DIBOLL, Texas (AP) — The young folks of Odell went to Lufkin for pizza on a recent Sunday night.

Betty Mingee of Zavalla and a friend had their hair curled at Abby Gaskamp's beauty salon.

But the big news was the new Dairy Queen in Huntington.

It may not sound like major news, but the people who publish Time magazine think it is important.

Important enough to pay for.

Those events — and more — were chronicled recently in the Diboll Free Press. Since the merger between Time Inc. and the giant Temple East Texas forest products firm, the Free Press has been owned by the Time conglomerate.

It was in 1952 that the paper, under editor Paul Durham, began giving Angelina County residents a weekly serving of folksy news and astonishingly good graphics.

Arthur Temple, head of the Temple empire, is publisher of the weekly. Durham credits Temple for getting the paper going and keeping it in print.

Much of the news is collected by what Durham calls "my girls" — his country correspondents who keep tabs on their communities in the piney woods.

Most of the correspondents are elderly ladies and their hand-scribbled copy is mailed here from such outposts as Saron, Odell, Mid-county and Burke. The correspondents like to mail their columns because they dislike the hustle of downtown Diboll — population 5,000.

"They're the lifeblood of our paper," Durham said.

The editor said he has learned he can count on his girls.

"They send it in every week. If not, they call you. Either they had pneumonia, the phones were out or their husbands were ill," he said.

Case in point: "Sorry I missed writing my column these past two weeks," Helen Lee wrote in a recent column from Burke. "But as some of you know I had to undergo surgery."

Some of the girls have been on the job for a long time. Birdie Russell in Mid-county is 87, Durham said. Verniece Crippen in Odell has been writing her column since the Free Press began.

"I never had anyone to complain," Mrs. Crippen told an envious reporter.

She's 69 now and doesn't get out much. But she burns up the phone lines collecting the news.

The country columns, which back up a front page of hard news, include a smorgasbord of activities.

Durham, who along with assistant editor Mike Crim takes care of just about everything at the paper, also writes a weekly column.

Two unmatched socks hanging in his office are a tribute to one of his columns that pinpointed a major problem facing modern man. The column also garnered some national attention.

In his column — "little d" — Durham wanted to know why he has a collection of single, unmatched socks. How does that happen? Where does the mate go? Is it eaten by the washing machine?

A local man mailed the column to CBS newsmen Hughes Rudd, who is now a regular reader and frequent quoter of the Free Press.

Texas prosecutor dodges ouster suit

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Indicted South Texas prosecutor Oscar McInnis has dodged an attempt by his peers to remove him from office.

The Hidalgo County district attorney was granted a temporary restraining order prohibiting the Texas Prosecutors Coordinating Council from filing a removal suit.

McInnis has been named in a federal indictment alleging he plotted to have a female friend's ex-husband kidnapped and killed. McInnis and the woman were also named in perjury indictments.

The newly formed prosecutors council — in its first action — began an investigation of McInnis after the indictments were returned in Brownsville.

Documents filed with the clerk of the Texas supreme court show that the seven-member council voted unanimously to seek McInnis' ouster pending the disposition of the indictments.

The document stated the council found "good cause to file an action against Oscar McInnis... For misconduct, namely, aggravated perjury and perjury in connection with the testimony before the federal grand jury... And solicitation and conspiracy to murder Noe Villanueva."

San Patricio County Attorney Richard Hatch, council chairman, said the prosecutors told their executive director to file the suit.

But McInnis' attorney quickly filed the request for the restraining order. The petition claimed the removal suit would subject McInnis to unfair prosecution.

State District Judge Joe B. Evins agreed and late Wednesday signed the order prohibiting the filing of the suit — pending a Sept. 1 hearing here.

Evins' order states that McInnis would be required to forego his fifth amendment right against self-incrimination if forced to defend against the removal action.

The order also states that the removal suit would lead to a "multiplicity of lawsuits concerning the same subject matter." Evins further ruled that the removal suit would deny due process of law and would leave McInnis "confounded and confused" by state and federal prosecution "involving the same issue."

McInnis' attorney claimed the removal action would be moot if McInnis is convicted. State law provides for automatic removal from office upon conviction.

Hatch said McInnis' attorney appeared at an Austin hearing last week and made objections similar to those in the petition filed here.

"They asked us not to take any action," Hatch said Thursday. "We decided to go ahead and that's why they filed the lawsuit."

The chairman also said the council plans to pursue McInnis' ouster.

McInnis and his attorneys have refused to talk to reporters about the case.

The local district attorney has pleaded innocent to the charges and claims the indictments do not hamper his performance as the top prosecutor in the county.

Singlaub speaks out again

Europeans fear president

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Major General John Singlaub, who retired after two sharp attacks on the Carter Administration defense policies, says many Europeans consider the president weak in military matters and fear his "zig-zag path is putting them in danger."

The former chief of the U.S. and United Nations forces in Korea told a news conference Thursday that Carter had been ill-advised and naive in accepting the suggestions of "his kitchen cabinet."

He said, "Some of his (Carter's) training at Annapolis apparently didn't take, or he didn't have enough followup education that professional military men have received."

Singlaub said he decided to retire after his second attack on Carter policies, including the use of women in combat units, the Panama Canal treaty, and the junking of the B-1 bomber and the neutron bomb.

The retired general said the Joint Chiefs of Staff were wrong in remaining silent on certain defense issues, such as the Panama Canal treaty, when they disagreed with the president. He said "they should resign or retire" and then have the right to sound-off against the policies rather than letting "the nation believe they agreed with these policies."

Singlaub met with newsmen shortly before a speech at a dinner hosted by several military organizations.

He said he was puzzled why the "Carter Administration is insisting that women be placed in combat units. I have studied this in detail and women in these units have adverse effects on the men. Once in Korea I saw sergeants leave their platoons to make sure women assigned to the units were removed to safety."

"This feeling of protection toward women can't be removed as long as men have mothers," Singlaub said women in combat units tend to make other nations feel our military forces are being weakened.

"And, when the Dallas Cowboys have females on their forward line, I may be for having women in combat units."

After being reassigned following his statements on the withdrawal of American troops from Korea, Singlaub once again criticized Carter during a speech before a group of ROTC cadets at Georgia Tech. It was then he asked to retire and, as he said Thursday, "The offer was quickly accepted."

Singlaub also told newsmen he supported a return to the draft and an end to the all-volunteer Army. With the draft, he said, there would be an increase in the number of men joining the National Guard and the various reserve units.

And, he said, "My name has become a verb in the Pentagon. If an officer tells Congress something the administration thinks he shouldn't, he is threatened with being Singlauded."

Mondale

visits Texas

DALLAS (AP) — Vice President Walter Mondale visits Texas today and Saturday, for the first time since the 1976 elections, to stir up interest and money for Democratic party candidates.

His first scheduled stop was Dallas, then on to Austin, McAllen and Corpus Christi.

Mondale will be followed a week later by First Lady Rosalynn Carter on a similar political mission with appearances in San Antonio, Dallas-Fort Worth, and Lubbock.

One reason Mondale gave for coming to Dallas was for a birthday party honoring Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Texas.

"I wanted to come to Texas and throw him (Mattox) a birthday party for his campaign kick-off when I heard the ultra-right wing and the radical left were opposing Jim," Mondale said.

Mattox is fighting to keep his Congressional seat safe from a challenge by Republican Tom Pauken.

Mondale will go on to Austin for a dinner honoring State Democratic Chairman Calvin Guest. A close friend of defeated Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Guest is not seeking re-election as chairman at the September convention.

Attorney General John Hill, the Democratic nominee for governor, has said Houston lawyer Billy Goldberg is his choice for the next state party chairman.

Money from the $100-a-ticket dinner will go to the state party.

In connection with the Austin dinner, Mondale will appear at a reception boosting U. S. Rep. Bob Gammage of Houston, who is in a tight race with Republican Ron Paul.

National briefs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The Caroline Kennedy to whom an elderly San Antonio widow left two jewelry pieces is the daughter of the late President John F. Kennedy.

But Miss Kennedy, a 20-year-old Radcliffe College student, has turned down the jewelry, valued at $500, and has asked that it be given to the same charity to which most of Bulah Matlock Wise's $25,000 estate has been donated.

The jewelry - a cameo pin with pearls and a bracelet with amethysts and pearls - was witnessed by a Caroline Kennedy by Mrs. Wise, who died March 27, 1977, at the age of 84.

Stanley Banks Sr., executor of the estate, said that after investigating Mrs. Wise's handwritten will, he concluded that she could only have meant the assassinated president's daughter.

Banks said he believed Mrs. Wise, who had no children, had never met Miss Kennedy, but was "a long-distance admirer of the young lady."

A disclaimer signed by Miss Kennedy and witnessed by her mother, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, was filed Tuesday with the county clerk.

MIAMI (AP) - Johnny Carson is going to be more careful when quipping about "clipping."

The star of the "Tonight" show has apologized to WCKT-TV for implying that the Miami station had "clipped" the start of his July 18 show so local commercials could be inserted.

Carson said his remarks during the July 26 show were based on a complaint in a viewer's letter.

Carson said his letter to WCKT President Edmund N. Ansin was delayed because "I wanted to be sure to get the correct information and the facts, a procedure which obviously I did not follow prior to my comments on that show."

"It was not my intention to accuse your station of illegal practices but I recognize that your viewing audience could interpret my remarks that way," Carson wrote.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - ABC, which outfoxed NBC three years ago to lure away Redd Foxx, has filed a $5 million breach-of-contract suit against the veteran comedian.

ABC said the suit, filed Wednesday in Superior Court, also seeks a permanent injunction to keep Foxx "from rendering his services to any person or entity other than ABC."

The network said the suit alleges that Foxx and three production companies he owns breached an October 1975 contract to make a pilot for a TV series that would have starred the comedian.

In addition to $5 million in general damages, the network also seeks a judgment for $350,000 it says it advanced to Foxx, who starred in NBC's "Sanford and Son" before leaving it to sign with ABC.

TISBURY, Mass. (AP) - Kate Jackson, one of "Charlie's Angels," is in heaven - or at least on Cloud 9.

Ms. Jackson's high stems from her marriage Wednesday to Andrew Stevens, the 24-year-old son of actress Stella Stevens. It follows a low resulting from the break-up of a romance with actor Eddie Albert Jr. It was the first marriage for both.

CUYAHOGA FALLS, Ohio (AP) - Two Cuyahoga Falls mothers were arrested on charges of criminally endangering their children after their daughters apparently became ill from eating marijuana-laced brownies, police said.

The charges against Linda Walk and Claudia Martell, both of Cuyahoga Falls, were filed Thursday, one day after their daughters, Kim Walk, 8, and Tiffany Martell, 6, were taken to a hospital by a babysitter.

The babysitter, Alison Mee, 14, told police the girls became ill after eating brownies. A police analysis disclosed the marijuana. Both girls were treated and released from the hospital.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) - Florida residents are moving to the country faster than people in any other state except New Jersey, a University of Florida study shows.

The analysis of census figures indicated Florida's nonmetropolitan population grew by 269,680 during the six years studied - 15.3 percent of the total state growth. And Florida suburbs ballooned by 1.28 million people since 1970.

The study found Florida continues to have the oldest population in the nation, with 16.7 percent of the state's residents aged 65 and older.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A Greenpeace Foundation spokesman says the 38-day voyage of the ship Peacock shows whalers can be stopped peacefully.

The Peacock arrived in Los Angeles Thursday, its crew claiming a successful confrontation with a Russian whaling ship.

Greenpeace President Patrick Moore said the ship's crew shielded a pod of four or five whales from a Russian whaling ship about 600 miles off Hawaii. But the Soviets were able to throw two harpoons into one whale while the Greenpeace members watched helplessly, Moore said.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Bullet fragments from the body of a slain police officer match bullets fired from a rifle taken from the headquarters of the radical group MOVE, a police firearms examiner says.

That was the testimony Thursday of officer James O'Hara at a preliminary hearing on charges against Charles Sims, Edward Goodman, Delbert Orr and William Phillips in the Aug. 8 shooting death of Patrolman James Ramp. The hearing will continue next Tuesday.

Eight other MOVE members are charged in Ramp's death, which came during a shootout when police moved to oust the group from its headquarters.

Government cooks sample their wares

WASHINGTON (AP) - Government cooks plan to sample some of their own wares next week in a demonstration of what 26 million children can expect to find in school cafeterias as they trek back to the classroom this fall.

The plan is for the Agriculture Department, which is in charge of the nation's school lunch program, to prepare the food and have Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, other department officials and reporters test the results on Wednesday.

The department sent notices Thursday to the news media telling reporters about the school lunch preview, which will be accompanied by explanations of changes by the department to improve the quality and acceptability of school lunches, the notice said.

Among the changes are steps to gradually reduce the fat, sugar and salt content of school meals and plans - still being developed - to cut plate waste and give schools more freedom in satisfying students' tastes and appetites.

Bonnie Whyte of the department's Food and Nutrition Service said Bergland and the other diners can sample a menu designed around commodities the department donates to the school lunch program.

Included will be sliced turkey, chicken pot pie, fried chicken, cheeseburgers, biscuits, whole wheat muffins, beef in barbecue sauce, canned vegetables, fruit, orange juice, peanut butter and a vanilla pudding made from nonfat dried milk, she said.

About 94,000 of the approximately 110,000 primary and secondary schools in the United States participate in the federal school lunch program. The participating schools have an enrollment of about 51 million students, of which approximately 26 million ate the lunches last school year, the agency said.

The federal cost of operating the program is estimated at $2.5 billion annually, including cash grants to states and the commodity donations.

Officials said it is difficult to predict what school lunches will cost in the coming year because expenses vary widely among the states and individual schools.

The cost of a single lunch last year averaged about 80 cents and, considering the continued rise in food prices, is expected to creep up in the coming year.

Leads exhausted in search for couple

SOUTH FORK, Colo. (AP) - Authorities hope Labor Day hikers or fishermen will help them find a missing Texas couple believed killed by the Tison Gang in an attempt to run a roadblock in Arizona.

One of Tison's sons was killed in the ensuing shootout. Three other members of the gang were captured. Tison fled into the Arizona desert and died of exposure.

The search for James Judge Jr., and his bride from Amarillo, Texas, began Aug. 11 when their van was used by the Tison Gang in an attempt to run a roadblock in Arizona.

"We have exhausted all our leads," said Rio Grande County Sheriff Jerry Wright. "We're left to hikers or fishermen possibly stumbling on the bodies."

Tison and another Arizona State Prison inmate escaped the penitentiary, allegedly with the aid of Tison's three sons. The survivors are accused of murdering four other persons in Arizona during their run from the law.

Wright said 15 officers have searched a 500-square mile area centered on Wolf Creek Pass and near Tucker Ponds.

Clayton doesn't believe tenure loss will hurt

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - House Speaker Bill Clayton says he simply doesn't believe that doing away with tenure - essentially lifetime jobs - for college professors would damage academic freedom.

"That's not a valid argument," said Clayton, who is considering legislation to replace tenure with contracts of 5-10 years for state university teachers who have not yet achieved tenure.

Clayton said in an interview Thursday that professors don't universally support tenure.

"We've talked to some professors who think this (term contracts) is a better approach than pure tenure," he said. Clayton said he hopes to visit all the boards of regents and state college administrations and "a great number of faculty senates" to discuss the tenure issue.

Academics say doing away with tenure could impair academic freedom.

Debbie Cartwright, the speaker's research assistant, has drafted a report to Clayton in which she says eliminating tenure "could improve accountability and could conceivably improve higher education as a whole."

She found that 54.3 percent of

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been divorced for three years. We have two very mature and sophisticated children, a boy, 9, and a girl, 11, who live in Chicago with their mother.

I have a very lovely beach home in California, and I have a ladyfriend living with me. My ex-wife is aware of this, but my children are not.

In our settlement, my wife agreed to let me have the children for two weeks in the summer. Now she refuses to send them to me because she doesn't want them to visit a father who is living "in sin" with another woman.

I say that children should be taught the realities of life, and I don't intend to put up a phony puritanical front. My ladyfriend is not a cheap floozy. She's a fine European woman with sufficient charm and intelligence to hold a man without insisting on marriage, which is more than can be said of most American women.

How can I make my ex-wife see it my way? I miss my children.

ME IN MALIBU

DEAR ME: You probably can't, which is just as well. I agree with your ex-wife. Your "mature and sophisticated" children will learn the realities of life soon enough, so allow them their illusions awhile longer. And if you really "miss" your children, tell your "fine European ladyfriend" to get lost for a couple of weeks.

DEAR ABBY: Whoever said that boys like good girls is crazy.

I went out with a boy one night and he made advances. I told him where to get off. He didn't get mad, but he never asked me out again, and he was the one boy I really wanted to date.

Please don't say that a boy who would pull something like that isn't "nice." I haven't met a boy yet who doesn't take a girl out for what he can get. Because of this, a boy hardly ever asks me out twice. I am beginning to wonder about this good girl stuff. What does it prove?

UNDER AGE AND OVER DEVELOPED

DEAR UNDER: Most "nice" boys still want "good" girls. The boys who drop you because you're "good" are only boys. Stay good, and one day a MAN will come along and make the waiting worthwhile.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine let me know that she got out of a sickbed to attend my daughter's wedding. She coughed and sneezed and blew her nose during the whole time, and she looked very feverish and weak. She thought she was doing us all a big favor by coming, but I wish she had stayed home. She hugged and kissed me (and several others), and the following day I came down with the same symptoms she had at the wedding. I'm not saying she actually gave me something, but it was a strange coincidence.

Abby, you would be doing a tremendous public service to remind your readers that sick people belong at home!

I can't sign this for obvious reasons.

Ask Dr. Lamb
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a woman 46 years of age and I have had surgery for my ulcers. They cut the vagus nerve and on my last operation they removed three-fourths of my stomach. At that time I was bleeding very badly and they had to wait two days before they could operate. My weight is only 109 pounds and I am 5-foot-5.

I would like to know if you could explain the dumping syndrome for me. I am on a low carbohydrate diet with lots of meat and no sugar, honey, jelly, candy, etc. because I have low sugar from the dumping syndrome.

DEAR READER — Individuals who have had surgery, particularly of the stomach such as you've had, tend to empty the stomach rapidly after eating. The food you eat is "dumped" from the stomach into the small intestine.

Ordinarily the stomach retains the food you eat for some time to churn it and start the initial phase of digestion. The food is liquefied and released in small amounts into the small intestine. This way the small intestine is never overloaded with food.

When dumping occurs, the excess amount of food dumped into the small intestine causes a lot of water and salts to be pulled into the small intestine from your circulation. This may cause the person to have a tendency to faint.

Also the rapid absorption of too much sugar and sweets causes a rapid rise in blood sugar with an immediate fall. When the blood sugar falls too low, the individual may feel faint from that cause also. Such an individual may break out in a sweat, feel anxious and have other symptoms of low blood sugar.

Most individuals who have had such surgery recover from this reaction, although it does persist to some degree in some patients. The best management is to treat yourself with the kind of diet that you mentioned.

You should eat small meals frequently, being careful not to overload the stomach. Such a person should avoid all of the sweets, particularly the concentrated ones, and the starches as found in bread. The diet should include lots of protein as found in meat.

And it is one condition where including some fat in the meal is probably helpful. This helps to delay the emptying of the stomach. To give you a better idea of what happens with low blood sugar I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar: Hypoglycemia. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There are some individuals who have not had any surgery who have low blood sugar on a similar basis. They tend to be the ones who drink coffee and sweet liquids in the morning and a starchy breakfast. The stomach dumps these into the small intestine and there is a reactive low blood sugar response.

These individuals, too, usually do better by eliminating sweets, particularly the sweet liquids and the starches and trying to regulate their eating. There should be a greater emphasis on the use of bulky foods such as leafy vegetables and fruits like raw apples that contain lots of fiber, thereby making them slowly absorbed.

DEAR POLLY — I had the same problem as Mrs. L.J.M. who cannot get her pillowcases to come really clean. I discovered that washing them in hot sudsy water with bleach and then hanging them out in the sun all day, if possible, is the best solution. I receive many compliments on my white wash. — MRS. Food preparation differs among kitchens

By PIERRE FRANEY
NEW YORK — There is, of course, a good deal of difference between food preparation in a professional kitchen and that in a home. One of the most obvious reasons is the number of hands and the number of hours that can be employed in well-staffed restaurants in the preparation of what are known in French as les fonds de cuisine or the bases for cookery. These would include an assortment, some of which require hours of simmering, the tedious task of putting the sauces through sieves and so on.

There was a time, I think, when professional chefs were reluctant to offer recipes to the public because they knew that with rare exceptions those bases of cookery would not be used in the home kitchen. Many chefs now realize that there are compromises that can be made so that a finished product in the home, while not made according to the "classis" pattern, may yield results that duplicate the professionally prepared dish to an admirable degree by using short cuts.

One of the best sauces in a professional kitchen is that known as a sauce madeire or madeira wine sauce. Traditionally it is made with one of the long-simmered brown sauces. You will find if you prepare the chicken livers in the madeira wine sauce outlined here, that an eminently edible variation of that sauce can be made with mushrooms, a touch of tomato paste, chicken broth and, of course, madeira. For a thickening, however, use arrowroot instead of flour. (and if you don't use arrowroot, use cornstarch). Flour would make the sauce starchy and heavy.

One more word of caution. Although the recipe has numerous steps, the making of the dish is not at all complicated. The total cooking time for the dish is half an hour or less and much of that time is used for simmering the sauce. Plain rice or noodles with one chopped fresh herb or another make an ideal accompaniment. Parsley is indicated here, but chopped fresh dill would also be excellent.

2 pounds very fresh chicken livers
tablespoon flour
salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
½ cup peanut, vegetable or corn oil
2 tablespoons butter
1. Thinly slice the mushrooms. There should be about three cups.
2. Heat the butter in a skillet and add the mushrooms and cook, stirring and shaking the skillet, until wilted. Add salt and pepper to taste. Cook about five minutes. Add the shallots and toss.
3. Add the one-third cup of madeira wine and cook about one minute. Add the broth. Cook about two minutes and add the tomato paste. Simmer about five minutes.
4. Blend the arrowroot with the remaining tablespoon of madeira wine and add it, stirring. Simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Set the sauce aside briefly.

5. Meanwhile, put the livers, one at a time, on a flat surface and trim and cut away every trace of thread-like veins and connecting tissues.
6. Blend the flour with salt and pepper. Coat the chicken livers in the seasoned flour.
7. Heat one-quarter cup oil in a heavy skillet. When it is hot but not smoking, add half the livers. Cook over high heat, shaking the skillet and turning the livers. Cook quickly so that the livers are slightly crisp on the outside. Cook about one and one-half to two minutes in all.
8. Pour the livers and oil in which they cooked into a colander to drain well. Pour the cooked livers into the sauce and stir to coat.
9. To the skillet add the remaining one-quarter cup of oil. Add the remaining livers. Cook as before until crisp outside. Drain and add to the first batch. Stir in the two tablespoons butter. Heat and serve with buttered noodles with herbs or with rice.
Yield: 4 servings.
Noodles With Parsley
½ pound wide or medium noodles
Salt to taste
2 tablespoons butter
Freshly ground pepper to taste
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1. Cook the noodles in boiling salted water to cover.
2. Drain well and return to the kettle. Add the butter, salt and pepper to taste and toss. Add the parsley and serve hot.
Yield: 4 servings.

Compact kitchen saves steps, time

Ask any woman how she likes her kitchen and you'll learn a thing or two. Or 250, depending on how things have gone that day.

When a major portion of the day is spent preparing, dispensing and cleaning up after meals, not surprisingly the convenience and versatility of the kitchen tends to set the tone for the management of the household.

While the old farm kitchen with its crannies for one of everything stirs fond memories, there is a lot to be said for the corridor kitchen appearing in more and more modern homes and apartments.

Its straightforward simplicity complements modern lifestyles — neither steps nor space are wasted, a cheerful footnote to a mother's busy day. The challenge of using space well in a small kitchen seems to inspire innovative storage solutions.

And the scale of the neat little corridor kitchen permits the use of really beautiful materials, a mood-brightener for any cook.

In one such kitchen, a side wall of horizontal 1x4-inch western cedar boards creates a serene atmosphere which reinforced by natural wood cabinets and simply wood-framed plastic laminate counters.

A tall, slim window echoes the proportions of the kitchen, providing maximum light in minimal space.

Open shelves of 1x12-inch western pine boards tucked into wall spaces accommodate diverse storage needs, displaying kitchen paraphernalia within easy reach.

The convenience of open shelving is matched only by its economy. Psychologically, it seems to promote neatness and sparing use (and collection) of utensils, also admirable traits!

Fluorescent tubes above frosted glass set in frames of fir 2x4s provide soft, indirect lighting for the work areas.

Pass-throughs to a hall on one side and the family dining area on the other promote the impression of openness, as does the unbroken horizontal line of the cedar wall.

The no-nonsense layout of this kitchen, warmed and enriched by natural woods, make it an appealing and convenient hub of a busy household.

Many recipes call for sieving cottage cheese. Here's a shortcut for this operation: beat the cottage cheese with the electric mixer at the highest speed for a few minutes.

FOOD

Extra room adds space

Too many cooks may or may not spoil the broth, but in a small kitchen they can make it difficult to get dinner on the table.

Large families often gravitate to older homes with their plentifulness of bedrooms and roomy living and dining areas. But then they find themselves coping with a utilitarian kitchen that originally — and obviously — was meant for cooking only.

Today, no room can afford to be single purpose.

The kitchen, especially, is required to function as the site of meal planning, snacking, telephone and transportation coordinating, family news and visiting, plus entertaining casual guests.

One family, blessed with an otherwise highly satisfactory house, opened a too-small kitchen (where everyone gathered anyway), with the addition of a 13x26-foot "keeping room."

The term is an old one requiring definition, and one definition might be "a room that keeps people happy!" Actually it's a room meant to accommodate the more mundane household activities while the cook keeps an eye on dinner.

YOUR GARDEN

Ways To Deal With Weeds

Weed killers act in various ways. A selective weed killer will affect some kinds of plants but not others. Non-selectives kill all or nearly all plants with which they come in contact.

Pre-emergence chemicals prevent the weed seed from sprouting for four to six weeks and are safe to use around many other plants. Post-emergence weed killers, the most widely used type, may be selective or nonselective. A wide-spectrum weed killer can be used to clear an entire area that has no desirable plants. After the weeds are killed, destroy all dead material, then use a residual control to keep the site free of weeds.

A new authority on garden care, the 672-page Reader's Digest-Illustrated Guide to Gardening, an easy-to-read book available at bookstores, points out that modern weed killers can control most garden weeds but can also harm nearby plants. A few minute's work with a hoe or a rake on a dry day, repeated as often as new weeds appear, is often a safer way of dealing with weeds growing near ornamental plants. Close mowing of grass for two consecutive seasons will usually eliminate most perennial weeds.

By and large, whether you use chemical or cultural methods, where there are weeds, there are usually ways to get rid of them.

Mercy mission

NORTHEAST HARBOR, ME. — Sunbeam, a chunky 65-foot diesel-powered vessel with a large white cross painted on either side of her black steel hull, nosed out of this mountainous anchorage the other Sunday and headed for Maine's offshore islands.

Sunbeam is the instrument through which the Maine Sea Coast Missionary Society carries both the word of God and material help to hardy families living in isolation off this Down East coast.

The mission society — its people call it simply "the mission" — has been at its work since 1905, when legend has it, Angus and Alexander MacDonald, brothers and ministers here on Mount Desert Island, stood atop Cadillac Mountain, which reaches up from this harbor, and concluded that the coastline and the hundreds of islands spread below them constituted a proper parish.

Today the plan conceived by

Marriage seminar slated

A two-day seminar aimed at enrichment of marriages and helping to curtail the growing rate of divorces is being held this weekend at the Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ.

The seminar will begin with registration from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Friday at the church building, according to John Gay, minister.

The Marriage Enrichment Seminar will be presented by Dr. Car Brecheen and Dr. Paul Faulkner of Abilene Christian University.

Brecheen and Faulkner are, and have been for some time, involved in marriage and family counseling.

The motivating force for the seminar, they say, was frustration and a feeling that emphasis should be on marriage and not on divorce.

"The seminar is 12 long, hard hours," Dr. Brecheen said. He explained that the seminar is strictly lecture.

"Although the seminar is being presented at a Church of Christ," Dr. Faulkner said, "it is non-denominational. We do not use a doctrinal approach. We do believe in the Christian ethic, however."

The first session will be from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday and the topic will be "Commitment to God's Design."

Child care will be provided during each session.

The first of three Saturday sessions will be from 9 a.m. until noon. The session topic will be "Commitment to Husband-Wife."

Following a lunch break, the seminar will resume at 1:30 p.m. Saturday for a three-hour session on the subject "Commitment to Communication."

The final session of the seminar will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. Saturday with the topic scheduled to be "Commitment to Oneness."

the MacDonalds is set forth in the bylaws of the nonsectarian organization: "The purpose of this society is to undertake religious and benevolent work with people in the neglected communities and among the isolated families along the coast and on the islands of Maine, and to engage in all efforts that are calculated to contribute to their moral and spiritual welfare."

These efforts include sending Sunbeam forth from Northeast Harbor to minister to the islands of Lous, Monhegan, Matinicus, Islesboro, North Haven, Vinalhaven, Eagle, Isle au Haut, Swans Island, Outer Long Island, Placentia, Great Cranberry and Islesford. The boat is busiest from September to May, and in January and February, when life on the islands is harshest, breaking ice in isolated harbors is an important part of her work.

The society also provides resident ministers to the coastal and island communities of Hancock, Ashville, Cherryfield, Cape Split, Jonesport and Masons Bay, and Atlantic, Swans, Islesboro, North Haven and Vinalhaven Islands.

The mission distributes thousands of gifts at Christmas, provides emergency relief supplies, including money, gives scholarships to youngsters and clothing to the needy and in summer brings in visiting ministers from around the country, including Greater New York.

When Sunbeam set out Sunday, she was bound for the little community of Islesford in the Cranberry Isles, 20 minutes to the southeast, at her customary 10 knots. The day was cloudy and there was a drizzle.

At the wheel of Sunbeam, the sixth boat to be operated by the society since 1905, was her master, Capt. David T. Allen, a 39-year-old boatman and fisherman all his working life. At his side in the wheelhouse was Gordon Robbins, 51, mate and engineer, who joined the crew a year and a half ago when sardine fishing in the area petered out.

Below in the well-equipped galley was Betty Allen, 41, wife of the captain and steward on the boat. She was baking biscuits in an oven fired by diesel oil.

Making the trip to conduct the 10:30 A.M. worship service at the Islesford Congregational Church was the Rev. Raymond D. Hahn, 52, superintendent of the mission society.

Hahn, tall, lean, with a fringe of white hair, is a talkative, outgoing man. He is a native of DuQuoin, Ill., and served pastorates in Illinois, Michigan and New York before he took over the mission's Bar Harbor Headquarters in 1972.

Conducting the Islesford church service on the first and third Sundays of the month is normally the assignment of the Rev. Stanley B. Haskell, a former Portland banker who is Sunbeam's chaplain and the mission's minister at large. But Haskell was away and Hahn was filling in for him.

An investment in Your Future ...ATTEND CHURCH

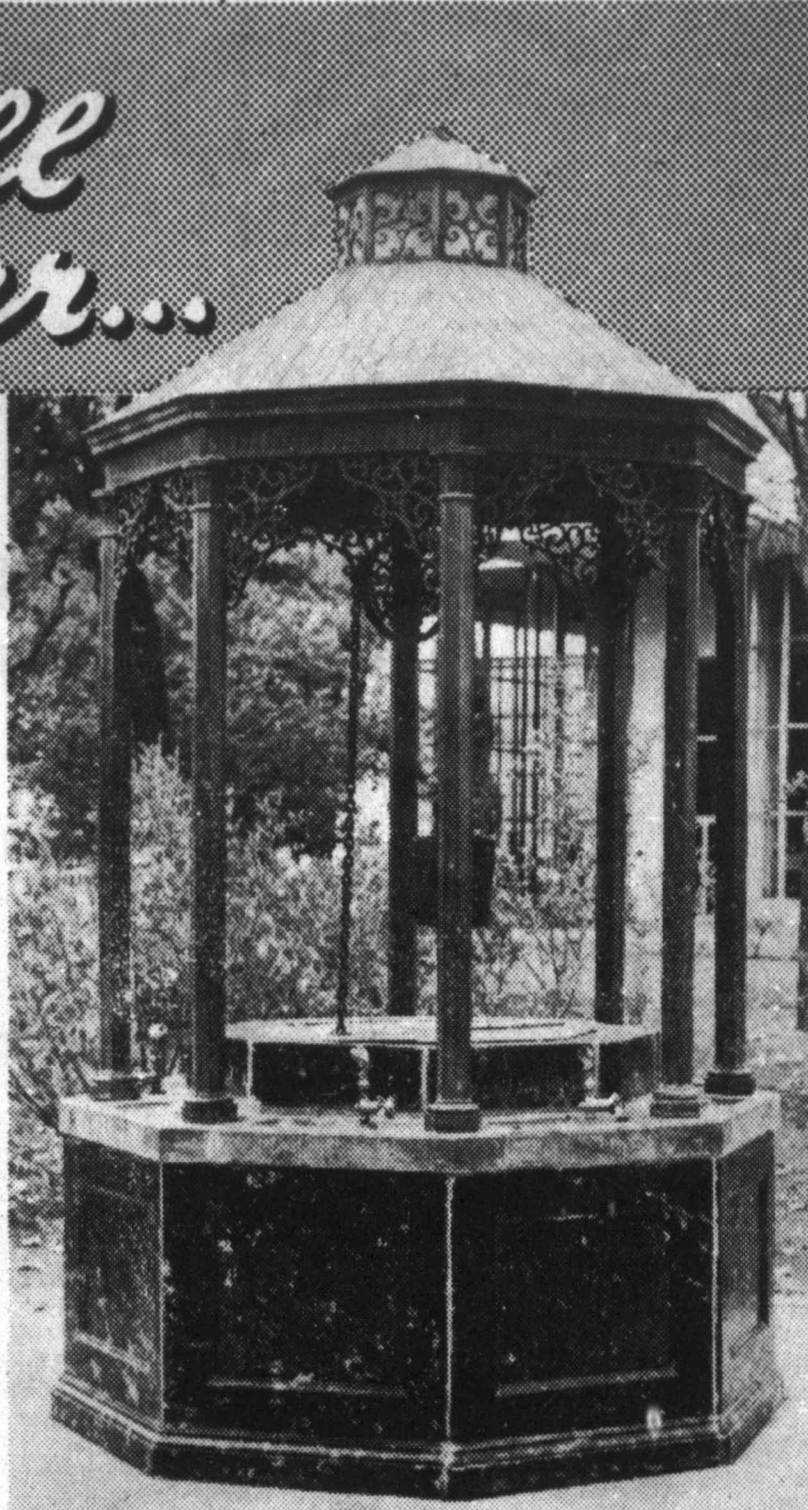

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

A well of water...

Many important events have taken place at the well. In days long ago it was a meeting place, where all came because of the necessity to obtain life-sustaining water.

Jacob met his beloved Rachel at the well. Moses met the daughters of his future father-in-law at the well in Midian. Much later Jesus Christ met a woman of Samaria at the well and said, "Whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst: but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

The church of God today is a meeting place where many come to obtain this life-giving and life-sustaining water of which Jesus spoke.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday
August 26, 1978

Your material prospects look rather encouraging for the coming year. Ironically, though, enterprises you think will yield large returns may not finish as strong as the ones you thought would be smaller.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Play your hunches and follow your intuitive leads in financial or career matters today. These ingredients, plus your common sense, will put you in the profit column. Like to find out more about yourself? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P. O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A pal may have some inside information you're seeking today, but you can't depend upon him to call you. Get out and circulate or phone friends who could be helpful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Rather than try to follow the methods of others today, function in the manner that comes instinctively. Victory comes through use of your natural attributes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Persons you'll be dealing with today have long memories. The cooperation and sharing you shower on them will not soon be forgotten.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Multiple responsibilities are not likely to frighten you today. You can handle several important projects simultaneously and still do a good job.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Learning can be a fun experience today if you approach it in that frame of mind. The knowledge you acquire you'll retain and later put to good use.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In situations that matter to you personally, you'll only put out nominal effort today. In things you can do where loved ones benefit, your exertions will be far more vigorous.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your greatest asset today is your ability to get along with people from all walks of life. Your pleasant demeanor is the key to open doors.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your normal channels of revenue could yield a larger return than usual today. Be alert for ways to get a bonus, or even a raise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Projects calling for imagination or boldness will be the ones where you are likely to shine today. Be assertive without being erratic.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Situations where you can derive some type of commission, even though it is a small one, should be the areas where you concentrate your efforts today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Social encounters will be extremely beneficial today. You will learn as much from them as they will from you. Each will be buoyed up by the experience.

New information prompts search

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Armed with new information from Arizona investigators, Sheriff Jerry Wright of Del Norte, Colo., says he will continue to search for an Amarillo, Texas, couple who may have fallen victim to the Tison gang.

"We have received some new information that I feel will be helpful to us," the Rio Grande County sheriff said at a Wednesday news conference.

Cocino County Sheriff's Lt. Tom Brawley, head of a state, federal and local investigating team, said none of the new information came from interviews with surviving members of the gang, however.

"It's a matter of them not talking," said Brawley. "They have been assigned attorneys and they have been advised not to say anything."

The search for James and Margene Judge of Amarillo began Aug. 11 when their van crashed through a roadblock south of Casa Grande, Ariz. Donald Tison, 20, was killed in a gunbattle, and his brothers, Raymond, 19, and Rick, 18, were captured along with Randy Greenawalt, 29, of Thornton, Colo. The elder Tison fled but his body was found Tuesday, less than a mile from the road-block site.

Greenawalt and Gary Tison, 42, both convicted killers, escaped from the state prison in Florence on July 30, when Tison's sons allegedly smuggled in sawed-off shotguns.

Married Aug. 5, the Judge couple was honeymooning near South Fork, Colo., when Mrs. Judge telephoned her mother, Mrs. F.H. Davis of Amarillo, on Aug. 8. She had planned to call again on Aug. 10 but the second call was not made.

A pair of coveralls found in a pickup abandoned by the gang in Cortez, Colo., was stolen from a piece of road equipment near South Fork on Aug. 7, and a clerk in a South Fork store identified photographs of two gang members, saying they were in town Aug. 7 or Aug. 8, Wright said.

However, the sheriff said, "I have no idea, no proof of the exact spot ... where the Tison group got possession of the van. I have no proof that the whole gang was there."

Asked if the couple was dead, Wright said, "There's very little doubt in my mind at this point."

He said, "frustrating would be an understatement" in characterizing the search, which involves 15 officers following up telephone calls from visitors to the South Fork area at about the time the Judge couple disappeared.

"The people call and say they feel they saw the couple or the van in a certain area. That is about all we can go on," said Wright. "We have absolutely no first-hand information."

Resolution of murder and escape charges against surviving gang members also remains. They are charged in Yuma, Ariz. with murder and kidnaping in the shotgun slayings of Marine Sgt. John F. Lyons, 24, of Omaha, Neb., his wife, Donelda, 24, their son, Christopher, 22 months, and niece, Teresa Tyson, 15, of Las Vegas, Nev.

A funeral was scheduled for Gary Tison today in Casa Grande, home of the Tison family.

Publisher says Carter's a liar

By Tom Tiede

ATLANTA (NEA) — Gene Christie admits that if he were prudent he would keep secret his opinions regarding Jimmy Carter. After all, Christie is music director at local radio WSB, a station which not only supports the president editorially but is owned by long-time Carter friend and contributor Anne Cox Chambers.

Yet the job he hangs. Christie says that exposing Carter as a "liar and hypocrite" is more important than employment security. Hence this month he will go to press with the 11th issue of The Carter Watch, a feisty six-page newsletter singularly devoted to picking apart the present White House occupant.

As was the case with the previous 10, the 11th issue of

The Carter Watch will contain no particular revelations. Publisher Christie does not pretend to print scoops. What he does do, he says, is publish the only existing journal of "what is really going on" at various levels of the U.S. administration.

And what is going on? Nothing good, says Christie. For example, in one newsletter he printed the well-known Carter pledge to balance the budget by 1981. Near this item was an opinion by the president's budget manager, James McIntyre, that a reduction of the federal deficit will be unlikely for several years.

That about says it all for The Carter Watch view of the current chief executive. Christie believes the president "says what people want to hear, and to hell with whether it's true or not." Lying "comes easy" for Carter, Christie adds: "That's why I started my newsletter, so that he wouldn't get away with it."

So it is that the publication is studded with what are believed to be presidential fabrications and misrepresentations. The Watch says Carter has lied about everything from the Panama Canal to capital punishment; on the latter, Christie says he once said he favored it, and a year later he said he didn't.

Then there was the Watch item concerning the flying saucer Carter is supposed to have seen in Leary, Ga., in 1969. Carter originally said he had seen the object with 10 Leary residents, and later said he had seen it with 10-20 townspeople. However, no one in that community remembers the UFO incident at all.

And currently, says Christie, Carter is lying when he says he has not given any thought about running for a second term. If that were true, Christie asks, why has the president hired an Atlanta advertising executive, at $56,000 a year, to refurbish his image with an increasingly disappointed electorate?

Taken alone, none of the executive's suspected fables is grounds for indictment. But viewed together, Christie insists the "lies" constitute a pattern that is part of Jimmy Carter's character. "The lies are not a recent thing," Christie says, "Carter has been telling tales now for a good number of years."

The first tale Christie heard Carter tell was to a University of Georgia audience in 1970. Carter was running for governor, and Christie says he told the students he would not reappoint a segregationist named Roy Harris as a school regent. Then, says Christie, "He told Roy Harr' that he really didn't mean it."

Ivan VI. Czar of Russia who ruled only as a baby, was murdered in 1764.

Chairman applies for permit

By MILLER BONNER Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)

Texas Deepwater Port Authority Chairman Bob Casey officially applied with the Department of Transportation Thursday for a permit to construct an offshore oil terminal, predicting governmental approval within seven months and completion of the $1.1 billion project in 1982.

The proposed deepwater port will be capable of handling 2.5 million barrels of oil per day and will be built 26 miles off the coast from Freeport.

The project will be funded by revenue bonds that will not involve any pledge or commitment of the State of Texas' credit.

Casey carefully explained that the project's financing would in no way impose any hardship on the state's taxpayers.

The Deepwater Port Authority's application presented to DOT officials is an amended version. The original application was filed by Seadock, Inc., a consortium of major oil companies that dropped the project in the face of pending antitrust litigation.

"By amending the Seadock application, we have saved a lot of time and money," Casey said. "For example, the environmental impact statement only has to be updated and the firm which did the original statement is still under contract."

Casey and other members of the authority are scheduled to appear this afternoon before the Senate Finance Committee to voice their backing for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's bill concerning restricting governmental regulation as applied to the sale of bonds.
