Sixteen Orphan Children Under Care of Amrican Red Cross Are Victims of Gun Fire of Italians

LONDON, Sept 4—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome soday says that Premier Mussolini told the cabinet that if the council of the League of Nations asserts its competency to deal with the Grecius-Italian controversy Italy will withdraw from the league.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 4. "Italy will now make her terms for the svacuaof Corfu more onerous if Greece delays in fulfilling the terms of jatum, Premier Musaolini is quoted by the Daily Mall's Rome

If the Greeke fulfill the conditions and as declaring.

If the Greeks fulfill the conditions of my ultimatum and pay up I shall withdraw from Corfu, but they had better pay soon, for next week the price will be higher," the premier said.

"I have no intention of occupying any Greek territory or employing other sanctions unless, of course, the Greeks are foolish enough to attack Italian subjects or property."

By Associated Press.

As the council of the League of Nations considers the Greco-Italian dispute. Premier Mussolint let it be known that he is ready to recall the Italian delegates from Geneva in case the league does not share Italy's eninted that the controversy, affecting directly the honor and dignity of Italy, is between Rome and Athens only. Reports of the Italian position reaching Geneva also contain the information that Italy is willing to have the permanent court of international justice pass on the competance of the league to intervene. The court in the opinion of league officials would decide unlessitatingly that the league had authority. The impression prevails at Geneva that the crisis between Italy and Greece is less strained.

Greece is less strained.

Stephen R. Love, of St. Louis, a near east relief worker at Corfu, this arrived at Athens with first hand information concerning the bombardment of that city. He said that 20 refugees, including 16 children, were killed by the Raffan gun firs. The children were or phans under care of the American Red Cross and were showered with strapped while in bathing.

The British government still holds that the altuation is one for admixment by the League of Nations. It is said in London in case the league council does not convene the Scandinavian countries have decided to withdraw their representatives. Great Britain does not believe the prospects of an early settlement have improved.

They had laughed to where the totem poles stood naked and weather-stained before the forsaken hemes of the chiefa. Sometimes, alone on the deck at night. Ned was close to the dearest reality, the most profound discovery that could possibly touch his life; that the dreadful spirit of God moved upon the face of these desolate waters, no less than, as is told in Genesis, at creation's dawn. Everything would have been dif-ferent if they had come in a larger boat, for instance, one of the great liners that piled between Seattle and Anchorage. In that case, likely they would have had no trouble in retaining their old point of view. The brooding tone of the north would have passed them by; the journey could still have remained a holiday instead of the atrange, wan-dering dream that it was. The reason was simply that on a liner they would not have broken all ties with their old life. There would have been games and dancing, the have been games and dancing, the service of menials, social inter-course and all the superficialities and prevenses that had until new composed their lives. Two speedy preliminaries to the Jackson, 52-nain bout offset the duliness of the good rounds. latter in the American Legion fight show Monday night at the ball park arena, Lee Morrisecy and Speedy Sinyon, welterweights, billed in the feature attraction falled to provide the amount of entertainment usual-ly expected of a main bout. However, the fans were treated to real scraps in the Byrd-Simmons and Snyder-Savage matches. Red Byrd won a ten-round refere's draw over Battling Simmons while Kid Snyder received the ref-eree's verdict after eight rounds with Mickey Savage. In the main bout Morrissey was easily the cleaverer of the two men and had a decision been given entirely on the scoring of points, it would have been difficult to have called it a draw. But Morrissey coasted along, mgking little effort to and the hour or wile un moints.

to end the bout or pile up points, and for that reason a draw was a very good decision. Neither of the men deserved a decision. What the main bout lacked was, made up for in the ferceness of the third meeting of Byrd and Simmons. Simmons' work in the final three rounds should have earned him a draw, but the referee did not see it that way. Byrd rolled up the points in the first three rounds, poking a left into Simmons' face, and many times fellowing it through with a short right, almost at will. After the third Byrd did not win a round. Simmons had two and the other three were even. Simmons inflicted far more punishment in the two rounds that he won than Byrd did in the first three and the former was in much better condition at the was in much better condition at the finish. Byrds was worried efter the third with a bad gash over the left eye, but he fought gamely all the way, much of the time with the entire side of his face smeared with blood. Snyder and Savage, the light-weights, went through the first six rounds of theig bout on as even terms as boxers could possibly have ade it. But the fast pace told or
