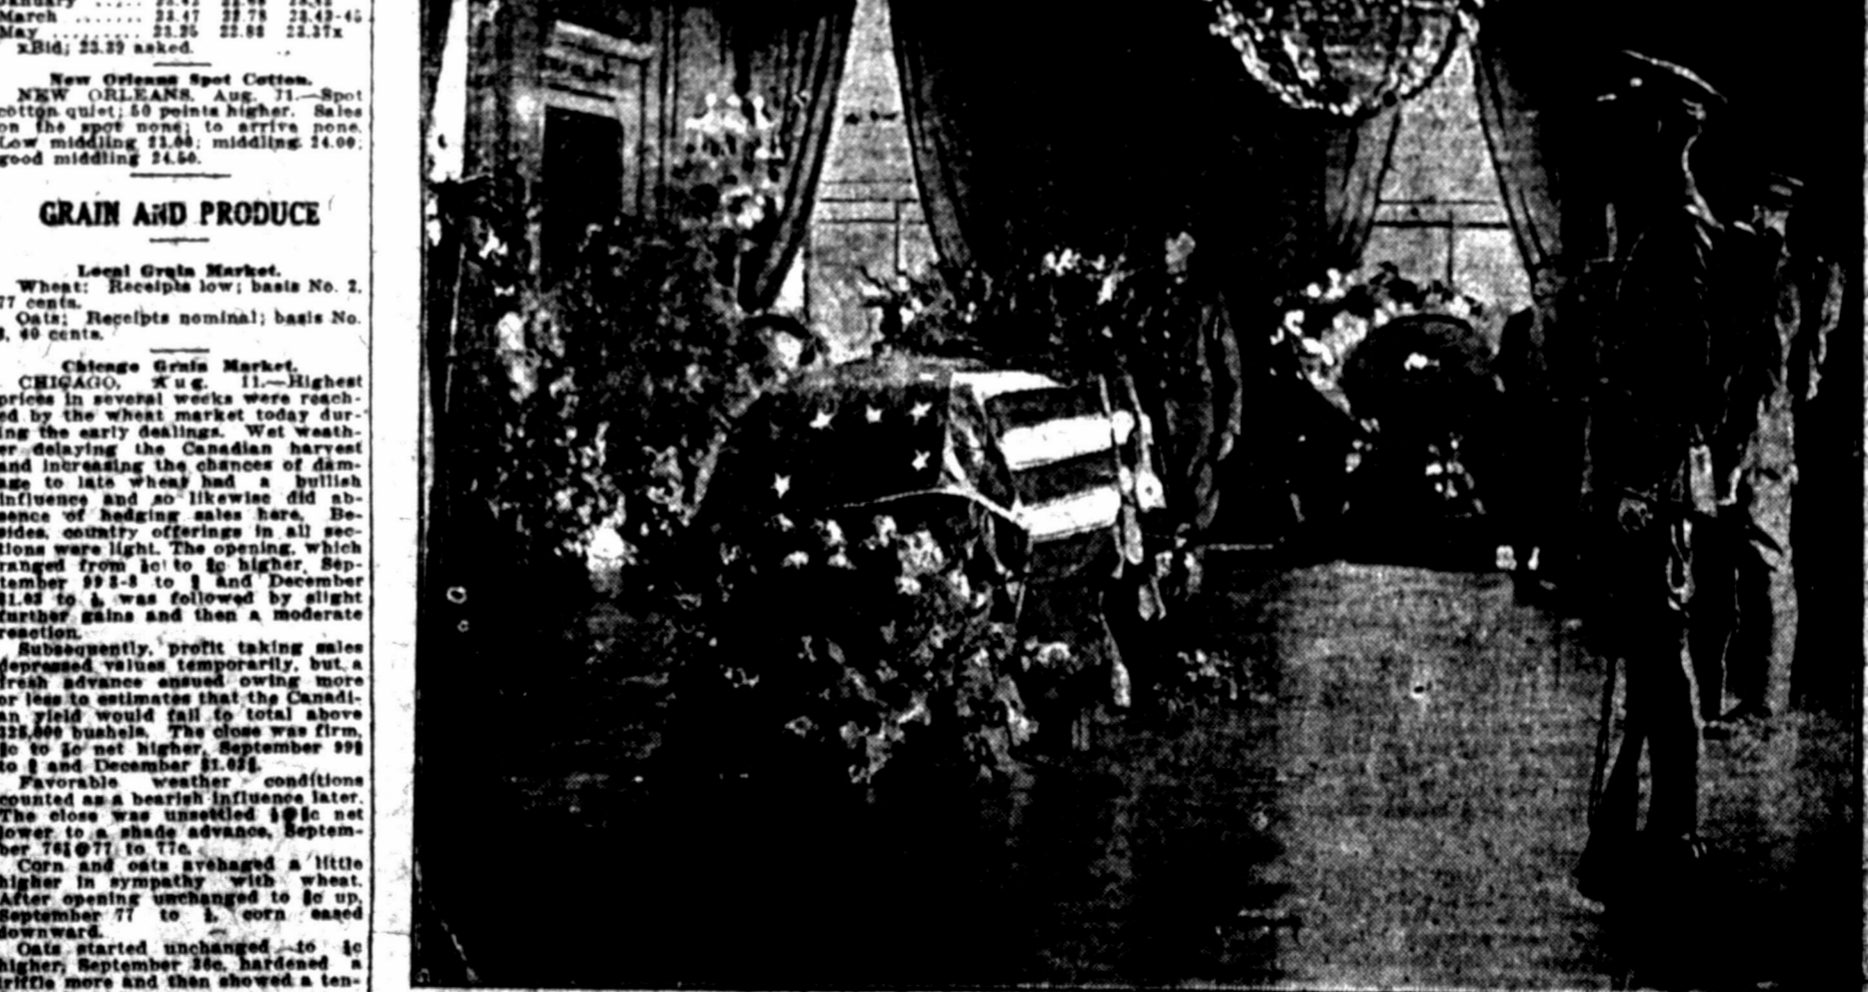

Here is the casket bearing the body of Warren G. Harding burning into Pennsylvania avenue en route from the white house to the capitol. General Pershing led the military escort. Thousands of newsmen and flower girls on up to the nation's leaders, passed before the bier as it lay in state under the spreading dome of the historic old government building.

FLOWERS BANK PRESIDENT'S BIER

This is a closeup of the flag-draped casket as it lay in the east room. Floral offerings from all over the country were banked high against it.

HIS LAST REST IN THE WHITE HOUSE

In the historic east room of the white house, where in his benighted distinguished foreign delegations and received the milk from "back home" Warren G. Harding's body lay in state. The golden chandeliers cast a mellow glow over the flag-draped casket as high government officials called to pay their respects to the nation's late chief.

STOCKS AND FINANCIAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Narrow and unimportant price changes took place in today's stock market, the quietest session of the year. Selling of the rubbers, chemicals and oils as a result of unfavorable trade developments caused some heaviness in the first hour, but prices strengthened later in response to rumors that a mid-week covering operation by short interests, Glaxo-baker, Great Northern preferred and General Electric, each advanced a point above Thursday's final quotations. Famous Players 2 and Woolworth 41. The closing was firm. Sales approximated 125,000 shares.

There was only a little selling on the private rail reports and the market shot up rapidly later in the morning on the western gulf forecast for generally fair weather and rumors that a mid-week covering operation by short interests, Glaxo-baker, Great Northern preferred and General Electric, each advanced a point above Thursday's final quotations. Famous Players 2 and Woolworth 41. The closing was firm. Sales approximated 125,000 shares.

TODAY

Do you know New Mexico. Prepared for a greater race. The swiftest skeletons. Pray Standard Oil house. BY ARTHUR BRIDGEMAN (Copyright, 1923, The Star Co.)

ALBUQUERQUE, New Mexico, Aug. 11.—Until you have seen New Mexico sky and mountains and deep red earth you do not know America. Until you have breathed the air of this heavenly land, you do not know the best place for men, to their children, on this whole earth. This place has been prepared, and saved, through five hundred million years, for perfected men, and his flying machine. Tens of millions will live on these mountain ranges, and high plateaus. From this place, they will fly where they please—to the beautiful California or farther north shores of the Pacific, to Florida's warm waters, in winter, to New York's draughty man-made canyons, where money is plenty, or across the ocean to the beaches and memories of Europe.

A PUZZLE A DAY

Start at one of the letters in the maze, and follow along a straight line to another letter. Continue thus, passing from letter to letter. The correct route will uncover a message of four words. No letter may be passed over twice.

Yesterday's Answer
To find a number that may be divided into four equal parts; the first part 500 times, the second 400 times, the third 40 times as great as the smallest number, is very many, and a multitude of answers are possible. The simplest is 941.

This number may be divided into 500, 400, 40 and 1, which fill the requirements. In the same way 1822 may be divided into 1800, 400, 20 and 2. All that is necessary to solve the puzzle is to take any number; multiply it separately by 40, 400 and 400; then add the totals, and the grand total will be a number that fills the required conditions.

International Bible Students Assn. Will hold all meetings at 505 Lee. The first meeting Sunday morning will be at 10. The Day of Jehovah, Jer. 1:23-24. All are welcome to study with us.—LOCAL ECCLESIA.

MARKETS

COTTON MARKET

New York Cotton. NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 1/4 to 1/2 points on the relatively firm showing of Liverpool, while the American markets were closed yesterday and the failure of the early weather map to indicate anything like general rains or showers in the southwest. October sold up to 23.11 after the call, or 4 1/2 to 1/2 points net higher on covering and commission house buying. Brokers with Japanese and Liverpool connections were also buyers here, but the advance met a good deal of realizing, and prices reacted to the general rains or showers in the southwest. Texas and other cotton futures closed firm.

MRS. LINDQUIST TELLS WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE—What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her.

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one thought I could ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to suffer. I had to go to bed at times to be perfectly quiet as I could not even stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor was frank enough to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to see in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun its use and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."—Mrs. MAY LINDQUIST, 2214 Independence Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
