The Cubans are not universally embraced in black Africa. Such conservative leaders as President Felix Houphouet-Boigny of the Ivory Coast fear communist expansion.

Hughes trial awaits next surprise

By JOHN M. WILLIS Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - All involved in the trial to determine whether Howard Hughes wrote the socalled Mormon Will are cautiously awaiting for the next "missing link" witness to come forth in a "surprise" gesture.

The trial itself pits Hughes' relatives, who claim the Mormon Will is a forgery, against former Hughes advisor, Noah Dietrich, named in the will to serve as executor of the vast As the news accounts of the Mormon

Will have traveled across the country. a number of "kooks" have called in and appeared personally, offering their services as jurors, sons and daughters of the late recluse and key witnesses.

A year ago, the mystery man was an undercover courier who allegedly delivered the crudelywritten, threepage document to Melvin Dummar, a former service station operator from Dummar, named as a beneficiary by the purpoted will, claims to have met and aided Hughes in the desert north of here in December 1967.

Shortly after Dummar told his story in a widely-reported court hearing here last January, Levane Forsythe, a contractor from Anchorage, Alaska. surfaced. Attorneys for Hughes relatives contend that Forsythe is a publicity-hungry person who read news accounts of Dummar's testimony and decided to inject himself into the national spotlight.

Forsythe, 54, claims Hughes gave him the purported will during a secret, 1972 meeting, and that he, following the instructions given him by Hughes and another, unknown man, delivered the will to the service station Dummar used to operate.

Forsythe claims he didn't want to reveal his association with Hughes and that no one in Hughes' organization knew that he had carried out a number of covert missions for the eccentric during a 25-year period.

Attorneys involved in the case are now in the midst of examining Forsythe before the jury which will decide whether Hughes did write the Mormon Will. The testimony, which will resume Thursday, is coming in the form of a deposition because Forsythe has refused to come here to testify in Little substantive evidence has been introduced to corroborate Forsythe's story, but Los Angeles attorney Harold Rhoden will begin next week calling a string of witnesses, who, he claims will substantiate Forsythe's Heeding the word. Forsythe said he called Dummar's attorney, but that he would not take the same course of action if he were given a second

But in three full days of direct examination through the use of the deposition. Rhoden was able to show only that Forsythe flew to San Francisco on a business trip around the time the will was delivered to Dummar, that Forsythe occasionally used assumed names when buying airline tickets and that Forsythe deposited 28. $100 bills in his checking account the day Hughes died

Forsythe claims that the $100 bills were contained in a sealed envelope which Hughes gave him in 1972, and a bank teller testified that the bills had red seals, indicating that they were printed before 1972. Green seals were used after January 1971, according to the testimony.

The most obvious point brought out by Rhoden was Forsythe's apparent reluctance to cooperate in the case. Forsythe's evasive answers prompted Clark County District Judge Keith Hayes to make some rather derogatory comments Tuesday.

Trying to get a straight answer from this man is like trying to nail jello to the wall," Hayes said in reference to Forsythe's continual evasion of direct answers to pointed questions.

Hayes' comments were not made in the presence of the jury, but Hayes later apologized before the jury, and reminded members of the panel that they are to avoid any contact with news accounts of the trial.

"I regret that I made the comment. Hayes told the jury after a closeddoor session with the attorneys. "Like everyone else, I'm imperfect and all too often my imperfections show."

Hayes, gallantly battling cancer, has often heard from persons trying to get themselves into the will contest. He has a special drawer reserved for such correspondence

Although Harper's name has come up before, the name has not been wellpublicized

Now that Harper is the socalled 'missing link" which might make Forsythe's testimony more palatable to jurors, a number of Harpers are expected to come forth in the near future. If no Harpers show, it will be the exception to the rule in the Mormon least until late May or early June. In the meantime, the missing link is a person named Dan Harper, according to Forsythe, and there no doubt will be calls coming in from persons who claim

Will trial, which is expected to last at

The problem for the attorneys struggling with the case is how to weed out the "kooks" from those who might have something to offer.

Forysthe claims that it is Yarper who made him admit that he delivered the purported will, risking the chance of being laughed at by his friends and thought of as a "nut" by his business associates in Anchorage.

Forsythe testified that it was a man named Harper who called him shortly after Dummar testified here last year and said that if he (Forsythe) did not call Dummar's attorney and confess, than he (Harper) would expose Forsythe and would see to it that Forsythe's son's job with Hughes Aircraft would hang in the balance.

Air bag needs research

What if the controversial air bag were being viewed as a medicine or a health device instead of as a safety gadget for automobile drivers and passengers'

The answer comes in blunt terms from Dr. Donald Huelke, professor of anatomy at the University of Michigan

"As a scientist, I don't feel there's enough field accident data to warrant the government's mandate for air bags in the next few years. The air bag looks viable, but we really don't know. Huelke is a 17-year veteran of auto accident

Today there are about 15,000 cars on the road equipped with air bags. But there have been only about 200 crashes involving bag - equipped autos. "If we had 200,000 air bag - equipped cars in the real world, then we'd have some data to study, says Huelke.

Based on his studies of more than 3,000 accidents, the Michigan University professor doesn't think air bags will protect motorists in rollover or multiple - impact collisions.

"If you can't tie the pelvic area down when the car rolls over, the motorist will slide out," Huelke explains: "Being ejected violently from the vehicle greatly decreases the chance of sur vival.

"The air bag is being sold as if it's an all encompassing polio vaccine, and it is not. It only works on head - on crashes. I think, however, it would give some protection to those who don't wear safety belts. Huelke recommends a federal law requiring motorists to wear lap and shoulder belts. Those who don't want to wear belts could have the option of buying cars with air bags. Huelke says he has the records to prove that lap and shoulder belts are effective in saving lives and cutting down on injuries at costs far lower than the air bag price tag. The automobile industry estimates the air bag will boost the cost of a new car by several hundred dollars. And replacements after the bags have been triggered will be from $500 to $600. "The public, of course, will blame the auto industry for these increases, especially if the air bag is not as effective as Transportation Secretary Brock Adams thinks it's going to be,'

Most of the air bag research available relates only to the standard - size car, he emphasizes.

"We really need to know more about the air bag's usefulness in small - and intermediate - size cars, because in 10 years most of the automobiles on the road could be in these categories," Huelke

The Federal Reserve bank has a swap agreement with other nations' central banks for speedy short-term credits, then using the credits to gain foreign currency - primarily by buying currencies with which to buy dollars. It is sort of an international political shell game to try to outwit private speculators.

There are others dealing in international currencies. It is not only the politicians and speculators who make the currency markets. There are untold international merchants who are forced to deal in that market in order to keep their transactions from being scuttled

Self-aggrandisement often motivates critics

Quit sniping at the media

Sniping at newspapers has become a problem pastime in some circles.

Recently, for example, one businessman wrote in a nationally syndicated op-ed article that young people going into media (journalism) are those who had been slighted by established businesses because of their ethnic or religious backgrounds.

The man, an advisor to many of America's largest corporations, does a disservice with such a statement to the Scottish-Irish, English, German, Jewish, French, etc. people who have gone into journalism for positive reasons, not the insidious, negative ones he suggests. Successful as both a businessman and a journalist (I now teach nine months of the year at one of the nation's largest journalism colleges) I suggest that the businessman get out of his ivory tower and spend meaningful amounts of time in today's journalism schools. He would see serious dedication, objectivity, hard research, accuracy, and integrity being taught and practiced.

That same businessman said "media naturally attract people who are enamored of ideas, rather than practical facts." I wonder how he would classify the folks at Scientific American, Popular Mechanics, AP, the Washington Post, CBS and other top editorial slots, where hard, hard hard facts are the order of the day? Or how would be classify the idea men at 3M, Xerox, Quaker Oats, and other respected companies that are built on ideas prudently applied and developed to make money?

Many critics say that people coming out of schools, including journalism schools, are poorly prepared for dealing with the many complex subjects of today. They are right, but wasn't it ever thus? When, indeed was a fresh college graduate expected to be a top

One businessman has said "media naturally attract people who are enamored of ideas, rather than practical facts." I wonder how he would classify the folks at Scientific American, Popular Mechanics, AP, the Washington Post, CBS and other top editorial slots, where hard, hard, hard facts are the order of the day?

financial analyst? Or a crack news reporter? Or a corporate president? Never, as far as I know, and that's why college graduates are never considered much more than rookies in their professions. Rookies to be seasoned by thoughtful, experienced worldly-wise people

And the world is much more complex today than it was when most of today's media critics got away from college 10 or 15 or 25 years ago. Ask what their first job was and how well they understood the world of high finance when they left Northwestern or Yale or Duke or Florida and began to work as low-level business people or engineers or CPAs. Don't sell today's kids short. They know a lot more about their world, on average, than did the kids getting out of school when most of their critics did.

Many critics also lament the fact that media has launched massive attacks on all pillars of society. That's a flat out lie. Media people don't attack wantonly and carelessly. They do dig relentlessly when they smell evil at

The Washington Post wasn't anxious to destroy the federal government when it researched and researched and researched Watergate. The Wall Street Journal wasn't anxious to destroy Genesco when it reported how one of that corporation's top executives used the stockholders' airplane to fly his dogs across the country to dog shows. Genesço shareholders should not call the Journal destructive, but should put that label on the executive dog showman who used for his own purposes money that should have gone to the company

Media should be subject to criticism, but they should be excused, as should all institutions, from harangues based on emotion, not fact.

Media should be taken to task when they fail in their job of packaging and delivering facts; but careful, accurate fact exchange is too essential to a healthy society to be harmed by people whose main concern, as they criticize, is self-aggrandizement. Or who criticize blindly, not after hard research and sound documentation.

Serendipity car of the year

By JIM FITZGERALD I hereby designate my Oldsmobile Delta as 1977's Serendipity Car of the Year. In return, I expect General Motors to fix the hole between my headlights for free.

That's how those things work. When an automobile is kissed in public, it is expected to kiss back. Otherwise, no romance.

For example, Motor Trend magazine recently selected the Toyota Celica as the "1978 import car of the year." In that issue of Motor Trend there are eight full pages of advertising from Toyota. There is a total of one advertising page from all other imports who were not honored.

Automotive News, the weekly newspaper of the auto industry, made the point clearly in a Jan. 9 editorial: "It seems clear that the car of the year is one whose maker can deliver the largest amount of advertising to the publication that selects it.'

That same issue of Motor Trend promises readers it will reveal its choice for "the domestic car of the year" next. Authomotive News predicts the winner will be Chrysler's Omni-Horizon

This prediction is based on the three pages of Chrysler domestic advertising in the current issue of Motor Trend. 'We predict even more Chrysler > advertising when the great announcement is made next month," Automotive News said. Taking into account the lengthy lead time required for publication of a monthly magazine, this means the buff book (Motor Trend), in its infinite wisdom, picked the car of the year before a single one had come down the assembly line," Automotive News added. That's why I waited so long before naming my Olds the Serendipity Car of 1977. I wanted to be sure. I didn't want Automotive News to accuse me looking under the hood. Many different cars of the year are chosen annually in different categories - imports, domestics, sedans, mid-size, mini - size and best car manufactured on either end of three - day weekends.

The criteria vary according to the publication doing the honors.

The award may be based on miles before I discovered there was a way to dim the headlights. I'd stomped my feet-all over the floorboard to no avail and had finally given up. I'd decided that 1977 Oldsmobiles were supposed to be constantly bright, and I'd learned to ignore approaching motorists who, as they stupidly strayed into ditches, honked

And then one night I accidentally moved my turn signal switch horizontally instead of vertically. The headlights dimmed. I was happy about that. Serendipity.

their horns and shook their fists and yelled terrible oaths.

There were more than 4.000 miles on my Olds before I discovered its most startling surprise. I read in the newspaper that my new car wasn't running on the Olds Rocket 88 engine I had paid for. Instead, there was a Chevrolet engine under my hood.

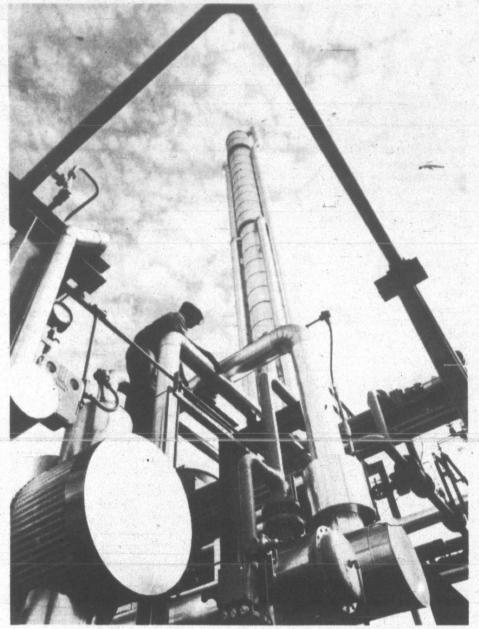

Admittedly, this was not immediate serendipity. At first, I wasn't happy that the Oldsmobile salesman who hadn't told me where the dimmer was also hadn't told me I was buying a Chevrolet engine. But later I learned I would be compensated with $200. I was happy with the way the Chevy engine-was running, and I could use the $200 bonus, so serendipity.

The only thing is that the other evening a miserable miscreant ticked a hole in the front of my Olds with the back of his Ford. The damage is estimated at

But I'm sure my dealer won't charge me for the repairs once he learns that I've named the Oldsmobile Delta the

Market system progress slow

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Linking America's separate stock exchanges into a central market is proving to be a greater challenge than joining two vehicles in space.

The concept has been around for close to a decade now, and it's been about three years since Congress mandated the change, but progress comes slowly, painfully, and with resistance

One of the reasons is the lack of a specific goal, since Congress never did say what it meant when it called for an allout effort to produce an efficient, competitive National Market System.

And what it did say hasn't always helped. It said that the Securities and Exchange Commission could create a National Market Advisory Board of interested parties. The SEC did, but the parties disagreed.

Said John Scanlon, chairman of the advisory board: "The commission did a very good job of picking people representing various interests... In so doing, however, they foreordained that there would not be consensus." Nevertheless, there is in operation now a composite reporting tape that displays volume and prices of trades whereever they occur, rather than on just one or another exchange. This indeed can be called progress, because it enables an investor to determine where the activity and where the best prices are likely to be found, on whatever exchange they occur throughout the country. But the tape activity is history. It is what happened, and investments are made instead on what is likely to happen. The next step, therefore, is to enable brokers to know where the best prices, the best buy and sell offers, are to be found throughout the country, and then quickly route orders to that point

The New York Stock Exchange thinks it has that system. Its Intermarket Trading System is an electronic linkage that routes orders to exchanges where tades can be made most advantageously.

The Midwest Stock Exchange isn't convinced. "There continue to be some elements of a full national market system that ITS does not address, John Alexander, vice president,

Wood burners back in style

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) - Winter's chill and rising fuel bills are driving many Americans to the glowing warmth of wood and coal stoves, items which the government warns should be treated with caution.

Wood can be burned safely in a cast iron stove, but coal should be used only in a stove lined with fire brick, says the Agriculture Department's extension service.

When installing the stove, the service says, place it on a brick platform or fireproof asbestos stoveboard at least 24 inches from side walls

And even the stoveboard may conduct too much heat for safe-

PITTSBURGH (AP) - U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest producer, said Tuesday its earnings fell nearly $272 million during 1977 despite a $1 billion sales improvement.

Chairman Edgar Speer attributed the poor earnings, which reflected a $36 million income tax credit, to market conditions, imports, iron ore and coal strikes and the sale of a Bahamas-based subsidiary.

The company reported profits of $137.9 million, or $1.66 a share, on sales of $9.7 billion. compared with earnings of $410.3 million, or $5.03 a share, on revenues of $8.7 billion a year earlier.

The company said it had cut its quarterly dividend to 40 cents per share. U.S. Steel had paid a quarterly dividend of 55 cents a share since the second quarter of 1976.

ty if the stove has legs shorter than six to 12 inches, the experts warned. A special pipe should be used as a chimney. Never use a vent pipe for this purpose. The vent pipe is only a single thickness of metal and may get hot enough to start a fire.

Here are some safety tips from the extension service when using a wood or coal

-Keep the stove door closed when the fire is burning and never leave children unattended where a stove is in use.

-If the fire gets so hot that the stovepipe changes color, cool it quickly by closing the stove dampers or banking the fire with some ashes. A red-hot stovepipe spells danger.

-Keep all flammable materials, such as newspapers and furniture, at least three feet

-Make sure your wood is dry. Burning damp wood can result in a deposit of creosote in the chimney and, eventually, a chimney fire. Clean out the stovepipe several times a year.

-Before you open the door to add fuel or check the fire open the stovepipe damper first. This allows any accumulated gases to escape. Otherwise they might flare up or even explode when air suddenly comes through the door.

VETERANS REFUNDS -Veterans eligible for tuition refunds after withdrawing from classes will get them more quickly under a new Veterans Administration ruling.

The VA said some schools have been delaying making the refunds to eligible veterans.

So it has altered the regulations to require that a refund be made within 40 days after a veteran changes his status and becomes eligible for the refund.

In a chemical analysis of Laetrile-related substances published Tuesday, researchers for the FDA and the University of California said most available "Laetrile" actually is amygdalin, a natural compound found in the seeds of certain fruits.

The researchers say the differences between Laetrile and amygdalin are not trivial and that the frequent use of the names interchangeably is er-

The report in the February issue of the journal Analytical Chemistry, published by the American Chemical Society, also said all attempts to make pure Laetrile from natural amygdalin using patented procedures failed. Only by using a new enzyme-regulated synthesis developed by FDA could chemically exact Laetrile be made, the researchers said. "The failure of the patented procedures as well as the great expense required to achieve the enzymatic synthesis of Laetrile established that this trademarked compound only exists in extremely limited quantities," said the report.

Presently, the drug that is offered as an anticancer agent is amygdalin," it concluded.

Congress in tinkering mood

So it is hard to see what Carter gained with his warning that any changes in his ecoting the whole thing out of whack.

However, Carter can't negotiate, and he has said he won't seek to legislate, the voluntary inflation control system he listed as a key element of his economic blueprint. That request for wage and price restraint under voluntary guidelines has run into opposition from big labor and skepticism in the busi-

The president said long ago he would not seek authority to enforce wage and price restraints, so he doesn't have much to bargain with on that

All he can do is ask for cooperation, as he did at his news conference on Monday.

"Economic policy depends. for its success, on a very careful balance between different interests, between sometimes conflicting national needs, between doing too much on the one hand, doing too little on the other," the president said. "To modify one element of a balanced plan can often destroy this balance and can aggravate our economic problems.

He said his proposals strike the right balance, with a net tax reduction of $25 billion, counting the $9 billion that would be saved through his reform proposals.

"Without these needed reforms, we would not be able to afford so large a tax reduction," Carter said. But reform is a synonym for increase in some tax categories, and the Carter proposals, far more modest than he outlined as a candidate, already are encountering some resistance in Con-

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has expressed concern at the net cost of the Carter tax package.

So he's talking about paring down the reductions.

On the other hand, there's pressure to raise the ante, and Ullman is concerned that it will grow stronger when the tax bill reaches the Senate. Carter said his jobs programs, including $1.1 billion in new funds for youth jobs and to encourage private business to hire the unemployed, also are a crucial element in a balanced economic program.

On that front, there will be pressure from liberal Democrats to spend more.

Then he urged acceptance of his voluntary inflation control program, which the administration now has spelled out more explicitly: "I have asked each group to hold its increases in wages and prices below the level that it averaged in increases for the last two years." AFL-CIO President George

Meany already has denounced the proposed restraints, calling them a step in the road toward controls. There is evidence of that concern among business-

. At the outset, he proposed a nickle a gallon gasoline tax to penalize excessive consumption, and vowed to "fight for it until the last vote in the Congress." It got nowhere, and he didn't fight much. This time he has staked out a fallback position, of sorts. He said the four phases of his economic blueprint have to go together. Then he added: "If the Congress should change any of those factors which I hope they will not then we would have to use our own influence in the Congress and with the American people to try to induce them to accept some reasonable alternative which would still keep a bal-

Promises 'like tequila' By MILLER BONNER Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) - A spokesman for the American Hispanic community compares presidential promises with tequila - "both have to be taken with a grain of salt."

In the opening speech at the Conference on Hispanics in Business, Ricardo Zazueta, the national director for SER (Service, Employment, Redevelopment) Jobs for Progress Inc., praised President Carter's stand on the Panama Canal treaty Tuesday but blasted Carter for "taking Hispanics for granted.

"In the last four decades, Hispanics have been undercounted by the census, underemployed and underpaid by business and government, under-represented by the American political system, underestimated by four presidential administrations and, in general, underrated by America. Only in wars and poverty have Hispanics been over-represented," he from Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas. The majority of the Hispanic groups in the U.S. support ratification of the Panama Canal treaty "... not only on the basis of human rights, but also as a means of entering into a new relationship with Latin America to change negative American attitudes towards Hispanics there, and, thereby indirectly enhance understanding of the Hispanic in this country," Zazueta told more than 200 representatives from business. Congress and the Carter adminis-Zazueta's support also included the administration-backed Humphrey-Hawkins bill as well as the Panama Canal treaties, but presidential praise from Zazueta stopped there: "Mr. Carter pledged during his campaign to make more high level government appointments available to Hispanic Americans," said Zazueta. "He also promised to provide more eduction, jobs, housing and health opportunities. But we have learned that promises like tequila are best taken with a grain of salt. "Hispanics are reasonably patient people, but we trust this changeover period will not be as long as the last one we waited, one which lasted more than 200 years.

"We are not asking for subsidies or dead-end government jobs," he continued. "We are seeking opportunities to raise our socio-economic level."

During an interview following his speech Zazueta said, "I think that many times, we are taken for granted and our voting power is underestimated. In places like Texas, the Mexican-American block vote was very significant. Eighty-five percent voted Democrat. And Texas was one of the few western states Mr. Carter won."

Zazueta said the purpose of the conference is "to get top business, congressional and administration leaders to focus attention and develop directions and policies and solve one of our most pressing problems unemployment. Unemployment among Hispanic youth is as high as 40 to 50 percent in places like New York, Los Angeles and Chicago. "It has been an explosive problem," he continued. "As unemployment goes up, crime goes up and drug and alcohol abuse goes up."

Advice

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last week I read another report of a woman who was dragged from her home by her husband and shot on the street in full view of neighbors and several witnesses-and no one helped.

It got me to thinking about what I would do if I were to witness such an act. Of course I would notify the police, but in the meantime the poor womans could suffer a terrible beating and even be killed. What else could I do to help, other than call the police?

I certainly couldn't attack a man who had a gun or a knife. He could easily kill me, and I have a responsibility to my family to stay alive. If I were to shoot the man and he lived, I'm afraid he would come after me next.

Please, Abby, ask your law enforcement friends to give some advice to people who want to help, but also want to remain alive.

N.M. IN ARDMORE, OKLA

DEAR N.M.: All my law enforcement friends and consultants agree that the wisest move is to call the police immediately, and be sure to stress that it is an emergency.

DEAR ABBY: I am a reasonably attractive 27-year-old woman. A friend, also a woman, age 30, went with me to a very nice supper club for an evening out. We were not there to hunt male company. All we wanted was a cocktail, dinner and girl talk. Obviously we were not flirting with any of the men in the place.

Halfway through dinner, a man about 50 came in with a woman and took the table next to ours.

Just as they were leaving, the man stopped by our table and said, "May I ask you a question? Are you two in love-with each other?"

We were too stunned to say anything at the time, but after they left we thought of many appropriate Abby-like Later we learned that the man is a judge! Such gross rudeness and poor judgment in anyone is hard to take, but in one who is supposed to rule impartially on complicated issues, it's frightening!

Were we wrong to be there? Somehow I can't believe the judge would have asked that question of two men

INCREDULOUS IN ORLANDO

DEAR INCRED: Don't bet on how this judge would have judged two men dining together. Anyone who is so curious about the sexual preferences of strangers that he would inquire, obviously has a serious problem in that area. And no, you were not wrong to have been there.

DEAR ABBY: I have tried to solve my problem myself, but it has gone too far for me. I have a 12-year-old son who is an only child, and my husband babies him to death. Anything Scottie wants, Well. Scottie has been out of school going on the fifth week. He says he doesn't feel well, and his father believes him and lets him stay home. I know Scottie could go to school if he wanted to, because the minute the bus is gone Scottie feels better. He spends the day watching TV, eating and fooling around. If I try to make him go to school, his father says I am being "mean." I am not mean, Abby, I am only trying to do what's best for the boy. Can you help me? DESPERATE MQM

DEAR MOM: A physician should examine Scottie and decide whether or not he is well enough to go to school. If he is, go a step further and find out WHY Scottie doesn't want to go to school. A conference with his teacher might be the key to the whole problem.

Getting married? No matter how little you have to spend or how unconventional your lifestyle, it can be lovely. Send for Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif.

Ask Dr. Lamb Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR LAMB - When cholesterol is ingested (as in the case of eggs) I understand that it undergoes changes in the metabolic process. Therefore, what enters the blood stream is no longer cholesterol, but various other organic coumpounds.

How can it be said, then, that the ingestion of cholesterol increases the level of cholesterol in the blood?

I have also read that there is a substance in the albumin of eggs that counteracts the adverse effects of cholesterol in the yolks. Is there any truth in this?

DEAR READER - It is absolutely untrue that the cholesterol you ingest in any food is altered by the metabolic process so it is not cholesterol when it is absorbed. The source of that kind of information is totally unreliable and you should not trust any information regarding nutrition or health you get from where ever Cholesterol is absorbed directly into the blood stream from this combined pool of cholesterol in your small intestine. It doesn't make any difference whether the cholesterol is from the bile or from your food. Your intestinal wall doesn't know the difference.

The amount produced by the liver varies in response to your blood level, but that is an entirely different mat-

Cholesterol is relatively inert and is recycled again and again through the formation of bile, which drains into the intestine and its reabsorption. That is why one method of treating high cholesterol levels is to ingest substances that will combine with the cholesterol in

No, there is nothing in egg white that will counteract cholesterol from any source. Some people have suggested that the lecithin in eggs will help but it is the lecithin that is broken down by digestive action before it is absorbed. # Exotic ways to spend time, money

Time and money. Although they control our lives, most of us think of them in very narrow terms

(i.e. I need more of both). That's why two new reference books are at once so outlandish and intriguing. They're packed with trivia, yet they force us to think about those twin evils in more creative ways.

Have you ever considered, for example, the fact that while most of us work shorter weeks, drive faster cars and own more "timesaving" gadgets, we also seem to have less free time? "Indu trialized man thought he had harnessed time," while we spend our time." It opens with:01 sextillionth of a second (the time it takes light to travel across a proton) and closes with 10 billion years (the average life span of a planet). In between Sandow lists hundreds of durations ranging from how long it takes 8 million blood cells to die in the body of one healthy adult human (one second) to how long it took the Appalachian Mountains to form (100 million to 1 billion years).

The most instructive, or at least the most entertaining. way to use "Durations" is to compare similar activities and/or durations. For instance, it takes a male automobile driver .5935 of a second to make the appropriate response to a highway signal. It takes a female driver .668 of a second. Twelve minutes is the median duration of human sexual intercourse. It is also the time it takes a bedbug to gorge itself on human blood. It takes five days to climb Mt. Kilimaniaro — the same time it takes the U.S. postal service to deliver a letter mailed first-class from New York to California.

Both the estrus cycle of the gorilla and the gestation of the kangaroo take 39 days. And it takes a century for the human body to wear out, as well as for portions of the Atlantic seaboard and the coast of Holland to sink about a foot.

But "Durations" should prove most valuable as a tool to teach a perpetually late friend a lesson that it'll take him a long time to forget. Suppose you have a dinner date set for 7 p.m. You arrive on time. He arrives absolutely famished - at 7:45. When the waiter arrives to take your order, tell him you'll need a few minutes - at least - to peruse

Then ask your companion,"Do you realize that in the 45 minutes I've been wasting my time waiting for you, a surgeon could have repaired torn cartilage in the knee joint, a complete guided tour of Harvard University could have been conducted, a hysterectomy performed, a gallbladder removed, a ham baked, a half of a soccer game played, etc. etc." - until he has lost his appetite and you've exacted your sweet revenge. If knowing that it'll take Doris Day 16 days to earn $1 million making dog food commercials is not nearly as intriguing as knowing it'll cost you about $200,000 to hire her to appear at your daughter's wedding, then Barry Tarshis' "What It Costs" is for you.

In a somewhat grotesque mix of goods and services, Tarshis estimates costs of everything from getting your roots traced ($250 to ascertain that one of your ancestors came over on the Mayflower) to getting your wife's lover knocked off $300 to hire a "typical junkie in a typical slum;

$5,000 for a "seasoned pro"). If you're a woman contemplating a sex change operation, you'll be distressed to learn that while changing a male to a female costs only $3,000, it'll cost you about $15,000 - female to male transformations require about 15 separate operations.

If your goal in life is to get yourself listed in the "Social Register," but the only pedigree in your family belongs to the dog, you'll be happy to know that the Social Register Association may accept $1,000 in lieu of certifiably blue blood.

Tarshis provides details — often including addresses and bargaining tips - for renting a geisha girl ($175 an hour), an English butler ($800 a month, plus room and board), Rod Layer as your doubles partner ($7,500-$10,000 per day), Muhammad Ali as your sparring partner ($100,000 per day), a live elephant to liven up your next dinner party ($750). Also included are the price

a mail-order Ph.D. ($1,700, and don't worry about writing a dissertation since the faculty at California Western "University" is reputed to be most concerned with the writing on your check), an illegally adopted child ($5,000 to $9,000), a hot American Express card ($25), your own Lear Jet ($1.8 million), sex therapy at Masters and Johnson ($2,000 to $3,000), and an American flag tattooed across your back ($5,000) — which is about what it'll cost to have a plastic surgeon remove it. # Carter seeks ban on hot satellites

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, warning of possible nuclear disaster, says there should be a "total prohibition" on satellites with nuclear material aboard.

Carter told a news conference Monday he favors an agreement with the Soviet Union banning such satellites until oped to prevent a recurrence of last week's incident in which a Soviet spy satellite fell in Canada's far northwest.

Soviet embassy officials were not available for comment on Carter's proposal.

A Department of Energy specialist, Theodore Dorbry, said that, so far as is known, none of the estimated 4,000 low flying satellites now in orbit carry radioactive materials.

Candidate forecasts 'Chinaman's chance'

By JACK KEEVER

Associated Press Writer AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Before inviting spectators to dine on egg rolls and barbecued ribs, Rep. Joe Hubenak chewed up his opponent in the race for state agriculture commissioner.

Standing behind Hubenak at a Monday news conference were nine Chinese-American supporters. Hubenak said their presence showed that he does have a "Chinaman's chance" to defeat commissioner Reagan Brown

Another Chinese-American photographed the conference at Hubenak portrayed Brown, who is holding the job as an appointee of Gov. Dolph Briscoe. as an after-dinner speaker who is "totally incompetent."

Hubenak said he could document that at least three employees of the agriculture department had solicited contributions for Brown on state

One, he said, had even asked Hubenak's campaign coordinator for a donation.

Hubenak said he would release details next week. Also, Hubenak said, he had talked with agriculture employees after hours and found that

-Brown responded that the department had 502 employees, and "everyone of them is working his heart out for me."

"morale is still as low as

He said, however, he had distributed four letters among emplovees cautioning them to restrict their efforts on his behalf to lunch hours or after work.

"He (Hubenak) has made every kind of accusation in the world against me," said Brown. "I'm not going to do anything wrong if I can possibly help it.

The Chinese-Americans accompanied Hubenak from Houston to pay his $1,500 filing fee. Hubenak identified one as Peter Chin, who owned the restaurant where Hubenak took his wife, Sandy, on their first Hubenak said the Chinese have "done well. You've never seen any of them go broke."

It was Aug. 23, when he announced, Hubenak said, that someone told him he did not have a "Chinaman's chance" of being elected. "I've got some Chinese folks in this state saving 'Joe Hubenak will be the next agriculture commission-

Carter said with the development of solar power, such satellites are unnecessary.

U.S. officials said last week this country has one nuclear reactor in space that flies so high it will never pose the danger that the Russian satellite did.

Launched in 1965 to determine effectiveness of space power sources and other devices, the satellite should stay aloft at least 4,000 years. By then, theuranium-235 fuel will have burned itself out and be no threat when it re-enters the earth's atmosphere and burns

Carter said, "If we cannot evolve ... failsafe methods, then I think there ought to be a total prohibition against earth-orbiting satellites, " he said.

"I would favor an agreement with the Soviets to prohibit earth-orbiting satellites with atomic radiation material in them," Carter told the news conference.

On his economic policies, Carter cautioned against congressional tampering with his mix of tax, jobs and inflationfighting proposals.

Beef hike in store?

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) -An effort by cattlemen to reduce the nation's cattle supply may have been so successful that a beef price hike could result while the number of cattle is increased, according to a Texas Cattle Feeders spokes-

'We're on the verge of triggering a situation like that of 1972, when the price of beef shot up too fast, sparking consumer resistance and political pressures we couldn't cope with," Jim Gill, a TCFA market analyst, said Monday.

Gill's assessment was based on a recently released United States Department of Agriculture "all catle" and calves" basic cow herd to be 12 percent fewer than three years ago.

The USDA report said the cow herd numbered 116 million head on Jan. 1. "We may have over-ligidated our basic cow herd," Gill

"In short, once we start holding back heifers and cows, it looks like the reaction could be far stronger than the normally stable markets that follow the end of a herd liquidation," he

Boulder stops plea bargain

By SUSAN GUFFEY

Associated Press Writer BOULDER, Colo. (AP) When Boulder County District Attorney Alex Hunter cut out the practice of plea bargaining. he cut into the off hours of his staff, local judges and public defenders.

Arkansas, UT in showdown

By GREG THOMPSON AP Sports Writer

The ailing, weary. 2th-ranked Texas Longhorns - shellshocked after four tense victories - take their surprisingly unblemished Southwest Conference mark tonight to Fayetteville. Ark., where Arkansas hasn't lost for two years.

And Texas Coach Abe Lemons doesn't relish the trip, as illustrated by his comments Monday night after a heartstopping 73-72 victory over said if we got beat tonight. I'd be sad going to Arkansas I also said if we won tonight I'd be sad going to Arkansas

The second-ranked Razor backs, whose only loss this season was a 75-69 beating by Texas in Austin, were idle Monday night and are rested and healthy for tonight's contest.

The Longhorns, meanwhile, will be playing their fifth game in 10 days - the previous four being decided by a total of 10 points, one in overtime and the other in the closing seconds. All five starters are also trying to recover from nagging ailments. Ron Baxter has a pulled groin muscle. Tyrone Branyan has a sore Achilles tendon. John Moore and Gary Goodner have chest colds and Jim Krivacs has had a virus. All played, however, against Hous-

Ironically, when the Razorbacks lost in Austin they were playing their fourth game in a week and Texas was coming off an open date

The Texas game is the biggest game in the league season," said Arkansas coach Ed-Sutton 'When we played earlier, no one had played enough games to realize how meaningful that game would be. Now, unless Houston or Texas Tech wins out, it looks like it's a two-team race hetween Arkansas and Texas.

Texas, not considered a threat before the season to the defending SWC champion Hogs. leads the SWC with a 9-0 record and is 17-2 for the season. Arkansa is 7-1 and 19-1.

'We're not playing over our head," said Lemons "You can't play better than you are If you can jump 6-6, you can ump 6-6

Baseball house divided over latest ruling

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Baseball's house was divided Tuesday in the wake of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's ruling that killed the Cincinnati Reds' acquisition of Oakland pitching ace Vida Blue

Kuhn's critics were led by San Diego Padres owner Ray Kroc, who said that baseball was "doomed" unless the commissioner was fired.

On the other side was Cedric Tallis, general manager of the New York Yankees, who said the commissioner "has an obligation to try to protect competitive balance for the best interests of the game."

And Dick Wagner, Cincinnati's vice president and general manager, obviously upset by the rejection of a trade that would have given the Reds a 1-2 pitching punch of Tom Seaver and Blue, termed Kuhn's decision a "kangaroo court" and called the commissioner "judge, jury and his own prosecutor

Meanwhile, Blue remained unreachable, but in Oakland, his financial advisor. Chris Daniels, said the 28-year-old left-hander would play for the A's if he has to.

"If Bowie Kuhn says he'll play in Oakland, that's what he'll do," Daniels said. "He just wants to play ball. I just hate to see him getting tossed back and forth like this.

On Monday, Kuhn canceled the trade of Blue to the Reds for minor league first baseman Dave Revering and $1.75 mil-

The game was won at the foul line," Stines said in the locker room. "The first two times (in the fourth quarter.) we sent then to the line they missed., but the next three times they got five points."

The Harvesters led the entire game, although the advantage was precarious at times. Pampa appeared ready to blow Caprock out of its own gym, jumping out to an almost immediate 8-2 lead. But the 'Horns closed to within three, 14-11 at the first buzzer.

Then, after Caprock missed four straight free throws to open the second stanza, the Harvesters took advantage of three charging calls and five 'Horn turnovers to take a commanding 34-23 halftime Harvesters matched their

But Bruce Nipp and Charles Stuart helped Caprock, now 6-18 and 0-1 in the second half of district play, pull within 10 with a quarter to go.

Pampa then put the game away at the foul line despite the embarrassing credential of a 51 percent accuracy mark from that distance.

Angeles Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom, starved for a super Bowl team, turned today to George Allen, whose motto is "the future is now."

Allen, fired twice before as head coach of the Rams, was introduced in a news conference. But a Rams spokesman made the official announcement of the hiring early this morn-

Allen flew into Los Angeles Tuesday night and the Rams reserved a banquet room at a large hotel for noon today, ostensibly for the formal announcement that the 56-year-old Allen will succeed Chuck knox.

A throng of reporters greeted Allen as he flew into Los Angelles International Airport and someone remarked, "Welcome back," to which Allen responded, "It's like coming home.

Red Sox for $1 million apiece.

Knox coached the Rams to NFC Western Divison championships in each of his five seasons with the team, but the Rams have never reached the Super Bowl. He left 5Jan. 11, signing a six-year contract to coach the Buffalo Bills.

Allen coached the Rams from 1966 to 1970. His Los Angeles teams compiled a 49-17-4 record and earned playoff berths in 1967 and 1969. The first playoff appearance was the Rams' first title in a dozen years.

Allen refused to confirm that Reeves after the 1969 season. but was reinstated when play ers and fans objected to his dismissal The next year, Allen was fired again and became coach and general manager of the Washington Redskins.

At the start of the hunt for a successor to Knox. Rosenbloom had expressed great interest in Allen, but stressed that his job would be strictly as coach. Allen was fired by the ed-work for and his organization isskins a week after Knox left the Rams. He led Washington to five, playoff appearances in his seven seasons there and one Super Bowl, the 1973 affair, which the Redskins lost to Miami 14-7.

> His overall record in 12 years as an NFL head coach is 116-47-5. No Allen-coached pro team has had a losing record.

Reception for a fresh immortal

(c) 1978 N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK - When Eddie

Mathews checked into the Waldorf Towers there was a bit of flap at the desk because his brother-in-law had made the reservation in his own name August Busch. No. Mathews kept explaining, he wasn't August Busch, he was the brother-in-law and the reservation was meant for him. They went over the ground a few times before he was allowed to register and go upstairs, where he was joined by his wife Liz, up from her farm in Virginia. They had just got to sleep when the phone rang. The room's previous occupant, a voice said, had left behind a valuable package of diamonds and a security officer was coming up to search for it. "It's midnight," Mathews said, but soon three men in plainclothes showed up. They went through the motions of searching dresser drawers and closets without convincing Ed or Liz that they were looking for diamonds. "They figured we were in under false names," Eddie said the other day, "to rob High ludividual Series - Shawn Potter - 572. Ann Newsome - 487.

baseball's newest, shiniest immortal on his election to the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown. Charles Cornwallis got a warmer welcome to New York. The climate got cozier after breakfast when Mathews met with some of the baseball writers whose votes had ushered him into the company of Babe Ruth, Chrity Mathewson, Ty Cobb and the other demigods in the pantheon beside Lake Five years after retiring with 512 home runs. Eddie became eligible for the Hall of Fame in 1974. Each year since then, he drawn the year before, but not until this winter was he named on 75 percent of the ballots cast, the minimum for election.

"Two or three years I hoped and dreamed and was disappointed," he said, "so this year I played different. I said the hell with it, I don't care if I make it or not, but I didn't mean it. Now that it's happened, it hasn't really sunk in yet." Relaxing with friends, he spoke of many things, including some of the managers he played Charley Dressen? "He'd rather catch you out after curfew than eat a steak when he was hungry.

Tommy Holmes managed the Boston Braves when Mathews arrived in the majors. "Vern Bickford was pitching, and when Tommy came out of the dugout I moved over the mound. 'I'm going to take you out." Tommy told Bickford. 'No you're not,' Bickford said. 'I want to take you out,' Tommy said. 'No, Bickford said. Tommy went back to the bench and the next guy hit a home run. Tommy came out again. 'This time I mean it.' he said. A few weeks later, Tommy was gone."

In his second big - league season, the Braves's first in Milwaukee, the 21 - year - old Mathews hit 47 home runs. He was chosen by acclamation as the kid most likely to break Babe Ruth's lifetime record, but the next year a rookie outfielder named Henry Aaron joined the "Hank was a tremendous

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) A state judge was to pursue his probe of two local officials' private business today by ordering the men to submit their business records to a court of State District Judge oe Cisneros, whose court of inquiry is investigating alleged misuse of federal funds, also said Tuesday he may "compel" a witness to testify about the allegations against R&S Janitorial Services.

The business is owned by Eliseo Sandovl, director of a lcal ant-poverty program, and Nick Ramirez, director of the Hidalgo County Manpower Program. Both men are nder indictments stemming from the business.

A Manpower program janitor testified here Tuesday that Ramirez told him to use Manpower supplies while working he used soap and wax from the Manpower program while working as an R&S employee at the Donna city hall.

Ramirez, on leave of absence without pay from his Manpower has refused to testify here. Sandoval pleaded the Fifth Amendment to questions about R&S.

By state statute. Cisneros can compel testimony by offering immunity. He did not say which winess e might make the offer to Molina said he testified because Ramirez "hurt my feelings" by accusing him of stealing money from a Manpower secretary's desk.

After giving his potentially damaging testimony. Molina looked at the judge and said, "I hope I didn't hurt anyone's feel-

Ouick-change artist saves airline 4 hours

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) Fred Christlieb didn't want to be late for his business apointment, so he decided not to wait for the mechanic but to change a flat tire himself - on a DC9.

Larry Litchfield, public information director for Hughes Air West, said in San Francisco Tuesday that Christlieb, 35, was among the passengers on a flight from Spokane, Wash., tò Boise, Idaho, Monday when the plane's tire went flat upon landing at Lewiston.

Litchfield said airline officials announced that a mechanic would have to drive from Spokane to change the tire. But Christlieb, a computer service representative from Nine Mile Falls, Wash., said "I can change it" and produced a Federal Aviation Administration license that showed him to be a qualified DC9 mechanic. The airline verified the license with the FAA and told Christlieb to go ahead.

"He saved at least four hours," Litchfield said. "We bought him lunch and plan to buy him dinner soon.

Negotiations 'practical'

Associated Press Writer CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - The Israeli and Egyptian defense ministers began "looking for ways to close the gaps" as they resumed negotiations, an Israeli spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the discussion at the two-nour meeting Tuesday night between Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman and Egyptian War Minister Mohamed Abdel Ghany Gamassy was "practical" and went beyond declarations of known positions.

Weizman and Gamassy decided not to disclose what they talked about in order to get away from "media" diplomacy, he said. But other sources close

FBI charges two in spy activity

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - An employee of the United States Information Agency and a Vietnamese national were arrested by the FBI Tuesday and charged with spying for the communist government of Vietnam.

A federal grand jury in nearby Alexandria, Va., returned a seven-count indictment charging Ronald Louis Humphrey, 42, and Truong Dinh Hung, 32, with conspiracy, espionage, stealing government record and being unregistered foreign

The indictment said the two delivered to the Socialist Republic of Vietnam "documents, writings, notes and information relating to the national defense of the United States ... having reason to believe that same would be used to the advantage of a foreign nation.'

Humphrey, of suburban Arlington, Va., used his position as a USIA employee to gather the material and deliver it to Hung in various places in the Washington area, the indictment said.

Humphrey and Hung were arrested today at their places of employment in Washington, not long after the grand jury in Alexandria handed down the sealed indictment, the Justice Department said.

Named as co-conspirators but not indicted were Huynh Trung Dong, Nguyen An Huynh, Nguyen Ngoc Giao, Phan Thanh Nam and Dinh Ba Thi.

The grand jury charged that Humphrey, Hung and their coconspirators gave "aid, comfort and advantage" to the Vietnamese by furnishing information touching on political, military and diplomatic relations and intelligence assessments.

The conspiracy count listed eight overt acts that detailed meetings and deliveries of documents beginning April 19, 1977 and ending Dec. 23. The indictment said the conspiracy began sometime in 1976.

Another count charged that in April 1977 Humphrey and Hung delivered a number of documents to Vietnamese agents. including a cable from the American consul in Hong Kong to the secretary of state marked secret; and cables to the secretary of state from U.S. embassies in Tokyo, Bangkok, Kuala Lumpur and Vientiane. marked confidential.

Cost of uranium issue in suit

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) -Westinghouse Electric Corp's chief contract negotiator with two utilities that didn't sign uranium supply contracts says he tried to explain why the firm couldn't sell the fuel at previosy agreed-upon prices.

Richard E. Seif was chief negotiator for Westinghouse when it tried to sell urnaium supply contracts in 1973 and 1974 to Long Island Lighting Co. and Houston Lighting and Power Co. He was the firm'S final witness in U.S. District Court here Tuesday.

The contracts never were signed and one primary issue facing U.S. District Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. is whether the two utilities have a claim against Westinghouse

Seif testified that by early 1974 Westinghouse realized the extent of its uncovered uranium commitments. Seif said he tried to explain to both utilities his company's positon.

Ten utilities sued Westinghouse for $2.5 billion damages after the firm reneged on contracts to supply uranium to fuel reactors it had sold utili-

Houston toad skips town

By MILLER BONNE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Houston toad has skipped town. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announced Tuesdy that it had designated two areas as critical habitats for the and secretive" Houston toad, an endangered species.

Both areas were outside the Houston city limits even outside Harris County. The toads have hopped to Bastrop and Burleson counties, more than a hundred miles from Houston. The Fish and Wildlife Service defined the areas as "close to two state parks in Bastrop County and near Caldwell in Burleson County.

The critical habitat determination refrains federal agencies from authorizing or funding projects that would adversely affect the toad's habitat. The Fish and Wildlife Service estimates that only 1,500 Houston toads still inhabit the earth although the amphibian is "rarely seen or heard."

However, five suburban Houston areas that may still contain remnant Houston toad populations are to be the subject of further study, according to the Fish and Wildlife Serv-

Within the five areas, those sites that have already been developed will not be studied "because there is little or no chance that the toad could exist in these altered habitats."
