ASSURANCE GIVEN ADMINISTRATION IS FOR ENFORCEMENT

STATEMENT MADE BY COMMISSIONER HAYNES IN ADDRESS

CITIZENSHIP CONFERENCE MEETS IN WASHINGTON

Attended By Enforcement Associates From All Parts of the Country.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Assurance that the Coolidge administration, like that of the late President Harding, stands squarely for prohibition enforcement, was given by prohibition Commissioner Haynes in an address today at the opening session of the "citizenship conference" on law enforcement, called by the federal council of churches.

Described in effect as a reforming of the ranks of dry leaders to combat the enemies of prohibition enforcement, the conference was attended by enforcement associates from all parts of the country, including state officials and many prominent in church and civic life.

Adoption of a practical program for swamping "the moral force of the nation" to the need of law observance was set forth as the purpose of the three-day meeting.

"This administration is four squares for effective enforcement," Commissioner Haynes declared. "We all know how valiantly President Harding supported and sponsored it. No issue which interested the President more than prohibition was set forth as the purpose of the three-day meeting."

The administration is four squares for effective enforcement, Commissioner Haynes declared. "We all know how valiantly President Harding supported and sponsored it. No issue which interested the President more than prohibition was set forth as the purpose of the three-day meeting."

Law enforcement as involved in the prohibition question will be the dominant issue in the next presidential election, Bishop McDowell declared in his address to the delegates to the democratic convention from Florida.

Situation Now Political Chaos Declares Bryan

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 13.—The political situation today is more chaotic than it has been at any time in the past quarter of a century, William Jennings Bryan, the candidate for president of the United States, declared on his arrival here from Los Angeles.

Asked whether he thought a man from the west had a chance to become president Bryan said that he didn't think it was a long or long-term chance, but that it was a possibility.

Second Explosion Is Attributed to Enemies of Klan

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—A bomb explosion, the second within 48 hours, attributed to enemies of the Ku Klux Klan early today shattered the front of a seventh story building owned by G. A. Fausso, who admitted being a Klansman and having received anonymous threats.

WALTON RELEASES TWO LIQUOR TENANTS BLAKE AND BYNUM

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 13.—In a statement regarding Governor J. C. Walton removing him as state bank commissioner, Dr. E. T. Bynum declared today that "rather than a wicked abuse of the state government in practice today, his friends with reckless abandon, he (Governor Walton) said it was extremely mortifying for him to have to issue such a statement."

Dr. Bynum said the removal order was a distinct surprise to him. Blake, it is believed, had been forwarded in a conference with the executive which lasted the greater part of the day.

Blake declared that "with the personal issue at last eliminated the path is clear" and promised to carry the fight "into every precinct in the state." He did not indicate his contemplated course of action, but said that after a week's absence he will return to his home in Muskogee, Okla.

The statement declared that the former commissioner had been removed from office by Governor Walton, who had no control over the governor's campaign against the Klan with the result that other advisers of the executive "felt that the fundamental question of who should rule" had persuaded the governor to depose him.

There is nothing the matter with that, I have no comment to make," Dr. Bynum said.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 13.—Facing the crisis of his political career, Governor Walton today had cast aside two of his foremost lieutenants in the administration of Oklahoma territory.

While legislative impeachment court already investigating his official conduct, the governor threw a surprise bombshell today by removing from office of Aldrich Blake, the executive secretary of the state bank commissioner, and Dr. E. T. Bynum, state bank commissioner.

Over the denial by Blake that the affair had any significance, the department in charge of the investigation today that the address of former United States Senator Gore of Oklahoma before the state legislature Thursday precipitated the removal of both officials.

Circus Will Not Be Able to Show Here Today As Scheduled

Thousands of Wichita county residents were disappointed Saturday morning when they were informed that the Al G. Barnes, big four-ring wild animal circus, which was scheduled to arrive in Wichita today, would not be able to put on a performance in this city.

It was learned that the circus was delayed by a heavy rain in the vicinity of the circus show Friday night. The circus was delayed by a heavy rain in the vicinity of the circus show Friday night.

Negroes Taken From Officers and Shot to Death

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 13.—Horace Carter, 40-year-old negro of Washington, was taken from two officers near the King and Queen boulevard court house last night and shot to death by a party of about 10 persons, according to word received here today.

HARDEST RAIN OF YEAR NOT YET ARRIVE

CONTINUOUS RAIN THROUGHOUT TERRITORY SINCE MIDNIGHT FRIDAY.

TEMPERATURE FALLS TO LOWEST SINCE SPRING

RAILROADS REPORT TROUBLE IN OPERATION OF TRAINS INTO CITY FROM ALL DIRECTIONS.

Forty-five hours were washed out of the Canadian river bridge by flood waters early Saturday, according to officials of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad.

Heavy rains, probably the heaviest so far this year, were reported Saturday morning all over northwestern Texas and southern Oklahoma by railroad dispatchers.

According to George Simmons, official weather observer here, the lowest temperature has been recorded so far this year.

More than five inches of rain fell at Hobart, Oklahoma, Friday night and Saturday, according to word received here Saturday noon.

Ford to Return War Profits to U.S. Government

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 13.—Henry Ford will return his war profits to the government as soon as he can, which is now in progress, according to a statement issued last night.

PANHANDLE SECTION IS WATER BOUND AND RAILROADS TIED UP

CHILLICOTTE, Texas, Oct. 13.—The Panhandle section of Texas and Northern Oklahoma was water bound today with railroad traffic at a standstill as a result of heavy rains which began falling Thursday night and continued today with no indication of a let up.

Rescue work has been started on the plains, which have in this season contained more water than ever before, according to officials of the state.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 13.—Warning that a flood of unprecedented proportions was rushing toward Oklahoma City in the form of a mucky, muddy water, the North Canadian river, already above flood stage here, was issued today by the United States weather bureau.

One hundred and fifty miles up the river the highest waters in the life of the weather bureau gauge were reported Saturday morning at the town of Chickasha, Okla.

Within 48 hours the river at this point is expected to reach its crest, according to the weather bureau.

More than five inches of rain fell at Hobart, Oklahoma, Friday night and Saturday, according to word received here Saturday noon.

Consistent Slugging on Part of Huggins' Men Piles Up Big Lead; Giants Threaten in the Eighth

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Oct. 13.—The Yankees ferried a steam roller over the Harlem river today and put the crumpled firm, but not gently on the Giants. The National League champions were fattened out by a score of 8 to 4, the Yankees knocking out of the box two of the Giants' star slayers, Scott and McQuillan. Shawkey held the Giants in check until the eighth, when he weakened. The series now stands: Giants 2, Yankees 4. See the following official box score on how the Yankees turned the tables on their opponents:

Table with 10 columns: Name, AB, R, H, PO, A, E. Yankees: Witt, 4, 1, 1, 0, 0, 0; Dugan, 3b, 4, 1, 1, 0, 0; R. SALAD-DRESSING MADE HERE ATTAINS GREAT POPULARITY

About three years ago a Wichita Falls woman embarked on a venture with considerable fear and some trembling, which has rapidly developed into an enterprise of vast proportions and the production of a "dress" of great popularity seems justifiable.

The first bottle of "Maid Well 1000 Island Dressing" was sold in Wichita Falls in January, 1929, and since that time its popularity in this city and territory beyond the furthest hopes of the manufacturer at present being realized by more than 200 local stores and consignments going to seven or more towns in this section of the state.

Mrs. C. E. Evans, 1326 Lucile street, about three years ago began furnishing her neighbors with delicious salad dressing, with no thought of ever doing more than just this neighborhood in connection with her pastures. The demand spread and after a few months it was suggested that one of the local merchants might be interested in handling a commodity of such popularity.

The White House Market was approached and eagerly accepted the opportunity.

From the small electric hand mixer which had been used in its manufacture it was necessary to advance to a seven-gallon electric mixer at a cost of $428, which at that time seemed a stupendous investment. Mrs. Evans declared:

Soon the breakfast room which had been converted into a work place with her previous, a small building, 18 by 28 feet, was built in the back yard with ample refrigeration, a range, water table, and a $750 mixer, which produces an output of 15 to 20 gallons of dressing per day.

The little factory is a model in sanitation and attractiveness, with all the white finish and convenient and spacious arrangement.

The standard will never be lowered in any respect, as she believes in giving the best and only the best.

PATRONAGE OF ELECTRIC LINES IS INCREASING

DALLAS, Oct. 12.—Although there were approximately 10,000,000 automobiles in the United States last year, the electric railways of the country carried more passengers in 1932 than ever before in the history of the United States Census Bureau. The total number was 1,827,253,232.

This fact was announced by C. D. Simmons, president of the American Electric Railway Association, on authority of the census bureau, which has just completed a survey of the electric railways, operations for 1932. The association's annual convention is in session and the census bureau made a preliminary report of its findings on the benefits of association members.

The largest number of passengers carried previous to 1932, in any one year was 1,824,574,000 in 1917. Thus, 1932 shows an increase of about six per cent.

The report for 1932 also showed that the electric railways carried 15,000,000 passengers. This number, Mr. Simmons said, has been increased by additional bus service controlled by electric railway companies.

Industries Are Increasing Use Of Gas and Oil

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 12.—Data compiled by the United States Geological Survey shows that in July the electric light and power industry began a rapid increase of the use of fuel oil in the place of other fuels in generating electric energy. In that month California took first place away from Texas in the use of this fuel by such companies, says the Texas Public Service Commission.

Only Texas used 27,000 barrels. Texas used 230,000 barrels. Electric light and power plants in New York have increased their use of fuel oil from 12,000 barrels in 1929 to such an amount that it is estimated they will use 200,000 barrels in 1932.

CARROLL COMPEERS AGAIN PRESIDENT LABOR FEDERATION

Other officials named by a unanimous vote.

Place is selected as meeting place of convention to be held in 1935.

By WILLIAM L. BLISS, University Service Correspondent.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 11.—Samuel Gompers was re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor at its closing session Friday.

There was no opposition to any of the candidates and all were re-elected by unanimous vote.

But the domination of the organization by the American Federation of Labor, is largely due to the fact that Mr. Gompers has succeeded in converting a working majority of the international presidents and other officers to his way of thinking.

Mr. Gompers opposed industrial unionism, the recognition of soviet Russia and the formation of an independent political party for workers and so these proposals were defeated in spite of the growing feeling among many leaders in organizing a working majority of Gompers' policies are wrong.

To a considerable extent they were supported by the radical or red element in the labor movement.

First vice-president, T. A. Hickert, garment workers union, Chicago.

Third vice-president, Frank Duffy, carpenters union, Indianapolis.

Treasurer, Daniel J. Tobin, teamsters union, New York.

Secretary, Frank Morrison, typographical union, Washington.

John J. O'Connor, electrical workers union, New York, presided when George Perkins of the cigar makers union, nominated Mr. Tolson as president.

Mr. Tolson won over Detroit after a spirited fight for the forty-fourth convention of the federation, starting November 17, 1935.

Mr. Tolson was elected delegate to the labor movement in Mexico. The convention will meet at the same time in Juarez, just across the Rio Grande. The vote was 14,538 for Mr. Tolson and 12,115 for Detroit.

Belgian Is Again Pressing Demand For Reparations

Brussels, Oct. 11.—The Belgian government has invited the French, British and Italian governments to refer to the international reparations commission the Belgian position.

It is officially stated that the three allied governments have agreed to the Belgian proposal and that the reparations commission will undertake a study of the Belgian suggestions.

It would appear that Belgium is again bringing her reparations plan to the attention of the allies, in referring to her proposed desire expressed at the Brussels conference with the French in June, that all the allies get together again and frame a reparations settlement with Germany.

The Belgian plan submitted at the Brussels conference set seven billion gold marks as the figure Belgium was prepared to accept for the liquidation of the war.

France, it was declared, while accepting the plan in principle, asked that time be given for French experts to examine it and ultimately it appears to have been laid aside without any definite action.

Plea of Insanity In Case of Woman Who Shot Priest

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Insanity will be the plea of Mrs. Emily Strutzki when she is brought to trial for the killing of the Rev. Basil Stetuk, Ukrainian pastor, shot to death at his altar by the woman last Sunday.

Dr. Dreyer, who has been retained to defend her.

I foresee no serious results from the plea, Dr. Dreyer said. "I would say this woman is not in danger of her life."

Mrs. Strutzki, held in jail pending grand jury action, is writing a book in which she said she is set to reveal her real reason for the shooting.

DIES AS RESULT OF BLOW FROM MIDIRON WHILE PLAYING GOLF

It was the first day of a two-week holiday week was going to devote to his golf after having gone without a vacation for several years.

He dropped back to pick up his club and strode after his ball, glancing back to see how he was doing.

He was struck on the back of the head by the club and he had dropped without a murmur.

CLOSE BANK OF WHICH GOVERNOR WAS PRESIDENT

Wentland, Ind., Oct. 11.—The Discount and Deposit Bank of this city, of which Governor McCray was president, shortly before his financial difficulties became public, was closed today.

Judge William Darroch, who succeeded the governor as president, said a reorganization was contemplated.

NEW LIGHT On the Most Baffling Mysteries in Crime

Sir Basil Thompson knows more than any other living man about criminal and state secrets.

As Chief of the Criminal Investigation Bureau of Scotland Yard, the most famous detective organization in the world, actively directing the operations of 32 superintendents, 594 inspectors, 2,480 sergeants, and 15,597 constables, Sir Basil was instrumental in guarding England against the Kaiser's war spies and the machinations of the Third International.

The same man who has solved with crime, and insight into criminal motives, is for the first time applied to the great mysteries of the United States. In every case Sir Basil suggests a new and plausible line of investigation.

The Story of an Ambitious Mouse

The little mouse sighed as he sat on his perch in the kitchen. He had been given his name by a man who had just come from the city. "What a name!" he thought. "I shall be known as a mouse of some importance."

Once upon a time, a gray mouse, and a sleepy brown Dormouse were having a conversation. "What is your greatest ambition, Cousin Dormouse?" asked the gray mouse. "To find a quiet place where I can sleep all the time," replied the Dormouse with a yawn. "What about your ambition, gray beggar?" "It's easy to find a quiet place," answered the gray mouse. "Just to the end of the world, next to the Jumping-Off Place, and you'll never be bothered. But what I want is harder to find. I would like to find a place where there is nothing but cheese."

"That's extremely simple," sniffed the Dormouse, yawning still more. "All you have to do is to go to the moon, for it's made of cheese."

"The moon made of cheese?" "Really?" asked the mouse. "What kind of cheese?" "Green cheese. It's not so common as Camembert, nor so soft as Roquefort, nor so sweet as Swiss cheese, and think how good it is!"

"I shall not let you go," purred the cat, still grinning. "I was just looking at the sky for my supper!"

They say the moon is made of green cheese. And the mouse trembled for his life.

"I shall not let you go," purred the cat, still grinning. "I was just looking at the sky for my supper!"

Some one told me there was a nice fat mouse under your paw!

A PICTURE MAP OF THE BRITISH ISLES

The countries of England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland, united to make the nation called Great Britain, you see above in the picture map, fairly teeming with wealth. If you compare Great Britain with other countries on a map of the world, you will find her a tiny nation in size, but she is gigantic in influence and prosperity. Her people have utilized every resource—agricultural, mineral and industrial, to build up a world trade. The map shows only in a general way the products of the localities. If we were to show a ship in every harbor where shipping is carried on, or where trading is the central occupation, our picture would be so crowded with vessels, there would be left no room for pictures of the agricultural yields; the minerals—tin, coal, iron; the manufactures, textiles, porcelain, glassware; and the fishing, in which England does a great business of exporting.

SHORT STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

The Fairies of the Silver Circle

Every year in September and in May, the Fairies of the Silver Circle have a ball. It is a very grand affair, and is held in the middle of the moon. At midnight when the moon is full and the breezes play in the tops of the trees if you row out in the middle of the lake and dip your finger three times in the middle of the spot where the moon shines brightest, and on the twinkles, the veil will be lifted from your eyes and you will be able to see the fairies dancing at their fairy ball.

Twice a year, every spring and fall, the Fairies of the Silver Circle hold a ball. All the fairies on the earth are invited, and it is not until they are gathered on the lake all ready for the dance that the Fairies of the Silver Circle come down from their home on the moon. They ride down on the moonbeams. It was purely by accident that I saw my first fairy ball. I had rowed out into the middle of the lake. The night was cool and clear. Little lights chased each other across the water, and the moon shone brightly in the sky. I was rowing along slowly when I accidentally stuck myself on a pin in my dress. I dipped my finger into the cool water in order to wash away the tiny drop of blood that had formed. Three times I dipped it in, and there a wonderful thing happened. The veil was lifted from my eyes and I was able to see the fairies dancing at their fairy ball.

My eyes and I was able to see as the fairies can see. I looked, and sure enough, I had been dipping my finger in the very middle of the spot where the moon shines brightest on the ripples.

The first thing I saw was the Fairies of the Silver Circle galloping down from the moon. There were thousands of them dashing through the air, each one dressed in silver or gold and outside a glistening moonbeam.

Then I saw that the whole lake was covered with tiny fairy dancers. Every Fairy of the Silver Circle was dancing with a little circle of light for her partner. All around the banks of the lake the elf orchestras were gathered. I could hear their saving away on their little grass fiddles. All the earth fairies were dressed in dark greens and browns and blues, but every little Fairy of the Silver Circle was either silver or gold.

Suddenly, as I watched, the wind whistled a strange weird note; the elf orchestras stopped playing, and all the little dancers stopped dancing. "Oh, it's a cloud," they cried. "Make haste! Make haste! Quick as a flash all the Fairies of the Silver Circle jumped on their moonbeams and dashed back to the moon. I watched, and the last one got home just in time. For, immediately after a big angry cloud covered the moon. I looked around in surprise. The bright scene of the fairies' ball was again nothing but a dull, dark, and gloomy lake.

HOW SAD! HOW TRUE!

The rain it raineth everywhere Upon the just and unjust fella, But mostly on the just, because The unjust steal the just's umbrellas.

THE INITIAL LETTERS OF THE FOUR OBJECTS TO QUEST MAY BE ARRANGED TO SPELL THE WORD SUGGESTED IN EACH PICTURE.

Don in the Mystic Maze

Don could say four words of praise in favor of that mystic maze; if you'd require. "What caused his loss? I found a howl he would roar."

"Right this way for the mystic maze," sang out the "Barker" at the carnival. The twins, Don and Doug, stood outside and stared longingly.

Don stepped over his remaining nickels thoughtfully. He looked again at the inviting sign. "Guess I'll go in," he declared, and in he went.

He'd no idea what a mystic maze was like, but it sounded thrilling, all right. You probably would round and round in a tunnel or something until you got lost.

Clutching his hat tightly, Don went down a long, narrow, poorly lit corridor, bumping into some one else coming along behind him, but he didn't turn around to see who it was.

The corridor made a sudden turn and Bump! Don's head hit something and down he went. He scrambled up, and there, in the dim light, he saw Doug staring at him. He must have decided to come in after all, and had come down a different entrance.

"Look here, Doug, you'd better watch where you're going," muttered Don angrily. "Goah, you surprised me, bumping into me around the corner!"

"Look out yourself, dunc," replied Doug in a high, squeaky, mocking voice that he sometimes used to tease Don.

Don was thoroughly angry. He wasn't going to let Doug run into him and then mock him about it, after knocking him down.

"You take that back," he demanded. There was no reply. Don's fist shot out and struck something hard.

"Ha, ha," laughed Doug, and Don felt his hand on his shoulder. "I came up behind you. Think twice before you go taking swings like that at glass walls."

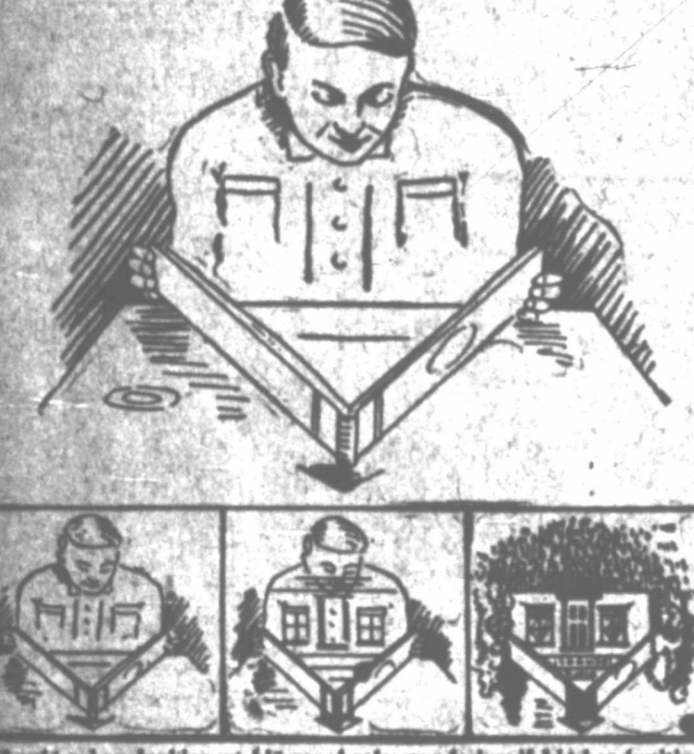

THE CRYSTAL CITY

A city 400 feet underground, where real people live, work, go to church, and the theater and entertain in a great ballroom, seems strange enough, but when we learn that this city, the Crystal City of Wisconsin, is made entirely of glass, stones, shingles, chandeliers, all carved from pure salt; a ballroom 300 feet long and 150 feet high with really exists outside the pages of a story book.

About 400 years ago this salt deposit was discovered 200 feet below the earth's surface. The salt is so pure that it can be cut out in large blocks and sold without refining. Many years ago the miners started to cut them out to form streets and stairways as the mine grew deeper, then came balconies and rooms, and today they have a church with columns, statues, shrines, chandeliers, all carved from pure salt; a ballroom 300 feet long and 150 feet high with really exists outside the pages of a story book.

Cartoon Magic—The Little Red Schoolhouse

Here's a boy looking at his copybook, wondering if his handwriting is getting any better. Lines carefully added to the picture will show you just where the boy goes to school. Be sure to put in the heavy lines for grass and bushes, as they blot out the boy's face.

IN SNOPYQUOP LAND

This is Christopher Columbus, one of the most famous of all the snopyqs, as he was about to discover America. Land is just to the right, outside the picture; he can see it, but you can't.

Columbus was out with various attachments given to him by Queen Isabella Donna and King Ferd, chief of which is a machine for making a yawn. "Here, Chris," said Isabella to him, as he was about to start, "there are ostrich fans, movie fans and baseball fans, but I'm giving you an electric fan. Take it and blow!"

Moral: Of all the fruits of history, the date, 1492, is the most famous.

FURNITURE FOR THE DOLLHOUSE BEAUTIFUL

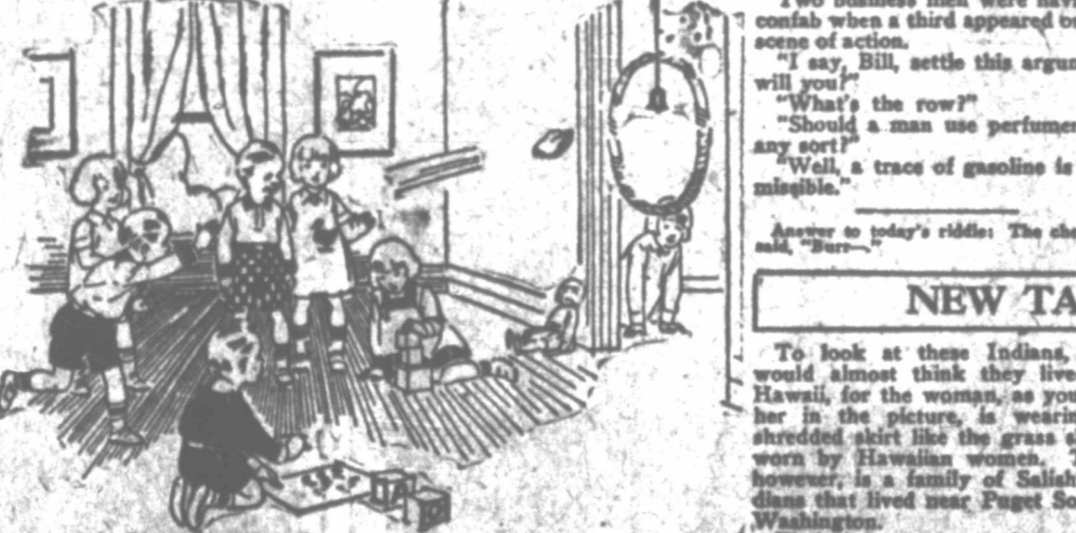

A Straight Chair and a Rocker. Chairs are such convenient places to leave your clothes or to hang your hat, instead of putting it carefully away in the closet, that China Doll says she is sorely tempted sometimes to be careless. But her new cardboard furniture is so fresh and pretty it inspires her to neatness.

The most fun about making these chairs is sewing in the tiny little cushion seat after the chair is all put together. Measure as the diagram directs you, whether your chair is to be a straight one or a rocker. Paste on the dotted flaps. With small sewing scissors, cut out between the rails on the chair back. Then if you wish to make a rocker, cut up the four sides of each chair leg, one-fourth inch. Bend down the little flaps, so you can paste them tight to the rockers. You may have to cut the back legs a little shorter than the front ones to give the chair the proper tilt.

The simplest way to make two for the second. The cushions are Turn in the edges neatly and paste chairs is to measure carefully for tiny squares of cretonne which are through the cardboard to fasten them, then trace around your pattern a little cotton padding.

The Funmaker Tells About "Ring the Bell" in the Hoop

You think throwing a bean bag through a hoop is about the easiest thing a person can do. It ought to be easy if the hoop is big and the bean bag is so little! But you know only half of it.

When that bean bag goes through the hoop, it must be thrown so that it hits a little ball suspended from the top of the hoop. That makes it a whole lot harder, for the ball is so little and the space all around it is so big!

This game is a good one to play at a party. You want your hoop to be as attractive as possible so you wind it with crepe paper. If you use a bright color, it is better, for then you can see the round space you must strike, more clearly. It might be a good idea to cover the ball with a color, too, then you and girls like it too.

The boys and girls who play the game must all stand on a line some distance away. If you forget, you'll lose your turn. If you aim correctly, the little ball will strike the bean bag and it will fly through the hoop. The one who rings the bell the most times after a certain number of turns gets the prize.

If you want to play on a "count system," count one point if the bean bag goes through the hoop, and two points if it hits the bell. Then add up the scores at the end and see who is the winner.

This game is an especially good one for little brother or sister's birthday party, though older boys would have a small target at which to aim.

A FEW FUNNY BONE BUMPERS

The Engine Knocks Him Out. "Is your husband still worrying about your automobile?" "Constantly," replied Mrs. Chuggins. "I never knew a man to suffer so much with river complaint."

Grown-Up. Deliberate Old Lady (who has been taking a lot of time in selecting her purchase): "But I don't think this is lamb. It looks to me like mutton."

Exasperated. Butcher: "It was lamb when I first showed it to you, ma'am."

The Worst If Yet to Come. "I wish to ask you a question concerning a tragedy." "Well?" "What is my grade?"

Poor Connection. Violet: "Why is a kiss over a telephone like a straw hat?" Ray: "I don't know. Why?" Violet: "Because it isn't felt."

Proof Enough. "Mary, are you a good cook?" "Yes, ma'am. I go to church every Sunday."

FOOTBALL

(This is the sketch of a portion of twelve lines which the best players know who want to learn to play football and stay it right.)

Keep Eye on Ball. First of all, the catcher must keep his eye on the ball until he has it. If he takes a glance to watch for tacklers just before he catches, he is likely to fumble.

In getting ready for the ball the hands should be extended well up and out toward the ball, one a little farther than the other. The hand which is farthest out guides the ball to the body and is usually on top of the ball when it comes up against the player. The other hand helps to guide the ball into the pocket which is formed by the body and hands, and is on the underside of the ball.

Change Catching Style. When, however, the ball is very low or is over the head, it must be caught like a baseball.

Whenever the catch is not too difficult, it is best to make it on the hands, as the catcher has a better chance to get away from the opposing tacklers.

NEW TALES OF OLD INDIAN TRIBES

To look at these Indians, one would almost think they lived in Hawaii, for the woman, as you see her in the picture, is wearing a shredded skirt like the grass skirts worn by Hawaiian women. This, however, is a family of Salish Indians that lived near Puget Sound, Washington.

Their houses were rude outdoor affairs consisting of four cedar plank posts with supporting rafters. The provisions and the man's equipment for hunting and fishing were stored on the top. A bench along the side served the purpose of table where the meal was eaten, a place to sit while at work and at night a bed—ill luck to the sleeper when it rained!

Riding Camelback

A little lesson in riding camel-back! Camels in North Central Africa and East Africa are fitted with leather saddles with a pommel. The nicer ones have leather trap-pings covered with cloth and are ornamented with cowrie shells. The camel is driven by a leather muscle rope, and it often wishes to attain a little speed. Instead of the bit that horses wear, the reins are attached to a thin string that is threaded through the camel's nasal orifice.

Camels that are saddled for wedding or other great occasions are extremely elaborate things. They are literally covered with tiny beads woven into beautiful patterns of rich colors.
