

Death toll continues to mount from earth quake

By RICHARD TOMRINS
Associated Press Writer
TABAS, Iran (AP) — The casualty toll from the giant earthquake that hit Iran three nights ago is expected to reach 16,000 dead and injured, the Red Cross said today.

Officials put the quake's epicenter at the village of Korit, 15 miles from Tabas, and said 3,500 of its 4,000 inhabitants were either dead or injured.

In Tehran, a C-130 transport landing to pick up earthquake relief supplies crashed, killing four of its occupants and seriously injuring four others, authorities said.

Water tank trucks moved through the hardest hit villages near Tabas to alleviate an acute water shortage. The main water lines in the area were either completely demolished or badly damaged.

About 5,000 earthquake dead in Tabas have been buried, some in mass graves, and a relief official said. "We've stopped counting the dead. We find it easier to count the living."

The cloth-wrapped bodies stretched out in rows amid the ruins of ancient Tabas, where two-thirds of its 13,000 residents were killed or injured.

The bodies, some frozen in grotesque postures of sudden death, were lined up under palm trees, wrapped in white sheets or colorful handwoven cloth, while the gravediggers worked, unable to keep ahead of the steady stream of dead.

A Moslem clergyman prayed over the wrapped corpses.

Friends and relatives identified the dead as workers pulled the bodies from the rubble. The living slapped and struck themselves in the ritual of grief. "Where is the army? Why doesn't someone help me?" an old man said as he wandered through the ruins in the city square searching for bodies of his family. Only one of the 10 had been found, he said.

Some 10,000 of Tabas' 13,000 population were estimated killed by the quake. Thousands more were believed buried in surrounding villages, and rescue workers feared the toll would pass 15,000. The quake, the world's strongest so far this year, hit Saturday evening, crumbling minarets, mosques and mudbrick houses in this oasis city 400 miles southeast of Tehran. Tabas looked like a flattened sand castle.

It demolished 40 villages in northeast Iran, badly damaged 60 others and shook two-thirds of the rest of the country as well, including the capital. Aftershocks continue, fueling the fears of the survivors.

"I was sitting in front of my house by the pond," said a man named Hassan. "It was dark. Then all of a sudden I fell to the ground and there was a great roar and screams."

Hassan's family escaped injury, too, and they sat on the sidewalk, eating watermelon and waiting for the army to help them recover their valuables from the pile of mud and brick they once called home.

The Iranian army sent 700 soldiers, four medical teams and numerous rescue workers to help in relief operations. They set up tents for about 1,000 survivors along Tabas' dirt airstrip.

Air force C-130 Hercules transports were bringing in blankets, food, water and medical supplies.

Somoza's troops mass for assault on rebel base

By ISAAC A. LEVI
Associated Press Writer
MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza's troops are massing for an assault on the last major rebel stronghold, the northwest town of Esteli.

Observers said the national guard, Somoza's army, flew combat-toughened troops to Somoza, 40 miles north of Esteli, in a flanking movement Monday.

Informed sources said the guard probably would push into Esteli from the south and north while bottling the city up with ambushes on three rural roads that wind up into the surrounding hills. This could prevent the rebels escaping as they did when the guard recaptured Masaya in the south and Leon and Chinandega in the northwest.

The Sandinistas and the men in Esteli who have joined their fight appear better armed and organized than those in any of the other cities, however, and observers believe the battle could be far bloodier than the previous assaults.

Barricades of paving stones and sandbags chest high and four feet thick stretch across many streets. One major road into the city is blocked by no fewer than 10 massive barricades, one after the other.

In addition, the rebels have cut trenches across some streets and set up sandbagged sniper posts on rooftops.

Their weapons are mostly pistols, shotguns and hunting rifles, but they also include a few automatic weapons.

Guard helicopters and airplanes have been strafing Esteli, a city of 30,000 on the Pan-

American Highway, since late last week. Reporters who tried to enter the city were stopped at least three times by guardsmen firing automatic weapons.

Southern Nicaragua is in government hands and Managua remains under heavy guard with Somoza's troops searching all vehicles entering and leaving the city and patrolling in force.

A curfew from 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. has been imposed, and streets are only lightly traveled during the day due to the continuing business strike called in an attempt to oust Somoza.

The Honduran government said 83 Nicaraguan guerrillas had given themselves up to Honduran soldiers after being chased across the border Monday. A press spokesman said the guerrillas were being treated as political exiles.

The guerrillas are members of the Sandinista National Liberation Front, which took 1,500 hostages in Managua's National Palace Aug. 22 and forced Somoza to ransom them for 59 political prisoners, $500,000 and safe passage to Panama.

Mid-East leaders try to sell accord

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The leaders of Egypt and Israel, about to embark on the delicate job of selling the Camp David accords to their own peoples, first face a round of questioning on Capitol Hill.

Uppermost in the minds of members of Congress as they prepared to meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin were the critical tests facing the agreements reached by the two longtime adversaries.

Both men scheduled appearances today before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House International Affairs Committee.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, meanwhile, was preparing to leave on a hastily arranged trip in hopes of winning backing for the agreements from Jordan's King Hussein and Saudi Arabia's King Khalid.

Vance's goal, President Carter told a nationally televised joint session of Congress Monday night, is "to secure their support for the realization of the new hopes and dreams of the people of the Middle East."

The support of both nations is considered vital to the outcome of the "framework for peace" which Sadat, Begin and Carter signed at the end of their 13-day summit.

And Carter, in an extraordinary appeal to the Israeli parliament, asked it to approve the removal of settlements from Egyptian territory as a condition for peace.

"It is my strong hope," he said, "that the question of Israeli settlements on Egyptian territory will not be the final obstacle to peace." The Knesset is scheduled to vote within two weeks on the settlements.

Although heated debate is expected on the issue, most Israeli leaders' initial reaction showed support for withdrawal of the Sinai settlements.

Begin appears to have an easier domestic task ahead of him than Sadat, who faces trouble selling the agreements to his own government. Indeed, Sadat's foreign minister and close friend, Ibrahim Kamel, resigned, reportedly because of a difference with Sadat over the accords.

Few observers of Congress could remember a joint session comparable to this one.

Members stood, applauded, whistled and shouted. "Bravo!" as Sadat and Begin entered the VIP gallery with first lady Rosalynn Carter.

GSA scandals may be just starting

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — General Services Administrator Jay Solomon said today that scandals so far exposed in his agency "may represent only the tip of a gigantic iceberg," but he outlined 19 administrative changes he has made to clean it up.

"The fraud, the corruption, the thievery, the mismanagement and downright abuse of the public trust that have been exposed to this date are only the beginning," Solomon told a hearing of the Senate subcommittee on federal spending practices and open government.

"GSA is today sitting in exile like a wounded animal," he said. "It is surrounded by the vigilant media, the disgruntled, the corrupters and by turf-conscious bureaucrats from other agencies... (who) would like to put an end to the cost-effective concept of centralized administrative services envisioned by the Hoover Commission in creating GSA."

Solomon said he might be criticized for "being too tolerant during my early days," but that during the past 88 days he had implemented 19 major changes intended to correct the agency's problems.

Among these were establishment of a central procurement office for GSA, reinstatement of so-called whistleblowers who had been penalized for criticizing GSA, establishment of a central budget office, a central office to dispose of surplus stockpile property, a limitation on spending authority of low-level officials, and a series of changes designed to ensure sharper policing of work done for the government under contract.

A new "office of acquisition policy" to be operating by Oct. 1 and reporting directly to him will standardize and police the billion-dollar-a-year purchases of the GSA, which Solomon said now "are decentralized among the services in the central office in Washington and in the 10 regions."

Vincent Alto, the special counsel hired by Solomon to head the internal investigation of the federal government's landlord and storekeeper agency, said Monday that no GSA administrator since the first one, Jess Larson in the Truman administration, has really been able to run the agency.

"Lack of a central procurement office is a major reason for that and for the scandals, which really go back almost 20 years," Alto said.

Ali still likes crown

CHICAGO (AP) — Muhammad Ali apparently still likes the way the heavyweight crown fits.

Before regaining the title from Leon Spinks for an unprecedented third time last Friday night, Ali said he would retire the heavyweight boxing championship if he won.

But in a statement released Monday by his attorney, Charles Lomax, Ali said he has no intention of retiring without another title defense.

Robozo suit dismissed

MIAMI (AP) — A $10 million libel suit filed by former President Richard Nixon's friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo against the Washington Post has been dismissed by a federal judge.

Since Rebozo was a public figure, Aronovitz said, rules set down by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1974 and 1964 prevent his winning a libel judgment against the newspaper.

Rose Bowl tour plans discussed

A representative of the firm handling travel arrangements for the Pride of Pampa High School Band's trip to the Tournament of Roses Parade explained the band's itinerary at a Band Boosters meeting Monday night.

Wayne Panoke of Travel Advisors said the band and its boosters will be staying at the Inn At The Park hotel, two blocks away from Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif., during the Dec. 28-Jan. 2 trip.

The bus carrying the band will leave Pampa at 3 p.m. Dec. 27 and arrive in Anaheim at 1 or 2 p.m. (California time) Dec. 28. Panoke said. A plane with 127 seats reserved for boosters will depart from Amarillo at 10 a.m. Dec. 28 and arrive in Los Angeles at approximately 11:00 a.m., he said.

If all seats on the plane are filled, a second flight with 38 seats available will depart at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 28 and arrive in Los Angeles at 2:35 p.m. The planes and bus will depart from California the morning of Jan. 2. Panoke said. Another plane will probably return to Amarillo the night of Jan. 1, he said, for those persons who have to be at work or in class the morning of Jan. 2.

The total adult cost of the package trip is $450. That includes all meals except three, seats at the Tournament of Roses Parade, and tours of Disneyland, Universal Studios and Knott's Berry Farm. Tickets to the Rose Bowl football game will be available at extra cost to those who order them early, Panoke said.

Nov. 28 is the deadline to sign up for the trip. Money will be collected beginning tonight at 7 at the Band Hall.

Air fare will be refundable until 24 hours prior to travel, Panoke said. Everything else will be non-refundable after 30 days before the trip, he said.

The temperature in California during the parade is normally 55-60, Panoke said. He suggested packing a raincoat and a sweater for the trip.

School board gets surprise

By KATHY BURR
(Pampa News Staff)

A pleasant surprise came to the school board at Monday night's meeting when Howard O'Neal, controller of the Celanese Plant presented the board with a School tax assessment check for $450,013.63.

O'Neal said Celanese supports education and this is one way of showing it. He added he realized the importance of the funds, and that Celanese was happy to make them available at that time.

During an executive session, the board recognized the recent hazing activities that took place at the school park.

Bob Phillips, superintendent of schools, said, "We want the public to realize the school district sponsored only the dance at M.K. Brown Auditorium."

He explained there was some confusion and some people were under the impression the school was sponsoring the activities at the park.

He emphasized that was not true.

The board also granted a medical leave of absence to Frances Duncan and employed Virginia Gross and Anne Tafur during last night executive session.

A representative of the Prudential Life Insurance Company was also on hand at the meeting.

"We are currently viating for the school systems in the state of Texas, as far as insurance coverage is concerned."

He then went on to explain the policy to them.

No action was taken on this matter.

The board is also reviewing the schools insurance coverage policy. It was reported that some campus may be over-insured presently. The figures and policy will be reviewed at a later date.

The board will also advertise for bids to remove the wooden structures at Mann and Houston schools.

Both structures were closed earlier because of poor conditions.

DR. HATEM HUSSEINI, left, Palestinian Liberation Organization spokesman and Karim Khalaf, mayor of Ramalla on West Bank of Jordan River, hold press conference in Chicago on Monday. The conference was called to respond to the Camp David summit agreement between Egypt and Israel. Khalaf called the agreement a "sellout of the Palestinian cause" by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The cult of status

There was a time when the lowly waste basket was used as a status symbol for public office holders. There were the ordinary metal ones for the main body of workers. Then there were more expensive wooden types including many varieties of decorative enhancement.

It was not long until other furnishings in graduated scales of grandeur took their place in the status area to designate proper sequence in the pecking order.

As total furnishings became the order of the day, bulging took place and larger rooms were soon to follow. Suites followed office rooms and kitchens added to the luxury of private restrooms.

Keeping up with the Joneses moved out of the private neighborhood and into the government agency area with a vengeance. Neighbors trying to outdo neighbors didn't have a chance to compete with the public sector, for Jones had only his own money to use to stay ahead of his neighbor.

In government, the manifestation of status was limited only by the imagination of the persons seeking to impress an image of importance on underlings and peers. The taxpayers' pockets are easily picked so money has been of little concern.

A new palace is under construction for senators in Washington. If completed as envisioned, it will be the most expensive federal building in history. But this Taj Mahal dream in D.C. is under fire and the Senate may have to lower its sights, if not its ceilings.

Sixteen-foot ceilings is a bit much even for a barn. Although there may be those who might consider the occupants to be equines of the long-eared variety, it does seem that such wasted space is going too far.

It is possible that some senators have the feeling that they stand ten-foot high. But why the extra six feet? Like palaces of old, heating the edifice could pose problems and much waste.

A gymnasium, indoor tennis court, rooftop restaurants and a marble lined lobby are among some of the items expected to lend opulence to the senatorial monument.

Right now the lowly House has committed a dastardly deed as it refused 245 to 133 to approve funds requested to continue the erection of the building.

Now that House members have gone on the record for the edification of their constituents, we can expect some sort of an accommodation will be effected so that the upper chamber members will not be deprived.

The senate did put a limit of $135 million on the construction for now. However, senators could change their minds again and lift the limit. If they got to the $135 million limit and there was no roof or other essentials, no one could expect them to leave it unfinished or tackily furnished.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said, "I can't imagine a more galling symbol of congressional arrogance." He had earlier given the project his Golden Fleece award for wasteful spending. Proxmire is a known gadfly with no great concern for the comfort of his fellow senators. Like some of us, he tries to swim against the tide of spending elegance.

It is our projection that in spite of all critical comment the senators will get their marble mausoleum and the taxpayers will take one more load on their shoulders.

Nation's Press

Business in South Africa

(Wall Street Journal)

A chronic headache for many American multinational corporations is the continuing dispute over their operations in South Africa. Most U.S. firms entered that market when the country was in the British Commonwealth and was considered rather like Canada or Australia. But South Africa has become an international pariah during the last generation, and U.S. investors are being tarred with the racist brush.

The U.S. firms have been aggressive in their own defense, maintaining that their South African operations are good for the local blacks. A hundred American companies have adopted the "Six Principles" of the Reverend (and GM director) Leon Sullivan against segregation in hiring, training, promotion and plant amenities. The U.S. firms cite statements by black leaders endorsing their continued presence, if only for the 90,000 jobs they provide blacks.

Still, as evidenced by a vigorous propaganda effort by the South African government, U.S. investment is beneficial to the regime, so, if you consider the existing system unjust, the American firms are in some meaningful sense party to the repression of black South Africans.

Many major U.S. institutions own stock in U.S. corporations active in South Africa. At some universities student groups are urging the trustees or regents to vote endowment shares for stockholder resolutions requiring management to modify racial practices in South Africa or pull out, or else sell the shares. Most universities have resisted, except Wisconsin, which has sold the offending securities, and lost $500,000.

The core of this agitation seems to be the Investor Research Responsibility Center, apparently a promotion of the Ford Foundation. The composition of the student groups is shadowy — in Wisconsin, they were led by the Maoist Progressive Labor Party and the "Revolutionary Student Brigade." But whatever the motives, the principle strikes as a logically valid — if one holds that investments should be made on moral grounds and believes the South African system is immoral, then profiting from it is unconscionable and a selloff is imperative.

However, the other major agitator takes another line, the Interfaith Center on Corporate Responsibility of the National Council of Churches advises Christian groups who will not sell shares to use them to pressure companies to withdraw from South Africa, not for moral but for political reasons — to help bring down the regime.

The international concerns of both organizations have concentrated on South Africa. Both have also been interested in the "collusion" of U.S. firms with the governments of Chile, Santo Domingo, Uruguay, South Korea, Uganda and the Philippines. Clearly, issues of international corporate social responsibility do not arise in dealings with countries such as Algeria, Angola, Mainland China or the Soviet Union.

But what is business to do? It seems to us that the policy of American businesses make little difference to South Africa one way or another. The book value of U.S. investments is $1.5 billion, 16 percent of foreign investments and 4 percent of total investment. If the Americans pull out, European and Oriental competitors are eager to fill the gap. On the other side, the dominant Afrikaaners believe that their prosperity and survival rely upon the continuation of white supremacy. U.S. business policy or the threat of pullout are most unlikely to change that.

Most U.S. businesses in South Africa are expounding the sensible view we provide goods and services to our customers and profits to our investors; we obey the local laws and try not to do anything beastly, and politics is the politicians' business.

Zealots fumble tax reform

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS
AUGUSTA, Maine (NEA) — What if they held a tax revolution and nobody came? That's approximately what occurred here recently after Gov. James B. Longley, an independent, called Maine's state legislature into special session to deal with the "tax rebellion" supposedly sweeping the country.

Three legislative committees convened a week ahead of the full session to receive testimony at public hearings. Having heard and read the apocalyptic warnings about a massive grass-roots uprising over government spending, they reserved the largest hall they could find to accommodate the outraged public.

The unusual session was held in the vast arena of the Augusta Civic Center, capable of seating more than 8,000 people. But only about 250 showed up — and many of them were fellow legislators, state government officials, lobbyists and reporters. That poor turnout shouldn't be attributed entirely to a lack of citizen interest in the issue, because the meeting was held on a mid-week workday.

The legislators remained anxious to produce some panacea before election day, but they decided against holding public hearings in Portland, Lewiston-Auburn, Bangor and other population centers in the state.

The recent events here are unfortunately typical of the haste, confusion and demagogery in evidence throughout the country as self-proclaimed citizen groups and terrified politicians mindlessly leap aboard the "tax reform" bandwagon without its route, destination or fare.

In Idaho, for example, overzealous tax rebels have placed on the November ballot a duplicate of California's famous "Proposition 13" — including totally inapplicable references to California law.

In Texas, a legislative committee plowed through 45 separate proposals to amend the state constitution, some unworkable and others bizarre, before a special legislative session could fashion its version of tax reform.

In several other states, citizen groups are circulating petitions that are legally worthless because the state constitution contains no provision for placing initiatives on the ballot.

Here in Maine, the state legislature earlier this year approved a $19.8 million tax reduction package of personal income and sales tax reductions. Because local politicians are practitioners of Yankee frugality, state government can hardly be accused of wasteful or wanton spending. And real estate taxes are uncomfortable but not outrageous.

But only a few months after the California tax reform vote, the Maine Tax Limitation Committee, an organization claiming broad public support, surfaced with a demand for a constitutional amendment to limit state and local government spending.

Longley endorsed that approach, then proposed resolving the controversial issue during a one-day special session — an invitation to hasty, sloppy lawmaking.

Although more than two dozen alternative schemes promptly surfaced, only five survived by the time the legislative committees retreated from their stand in the vast arena to a more modest and suitable hearing room in the state capitol.

Faced with disparate plans for homestead exemptions of different sizes, reductions of various taxes and limits on government spending, the legislators were forced to grope and fumble for a solution.

Uncertain about even what basic approach to embrace, they and their colleagues in other states might have fared better if they followed the lead of Kansas, where Gov. Robert F. Bennett, a Republican, has emerged as a rare example of moderation.

Warning against "demagogues" seeking to take advantage of the furor over taxes, Bennett's measured response was to appoint a special citizens' committee to study tax reform, then to offer some presumably rational proposals to the legislature.

Americans drinking less

You've thought so. During business luncheons and social events you have seen more people drinking less.

Because so many restaurant diners have been passing up booze, restaurateurs have sought to add a twist to the soda water and price it like a cocktail — or they have sought to popularize Perrier water, an imported nonalcoholic drink.

You have thought that even one-listed drinking was phasing out: now the numbers are coming in.

Sales of blended whiskey in the United States, despite increased advertising budgets, have declined 30 percent. Sales of bourbon have declined 16 percent.

The president of Hiram Walker, Roy Stevens, says, "Moderation is the now way of life."

The industry is fighting back. Fortune magazine reports that more liquor industry advertising will be geared to women. Drinking by school-agers is leveling off partly because several states — responding to increased highway deaths — are changing the legal drinking age from 18 back to 19, 20, and 21.

In the past, it has been ascertained that teens are more likely to drink if their parents do. And "social pressures" have tended to encourage drinking.

A Rutgers University study reveals that students who do not drink are often chastised or rejected by their peers.

But among adults this is less true than heretofore.

Beer and wine continue to sell well — possibly reflecting this tendency toward moderation — but also because beer and wine are still advertised on television and radio. Wine sales have doubled in the last 10 years.

Conversely, recent "news" has measurably reduced liquor sales. Since the dramatic confession of Betty Ford that she had become addicted, abstinence has become fashionable.

The National Restaurant Assn. estimates that nationwide Americans order alcoholic drinks on only 10 percent of all occasions.

Bartenders at Chicago restaurants report that even those who do order drinks are ordering lighter and lighter cocktails.

And more than ever before are ordering nonalcoholic "mocktails."

Ironically, President Carter recently alluded to the "three martini luncheon" a full decade after that amount of imbibing had gone out of style.

There was a truth in the jest going around a few years ago about the sales manager who called his staff together to announce, "If you have to drink at lunch I want you to drink GIN — not vodka — understand?"

He said, "I want it on your breath when you make your next sales call. I want our customers to know that you're 'drunk,' not 'stupid!'"

One Chicago bartender confides that he has worked weddings, bar mitzvahs, other big parties — where everyone thinks everyone else is drinking — and almost nobody is.

How to find real bargains in upholstered furniture

Sylvia Porter

These are good "bargain" weeks in which to buy furniture, for the spiraling costs of lumber alone telegraph a period ahead during which prices of furniture can't go anywhere else except up.

If you are buying upholstered furniture, however, you are entering a marketplace "jungle," for the simple reason that you can't see what's inside. A lovely fabric may be hiding a multitude of sins.

But, says Harley F. Shuford Jr., president of Century Furniture in Hickory, N.C., while it is tough to assess the quality of an upholstered piece at a glance, you can make a number of tests to avoid commonplace errors. Specifically:

CHECK THE CONSTRUCTION:

The framework. It must be designed to withstand stress and strain over a long period. Corner blocks should be screwed and glued, not merely stapled in place. The frame should be smoothly finished.

Legs. If they are simply screwed into the frame or attached by metal plates, look for something better. "Engineered frames" — meaning the leg is an extension of the frame — are highly desirable on chairs. If separated from the frame, the two pieces should be joined securely.

Springs. For durability and strength, springs should be placed close together. Better quality furniture may have 12 coils per seat and no less than eight. In best quality furniture, springs are placed on jute or steel webbing and tied eight times with flax twine. The webbing itself should be woven or interlaced so all bands are close together. A layer of burlap or woven polypropylene should be placed over the springs to separate them from the padding.

Padding and filling. The piece must have an ample amount of filling — various combinations of urethane foam, polyester fiber and cotton — to retain its shape for a long time.

TEST THE CONSTRUCTION:

Sit on the chair or couch and bounce. There should be no squeaky sounds, no "give" to the frame.

Sink back into the chair and note whether you can feel the frame. If you can, there is not enough padding in the chair.

Peel the padding on the top of the arms and front edge of the deck. If you feel the frame, it's not quality merchandise. Pinch your hand on the seat deck. If you can feel the springs, there's not enough padding. Check the outside panels of the chair and couch. Quality furniture will have soft padding here.

As you sit in a chair or on a couch, you should sink gradually, not suddenly. A high-quality cushion should depress and recover reasonably slowly, not depress easily and pop back quickly.

Check the scaling to make sure the chair or couch is the right height and depth, so your body and feet rest comfortably.

SELECT THE FABRIC:

In choosing fabric ask yourself, "How will it wear?" Delicate silk is most costly and least durable while a sturdy blend of cotton and rayon may be lowest in price and of greatest durability.

Scratch the fabric with your nails to see if there are threads that stretch or pull easily. Check the tag for fiber content, as each fabric has characteristics that help determine wear.

If you want two pieces of upholstered furniture to be exactly the same color, order them at the same time. When purchasing fabric for upholstery, be sure to enquire about treatments which enhance the fabric's resistance to soil.

SCRUTINIZE THE TAILORING:

The grain of the fabric should run straight with the up- and down line of the chair, the design should match where two fabric pieces come together.

Look at the welting (cords outside the cushions). This should be made from a solid piece of material with few seams. Bu' ons should line up evenly and correctly. Seams should be even and straight. If the piece has a skirt, the skirt should hang straight and be lined or even interlined to maintain its shape.

If the cushion has zippers, they should be properly concealed. And all fabric should be uniformly smooth.

IN CONCLUSION: Sales, inventory and clearance times are when you should buy furniture to save money. During inventory and clearance times, you can get 40 to 50 per cent off on upholstery (although selections are limited) and during sales in late summer (now), late winter and early spring, you can save 10 to 20 percent.

State blind commission accounting disaster

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Auditor George McNeil says the $8 million-a-year State Commission for the Blind was a disaster in 1975 and 1976 from an accounting standpoint.

McNeil's audit report said the commission's books were so full of errors and improper accounting practices that he could not vouch for them.

He said the same basic problems had been pointed out in the commission's previous audit.

He said the commission had hired a new accountant in September 1977 and began attempts to implement and adhere to accounting policies and procedures which are generally acceptable for governmental units. He anticipates that subsequent examinations will disclose considerable success met by these endeavors.

The agency's chief source of funds — $12.4 million over the two-year period — is federal grant money.

McNeil said the best he could tell was that during the two-year period, the commission had spent $73.725 over its income.

Among his criticisms were:
—Individual funds were internally out of balance.
—A high rate of accounting errors.
—Reconciliations of cash and appropriation balances were not done on time. When attempted later, the result was numerous differences between the commission's recorded transactions and those reported to the state comptroller.

—We were unable to satisfy ourselves that all differences were satisfactorily resolved," McNeil said.

—Inadequate or missing documentation to back up the commission's financial transactions.
—The accounting practices of the commission during the audit period contained variances from generally accepted accounting principles," the auditor said. "In light of the problems observed in the accounting records, and the underlying weaknesses in internal control, it was not feasible to present reliable financial statements on commission funds held in the State Treasury based on the commission's own financial records."

All-black schools better for pupils

DALLAS (AP) — Despite figures which show some black pupils learn more in all-black schools in Dallas, Superintendent Nolan Estes says that students attending integrated classes are better off overall.

Estes revealed Monday that an extensive study by the Dallas Independent School District showed, among other things, that second grade pupils in all-black schools in South Dallas are achieving "slightly higher" than black pupils in integrated classrooms. But Estes said black pupils in integrated classrooms are still better off "attitudinally" than those in all-black schools.

"At the present time, our students (in integrated schools) are showing a major improvement in multicultural attitudes," said Estes. "It occurs to me that if we're going to train young people not only to live efficiently in the 20th century, but also to contribute to society, then we have to develop an understanding of ethnic groups other than our own."

The study reported Monday was conducted by the DISD's research and evaluation department between 1972 and 1978. It is to be presented to the school board this week.

Achievement levels of middle-class whites do not decrease as a result of integration, Estes said. "There has been no decrease in achievement among any group of students," the superintendent said.

He attributed the higher achievement among blacks to more intensive back-to-basics curriculum changes in the South Dallas subdistrict, established in 1976 as part of Dallas' desegregation plan. Estes said the district's research would "disagree" with the findings of sociologist James Coleman. It was Coleman's studies in the mid 1960s that were used to support desegregation. Now however, Coleman, a professor at the University of Chicago, says it is a mistaken belief that black pupils learn better in integrated schools. He told the Washington Post recently, that research has shown that "it is not the case that school desegregation, as it has been carried out in American schools, generally brings achievement benefits to disadvantaged (black) children." Estes said he agreed with the DISD study which shows "that a black student doesn't necessarily have to be sitting beside a white student to achieve."

Estes said the study was compiled chiefly from the results of achievement tests given all DISD students every two years since 1972. It showed the achievement level among the district's 10,000 second graders has risen significantly since 1972, and that the greatest gains had been among blacks and Mexican-Americans.

Local officials examining offers

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston officials are examining offers from local banks to buy $40 million in city improvement bonds rejected by Citibank of New York because of the effect a January tax referendum might have on Houston tax revenues.

At least six Houston banks showed interest in the bond issue turned down by the New York banking syndicate, City Controller Kathy Whitworth said Monday.

Further study of the various offers and more planning will be needed before a final decision is made, she said.

The United States Congress established the treasury department in 1789.

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston police narcotics officer has been suspended indefinitely following his indictment by a Harris County grand jury on a bribery charge alleging he accepted money from a adult bookstore owner.

Police Chief Harry Caldwell said Sgt. Charles C. Ford, 43, of Sugar Land, has 10 days to appeal the suspension, which amounts to being fired.

The indictment returned Monday alleges Ford took a bribe from William P. Gholson in return for warnings of impending police raids.

Ford, a police officer 22 years, was relieved of duty with pay Aug. 14. Conviction on the charge is punishable by a maximum prison sentence of 20 years and a $2,000 fine.

Caldwell said he expects to fire no other officers in connection with the case.

He declined to comment on the specifics of the case since he may be called to testify at Ford's trial and his Civil Service Commission hearing.

Caldwell said Ford refused to resign on the advice of counsel.

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of Houston municipal judges who have resigned since the state Commission on Judicial Conduct began investigating allegations of ticket fixing has risen to three.

Herbert J. Coleman, who had been an associate judge for about nine years, said Monday the resignation he turned in Friday is effective Oct. 4.

The judge declined to give his reasons for quitting, saying his letter to Mayor Jim McConn would have to speak for itself. But city officials said the letter contained no reasons.

In earlier resignations, Pete Ruman quit his post as Bellaire's municipal judge, and Rodney Parrott resigned as presiding judge of Houston's municipal courts.

Coleman and Parrott denied any wrongdoing. Ruman admitted one instance of bad judgement, but said his resignation wasn't connected to the commission's investigation.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Fred T. Brooks, president of Merchants State Bank in Dallas, has been named the Outstanding Banker of Texas at an industry gathering.

The award was presented at the annual convention of the Independent Bankers Association of Texas, a 4-year-old organization with about 800 member banks.

In future years, the award will be named the Fred T. Brooks Award.

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — A federal investigation has begun into a Hill Country plane crash that killed three members of a San Antonio family and two other persons.

The single-engine Beechcraft Bonanza they were traveling in plowed into a remote meadow about 4 p.m. Sunday after taking off from the Kerrville airport earlier in the afternoon on a pleasure trip.

Rescue workers searching through the hilly, heavily-wooded area did not reach the wreckage until about midnight. Five bodies were found inside the plane, which had not broken up on impact.

The body of the pilot, identified as Robert F. Hiatt, 55, of Kerrville, was taken to San Antonio for an autopsy.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The railroad commission has compiled a report on gas distribution systems in Benavides and Freer to help the cities apply for federal funds to repair hazardous and costly leaks in the systems.

Texas pair face death sentence

HOUSTON (AP) — Two Houston men faced the death penalty today as the sentencing portions of their capital murder trials neared their conclusions.

Another man was sentenced to death Monday in a third capital murder trial.

The jury that found Charles Evans, 23, guilty of the June 29 robbery-murder of Woodrow Shultz, 60, sentenced him to death.

The sentencing portion of the trial of David Roeder, 20, continued Monday. His attorney offered testimony from 32 character witnesses as he tried to convince the jury that Roeder shouldn't be given the death penalty.

Roeder is one of four persons accused in the Jan. 24 execution-style slaying of Dr. William Fitzpatrick, Georgina Rose and Don Fantich. Roeder was convicted of killing Fitzpatrick. Another jury deliberated just 10 minutes before finding William P. Davis, 21, guilty in the June 2 death of Richard Lang, 60.

Time for Mickey expires in senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The time for Mickey Mouse has expired," said the presiding officer of the United States Senate with all due solemnity.

It was true that Sen. William Proxmire had finished his tale of the mice who are over-running the Dirksen Senate Office Building.

But there was more Mickey Mouse oratory to follow, for as Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd would note: "The funny season has come early this year."

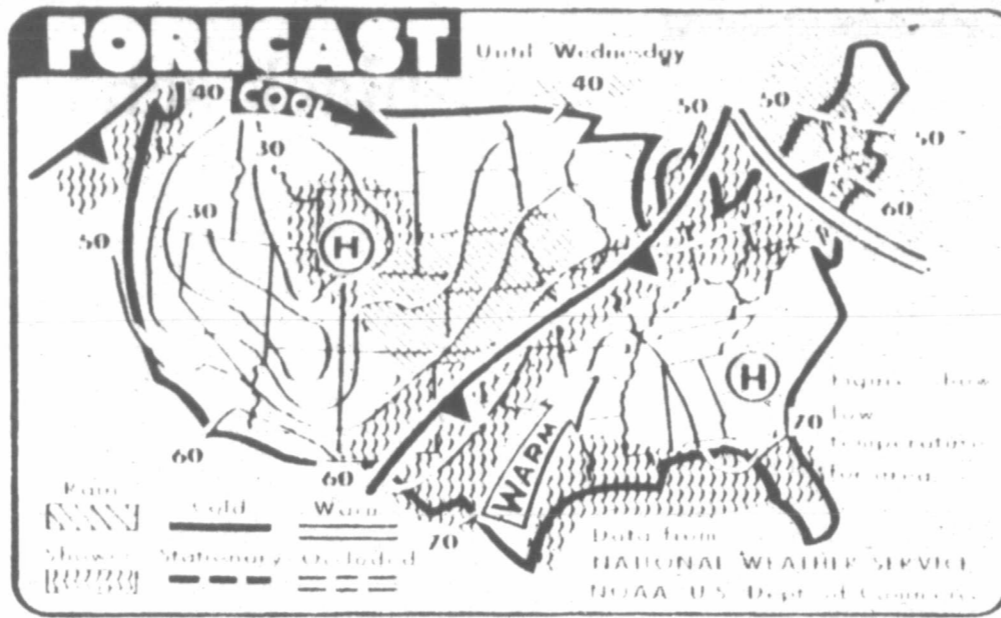

For weeks the Senate chamber had been a pit of raw nerves. The maneuvering over the natural gas bill had put everybody on edge. Finally, Byrd came up with a timetable that everyone could accept and the threat of a filibuster pushing close to Election Day was over.

It was time to relax, to talk about mice and poke a little political fun at each other.

After Proxmire finished, Sen. John Chafee, a Republican from Rhode Island, took the floor to needle the Democrats.

Chafee referred to "an astonishing article" that described Rosalynn Carter telling political rallies in Texas that more Democrats had to be elected to Congress to help her husband get his programs enacted.

"I looked at this with disbelief," said Chafee. "Democrats to help President Carter get his program through Congress?"

New chamber decals appearing

New decals designating members of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce will begin appearing in the community today.

The newly designed Chamber insignia is green and gold and is based on the familiar Top O' Texas design.

Floyd Sackett, executive director, said the 42 members of the Top O' Texans, the Chamber's official greeter group commonly called the "Gold Coats," will personally contact 330 business members. The Chamber has 720 members.

Letters will be mailed to the individuals and professional members of the Chamber.

Sackett said. Each letter will contain two of the membership decals which are designed to be placed on the interior of windows.

As a part of the personal contacts and the letters, Chamber members will also receive a two-page survey containing a total of 36 questions and a space to write suggestions.

Each Chamber member is being asked to complete the survey which will be utilized by Chamber officers in determining the organization's projects for the coming year. Sackett said.

Civil suit settled by attorneys

A $282,534 civil suit was settled for $20,000 Friday in 223rd District Court.

The suit filed by Joyce Skaggs in her own behalf and the behalf of Bryan D. Skaggs, Michael E. Skaggs, Charles Craig Skaggs and Darin V. Skaggs was against Henry Donald Spicer, Ralph Owens, Ralph Owens Trucking and James A. Raach, temporary administrator of the estate of John Taylor Skaggs, deceased.

The suit was seeking damages for the deaths of John Taylor Skaggs, husband of Joyce Skaggs and Wesley Taylor Skaggs, son of Joyce Skaggs in a two-vehicle collision in Lincoln County, New Mexico. The suit also sought damages for injuries sustained by Charles Craig Skaggs and Darin V. Skaggs, both sons of Joyce Skaggs in the collision.

The suit which was termed a "friendly" suit was settled by the persons involved before the case went into court.

The settlement included $9,500 to be paid to Joyce Skaggs, $500 to be paid to Bryan Skaggs, $500 to be paid to Michael E. Skaggs, $1,500 to be paid to Charles Craig Skaggs and $8,000 to be paid to Darin V. Skaggs.

FOCUS

All That Glitters

Thousands of years ago many people believed gold came from the sun as a gift from the gods. The ancient Egyptians buried gold jewelry with their dead as a sign of esteem. Alchemists of the Middle Ages valued the metal so highly that they tried to create it from magic formulas. During the 1500s, the thirst for gold sent Spanish conquerors to the new world. Later, the rush for gold in California helped settle the American West. Today the rush continues. In recent months, high demand has sent its price soaring to more than $200 an ounce, as investors sought protection against the declining value of the dollar.

Meal on wheels program to begin

The Pampa Meals on Wheels Program will begin operation on Oct. 9, under the direction of Shirley Kucifer, coordinator.

Kucifer said the program is a non-profit community service sponsored by the Gray County Committee on Aging.

At this time Kucifer has had over 100 referrals, but through the process of interviewing expects approximately 50 people to start with the program.

The goal of the program, according to Kucifer, is to provide a well-balanced noon meal to older persons who are unable to prepare a balanced meal for themselves. She added social contact is an important part of this service.

The meals will be prepared at the Leisure Lodge Nursing Home kitchen, but Kucifer stressed the program is a separate entity.

Any person over 55 years of age who is unable to prepare a balanced meal for themselves and has no one to cook for them can receive the meals.

Meals cost $1 each for those who can afford it. Kucifer added donations are needed to keep the program going.

"We hope for churches and clubs to put us in the budget for each month."

Kucifer said meals will be delivered in an insulated container used to keep food hot. She added the volunteer drivers are needed for the routes.

She added she is available to explain the program, and may be reached at home in the evening. You can also contact Elaine Houston during the day at 669-7429.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why do all 50- and 60-year-old men want 25- and 30-year-old women, when we 50-year-old women would be so much better for them?

FIFTY AND LONELY

DEAR FIFTY: First, not ALL 50- and 60-year-old men want 25- and 30-year-old women, but who's to say what's "better" for those who do?

As for those May-December marriages, they are usually a trade-off, and all that is necessary for a marriage to succeed is two people who need each other. It matters little what each needs from the other, as long as the need is real and fulfilled.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl, 16, and I am dating boys who have cars. Sometimes we'll come home from a movie or somewhere and we'll sit in his car for a while. We sit right in front of my house, Abby. If we wanted to make out, we could easily go park on a lonely road.

I'm not saying I've never exchanged a kiss or two with a guy in his car, but it's never a big make-out session. We talk mostly.

I don't do anything in the car I wouldn't do in the house, but my mother says she doesn't want me sitting out there—even talking. She says the neighbors are getting their eyes full, and I'm ruining my reputation. I couldn't care less what the neighbors say, as my conscience is clear. I would like your opinion.

NOTHING TO HIDE

DEAR NOTHING: As long as you don't do anything in the car that you wouldn't do in the house, do it in the house. A girl has only one reputation, so take care that yours is as clear as your conscience.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young widow. (Under 30.) My husband died less than a year ago in a tragic accident, and I'm still not over it.

I've always been very close to my in-laws, and since my husband's death I have had dinner at their place once a week.

Now my problem: Three weeks ago, when I went to my in-law's home for dinner, my mother-in-law wasn't home yet, but my father-in-law was. Well, he made improper advances toward me. At first I thought he was just being affectionate in a fatherly way, but he started holding me tight and kissing me, I realized that he had something else in mind. I was totally stunned when he started to unbutton my blouse! I freed myself, ran to my car and drove home.

Since that night I haven't been back there. My mother-in-law keeps asking me when I'm coming, but I don't want to face my father-in-law again. What do I tell my mother-in-law? Just thinking about that incident turns my stomach. Help me, please.

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Go back to your in-laws and try to resume your former good relationship. At the very first opportunity tell your father-in-law privately that if he ever makes another pass at you, you will tell his wife. I doubt if you'll have any trouble with him after that.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I don't really have a problem but it would set my mind at ease if you would give me some information. I'm talking about cancer in young children. In all the articles I've read they never tell about the symptoms. If more people were aware maybe it could slow the death rate. I sure hope so. Please help me and others learn about cancer in young people.

DEAR READER — Despite the publicity that cancer in children gets, I think you ought to know that the leading cause of death below the age of 15 is accidents. They cause 46 percent of all deaths below 15. Cancer is a poor second. There are four times as many deaths from accidents in children than there are from cancer.

The 1973 vital statistics show that for the entire United States there were only 2,961 cancer deaths in children below the age of 15. No matter how tragic it may seem in the individual case, cancer in childhood really isn't one of our major national health problems. Of course, it's always major to the people involved. That's the human tragedy and if they can be prevented or detected, so much the better.

You don't read about the symptoms of childhood cancer because usually there are no specific ones you can detect early. A third of the cancer group cases in children are leukemia. The disease is frequently detected from blood tests in the doctor's office or because of unexplained bruised spots or tendency to hemorrhage.

Another 10 percent of all the cancers in children are caused by lymphomas and these are closely related to leukemia. They involve the lymph nodes and lymphatic system. Thus leukemia and lymphomas of the circulation and lymphatic systems represent almost half of all the cancers in children.

The other relatively frequent childhood cancer is a tumor of the brain or central nervous system. About one out of five childhood cancers are caused by these. Depending on their location, they may present few if any symptoms. They may cause headaches or if they involve an area of the brain that relates to body function, that function may be impaired. This could be a problem in vision or it could affect the arm, leg or almost any part of the body. Vomiting is sometimes associated with a brain tumor. Of course, both headaches and vomiting are more frequently caused by other conditions.

Leukemia, lymphomas and brain tumors account for two-thirds of the childhood cancers. The rest are really quite uncommon and other than causing an unexplained lump which may be felt there is not much that the non-professional person can do to detect childhood cancer.

The bottom line to all this is that the only way to detect most of the leukemia cancer group in children is by regular medical examinations or, at the least, regular laboratory tests. I wish there were clear-cut symptoms that would alert parents and others instantaneously at the early stage of childhood malignancies, but it just doesn't work that way.

Readers who want information about anemias can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 4-3, Understanding The Anemias. Address your request to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — When I mix a large quantity of ground meat for meat loaf or homemade salami I put each hand in a bread wrapper turned inside out. I find this more comfortable when handling the refrigerated meat than mixing with the bare hands. I also put one hand in a wrapper when I scour the sink or tub to avoid that lingering odor of cleanser on my hands. — MYRA

DEAR POLLY — With so many different kinds of fabrics in use today, with various washing and cleaning instructions for each of them, I find it extremely helpful to attach such instructions to each dress hanger. To make it easy to find the right hanger in the closet I try to match the color of the dress with a hanger when it is originally bought or made. — Mrs. L.B.M.

DEAR MRS. L.B.M. — When cleaning or washing instructions are on a separate tag I always write a bit of identification on the tag to avoid any tragic mixups. — POLLY

Food to lower budgets
Cheesy casserole is boon

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Eating well for less during the current money squeeze is challenging every cook's creative genius. Recently, a college student proudly gave us a recipe for a macaroni confection that cost him 75 cents to prepare. (We'll pass that along at a later date.)

Meanwhile, combine fresh zucchini squash and bright red cherry tomatoes — perhaps from your late garden crop — with leftover beef or ham for a different casserole. A rich cheese sauce gives this low-cost dish an expensive taste.

Serve with a mixed green salad and fresh fruit, such as melon, for dessert.

COENHAGEN CASSEROLE

- 4 fresh zucchini squash (about 2 pounds)
- 5 cherry tomatoes, halved
- 1 cup diced cooked ham or beef
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups half-and-half (light cream)
- Salt and pepper
- 1 cup shredded Danish Havarti or Samsøe cheese, loosely packed
- 1 egg yolk
- Dash cayenne
- Chopped parsley, for garnish

Trim zucchini. Parboil whole in salted water for 5 minutes. Drain. Cool. Slice 1/4-inch thick.

Arrange zucchini, meat and cherry tomatoes in a greased, shallow 7-by-12-inch baking dish. Melt 2 tablespoons butter and drizzle over casserole. Bake in a 400-degree oven for 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, melt remaining butter in a medium-size saucepan. Blend in flour to make a smooth paste. Gradually add half-and-half, stirring constantly with a wire whip. Cook over medium heat until mixture thickens. Add shredded cheese, salt and pepper to taste.

Bring just to boil. Stir a small amount of sauce into egg yolk. Then return to pan. Heat just to boiling, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add cayenne. Spoon over zucchini casserole. Garnish with chopped parsley to serve. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

RICH CHEESE sauce adds flavor to zucchini-tomato-meat casserole.

Stewed chicken tastes nostalgic

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

If you want to stir up nostalgia among people who hail from the Midwest, invite them to a dinner of old-fashioned, homemade stewed chicken with egg noodles.

This is a rich, satisfying dish that is inexpensive to prepare. It was a particular favorite during the Depression, when families were making every penny count. The good old stewing hen, so common on farms, helped them eat well on very little money.

Serve stewed chicken with whipped potatoes, butter-milk biscuits, a molded vegetable salad and iced tea.

SUMMER FARE FOR TWO
Ham and Bean Salad
Bread Tray
Strawberry Cake
HAM AND BEAN SALAD

Savory combination of ingredients.

1 cup diced (1/4-inch) cooked ham

1 cup diced (1/4-inch) celery

1 8 1/2-ounce can dark red kidney beans, well-drained

1/4 cup raisins, rinsed in hot water and well-drained

1/4 cup mayonnaise

1/4 teaspoon pepper

1 small scallion, minced

Lettuce

Toss together all the ingredients except the lettuce. Chill, if convenient, to allow flavors to blend. Serve on lettuce. Makes 2 large main-dish servings.

Note: We found that the new, boneless, fully cooked, smoked ham (2 to 4 pounds) that comes vacuum sealed in heavy plastic film was excellent used in this salad.

3 cups water

1 small onion, quartered

3 sprigs parsley

2 pieces celery (about 3 inches each) with leaves

1 bay leaf

3 peppercorns

1 teaspoon salt

3 tablespoons butter or margarine

3 tablespoons flour

HOMEMADE EGG NOODLES

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

1 1/2 teaspoons salt, divided

2 eggs

3 tablespoons cold water

2 quarts water

In a bowl, sift together flour and 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Make a well in center of flour. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing slightly after each addition. Gradually add 3 tablespoons water. Mix well to make a stiff dough.

Turn dough onto lightly floured surface and knead until smooth, about 5 minutes. Shape dough into ball, cover and let rest about 5 minutes. Roll dough on lightly floured surface to 1/8-inch thickness. Turn dough over and continue rolling until paper thin.

Allow dough to partially dry, about 1 hour. Cut dough into lengthwise strips, 2 1/2 inches wide. Stack strips.

Slice crosswise into 1/2-inch strips. Separate noodles and allow to dry thoroughly.

Noodles can be stored in tightly covered container if not needed immediately. When ready to cook, bring 2 quarts water to boiling. Add remaining 1 teaspoon salt and noodles. Boil, uncovered, 10 minutes or until noodles are done. Rinse with hot water. Serve with stewed chicken and gravy.

Cauliflower, green beans or broccoli need sauce? Here's a Zesty Blue one: Melt two tablespoons butter, then stir in two tablespoons flour and one-half teaspoon seasoned salt. Gradually stir in one cup of milk. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly; boil and stir one minute. Remove from heat and stir in one-fourth cup each of dairy sour cream and Blue cheese. Heat through but do not boil. This makes one and one-fourth cups of sauce.

Bean is cheap protein

By Gaynor Maddox

The bean has played quite a role in American history. Indians introduced the Pilgrims to the virtues of the dry bean. And the Pilgrims' descendants invented Boston baked beans, which they served for Saturday night suppers along with Boston brown bread.

Later, according to legend, Mexican spices crossed the Rio Grande. They were combined with beans by Texas cooks to make Texas chili, a current favorite of American youth.

But many modern cooks have forgotten that dry beans offer excellent protein at a lower cost than beef, poultry or fish.

Bean dinners can also be made more nutritious by including cheese, milk or eggs on the menu.

Heriteau reminds us that adding acids — such as those found in vinegar and tomatoes — to beans that are not already somewhat tender may cause the beans to harden and delay their cooking time. Therefore, most recipes — except some for slow cookers — recommend cooking beans to tenderness before combining them with acid ingredients.

Remember when planning meals that one-half to one cup of cooked shell beans — that means one-fourth to one-half cup of dry beans — makes one serving.

Blow gently on a spoonful of cooked beans to test for doneness. If their skins break and peel back as you blow on them, the beans are almost tender but not yet very soft (or at the point where they will break up).

Save the water that is left after cooking beans. Refrigerate it and use for soups or other bean dishes.

Many foreign appetizers — especially those from Italy and France — use beans deliciously. Try some. (You can often save money by buying dried beans at markets specializing in Mexican, Puerto Rican or other foreign foods.)

Here, from "The Complete Book of Beans," are three high-protein dishes that will please even the gourmets in your family:

Easy Chili and Pink Beans: Combine cooked or canned pink or pinto beans with oil, ground beef, tomato sauce, chili powder, garlic, salt and ground cumin.

Packaged Spanish Rice with Red Kidney Beans: Mix cooked or canned red kidney beans into prepared Spanish rice. Then add warm garlic-flavored oil.

White Bean Salad, Greek Style: Place garlic salt in wooden salad bowl. Add pepper, oil and vinegar. Beat to combine ingredients. Add cooked or canned small white beans, parsley and celery. Toss.

STEELE, Ala. (AP) — Two people were killed and seven others were injured when a car trying to pass in a no-passing zone in foggy weather hit a motorcycle, then crashed head-on into a van, police said.

State police Sgt. Jim Vinson said three of the injured were in critical condition after the crash Sunday on Interstate 59.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — An official of the Iowa Southern Baptist Fellowship says Southern Baptists should not buy religious books, records and music from WORD Inc. — a subsidiary of ABC.

"It seems the height of audacity to us that the same company that produced 'Soap' and now is planning to fill the 1979 season with 'girlie shows' is also in the Christian publishing business," the Rev. Mike McCrocklin wrote in his fellowship's newspaper.

WORD officials say they don't like the television series "Soap" either. But they said ABC gives them a free hand with their products — as long as WORD makes a profit.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Women who see work as a long-term commitment are higher paid than women who view their jobs as a waystation before marriage or childbirth, Ohio State University researchers say.

Women who intend to stay at work tend to seek more education and on-the-job training, and get better jobs, says the U.S. Labor Department-funded study by economics Professors Steven H. Sandell and David Shapiro.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The unprescribed vitamin pills that many Americans take daily are probably unnecessary, the Ohio State Medical Association says.

The average healthy person doesn't need extra vitamins to supplement a moderate diet, said Joseph Bianchine, professor of pharmacology at Ohio State University School of Medicine. Unprescribed vitamins are a waste of money, he said, and can aggravate health problems in some people. Some people do need vitamins, Bianchine said, but the advice of a doctor should be sought.

COLDWATER, Mich. (AP) — A jail escapee was captured by sheriff's deputies who found him wrapped in a bedspread, hiding in the closet of a home just three blocks from the jail from which he and another prisoner fled last week.

Deputy Gary Abbott said a police informant directed deputies to the home Sunday and residents allowed them to search the premises. Abbott said authorities found Fred Harter, 35, of Coldwater, huddled on the floor of an upstairs closet, hiding under a bedspread. "I stuck my gun in his face and I think it scared him," Abbott said. Harter did not resist arrest, officers said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the slumping U.S. dollar is causing plenty of headaches now, the long-run effect could be beneficial, the International Monetary Fund says.

The IMF said the steep plunge in the dollar's value and the gains made by other currencies will help to narrow the huge U.S. trade deficit while erasing trade surpluses of countries like Japan and Germany.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Renowned cellist Mstislav Rostropovich, the second famous artist to hold a recital in Jimmy Carter's White House, turned the occasion into something of a family affair.

Rostropovich, music director of the National Symphony in Washington, was accompanied Sunday on the piano by his daughter Elena, 20, a student at the Juilliard School of Music in New York. His other daughter, Olga, a cellist also studying at Juilliard, turned the pages for her sister. The recital was carried nationally on radio and television. The first recital in February featured pianist Vladimir Horowitz.

Cattlemen struggle with bill

By DON KENDALL, AP Farm Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is in a last-ditch struggle with cattlemen over a new meat import bill that may come up for House action at midweek.

The measure was reported out of the Ways and Means Committee a month ago and would amend the 1964 meat import law that governs how much foreign meat of certain types can enter the United States each year.

As it is currently, the law is adjusted annually to reflect changes in U.S. domestic meat output. Thus, when production increases more foreign meat is let in.

A major provision in the bill would change the law so that a "counter-cyclical" formula could be applied. In other words, when domestic production of cow beef — the hamburger type beef — increases there would be less imported beef allowed to enter the market.

The Carter administration supports the idea of a counter-cyclical formula but with two important reservations.

It wants a larger minimum set for annual meat imports and also wants to keep the authority in the current law that enables the president to suspend quotas when domestic supplies are not enough to meet consumer demands.

Although the law covers fresh, chilled and frozen beef, veal, mutton and goat meat, most that comes in to the country is lower-grade beef used to make hamburger.

The National Cattlemen's Association, a prime mover of the counter-cyclical concept, is opposed to setting any minimum or floor at all on the amount of meat that can be imported.

Further, the NCA is opposed to a provision that would terminate the 1964 meat import law on Dec. 31, 1988.

The NCA also is in favor of the provision that would do away with the president's authority to suspend quotas because "it would eliminate periodic pressures on Congress and the administration" to let more beef enter when retail prices are high.

A week ago, the NCA conducted a three-day lobbying campaign, using about 100 of its cattlemen members, to help persuade Congress and the administration that its views should prevail.

But this apparently had little effect on the administration.

The Agriculture Department sent a letter last week to House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., reiterating the administration's opposition to parts of the bill.

Also, the department said that the minimum import level now in the bill at 1.2 billion pounds a year should be raised to a minimum of 1.3 billion pounds annually. By comparison, counting an increase of 200 million pounds announced last spring by President Carter, 1978 imports are expected to total 1.5 billion pounds.

A legislative report by USDA issued last Friday said that the larger import minimum is needed to maintain "the reliability of the United States as a stable market" for many meat exporting countries.

"Since the United States is the primary market for many meat exporting countries, especially Australia and New Zealand, an additional limitation on U.S. imports could adversely affect U.S. trade relations these countries and could impair the reliability of these countries as sources for additional meat supplies when our own production is low," the USDA report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Live-stock pastures and ranges generally were in good shape in the West and in the northern half of the country as of Sept. 1 but large areas of the southern section were plagued by dry weather.

In its monthly crop report last week, the Agriculture Department said that nationally livestock pastures were rated at 75 percent, up four points from a year ago.

On the scale used, any reading of 80 or more is good to excellent; 65 to 79 poor to fair; 50 to 64 very poor; 35 to 49 severe drought; and less than 35 severe drought.

The report, however, was based on surveys made before the recent widespread heavy rains and flooding in Arkansas and other areas where pastures had been suffering from drought.

As of Sept. 1, pastures in Arkansas were rated at 54 percent against 72 a year ago; Texas 44 and 58 a year ago and Oklahoma 53 and 60.

Another look at Bob Crane

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — An album of pornographic pictures may lead police to the killer of Bob Crane, TV star of the "Hogan's Heroes" series.

Detectives have been looking for the album since June 29, when Crane, 49, was beaten to death with a heavy metal bar. Crane apparently knew his killer and had let him into the apartment Crane was using while appearing here in a Windmill Dinner Theater production of "Beginner's Luck," police said.

"Apparently there was an album missing — pornographic stills," said Police Chief Walter Nemetz. "It might be a clue."

Crane suffered two skull-crushing blows and his neck was tied with an electrical cord from a videotape camera, investigators said. Dozens of videotapes reportedly were found in the apartment, showing Crane engaged in sex with women in various stages of undress. Several of the women have been contacted and cooperated with investigators.

"There are lots of motives," Nemetz said. "He (Crane) developed a lot of acquaintances. His peculiar activities offstage could lead to many motives amongst his acquaintances."

The weapon, believed to have been a tire iron or jack handle, has not been found. Blood was wiped from it onto a corner of Crane's bedsheet, and the weapon may have been tossed into a canal near the murder scene, officials said.

"We've expended about 2,000 man-hours on the case and we're still coming up with new people to talk to," Nemetz said. "I still have one investigator assigned fulltime."

The investigation has gone to Texas, where Crane also appeared in dinner-theater productions, and to Los Angeles, home of Crane's estranged wife, Patty Olsen, and Crane's friend, John Carpenter, 49.

Carpenter has told police that he was out with Crane and two women until about 2 a.m. the day of the murder, and last saw Crane outside a coffee shop. Carpenter also said he flew to Los Angeles after the evening out, but telephoned Crane in his apartment just before leaving.

Crane also received a telephone call from his estranged wife the night before his death, Nemetz said. Carpenter told police he was with Crane at the time of the call, which developed into a loud argument. Crane and Miss Olsen apparently had argued the previous week as well.

Photos of professional killers have been shown to potential witnesses but Nemetz says, "Our inclination is to discount that. We're inclined to believe that whoever killed Crane was in the room with him and knew him. He was pretty careful about locking his door. There was no evidence of a break-in."

At one point, Scottsdale Police Lt. Ron Dean told reporters, "We know who did it, but the suspect is out of state."

Maricopa County Attorney Charles Hyder, however, refused to issue a complaint for lack of evidence.

"I think whoever did it will make his actions known to somebody else and that somebody else will come forward and tell us," Nemetz said.

Fatal heart attacks become common

By Joel Greenberg
(Last of Two Parts)

Roseto, a close-knit Italian village in Pennsylvania, attracted attention in 1960 because of its remarkably low death rate, especially in heart attack deaths, in spite of normal "risk factors."

The one striking feature of Roseto was its tenaciously held Old World values and customs. But at the same time, researchers noticed younger Rosetans were becoming dissatisfied with the culture's social isolation.

"By 1965 we saw the first evidence of the effects of the restlessness," Stewart Wolf of St. Luke's Hospital in Bethlehem, Pa., reports. Young men and women started marrying non-Italians as well as non-Rosetans; they joined country clubs in the nearby Poconos; they bought Cadillacs; they replaced old, tradition-rich wooden houses with sprawling suburban ranch-style structures; they began attending outside churches, or no church at all; many of the women joined Weight Watchers; the birth rate declined; the men took up golf... It seemed like a capsulized, accelerated fulfillment of the American dream.

But some Rosetans also sensed they were leaving something behind, something more important than they might have suspected. "Everything is modern here, very nice," says one housewife whose family had recently moved into an opulent house with a swimming pool.

"I have everything I need, except people. When we lived in town, the neighbors were always in my kitchen and I was always in theirs. We talked. We knew what was going on there and there was always someone around to help you and keep you from feeling lonely. I miss that," she says. "But I guess I will never go back."

And by 1975, the prediction of declining health ventured 12 years before was also reaching fulfillment. "From 1966 forward there has been a striking increase in death rates from myocardial infarction," reports Wolf, "especially the most recent five-year period, 1971 to 1975." The increase has been most notable in men younger than age 55, he says.

In a typical example, Wolf tells about a Roseto-born man who at 25 years of age married a German girl of 20. Two years after marriage, he started his own construction firm in a town about 20 miles away; he worked overtime and smoked three packs of cigarettes a day for 20 years. His main interest was in making money, and he had no close friends in Roseto.

When his business went bankrupt, he was hospitalized for chest pains at age 29. He then founded a new, financially successful company and proceeded to "live like a king for the next few years" — traveling around the world and showering his family and acquaintances with money and gifts.

He lost $9,000 gambling one night in Puerto Rico. Suddenly, at 39, amid a whirlwind of business and pleasure trips, he died.

In Roseto, "for the first time," says Wolf, "young men are dying of myocardial infarction" and other causes of sudden death. And it appears as though Rosetans' health in general may be settling to the levels of their neighboring towns as well as of the rest of the United States.

"Being part of the group, selfless to some extent, continues to be the price of acceptance as a good Rosetan," Wolf writes in a report with John G. Bruhn, associate dean of medicine at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston. "But with social change, the sources of social and emotional security are becoming increasingly threatened."

Most of the recent, young heart attack victims, he notes, "were found mainly among... those who to some extent had forfeited community acceptance and support for material success."

"From a long prospective study of Roseto it seems possible to identify a social process pertinent to health," Wolf says. "A group of proud, energetic, courageous but poverty-stricken Italian villagers (paesani) came to live and work in the United States. They were forced by snobbish neighbors to look out entirely for themselves, support one another for survival and to form their own enclave."

"The family... played a vital role in enabling the Rosetans to cope with the early challenges and to build a viable community. Everyone worked hard and they worked for each other," he says.

"Now, nearly a hundred years later, a younger generation is less conscious of their heritage and less interested in preserving the unique character of their community than were their parents and grandparents. From the beginning the sense of common purpose and camaraderie among the Italians precluded ostentation or embarrassment to the less affluent. And the concern for neighbors insured that no one was ever abandoned."

It is the breakdown of such values that the researchers conclude is primarily responsible for the apparent decline in health and jump in the heart attack death rate.

And the findings, Wolf says, have "tremendous implications" not only for Roseto, but for other areas where similar processes have taken or will take place.

"Social change and fragmentation of families has been taking place in the western world for centuries," says Wolf. "It may be significant, however, that the lowest prevalence of myocardial infarction... is to be found in those parts of the world where traditions and family ties are strong."

Georgia man sentenced to 80 years

PARIS, Texas (AP) — A 22-year-old Georgia man convicted of murder has been sentenced to 80 years in the state penitentiary.

Randall Douglas Sewell, a jailbreaker from Gainesville, Ga., wanted in that state on a number of charges, was convicted Saturday of shooting to death his friend John Wright Chapman last March.

Chapman, 24, a Gainesville native who had known Sewell since the two were in the seventh grade together, spent winters in a family-owned home in this Northeast Texas city. Prosecutors portrayed Sewell as a hot-tempered house guest who shot Chapman March 7 in a fit of rage, because Chapman wanted him to leave.

Sewell testified he did not shoot his friend, saying he had gone on a cigarette run early March 6 and returned to find Chapman's blood-soaked body.

Police discovered Chapman's body 10 days later, slain by shots from a 30-30 rifle.

Sewell arrived in Paris last January, and police said Chapman was not aware that Sewell was a fugitive.

Jurors returned with the guilty verdict after two hours of deliberations. They took another two hours to determine punishment, ending the six-day trial.

Bellville out of top spot in AA

By The Associated Press
Bellville, after a one week stay at the No. 1 ranked 2A team in the Associated Press schoolboy football poll, fell back to the ranks as Mount Vernon returned to the throne room.

Willis tripped Bellville 20-6 and sent it tumbling to the No. 10 ranking in the latest balloting by a panel of sports writers and sportscasters across the state.

Mount Vernon, the runnerup in 2A last week, took over the lead with 11 first place votes and 165 points while Newton moved up a notch to second place with three first place picks and 152 points.

Meanwhile, Temple in 4A, Huntsville in 3A and Grapeland in A held their No. 1 ratings although Grapeland had to fight off a strong challenge by No. 2 Farmersville.

Grapeland edged Lovelady 25-23 while Farmersville rolled over Sanger 41-7. Grapeland

AS BALTIMORE Colts linebacker Mike Barnes pulls New England quarterback Steve Grogan down, the Colts' Derrel Luce slams in from the other side and the rain soaked ball is fumbled. On a fourth quarter run from the pocket, Grogan's fumble was recovered by teammate Andy Johnson for a two-yard gain.

Wins come easy for spikers

Lynn Wofe, Pampa High School girls' volleyball coach, may never find out what her team is capable of doing.

The Harvester spikers "weren't really pushed" as they easily defeated the Perryton Rangerettes in straight games 15-4 and 15-2 here Monday, bringing their match record to 8-1.

Wofe said the Perryton match did not give her an indication of what the team needs to work on, but after watching Pampa's winning performance in the West Texas State Tournament, practices would concentrate on defense and setting up plays.

"We were spiking well off Perryton's pop-ups, but we need to be able to make our own plays," Wofe said.

In the first game Perryton took an early 1-0 lead. Pampa fought back to a 2-1 lead on the serving of Mia Diacus only to have Perryton tie the score at 2-2 on their next possession.

With Teresa Stafford at the serving line, Pampa racked up seven straight points, three on serves Perryton was unable to return.

The serve changed hands five times before Perryton was able to score again. The Rangerettes picked up two more points, making the score 10-4.

Pampa seemed to lose its momentum when the score reached 14-4. After five attempts to get the last point failed, Sharon King won the game on an unreturned serve.

The Harvesters were in complete control in the second game and scored the winning point with 4:28 left on the eight-minute clock.

Early in the game, the score was tied 1-1 after each team had served twice.

The Harvesters shot to a 4-1 lead on the serving of Rosie Santacruz.

On the Harvester's next possession, Mia Diacus racked up 7 points, stretching the score to 11-2.

After one final and futile attempt by Perryton to score another point, Teresa Stafford put the remaining four points on the scoreboard to win the game 15-2.

The Pampa junior varsity also won in straight games, winning both by a score of 15-1.

Leading scorers in the second game of the JV match were twin sister Dina and Gina Porter who combined to score 13 points with Dina racking up eight and Gina putting five on the board.

10 Houston Forest Brook and dropped out of the top 10. Forest Brook moved up to No. 8 this week.

Second ranked Gregory-Portland, No. 4 Kilgore and No. 8 Dumas were losers among the 3A ranks.

Gregory-Portland, after leading 20-6 in the second quarter, opened its season with 35-20 loss to Corpus Christi Carroll, which dropped from seventh to ninth in the 4A rankings following the victory.

Kilgore fell to 10th place this week after losing to Daingerfield 12-7 and Dumas dropped from the list after its second consecutive loss. Fort Stockton appeared for the first time as No. 9.

Cameron, 2-0, replaced West as the No. 9 team in 2A after Gatesville played West to a 21-21 deadlock.

There are two newcomers in A with No. 9 Lexington and No. 10 China Springs replacing No. 7 Tatum and No. 10 Groveton.

Arp beat Tatum 13-6 and Corrigan-Camden blasted Groveton 33-6.

Washington pushed Colts past Patriots

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The National Football League has a new triple threat in Joe Washington, and the injury-riddled Baltimore Colts have a new life.

"It's one of the greatest upsets in pro football history," said Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibroda after the Colts exploded for 27 fourth-quarter points Monday night and shocked the New England Patriots 34-27.

Washington, obtained in a trade with San Diego for recalcitrant running back Lydell Mitchell, accounted for three of the touchdowns — on a half-back pass, a 23-yard reception, and a 90-yard gallop with a kickoff return.

The touchdown run broke a 27-27 tie with 1:18 left in the nationally televised game, as Baltimore won its first NFL contest of the season and dropped the heavily favored Patriots to 1-2.

Lewis: Cowboys lack mental edge of champs

DALLAS (AP) — Linebacker D.D. Lewis says the Dallas Cowboys have lost the mental edge that made them Super Bowl XII champions.

"This year we keep saying we can get to the Super Bowl but I don't think we believe it yet," Lewis said in the wake of Dallas' 27-14 National Football League drubbing by the Los Angeles Rams.

"We are a semigreat team,"

Penn State ties Sooners for third-place poll spot

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Penn State has moved into a third-place tie with Oklahoma in The Associated Press college football poll, thanks to a 19-0 triumph over Ohio State that dropped the losers from sixth place to 16th.

Meanwhile, Alabama and Arkansas remained in the 1-2 spots where they have been since the preseason poll.

Alabama, a 38-20 winner over Missouri, received 50 first-place votes and 1,207 of a possible 1,220 points from a nationwide panel of 61 sports writers and broadcasters.

Arkansas, which trounced Vanderbilt 48-17, received six first-place votes and 1,124 points. Last week's margin, with 63 voters sending in their ballots, was 1,247-1,126.

Both Oklahoma, which walloped West Virginia 52-10, and Penn State received 1,053 points. Four panelists voted Penn State No. 1, while the other er first-place ballot went to Oklahoma.

Penn State's climb from fifth place a week ago dropped Michigan from fourth to fifth with 969 points even though the Wolverines blanked Illinois 31-0.

Texas, Southern California, UCLA and Texas A&M each moved up one position to the 6-7-8-9 spots. Texas hammered Rice 34-0. Southern Cal whipped Oregon 37-10. UCLA downed Tennessee 13-0 and Texas A&M was idle. Louisiana State, 13th a week ago, cracked the Top Ten with a 24-17 victory over Indiana.

The Second Ten consists of Pitt, Nebraska, Florida State, Notre Dame, Washington, Ohio State, Missouri, Maryland, Colorado and Iowa State.

Last week, it was Missouri, Nebraska, LSU, Pitt, Notre Dame, Florida State, Kentucky, Washington, Iowa State and Maryland.

Colorado, which defeated Miami, Fla., 17-7, replaced Kentucky in the Top Twenty. The Wildcats were held to a 14-14 tie by South Carolina.

The Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points based on 29-19-18-17-16-15-14-13-12-11-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1

Her weapon is a stethoscope

By MALCOLM N. CARTER

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — She is in the front line of the federal government's attack on a problem in cities, and her weapon is a stethoscope.

Dr. Patricia Salomon works for the burgeoning National Health Service Corps, which has expanded its medical care this year beyond rural areas to some 100 urban neighborhoods from New Orleans to Seattle.

For next year, the 5-year-old agency has requested $62.9 million for its programs, more than double its budget when it served only rural areas. Its rolls also have more than doubled. To 1,350 doctors, physicians' assistants, nurse practitioners and dentists.

Where only a handful of these were offering the urban poor an alternative to traditional health care two years ago, the number this year has increased to one in five. Typical is Mrs. Salomon, a pediatrician in a community program in Manhattan's Lower East Side.

"We help our patients take a more active role in their health care," says the jeans-clad Mrs. Salomon, who greets the parents of some patients with an affectionate buss. "We know who they are."

A physician's assistant and a nurse practitioner, both paid by the corps, work with her in the gaily painted townhouse operated by the Betances Health Unit for roughly 800 patients so far. Complex cases are referred to a visiting internist or elsewhere.

Unhurriedly and sympathetically, in Spanish or in English, the team extracts medical histories, performs tests that have been neglected or feared over the years and examines white, black and Hispanic patients long used to shutting from one nameless face to the next.

They are billed what they can afford, $2-$34 a visit. Most are charged less than $6, and no one is ever turned away.

"It is much more convenient for all of us," Miladros Huth observes as her three boys are examined. "I would get very upset when I went to Bellevue hospital. It was just too much. It was a big hassle."

Besides, Mrs. Huth continues, the city's huge Bellevue hospital charged her $10 a visit, compared with $6 at Betances. And there was no one like Mrs. Salomon at the hospital, "someone I could ask questions."

Mrs. Salomon, a 38-year-old mother of two children, remembers not only the names of Mrs. Huth's children but their ailments as well.

She looks with special care, for example, at Daniel's ear drum because of his history of infections. And she decides against another blood test because, she says, "once a year is more than enough."

Then she asks the mother when she plans to have her own physical.

"We sort of involve patients in a much more active way in controlling health care," Mrs. Salomon says, maintaining that the community facility can provide understanding and education and inspire confidence unlike anywhere else her patients might go.

"I think patients like to come here because it's friendlier," remarks Patricia Gleaton, a nurse practitioner. "It's the atmosphere and the time we can spend. A lot of patients don't like to wait for three hours and see a doctor for five minutes."

The third member of the corps medical team, Anna Paez, proves the point with a toothless Bowery demented who could have tuberculosis.

When the 57-year-old man says he has sworn off alcohol since May, the physicians' assistant asks whether he has a job. When he replies that he doesn't, she offers to help him get into a training program.

Then she closely questions him about the numbness on one side of his face, the pains in his joints and a past hospitalization. Either he hadn't understood or no one troubled to explain it, but he didn't know whether he had been X-rayed or had surgery in that hospital.

Mrs. Paez takes the time to figure it out.

And she takes the time to examine him thoroughly, recording his electrocardiogram and checking for a stroke. Noticing wax in his ears, she writes down the name of a cheap medicine, asks whether he can afford it and repeats the instructions to him — three times.

More than hour passes, but it isn't enough. Come back in two weeks, she tells him, and don't forget.

Later, a woman with a possible tumor trusts Mrs. Paez to perform the first pelvic examination she has had in years.

On this typical afternoon at Betances — named for 19th century Puerto Rican physician Ramon Emeterio Betances — Mrs. Salomon does more than just see patients.

She walks 10 minutes to a daycare center to extend the health unit's practice and finds that the director wants the unit to examine his kids annually and set up emergency procedures.

Pleased, Mrs. Salomon returns to examine 5-year-old Malcolm Burns, who has a slight fever. The boy's teenage brother, who brings him in, doesn't know any other of his symptoms. And although Malcolm seems fine, Mrs. Salomon is concerned.

She swabs his throat to take a culture, calls his working mother to ask about other symptoms and decides to telephone her again in the morning to discuss the advisability of his going to school. And after she pricks him to test for lead poisoning, the boy makes her laugh.

"When I come back here next time," he whimpers, "I'm staying home."

PUBLIC NOTICE SUMMARY OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 7, 1978

"The Tax Relief Amendment" (H.J.R. 1)

H.J.R. 1 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution allowing the legislature to exempt intangible personal property, requiring the legislature to exempt certain household goods and personal effects, and allowing the legislature to exempt all or part of the personal property homestead from state and local property taxation.

The amendment requires the legislature to provide for the taxation of farm and ranch land on the basis of its productive capacity instead of its market value and allows the legislature to provide for the taxation of timber land on its productive capacity.

The amendment permits local governments to extend the present exemption of not less than $3,000 of the residence homestead of persons 65 and older to include certain disabled persons.

The amendment grants an exemption from public school property taxes of $5,000 of the market value of the residence homestead. It authorizes the legislature to grant an additional exemption from public school property taxes of an amount not to exceed $10,000 of the market value of the residence homestead of persons 65 years of age or older and certain disabled persons.

The amendment prevents local governments from increasing property taxes unless the governing body provides public notice and conducts a public hearing. The amendment requires the legislature to provide by law for each property owner to receive notice of the revaluation of his property and the amount taxes will be increased.

The amendment limits appropriations from state tax revenue to an amount not to exceed Texas' estimated economic growth rate, with the legislature authorized to make exceptions for emergencies.

The amendment prohibits the statewide appraisal of real property for property tax purposes. Enforcement of uniform standards and procedures for appraisal of property for property tax purposes is required to originate in the taxing authority where the property tax is imposed.

Alcoholism taking toll at embassys

By BARTON REPPERT
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Hal Marley positioned his tall frame in the center of the darkening room as late afternoon edged toward cocktail time and another evening of well-oiled diplomatic receptions.

Marley was here to talk about a problem that is not much discussed — alcoholism among State Department employees, men and women whose job representing America abroad often calls for them to attend parties and receptions at which booze is almost pressed upon them.

Scanning the audience of U.S. Embassy officers gathered around him, Marley recounted how his own alcoholism — resulting in his ouster from the Air Force more than a decade ago — put him and his family through "a living hell."

"But, he declared firmly, 'There's no reason for anyone in this room to become an alcoholic.'"

Marley, 63, is head of the State Department's Alcohol Awareness Program, designed to provide treatment for inipient alcoholics before their condition has progressed to an acute stage.

"If you're a potential alcoholic and you don't nip it in the bud, your career is going to be ruined because this is a progressive disease — it never gets better by itself, it only gets worse," he told one Embassy group during a Moscow visit this week.

Referring to acute alcohol addiction, Marley added: "I've seen basket cases from all over the world."

Marley said in an interview that so far, the alcohol program — begun in the early 1970s — has treated only a fraction of the overall number of State Department employees, both in Washington and abroad, who are believed to suffer from alcohol-related problems.

He noted that according to U.S. Civil Service guidelines, "roughly 6 percent of the adult working population who use alcohol develop problems."

"On the basis of that, we say there are roughly 1,500 alcoholics — these are all just estimates — in the State Department," Marley said. "Last year we treated a little over 150. So it's just the tip of the iceberg."

The State Department program was set up under federal legislation defining alcoholism as a disease and mandating that all federal departments and agencies set up medical programs for treating it.

The program involves a 28-day basic treatment period — for alcohol detoxification in a hospital, plus psychotherapy and family counseling — followed by additional counseling as needed.

Marley said a statistical evaluation had shown that about 90 percent of employees who go through the program remain free of alcohol problems for at least one year afterward.

"We don't say you graduate from it, or finish it," he said. "Our program is a way of life."

Employees who take part in the program, Marley said, "find that they can do everything they ever did in their life better without booze than with it — and continue that way. They don't ever have to drink again."

He stressed that the program is run on a "medical confidential basis." One of his biggest tasks, Marley said, is to assure employees that coming into the program for treatment will not jeopardize their job security or promotion opportunities.

Illustrating the degree to which alcoholism has lost its official stigma, Marley said three foreign service officers in the program had later been promoted to the senior rank of deputy chief of mission — No. 2 official — at diplomatic posts abroad.

He noted that serving overseas may tend to accelerate the onset of serious drinking problems as parties and receptions are part of one's duties.

"If you're a potential alcoholic in Washington and you continue to drink, the normal progression is that it takes 10 to 12 years to become an alcoholic."

"If that same individual went overseas, due to the availability of liquor — more parties, representational duties — that 12-year period might be condensed down to two years," Marley said.

In 1743, Sweden ceded a large part of Finland to Russia.
