NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By JULIAN CAPERS, JR.

Austin.—The tortoise-like legislature, moving through the first third of its second special session, labored and brought forth a mouse last week in the form of an old-aged pension bill. Each house passed its own measure, and the two went to conference for reconciliation, which should not be difficult. But the bill merely will set up restrictions on who is to receive the pensions, and the battle royal over taxes to pay for them, remains to be fought out. What the legislature does during the second 10 days of the session about taxes probably will indicate whether a third special session must be held. Unless a liquor control bill to be submitted during this week, can be passed, the third special session will come, and must be held immediately after Nov. 15, to prevent continuation of the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars in liquor taxes. The senate passed a few officers' salary bill, but the house had not acted yet on any of the problems for which the two special sessions were called.

As the year's end nears, Austin observers were taking first long-range glances at the state political situation. With a national campaign next year to occupy the center of the political stage, it appears at this early date, that the state campaigns will be minimized, with principal state office-holders up for second terms. Under time-honored Democratic precedent, the prospect now is that: Gov. James V. Allred will not face any serious opposition. There are no other avowed candidates in his field. Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, twice unsuccessful has been sending up trial balloons, but frankly admist he lacks finances. So far, his apparent chance of winning has not appeared good enough to enlist any substantial backing for third try. Allred, meanwhile, has made steady political progress during his incumbency. His rather violent differences with a bloc in each house of the legislature appear to have been slowly healed. His popularity with the people of the state has been enhanced, close observers here believe, during his incumbency, and his views on the sales tax, chain store taxation, and other public questions have proved sounder and more popular politically than opposing views of his political foes, as is evidenced by favorable legislative action brought about in response to public opinion on the law-makers.

William McCraw, as attorney general, likewise has made a record that indicates his re-election without serious opposition from any quarter. The red-headed Dallasite has kept his political fences in excellent repair thru-out his incumbency, and there is not even a rumormongering candidate at this stage, to oppose his re-election. McCraw has told his friends that he wants to serve four years as attorney general, and then take up the private practice of law in Dallas. There is nothing on the political horizon at this time to indicate that he will have any trouble fulfilling that ambition.

For some of the minor state offices, there will doubtless be contests. And obviously, developments of the next few months could bring a change in the situation in any or all of these major places. This summary merely purports to reflect the best opinion of the experts here in Austin, who make an avocation of keeping an ear to the ground.

Many members of the legislature who exhibited curiosity about a "take-off" poker game, being operated by a former state senator in a hotel room here during the special sessions, have paid dearly for their weakness. Some of the mhave dropped sizeable sums to their former colleague, and have found him a very business-like person at collecting. The game is reported to have proved very profitable to its operator.

P. T. A. To Conduct Child Story Telling

The Spur Parent-Teachers' Association have arranged for a story telling period from three o'clock until 5:30 on the afternoons of the first and third Tuesday of each month. Competent people will be in charge of the children left during these hours. The story telling period will be at the East Ward School, and a small fee of 15 cents for each child will be charged, or 25 cents for two children from the same home for each afternoon.

This will furnish a convenience for many mothers who may have social features to look after, or who may have duties at home or otherwise where they could not have time to devote to the children. See the Parent-Teachers' Association and leave your children with them the afternoons of the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

Miss Vernay Boynton, teacher at the Ellis School in Kent County, was doing some shopping in our city Saturday.

C. C. Haile, of Afton, was transacting business in our city Saturday and seems to be feeling good about affairs in general.

FARMERS TO RETAIN CORN-HOG PLANS

The vote over the county Saturday relative to keeping the Corn-Hog program in effect was almost unanimous. County Agent Lane stated this week that 92 contracts have been signed to date. In the vote Saturday there were 60 in the election with 58 voting favorable to the contracts being continued. There were six non-signers that voted in the election and five voted favorable to the contract and one against. The total vote cast was 66 with 63 in favor of retaining the contracts in force and three votes to cancel the contracts.

According to reports received from Washington, the Corn-Hog contracts seemed to be very favorable to farmers all over the country. AAA officials are making plans to increase the production of pork next year, and state that this increase will run 25 per cent to 30 per cent over present production. The referendum vote over the country in favor of the contracts was almost 6 to 1.

In Hale County, which is quite a center for hog raising the vote was 335 in favor of the contracts, to 45 against. This was almost a 7 to 1 majority. Farmers expressed their confidence in the plan which may be of great value to them.

WINNERS IN JAR CONTEST NAMED

Announcement was made Saturday at the County Club Exhibit of home demonstration clubs of the winners in the Ball Brothers Company contest for this county. Mrs. Floyd Barnett, Soldier Mound club, won first place; Mrs. R. C. Alexander, Prairie Chapel, second; and Mrs. John Bachman, Soldier Mound, third.

The prizes offered are based on the number of entries in each county. As there were 43 entries, three more than the required number, the winners received $3.00 divided, first, $3.00, second, $2.00.

The Ball Brothers Company offers these prizes to all counties in the state that will conduct a contest of exhibits consisting of one quart fruit and one quart non-acid vegetable. The local home demonstration council accepted the offer and the judging was finished Saturday.

More Wheat Signers Give This County Better Average

Robt. A. Butler, chairman of the County Agricultural Adjustment Wheat Committee, was in town Tuesday conferring with farmers in regard to signing wheat contracts. Mr. Butler went over the terms of the wheat contracts which seems to be a fair proposition and to the farmers' interests. Mr. Butler stated that if he could get the non-signers to take out contracts that it will help the wheat situation in Dickens County greatly.

The rate of production is not figured on the base acreage production but on the factor of production. If farmers who control 80 per cent of the wheat production in the county sign contracts, it will give all wheat producers in the county a higher average than if farmers who control only 60 per cent of the production sign up. In this way the man who does not sign wheat contracts stands in the way of production of his neighbors and stands in the way of his own interests as well. The estimate is made strictly on the factor of production—or the ration of production of acreage of the signers to the whole production in the county, or the average production per acre in the county. Hence, it is best that if any farmer grows wheat for harvesting purposes that he sign wheat contracts and get a larger factor of production.

American Legion Gives Program At Jayton Tonight

The Boyd M. Williams Post of American Legion are giving a program at Jayton tonight in the interest of their organization. A number of members from the local Post will attend and a number of business men will be present.

M. C. Golding, of B. Schwarz & Son, will deliver an address. Mr. Golding has not announced his subject, but probably will speak on patriotism. Others mentioned on the program are W. B. Lee of the Spur Security Bank and R. E. Dickson of the Spur Experiment Station.

Robt. Reynolds, of Dickens, was looking after business matters in our city Saturday.

W. J. Collier, one of the good farmers and cotton buyers of Afton, was transacting business in our city Saturday.

An Editorial On Football

The last few seasons of football, in the United States have brought forth a new national school anthem and every weak team school has been quick to take up the chorus, "Let's Change Coaches." The two-bit point giving gamblers and drug store quarterbacks are always the loudest singers.

Now there is a lot to consider, like material, weather conditions, schedules and personnel before a town in a body joins the chorus with the Saturday morning quarterbacks.

Permit us to take the Spur Bulldogs as an example.

The local team is undefeated in conference play, but because they haven't pulled down an avalanche of scores in any one game, some of the point-givers have been heard practicing the notes of the above mentioned song. They are doing so by disregarding the new eleven-game ruling and stiff early season practice contests. Some of the better players have been absent from many of the games because NO BOY IS ALLOWED TO PLAY IN OVER TEN GAMES A SEASON. The Bulldog schedule is ideal, if you stop to study it—first, hard practice tilts before an easy conference arrangement, then, in full season condition, the harder 4-B classes.

The Bulldogs have the material. They are the best team in the conference—when they click. If they get it into their heads to play team-work football—they are winners, awaiting the official crowning as district champions. They have three of the best coaches in this district, and if the team doesn't charge fast, tackle hard and low and play team-work football it is because they are a squad of dumb, conceited individuals who have permitted their silk pants to go to their heads—and we don't believe that.

We believe the Bulldogs will be unbeatable as a co-operative team of eleven players who appreciate all the support their team has been given in the form of equipment, playing field and coaches.

R. L. Tolbert Sells Interest In Foodway

Jimmie Dunlap purchased the interest of R. L. Tolbert in the Foodway Grocery Tuesday. Mr. Tolbert in partnership with M. H. Costolow founded the business some months ago and have enjoyed a fine business.

Mr. Dunlap has been associated with the business for sometime and has had much experience in grocery business. He is pleasant in his attitude and make friends readily. He and Mr. Costolow will make a go of the business and continue it on the line of service as it has always been.

Mr. Tolbert has not announced what he will do in the future.

Aubrey Bennett, who recently returned from Arizona, was in town Wednesday greeting friends. He is representing the Amicable Life Insurance Company at this time.

Spur Gin Report

Rain the last of the week and damp weather this week has made ginning of cotton very slow for the week. At three o'clock Wednesday afternoon there had been 3,119 bales ginned in Spur according to reports turned in by various gins. The gin at Croton reported 808 bales for the same time. Cotton was selling at from 10.25 to 11.50 on local market, but most of the lint was going at 10.50 to 11.00. Seed was bringing $33.00 per ton Wednesday.

Spur Bulldogs "Shoot the Works" Tomorrow Night

With the conference openers and practice games out of the way, the Spur High Bulldogs along with their coaches, Wadzeck and Sollis, say they are going to "go to town", "shoot the works" or anything else you want to call it when a ball club scores heavily and wins. Not that the Bulldogs expect to score heavily against Paducah, Matador or Floydada, but they are entering these games to win and with the support of local fans that is showing a decided increase, they are "going places."

Returning from viewing the Floydada-Paducah clash, the squad went into some hard practice sessions the first of the week in an effort to perfect a smooth working offense. A large part of each day's time was devoted to signal practice and drilling in plays that will score touchdowns.

The backfield was being led by Frances Bingham, signal blocker the last three games, on the point, J. B. Haralson, Iworth Hahn, Gussie Meadows, Garland Chapman, Charles Suits and Thomas Haralson backs. In the line Bumpus was at center, Buck Willhoit and Red Garner, guards; Lanier Gilbert and Perkins, tackles, Capt. McCombs and Lee at ends, were running with the first string. This will probably be the starting line up with possibly a change on one end for the Silverton game.

Foster, veteran guard, has been suffering with a lame arm this week, but will probably be ready Friday night and may be a starter. Cravy is back after being out with injuries and may go in for part of Friday night's game. Martin, center, is still having trouble with a shoulder, but is improving and will be ready when the squad moves up to Paducah next week. Coach Sollis had important company over the week end, and was feeling top notch Tuesday.

The Silverton game Friday night, which went by as a tame affair, will start promptly at eight o'clock under lights at the Charles A. Jones Memorial Stadium and the best crowd since the opening game is forecast, as the word has spread that the Dogs have been pronounced "right". Ducats are on sale at the drug stores.

School Meeting At Childress

Bryan Dickson, deputy state superintendent of district No. 3, is calling a district meeting of school people for Saturday, November 2 at 10 a. m. in Childress. This will be for all interested school people. Superintendents, principals, and trustees are urged to attend.

George Gabriel, manager of the Fair Store, left Thursday afternoon for Alva, Okla., to interview the new Spur merchant which arrived there about noon Thursday. A fine 7 1-2 pound sun was waiting to receive him when Mr. Gabriel arrived. Mrs. Gabriel and baby are doing fine according to reports received and probably Mr. Gabriel will be himself again before long.

W. A. Harris, of Dry Lake, was attending to business affairs here Saturday.

Weather Report

The weather man says that we are to have clouded weather today in the Panhandle which includes Dickens County. Also, probably showers and colder atmosphere. The past week has shown very few clear days. The good rains which fell last week has placed a good season in the ground and conditions are looking much better for a crop next year than in a long time.

Doc Drennon, of Wichita community, was transacting business in our city Saturday.

ONLY 7 DAYS TO FILE FOR BALE SUBSIDY

Information has been received in some localities that sales of certificates on 1935 cotton must be filed with the county agent within seven days from date of said sale. This information seems to have come from the AAA at Washington, D. C. However, County Agent Lane stated that his office had received no instructions relative to this matter.

The report goes on to say that cotton sold on or before October 23, must be filed with the County Agent not later than November 1. After October 23 report of all sales must be filed within the seven days period in order for the producer to qualify for the subsidy adjustment.

County Agent Lane said that blanks had been received at his office for such filings, and since farmers have to file said sales at some time, it might be well to observe the seven days limit although his office had not been so instructed. He stated that sometimes such instructions are overlooked and it will not hurt any one to make the filings now.

Cotton price adjustment payments to cooperating cotton producers amount to the difference on the date of their cotton between the average price of seven-eighths inch middling lint at the ten designated spot markets and 12 cents per pound. In no case is adjustment to exceed two cents per pound.

CAR HITS YOUTH, LEG IS BROKEN

Little Bobby Cheyne, five year old son of Mrs. Oscar Britton, was hit by an automobile on Burlington Avenue Saturday afternoon. The car was driven by Sam Browning who threw on his brakes when he observed the child in front of him, but it was too late. The child was bumped by the front bumper and knocked down, and the left fore wheel of the car is reported to have passed over his feet. After Browning had practically stopped his car a truck bumped it and pushed the right rear wheel up against the child's body, but no serious injuries were suffered by that. He suffered a broken right leg.

The child was taken to the Spur Hospital where X-Ray pictures were made. His limb was placed in a cast and suspended, and he seems to be getting along fine. However, it is going to be sometime before he will be able to be up again.

Representative For Red Cross Visits Spur Committees

Paul Partridge, Red Cross representative for the Southwestern Division, was in our city Tuesday and made arrangements for the Roll Call to start soon.

Partridge announced that the annual roll call will start Monday, November 18 and continue through that week closing Saturday, November 23.

There will be local committees in Dickens, Afton and McAdoo to look after memberships in those communities. The roll call drive will be executed within the week designated, and people who want a part in this great work will need to be ready and get their names on the roll. The roll call fee is one dollar. Dickens County has always gone their quota every year. This is because during the years of 1930 and 1931 the Red Cross helped in Dickens County so freely. One year about $18,000 was sent to Dickens County by the Red Cross to help the needy.

Start now to have your dollar ready and get on the roll of this great friend to humanity.

Spur Laundry Adds Two New Services For Customers

The Spur Laundry is installing a complete cleaning and pressing department this week and is ready to take care of all clothing—both men and ladies—that may be entrusted to them. The equipment for the new department consists of a cleaner, tank, filterer, tumbler, dyer, press, ironing equipment and hat blocks and press.

The latest in cleaning and pressing equipment has been installed. All cleaning fluids are filtered after each using and go back into use in perfect condition. The filterer is capable of handling 750 gallons of cleaning fluid per hour. F. H. (Hub) Beaver is in charge of this department and is preparing to see that people get real service. Mr. Beaver has had a number of years of experience in the

Annual Food Show Great Success Last Friday - Saturday

The Pure Food Show, sponsored by the ladies of the First Christian Church, was the best attended affairs in our city in many moons. Just how many people passed through is not known, but the 100-foot building was crowded most of the time until it was difficult to pass. Some one connected with the sponsors stated that the crowds would change about every thirty minutes, and taking that as an estimate there must have been three thousand or more people to see the exhibits. The show closed about ten o'clock Saturday evening and there was great interest even then.

Merchants of the town brought space and had exhibits, and those business firms who could not secure space for booths, bought business placards which were exhibited. Firms who bought space and exhibited booths were:

The City of Spur, Smart Music Company, Spur Flower Shop, Spur Mattress Company, Spur Motor Company, Mission Service Station, Magnolia Petroleum Company, Engleman's Truck & Tractor Company, Spur Bakery, Good Will Grocery Company, The Texas Company, Foodway Store, The Phillips Petroleum Company, Wooten Grocer Company, Speer's Variety Store, Bryant-Link Company, B. Schwarz & Son, Safeway Store, Thacker Bros, Maytag Company.

Beauty Contest
The ladies of the church conducted a boys' beauty contest Friday evening. A number of boys about town dressed up as girls and entered the beauty contest. This was one of the most laughable events of the show. Billie Gruben won first honors in the contest. The girls of the town went one better and dressed as boys and went into the contest. Miss Winifred Bell was accorded first honors among the girls. Miss Bell dressed as a cowboy and when she went on the stage she received a great applause.

The Womanless Wedding, which was staged by men of the town, was quite a number and a great sensation with the people. People laughed and hurrahed as first one friend and another entered his queue in the program.

The drawing at four o'clock Saturday afternoon brought a great crowd to the show. People were anxious to hear their names announced and received with gladness the many beautiful prizes given out.

Fiddlers' Contest
The program Saturday night consisted of two fiddling contests. One of these was classed as an Old Fiddlers' Contest and included people of fifty years of age or more. W. W. Ellis, of the 24-Ranch community, won first honors in this contest. W. R. Henderson, of Girard, was second in line of honors, and W. R. Gannon, of Red Mud, took third place. J. D. Hoffman and Uncle Bill Williams both rendered fine selections. Each contestant was to play two selections one of which was to be a waltz.

In the Young People Fiddlers contest Raymond Brown was awarded first honors by the judges. His selections were the Shannon Waltz and the Mocking Bird. Jack Kizziah, won second honors and Bush Thornton was given third honors. Mrs. J. L. Davis who played the accompaniment for Kizziah, was close for third honors.

Mr. Meyer, east of Spur, rendered a number of songs and played his guitar during the show. Many of the selections he gave were of his own composition. He has just completed a new song entitled the "Dickens County, Texas, Blue." A Mr. Thomas, of Oklahoma, gave some good numbers Saturday. He played the violin, harmonica and picked a guitar all at the same time.

The ladies of the Christian Church express their thanks to the people for their assistance in making the Food Show a great success.

Tax Discount Law Unconstitutional

The discount provided by a law passed at the regular session of the Texas Legislature to induce taxes to be paid during the months of October, November and December, has been declared unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court. All taxes paid any time before February 1, 1936, will have to be paid in full, and after February 1, 1936, a penalty goes on as has been the case in years past.

Tax Collector Koonsman has a notice in this week's issue of the Times announcing to taxpayers that he will collect taxes as in former years on the full value. Taxpayers may pay one-half of the amount of their taxes during the months of October and November under Article No. 7336 of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, but no discount can be allowed to induce payment of taxes.

Joe Kellam, of Gladewater, arrived here Tuesday and is spending a few days visiting old friends. Mr. Kellam was in business in our city a number of years and has a great number of friends here.

Mrs. Acie Bailey and daughter, Natalie, who are in school at Lubbock, were here Saturday and Sunday visiting Mr. Bailey.

Mrs. L. D. Ratliff, Jr., and baby spent the week end visiting relatives and friends in Haskell.

BULLDOGS WILL "SHOOT THE WORKS" REST OF SEASON

The Spur Bulldogs are ready to "shoot the works", according to reliable word from the Stadium where they resumed practice Monday after a two day lay off and no game last week. The Dogs are pronounced ready for the big end of the season which starts Friday night, Nov. 1 with Silvertown coming to Spur, then "we take Paducah".

There was very little change in District 4B standings the past week. The big game was between Floydada and Paducah at Floydada. The Paducah Dragons went down under power house plays led by Lider, 33 to 12. Lockney defeated Silvertown 12 to 6. Estelline defeated Turkey 6 to 0 in a non-conference game.

This week will probably not make much difference in standing as the smaller teams are playing away from home at the bigger schools. Of course, surprising upsets happen every week in football.

Two Men Students To One Lady Student

Men students enrolled in The University of Texas this year more than double the number of women students, according to Assistant Registrar Max Eichtenbaum. A total of 5,211 men are enrolled as compared with 2,464 women. The total enrollment, 7,675, shows an increase of 9.6 per cent over last year.

Although the largest numerical increase in enrollment at The University of Texas this fall occurred in the College of Arts and Sciences, the largest percentage gain was recorded in the College of Pharmacy. The various branches of the Main University have enrollment as follows: College of Arts and Sciences, 4,745, a gain of 352, or 8 per cent; School of Business Administration, 420, a gain of 79, or 23.2 per cent; School of Education, 223, a decline of 14, or 5.9 per cent; College of Engineering, 1,054, a gain of 165, or 18.6 per cent; Graduate School, 419, a decline of 39, or 8.5 per cent; School of Law, 677, a gain of 104, or a gain of 18.2 per cent; College of Pharmacy, 137, an increase of 28, or 25.7 per cent.

Times All-Star Reporter, Alarmed by Threats Forfeits Contract to Become Radio Announcer Of Games

Good evening peoples. While you sit by your warm fires and clear radios we will attempt to bring you a play-by-play report of the Spur All-Star-Roaring Springs (Class C) classic at Jones Memorial Stadium. In case you have forgotten, it's Saturday night and this is THE game of the week. (Editor's Note: The Bulldogs didn't play last week.)

Now while we are waiting for the two teams to take the field please permit us to remind you that this broadcast is made possible by, bla, blah, bla. (This part is omitted, because the sponsor has not yet paid last month's advertising account.)

Folks it looks as if this will be a mid-night preview as it is 9:00 o'clock and Roaring Springs has not arrived with their team. Don't go away we will find out what is wrong.

Hello Fans, are you still there? Well, Roaring Springs got here at last, and they have already played the first half. We haven't told you anything about it because neither team has done anything. We promise not to disturb you until one or the other of the teams does something. In the meantime we will listen to same gurgab of why this all-star, or that, could never make the Bulldog squad—he is just one of those guys,—we would let you in on it, but he would bore you, too.

Sorry, Peoples, but it is the end of the third quarter and we have a little to tell you. Jack (Snake-hip) Jones got away twice in this quarter, to make as many touchdowns, each time Spur failed to convert, and the score is now; Spur All Stars 12, Roaring Springs 0. That pest is still here, but will return to "our public" as soon as we can ditch him.

We are just too sorry, friends, but the game has ended, Spur 19, Roaring Springs 0. In this last quarter Worthen took a pass and raced over for the third count, the conversion was good.

Dear radio fans, this has been THE game of the week, and you would have shed tears of joy could you have seen the All-Stars outstanding men: Jones, Powell, Stinnett, Bell, Foster and Worthen closing with those hard charging, scrapping little Roaring Springs boys led by L. J. Hurst, Jack Parson and A. Davis.

Again let us remind you that this sensational, thrill packed contest has been brought to you by, Bla, Blah, Bla. . . .

The Juvenile Cosmopolite

By JOHN HOWARD LATHAM

The tread of marching feet across the Atlantic echoes faintly along a bleak Rue de Universal. A chilling, sinister moan. And the youth of the world rise in fury above the derelictions of the last great war to voice a pending protest. Futile mockery. For youth is forever mounting the hidden chain of circumstance. "Youth just laughs and cheers and goes to war with never a care nor worry!"—Thomas.

All the bowdrie little student cliques that once flourished along the beneficent named Bowery have wilted, vanished. Once a few cockaded cronies ringed the table at Joe's at Garry's for a bantering exchange of philosphic wit. Over a five cent mug of beer a continuous flow of tawdry puff-bled spiced with cultured nonsense. Treatsies of life and literature were torn to shreds and the many-ringed hostelry was the forum of earnest debate. Verbal brilliancies were eagerly applauded.

Along the nearby Rue de Paix familiar trios crooned masterful ditties at four A. M. or heaved scathing hilarities at late pedestrians. Nocturnal niches sheltered roving studes who loved night for its glamour alone. Now the type has become cock-sure young cockerels who clot the street corners aping the insouciance of the man about town. Not a single fiaced rookery where one may relax to the rosy dawn. And pouf goes the razzle-dazzle that once sirtouted brilliant conversation. The product of a sudden tipsy generation.

Surprising bits of architectural fantasy often pop-uppy along the less frequented by-ways. I was noticing one the other day on corroded West Side. A weather stained brown stone with a startling pea green facade and a swooping Venus. And nearby a touch of the old world: The somber band-stand.

After the manner of McIntyre's journal: Strolling late evening with the dying notes of a violin lingering through the darkness. Reflecting on life and the strange times. Suddenly recalled Browning's outburst on the futility of living. Met a man and asked him what book wielded the greatest influence in his life. "The Bible," he said. And so home to bed reading a magnificent novel by A. J. Cronin, the famous author of "Hatters Castle" and "Three Loves." Came another pink slip from an editor to complete a sleepless night.

How many smarties can pronounce Addis Ababa, or find a more bore-some book than "Pamela?"

Movie jots: Cleanest, most humane, and best loved entertainment in years is the Dickens masterpiece. Personal nomination for the best portrayal of the years: Frederic March in "We Live Again." Based on Tolstoy's immortal "Resurrection." Clark Gable is a favorite of the males. The finest cast and originality of last year's "Death Takes a Holiday." Sir Guy Standing for cinema nobility. Frederic Henze is a ringer for Will Rogers And just a amiable.

DON'T RISK YOUR CHILD TO DIPHTHERIA

The State Health Officer, Dr. John W. Brown, urges all parents of children from 6 months to 10 years of age who have not been immunized against diphtheria, to take them to the family physician and have this done at once. Last month there were 265 cases of diphtheria in Texas reported to the State Department of Health. This is an increase over the month of August and shows the need of stressing immunization of the children in this age group.

It was not so long ago that parents dreaded diphtheria because of the inability to prevent or cure this scourge. Now that we not only know this cause but also the remedy there is no reason why this disease cannot be completely eliminated.

As diphtheria is most dangerous to the very young children, it is of the highest importance that immunization be given early. What is more, in young children there is practically no reaction to the injection. Immunization has been proven to give absolute protection. It is in the power of the parents of this State, cooperating with their physicians and the health department, to eliminate the disease.

Most children can be protected against diphtheria by a single treatment—with what is known as TOX-OID. However, in about six months the child should be given a Schick test to determine if a second treatment is necessary. Early immunization is a routine procedure adopted by modern and up-to-date physicians. Cooperate with your family physician and your community and make early immunization a regular practice in this State.

INVESTIGATION SAVES TAXPAYERS MONEY

"More than a million and a half dollars has been saved the State of Texas by an investigation of deficiency certificates held by local officers for felony case fees," said State Auditor Orville S. Carpenter about a report completed this week.

Four years ago the audit was started by the Senate investigating Committee in conjunction with the State Auditor and the State Comptroller. At that time a number of sheriffs were indicted and two other officials committed suicide.

"Local officers receive fees from the State for felony cases and for the legal procedure necessary in prosecution. Deficiency certificates (promises of the State to pay when the Legislature makes an appropriation) are given these local officials. When the Legislature appropriates the money, local officers bring their certificates in and receive payment. Our audit was to determine whether or not these claims were just," Mr. Carpenter explained.

"Forgeries and other irregularities were discovered, but the principal reason for refusing payment on a fee account is that the official has already been paid fees in excess of the amount to which he is legally entitled," the State Auditor said.

"Claims totalling $574,255.53 have been set up against fee officers, and of this amount $119,498.13 in cash has been collected. At present the greater part of the balance of these claims is in the hands of the Attorney General for collection. Of the deficiency certificates audited, $306,850.99 was refused as representing invalid claims for payment against the State. By elimination of practices heretofore existing, $831,741.51 in fees was cut from the judiciary appropriation," he continued.

"Actual saving to the taxpayer made possible by this audit was $1,712,821," Mr. Carpenter declared.

180 Students Accommodated In Co-operative System At CIA

Young men and women have lived in portable shacks, made themselves into walking bill boards, given blood transfusions, attempted parachute jumps—in fact, there are very few stunts, sensational or otherwise, these individuals have not accomplished in order to pay for an education.

Institutions and organizations, too, have inaugurated many plans for lightening the financial burdens of the college student. Farm produce has been accepted in exchange for tuition, student loan funds have been made available to the needy and scholarships of all kinds have been given to worthy students.

However, Texas State College for Women at Denton has worked out its own unique system, a plan whereby young women who are otherwise unable to attend college can obtain a college education with a minimum of cost.

In September 1934, what is known as the cooperative system was put into operation. A small cottage, accommodating ten girls and a hostess was leased, and before the registration period closed, another building had been rented and 16 more girls had set up housekeeping for the year.

The plan grew with each succeeding semester and with the opening of three new houses this year, a total of seven cooperative homes, accommodating approximately 180 girls, are in use.

Each house is under the direct supervision of a mature college student and a student house manager. It is the duty of the house manager to arrange programs of work, menus, check out the groceries for meals, and supervise the house work. Each girl works by a schedule and the duty of no girl usually exceeds over one hour of work per day. The menus are checked at intervals by a home economics teacher who is on the cooperative dormitory committee.

The expense of operation in this system has not exceeded ten dollars per month per girl. Rent and utility bills are prorated and each girl pays her share. Groceries are bought at wholesale prices or brought from home by the girls themselves. When the food is brought from home, the girls receive credit for it at regular wholesale prices. In the event that the girl brings food from home, $5 or less takes care of her demand for cash during the month.

Monday Proclaimed Will Rogers' Day

The following proclamation has been received from the office of Governor James V. Allred of Texas:

PROCLAMATION
By the
GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF TEXAS

To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come:

On Friday, August 16, 1935, Will Rogers died, idol of America, beloved by all who knew him, his untimely passing brought a greater sense of individual loss and sorrow to every American citizen than any man who has ever commanded the attention or affection of the people.

In the words of Reverend J. Whitcomb Brougher, Sr., who officiated at the Will Rogers memorial services in Glendale, California:

"There are many hills, but only here and there a great towering Mt. Shasta;
There are many streams, but only here and there a great Mississippi;
There are many trees, but only here and there a great Sequoia giant;
There are many echoes, but only now and then a Mendelssohn or a Mozart;
There are many politicians, but only now and then a great statesman;
There are many people, but only now and then an outstanding individual."

The nation still is stunned and sorrowful. It is impossible to realize that Will Rogers is really gone from us. Will Rogers needs no monument. He built his own monument, he wrote his own epitaph in the hearts and affections of people from every walk of life. He was the greatest apostle of sunshine, of joyous humor, of fellowship, the world has ever known. He still lives because his work lives. "To live in mankind is far, far more than to live in a name."

To perpetuate his memory, to fittingly attest a nation's love for the ideals Will Rogers represented, a nation-wide movement is under way. It is headed by outstanding citizens everywhere who have agreed to give unselfishly of their time and means, in order that a proper foundation for service to human-kind may be permanently established. Every man, woman and child, from the highest to the lowest walks of life, will be given an opportunity to participate.

As but a small part of the program, on Monday, November 4th, every bank in the nation will open special "Will Rogers Memorial" accounts. Every man, woman or child who has ever chuckled at the homely philosophy of Will Rogers, whose life has been made happier, who has been inspired by the cleanliness of his example, who has hungrily searched for his daily news contribution, who has seen him on the screen, who has pressed forward in surging crowds for a personal glimpse of him, will be given an opportunity to make a deposit, quietly, without publicity of any kind, from a single dime to the limit of their means.

I think Will Rogers, if he knew that all who loved him are determined to establish a permanent foundation to his memory, would prefer contributions of twenty-five cents from fifteen million people to a few larger sized donations.

NOW, THEREFORE, I JAMES V. ALLRED, Governor of the State of Texas, do hereby set aside and dedicate MONDAY, NOVEMBER 4TH as WILL ROGERS DAY

I urge all Texans on this day to reflect upon the fine, clean manhood of Will Rogers, the life of service he lived, the good he did. I suggest that all of our schools and civic clubs conduct suitable programs and exercises in memory of our great philosopher humorist.

I especially urge that all of us contribute our bit to the Will Rogers Memorial Fund.

WITNESS MY HAND under the Great Seal of the State of Texas, this 28th day of October, A. D., 1935.

JAMES V. ALLRED, Governor of Texas.
By the Governor:
R. B. Stockard, Secretary of State.

175,000 Families Go On Rehabilitation

Thousands of new farm families to be enrolled within the next few weeks in the rural rehabilitation program might be made available for work on local roads, school building, and recreation grounds, it was announced yesterday by D. P. Trent, Director of Rural Resettlement in Texas and Oklahoma.

"These families may not be adapted to a regular farming program. Even if they are, it may take months to work out plans," Trent said. "In the meanwhile, they will be drawing subsistence from Resettlement, and we will endeavor to provide employment for them."

The rehabilitation program, he said, is under control of advisory committees now being completed in each country. "These committees have the authority and responsibility of saying what families are to be accepted, and what program shall be laid down for them," Trent said. "If these committees live up to their opportunities, they may be able to build projects of service to the whole community, in addition to rehabilitating their destitute neighbors." Each committee consists of three men and two women chosen from the county's leading farmers and farm women. The county Extension Service workers are ex-officio members.

The new families to be enrolled are among 175,000 which will be taken from relief rolls throughout the nation, according to announcement made earlier this week.

Central applications Bureaus will be organized to assign relief clients to Resettlement, WPA, and other federal projects. Farm families not accepted for rehabilitation will continue under care of other state and federal agencies. Relief directors have been requested to begin an immediate examination, through their county case supervisors, to select the families which will be certified for acceptance by Resettlement.

Eighteen shades are shown on the D. F. Then there are six dark colors which are described as the perfect types of generally accepted standards, dark and light navy, nigger, dark Lincoln green, maroon and Paris blue (the last is the same shade as the blue frequently called Lido).

Credit Association Stockholders' Meeting In January Discussed

Plans for the annual stockholders meeting of the Stamford Production Credit Association in January and a tentative educational program for prospective members were discussed at a meeting of the board of directors of the association held in Stamford, Friday, October 18.

G. W. Fritzen, Field Representative of the Production Credit Corporation of Houston was in attendance and addressed the meeting. Production Credit Associations, of which there are 88 in Texas, have advanced more than $8,000,000 to Texas farmers and stockmen and are preparing for the rush of next season's business.

"More and more stockmen and farmers," Mr. Fritzen said, "are coming to a realization of the many advantages offered by production credit loans with their low rate of interest, which at present is 5%."

One of the important actions at this meeting was the appointment of membership committees in the several counties composing the territory of the association. The committees will function to develop greater interest in the association among the members and assist in informing non-member farmers and stockmen about Production Credit services. The committee business and knows the work from every angle. Mrs. Wilson will probably look after the hat department and she seems to be very efficient in the work. She was turning out some excellent work this week.

In addition to all the above service the Spur Laundry is carrying a large line of samples for men's suits and is prepared to give all the men in the community good service in securing new up to date tailored clothes.

In event people who desire to do their own laundry work and are not equipped at home to do so, the Spur Laundry has a helpy-selfy department for this purpose. Washing machines, wringers, dryers, etc and always plenty of hot and cold water. This service is being offered at a reasonable rate and is far more convenient and economical than the laundry can be done at home. Alton Marcy is in charge of this department.

The main laundry work is doing better work now than ever before. There are seven people in the finishing department who are busy all the time. The big washing machines are kept going continually from morning until night and work is always ready for the people when they call for it. The Spur Laundry is doing a big business and is serving many communities as far as forty and fifty miles away.

The name has been changed a little. It is now to be known as Spur Laundry-Cleaners. This week the force has been under schooling by specialists who have brought the latest methods here. M. L. Ryan and H. L. Muns, of McCleary Bros. of Memphis, Tenn. These people specialize in the work and have spent quite a lot of time instructing the people at the Spur Laundry-Cleaners in the art and science of the work. Mr. Wilson, the manager, stated this week that good service is their motto and they expect to give the public the best.

NOTICE TAXPAYER

In a letter dated October 23, 1935, from the State Comptroller of Public Accounts, I am advised that the part of House Bill No. 6 which allows a discount on taxes paid during the months of October, November and December of this year, is unconstitutional.

I am therefore authorized to collect taxes as assessed on the Tax Rolls.

Article 7336 Revised Civil Statutes, as amended, still permits one-half payments during the months of October and November.

Our Opinion Is

That being an agreeable companion with yourself is good training toward being a good companion with others.

ROOSEVELT DID NOT; BUT HOOPER DID. AN EDITORIAL COMMENT

"The Republicans have to deal, not with loss of faith in Roosevelt, but rather with how to restore faith in the Republican party. This can only be done if the Republican leaders face the new conditions boldly and sympathetically."

Thus was summarized the recommendations of the "official observer" of "The National Republican Builders," one of the many adjuncts, affiliates, and other types of appendages of the G. O. P. national organization, that have been set up to perform services and do deeds that are either beneath the dignity or perhaps above its comprehension. This observer had made several transcontinental trips and sounded sentiment. His conclusion as quoted above was reproduced in the orthodox Republican New York Herald-Tribune of September 8. It attracted some attention, no doubt, but not especially in the quarters of the G. O. P. High Command to which it was directed.

For example, Mr. Chester Bolton, chairman of the Republican National Congressional Campaign Committee, announced to the press his "conviction" that putting people to work is a "disgraceful and unwarranted spendthrift program." Messrs Ogden L. Mills, James M. Beck (momentarily leaving the Constitution unguarded), and others who served under and around Mr. Hoover, also approved the Bolton thesis that starvation would be preferable to utilizing the country's credit. On down the line, Hamilton Fish et cetera to Col. Roosevelt, they are putting the Republican party on record as vigorously opposed to continuance of relief.

Mr. Bolton's idea of recapturing public respect for the Republican party was to assert that the seven billions appropriated for relief and work-relief in the last three years "is more than double the worth of all the automobiles and trucks manufactured in the United States in 1929." This to his mind seemed sufficient statistics. But Mr. Hoover himself, when his turn came to reestablish public confidence and respect, made his figures more impressive, more astronomical, as befitted a subject with which his name was long connected, until relief became a poignant problem in his own land. His contribution at Oakland was a blase statement that while he couldn't "comprehend" a three and one-half billion dollar deficit, he did know that it was "enough to buy me ninety million suits of clothes, one for every mile to the sun."

Evidently Mr. Hoover did not realize that the American people would at once associate him with relief when he discussed relief. Immediately the editorial writers, particularly on independent Republican newspapers, began consulting the records. They have recorded that as administrator of Belgian relief Mr. Hoover reported expenditures of a billion and a half dollars; as administrator of relief in

SCHOOL DAYS

By DWIG

Eastern Europe following the World War he reported expenditures of another billion dollars. Also that while the deficits during the last three years of Mr. Hoover as President of the United States were not quite six billions, they remind their readers that nothing was done worthy of the name of relief, insofar as this country was concerned, until Franklin D. Roosevelt became President. Therefore the inevitable conclusion that although Mr. Hoover personally supervised some sizable expenditures of American taxpayers' money for relief of the inhabitants of both Western and Eastern Europe, he indulges in levity in criticizing severely what his successor has done for the deserving destitute folks here at home.

There has been many other efforts to forth by eminent Republicans of the Old Guard to recapture public faith and confidence in the party under their benign control. For instance, despite the decision of the High Command in session in Washington September 25 to "say nothing at all" about the AAA "until the convention meets next year," National Chairman Henry P. Fletcher issued this statement to the press on October 1:

"Reports from various sections of the West show that under orders from AAA officials, farmers are being compelled to set fire to harvested crops, such as wheat and oats, and burn hundreds of bushels because the amount they have raised and harvested is in excess of the amount stipulated in their contracts with the AAA."

This yarn was immediately exposed, by farm and grain publications as well as by the AAA. It related to two isolated and "stage managed" cases. A share-tenant in Reno County, Kansas, had been notified by the local board of farmers that it would be no violation of his contract to cut his excess oats as hay. Later he reported to the committee that he had given the ripened grain to the local relief authorities.

Instead, a Hutchinson newspaper photographer was conveyed to the farm by a representative of its absentee ownership, the camera was kept snugly close to accentuate the crime and the stack was ignited in furtherance of the plan to regain the respect of the electorate. It was done "boldly and sympathetically."

The other case was that of a farmer near Sarcoxie, Missouri. Reports to the grain director showed that the local farmers' committee had this man's promise to cut his excess wheat and use it as cattle feed. But he claims he couldn't get around to it. The wheat ripened; he cut it and "somebody else" went out and took a picture of what the farmer asserted was a mighty small blaze.

The several thousand local farmers' committees in charge of the adjustment programs—all administered locally—report that they have never ordered or sanctioned the burning of surplus commodities. So the extreme rarity of such cases as the Republican National Committee Chairman reported to the press—as having been reported by AAA officials—is in very striking contrast to the tragic situation before the farmers organized their adjustment administration. Under Mr. Hoover's administration, the government agencies frankly recognized the situation was so desperate that penniless farmers, unable to buy coal in winter, should burn surplus harvested grain in their stoves. Studies conducted by the University of Nebraska showed that shelled corn at 16 cents a bushel was more economical fuel at $10 a ton. Similar reports were issued by the Universities of Illinois, Minnesota and other states. With corn selling at 12 cents a bushel, it was realized that farmers were justified in burning it to keep their families warm instead of letting it rot. Chairman Fletcher will discover that hard experience has taught the farmers to get away from the disasters of 1932. He will have to devise some other method of "restoring faith in the Republican party."

LEST WE FORGET

It is easy to take great achievements for granted, and not to give those who made them possible the credit they have earned.

That is especially applicable to the electric industry.

For some years, that industry has been under political attack. It has been accused of almost every crime in the calendar. It has been described as a "trust"—though it represents the combined investments of millions of people, the bulk of them of average means. It has been called an "octopus"—though its influence on American business and domestic life has been entirely salutary. Demands have been made that it be regulated by government to the point of persecution, and that the government step in as its competitor and eventual successor.

Part of the public has listened to these charges and has accepted them at their face value. That part of the public has forgotten the not-so-distant day when electric service was enjoyed only by the relatively rich. It has forgotten the even less distant time when most electric plants were small, isolated and municipally owned—and service was bad and rates, in the light of modern standards, were outrageously high. It has forgotten that power has revolutionized American home life, freeing the homekeeper from most of the drudgery that once was an inescapable part of housekeeping. It has forgotten that the application of electric power to industrial operations has been one of the primary causes of higher wages, better working conditions and shorter working weeks.

This country has 25,000,000 power-using families and businesses. This is equal to the total users in Great Britain, France and Italy combined, though the total population of these four countries is much higher than ours. In no major country is electricity so widely used. In no major country is it so extensively available to small towns, villages, farmers, persons residing in remote spots. And in no major country is service so good and certain, or is the average rate—taxes and similar costs considered—so low.

These are facts. And stump speeches, no matter how eloquent, cannot make them into anything else.

THE ECONOMICS OF FOOD

There is a great similarity of principle between agricultural cooperative associations and the modern large-scale grocery buying and selling organizations. Both came into being at around the same time—both have brought great benefits to the public. The farm cooperatives study demand and supply. By the application of scientific methods, they make it possible to produce more and better products on smaller tracts of land and at a lower cost. And by group selling, they not only bring their members a fairer share of the retail price of products, but assure the consumer of a constant, unflinching supply of high quality food products in the freshest, most appetizing condition.

The group grocery merchandisers—which include both chain systems, and independents who have banded together in large buying groups—do away with many of the middleman costs that widen the spread between the price paid the farmer and the price paid by the consumer. They likewise eliminate many wastes that used to be attendant on selling. By direct farm-to-buyer methods, they offer better products at lower prices—without penalizing the producer. The farmer gets the market price, the consumer gets what he wants at the lowest possible profit margin, and the saving is made in between—by the elimination of needless overhead and handling charges.

Both the co-ops and the selling groups have made great and lasting contributions to what might be termed "the economics of food." The consumer pays much less for food today, in relation to the cost to the distributor, than he did even a few years ago. And the spread in cost between producer and consumer is constantly and surely being lessened. The farmer, the retailer, and the consumer, all reap the benefits.

R. L. Glenn, of Floydada, a prominent West Texas teacher, was in our city Saturday greeting friends and transacting business.

J. J. Albin, out on Route A, was in town Saturday and stated he was not receiving his Times and stated his wife was about to get on him about it. Of course, as a husband we want to save any other husband all the trouble possible and we will need to check up why Mr. Albin is failing to get his paper.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 2% of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. COUNTY HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUBS

McADOO CLUB HAS ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM

"Other members of the family as myself have enjoyed improving the yard," Mrs. R. Y. Allen told members of the McAdoo home demonstration club Tuesday, October 22 at her achievement program.

Several members have laid flagstone walks, while all of the coopers have repaired fences and learned and located five native shrubs, as these were goals for this year. Mrs. Allen read her story and showed pictures of her yard before and after she became yard demonstrator. Miss Pratt, the County Agent and Mrs. Thomas from Spur made some very interesting talks concerning yard improvements.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mmes. G. W. Allen, Loyd Hickman, Price Brownlow, Vanderford, G. G. Allen, Merritt, Graham, Jack Griffin, J. W. Jones, T. L. Dozier, O. S. Harvey and C. A. Allen.

MEMBERS MAKE NEARLY COMPLETE ENTRIES

"If I had joined the club a little earlier in the year I would have had all of the 15 entries expected of the club women in the fall exhibit," Mrs. Allie Joplin, of the Soldier Mound home demonstration club, told the exhibit committee when she entered her products Friday for the exhibit Saturday.

She had all of the ten jars of canned foods, the wash dress, appliqued quilt, and pillow slips but did not enter a pieced quilt and tufted bedspread.

Mrs. Joplin received four second places and three third places in the judging.

Mrs. Matt Howell of the Red Top club had entries in every division except the appliqued quilt. She received one first place and six third places.

GARDEN NETS A PROFIT

"I have in my garden at this time beets, carrots, mustard greens, lettuce, turnips, okra, sweet pepper, butterbeans, tomatoes, and stringless greenpod beans" Clara Rich, garden demonstrator for the McAdoo 4-H club told her coopers at her achievement program last week.

"I have besides a large pantry of canned foods, popcorn and peanuts which make cold winter days less dreary. Any product of this sort is easily raised and can be tucked away in any corner of the field," she said.

"We have arranged the canned food correctly on the labeled shelves with fruits on the top shelves. Then following in order are tomatoes, preserves, jams and jellies, pickles and relishes, leafy green vegetables, starchy vegetables, other vegetables, miscellaneous and meats. Of all the canning Mother and I did this summer we have been fortunate in not losing a single jar or can," she continued.

"The total net profit above all expenses of my garden work is $244.92. I am proud of this sum for it shows how much the family grocery bill will be reduced for the year," she stated.

WEEKLY COTTON GRADE AND STAPLE REPORT

For the past three weeks about 20 per cent of the samples classed each week from representative gins in Texas has been Strict Middling and better (White and Extra White). Last week the proportion for this designation is only 15 per cent. Notwithstanding this decrease in the proportions for the higher grades last week as compared to recent weeks, current receipts are of higher average than were the receipts shown on the last two reports issued in September.

Reports for recent weeks have shown a trend toward increased proportions of Spotted cotton. Last week about 33 per cent of the samples classed was Spotted, most of which was Strict Middling Spotted. For the season to date, about 18 per cent of the samples classed from Texas ginnings has been Spotted.

The report last week, as was the case for each of the reports for the last several weeks, showed about one-fifth of the samples with staple length shorter than 7-8 inch. Prior to the report of September 14, the proportion for this short length for samples classed from Texas ginnings was about 1 per cent.

Flint Pays Tribute To Motor Industry

With the largest banquet ever held in Michigan, the city of Flint, Michigan, paid tribute to the Chevrolet Motor Company and the executives who have piloted it to its position of leadership in the automotive industry. Honoring especially M. E. Coyle, president and general manager of Chevrolet, and W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, and timed on the eve of the presentations of the company's new 1936 models, the appreciation dinner had 2600 guests, including William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors Corporation; six other members of the executive committee of the corporation, and the entire Chevrolet executive personnel.

Flint, virtually the birthplace of Chevrolet, seat of the company's main motor-manufacturing plant, employing the highest number of workers engaged in any General Motors single operation, welcomed Chevrolet into its industrial life in August, 1913, when Detroit operations of the company were temporarily discontinued.

From a hundred cars turned out in the beginning with slightly more than a thousand men, Chevrolet expanded meteorically as the automobile entrenched itself in popular favor, speakers felicitously recalled.

In 1915, the Flint plant produced 6,106 cars; in 1928, when Chevrolet's total car production was 1,193,212, the Flint assembly plant produced 129,363 cars. Peak motor production of the Chevrolet plant at Flint, building engines to supply all the company's assembly plants throughout the country, attained its peak record of 1,328,605 in 1929.

The sentiment of the complimentary dinner was expressed in an embossed testimonial presented to Mr. Coyle by the Flint Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the dinner. It read as follows:

"Flint is proud of its position as the central manufacturing point in the widespread operations of Chevrolet. Despite all obstacles, the company has made a record of outstanding achievement which this city can better recognize because of the resulting benefits enjoyed here. Through the Flint Chamber of Commerce at this civic testimonial dinner, Flint expresses its deep appreciation to Mr. M. E. Coyle, president and general manager, and to his executive staff and the entire organization for the contribution they have made to the city, state and national well-being.

"What has been done inspires confidence in even greater accomplishment, and in conveying its best wishes for the future, Flint is conscious of the mutuality of its relationship with Chevrolet and pledges its fullest cooperation toward its happy and fruitful continuance."

M. A. Gorman, editor of the Flint Journal, was dinner toastmaster.

A post-speaking feature was the presentation of a special program by Rubino and his violin and his complete orchestra, who recently made their debut in Chevrolet's new weekly coast-to-coast network broadcast. The radio virtuoso was supported by Jan Pearce, tenor; Virginia Rea, coloratura soprano, and Graham McNamee, as master of ceremonies. The auditorium of the Industrial Mutual Association, where the dinner was held, was inadequate to accommodate all those seeking reservations, despite the terracing of four extra rows of tables in the balcony.

Among notables at the dinner were Donaldson Brown, John L. Pratt, C. E. Wilson, R. H. Grant, O. E. Hunt, and Albert Bradley, of the executive committee of General Motors Corporation; W. A. Fisher, E. P. Fisher and Thomas P. Archer, of Fisher Body Corporation; H. H. Curtice, president of Buick Motor Company; A. J. Fisher of the General Motors Corporation executive staff at Detroit and F. S. Kimmmerling, president of AC Spark Plug Company.

In preparation for increased production for 1936, Chevrolet has expanded and re-equipped its Flint manufacturing and assembly plants, which received a large share of the $25,000,000 that the company has spent on its nation-wide facilities to increase its production capacity by 25 per cent.

McAdoo

The coldest spell of the season, accompanied by rain and sleet struck here the past week; however, no killing frost has come yet.

The cold and rainy weather put a stop to cotton picking and probably damaged the cotton to a certain extent, although it was quite beneficial to the young wheat crops.

Warmer weather, a cloudless sky and brilliant sunshine Monday evening indicated that the cold spell was over and this would be a busy week for everyone, especially the farmers. With a few more days of sunshine before a heavy frost arrives most of the young cotton of the county will be out out of danger, and the rush of the season will be over. The majority of the farmers are beginning to pick their cotton for the second picking.

The place cards bore the marks of Hallowe'en, the autumn leaves reminded us of the closing of the church year. Orange and yellow marigolds graced the tables with their beauty. Tall yellow tapers in black holders lighted the banquet table.
Rev. S. H. Young presided in such a pleasing manner that our church and official board have openly avowed their esteem for him. This is Mr. Young's first year as a Presiding Elder and the first Quarterly Conference he ever held was the Spur Conference last December.

The reports from the various departments of the church were encouraging. The Sunday School average attendance for the year has been well above two hundred, twenty six have been received into the church during the year. Both missionary societies have been very active and a noted increase in membership of late, as shown by the reports of Mrs. Rector and Mrs. Butler, the presidents. Mr. Elzy Watson had a good report as superintendent of the church school.
Forty one church workers were in attendance at the conference banquet which included the official board and a few invited members. Miss Ruby Dae Williamson and Miss Athelda Yeats acted as waitresses and Mrs. Mars, Mrs. Zachry, Mrs. J. W. Henry, Miss Nedra Hogan and F. G. Collier furnished music to the very great delight of all present.

During the conference it was agreed that we would attempt to send one of our young people to the Southern Assembly of Young People at Memphis in December. Such an assembly meets about once each six years in our church, to plan the work of the young people and consult with them concerning the future program.—Reported.

Soup-Eaters, Read This

"All I could eat was soup and strained vegetables, and even these gave me terrible stomach pain," declared L. H. Johnson, well-known farmer near Leonard, Texas. "This went on for 15 years. I spent $75 or $100 trying to relieve a terribly acid, upset stomach, gas, bloating, and all the other things that go with acid stomach trouble. For years, worked only half-time; for 6 months was too sick to work at all. Then I started on Gordon's Compound. In 2 days all distress was gone. Eat whatever I like, feel fine, gained weight. I certainly recommend Gordon's!"
