Comments from The State Observer, Austin

W. Lee O'Daniel this week had gone Marie Antoinette one better—he not only suggested the people eat cake, he had it thrown at them.

For that's the way the guests at the Molly O'Daniel-Jack D. Wrather, Jr., wedding were served last Thursday night, when they gathered on the Governor's mansion lawn in Austin.

Nearly 3,000 people gathered in Austin, to wait while the wedding ceremony was read, uniting in marriage Governor and Senator-elect O'Daniel's 19-year-old daughter Molly and John (Jack) Devereaux Wrather, Jr., wealthy, 23-year-old East Texas Oil Executive. The event clearly surpassed all other similar festivities held at the mansion under the guidance of W. Lee O'Daniel.

All the people who were gathered there were invited—R.S.V.P.—some of them formally, and others blanketed by the Governor. Ironically, some of those asked by engraved invitation to attend couldn't get in until everything was over. One of these was Rep. Jack Rideway of San Antonio.

The wedding proper didn't go off on time, and a steadily increasing crowd outside grew more and more impatient as time lagged. They applauded at intervals like people do in movie theatres when the film breaks. The largest part of the crowd stood around a huge platform built up and out from the south wall of the mansion and conjectured about what part the platform was to play in the ceremonies. Other crowds hovered eagerly around five huge barrels which were alleged to have contained fruit juice and around several soda pop containers. They were told that the Governor said they couldn't have anything until the wedding was over. Then everything was to be free. They were willing to wait.

At last, they heard the strains of "Dark Eyes." It was being played on a novachord by a specially imported artist. Soon this stopped and all was quiet again. Finally, the beautiful "I Love You Truly."

"Now!" a lady stage-whispered. The crowd became as quiet as a crowd made up predominantly of children could be.

Inside, the wedding went off, as a mansion guard said, "without a hitch" The ceremony, a double ring ceremony, was performed by the Rev. M. E. Sadler, recently named head of Texas Christian University.

Miss Mary Katherine Elliott, of Fort Worth, the maid of honor, caught the bride's bouquet.

When the wedding was over, attendants brought out the seven large wedding cakes and placed them on the platform.

After the cake came the Newly-wed Wrathers, Jr., and then Governor O'Daniel, Mrs. O'Daniel, Mrs. J. D. Wrather, the groom's mother, seven bridesmaids, and Pat and Mike O'Daniel, the bride's brothers, who served as ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Wrather Jr., held a knife together, and cut each of the cakes, feeding each other a bite of each cake and then kissing, to the merriment of the guests. After that, the principals retired within the mansion and the distributing of the cake began, which was process, Rep. Clinton Kersey said that he would never forget "as long as I live."

Two men dressed as chefs, with tall white hats, and five young ladies dressed in white waitresses' uniforms came out with knives and started cutting up the cake. At first, they handed each piece, wrapped in a piece of paper, to the nearest outstretched hand. As the shouts of "gimme" increased, they started throwing the cake in all directions, like someone throwing corn to chickens.

One young lady was left-handed and had what a by-stander labelled a "definite left hook." This bystander's wife was hit in the head by a duflly hurled, sticky piece of cake, which the southpaw heaved fully twenty yards.

After that, pademonium. Children besieged the flimsy platform and before the single highway patrolman on guard could stop them, a railing gave away. There was shouting, and screaming, and a great mass of up-turned heads and out stretched hands and arms. Women nearly fought over bits of decorations from the cakes which was tossed to the crowd.

At the free soda pop containers, it was much the same. People fought and scrambled for bottles of soda pop, then overturned the cases when they were empty, overflowing with icy water mansion lawns, which quickly turned to mud. Paper cups and plates were scattered the full length of the mansion grounds like they were the day of the inaugural barbecue. Everywhere people were seen scurrying off with pieces of cake guardedly wrapped in bits of paper. Children gathered up empty bottles and carted them off, avowing that they would sell them next day.

Inside the mansion, part of the wedding ceremony was being read acted for the benefit of a newsreel cameraman. One cameraman had been thrown out, it was reported, for taking a forbidden picture of the wedding ceremony.

wedding ceremony. The doors were opened and the greater part of the crowd was making its way through the mansion.

The furniture had been removed and the crowds surged through the rooms, into the back "family dining room," where the special guests had left some cake and punch. This was quickly diminished.

All through the mansion, icing, bits of cake, and punch had been spilled on the deep green carpets covering the floors. Much of the icing had been smeared in to the rugs, trampled on by many feet.

Suddenly there was a barrage of rice and the bride and groom sped out the door and away, hardly noticed by the punch-bond guests. The newly-weds were going to New York, it was said, from whence they would go to Washington to watch while U. S. Senator-elect O'Daniel is seated. After that, they will take a honeymoon trip to both Canada and California.

Outside the mansion, Rep. Clinton Kersey of Bridgeport, Governor O'Daniel's staunch friend during the last session of the legislature, started dejectedly at the people, still waiting for cake. "I now," Kersey said, "have seen everything."

"I've lived a long time; I've seen many, many strange things; I've seen circuses and shows; and now, I've seen this. I've seen everything."

Other schools were classified as follows:

It is arranged that markers on school bus lines will be established soon showing the distance where school children will ride the school busses and receive state aid. Pupils living closer to school than these markers will not draw any state aid for riding the busses, but may ride the busses unless there is a crowded condition.

A new version of that popular old game "put and take" is etching wrinkles on the brow of homemaker and laundryowner alike. Here's how it's played. Mrs. Homemaker slips little Johnny's last clean sweater—the blue one—over his head, puts the soiled green one in with the regular laundry bundle and sends little Johnny out to play.

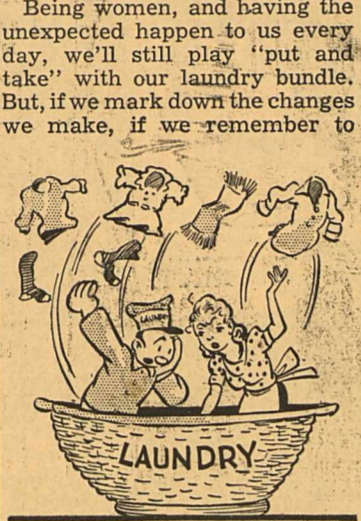

It is thus that every homemaker plays "put and take" with her laundry bundle. Making a list and keeping it accurately would do much to save the sweet disposition of thousands of homemakers and laundrymen.

Making a list of all the things we sent to the laundry is an efficient, reliable way in which to conduct that part of homemaking. Being women, and having the unexpected happen to us every day, we'll still play "put and take" with our laundry bundle. But, if we mark down the changes we make, if we remember to mark down the last minute additions—such as the apron we are wearing when the laundry routine arrives—the homemaker will have a written record of the transaction which can be checked immediately.

A few minutes later little Johnny comes screaming into the house, smeared with mud. Nothing for mamma to do but filch the less soiled green sweater out of the laundry bundle, put it back on little Johnny and the mud-streaked blue one goes into the laundry bundle. About this time the laundryman arrives, collects the washing and goes on his way. A day or two later the laundry returns and mamma starts looking for little Johnny's green sweater. It is missing. Completely forgetting that Johnny's fall in the mud necessitated a change of sweaters, Mrs. Homemaker calls the laundry and starts it on a hunt for little Johnny's green sweater. The laundry can't find it. Mrs. Homemaker can't find it. It's lost, and the laundry is a meanie until next week when Mrs. Homemaker makes up the laundry bundle and finds little Johnny's green sweater in the bottom of the hamper!

Civil Service Examinations Announced

The need for office machine operators under the defense program has increased steadily. A new examination for under mimeograph operator has just been announced by the Civil Service Commission, for appointment in Washington, D. C. only. The positions pay $1,260 a year. Applicants will be rated on their experience, and no written test will be given. They are required to show that they have had paid experience in the operation of electrically driven automatic papered mimeograph machines. While applications will be accepted until further notice at the Commission's Washington office, persons who can qualify are urged to file their applications at once.

The Commission also announced an examination for Junior Engineer at $2,000 a year, the optional branches being aeronautical engineering, naval architecture and marine engineering. Applicants may qualify if they have completed a professional engineering course at a college or university of recognized standing with major study in the optional branch chosen. The general requirement for the naval architecture and marine engineering option have been modified to allow graduates from a college curriculum in architecture to apply if they have had special study or experience in naval architecture or marine engineering. This same provision applies to graduates from general engineering courses. Applicants for the aeronautical option may qualify if they have had a general 4-year engineering course supplemented by either study or experience in aeronautical engineering. Provision has also been made for the utilization of defense training courses in marine or aeronautical engineering or naval architecture. For this examination applications will be rated as soon as practicable after receipt at the Commission's office until June 30, 1942.

Men 28 Years Old Not to Be Examined

All Selective Service Local Boards in Texas have today received instruction from State Headquarters to postpone the physical examination and induction of men who were twenty-eight years of age or over on July 1, 1941, except those who volunteer for induction.

General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, said that this directive has been issued on the strength of the status of age deferment legislation pending in the National Congress.

It is estimated, the Director said, that approximately one-half of the 825,429 men who registered in Texas last October are affected by this order.

General Page said that local boards have also been instructed to postpone the induction of men who were or will be discharged from the Regular Army or the Coast Guard for the convenience of the Government within six months prior to the completion of three year period of enlistment, inasmuch as the age deferment legislation in its present form includes a provision which would relieve such men from training and service.

What Your Defense Dollar Buys in Materials

Many citizens of our country are investing their savings in defense bonds and stamps which is one of the best ways that a young man may have to get a start in life. People may buy stamps from 10 cents up. Bonds range in price from $18.75 up to $10,000. $18.75 invested in a defense bond now is worth $25.00 ten years from now. That allows three and one-third per cent on your investment annually.

The following shows what money invested in defense bonds will do. Check it over and see what it means to have a part in the defense program.

Peach Pie for Hot Summer Days

Delicious peach pie is a traditional dessert feature that is always popular at this time of year. Peach pie looks and tastes good and it brings any meal to a satisfying climax.

From the Georgia-Carolinas peach belt comes this new recipe. Try it.

First remove skins from peaches. This is easily done after allowing the peaches to stand in boiling water just one minute. Cut in eighths and cook until soft with just enough water to prevent burning. Sweeten to taste. Cool and fill crust previously baked. Cover with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored.

Below is a recipe for six pie shells to be used as needed:

Pie Mix—
Six cups flour, two cups lard, four teaspoons salt.

Sift flour, measure and add salt. Cut lard into flour and salt until the crumbs are the size of dried peas, cover and place in refrigerator until ready to use.

Pastry Mix—
One and half cups pie mix. Two and one quarter teaspoons ice water.

Add water to pie mix, small amount at a time, mixing quickly and evenly through the flour and lard until the dough just holds a ball. Roll on slightly floured board and line pie pan and filling as directed. This pastry may be used for the cobbler and pie.

Grandpa and Grandma Dickson are hardly able to adjust themselves yet, and it may require a few midnight walks to get them settled down to normalcy.

Mrs. J. H. Grace, of Austin, great grandmother; and Misses Helen and Nina Grace, great aunts, arrived the first of the week. It is possible by the time our readers get this that the great grandson, grandson and grand nephew, will have been thoroughly initiated in life.

BE SURE TO BUY IN YOUR Own Home Town

When a town or city progresses and grows it is because the people change in their attitudes. Since attitude is merely a view point, all attitudes are subject to change. The physical structure of a town such as building, parks, playgrounds, are created and improved only when the people in the community see the need for them and make up their minds to have them.

Cooperation, unselfishness, faith and organization are means by which these Civic improvements are acquired.

A TRADE AT HOME PROGRAM is one which helps to change attitude of a given community. There is nothing selfish about a program of this nature because everyone shares alike at the present and in the future.

The program in Spur conducted during the past few months has shown results because it has helped folks to think a little bit more about each other and their community. It is unfortunate that many who want to can not do more but regardless how small or large their contribution to such a Program is—IT HAS BEEN A SUCCESS.

Cotton Crop Harvest Month Late Generally

According to a careful survey made by the Dirt Farmers Congress through the facilities of the South Texas Cotton Oil Co. and just released, the cotton crops in the several sections of Texas are from one month to six weeks late this year.

The Rio Grande Valley is just starting to pick its crop August first to tenth, and at this time, with favorable weather conditions and effective boll weevil control the general estimates place that crop at about 55,000 bales against a normal average crop of 100,000 bales.

It seems to be the consensus of opinion in the Coastal Bend Section around Corpus Christi that cotton picking will start there about August tenth to fifteenth and that present prospects for a good crop are poor.

The Victoria area expects to start picking about the same time on a forty per cent of normal crop.

In the Central Texas area surrounding Travis and Williamson County, and in the Hearn-Calvert Section is expected to start about August twentieth, with prospects for a good crop much better.

R. E. Drennen, of Wichita community, was attending to business matters and talking with friends here a Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Barton, of Dallas, spent the last of the week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Briggs at Girard. Mrs. Barton is a sister to Mr. Briggs.

Helpful Hints on Peach Canning Aids Housewives

A record breaking crop of southern peaches, the largest produced in the last ten years gives homemakers an excellent opportunity to serve fresh peaches daily and can peaches for winter servings, according to T. E. Milam, president of Spur Civic Club.

"This crop, one of the finest produced in recent years, is ideal for canning, preserving and pickling" he said, "giving thrifty homemakers a perfect opportunity to serve peaches the year round." Mr. Milam suggested the following helpful hints on home-canning from one of the most popular peach canning recipes recommended by the Bureau of Home Economics:

"The chief problem in canning peaches is to keep them from turning brown after they are peeled. That's why it is important to get the peaches into the containers and then into the water bath as quickly as possible. You can avoid peeling too many peaches—if you know exactly how many jars or cans you are able to process at one time, and allow from 2 to 2 and a half pounds of peaches for each quart jar or No. 3 tin can.

"Precooking the peaches and packing them hot also helps to prevent the brown discoloration. The water-bath method of processing is more successful than the oven method is that the juice bubbles out—leaving the top peach "high and dry."

Like most other fruits, peaches are canned with sugar syrup. Make it up ahead of time allowing from 5 to 12 and a half cups of sugar to a gallon of water, depending on how sweet you like the peaches. Use warm water and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Boil for 3 to 5 minutes, with peach pit added to every quart of syrup to give it a delightful flavor. Strain out the pits before using the syrup.

"The skins come off easily, if you dip the peaches in boiling water about one-half minute and then plunge them into cold water for a few seconds. Use a square of cheesecloth or a wire basket to hold the fruit. A knife of glass or stainless steel is best for removing skins. Cut the peaches in halves.

"Pack the hot peaches into the containers as quickly as possible. Fill the containers with hot syrup and run a spatula down the side to get out any air bubbles. Seal tin cans, and partially seal glass jars. Place the containers in the boiling water bath and process them for 15 minutes, with the water all around them boiling hard."

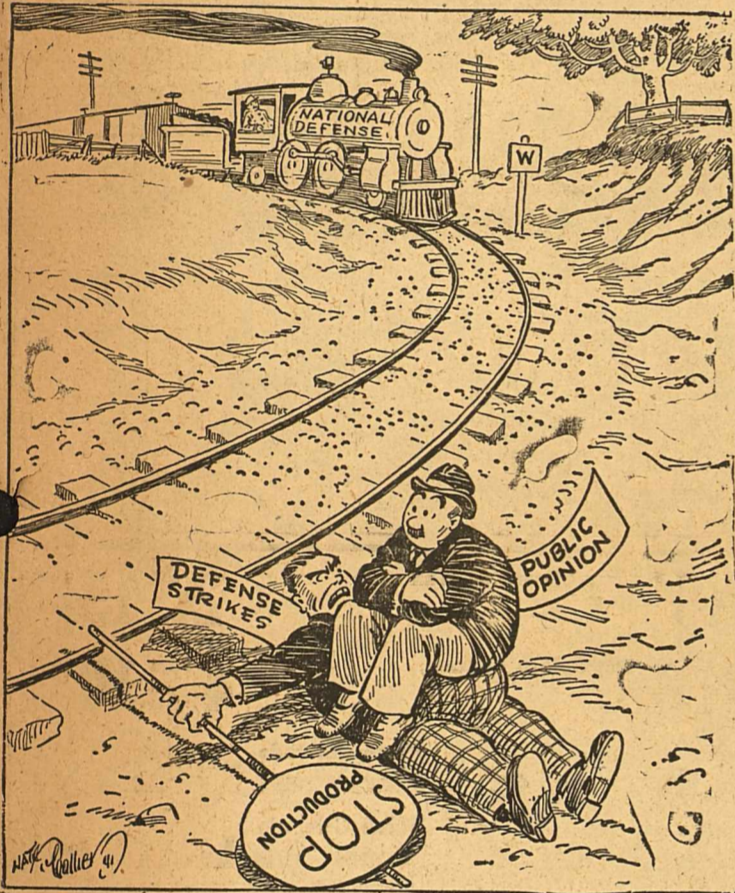

Fred P. Dawson, of Roaring Springs was transacting business and talking with friends in Spur Saturday.

W. F. Shugart left Saturday for Rosebud where he will visit relatives and friends a few days.

County Clerk Eric Ousley came over from the capitol Saturday to visit with friends and look after business matters.

H. S. Armstrong, of Afton, was greeting friends and trading in our city Saturday.

KEEP HIM THAT WAY!

part of all groups handling the fruit could this bountiful crop be marketed with a fair return to the producer.

"A further important aim of this cooperative campaign is to educate the consuming public as to the health-building value of fresh peaches. Not only are peaches delicious, but they contain certain vitamins so necessary in our daily diet. The program is proving successful in this two-fold problem of helping farmers move their crop into consumption, and improving diets of American families.

"In order to further increase our domestic consumption of this abundant fresh peach crop, and assist needy families in securing a more nutritive diet, peaches have been included on the list of health-protecting foods in the Federal Food Stamp Plan.

The peach producing industry, in cooperation with local Food Industry Committees, Chambers of Commerce, as well as wholesalers and retailers are stressing the value of peaches in everyone's diet. American homemakers in turn are doing their share by purchasing and serving fresh peaches daily. Our homemaker is canning and preserving peaches in order to serve them to her family all winter long."

In conclusion, Mr. Cappleman urged the same spirit of cooperation shown during the first phase of the fresh peach program be continued through the final drive August 7 through 15 and as long as the fresh peach crop is available.

Successful Cooperative Fresh Peach Campaign Continues

Results of the initial drive just concluded, of the fresh peach cooperative campaign were most gratifying, according to Mr. L. J. Cappleman, Regional Director for the Southern States, Surplus Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Dallas, Texas. Starting Aug. 7 through 15 a further intensive drive will be launched. This drive will preface a sustained cooperative effort throughout the remainder of the fresh peach season.

In this public spirited drive the peach producer, wholesaler and retailer, in cooperation with the Surplus Marketing Administration are all working hand in hand for the benefit of consumer and producer. This campaign is an example of the outstanding results that can be achieved when a cooperative effort is made". Mr. Cappleman continued, "The peach producer was faced with several important problems at harvest time. First, this year's crop of southern peaches is the largest in the last ten years. Marketing time for fresh peaches is unusually short, and only through a cooperative effort on the

1. Twice the speed. Electric servants breeze through your housework in less than half the time it used to take—at about half the cost. Your bill maybe is about the same as it's always been, but you now get more and better service, plus better lighting, for about what you used to pay for lights alone.

2. Twice the labor saving. Ah! the woman who owns a washing machine what electricity has done for her! At present-day low rates, you can afford to use most all the modern appliances. Today electric rates are only about half what they were 10 to 15 years ago. You get about two or three times as much for your money!

3. Twice the light. No blackouts here! Today you can get twice as much light as you used to, for the same money. Electricity today costs only about half as much. (Light bulbs are twice as efficient, so you get four times as much today for the same money.)

4. Twice the comfort. Constant research is developing new and cheaper ways of using electricity. Air conditioning this past summer reached more homes than ever before, bringing cool comfort at small cost. Other usages are being constantly improved at no extra cost to you!

Credit for the steadily improved service to you at steadily reduced rates is due the trained and experienced men and women of this organization. They have devoted many years to the highly technical problems of electric generation and distribution . . . all without interruption and at low cost.

Urges Extra Activity in Cotton Consumption Drive

Calling on every member of the cotton industry in Dickens County and the surrounding area to pledge anew his allegiance to the drive for cotton markets, President Oscar Johnston of the National Cotton Council said today that the assurance of parity prices for cotton is only the beginning of the cotton farmer's fight for parity income.

"Only through the attainment of parity consumption can the farmer be assured that his income will be on a par with that of other workers," Mr. Johnston declared. "For that reason we must not slacken for a moment our efforts to increase the consumption of American cotton products; rather, we must intensify and redouble these efforts."

"During the parity period, 1909 to 1914, the consumption of American cotton averaged nearly 13,500,000 bales. We must reach at least this level of consumption to give us parity income. We must go far beyond it if we are to achieve real prosperity for the Cotton Belt.

"The only way we can hope to reach the parity consumption mark is thru a continuation of the program of advertising, scientific research, efforts to regain foreign markets, and resistance to discriminatory legislation, which the cotton industry has carried on for the past two years.

"In the end, it will avail us little to have parity prices if cotton consumption is cut down. A parity price means nothing unless we can sell a sufficient number of pounds of our product at that price to insure us a living wage and a decent return for our efforts.

"That the cotton industry's program to secure increased consumption is aimed in the right direction is proved by the gratifying results which have been achieved thus far. A gain of almost 2,500,000 bales in domestic cotton consumption over last year is already in sight.

"Again on the 1941 crop cotton producers, ginners, warehousemen, merchants, crushers and spinners are being called upon to contribute their pro rata share toward a continuation of the domestic consumption campaign on an expanded scale and for a program to regain our foreign markets at the end of the war.

"As a cotton farmer speaking for the producers, I call upon every member of the six raw cotton interests and every individual dependent upon cotton for a livelihood to join us in our efforts to strengthen the program to attain parity consumption."

FROM OUT THE WEST So you won't sit down on a cactus plant? Well, you're going to do it and like it, because automotive research men are going to use the cactus plant fibre for upholstering padding in seats and back rests. For years they've been looking for a padding that wouldn't become matted—a fibre that "would take a seat" when treated with heat and which would thus remain resilient throughout the life of the car. The cactus fibre is tougher for its size than any they've ever seen, so it is reported.

Second Registration Men Subject to Same Regulations as First

Men who registered under the Selective Training and Service Act on July 1 and whose order numbers were determined in the National Lottery on July 17 are subject to the same rules of individual classification as the youths who were enrolled previously, General J. Watt Page, State Selective (Service Director, emphasized today.

Under no circumstances will the new group of potential trainees be classified and considered for possible military training en bloc, the General declared. Each man will have his order number by which his local board will consider his classification and no local board can classify the individual registrant until his number is reached, except in case of volunteers, he said.

The second National Lottery served as a guide for every local board to integrate its new registrants among those who registered last autumn, and that integration must be carried out so that the recent registrants will consider their classification only in a fair and equitable ratio to those men not yet inducted, General Page declared.

General Page pointed out that it was obvious that the new registrants who had received the relatively low order numbers would be classified sooner than those who had received the higher numbers.

"I'd like to stress the fact again," General Page said, "that there isn't any difference between the treatment of the new registrants and the old registrants in any respect whatsoever. They are treated exactly alike. The same rules of deferment apply to both. Both have the same right to appeal. The interests of both are protected by the government in the same manner. And each case is considered individually when the registrant's order number comes up, regardless of whether he registered July 1 or previously."

RED MUD CHURCH OF CHRIST MEETING

The meeting at Red Mud continues with increasing interest and attendance. By the end of the week it is expected that the arbor will be full each evening. This is written on Tuesday, and to date there have been no conversions, but with our seating arrangement and light and other things well under control at last and with people getting caught up with their work somewhat better, we expect definite results from now on. Such subjects as the following will be discussed during the meeting: "Unto Salvation," "Hell, Are You Going There?" "Are You Trusting in False Hopes," "Was the Jailer Saved by Faith Only?" "What Saves A Man?" "Unscriptural Terms and what They Indicate," "Do You Love God?" Bro. Johnston is doing splendid work of song leading. Come and be with us every service you can. You will receive a warm welcome. —C. V. ALLEN.
